THE S. S. CHINA'S BIG LOAD

OVER A THOUSAND PASSENGERS ON BOARD.

Record Breaking Trip of the Big Steamship—Quarantine Restrictions Removed—Many Notable People.

The Pacific Mail steamship China, Capt. Saunders, arrived from Yokohama bright and early this morning, with 1063 passengers between her decks, and all the freight that could be crowded into her, including a partial deckload. She brought for this port 13 European cabin passengers, 61 Chinese and 276 Japanese, and 40 tons of freight. She has about 195 through cabin passengers, and the remainder are Chinese and Japanese.

The passenger list is the greatest the China has ever carried. To make room for the Orientals it was necessary to utilize a great deal of the freight room, and some of the freight was accordingly piled up on deck. The big steamship is almost down to her Plimsol mark. Dr. Kelly the ship's surgeon, stated this morning that the quarters of the Oriental passengers have been kept in the best possible condition, through the untiring efforts of the steamer's stewards. Before the Japanese passengers were allowed aboard they had been two weeks in quarantine at Yokohama, under the surveillance of Dr. Eldredge, the Hawaiian inspector and had been cleansed and their baggage fumigated. Dr. Kelly speaks in the highest terms of Dr. Eldredge's good services. He says that the smallpox is entirely under control in the Japan ports of entry.

The Board of Health held a meeting after the arrival of the China this morning. Dr. Day had been aboard and reported favorably. After hearing the reports from Dr. Eldredge, it was decided to remove all quarantine restrictions from the steamship. The dock was accordingly thrown open at 10 o'clock, and all cabin passengers allowed ashore. The Chinese and Japanese were, of course, removed to the quarantine station, to undergo another examination and fumigation.

The Japanese passengers are all contract laborers. They are accompanied by J. Mitsutome and Y. Yamaguchi, agents of the immigration company who engaged them. These gentlemen will see that all quarantine regulations and customs requirements are properly complied with. This lot of Japs are so well taken care of that no difficulty will be experienced in landing them.

Following is the list of the passengers from Honolulu: Rev. W. S. Ament, wife and child, Miss Wyatt, Mrs. G. Cruikshank, L. C. Lucas, G. H. Turton, J. Mitsutome, Mr. and Mrs. K. Clark, Miss Clark, R. Waraker, Y. Yamaguchi.

Among the through passengers are many of note and some of international reputation. They are: Rev. Dr. J. H. Barrows, the noted Chicago divine who has been in India on a special mission to study the native creeds. He is accompanied by Mrs. Barrows and Miss S. B. Barrows.

Admiral Tirpitz, of the Imperial German Navy, who has been in command of the China sea squadron, but who has been called home to accept a Government portfolio, equivalent to that of Secretary of the Navy in the United States.

Governor Irmer, of one of the German island possessions in the Orient, on his way home on a visit.

Rev. A. Lutoiron, a noted Russian padre.

The Misses Hunt, daughters of United States Consul Hunt, of Yokohama.

D. E. Burne, an English banker who has spent many years in India, and who has many thrilling adventures to relate. He is accompanied by Mrs. Burne.

ORGANIZED FOR PLUNDER

REPORT OF THE MAFIA FORMED ON MOLOKAI.

Recent Murder There a Crime Committed by the Band of Outlaws—About the Leper Unfortunates.

R. W. Meyers, superintendent of the Molokai leper settlement, is in the city for a brief rest. He will remain until the latter part of May when he will accompany the Board of Health on its regular semi-annual visit to Molokai. Mrs. Meyers accompanied him and the aged couple are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. William Mutch of Kalihi. Mr. Meyers was about town this forenoon renewing old time acquaintances. He states that things are progressing nicely in the settlement and that 1400 odd lepers are being treated. "We give them every possible care and attention," said Superintendent Meyers, "and I do not believe that there is any country on the globe that treats its unfortunate lepers with as much kindness and consideration as does Hawaii."

But numerous complaints are being constantly received by the Board of Health from lepers under your charge?"

"I am perfectly well aware of that," replied Mr. Meyers. "These lepers have nothing to employ their time, so the write communications to the Health Department embodying all their troubles. Most of them are nonsensical, but I admit that there are grounds for complaint at times, and I always try to remedy the wrong. I am getting old and expect to retire soon," continued the Superintendent. "I am serving the Government the best I know how."

In speaking of the terrible murder of a Chinese storekeeper and a brutal assault upon his wife in Molokai recently by three natives who have been arrested Superintendent Meyers states that it is just one of the acts of a Mafia organized among certain Hawaiians on Molokai who are not lepers. "Life and property is really not safe among these people," Mr. Meyers said. "They have been burning down some houses, destroying property and assaulting people generally of late. The band of outlaws seem to confine their depredations to the white and Chinese residents. They do not interfere with their countrymen in the least bit."

Deputy Marshal Hitchcock, who went to Molokai recently to hunt for Noah, an escaped murderer, remained on the island sometime looking into the situation. He will make a report to Marshal Brown.

IMMIGRANTS CLAIM BIG MONEY

WANA OVER NINETY THOUSAND YEN DAMAGES.

The Cruiser Naniwa Coming with Councillor Akiyama on Board—Captain of Steamer Puts in a Claim.

The Japanese cruiser Naniwa left Yokosuka at 1 p. m. April 20th—four days previous to the China. She has Councillor Akiyama, of the Japanese Foreign Office, on board. The vessel also brings three of the rejected Japanese immigrants, whose presence is necessary, it is said, to give evidence in the proposed investigation to be conducted by the Japanese commissioner. The ship also shelters two Japanese newspaper correspondents.

The Japanese newspapers are printing a great deal of matter regarding the rejection of the Japanese immigrants. The Mail says:

"The Naniwa is to leave today for Hawaii. In the absence of telegraphic communication with the islands, the people of Japan will have to possess their souls in patience. Probably a month will elapse before they obtain any clear information as to the course of the negotiations opened by direction of Count Okuma. It is said that the Emigration Company of Kobe claims 320,000 yen for every man turned back. The sum of 320,000 yen is to cover all the expenses incurred by the emigrant on account of traveling, outfit and so forth. It sounds a good deal. The Kobe Company had 313 emigrants returned, so that its total demand amounts to 97,936.18 yen."

"Count Okuma having demanded of the Hawaiian Government an explanation, through Minister Shimamura, a reply was recently given by that Government and conveyed to Tokyo just after Councillor Akiyama had left for Hawaii. From the reply it appears that the Hawaiian Minister for Foreign Affairs has given up the reasons he had maintained at first, and does not say anything about the cash in the emigrants' possession. Referring to free laborers he says that they had a contract guaranteeing employment immediately after their landing, and therefore they were not really free laborers, but contract laborers who ought to have been sent out after having gone through all the steps provided in the Treaty and that inasmuch as they had not gone through such formal proceedings they were illegal emigrants who could not be permitted to land. But as they had actually the regulation cash of $50 each, according to the Treaty, the Hawaiian Government has, in fact, no reason to object and to their landing, whatever contract they might have made with the emigration companies. The fact that they had an understanding with the emigration companies that they should be given some kind of employment cannot afford any pretext for saying that they are not really free laborers. The Japanese authorities are, therefore, said to have found more than ever strong reasons for putting the onus of the question upon the Hawaiian Government."

"Another report from Mr. Shimamura, Minister to Honolulu, arrived on the 19th by the S. S. Coptic. It is written in English and Japanese, and contains more than 100 pages. Director Takata, of the Commercial Bureau, examined the report and passed it round to Count Okuma afterwards. As the report might have disclosed facts more clearly than hitherto known, although no outsider can pretend to know its contents, it is believed another instruction will be given to Mr. Shimamura."

"The S. S. Shinshu Maru has presented to the Foreign Office, through the Osaka Fuchō, an estimate of her damages, at the rate of more than 320 yen per day sustained on account of the Hawaiian Government's refusal to land emigrants."

A Kobe dispatch to the Jiji, dated April 20th, states that some 300 contract emigrants raised by the Hiroshima Emigration Company in accordance with the regulations of the countries concerned, will be sent to Hawaii by a steamer which will leave Yokohama on April 23rd, and that some 125 emigrants raised by the Koyama Emigration Agency will go by the steamer China, leaving this port on the 24th.

The Asahi states that Count Okuma, Minister for Foreign Affairs, is prepared after the present Hawaiian trouble is settled, to demand the revision of the existing emigration regulations or the concluding of a special agreement on the part of the Republic, so that no friction may arise in the future.

The steamer Hakusan Maru, which was to take Japanese laborers from Yokohama and Kobe, has been sent to Karatsu.

Messrs. Segawa and Yoshikawa, representing the whole of the Japanese emigration companies, have received permission to go to Hawaii by the Naniwa.

The warship Naniwa left Yokosuka on the 20th, carrying Councillor Akiyama, of the Foreign Office, who is expected to conclude his mission and return home in about three months."

INSTRUCTIONS TO MINISTER.

According to the vernacular press, Count Okuma, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, has issued the following instructions to the Japanese Minister in Hawaii:

"1. The Hawaiian Government, in refusing to permit Japanese immigrants to land, put it out of the power of the Japanese Consul to adopt measures for their protection and to discharge other necessary functions. Its action must be regarded as contrary to the Treaty."

"2. The measure taken by the Hawaiian Government to prevent the Japanese immigrants from placing the matter in the hands of legal advisers, amounted practically to undue interference with individual rights of the Japanese, and must also be a violation of the Treaty."

"3. The fact that the Hawaiian Judiciary, in conformity with the position taken by the Executive, refused to entertain the suit at law instituted by the Japanese whose landing had been prevented, must be recognized as a violation of the legal rights secured to the Japanese by the Treaty."

LAST SAD RITES.

Funeral of the Late Mrs. Henry Waterhouse.

The sudden death of Mrs. Henry Waterhouse at the Peninsula early Saturday afternoon has cast a gloom over the city. The sincere sympathy of the community goes out to the grief-stricken husband and heartbroken children in their bereavement.

Many of the closest friends of the family were not aware that Mrs. Waterhouse was ill and the news of her demise came like a thunderbolt to them. Her illness lasted but one short week but not until Friday was her condition considered anyway serious. Early Saturday morning she had a sinking spell but seemed to rally. Later in the morning Dr. Herbert and Dr. Day were sent for. The end came a few minutes past 1 o'clock. All the members of the family were at the bedside.

Mrs. Waterhouse succumbed to a slight disorder and a high fever, her pulse being 106 when she died.

The body was prepared for burial and brought to the Waterhouse home on Nuuanu, in this city, Saturday afternoon. The funeral services took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the house. Rev. Douglas P. Birnie, of the Central Union church, read the Bible and Rev. H. W. Peck, of the Methodist church, offered prayer. A quartette composed of Mrs. Montague Turner, Mrs. E. C. Damon, H. F. Wichman and J. Q. Wood, sang "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and "Sweet Bye and Bye." Mrs. B. F. Dillingham accompanied on the piano.

The body was borne to the Waterhouse family lot in Nuuanu cemetery, where a brief service was held. The pall bearers were: President Dole, Minister Damon, Attorney General Smith, J. B. Atherton, W. W. Hall, C. P. Iauken, B. F. Dillingham and P. C. Jones. A squad of eight police officers, in command of Acting Captain Chamberlain, were the body bearers.

Mrs. Waterhouse was born February 10, 1844. She and President Dole were raised in the old Mission house that used to stand on King street. In March 1869 she was married to Henry Waterhouse. Two sons and two daughters mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother. The deceased was identified with many charitable societies and was an active member of Central Union church.

THE OWNER WANTED.

Capt. Fernandez found eight tins of opium in an alley leading off Hotel street, opposite Dr. McGrew's residence this morning. The stuff was tied up in an old gunny sack, and looked as if it had been dropped there suddenly by some one who feared detection. The captain watched in the vicinity for an hour to catch the owner, but no owner came. The stuff awaits an owner at the police station.

MAY DAY CELEBRATION
 THE GLEANERS ENTERTAIN A LARGE NUMBER.

Quite a Tidy Sum Realized—The Various Tables and Their Fair Officers—Everybody Had a Good Time.

A snug little sum was realized by the Gleaners' society at its May Day celebration on the lawn of the Castle home on Victoria street on Saturday afternoon. After all bills have been paid it is estimated that about $300 will be left over for the treasury.

The festivities began about 3 o'clock and lasted until 5. It began to rain before the party had broken up and a number of the ladies had their dresses soiled. The Hawaiian band was stationed in one corner of the lawn and provided music for over two hours.

Near the gate was the candy booth,
 presided over by Mrs. Charles H.
 Atherton, assisted by the Misses Carrie Lemon and Helen Sorenson. Over $40 was taken in at this stand.

Miss Parke was in charge of the fancy table. She had for assistants
 Mrs. E. C. Damon, Mrs. W. F. Fear, Miss
 Margaret Hopper and Mrs. Day.
 The tea booth was presided over by Miss Adele Widdfield. Her assistants were Miss Campbell and Miss Snow.
 The Misses Ethel Smith, Mamie Widd-field and Ethel Lamson supplied the soda water. Mrs. C. A. Brown and the Misses Carrie and Bessie Afong had the flower booth; Mrs. Willard Brown and Miss May Damon the soap bubbles; Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Atwater and Miss Harriet Forbes the baby show, and Mrs. H. H. Williams and Miss Sax-ton the ice cream booth.

All in all, it was a most enjoyable affair.

LINCOLN'S BOYHOOD.
 A Playmate Who Saved Him From Death
 by Drowning.

The child's life during the time the family lived in Kentucky appears to have been entirely uneventful. He helped his mother after he was 3 years old in the simple household duties, went to the district school and played with the children of the neighborhood. The only one of young Lincoln's playmates now living is an old man, nearly 100 years old, named Austin Gollaher, whose mind is bright and clear, and who never tires of telling of the days Lincoln and he were little tikes and played together. This old man, who yet lives in the log house in which he has always lived, a few miles from the old Lincoln place, tells entertaining stories about the president's boyhood.

Mr. Gollaher says that they were together more than the other boys in school, that he became fond of his little friend, and he believed that Abe thought a great deal of him.
 In speaking of various events of minor importance in their boyhood days Mr. Gollaher remarked, "I once saved Lincoln's life." Upon being urged to tell of the occurrence he thus related it: "We had been going to school together one year, but the next year we had no school because there were so few scholars to attend, there being only about 20 in the school the year before. Consequently Abe and I had not much to do, but as we did not go to school and our mothers were strict with us we did not get to see each other very often.
 One Sunday morning my mother waked me up early, saying she was going to see Mrs. Lincoln, and that I could go along.
 Glad of the chance, I was soon dressed and ready to go. After my mother and I got there Abe and I played all through the day. While we were wandering up and down the little stream called Knob creek Abe said: 'Right up there,' pointing to the east, 'we saw a covey of partridges yesterday. Let's go over and get some of them.' The stream was swollen and was too wide for us to jump across. Finally we saw a narrow footlog, and we concluded to try it. It was narrow, but Abe said, 'Let's go on it.'"

"I went first and reached the other side all right, but about half way across,
 when he got scared and began trembling.
 I holloed to him, 'Don't look down nor up, nor sideways, but look right at me and hold on tight.' But he fell off into the creek, and as the water was about seven or eight feet deep, and I could not swim, and neither could Abe, I knew it would do no good for me to go in after him. So I got a stick—a long water sprout—and held it out to him. He came up, grabbing with both hands, and I put the stick into his hands.
 He clung to it, and I pulled him out on the bank, almost dead. I got him by the armpits and shook him well and then rolled him on the ground, when the water poured out of his mouth. He was all right very soon. We promised each other that we would never tell anybody about it, and never did for years. I never told any one of it until after Lincoln was killed."—

MONDAY, - - - - - MAY 3, 1897.

The story of the Japanese emigrants who were returned does not hang together very well. In an article of April 23, the Japan Advertiser says: "All of them (the emigrants) were found to possess over fifty yen in gold in their pockets, and yet they were rejected." While on the 24th it is stated that the returned emigrants on board the Coptic are "in a distressing condition on account of funds." As the return passage was only fifteen yen, and for this the Sakura Maru became responsible, it is not clear how the emigrants could be destitute when they landed in Japan. The fact appears clear enough that they never owned the fifty yen in gold, but that it was returned to the rightful owners as soon as it was found that the Hawaiian Government did not allow them to land. The statement is directly into the hands of our Government, as are also some others circulated, notably that those Japanese who did land, were allowed to do so after bribing the officials. Statements of this kind recoil on the heads of those that make them.

CROWN LANDS.

Julius Palmer, in a letter to the Washington Post, has a good deal to say upon the subject of Crown Lands. His letter is headed: "Can We Annex Hawaii?" and he distinctly says at the commencement, "I, and I alone, am responsible for these sentiments."

Julius has an idea that what used to be called Crown Land are the private property of the ex-Queen and that only she can give a title to them. Failing the Queen, they would eventually descend to each individual Hawaiian. Julius has taken a notion that the principal and income of these lands has been applied by the ruler for the support of the people of Hawaii. The latter is so brilliant a proposition that Julius enlarges upon it and has a vision, in the event of annexation, of each individual Hawaiian receiving, as a pension, his share of the income that had "been applied by the ruler for the support of the people of Hawaii." It is a beautiful vision, but it will ever remain a vision in Julius' teeming imagination.

One reply is always ready for such twaddle as this. Deposed monarchs have no territorial rights. This can be illustrated by countless cases from the history of Europe, where deposed monarchs have played their little play in almost every capital of Europe. Deposed English monarchs have been the pensioners of France and deposed French monarchs have been the pensioners of England. Napoleon III. was wise in his generation. When the crash came he had money in the English funds and a comfortable mansion at Chislehurst. Had it not been for that he would have been a beggar, for no one in France would have advocated his rights to any private property in that country. Indeed, there was a grand sale of Imperial effects. The Empress Eugenie had to fly with only a hand satchel, and she did not recover even a pocket handkerchief or a single ring of either her wardrobe or her jewels which she had left behind. The Hawaiian Government behaved in a very different manner. It never touched a stiver's worth of the ex-Queen's private property, and has allowed her the freedom of traveling abroad and drawing funds from her property here to be used by such men as Julius Palmer to intrigue against the Government here, and to vilify everyone who is connected with the Hawaiian Republic. Between what might have been and what is there is a wide gulf which Julius does not appreciate. The position of the ex-Queen in the United States would have been very different if, instead of living at her own expense in Washington, she had reached that city begging for a lodging and pecuniary assistance—as many a deposed monarch has done before her. Julius would not have enthused so much had he had to take the hat round, instead of living at free quarters.

Now with regard to the Crown Lands. "They were no private property of the Monarch, had they been they would have been sold long ago. They were national lands, to be administered for the benefit of the occupant of the throne, who was entitled to receive the revenues of said lands only by virtue of his or her official position as Chief Magistrate. The Kalakaua dynasty had no claim on them whatever by the general law of inheritance. In fact, no claim of that kind exists at present.

"In the legislative session of 1896 it was suggested that the vested rights in the Crown Lands, should be provided for by issuing bonds, the interest of which should be equal to the annual receipts from said land, and which should expire at his death."

"The object of this proposal was to enable the Government to open up these valuable lands, embracing 576,000 acres, to settlement by industrious farmers of small means."

The above sentences are quoted from Professor Alexander's letter to the Attorney General, dated March 31, 1893, and forwarded to the Hon. J. H. Blount, April 12, 1893.

Professor Alexander has for years devoted himself to the land question of Hawaii and has written at large on the subject, besides appearing in Court as a witness, innumerable times. His views on such a question are sound. Thus, it is evident that upon the abolition of the office for which the revenues of the Crown Lands were appropriated, the lands have escheated to the Government, and the latter has legally exercised its right and opened them up for settlement, to the very great benefit of the Republic of Hawaii.

LABOR.

There seems to be a slight hitch relative to the carrying out of Mr. Fitzgerald's scheme for introducing white labor upon the plantations. This hitch can be met. It is true that the Government has no funds at its disposal for this purpose, and that it cannot have until the meeting of the next Legislature, but the necessary funds could be supplied by the planters themselves. It is a case where urgency is necessary. The Hawaiian Government and every one who is interested in making a living here—and that includes every one who is resident upon the islands, and more especially those who have children coming after them—know that we need every friend that can be enlisted in the cause to help us to maintain our prosperity. A place may be naturally fertile, may be blessed with an excellent climate, but there may be circumstances which will almost nullify those natural advantages.

It is conceded on all sides that a change must come over our labor system. It is necessary from an economic, as well as from a political view. The change cannot be made in an instant; it is no case of clapping hands, and presto! the Asiatic laborer is changed for the white cultivator; it will take time and care to carry out the plan. What is needed, at once, is to show that the planters as a body are willing and anxious to make the change in perfect good faith; that they are not using the plan as a stalking horse to obtain what they desire, and then drop it like a hot potato and return to former methods.

We have now an opportunity of allying ourselves with a party of immense strength. As has been shown in these columns, we have already very strong backers; but however strong we may think we are, we need every friend we can make. If we can show our good faith to the labor organizations of the United States we obtain a backer whose power is little understood by many here. It is true dividends will not be so large, but it is better to have less dividends than none at all. That is the question at issue. The die will be cast in a couple of days.

Among the many schemes for celebrating the sixtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's reign is one which will recall the incident of the Armada. Every prominent hill top, in Great Britain is to have its bon fire and the light is to flash from peak to peak from the pleasant hop fields of Kent to the bleak cliffs of Cape Wrath, and from Land's End to John o' Groats. It will go on a happier and more peaceful mission than that which Macaulay's celebrated fragment describes in the lines that make the salient points of English landscape pass before one's eyes. But had it not been for the fighting days of good Queen Bess it is doubtful whether Britishers would now be celebrating the anniversary of next month. England might have remained an appendage of Spain, and be as far behind the world as Spain is now.

It is a pity the Board of Health was not decisive in its action with regard to ordering school teachers to report cases of sore throat to the Government Physician. No effort should be spared in guarding against the spread of diphtheria.

Champion Roasters

are a very necessary article when housewives use gasoline or Blue Flame Oil Stoves, and desire to utilize ovens to a greater capacity than the stove will allow. These roasters are made especially to be used over an open fire for roasting meats, fowl or fish. By placing it over the flame for four or five minutes, it becomes as hot as any one desires. Being constructed D shaped, with the flat surface to the fire, a door at one end sufficiently large to admit good sized roasts, housekeepers find it indispensable. Price $2.50.

Stroud's Self-Basting Pan is another very useful contrivance. It is constructed of two pans, one setting inside the other. The lower pan is filled with water. In the upper pan, porcelain lined and nicely perforated, is placed the roast or fowl. The steam arising from the heater does the basting to perfection. $1.50 buys this baster.

Indian Curry

is to the people of the East, What Catsup or Worcestershire Sauce is to those of the West.

Anyone who has traveled in Japan, China or the East Indies knows that there is no more palatable dish prepared than curry and rice, or the many other ways in which it is brought into use by residents of those countries.

The demand is so great that inferior preparations are placed on the market and sold to the uninitiated as the real article.

"While the palate is still hot with a curry, an unflavored dish seems insipid."

No one has ever disputed the fact that the people of the East know how to, and do, live on the best the land affords.

HUMORIST LINCOLN.

His Entertainment Made a Decided Success.

The entertainment given by Frank Lincoln, the story teller and humorist, at the opera house Saturday evening was a surprise and delight to those who were present. Evidently the usual crowd of theater goers had underrated Mr. Lincoln's powers as an entertainer, for the house was the lightest one of the season. But the few who did go, to have a jolly laugh, were not disappointed. Mr. Lincoln is certainly a very funny man, and one of apparently endless versatility. He knows how to make the public laugh and how to keep them in the best humor while he is before them.

Undoubtedly Mr. Lincoln has few, if any, peers as a mimic. His ability to depict almost any character, male or female, both in action, speech and gesture, without the aid of grease paint, costumes and scenery, is simply wonderful. He is possessed of a fine voice, too, of which one just hears enough in his sketches to make him anxious to hear more. While he pretends to know nothing whatever of written music, Mr. Lincoln showed himself to be an adept at the piano, producing all sorts of weird accompaniments for his sketches.

Mr. Lincoln varies his entertainment with comic songs in various languages, character sketches, stories, and a hundred other side splitting humors. Clad in evening dress he appears alone before his audience, and gives his entertainment without any assistance whatever. It took him less than five minutes on Saturday night to capture his audience, and the continuous round of laughter and applause that warmed the house, told better than words that they were willing prisoners.

Mr. Lincoln will give an entirely new bill on Tuesday evening. He ought to have a crowded house.

LETTER FROM MR. YOUNG.

Editor Star: Being one of the many who wish to contribute to the fund for a memorial hospital, kindly allow me space in your columns to correct what seems to be a mistaken impression in the minds of many of our citizens.

It is wished by the British residents in Honolulu to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria by erecting and endowing, so far as may be possible, a cottage hospital for incurables resident in these islands, where such unfortunates could be placed and kept by the various charitable institutions or by individuals interested in the welfare of the patients; such cottage hospital to contain from six to ten beds and quarters for nurses, etc.

The objects of the proposed institution are: 1. To prevent the recurrence in our community of consumptives and others similarly afflicted, who can not be received at the Queen's Hospital dying and uncared for, as has too often been the case in this city.

2. By thorough sanitation in and around such institution, to minimize the danger to the health of the community from contact with the unfortunate sufferers. In connection with the above the presence of consumptives, during the last stages of the disease, in boarding and lodging houses, is undesirable, nor is the washing of their linen together with that of healthy families and individuals, as washing is done here in cold water, a desirable thing.

The idea of erecting equipping and maintaining a large hospital, where consumptives from all parts of the world are to be sent, is no part of the proposed plan.

As it is the intention to extend the benefits of the proposed institution to all nationalities, let donors of every nationality feel assured that his or her donation, be it large or small, will be thankfully received and made part of the fund set aside for the commemoration of the 60th anniversary of the glorious reign of a good and virtuous Queen.

ALEX. YOUNG.

WAS NOT TO BLAME.

Editor Star:—I noticed in your issue of last Saturday, in an article on the escape of two prisoners from the Station House, a reference to my neglect of duty at the time, and further that I was in the street having my picture taken.

This is absolutely untrue. My duties call me to different parts of the Station House, as well as to the stables, and on this occasion I was superintending certain work on the fence in front of the Station House and had nothing whatever to do with any camera flash, who might have been in the vicinity at the time.

The Marshal has exonerated me from any blame in the matter and I would be deeply obliged to you if you would, by publishing this place the facts before the public as they really are.

A SHREWD DEVICE.

There Was a Time When Banking in Arkansas Was Rather Exciting.

Banking in the northern part of Arkansas was a hazardous business in the early days, and it some of the towns where there are no railway connections it is so still.

"When we borrowed money for our bank," said a banker to a representative of The Free Press with whom he was talking over old times, "I used to go to the neighboring town and get the gold. Then I had to carry it by stage over the mountains to one place. Of course I took mighty good care that no one should know, if I could help it, just when I was to make these trips. I also kept it as secret as possible what my reasons were for going to the other town, talking about mortgages, investments, business matters and everything except transporting gold."

At first I would take the bag of gold, just as it was given me in the bank, put it on the seat of the stage, place a rug over it and use it for a pillow, endeavoring to snatch a little sleep during that long night ride. One day somehow I got nervous. I guess it was that mysterious sixth sense some people talk about that worried me. Anyhow I was just trembling all over when I thought of the journey and the gold. I never felt the least bit apprehensive before. So I went to the grocer's and bought a bag of flour, poured out a portion of the contents and put the bag of gold well into the center of the bag of flour.

The stage rattled off, and I used my bag of flour for a pillow. I dozed off a bit, I guess, and was roused by the horses being jerked up. The next moment we—there were two other passengers—heard that dreaded command:

"Hands up!"

"We didn't hesitate, and up went our arms. They went through us all and got several dollars and a couple of watches. Then they examined the grips and looked at the bag. I trembled as they opened it and the flour poured out. To my joy, they did not examine the bag further. Finally they departed, and I tied up the bag with feelings of profound gratitude, for had they taken the gold I would have been financially ruined."

"You've lost some of your flour, mister," said one of the passengers.

"Yes," I said, "but they left the most valuable flour in the bag."

"And truly they left $15,000 in coin. That was the nearest I came to going under in the early banking days. But for my unaccountable nervousness, caused by premonition or whatever you may call it, which led to the little device of the flour bag, the robbers would have reaped an unexpected harvest."—Detroit Free Press.

Experiments With Melinite.

In experimenting with the new explosive, melinite, some most interesting facts were brought to light. Three wells were sunk on the slope of three hills. There was an interval of 100 yards between two of them and slightly more between the second and third. The wells were square in form and 26 feet deep. At the bottom there was a chamber arranged to hold 30 cases of the explosive, each case containing 110 pounds; 3,300 pounds of powder were put into one of the chambers, and 2,750 pounds of melinite were placed in the other. The powder was ignited by an electric current. A terrific roar and rumbling, then a great column of smoke covered the place. When this had cleared away, it was discovered that the entire face of the locality had been changed in appearance. Enormous masses of rock were thrown to the bottom and opposite side of the ravine; in some cases pieces as large as 35 cubic feet were flung out like marbles. The road was obscured, vegetation had entirely vanished, and the surface of the ground was covered with rocks and earth.

An hour afterward the melinite was exploded. The noise was louder than the charge of powder, and the earth was seriously shaken at 500 yards distant from the place where the explosion occurred. The peculiarity of this explosive was that instead of large masses the rock was reduced almost to fragments. It was difficult to find a piece larger than a man's fist, so completely was it disintegrated, and the earth was opened for some distance. A notable feature of the explosive was that in wide fissures, where the rocks remained apparently intact, they were so loosened and crushed by the explosion that the slightest touch precipitated them down the ravine, where they crumbled into little pieces. This experiment has attracted a great deal of attention, especially from the fact of the power of the melinite to crush rocks into such small bits, a peculiarity hitherto unknown in experimenting with explosives.—New York Ledger.

REGIMENTS TAKE A GAME

LARGE AUDIENCE WITNESS ONE-SIDED AFFAIR.

Twenty to Six Was the Score—Unruly Conduct in the Field and Grandstand Mars the Game.

By a score of 20 to 6 the First Regiment ball players won their match with the St. Louis College team at Makiki on Saturday afternoon. The game was in the nature of a surprise to the greater number of the 500 spectators, who, having seen the Regiment club go down in horrible defeat the Saturday previous, anticipated a much severer defeat for the military laddies at the hands of the College students.

If anything, the Regiment team was crippled somewhat by the absence of Kiley, the catcher. He has a badly bruised hand and hopes to be able to take his position within a fortnight. Davis, who has taken his place, caught a fairly good game Saturday. Banner did excellent work in the pitcher's box. His place as shortstop was supplied by Kaanahi, a new player. Scanlon, occupying first base, won favor in the first inning by a beautiful fly catch. He played an excellent game throughout. Ex-Captain Moore held second base and Captain Gorman third. The field, comprising O'Connor, Luahwa, and Sinclair, did good work. The batting done by the Regiment boys was clever. Moore and Reimer distinguishing themselves.

The College boys showed a general weakness and especially so in batting. Lemon, Miller, Thompson, Gleason and Amahi were unable to make a base hit during the game. Chris Willis was himself and scored six outs on first. Catcher Akina retired from the game after the fourth inning. His playing was bad at the beginning of the game. Fitcher Lemon's balls were easy for the Regiment players, they being able, apparently, to knock them where they pleased. Captain Thompson on second did fine work in putting five men out on his base. Gleason on third was heard from occasionally. Simeron, Hansman, and Woods, in the field, made several errors.

The Regiment team put up a much better game than it did in the match with the Stars one week previous. The College boys did not seem to be in the best of form. At next Saturday's game the Star's and St. Louis College boys will cross bats.

One very disagreeable feature in Saturday's game was the coaching and hazing that came from the grandstand. Rowdiness will not be tolerated and ground rules will be adopted if necessary to suppress all vulgarity on the grounds. One or two Regiment players will also be asked to desist from their loud talking.

THE COMING WOMAN.

He dropped in at her studio late in the afternoon, although he was quite aware that she preferred to receive him in the evening in the flat which she shared with her sister artist.

She was alone and tired. Her sister—she was a portrait painter—had just gone, and she was in the act of making a cup of tea for her own use.

The tea table was an inviting one. The little kettle purred cozily. She handled the tea ball gracefully with pretty and expressive hands. He sat on the edge of his chair and stared at her miserably over the top of his teacup. When he broke his morose silence, it was to remark, with rude directness:

"The popularity of the teakettle and the chafing dish in good society seems to me a graceful recognition by women of the charm that housewifely cares still have for them. The kitchen is so attractive. Even the drawing room cannot dispense with its graces. A woman who is barred out of her kitchen by a French chef will still cling to the privilege of using her chafing dish, and in her case it is beautiful and significant that it should be so, but—"

He hesitated a moment.

"Well?" asked she politely.

"I don't see what, from that point of view, you are doing with a teakettle. You have abjured all that it stands for. You have found something better than the domestic life."

He endeavored to speak with that philosophic calm which should impart the flavor of impersonality to what he said, but there was bitterness in his tone.

"That is nonsense," responded the woman of genius crossly, for her work had not gone well that day. "Tea tables are popular because women need stimulus and chafing dishes because men like substantial nourishment. I certainly have not abjured food. Personally I adore domestic life, and I like it all the more from the fact that it is not the only career open to me. In general it adds the element of grace to the life and of graciousness to the woman when she takes up that form of existence, not because it is the only form, but because it is the sweetest of all."

"Those are very pretty views—very pretty," he remarked gloomily, "but I have not observed that you practiced them. It isn't of any particular avail for salvation to assent with one's intellect to any orthodox doctrine while one's actions are still heretic. You have refused the things that are the best of all."

"Who said I had refused them?" she demanded impatiently. "You wouldn't have me marry the wrong man just to show that my views upon the woman question were conservative, would you?"

"That is an easy thing to say, but you know you will never find the right one."

She looked at him—a curious, measured, wondering gaze. There was scorn in it, but was it all scorn? "No," she said slowly, "I am not unenlightened enough for that. I intend to let him find me, even though we play at hide and seek together all our days." It was rather difficult for this man to admit an important idea off-hand into his mind, but something in her voice stirred him so that he sprang to his feet.

"Do you mean—would you really listen?"

It was half an hour later before it occurred to him that all this was violating precedent.

"Do you suppose you can be happy?" he inquired, and then he brought up the subject of the books in which the married woman of genius had always been miserable. He refrained, however, from speaking of those households which had fallen under his observation in which the husband of the genius had been dissatisfied with the cooking of the beefsteak.

"Oh, books," said she, with an infinite scorn. "Haven't you ever noticed that people write best about things of which they know absolutely nothing? Do you really mean to say that you have been influenced in this by books?"

He nodded silently. "And so you thought I did not care and would not marry you, dear?"

"I thought so. Yes."

An adorable smile bent her lips. "Don't you think you were rather hasty, not to say unkind, in adopting so completely the generalization that the artist rejects—love and with it life?"

"But if you had heard yourself talking of your work?" he cried. "You seemed to think at the one thing in the world. Every word fell like a clod on a coffin."

"Why should I not speak of art with fervor? I feel it all, and you had not offered me any career which I preferred."

"Ah, but do you, will you, always prefer it? It is not as if you were merely talented, you know, to give up."

"Give up? But I intend to give up nothing! I am afraid you are a little stupid."

"Would your mind explaining the situation to me?" he asked humbly.

"That is very easy," she said composedly. "I simply don't intend to be unequal to the combination of love and art."

The luminous brilliancy of this solution kept him silent, while she went on:

"Those women you read about, you know, were under the disadvantage of not being modern when they tried to do things. They were working against a tremendous though perhaps invisible pressure. The world wasn't adjusted so as to help them and make the solution of their problems easy. They felt that horrible weight—the pressure of the disapproval of the universe—and could not stand out against it. But with us it is different. The world is ours and the fullness thereof—at least that is what I feel about it. One has a deliciously buoyant sensation—the Lord-is-on-our-side feeling—that is in itself a guarantee of success. Then, you know, we have better health and fewer nerves than women used to have, and that makes a difference."

"But suppose," he persisted, "just suppose that you were to fail. What then?"

She puckered her brows judicially.

"One is willing to pay a certain price for the best things," she admitted slowly. "If the goods are delivered. It is possible that happiness might not be a very bad bargain, even though I paid for it with art."

"Ah, darling!" he began, but she went on. "But I shall not have to do it. I shall have my cake and eat it too."

He looked at her with an expression of admiration which almost hid his fundamental skepticism.

"You are," he said, with sudden illumination, "something more advanced than modern. You are she of whom we have heard—the coming woman."

She looked down at the pink palm which he had held fast in his own through all her self-possessed eloquence, and suddenly a wave of color rose and swept across her face.

"Ah, no!" she said softly. But he heard her. "Whether I succeed in combining love and art or not, it seems to me I have arrived!"—Exchange.

HANDLING FIGHTERS.

Arduous Labors of the Seconds at a Boxing Contest.

Patrons of glove contests often ask the question, "How do the seconds handle their men during ring encounters and what methods do they pursue in order to patch up injuries?" At any of the big bouts decided in the local athletic clubs the seconds are watched with interest, but very few enthusiasts, outside of old time followers of pugilism, know what the men behind the fighters are doing. A boxer may have anywhere from two to six seconds, but the smaller the number the better off he will be.

The moment a round ends spectators always notice one second waving a towel in the fighter's face, another sponging off his head and body, a third treating his limbs to massage and perhaps a fourth winking a palm leaf fan, or holding a piece of ice to the back of the pugilist's neck. Everybody in the crowd knows that the seconds are working hard to keep their man strong and fit, but nobody knows whether the average seconds are doing the proper things to prolong the strength of the gladiator in their corner. In short, seconding pugilists has become a science, and what may be termed expert handlers can be counted on ten fingers.

The best seconds today make a constant study of their craft. Though perhaps not versed in the study of medicine, they have been so long associated with physical training that they are seldom at a loss for the proper treatment of a pugilist who may be injured in the ring. Then, too, they make a point to know the different rule codes governing prizefights. This is the most important factor in the successful handling of pugilists, so some seconds say, for many a contest has been lost by simply the lack of knowledge of the rules. It takes a clear head to distinguish the different points embodied in the Marquis of Queensberry, London prize ring, Blanchard's Fair Play, A. A. U. and other rules drawn up for special enforcement in certain clubs, but it is a fact that one or two of the leading seconds today can repeat the rules offhand without a slip.

TIMELY TURF TIPS.

J. Malcolm Forbes has 80 horses at his Ponkapog farm.

This sideup is the striking name sported by a Grand Rapids nag.

Benton M. 2:10, will make a stud season before being raced this year.

A brother to Gil Curry, 2:09½, that will be raced this year, is called Jack Curry.

Entries for the horse show of the Riding and Driving club of Brooklyn close April 12.

Chicago horsemen are exerting every effort to secure favorable racing legislation next season.

Ohio now boasts three of the very greatest sons of George Wilkes—Guy Wilkes, Wilton and Simmons.

The Maine pacer Lucky Stride, 2:21, by Ervin M. 2:19½, has been gelded and will be campaigned again this year.

A 3-year-old brother to William Penn, 2:07½, has been given a name consisting of three letters of the alphabet.

Dollkins, 2:14½, by Robert McGregor, 2:17½, recently sold in Europe by Horace Brown, died soon after reaching her destination.

E. S. Clayton, formerly with John Mariner, Baltimore, has engaged with European parties to handle a stable of trotters on the continent the coming season.

A gentlemen's road race is to be one of the features of the meeting at Overland park, Denver. The race will be to wagon, and no horse competing in other races during the meeting will be eligible.

Scrub Colts Often Improve.

In order to insure a profit above the cost of raising and to have only large, fine horses of the highest type to place upon the market, a leading turf paper editorially suggests that it might be good policy and true economy for breeders to kill the culls when young, thus getting rid of the small and inferior youngsters. Had this suggestion been heeded in the past and had breeders killed what in their opinion was a worthless runt of a scrub, some of the most prominent and even grandest horses of this country would have died very young. Andrew Jackson, sire of Henry Clay and the founder of the Clay family, was such an inferior little fellow when foaled that his owner determined to kill him, but his wife, Mrs. Jaffries, interceded and saved the life of the future founder of a great family.

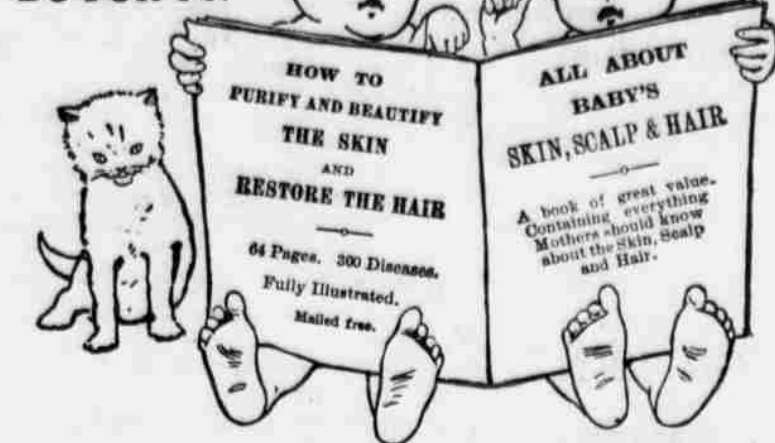

Vermont Black Hawk, one of the most elegant stallions that ever lived and the sire of Ethan Allen, who in turn sired Daniel Lambert, founder of the distinguished family of that name, was at first so small and unpromising that his breeder, Mr. Twombly, was undecided whether to kill him or give him away, and finally decided upon the latter course. —Boston Herald.

Pioneer American Trotters Abroad.

Although the American type of horse has gained widespread popularity in Europe only within the last few years, the pioneer trotter to go abroad made the voyage a long time ago. Some authorities say that Boston Blue, who, in 1818, performed the then remarkable feat of trotting a mile in 3:00 on a wager of $1,000, was afterward taken to England, where he became noted as "the slate colored American." Tom Thumb and the Tredwell mare, two of the earliest American sires of note, trotted in England before 1830. Many years later the well known trotting stallion Sheppard F. Knapp, owned by Harry Genet, was exhibited in England and France and won some match races there about the year 1865. He was subsequently kept in the stud in England, and some of his descendants figure prominently in the hackney studbook. —Exchange.
