WHY WALLACH WAS SET FREE

Dogday Politics Has Brought J. Lor to Life.

Yesterday was an off day for the street-corner politicians, advantage being taken of the Sabbath rest to go into the highways and the byways of the suburbs and desert the usual gathering-places. The day was not bereft altogether of gossip, however, one of the reports put into circulation having to do with the recent sudden disappearance of J. Lor Wallach from the local sphere. The report was of the dogday description, but indicative of the way in which the straws are blowing in the kuleana districts.

Wallach, so ran the story, violated a political pledge when he boarded the Canadian steamer last month, having been released from a promise on the understanding that he was to throw his political influence and go on the stump in the advocacy of William Henry for County Sheriff, while after election it was his pledged duty to work the legislators for the confirmation in the Senate of Hemenway as Attorney General. The report, just as it stands, is interesting as a sample of what are at this stage of the game regarded as election issues.

There was a little further talk of the candidacy of Fred Beckley for the mayoralty, but now it is given out that Beckley will run as an independent if he fails to land the Republican nomination. It is claimed by those who are boosting him that he will have the solid support of the Hawaiian Sons, whatever that will be worth, although the roll of that organization now contains nearly six hundred names of voters, all Hawaiians.

The campaign for Beckley and the other candidates whom the Hawaiian Sons say they will support is to begin in the third week of September, to be begun with a mass meeting at Ala Park and carried on vigorously from that time, all over the island, until the voting. The hui will not support Jarrett for the ambitious office of Sheriff, but will back him up if he wants to run again for his present office. In the councils of the hui it has been decided that Jarrett is too young and has too little experience to carry on the work of Sheriff with credit to the Hawaiian race. They have decided that he will have to wait a while and grow wiser before reaching too high.

As a matter of fact, the ones who are supposed to lead this gallant six hundred have decided that there is no Hawaiian available at present whom they could support for the shrievalty and will swing in behind a haole, already selected but whose name is a secret in their councils and that of the upper circle of Democracy. It is said that in his own party Jarrett is to be firmly suppressed and the nomination given elsewhere, to someone as yet unsuspected, but who is not a Hawaiian. This is not A. M. Brown, nor is it Hugh Henry, but a Democrat of standing.

The same objections that are being made against Jarrett, youth and innocence, are being made against Long, as County Attorney, although the Hawaiian Sons have not as yet made up their minds about this office. It was denied yesterday that there was warfare politically between the various alumni associations as associations, but it was admitted that the members of the Kam alumni and the graduates of Alexander Mackintosh collectively as individuals were after the individual scalps of the St. Louis men.

MOVING PICTURES OF KILAUEA IN ACTION

Moving pictures of a volcano in action is the latest idea of R. K. Bonine, the moving-picture expert, who has been in Hawaii for the past eight months. Tomorrow he leaves on the Mauna Kea for Hilo and Kilauea Volcano. He will take two moving-picture machines and six cameras, including a stereoscopic and panorama outfit. Commencing at Hilo, Mr. Bonine will take moving pictures of the arrival of the steamer, views along the line of the Hilo Railway, which passes through one of the most beautiful scenic sections in the islands, and at the Volcano House will take pictures of sightseers preparing to make the descent to the big

LEGISLATORS ARE FEW ON KAUAI

Coney, Sheldon and Silva Are Not in the Field—Only One in Sight.

The approach of the nominating conventions does not seem to bring forth the usual number of candidates for legislative honors here on Kauai, says the Garden Island. There is an abundance of aspirants for the county offices, but so far only one man, Jas. K. Kula, the jailer at Koloa, has declared himself desirous or willing to take up part of Kauai's burden at the session of 1909. The island had an exceptionally strong and capable representation in the Legislature of 1907. The four men worked well together and worked with a purpose. The result has been felt not only at home, but all the islands have derived benefit from the work done by the last Legislature.

The coming session is going to be a very important one, and it is imperative that from all the district honest and capable men are selected to grapple with the questions to come up for settlement. One of the greatest problems, the question of taxation, is to be handled, and the business of the islands may be dealt a severe blow if men of anything but the best character and mind are allowed to decide the outcome.

It is a great pity that the former team cannot be prevailed upon to accept renomination. On the floor C. A. Rice carried the leadership easily and his handling of financial questions at that time shows that he would be just the man to have there this year. On the committees and the inside work Messrs. Coney, Sheldon and Silva all gave valuable service, but all declare that they cannot afford to go again.

On the other islands there seems to be no lack of candidates for the Legislature, of what quality the majority of them are need not be discussed. It is hard to tell whether it is proper appreciation of their own disqualification that refrains the would-be legislators on the Garden Island from putting himself forward or it is the absence of all ambition to direct the fate of the islands which causes the dearth of candidates but the fact is that so far only one man has offered to represent Kauai next year.

What can be done to induce some of our citizens of broad minds and clean characters to safeguard the interest of Kauai and the Territory at the session of the Legislature of 1909?

The American-Hawaiian steamship Mexican arrived yesterday at San Francisco from Salina Cruz, and leaves San Francisco for Honolulu on Wednesday, August 12.

FATHER YZENDOORN REPLIES TO "PORTUGUESE MECHANIC."

Honolulu, August 9, 1908.

Editor Advertiser: Under the heading "Catholic Contract goes to Japanese" a Portuguese mechanic rushes into print in order to blame His Lordship, our respected Bishop, for awarding the building of a convent of the Sisters of the Sacred Hearts to a Japanese concern. The readers of this paper may judge if our man had not done better in getting more reliable information. For in the first place, the said contract has as yet not been awarded to anybody, so that the Portuguese Mechanic speaks before the time. The rest of his information is not more accurate. He says: "The money for the erection of these buildings has been secured by voluntary subscription from the working class of Portuguese of this city."

In answer to this astonishing assertion, I beg to state that "NOT A SINGLE PORTUGUESE HAS CONTRIBUTED AS LITTLE AS A NICKEL TO THE FUNDS FOR THE ERECTION OF THE KAIMUKI-CONVENT."

On the contrary, our good Sisters, not to speak of the many Portuguese children they gratuitously board, dress, lodge and educate, are yearly educating without the slightest compensation, hundreds of Portuguese girls whose parents easily could afford to pay tuition, if they but wanted. If our mechanic kindly gives his name—like a gentleman naturally would do when publishing an attack of the kind—then we shall see if his children frequent the Catholic schools and if he has paid for their tuition and schoolbooks.

Our man goes on saying: "Whenever there has been a call for funds for building repairs, sick expenses or general church deficiencies, we Portuguese have always replied generously. If the Bishop had to depend on the Japanese colony of this city for support, the Catholic religion in this Territory would soon cease to exist."

Now, there can be no doubt that since the Portuguese make out one-half of the Catholics in these islands, on them, most certainly rests a good part of the common DUTY Catholics have of supporting their priests, erecting their churches and schools. But, "if the Bishop, Fathers and religious teachers had to depend on the PORTUGUESE COLONY of this city and these islands for support, THEY WOULD STARVE TO DEATH AND THEIR CHURCHES WOULD GO TO RUIN." (Statement made by a Portuguese priest when giving a mission in the Cathedral.)

FREE MASONRY WAS HER THEME

Lady Lecturer Tell Masons a Few Things About Themselves.

"The Masons are forced by their vows to help each other. Fancy a Christian having to take a vow to help others. The Masons have taken up Masonry as a beautiful intellectual theory, but they don't know anything about the real freemasonry of Solomon's initiative. If the Masons were true to their ideals, we would have gods on earth today."

Miss Louise Stacey, the lecturer, referred frequently to the Masons of today and the Masons of that other day in the past when Solomon began to build his temple, in a lecture delivered yesterday afternoon at the Kilohehane Art League rooms, her subject being the rather broad one of "Christianity, Freemasonry and Socialism, and Their Relation."

Although Christianity was first in the list for her theme, yet she said that Freemasonry was in reality first, as it had its beginnings when Solomon's temple was planned and erected far in advance of Christ's appearance on earth. That, like the best specimens of church architecture, was cruciform in shape, typical of man, who, himself, is built in the form of a cross. There was the inner sanctum to which only the priest was admitted, and there was the hall of learning to which only those who desired to learn of higher things were admitted. There they learned the true meaning of the construction of the great temple, how and why each stone was laid, etc. That was the earliest formation of the Freemasonry body. And so it was with the body. All were freemasons who desire to learn of our living temples.

In referring to the Masons of today, those who have lodges and elect masters and other officials, Miss Stacey spoke of the term equality. Such a term was not quite consistent in America, where, she said, there was less equality than in England. "There is as much difference in the status of the people in America as England," she added. Even among the Masons there was inequality, because those who entered as novices began at the bottom and had to learn before they could expect to reach the plane of those ahead of them.

Referring to Christianity and churches, the lecturer spoke of a phrase in the prayer book, which she said she was glad had been omitted. That was the absurdity of praying for the "whole state of Christ's church militant." She said Jesus' message was peace, and the church militant was truly absurd.

(Statement made by a Portuguese priest when giving a mission in the Cathedral.)

The Catholic Mission is principally supported by the alms of the Propagation of the Faith and the revenues of the lands secured in times gone by with these alms. Unlike the ministers of most other denominations, the Catholic priests of these islands are not salaried by their congregations. If, once in a while, they hold fairs for the needs of their churches, it is remarkable how carefully most of the Portuguese keep themselves away from these charitable entertainments.

But we hope that the Portuguese Mechanic will have opened the eyes of his countrymen, that henceforth they may understand that a priest, as well as a stonemason or a plantation laborer, "is worthy of his reward." To refuse a workman his wages is a crime crying to Heaven; but a man must be blame indeed, if after that, he dares to blame that workman for spending whatever money he got in the most economical way he sees fit.

FIGHT ENDED IN MAN'S DEATH

Drunken Portuguese on Kauai Kick a Companion and Death Results.

LIHUE, Kauai, August 8.—One man dead and two others under the charge of manslaughter is the result of a general fight which took place at Camp IV, Makaweli, last Sunday, August 2.

It seems that there was a little feast taking place which was attended by quite a number of the Portuguese residents of the camp. Besides the more substantial part of the spread there appears to have been a considerable amount of fluid refreshments of a fiery kind. The bottled cheer excited discussions and the difference of opinions brought forth by the latter occasioned a fight that ended in a general melee. During this a man by the name of Innocencio Cavoco received a kick in the abdomen that caused a rupture of the intestine and finally his death.

At the corner's inquest, held the following day, these details were brought out and the same day two of the participants in the fight were arrested and brought to Waimea where they were given a preliminary hearing before the District Magistrate. There are quite a number of witnesses and the trial was slow owing to the fact that both questions and testimony have to pass through an interpreter.

The two men, Joe Ruff and Manuel Abrela, were committed to the grand jury.

FIGHT AGAINST PUGS MAY BE RECOMMENDED

A legal spoke may be put in the wheel of the proposed McFadden-Reilly fight.

Current rumor had it around town yesterday that Attorney Dickey was looking up the law again on prize fights, and that an especially strong case could be made out against the participants because of the proposal to put up forfeits.

Mr. Dickey was questioned yesterday evening, but the attorney was non-committal as to whether any action was to be taken in regard to this particular go, but intimated that since the last effort to put the prize-fight issue through the courts, a more conservative method of invoking the laws against prize fighting had been pursued, and that when those behind the movement desired to make a move, different results could be anticipated than last time.

"Just give them plenty of rope," said Mr. Dickey, "and we will have things coming our way. When we want to tighten the rope it will bring results. That last effort, however, has served us in this way. It has placed on record the officials who have anything to do with the enforcement of the laws."

DIRECTOIRE GOWN WILL SOON BE SEEN HERE

If it hadn't been for the United States laws prohibiting freight being shipped from San Francisco on a mail steamer flying a foreign flag, Honolulu theatergoers would have been given the opportunity last week and this of seeing a real Directoire gown, but as its makers in San Francisco had to observe this ruling, the garment will not arrive until the 17th, when the Siberia comes into port. Possibly that same evening, or the next, the gown will be worn at the Orpheum by Mrs. Hallen, in a skit to be presented by herself and husband.

Manager Joe Cohen received a cablegram from Hale Bros. of San Francisco informing him of the failure to forward the gown on the S. S. America Maru. Even the members of the vaudeville company now performing at the Orpheum are as much interested in the arrival of the gown as the many patrons who have been told about it. Of course, the gown will be a modified edition of the famous toilettes that was exhibited in Paris a few weeks ago, but it will be a Directoire, just the same, and similar in design to those being exhibited by dainty wearers in the streets of the Coast cities.

A Portuguese resident of Kula, Maui, writing to a friend in Honolulu, says that the drought in that section of the Valley Isle is the worst experienced. The cattle are dying off daily for want of pasturage and fodder. The farmers have cut their cane down for the use of the livestock, and only potatoes have been able to survive the long dry interval. Many of the people are leaving for other sections on Maui where rain occasionally falls.

AS THEY SAW IT.

Baseball Magnate Falk of Honolulu writes Hilo: "I have decided to give the Santa Clara a trip to the volcano. Can't you arrange to pay their way?" There is no gall in Honolulu. They are so accommodating—giving the boys a trip, and Hilo paying for it.—A Setta.

PERKINS NOW CHAIRMAN OF NAVAL COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, August 10.—Senator George C. Perkins, of California, has been named, as a result of the death of Senator Allison, of Iowa, as chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs.

SENATOR GEORGE C. PERKINS, OF CALIFORNIA.

Senator Perkins, who succeeds to one of the most important Senate committee chairmanships, was long interested in Pacific shipping, having been a member of the firm of Goodall, Perkins & Co., the owners of the Pacific Steamship Company. This firm was the first to introduce steamships into the whaling business of the Arctic and operated numerous ships along the Pacific Coast from Alaska to Mexico. He succeeded Leland Stanford as United States Senator from California, being appointed after Stanford's death in 1893 and has served continuously since. From 1879 until 1882, he served as Governor of his State. He went to sea when thirteen years old, coming around the Horn to California before the mast in 1855.

HILO RAILROAD'S GROWING TRAFFIC

Past Year Shows Good Increase in Business—Enlarging Equipment.

HILO, August 6.—"The business of the Hilo railroad has improved considerably within the past year," said L. A. Thurston, president of the road, to the Herald yesterday.

"We have recently expended $70,000 in new plant and equipment here. There is a new locomotive almost due, thirty new cars are added to our rolling stock, rails for five miles of road extension should arrive in Hilo on August 28, the roadbed for the two extensions necessary in connection with the breakwater has been finished, and the ties from the ohia forests will be on the ground by the time the rails arrive, as well as the contractor's crane and derricks.

"Our general business has been gaining right along owing to the larger output of sugar at Olaa and Puna, the breakwater work, the increased travel of tourists to the volcano, and especially the volume of freight that has passed over our line through the operations of the Hawaiian Mahogany and Lumber Company.

"Puna plantation is getting on its feet again and gradually moving up to the position it held before it fell back. There are now 1300 acres of cane planted and 500 more will be planted this coming spring. The Olaa crop of sugar for this season, just ending, will be 17,480 tons within ten tons either way. Next year Olaa will have 23,000 tons of sugar."

Speaking of money conditions in Honolulu, Mr. Thurston said: "Money is scarce there, and everybody is asking why. One reason is that the small buyers of stocks have been paying off their loans. They bought on margin, have held on paying interest and are now liquidating. Another reason is that all the Hawaiian sugar stocks that are sold in San Francisco are being bought for Honolulu account. This is taking money away at present, but ultimately the Island people will be receiving larger sums in dividends and money certainly should be more available for investment in the Territory."

TURKISH SULTAN'S COUP SHREWD POLITICAL MOVE

LONDON, July 26.—The Sultan's coup d'etat in granting a constitution to his Turkish subjects is a dramatic surprise in European affairs. He is not credited by English leader writers with high-minded motives or sincerity in reviving Midhat's scheme which was played thirty-two years ago, but he cannot be reproached for a lack of self-possession in making a sudden change of front. After dismissing the Grand Vizier and appointing progressive ministers it was perhaps the easiest and safest method of dealing with the Young Turkey movement and suppressing the military revolt in Macedonia. The soldiers were mutinous, new levies were lacking and there was no money for paying troops.

His sudden determination to give the country a semblance of liberal institutions was not a sign of fright so much as a practical proof that the wily sovereign was astute in adapting himself to a difficult situation. He was not helpless, as he had in a pigeon-hole a ready-made draft of a constitution under which a new order could be proclaimed and general elections could be provided.

The travesty of liberal government recently enacted in Persia leads suspicious observers in the press to forecast a similar bit of farcical comedy in Constantinople. Certainly it is a most serious undertaking to put Midhat's rusty mechanism in operation in a country accustomed to military rules and a despotic administration. Probably the Sultan is pitting a body of political reformers against the military insurgents precisely as he has set one European power against another so many times.

The Turkish comedy may easily become a European drama of momentous importance. The powers are not prepared for a crisis so tremendous as the downfall of the Ottoman Empire.

MANY SMALL FARMERS COMING TO THE WEST.

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—The influx of new settlers in the Far West continues, stimulated by the difficulty experienced of finding employment in other sections. This movement is most conspicuous in the far Northwest, in the neighborhood of Seattle, Spokane and Portland, and in the far Southwest, from Los Angeles to San Diego, including the Imperial and Sacramento valleys. Most of these new settlers engage in small farming, and are therefore of a highly desirable class. If this movement continues, relieving the congestion of Eastern cities and peopling the sparsely settled districts of the West, the "hard times" will not have been an unmitigated evil.

On the Coast money rules easy, more on account of the absence of demand than because of any large supplies. New enterprises are held in abeyance, waiting for a more substantial improvement in the general business situation. It is not probable that there will be any noteworthy activity until late in the fall. Election uncertainties are sometimes ascribed as the reason why no important new enterprises are being financed; but this explanation is superficial, and given only because many persons seem to think that the approaching election ought to have some effect. As a matter of fact, so severe a panic and so pronounced a depression never before in the history of the country passed so quickly. The recovery has progressed with a rapidity that few hoped for or anticipated, and to search for causes why the recovery has not progressed further is mere folly.

FARMAN'S FRENCH FLYING MACHINE

Enthusiasm When Aeroplane Made Its First Flight in New York.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Rising from the ground like a giant bird and darting through the air at express-train speed, Henri Farman's aeroplane, or heavier-than-air flying machine, brought here from France, made its initial flight in this country late this afternoon at Brighton Beach. It rose from an especially prepared "dock" at the will of the inventor, and after attaining a height of twenty-five feet, flew straight ahead on a direct line, finally alighting with exquisite grace when the air pilot diminished the motive power.

During the brief space of time in which the aeroplane was skimming over the center field of the race track the few hundred spectators, most of whom were friends of the inventor or rival aviators, watched the flight with breathless interest. The landing provoked cheers as vociferous as those of a race-track crowd. Farman was surrounded and literally hugged by the jubilant aeronauts. Members of the Aero Club of America, under whose auspices Farman will conduct his public flights at Brighton Beach, wanted to carry the successful inventor off the field on their shoulders.

There were skeptics in the crowd who would not believe until they saw, and they watched the "tuning up" of the aeroplane in doubting silence. Farman's mechanics rushed about getting the queer-shaped ship ready for the flight, and when wires had been made taut and the motor tested, the ship was carried to the plank runway near the field stand.

Newspaper photographers crowded around the aeroplane to get pictures of the machine as it was about to make its first flight in America. Farman then decided to again test the motor before flying. He instructed his French mechanics in their native tongue to hold fast to the aeroplane while he turned on the power. Instantly the propeller began to revolve at the rate of 1400 revolutions to the minute, and a breeze suggestive of a small cyclone was created. The photographers were knocked to the ground until the power was turned off. So great was the violence of the breeze that several willow trees were bent double. Farman laughingly said he guessed the machinery was working all right.

Then, when the crowd had been waved back, he gave the order, "Let go!" and away sped the aeroplane over the plank roadway. It ran swiftly along on its wheels for 240 yards, and then Farman turned a lever, which sent it into the air like magic, and away it flew. The propeller made a whirling noise as it turned 800 times to the minute. Only 350 yards were covered in the air in this flight, but a few minutes later Farman made another try, and traveled 760 yards in the air. He could have gone much further, he said, but feared striking a pile of lumber.

These flights are preliminary to Farman's public flights, which will begin tomorrow. He will give fifteen exhibitions at the track, and it is probable that he will appear in other parts of the country, as many aeronautic clubs are trying to induce him to visit other cities.

TRY THE BALLOON CURE.

It's the latest and surest cure for consumption.

That's what physicians say about exposing patients to the atmosphere above the clouds.

This is really a simple matter, although on the face of it it seems impossible. It is simply necessary to establish captive balloons at heights where germs, dust and smoke never penetrate, and keep the patients there for a few weeks. While it will be several years before hospitals have captive balloons for this purpose, already it has been demonstrated as a successful cure.

To cure consumption the most essential thing is absolutely pure air. But nowhere on the face of the earth can pure air be obtained. Experiments show that city air is so saturated with gases and so polluted with dust and germs that it is a wonder the human lung or even, a healthy person can breathe it. In the country the air is much better, but by no means pure. On the high mountains the improvement is still greater, but even there germs are more or less common.

There are dust, pollen and flying matter from the distant cities. Even on the ocean a dustless, germless atmosphere cannot be found. Tests prove that midocean air is quite heavily laden with a fine, impalpable dust which settles on the membranes of the lungs at every breath. Furthermore, the air is, of course, saturated with moisture, as the fogs so frequently seen on the ocean testify.

Over the city of London, with its almost perpetual fog, there are thousands of tons of soot slowly streaming down on the population below. London's fogs depend upon the coal soot and dust in the air, because pure atmosphere is incapable of supporting a fog. Fog is composed of little particles of moisture which collect around bits of dust until they become large enough to fall in the form of rain.

Work has just been begun on the first "high air sanitarium" at Paris. It will contain sun parlors and bedrooms for a dozen patients. In addition there will be a kitchen and doctors' and servants' quarters. Electricity will be supplied to cook the

It is expected that a month in this balloon sanitarium, followed by two weeks on earth somewhere in the mountains, and then a final three weeks in the air again will be the average time given to curing tuberculosis of the lungs.

JEWELS TIED TO BIG BALLOON BY THE KEIOSNipponese Visitors Very Nearly Whitewash the Diamond Heads—The Santa Claras Held to Two Runs.**
* Santa Claras, 2; St. Louis, 0.
* Keios, 8; Diamond Heads, 1.
Banzai forty different ways for the little Keios and their great ally, Jack Doyle. Between them they tied the Jewels to a big balloon and sent it way up in the air, where it burst and dropped the poor Diamond Heads all over the field.After the game Jack's army of well-trained rosters crowded on to the field and, amid the waving of Keio flags, the players were cheered to the echo until the cheerers were forced to run for the cars or walk home.Stealing bases at every possible opportunity, always successfully, batting out a timely hit or two and keeping their heads all the time, the Keios ran their board on to a great wave of enthusiasm and beached high and dry, while the Jewels were puffing around waiting for a big comb to start them.Just one run did the free-paper boys tally, and that was as much due to a let-up in Fukuda's wonderful pitching as anything else. If the little brown pitcher had not walked Thompson, it is very doubtful if they would have scored.As long as the Japs were at the bat it was impossible to hear oneself think such was the energy and volume of the rooting from bleachers and grandstand.
Jack Doyle was in charge of the first base bleacher, which was crowded with Japanese. He stood on the railing and led the yells in proper polyglot style.
Not satisfied with this, he arranged a system of return yells from a crowd of their countrymen in the grandstand, and the tremendous waves of noise rolled back and forth across the plate.The balloon started its ascent in the first and soared gracefully along until the eighth, when it burst with a bang and dropped the Diamond Head players all over everywhere. Two in the first, one each in the third, fourth and seventh, and a great big three in the eighth with two men gone was the way they did it.Strangely enough those three in the eighth came after Leslie had apparently woke up, for he fanned two men one after the other, and it seemed that he was in shape to do the same again, but he fell from grace and walked Higo, the boss base-stealer of a champion base-stealing aggregation. Then it was all off, and they kept coming until Fukuda was out at first.The dull games of recent date were more than made up for by the two great ones yesterday. The Santa Clara-St. Louis affair was a grand exhibition of ball, especially of pitching.
Barney Joy twirled seven innings of the finest kind of ball; if he had found himself just a trifle sooner the visitors would never have scored in the second and the game would have passed on to the tenth with the Saints getting better all the time.Barney began to be very good in the third and started in on a wonderful alternation of high and low balls, swift and slow ones that the Santa Claras could do nothing with.Kilburn was in fine form too. The Saints could not find him and he kept them playing that grand old tune, "I could not hit that ball nohow." There was life and go in the game from the very start and this increased as the game went on until things were all ready for the great excitement of the second game.The band did itself proud. It started with a real new tune on Saturday and was so elated at this that it repeated it at every opportunity yesterday, playing a few bars between innings and continuing until that tune was finished, then it would start all over again. Some unduly optimistic fan said that he expected we would have another new tune this season, but he probably forgot what he was saying in the excitement of applauding the Keios.It was a great afternoon and every fan who was not out at the park has good reason to feel sorry for himself.
Let those fans who were there spread the glad news so that the third base bleachers will not be so gloriously empty nor the grandstand such a hollow void in future.Of the four pitchers yesterday, Leslie was the only one who did not do himself justice. He walked man after man and his strike-outs were very few and far between; also he made two errors in throws to bases both of which were very costly. It cannot be said that he went up in the air. He kept his head wonderfully well but he did not act as though he felt right and everybody knows that a pitcher cannot twirl his own game unless he is there with the rosy hue of health inside and out.The Keios showed the marvelous imitative ability of their nation by the way they have picked up the finer points of the game and have turned from a tyro team into a well-working, play-together, thoroughly classy amateur aggregation.

THE FIRST GAME.

The Saints went in first. En Sue flew out to Art Shafer, Bushnell singled, then Walker did the same, which took Bushnell very nearly home; in fact, just near enough to be touched out by Merv Shafer. Jim Williams did his best, but could not hit hard enough and never reached first.

Then Barney went into the box and made a bad start by walking Lappin, but Merv, skilled and "Pop," Lappin was not smart enough at second. Kenedy reached first and put Byrnes to run for him, but the latter tried to steal, which he lost, and the side was out.Kilburn jumped into his stride from the first and kept them well away from third in the second inning. When the Santa Claras came up for the second, Barney had not quite got his wrist working right, and both Art Shafer and Peters made hits off him. Peters' hit sent Art to third and, while the former was trying to steal second, he was caught by Williams and Bruns, but they took too long doing it and Art ran home. Then Byrnes made the third hit of the inning and quickly stole second. Freine came up and should have been out at first, but Bruns fumbled and Byrnes ran home in the meantime. These were the only two runs scored during the entire game.Kilburn opened the third well by fanning Soares and giving both En Sue and Bushnell easy ones to left. Then Barney took a turn and showed the first signs of the excellent class which he maintained for the balance of the game. He gave Kilburn a hard one over the plate, then a slow one which dropped below the bat, and then another hard one. "Pop" Lappin came up and Barney smiled; he knew where he was at. Lappin fanned, and then Barney dropped a peg by allowing Merv Shafer to walk, but he was out trying to steal second, and the Saints came in for the fourth.Walker started the fourth by hitting a two-bagger, and then Williams came up. He bunted a short one to first and Broderick made a pretty play by letting Williams go on and sending hard to third where Walker was out.

Barney walked and sent Jim to second, but Kilburn would not stand for any more and fanned both Aylett and Bruns in short order.The fifth, sixth and seventh were on the same slap-bang order, both pitchers doing great work and the fielders keeping away from errors. When Walker came up in this inning he was due to make a much-needed hit. He had been to the bat three times and had made two singles and a double. But a fourth hit was too much to expect of any man, and he flew out, spoiling an excellent chance for the Saints to score.It looked as though the Saints would score in the ninth, for Williams was at third dancing with eagerness for a chance to romp home, but the best that Paul Burns and En Sue could do was to fan the air, and so the Saints lost their last chance of winning one of the closest and fastest games of the series.

THE SECOND GAME.

Sing Chong went in first for the Diamond Heads, he flew out to Eddie Fernandez singled and reached second on Kanki's error. Chi Bui skied and Eddie reached third, and it looked as though he would get in until Leslie fanned and the bleachers cheered.As soon as Sasaki started toward the plate Jack Doyle arose and led a mighty yell. There was no silence for the rest of that inning, nor indeed for the rest of the game. Sasaki singled and then stole second. Taka-hama reached first on Eddie's error and Sasaki went to third. Kanki tried to sacrifice but could not make it, then Fukuda tried the same but the ball went home and Sasaki was out at the plate, but Fukuda went to second and Takahama to third. H. Chillingworth made a very costly error when he muffed an easy one from Koyama for both Fukuda and Takahama ran home and the bleachers arose en masse and howled.The Keios put over another in the third. Koyama was the hero of this inning for he stole second, third and home. There were four stolen bases in this inning.Leslie made his first strike-out in the fourth but this did not prevent Murakami from coming in on Sasaki's hit and the score stood 4 to 0 for the Japs.In the fifth the Jewels made their one and only. Thompson walked and then Amoy fanned but Sam Chilling-worth singled and Thompson reached third. Sasaki made a bad throw to third and Thompson went home. Then Sing Chong hit a high one that dropped near the right field line and Sam Chil-lingworth started to run. When he reached third the coach told him to stop which he did, thus losing a fine chance to get home.Sasaki took some easy money in the seventh. He fanned at what looked like a strike but turned out to be a wild pitch. While Chi Bui was looking for the ball he reached first quite safely. This did him little good however for he was out at the plate shortly afterwards. Takahama, however, reached third on Leslie's error and then Fukuda sacrificed him home. This made the fifth run for the Keios.The eighth was a mixture of clever base-stealing and a hurricane of applause from the bleachers. Both Abe and Murakami fanned but Higo walked and stole second. Then Ohashi walked and Higo stole third while Ohashi soon reached second the same way.
Then Sasaki bunted along the line to third, it was out of everybody's way and both Higo and Ohashi ran in while Sasaki reached second. Takahama singled which sent Sasaki to third and then Leslie made a wild pitch which put Sasaki home. Three runs and the score 8 to 1.Desha fanned in the ninth and Thompson walked hit by the ball but Amoy was out at first and Sam Chil-lingworth skied and this ended the game.

The official score was:

THE Pacific Commercial Advertiser

A MORNING PAPER.

WALTER G. SMITH EDITOR
MONDAY : : : : : AUGUST 10

THE SPOTS ON THE SUN.

The New York Sun still has a grudge against the authorities for sending the Atlantic fleet away from its "home waters," and is especially displeased at the particular leg of the world's cruise that the battleships are now on. In a recent sunburst it says:

"Whatever may be thought of the reasons that have been offered to justify the despatch to the Pacific Coast of practically the entire naval force of the United States, there cannot, in our judgment, be much difference of opinion about this Australian trip. The truth should be stated plainly and by all men understood. This part of the voyage is nothing but a junket. It serves no useful naval purpose. There is no conceivable reason for an exhibition of our fighting strength in that quarter. The ships are sent in order to gratify the hospitable inclinations of our excellent friends the colonists and to promote a mutual goodwill that is in need at present of no such costly stimulant. Incidentally this social expedition is a cause of more or less embarrassment to the imperial authorities of Great Britain, for reasons which it might be impolite to discuss."

The objection the Sun has against the Australian visit is practically the same as that raised against sending the battleship fleet around the Horn, that being that the Pacific Coast and the lands washed by the Pacific Ocean were too far from New York to amount to much. That there are great advantages to be gained in trade and in friendship with the great commonwealth of people of our own blood and language in the south does not appeal to the Sun and those other "Little America" shouters of the Atlantic seaboard.

PRECINCT CLUB NOMINATIONS.

The Republican precinct clubs nominate their convention delegates on the evening of Friday, August 28. The Democratic precinct clubs nominate their convention delegates on the evening of Thursday, August 20. With scarcely an exception every business man in Honolulu belongs to one or the other of these parties, either actively or from habit, and it is the plain duty of these business men and all others to bear in mind the dates given and be on hand to see what is being done at the nominations and prepared to take part in the business.

The nomination of clean candidates can be brought about only by the nomination of clean delegates to the conventions. The precinct club is the head of local politics, and the stream cannot rise above its head. Through taking an interest, gaining some knowledge of the situation and acquaintance with the neighbor voters of the precinct, attending the precinct nominations and primaries, and, in short, showing less selfishness in avoiding all share of political duty, the responsible voter can do much in bringing about the nomination and election of responsible officials.

Not everything can be accomplished until a primary law is enacted by the Legislature, but even with the chances for stuffed rolls and other jockeying on the part of those who play the political game for what there is in it, any display of interest on the part of the average good citizen will keep the others somewhere near where they should be. There is a lamentable lack of interest in public affairs on the part of too many, and an equally lamentable display of interest on the part of some. But as long as the dog submits to being wagged the tail will stay on the job.

Would it not be wise for the commercial bodies of Honolulu to learn if there is any assistance they can render the Pacific Mail in its attempt to secure a reversal of the Interstate Commerce Commission order respecting through freight rates to the Orient, which, if enforced, it is claimed, will drive the American steamship companies out of business, or, at least, seriously embarrass them? Were the Pacific Mail liners withdrawn, Honolulu would be in a bad way, indeed. A representation of what our position would be might have some effect, while the steamship companies would probably appreciate an offer to assist them, at any rate.

It will require an army of seventy thousand people to take the thirteenth census in 1910. The task of making the enumeration of the ninety million people in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico and in Guam, Samoa, and the Panama Canal Zone will be one of enormous proportions. It will be the most gigantic work of enumeration that has ever been attempted in this or any other country, and it is intended to reach the acme of correctness and thoroughness. Not merely a count and compilation concerning the population alone, it will include a census of agriculture, manufactures, mines and quarries.

The Socialists of New Zealand, whereby the political party of that name is meant, threaten to hold a demonstration of the unemployed in Auckland during the visit of the Atlantic fleet, intending this as a protest against the use of public funds at this time for entertaining visitors. As part of the funds are going to entertain British sailors as well as Americans, and as it would be to these British sailors and possibly their American allies that the New Zealanders would turn in case of trouble with the nation they have antagonized by their exclusion policy, their demonstration will come rather ungraciously.

The United States Consul at Melbourne notes the shipment of eight hundred tons of hardwood railroad ties from that port to San Francisco, for use on one of the transcontinental roads. He states that he anticipates that this shipment is the forerunner of many similar ones. The notice is an indication of the fact that there is no danger of the Hawaiian obia flooding any tie market, while with the advantages of nearness and freedom from duty the product of the local exporter enjoys, the imported tie should never be able to become a dangerous competitor.

A San Jose fruitman believes that he can train South American monkeys to gather prunes, and in that way he expects to solve the labor difficulty the fruit men of Southern California find themselves in in these days of uncertain Japanese help. It is not advanced as any part of the San Jose man's scheme that the anthropoid prune pickers will Americanize his district.

Where were all the patriots, now rushing to the front with offers to place themselves at the service of the country for salaries, when the members of the fleet committees were working for the country without recompense? The committee lists can be gone through in vain for the names of nearly all of those who now consider the country would be lost without them.

The Seattle papers are commenting very pointedly on the question asked in their city by George B. McClellan, while on his way back from Washington, which was to find out why Seattle worked so hard to hold the trade of Alaska, which amounts to $12,000,000 a year, and made little effort to secure the trade of Hawaii, which last year footed up to $18,000,000.

It would be well for the Supervisors, who are following out their plan to conduct their investigations into the affairs of the Sheriff's office in secret and behind closed doors, to remember that the public is often more interested in knowing how they reach their conclusions than in the conclusions themselves.

The Honolulu Chinese are making progress. Last week they disposed of what was left of the boycott fund and not a fight resulted. Two years ago it would have taken the entire police force busy to keep order among the tongs if the very existence of this balance had been whispered about.

A committee in New York, headed by Governor Hughes, is preparing to greet the American Olympic victors on their return to America. In the meanwhile the young athletes are busy gathering up all the stray trophies and records lying loose on the Continent.

When the present activity at the Volcano is over, whether the subsidence comes today or months from now, there will be hundreds of people in Honolulu regretting that they failed to take advantage of their opportunity of seeing this sight of a lifetime.

We will perhaps get used to hearing all about the doings of the Atlantic fleet sailors the day before it happens, but at first it is a trifle confusing.

Current Comment From Mainland

The Hawaii girls decorated our sailor lads with wreaths of roses over at Honolulu the other day. Roses are all right as far as they go, but why did they not decorate the boys with oscar bouquets a la Richmond P. Hobson?—Orlando (Florida) Star.

The first Englishman to finish in the Marathon race was thirteenth to cross the line. Is fate frowning on the United Kingdom athletes because of the alleged unfair decision that deprived the American, Carpenter, of the award in the 400-meter race?—Tacoma Ledger.

Kaiser William threatens, in what seems to be earnest, a tax on bachelors. This sort of tax has often been suggested in various countries. Heretofore such suggestions have only created merriment. With the Kaiser, however, it is no joke. By the way, who was the bachelor who years ago said he was willing to pay a tax for the luxury?—Tacoma Ledger.

American vessels are to be hereafter excluded from the coastwise trade of Canada on the Pacific. This statement brings to mind the humiliating fact that Canada really is not entitled to any ports on the Pacific and that those it has were presented to it by this country during the administration of President Polk. Polk and his fellow Democrats were seeking during war with Mexico to placate Great Britain and gave Canada Pacific coast ports.—Tacoma Ledger.

A real old-fashioned receivership has just been closed up at Hartford. It began eight years ago with assets which liquidate at $11,346. The receiver claims a compensation of $16,000, or nearly one-half; legal expenses eat up $6000, while $800 is needed to pay the expenses of distributing the small remainder among the creditors. The first thing which should be done on the assembling of the next Connecticut Legislature is to pass a law modeled after that of the new Empire State statute in relation to bank receiverships.—Springfield Republican.

Philadelphia boycotts the hobo millionaire. The 24 grand-tier boxes in the new Hammerstein opera house are not to be sold by auction, but allotted to the elite by a committee of five women of ancient Philadelphia ancestry. "We want opera in Philadelphia," said one of the committee, "but we do not want the best seats in the house to go to everyone who applies just because he has money enough to buy them. We want the seats in the grand tier to go to the representative Philadelphia families who have a right to them."—Springfield Republican.

In some ways the most cosmopolitan region on the face of the globe, and consequently with strong ties binding it to many countries, Hawaii covets visible and tangible evidences of its American rights and privileges. This lack the presence of the fleet supplies. Hawaii is enthusiastically welcoming "our" warships. The sense of ownership and protection afforded by the spectacular armada stirs new emotions in the Hawaiian breast. These mighty fighting machines, and the army of men they hold, are an inspiring evidence of the strength and care of the nation of which Hawaii is a part. Hitherto, the thin line of cable which has connected the Territory with the mainland has been the bond of union most in evidence. Henceforth, though, the breast of Hawaii swells proudly in consciousness that it has beheld the glory and power of "our country."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A remarkable medical report touching the cure of leprosy was presented to the Louisiana assembly by the leper house of the State of Louisiana. Out of sixty-one lepers in the Louisiana institution in the past two years, six have been practically cured. A row of modern cottages constitute the lepers' quarters. A surgical building and a small Catholic church complete this group of leper buildings. For thirteen years four to six Sisters of Charity, practically alone, have cared for all the wants of the lepers. None of these sisters ever has become infected with the disease, and apparently none of them fears it.—Kansas City Journal.

YALE LOOKS TO TAFT TO BREAK THE RECORD

WASHINGTON, July 25.—If William Howard Taft succeeds Theodore Roosevelt as Chief Executive of the nation, he will be the first son of Old Eli to obtain the honor. The record for training Presidents is divided evenly between the first and second colleges established on American soil—Harvard and William and Mary, that venerable Virginia seat of learning founded at Williamsburg in 1693.

Harvard bestowed degrees on the two Adamses, on Theodore Roosevelt and trained Rutherford B. Hayes in the law.
William and Mary was the alma mater of Thomas Jefferson, of James Monroe and of John Tyler, and two other Presidents, James Madison and Zachary Taylor, were trained under William and Mary tutors. Madison graduated with high honors at Princeton in 1769, and Zachary Taylor, the son of a Virginia gentleman, was about to enter William and Mary when the war fever seized him and he gave up books for the sword.

Andrew Jackson could claim no alma mater except a Salisbury (N. C.) law office, where he read and mastered some legal knowledge with the aid of politicians with whom he chummed. Martin Van Buren's sole book training was obtained in the Kinderhook (N. Y.) Academy and the law office of W. P.
Van Ness. William Henry Harrison studied at Hampden and Sidney colleges, and intended to take up medicine for a profession. He had made his medical studies and was about to take his degree when he saw a better chance for preferment than by the prescription blank. His grandson, Benjamin Harrison, graduated from Union College, Oxford, Ohio, and studied law in the Cincinnati Law College.

James K. Polk graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1808, and studied law in the private office of Felix Grundy. Millard Fillmore started life after having finished his course in the public schools of his native county, Cayuga, New York. He studied law in the Buffalo School of Law, Franklin Pierce graduated from Bow-doin College in 1824, and studied law in Portsmouth, N. H., with Levi Woodbury as his master. James Buchanan graduated from Dickinson, Carlisle, Pa., and studied law in the office of James Hopkins, in Lancaster, Pa.

Abraham Lincoln's most painstaking biographers say that he got, all told, about a year's schooling from men whose knowledge was limited to reading, writing and figuring to the rule of three. Nor could Andrew Johnson claim any alma mater, even the humblest. Grant's biographers give all credit to West Point for his brilliant career, and his attendance at provincial public schools at Point Pleasant is counted for naught. Rutherford B.
Hayes graduated from Fremont Academy at Norwalk and from Kenyon College in 1842. He was valedictorian of his class, went to Harvard in 1843, and completed his law course with signal honors in 1845.

Garfield always gave his mother credit for being his best teacher. While he worked so laboriously on the farm he and his mother read together every book they could lay hands on. He went to a seminary in 1849 and to the Eccelesia Institute at Hiram, Ohio, and to Williams College, Massachusetts. Chester A. Arthur graduated from Union College when he was barely eighteen.

Grover Cleveland's scholastic career is familiar to every one in view of his widely published biographies since his demise. McKinley attended Union Seminary, in Mahoning county, Ohio, and Allegheny College, at Meadville, Pa.
Theodore Roosevelt graduated from Harvard in 1876.

College and university men predominate largely in the list of Presidents, and those who studied law surpass all other professions. But one, the first Harrison, had a medical training. After law the profession of arms was the entering wedge into higher politics. Andrew Johnson was the product of labor agitation and made his way into national affairs through championing labor's cause. Several were pedagogues, like Garfield, and Arthur, his succesor.

James Bryce, present Ambassador from Great Britain, who has made such a close study of American methods, has noted that, while this is the greatest commercial and industrially developed country on the earth, no business person has yet been able to reach the goal of the Presidency.

OAHU GIBRALTAR OF THE PACIFIC

Referring to the world's cruise of the Atlantic fleet, the Long Branch (New Jersey) Record says:

"With our battleship fleet sailing bravely on, we needn't worry about any navy that is afloat or can be set in motion for the next year in the seas where our interests may be in danger.
And after the fleet returns to the Atlantic neither Japan nor any other power, even with Brazil to aid in furnishing battleships, will be able to forestall us in the Gibraltar of the Pacific. Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, is being rapidly and effectually fortified, and when the work for which Congress has liberally provided is done there we shall have a naval base in the Pacific, making it practically impossible for an enemy to threaten our western shore."

"Pearl Harbor is one of the finest natural havens in all the world. It is so formed that ships riding there can not be seen from the sea. The improvements to be made will include a drydock suitable for the largest warship we shall construct for many years to come, with ample coaling, supply storage and repair facilities, so that Pearl Harbor will become a model station of its kind. Although located 2000 miles from our coast, a few scouting and fighting ships having rendezvous there will do more to secure safety for all our westward possessions than the most elaborate chain of land fortifications it would be possible to construct along the coast. The work in hand now should have been done long ago, but, better late than never."

PARIS PLAGUE OF UGLY FLIES.

Paris is suffering from a plague of curious flies, known as St. Marc's Biblions. They are not poisonous, but are very ugly, being half an inch long, with enormous heads and feelers.
Nobody knows where they come from,
and, curiously enough, the plague is confined to Paris, and has not reached the country.

RICHEST WOMAN GIVES 30 CENTS TIPS

NEW YORK, July 25.—Poor Hetty Green is now reaping the financial whirlwind. Her brief sojourn in one of New York's most expensive hotels has gotten in its iniquitous work and undermined the financial training of years. For now, alas, Hetty—America's wealthiest woman—actually gives tips and that to the astonishing amount of nearly $4 a week. It is even whispered that she now spends nearly a thousandth part of her income. In two brief months she has thrown aside the economy of years. On the first of May she was living in a $19 a month flat in Hoboken, with all other expenses limited to $9 a week. Four weeks later the money-spending madness having seized her she was installed in a $450 a month suite in a metropolitan hotel, where meals cost $10 a day. So severe a strain was this on an income of a couple of millions a year, and the largest cash balance in New York, that she has removed to a Madison-avenue boarding-house. But the weeks of expensive life are now claiming their due, for it is stated that in her present surroundings her expenses for her dog, her daughter and herself average $40 a week. And the woman who was never known to tip until her flight into exclusive metropolitan hotel life, is now, it is stated, giving 30 cents a day to her waiter, and as much more to others who serve her. It is now announced, however, that she is to retire to her Vermont home, where her expenses will be only $20 a week. Thus has the sinister influence of New York ruined the good principles of one more worker, and now that the scandal of her tipping habit has leaked out her acquaintance for that thousand dollars a day may yet throw all prudence to the wind and hire a cab some rainy morning.

WITH U. S. MAILGeorge W. Carr, assistant superintendent of the railway mail service, has forwarded to the Board of Supervisors of Hawaii a letter from R. V.
Woods, postmaster at Kealahou, complaining that cattle are a menace to the mail carriers through wandering on the public roads at night, Mr.
Carr stating that mail contractors are compelled to do so while it is optional with the bovines. Postmaster Woods had reported as follows:"On the morning of July 2, about 4
a. m., a mail carrier, Charles Hooper, from Hookea with the mail for this office (Kealahou) was thrown out of his cart through driving over a cow belonging to a Portuguese, Joe Henriques, which was lying in the road. As this man habitually keeps eight or ten cows on the road and they are a continual source of danger to the inhabitants a petition is being got up in the neighborhood asking the Board of Supervisors at Hilo to take action in the matter.
If you would report the occurrence to them, I think it would have some weight, as, though the man was uninjured this time a serious accident causing delay of the mail might occur at any time that he has to pass that place on a dark night."The petition was from residents and taxpayers of Central Kona, begging that the present law be enforced, and stating that the public roads there are now being used as a paddock for herds of cattle and horses which are a public nuisance and dangerous for children going to and from school.DEFENSE OF STAMP COLLECTING.In a circular announcing plan for its twenty-third annual meeting to be held in Columbus, O., on July 21, the American Philatelic Association says:
"Stamps are an educational factor and stamp collecting is enlightening. There is hardly a branch of human knowledge that is not contributed to by postage stamps, and that fact can easily be demonstrated to the satisfaction of all doubting Thomases by a conscientious study for ten minutes of any common stamp—even that on the letter before you. You may glean useful information from the canceled stamp on the envelope you have just tossed into the waste basket. What is it? Why, merely a common '2-center,' with a picture of George Washington. But you have disposed of here in half a dozen words a veritable textbook of learning. The story that this common stamp tells would fill a volume, and a mighty interesting volume at that.
Pick it up and examine it closely and see if there are not a dozen questions suggested to you that you are not at once able to give an answer to. See if it does not call attention to some deficiency in your fund of information concerning your country's history, or the life, the deeds, the character of its first citizen."SYMBOL OF PERSEVERANCE.A young man, not yet out of school, who intends to make electricity a specialty, with a view to business when his school days are over, recently received from an uncle a piece of the 1858 Atlantic cable, with a note containing the following memorandum:
"It will be fifty years on August 17 since the dream of the Atlantic telegraph cable became a reality. I re-DONE BY TRYING.Nobody can tell what he can do till he tries. When a thing ought to be done the modern spirit moves us to keep working away at it until it is done. In the face of this idea the "impossible" vanishes. Where there's a will, there's a way. "If we could but rob cod liver oil of its sickening taste and smell and then combine it with two or three other ingredients we should possess the best remedy in the world for certain diseases that are now practically incurable." So said a famous English physician twenty-five years ago. "But it will never be done," he added.
"You can no more turn cod liver oil into a palatable medicine, than you can turn the Codfish itself into a Bird of Paradise." Yet he lived to admit that in WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION
the "impossible" had been accomplished. It is palatable as honey and contains all the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. This remedy is freed from the bad peculiarities Dr. Frothingham so detested, and it is precisely the splendid medicine he wished for.
Use it freely and confidently for Hysteria, Wasting Complaints, Anemia, Blood Impurities, Asthma, and Throat and Lung Troubles. Dr. W. H. B. Aikins, Physician to Toronto General Hospital, says: "I am much pleased to state that the results from using Wampole's Preparation of Cod Liver Oil have been uniformly satisfactory; it appealed to me as being prepared according to correct scientific principles." It increases the appetite and influences the digestion of food; it is delicious to take, will not disappoint you, and is effective from the first dose. One bottle convinces. At all chemistsmember the great event perfectly well.
Every window in our house was illuminated with tiny candles, and there was rejoicing everywhere. In every house was a copy of the ninety-word message which Queen Victoria sent to President Buchanan. It was a great achievement, even if it did take more than an hour to send the message. I remember going with my father on board the Niagara, which, with the English warship Agamemnon, laid the cable. There we got the four-inch piece which I send you herewith. I think it doubly valuable because Cyrus Field handled it while he spoke to my father about it. I send it to you as a symbol of perseverance, the quality which, when prompted by good judgment, must lead to success."REALTY TRANSACTIONS.Onomea Sugar Co to Hayashi Toraki-

MARINE

Two brothers, both sailors on the steamer Nocu, took unexpected baths in the harbor yesterday, but the presence of bystanders averted a tragedy. About noon one of the brothers mounted a box on the edge of the wharf. The box tilted and the Hawaiian was thrown into the slip between the Inter-Island and Hackfeld wharves. He was encumbered by his clothing and heavy shoes, but managed to get hold of a pier, where he held on. His calls for help brought numerous other sailors to the rescue, and he was hauled safely onto the wharf. About two o'clock the other brother, considerably inebriated, swung along the waterfront toward the Inter-Island wharf. He stumbled, struck a stringer and went over into the slip near the steamer Mauna Loa. The young fellow was so drunk that he barely was able to cling to the post, and some young boys ran to his rescue with a hoe. Some of his shipmates finally got hold of him and yanked him to safety. While walking down the dock he again lost his balance, and but for a timely hand which caught him, he would have taken a second dousing.

VETERAN SKIPPER CASTS ANCHOR.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Captain Marcus Harloe, a pioneer of 1850 and one of the best known veteran master mariners on the Pacific Coast, died yesterday at the home of his son, John Harloe, at 2372 Broadway, aged 75 years.

In 1850, before he was 21, Captain Harloe brought the ship Wild Pigeon from New York around the Horn to San Francisco. In the early seventies he went into the service of the famous old Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and later he went to the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, when it was owned by Goodall, Nelson & Perkins. Under Governor Perkins in the sixties, Captain Harloe was harbor master of the port of San Francisco. He was elected captain of the first battery of national guard artillery in the State and belonged to the first volunteer fire company in this city. He was a charter member of Excelsior Lodge of the Masons and a Knight Templar.

yesterday from Yokohama. She will undoubtedly be in early today, and with hard work on the part of Captain Riley and his stevedores to unload the 1500 tons of freight for this port, she may get away for San Francisco by 6 p. m. There is room aboard for a large number of passengers from Honolulu, and a large number will take advantage of the opportunity. Among those booked are Captain and Mrs. Wadhams of Port Shafter, who will go East for a trip.

A MINE LAYING CRUISER.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—By direction of the Navy Department, the cruiser San Francisco is being equipped for the laying of mines. The work of reconstructing the vessel, so far as such may be necessary, has been begun. The San Francisco will be the only vessel of the navy prepared to lay mines.

CALLAO FREIGHT LAXITY.

The English Consul General at Callao, writing on harbor conditions at that port, states that the wharves of Callao are wholly inadequate to the modern requirements of the port, and that there has been, in consequence, an extraordinary amount of accumulation of merchandise. Vessels had been detained last year for five to seven weeks before they could get alongside to discharge their cargo. It is only fair, the Consul General continues, to the Callao Muelle-Darsena Company to add that the loss of time and demurrage is not wholly their fault. The railway companies are deficient in rolling stock and yards, and the Custom House, too, is responsible for much dilatoriness, but this is now being enlarged and improved. Before Callao, however, can cope with the requirements of the trade of the port, not only will the dock require considerable enlargement, but larger bonded freight yards will have to be provided. As things are, the dock company throws all the blame on the railways, and these on the dock company, and both on the stevedores. The last-named have it all their own way and are in a constant state of strike or threatening to strike, the authorities being powerless to protect independent labor, since the Callao stevedores formed a union which enjoys a positive monopoly, making it impossible for any independent labor to be obtained. They work only when and as long as they please, and merchants and shipowners are both helpless and hopeless. At times the accumulation is appalling—goods which arrived in November, 1907, not being despatched by the end of March, 1908. Similar congestion is said to exist at Mollendo and all along the coast.—Maritime Register.

EXPLORE SOUTH SEAS.

The Hamburg-American steamship line will dispatch from Hongkong during the next few days, according to advices received from that port, the steamer Peiho, which has been chartered at a monthly rate to convey a German scientific expedition to the South Seas. Considerable refitting was necessary and this was being done at Hongkong, where the Peiho was being provided with laboratories and scientific equipment when the Royal Mail steamer Empress of India left for Victoria. Captain Vahsal, who has command of the Peiho, is said to be an exceptionally able officer and has had experience in a similar expedition which conducted its operations among the South Sea islands seven years ago. He was then chief officer of the steamer Valdivia and his services received special commendation at the end of the voyage. Professor Thilenius will be in command of the expedition and will be accompanied by nine other professors. Their investigations will include astronomy, submarine researches and all the leading natural sciences. The cost of the expedition will be met from a large legacy left by a wealthy German who died two years ago. The Peiho will leave Hongkong during the coming week. First she will go to Japan, where abundant scope is offered to the scientists. It is expected that the expedition will occupy two years.—Tacoma Ledger.

WHEN IS A SHOE NOT A SHOE?

When is a walking shoe not a walking shoe? It sounds like a frivolous question, but it is not of the family of "when is an egg?" Instead it is a question of sufficient importance to cause an unpleasantness between two nations and threatened to disrupt the athletic relations between Great Britain and the United States. The question arose at the Olympic games when the American tug of war team refused to compete with the Liverpool "bobbies" on account of the English "peelers" wearing shoes the like of which the Americans had never seen. The rules governing the competition state that ordinary walking shoes are to be worn by the competitors; so when the policemen took their places at the rope with their feet incased in footwear which was studded with "spikes" and the heels reinforced with steel the visitors naturally thought that there was something not just right about the shoes and refused to go on with the pull. On top of the previous question, then, comes the query, "when is a spike not a spike?"

To a person who has never known the British "bobbie" personally this would seem to be a knotty problem, but the cause of the trouble is apparent to those who have seen the policemen on duty and been observant enough to note the style of shoes they wear. Be it known that in the course of a week the British peelers gather in something like $6 or $7 as remuneration for his services and has perforce to be extremely economical. The pavements which they have to tread are very hard on leather, so it is customary to have the soles of the shoes studded with "tackets" and the heels surrounded with a plate known as a "heel plate."

This is the British policeman's ordinary walking shoe, and naturally they wore them in the tug-of-war. A "tacket" may seem like a spike to a stranger, but there is a wide distinction. A "tacket" is simply a nail which is driven into the sole and protrudes about a quarter of an inch. It is about an eighth of an inch in diameter, and there are about 50 of them to a shoe. "When is a spike not a spike?" comes easy after this explanation, the answer being, "when it is a tacket." At that, however, the Britishers had an unfair advantage over the other teams, although the officials probably thought that the policemen had a right to wear their regular footwear.

BRYAN COMMENTS ON TAFT'S SPEECH

LINCOLN, Neb., July 29.—Charging that Judge William H. Taft was not satisfied with the work of the Chicago convention, which nominated him as the Republican candidate for the presidency, W. J. Bryan today issued a statement in regard to Taft's speech of acceptance. Bryan said:

"The most noticeable feature of his speech is his attempt to amend the Republican platform by drafting upon it some of the planks of the Democratic platform. He is evidently not satisfied with the work of his convention and is deeply impressed by the work of the Democratic convention. He is uncharitable, however, in not giving the Democratic party credit for having pointed out the reforms which his own convention repudiated, but which he, in a half-hearted way, indorses. The speech shows that he fears the uprising which Republican abuses have caused and yet hesitates to adopt any real and substantial reforms."

A WELL-KNOWN REMEDY.

There are few people in this country who have not used, or at least heard of, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is the first thing they think of when they or any member of the family are stricken with diarrhoea, pain in the stomach or cramp colic. It has probably saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in use, and once it has been used in a home and its valuable properties become known, they rely upon it as confidently as on their family physician. Weakened Vitality Impoverished Blood

Read what Ayer's Sarsaparilla did for a well-known city missionary, who writes:

"I was for many years a sufferer from boils and other eruptions of a like nature, caused by the impoverished state of my blood. My appetite was poor and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

by observation of the good it had done to others, I began taking it. My appetite improved almost from the first dose; then my general health improved, and now it is excellent. I feel a hundred per cent. stronger, and I attribute this result to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised."

As now made, Ayer's Sarsaparilla contains no alcohol.

There are many imitations Sarsaparillas.

Be sure you get "Ayer's."

INTERESTING ANECDOTES OF LATE GROVER CLEVELAND

Hilary A. Herbert, Cleveland's Secretary of the Navy, recently gave to the Philadelphia Public Ledger the following interesting reminiscence of Mr. Cleveland's Venezuelan message and of his method of dealing with Cabinet officers, while the personal selection of Admiral Walker for his Hawaiian mission is referred to as an action on the part of the President unusual for him: "The foundation for Mr. Cleveland's celebrated Venezuelan message," said Mr. Herbert, "was the note of Secretary of State Olney to Lord Salisbury, the British Minister for Foreign Affairs. That note was written during the Congressional recess, three months before Congress convened, and before Mr. Cleveland's message was prepared. The Olney note was drafted after a consultation between the Secretary of State and Mr. Cleveland during the summer at Gray Gables, on Buzzard's bay. Mr. Olney went there, as I have always understood, to confer with the President about the Venezuelan question. The note was submitted to every member of the Cabinet. I remember distinctly I was in Washington that summer and copies of the note came to me, and Mr. Carlisle, the Secretary of the Treasury, and Mr. Lamont, the Secretary of War, and we considered the policy together.

"I remember that as the note developed it almost took my breath away, and I was inclined to oppose its presentation, but before the reading was finished I realized its force and value and I heartily approved it. Among Mr. Carlisle, Mr. Lamont and myself some suggestions were made as to amendments, perhaps slight, and my understanding is that these amendments were subsequently adopted. All the Cabinet knew for three or four months before Congress convened that this bombshell had been prepared. Nevertheless, it was kept absolutely secret. Nobody knew anything about it. As Mr. Cleveland himself said, he did not believe in doing public business on the sidewalk. The message that Mr. Cleveland afterward wrote was prepared by himself, just after he had returned from an outing. He had gone down the river on a fishing excursion, and when he got back the message was written, occupying him for two days. The message was read to the Cabinet before it was sent in. I do not remember whether any suggestions were asked or offered, the message being a condensation of the very powerful Olney note."

"Did you anticipate that war would result from the message?" "No, I do not think so, because I did not think there was enough in the controversy to cause a war between the two countries which were so closely allied in blood and business. Of course, such measures as could be taken with the means in hand to be prepared in case of trouble were taken by the Navy Department, but there was neither time nor money nor opportunity to make any extensive preparations."

"The Cabinet of Mr. Cleveland," continued Mr. Herbert, "was far more independent than the public ever has imagined. Usually each Cabinet officer transacted the business in his department without any attempt on the part of Mr. Cleveland to interfere in the routine. I speak of the Navy Department, particularly, with which I am more familiar. I do not remember that Mr. Cleveland ever asked me to make more than two assignments of officers. On one occasion he desired me to detail an officer to the port of New York, and, of course, a request from him I considered a command. The other case was in connection with the selection of an officer to go to Hawaii after the trouble began there as a result of the action of an American captain in taking possession of the Government in a manner which the President considered unauthorized. I told Mr. Cleveland I had just detailed an officer for that duty, but he said he would like to have the ablest Admiral in the service appointed. After frequent consultations with him he selected Rear Admiral John G. Walker, and I issued the order."

HILO LANGUID
OVER THE FLEET

Indifferent Whether Cruisers Visit the Big Island or Stay Away.

HILO, August 4.—Since the failure of Hilo to secure the presence here of all or any portion of the Atlantic fleet, it has been suggested by many that some effort be made to have a part at least of the Pacific fleet sent to this port, or at any rate, within sight of it, during the stay of nearly three weeks which it has been announced that the fleet will spend in Hawaiian waters in August or September. It was suggested that the committee appointed to attend to the Atlantic fleet matter should also retain their organization and proceed with the work to be done in connection with the Pacific fleet; but inasmuch as more or less dissatisfaction has been expressed regarding the method by which the committee was chosen, and some apparently have felt slighted that they were overlooked in the naming of its members, and further because the committee felt that they had no power to act in any other matter except the one for which they were specifically appointed, a meeting was called for last Friday at Fireman's Hall for the purpose of deciding whether any action should be taken, and of appointing a new committee to carry it out. At the appointed hour there was an enthusiastic swarm of mosquitoes in attendance optimistically awaiting the crowds which it was supposed would gather to carry out the objects of the meeting and effectually thwart any attempt on the part of Honolulu to pose as the only rendezvous of warships in the Territory.

In the course of half an hour about ten patriotic individuals had gathered and decided that Hilo did not care whether she had anything here in the way of a fleet outside the Matson line, the Inter-Island steamers and the Jap fishing boats. Eventually a few more wandered in and it was decided to have a meeting anyhow. The gathering was called to order by Judge Parsons who stated the object of the meeting. Judge Parsons was then chosen chairman of the meeting, and it was moved that a committee be appointed to ascertain public sentiment on the matter, and if there seemed to be really any popular sentiment in favor of the project that the proper steps be taken to carry it out. Otherwise it will be dropped. Upon a general discussion of the matter, it was considered best to make application directly to Washington if anything is done at all, and it is believed from some remarks made by Secretary Garfield when he was here, that he will use his influence with the Navy Department to help in the matter. No attempt will probably be made to get more than three or four vessels here at the most, as it would be impossible to attempt to do anything in the way of entertainment for a larger number, or arrange for transportation to the Volcano.

HARRIS WILL TRAVEL.
W. R. Felter arrived yesterday on the Mauna Kea to take charge of the Hilo office of the Hawaiian Mahogany and Lumber Company as Mr. Harris will shortly make a business trip to the mainland. This enables Mr. Vickers, who has been anxious to sever his connection with the company and who resigned three months ago, to give his whole time to his other business interests.

BEERS' GOOD RECORD.
W. H. Beers, for some years clerk of the District Court in Hilo, and who has been a student at the law school of Michigan University at Ann Arbor for the past two years, has returned to Hilo, and will probably remain here. He may however locate in Honolulu. Mr. Beers finished the three years course in two years by strictly cutting out vacations and attending the summer sessions of the school as well as the regular terms.

TESTING FOR FOUNDATION.
The excavation for the foundations of the Masonic building is nearly completed. Tests, will then be made by boring to determine whether the rock remaining underneath is sufficiently sound to support the building, or whether there are too many of the air holes so frequently found in the pahoehoe rock. If the latter is the case the whole layer of rock will have to be removed and a concrete foundation put in.

GENERAL DOINGS OF
WEEK ON MAUI

Miss Julia Klumke and Prof. and Mrs. Ingalls will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lindsay of Paia during their stay on Maui. They will ascend Haleakala.

The wedding of Miss Dowdle to Mr. Campbell of Punene, which is soon to be celebrated, will be a private one, and will take place at the home of Mrs. Dowsett of Makawao.

Messrs. L. von Tempsky and W. D. Baldwin are convalescing at Punene hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cooke and children are to spend August at Kulamau. Judge and Mrs. S. B. Dole are at the Castle's summer residence above Olania.

Misses Marjory and Dorothy Freeth of Honolulu are guests of Mrs. Dowsett of Makawao.

F. F. Baldwin of Punene is building a large summer home at Makawao adjoining Maluhia, his father's residence.

The Haiku pineapple cannery is still rushed with work. It is probable that another cannery will be constructed at no distant date and some wise people state that the logical location for it is at Kahului.

W. A. Anderson, the manager of the Nahiku Rubber Co., was in town this week. The rubber trees on the plantations in the Nahiku district are making excellent progress, and everything points to a great future for the rubber industry in that locality.

Judge R. P. Quarles returned to Wailuku Saturday morning. He will remain here during the month and conduct the practice of law, and will be succeeded next month by J. Lightfoot.

G. Nakatsu of the First National Bank of Wailuku and Miss Nobue Furusho were married August 4 by Rev. G. Tanaka. The ceremony was witnessed by about one hundred and fifty of their friends.

A SETTA'S DISCOVERY.

"Link" McCandless has discovered that Hilo owes its breakwater appropriation to his effort. That may or may not be. The question however is: who discovered "Link." We can answer. A Setta some two years ago carried on a governorship popularity contest and it closed after the Lanai episode and "Link" was voted the most popular man for governor. Of course it was awfully mean for President Roosevelt not to take our advice, but that is another story.—A Setta.

MAN WITH A HOE CUT NEIGHBOR'S COW

A hoe in the hands of an infuriated Chinaman was used yesterday morning early with almost deadly effect upon a cow which had fattened during the night on his choice plants and vegetables, the affair resulting in the arrest of the Chinaman by Officer Nawahi. The Chinaman, On Lin, resides off Wylie street and his premises are used largely for garden purposes. E. W. Jordan, a neighbor, owns the cow which got loose during the night and strayed into On Lin's place, creating no end of damage. When the Chinaman discovered his loss and the wreck, he requisitioned a hoe and pursued the cow, making four deep cuts in the animal's hind quarters. One wound was so deep that the entrails were exposed.

ARCHITECTURE AND AIRSHIPS.

George Oakley Totten, Jr., of Washington, one of the American delegates to the International Congress of Architects at Vienna, delivered an address at the convention, in the course of which, speaking of the development of skyscrapers as a result of conditions in the United States, he said: "Conditions are likely to arise which will greatly influence the architecture of the future. To sail through the air is no longer a mere picture of the imagination, and the day may not be far distant when the architect will have to devote his attention to beautifying not only the fronts of buildings, but the roofs as well, so that they may not offend the eye of the aesthetic traveler through the sky."

THE ART THEATER.

There will be an entire change in the program at the New Art this afternoon, the pictures being especially selected for their quality to amuse and interest the large audiences which patronize that place of amusement. The place is crowded every night.

FREEING INOCULATED RATS.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 31.—The health authorities here have established a rigid quarantine against Santiago de Cuba, where yellow fever and two fatal cases of bubonic plague have been reported. The governments of Trinidad and Jamaica are paying eight cents a head for live rats. The rats are inoculated with virus and then given to citizens to turn loose in their houses in an endeavor to kill off other rats, to which the effects of the virus are communicated.

THE EMPIRE.

The pioneer picture show of the country is still patronized to the capacity of the house and the managers are contemplating adding an addition to accommodate the large crowds that go there every night to see the always interesting pictures. There will be an entire change tomorrow.

NEW BILLS TONIGHT FOR ORPHEUM AUDIENCE.

Tonight the new bill opens at the Orpheum and all the stars of the company, who made such great hits last week, will have new stunts to present to the audiences for the next three nights.

Hallen and Fuller will do a singing and dancing turn in their sketch "Her Sunday School Boy."

Miss Miles will sing her great song hit "Mariuccia Make-a Hoocha ma Kooch."

Wilson with his bike will, as a tramp, give a burlesque on the "Energizers."

Adonis, with the assistance of Lotie, will perform new feats, while Polk and Rinaldo, on the banjo and violin respectively, have new selections to render.

There will also be new motion pictures, the kind you like.

There are no waits in the show; everything works smoothly and the turns follow each other in rapid succession. The performance is over in good season before you have a chance to get tired and you leave with a desire for more.

It is the "go again" kind of a show that Hallen is giving us and the Orpheum is bound to hold big houses the coming nights.

There will be a big holiday matinee on Wednesday when the entire bill, including the pictures, will be given for the benefit of the ladies and children.

PORTUGUESE NEWSPAPER CRITICIZES GOVERNOR

Governor Frear has seen fit to leave the "poor common people" out in the cold, in his appointments to the Land Advisory Board. Here are the names of those he saw fit to appoint: A. Lewis Jr., W. A. Kinney, Alfred W. Carter, Carl S. Smith, S. M. Kanakani, J. P. Cooke and W. B. Thomas. Seventy-five per cent of the homestead business of the Territory is done with the Portuguese who have either become naturalized or have taken out their first papers. Still Mr. Frear missed one good chance of doing justice by these people. In Honolulu there are a good many prominent Portuguese-Americans. He could for instance, have appointed the Hon. A. D. Castro, one of the brightest members of the last House of Representatives. In him the people at large would have a champion to advocate their interests. As it is, the board as constituted is, in the majority, a pretty good sample of planters' men.—A Setta.
