

PLANTATIONS ANXIOUS FOR MORE RUSSIANS

Some time ago Dr. Victor Clark, on behalf of the department of immigration, requested managers of the different plantations in the Territory to furnish them with their opinions on the Russians as laborers in the cane fields, and as to whether they were in favor of having more brought to the islands.

Following are extracts from some of the replies received:

"The single Russians do not seem to care to become farm-laborers in Hawaii. Where a family is together better results are obtained."

"From what I have seen the Russians would prove to be good laborers were they carefully selected."

"I believe that the Russians would make good laborers if the right kind could be obtained. Families are what are wanted."

"I find them very unsettled."

"They seem to be good laborers and I am not unfavorable to the importation of others."

"While my experience with the Russians as laborers has been limited I would like more."

"I have now nine Russians on the payroll. One has been with me since November, 1909, and another since last June. They are good workmen and I would be glad to receive more."

"In view of my experience as an employer I am in favor of bringing more Russians here."

"I employ eleven Russians and am very pleased with them and shall always be glad to receive additional arrivals."

"If there were any possible way in which to keep the Russians here I would be much in favor of having more. Those who have stayed with us have turned out to be very good laborers."

"I have twenty Russians working for me and they are satisfactory laborers. I would approve of the policy of bringing more here."

"If actual Russian farm laborers could be guaranteed it would be a good thing to bring more."

"I employ quite a large number of Russians and am pretty well satisfied with them and would be glad to receive a few more."

"Our experience with the Russians is that they do as good work in the fields as the Portuguese and if they could be obtained more cheaply than the latter I would recommend the bringing to the Territory of more."

"If the proper kind of Russians could be secured I should be pleased to have a few."

"I have a few Russians but find them very irregular workers. Probably they would do better if clustered in larger communities."

The unfavorable replies came as a rule from the country around Hilo.

The consensus of opinion among the managers appears to be favorable to the Russian as a laborer and this opinion amply justifies the policy of the department of immigration in endeavoring to secure as many friends and relatives of the Russians now here as possible.

By this means not only will new laborers be secured but they will come with some assurance that they will remain here, for their own people will be near at hand and a home interest will soon be established which will check further migration on their part.

There is also a hope, though very slight, that as a result of letters written by Russians who are contented with their lot in Hawaii, a more or less voluntary emigration to Hawaii will in time follow.

HONOLULU APATHETIC UNENTERPRISING AND LACKING CIVIC PRIDE

"Honolulu is woefully lacking both in civic pride and local enterprise," said C. S. Desky this morning in discussing the news regarding the stationing of soldiers here, answering a question as to its effect on the real estate market. "As far as I can see, the news has had no effect. The reasons are a lack of pride and confidence among Honolulu men in their own city and the tendency to send money away for investment."

"If San Diego, or any other coast city, had received news such as this city has received, the people would go up in the air. There might be a boom, which, of course, is not wanted. But in any event the people would realize what it meant to their city, and back local enterprises accordingly."

KUHIO LEAVES AND WILL FIGHT FREAR

Governor Frear was aboard the S. S. Wilhelmina this morning till almost halting time. Delegate Kuhio, en route to Washington, boarded the steamer just after the Governor had come down the gang plank.

"Did you and Delegate Kuhio shake hands?" was the question asked of Governor Frear by a newspaperman later on in the morning.

"Why, no," replied the Governor. "I must have just missed him."

"It is clear that Honolulu is very soon to be a big city. People who invest in real estate will find themselves rich over night without turning a hand. But Honolulu money, unless it goes into sugar, prefers to seek wildcat schemes on the mainland. This is due to a lack of civic pride and a lack of confidence in the future of the city, though as a matter of fact Honolulu real estate is gilt-edged security. Any old scheme from the mainland is good to get Honolulu dollars. Any wildcat enterprise finds plenty of local investors if it is only a mainland scheme, often as the town has been badly stung. But the proposition right at hand, made more certain even than sugar by the plans of the federal government, doesn't excite interest."

would like to have shaken hands with him, for our relations have always been cordial."

However, Kuhio has gone with war paint on, and he will spare no effort to prevent Frear being appointed for a second term as governor. In fact he will put in strenuous work against Frear.

Kuhio has not come out as a candidate for the governorship himself, but it is understood that he would much like to succeed Frear.

THE BUSINESS AND POLITICAL EFFECTS OF THE BIG GARRISON

A garrison of 12,000 soldiers will mean an addition of 20,000 white people to the population of Honolulu, is the calculation of a local business man who is figuring on having his concern doubled in short order when the soldiers come. With the soldiers, of course, will come many others, including wives and families of officers. The officers will have to find their own homes, renting them, and a cottage building boom of considerable proportions is anticipated.

Many Soldiers May Vote. The political effect of the big garrison may also be very important. The Organic Act contains a provision here by reason of being in the service here by reason of being in the service shall not vote but this, it is said, does not necessarily mean that none of the garrison can vote. "We had a similar proposition in Wyoming when it was a territory," said District Attorney Breckons, when asked as to the suffrage rights of the soldiers. "It was finally held that those who announced their intention to remain as residents of the territory, after their terms of enlistment expired, had a right to vote, and under this ruling, many soldiers voted. Soldiers who enlist here, of course, have a right to vote just the same as if they were not soldiers, and under the Wyoming precedent, many others might vote."

SAID HIGH HENRY OWED HIM A THOUSAND AND HENRY KICKED

High Sheriff Henry had an interview this morning with a man named Reed, who is here in the interests of a proposed book to write up Honolulu in various ways and incidentally to publish a lot of advertisements. The interview being a result of reports that Reed had been circulating a report that Henry owed him a thousand dollars. Reed was here with Hatter, the detective whose work created a big sensation in Honolulu some years ago. He was declared to have stated to Detective McDuffie that, as a result of his work, Henry owed him a thousand plunks, and that much of Hatter's reported work was really his work.

Demurrers In Senator Case

Demurrers have been filed by Judge W. L. Whitney, Attorney General Alexander Lindsay, Jr., and Sheriff W. P. Jarrett in the suits brought against them and Edward D. Tenney, E. Faxon Bishop, Richard Ivers and William Protenhauer for false imprisonment and malicious prosecution by Liberato Gome and ten others, including four minors, who were taken off the emigrant steamer Senator upon which they were supposedly shipped by Frank B. Craig and associates for transportation to Alaska via San Francisco.

It is set up in the demurrers that the complaint is ambiguous, unintelligible and uncertain in that it does not appear whether the action is for false imprisonment or for malicious process; that it joins an action for false imprisonment and an action for malicious prosecution in one count; that the complaint does not state a cause of action in that it does not allege that the suit in which the alleged invalid process was issued has terminated; that it does not state a cause of action in that it shows an assertion by defendants of legal authority and does not set forth any allegations of fact showing a lack of legal authority, and does not state a cause of action in that, in alleging that the imprisonment complained of was unlawful, it states mere conclusions of law and no facts.

John W. Cathcart and Kinney, Prosser, Anderson and Marx are attorneys for the defendants.

MRS. M'QUAID MAKES ANSWER

In the divorce suit of William M. McQuaid vs. Charlotte E. McQuaid, two motions were filed by Lorrin Andrews for libel this morning. One is for reasonable counsel fee and alimony to defend the action, and the other to strike out of the libel paragraph 10 on the grounds that its allegations do not constitute extreme cruelty and besides are "impertinent, scandalous and irrelevant matter."

In an affidavit to the first motion Mrs. McQuaid relates her filing of a suit against her husband prior to the filing of his suit against her, in which she charged him with habitual intemperance, extreme cruelty and failure to provide. In that libel she had related her dependence upon the charity of her relatives. She goes on to say:

"That for a long time prior to the bringing of said libel she was left absolutely destitute by the said William M. McQuaid and it was necessary for her to sell and dispose of her personal jewelry and belongings in order to support herself and her children until she is at the present time absolutely without any private means of any kind whatsoever."

"That the allegations of adultery and cruelty charged against her in said libellant are untrue; but that it will be necessary in order to disprove the same that libellee be represented by counsel and have some means to pay witness.

"That, on information and belief, libellant is in receipt of a salary of $150 per month; that libellant lives in the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in ample comfort and spends his leisure time frequenting saloons, clubs and other resorts in the city of Honolulu where it is impossible to resort unless one has ample funds."

THE PLACE FOR TROOPS

The Chamber of Commerce this afternoon passed a resolution asking Congress to quarter troops at Fort Armstrong.

"MOTHER" RICE ILL. "Mother" Rice of Kauai is very ill, according to news that arrived here by wireless today by her grandsons, Hon. D. P. R. Isenberg and the Cooke brothers, and other relatives. Although the news is not definite, grave fears for her recovery are entertained, considering her great age, 63 years.

THE WILLFONG RESIGNATION IN

The resignation of Nathan C. Willfong as tax assessor of the county of Hawaii was received by Treasurer Conkling this morning.

The matter has been talked of for several days, but it was not till today that official word was received.

Willfong stated in his letter that he wished his resignation to go into effect on June 30, and that he would be ready at any time to turn over his office to his successor. He declared his willingness to help his successor in every possible way, and hoped that a good man might be found for the position.

Willfong has been the tax collector of the third taxation division of the Territory for the past twelve years.

"He has been a faithful officer," said Governor Frear of him this morning. "His successor has not been determined upon as yet."

BUILDING LAW [THIS EVENING]

An informal meeting of the members of the Board of Supervisors, the building inspector, plumbing inspector, contractors and others interested is to be held this evening at the municipal headquarters for the consideration of the building ordinance, which will probably come up for passage on first reading at the regular meeting of the board on Friday night. The ordinance is a very long one, and has been gone over and amended by many experts during the long process of its preparation. A. R. Gurrey, secretary of the Board of Underwriters and Young, the contractor, have just finished their final revision of it and turned it over to the supervisors.

SIDESTEPPING GRAFT CHARGE

Speaker Holstein has written an open letter to Editor J. F. Cowan of the Kohala Midget denying the latter's published statement that Holstein charged graft in connection with the delay in building the Mahukona wharf. Holstein says in his letter that he stated that to a layman like himself it "would look as if there was graft" and criticizes the Midget for charging graft with "not the slightest foundation."

GONE FOR MONEY

Prominent among the passengers by the S. S. Wilhelmina which left for the Coast this morning were Territorial Treasurer Lloyd Conkling and Attorney C. R. Hemenway.

They go direct to New York to attend to the flotation of $1,500,000 bonds. Conkling will do the financial work and Hemenway look after the legal end of the issue.

Registrar of Public Accounts Hapai started work as acting treasurer this morning and will continue in that capacity until Conkling's return.

ACCIDENT IN MANOA.

J. Harris Mackenzie met with an accident this morning in Manoa, but fortunately, beyond a severe shaking and bruising, it is not anticipated that serious results will follow. Mr. Mackenzie was on his way to business early this morning in his automobile when the machine stopped and Mr. Mackenzie, without putting on the brake, went to the front of the machine and cranked up. The machine bucked, the crank handle whirled back and Mr. Mackenzie was thrown to the ground, the machine passing over him. He was picked up and taken to his home, where medical aid was called in.

TWO GOVERNMENTS TRYING TO RECOVER ASIA PIRATES' LOOT

In a recent copy of the London Daily Mail Overseas edition, the following telegram appeared from the Shanghai correspondent:

"Considerable anxiety is felt as to the whereabouts of Mr. R. Arundel, a British subject, who was a water tender on board the schooner corroborated the belief that the man had not fallen overboard accidentally.

Mr. Kilmaster spent the greater part of the day in taking evidence, but when seen tonight he said he was unable to make anything public at the present juncture. Certain other evidence would be taken tomorrow, and he might then be able to disclose the facts of the case.

The police has taken no steps in the matter beyond keeping the ship under observation. — Sydney Daily Telegraph.

Glass Bottoms for Speed.
LONDON.—The idea of covering a ship's bottom with glass, in order to increase its speed and economize in the consumption of fuel, is shortly to be tested on a liner.

Schooner Kona's Rough Trip.
BRISBANE.—The four-masted schooner Kona has arrived at Brisbane, Ill., with 887,000 superficial feet of timber from Washington. The schooner took sixty-seven days to complete the journey, and had a rather trying experience. During the first three days the wild blew with the force of a whole gale, and the vessel was in serious difficulty. The deck cargo shifted to port, which gave her a heavy list to that side. The vessel was more than once on her beam ends.

James Robson, an A.B., was lost overboard during the heavy weather. He and another sailor went out on the jibboom to lash down the which had broken loose, and while they were at this work a heavy sea struck the vessel, causing Robson to lose his hold, and he was jerked over the side. Owing to the heavy weather it was impossible to attempt a rescue.

After three days the weather moderated, and fair weather was experienced for the remainder of the voyage.

Japanese Steward Lost.
NEWCASTLE, N. S. W.—An inquiry has been opened by the United States Consul, Mr. G. B. Kilmaster, on board the American schooner Makawili, concerning the disappearance of a Japanese steward who was said to have been lost overboard during the voyage from Delagoa Bay. Captain Nielsen reported that on April 23 the steward was seen on the deck.

WILLIAM P. FRYE, Am. ship, for Delaware Breakwater, May 22.

For Australia via Honolulu, May 19.

W. H. MARSTON, Am. schr., from San Francisco to Honolulu and Pearl Harbor, water-logged and towed into Port Harford, May 21.

W. J. PATTERSON, Am. scr., from Gray's Harbor, arrived May 20.

ZEALANDIA, Br. S. S., left Victoria for Australia via Honolulu, May 19.

9 the steward was missing, and a close search of the vessel revealed no clue as to how he had disappeared. However, there were certain circumstances which led to one of the ship's company being suspected of foul play, and certain marks on the railing of the schooner corroborated the belief that the man had not fallen overboard accidentally.

Mr. Kilmaster spent the greater part of the day in taking evidence, but when seen tonight he said he was unable to make anything public at the present juncture. Certain other evidence would be taken tomorrow, and he might then be able to disclose the facts of the case.

The police has taken no steps in the matter beyond keeping the ship under observation. — Sydney Daily Telegraph.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

The governors of Hawaii are chosen to suit the responsible classes that have given the Islands their civilization and who have the most at stake in the proper conduct of public and private business. So have the governors of the Philippines and Porto Rico and the ad-interim governors of Cuba. The courts of ultimate resort are manned in the same way but the legislature is usually left to the masses. This method we long ago borrowed from England and applied first to the territories and then to the insular possessions, commonly with good results. Efforts to change it so as to give the masses full control have merely emphasized dangers of such a wide-open self-government based on the capricious wishes or prejudices of an unorganized or untrained or un-American public.

But the majorities, disqualified though they may be, never fail to assert themselves against the wise precautions of the Federal power, in the matter of filling the executive and judicial posts. Everyone who has lived here a dozen years will recall the concert of action against Governor Dole, the grand old man of Hawaii—how job-chasing party committees abused him, how dishonest men were forced by a time-serving Senate into his administration and then, when their cloven hoofs were shown, how the Mitchell-Burton commission was brought here to try and bring that administration into disgrace because of them. It was all a part of the rotten game of politics, but it was as abortive as were the subsequent attempts to get Carter out and Cupid in and as we believe the present one will be to deny to Governor Frear the second term which he has earned by industry and competence and by standing off the predatory hordes which want no check put upon their appetite for graft.

Back of all the talk of getting rid of Frear is nothing but the old iniquities, the old schemes against the public weal, the old spirit of addition, division and silence. Frear is hated for his steadfastness against the wrong thing. He is feared because he cannot be frightened or bought. He is condemned because he will not truckle to the mob. But these qualities are just the ones that will make him governor again if he wants to stay; and those who are talking about "facts and figures" to be used against him will find, if a crisis comes, that the poisoned chalice which they thrust at Frear will be commended to their own lips and that the people who have most at stake in Hawaii will still have the most weight for Hawaii at Washington.

DIAZ AND AFTER.

Diaz day is done, but the fact cannot be called a hopeful sign for Mexico unless it leads to annexation. Among all the Latin American powers, Mexico, during the Diaz epoch, has been the safest place for life and property, the most secure field for foreign investment. From a region of trails and rough wagon roads, it has become one of railways and broad thoroughfares; from a land of banditti it has become one of police regulation; from a country of primitive handicraft it has developed into one of modern industry. But that is because of one man, now departing. For more than a generation, until Diaz grew old and feeble, Mexico had a peaceful government—the only Latin American state which could pass ten years without an uprising. But what now? How will the government fare at the hands of the old dictator's foes?

Under Diaz the government, though contrary to the spirit and apart from the letter of the constitution, was the kind precisely suited to the people. Not everybody is intellectually and morally entitled to be free. There are tribes and nations, as well as children, that need to be "brought up," before taking over the functions of self-government. Anglo-Saxon liberty is the growth of a thousand years and people who have no self-governing capacity cannot suddenly acquire its privileges without becoming intoxicated and forgetting its restraints. In the greater part of Central and South America, "republics" are only aspirations on paper. All that keeps the peace among their people in the intervals when there is any tranquility at all is the strong hand and the repressing influence of the oligarchies that mass themselves behind the executive chair. Freedom, as we exercise it, would mean anarchy; order in Latin America requires the mailed fist.

Diaz, having outlived his strength, makes way—for what? If for an unrestricted suffrage, then Mexico will be no safer than the black belts of the Southern States of this country would be under like conditions. One man, one vote and the vote fairly counted, would give power to the Mexican peon, ignorant, degraded, combustible of spirit, a ready recruit for any armed adventurer. Two thousand families own the land of Mexico. They are the oligarchy from whom Diaz got his strength. Perhaps they would rally around a strong man now and pacify the state! But who is the man? Not Madero, though one of themselves—Madero, a contriving politician, with many of the instincts of a bandit and little strength of character. Not Reyes, a mere rough-rider, without civic experience. Not Corral, who is a runaway from danger. Not de la Barra, who is a gentleman of the boulevards and the salons. Who? It will take time to find out, time enough for a sea of troubles to cover the land, time enough for the deluge which Diaz said would come after him. It will again be the day of factions. Already a third party is in the field with threats of a counter revolution. A quarrel between church and state is brewing. Reyes has ambitions as a soldier, which clash with the machinations of Madero. And there is no strong, conservative and potent middle class, intent upon the common good, to steady the threatened structure of the State.

Meanwhile, beyond the Rio Grande, a great power which understands its mission of civilization in this hemisphere, watches and waits.

MARKETING OUR FRUIT.

One of the uses of the market superintendent would be to place our by-products in San Francisco and other coast cities at the right time and in the right hands.

Among these products are sweet potatoes for which the coast producing season is short but which are in demand the year around. From Puget Sound to the Mexican line, during the greater part of the year, Hawaiian sweet potatoes would sell like our Kula Irish potatoes did in the early 'fifties.

Another product which the Coast would take between its own seasons are Hawaiian grapes. California, Oregon and Washington have grapes in July, August, September and October. During the other eight months they have to go without. Each month in the year Hawaii can supply Isabellas, which, to the cultivated palate, are more of a table delicacy than the tough-skinned and cloying grapes of California.

In the matter of melons we are six weeks ahead of California, and if the parasite of the melon fly is brought in we can raise enough melons for a large export trade.

The banana trade needs reorganizing. Central American bananas are bought in San Francisco by the pound and the grower receives $2.50. Hawaiian bananas are bought by the bunch and the grower gets 50 cents. A market superintendent, acting for all the local growers, could get better terms.

Sweet peppers began well but are now suffering from a pest—one of the kind that the Legislature appropriated $15,000 to fight with parasites. If the crop can be protected, San Francisco, it is said, would take 100,000 pounds per annum. Dried and pulverized, however, the peppers may still be marketed.

The Coast wants more of our horticultural specialties. It will take more alligator pears, mangoes and papaya if in good condition. A capable market superintendent, getting into touch with honest middle-

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

I saw the ostrich eating tin cans and broken glass, and lengths of canvas sheeting, and coal and chunks of brass. I called a keeper to me, and said: "This fowl will die!" "Don't be depressed or gloomy," the keeper made reply. "That bird," he said, while seating himself upon a bench, "is happiest when eating a brick or monkey wrench."

THE HAPPY OSTRICH

And yet you see him frolic as happy as a steer, he never has the colic, and never sheds a tear. Dame Nature has designed him to live on bricks and wood, and it would surely grind him to tackle breakfast food. I know his health is lasting, I know he feels all right, while he for junk and casting retains his appetite. Those moments are the saddest when strangers come along; I always fear some faddist will loom up in the throng, and urge that cassowary to live on shredded hay, and boneless huckleberry and mild denatured whey. There'll be no trouble brewing inside that critter's crop, until I see him chewing some faddist's fancy chop. I hold," remarked the keeper, "that birds and beasts and men will dodge the grim old reaper, and live as long again, if they devour the fodder for which they are designed; so let that bird eat solder and rocks and melon rind."

men could do much to stimulate these industries, and he could also tell the growers how to pack and ship to get the best results.

As to the outlook much will depend on the man in charge of the marketing, and before anyone is engaged, we trust that the authorities will take the advice of the practical agriculturists and fruit-shippers here. It may be that so good a superintendent could be had in Hawaii, outside the ranks of the politicians, as to make it unnecessary to get one from a competing fruit district far away.

Shirole found the shore ice too much for him and is telling about it in Sydney.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

PERCY POND—If 15,000 troops come here dairying interests will have to get busy.

LIBERT WRIGHT—Fifteen thousand troops would mean not less than 500 new families added to the population.

L. G. BLACKMAN—The new school at Kaimuki will be finished by September when the first term will commence.

BYRON O. CLARK—I would have had that Lelilehua land in pineapples long ago if the War Department hadn't taken it.

HARBOR OFFICER CARTER—I never saw such a lot of men wanting to get away by working as there were around the Wilhelmina this morning.

JOSHUA TUCKER—There is no public agricultural land nearer Honolulu than the vicinity of Koko Head where some may be opened by and by.

LLOYD CONKLING—I expect my ears will be burning as soon as I'm off Koko Head, that is if Honolulu follows her usual custom with departing officials.

CHARLES A. COTTRILL—I have seen how you do business here. The Mahuka site discussion shows that you can't get together on anything. That's one of the reasons why I am here.

POSTOFFICE EMPLOYEE—The Colonials can't understand why English money and Canadian bank notes don't pass current here as they do at home. Sometimes they make a lot of trouble.

CHARLEY FRAZIER—Is a wagon with advertising on it a billboard? It is "outdoor advertising" which is classed with billboards in the act just passed, and may come under the provisions of the law.

ED. TOWSE—When we had the plague quarantine camp in Kalihi in 1900 and there was a rat bounty, soldiers used to make quite a little pocket money by shooting rats in nests in algaroba trees.

Malle Blaisdell has brought a new divorce suit against William Wallace Blaisdell, and Judge Robinson signs an order to W. W. B. to appear on Friday at none o'clock and show cause why he should not deposit $17 for costs, $12 a week to his wife while the suit is pending and $100 fee to her lawyer, W. T. Rawlins.

This is another of those lamentably frequent cruelty cases which suggest thoughts of whipping post, or even of tar and feathers, to diminish their frequency. Mrs. Blaisdell relates that they were married on September 3, 1902, and during all the seven years, ending this year, her husband assaulted and beat her and was extremely cruel to her. Following are specifications, condensed, of his alleged brutality:

1905—Struck her a violent blow in the face and knocked her down, and while she was upon the floor kicked her in the side and severely wounded her.

1906—Struck her in the face and caused severe injury.

1907—Knocked her down with a blow in the face and, as she lay prostrate, kicked her on the back and about the body, causing severe wounds and bruises.

1908, 1909, 1910—Committed various assaults, struck her with his fists and hands, and otherwise assaulted and beat her.

May 11, 1911—Falsely and maliciously accused her of having had improper relations with certain persons—presented a loaded revolver at and against her head, threatened to shoot her, caught her by the throat and choked her with such violence that the flesh became discolored and she became ill.

By now she had endured all she thought she could stand from William Wallace Blaisdell, and has since been supported by her friends and relatives.

Three sons and one daughter were born of the unhappy marriage, the boys being about nine, six and five years of age, and the girl three years at date of suit. The two eldest, their mother says, are being supported by the mother of her husband, while the youngest boy and the girl were, until May 22, in her own custody and control, but on that day she says her husband, "by force and device, abducted and took away" the little girl out of her custody.

It is alleged that the libellee is employed as an engineer at the Central fire station, receiving a salary of $120 a month, and is well able to support his wife and children and to pay all the costs of these proceedings. Besides the sums mentioned in the order to show cause, Mrs. Blaisdell asks that, along with a decree of divorce, she be awarded $50 a month as permanent alimony and the custody of the two youngest children.

Judge Robinson granted a divorce to Umeo Murata against Seichi Murata for failure to provide for her during five months.

Mary Macdonald, whose complaint was summarized in yesterday's paper, this morning received a decree of divorce against Angus Macdonald for non-support and extreme cruelty.

CAMP THREE IS GIVEN NOTICE

President of the Board of Health Mott-Smith has stirred up matters insubstantial in Camp 3, which fragrant spot is situated on Frog Lane between Iliha and Nuuanu streets.

It is the first place where application of the formal notice under which court proceedings by virtue of the new nuisance act may be taken, has been made.

Camp Three has long been an unclean hole and a few weeks ago the Central Improvement Committee gave it their attention.

Four days ago President Mott-Smith visited the big tenement and found a number of nuisances which need remedying. Four days were given the proprietors in which to put matters right.

This morning Dr. Shephard and C. Charlock visited the camp to find out whether the place had been made sanitary as per instructions.

It was found that a good many things had been done but that several were still undone. These will probably be attended to in a hurry.

The Board of Health may commence proceedings any time after the four days' notice has expired, should the clean-up order have been disregarded.

Mott-Smith is undetermined at present whether he will prosecute in the case under notice or not.

LOST HILLS HAS A GUSHER

S. F. Chronicle, May 145.—The event of the last week was the coming in of a gusher in the Lost Hills. It came in on Tuesday morning on the Martin & Dudley place, on section 32, 26-21. It gushed at intervals during the day and all of Tuesday night thirty feet into the derrick through the ball, which is suspended in the hole. The oil is of 25 gravity. The well was started with a portable rig and reached the first oil sand at 640 feet. The gas pressure was so strong that it heaved the sand into the hole, so that balling was slow. The water was shut off, and the portable rig was replaced with a standard. About this time Martin & Dudley sold section 32, with other holdings in the same territory, to George Y. Cameron, representing the Crocker interests. William McLaine of the Associated Pipeline Company was made field superintendent, and continued the work. The Crocker-Cameron people have turned the Lost Hills property into the Universal Oil Company, and extensive development work will be done. This is the third completed well on the place. The main pipe lines of the Associated and the Producers' run within twelve miles of the strike.

TRADE OUTLOOK NOT UNPROMISING

Bradstreet's, May 6.—Trade and industry remain quiet to dull, with, on the whole, rather less doing than in the week preceding. Unseasonably cool weather with frosts, rains or snow north, east and west, and excessive moisture at the south, have made for quiet in retail lines and retarded crop growth or preparation to some extent. Growing grain has not been unfavorably affected; indeed, wheat and oats have been benefited thereby, and spring wheat seeding has been completed on a record area, but corn plowing and planting has been slightly retarded, as have fruit and vegetable growth, and until near the close of the week cotton planting and crop cultivation have been likewise interfered with. Lowered prices for manufactured goods, especially textiles, have evoked some response, but not enough to remove the impression that stocks in final distributors' hands are still larger than was anticipated for this stage of the season. Industry has been rather quieter, notable in this respect being building, partly because of less activity in this line and partly because of sporadic strikes, of which the industrial unrest at some centers in Chicago, where 42,000 people are idle, is illustrative. Still May 1 has brought rather less than expected disturbances, the most widely disseminated trouble being that among machinists.

In financial lines, the quiet in general business is reflected in a piling up of money supplies, which, seeking employment, find vent in a more active bond market and some increase in stock market operations. Collections generally range from fair to slow.

As to the outlook, it may be said that while the tendency at present in trade and industry is to mark time, basic conditions, and more especially the crop outlook, contain some notably strong features. Prominent in this are largely increased areas in the staple crop, wheat; large if not record areas in oats and corn, and probably a record area in cotton, though corn and cotton both promise to have a late start. Tariff uncertainties promise to be prolonged, but the downward swing in commodities has made marked progress in foodstuffs, and this tendency seems increasingly manifest in other lines, thus pointing perhaps to a delayed but nevertheless to a certain removal of one important check to distribution, high prices, when present uncertainties disappear. The industrial situation, too, is a clouded one, but there seems evidence that events in this line are working toward liquidation here also, and thus laying the foundations for renewed progress along material lines.

KOHALA SUGAR CO RESERVOIR SITE

A lease has been filed for record from Kohala Ranch Company, Ltd., to Kohala Sugar Company, Ltd., of 4.4 acres in the land of Nonulu Iki, North Kohala. It is for twenty-five years from August 31, 1910, at a rental of $100 annually in advance, the lessee to pay all taxes and charges upon improvements.

The lessee has the right to enter and re-enter other lands of the lessor lying between the demised premises and the bounds of the Kohala Sugar Company's lands, for the purpose of building a dam and maintaining a reservoir on the demised premises, together with the right to store, conserve and divert all surplus waters flowing in the reservoir, also a right of way six feet wide for ditches, flumes, tunnels or any other method of conducting the water from the demised premises over and across the lessor's lands to the other lands of the lessee.

BUSINESS STEMS

The Hawaiian Electric Company is about to make a new map of the city for electric pole lines.

Mrs. Caroline E. Peterson, wife of Attorney Charles Peterson, has purchased from the Oahu College lot seven, block nineteen, in the College Hills tract, for $1040.

William Stodart and wife have purchased from the Kaulaolani children's hospital lot one, block fourteen, Kaimuki tract, for $1250. Mr. Stodart recently retired from the management of the McBryde sugar plantation on Kauai.

STOCKS LIVELIER THAN YESTERDAY

Sugar stocks show more activity on the Honolulu exchange list today than yesterday, although transactions on the board were light. A point advance in Ewa and a half point decline in Hawaiian Sugar or Makawell are the only changes. Sales between boards comprise five shares Oahu Railway at $138.50, an advance of $2.50; 90 Hawaiian Sugar at $41, 60 Oahu in three lots at $30.75, 50 Ewa at $32.50 and five Pioneer at $203. At session eight Oahu sold at $30.75, five Honokaa at $12 and five H. C. & S. at $35.25. Beets by cable show a recovery of three quarters of a penny. On the Hawaiian exchange a sale of five Pahang Rubber at $23 is reported, which is a rise of two points.

QUEENS HOSPITAL IMPROVEMENT

A contract was awarded to Lucas Brothers today for making rather extensive alterations in the Queen's Hospital buildings. It involves between $17,000 and $18,000. The elevator is to be shifted to a more central position making it as convenient as possible to the wards of both the main building and the new wing. There will be reconstruction of the administration rooms, so as to provide the greatest attainable convenience for superintendent, doctors, nurses and attendants. Headquarters will be situated at the end of covered passage leading past the present office to the space between the nearest adjacent angles of the two buildings. Here will be an examination room where patients will be taken for preliminary diagnosis and treatment, without having to pass under the windows of the wing, as at present, with risk of disturbance of patients in wards.

When the alterations are completed there will be only one public entrance that leading to the administration department. Noise of automobiles will not reach so many of the wards as now happens. Besides the alterations in the hospital proper a new cottage for the house physician will be erected, and additions to the nurses' residence made.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Pope received by the last mail from the Coast twenty applications for teachers' position in the Territory.

Shipping News

Wilhelmina Has Big Passenger List. The Wilhelmina this morning took a full passenger list, for she had 148 in the cabin and seventy-seven in the steerage.

Precisely at ten o'clock she pulled out for San Francisco. As was to be expected there was a large number of people on the wharf to say good-bye. Berger's band was in attendance and played an appropriate program of music. She also had a pretty big load of cargo which included 4,800 tons of sugar, 2,000 cases of pineapples, 4,000 bunches of bananas and the usual miscellaneous cargo, as well as two automobiles.

In addition to the usual coast mail, there were two and a half tons of Australian mail that arrived yesterday morning on the Marama. The Wilhelmina was searched in a perfunctory sort of way by Harbor Officer Carter, who had the usual look round to see whether any of those on board had omitted the formality of paying for tickets. His quest was not a definite one, as he had received no instructions to search for stowaways. Just now, however, is a favorite time for stowaways, for a lot of men have recently been paid off from the Thetis, and may want to get back to the Coast on a cheap trip. The Wilhelmina seems to be a favorite vessel with non-paying passengers, for it is said that every voyage includes a lot of men who are working their way up. They are set to work on board at holding open doors and assisting in little ways in the steward's department. The stewards think the scheme an excellent one, for it relieves them of a lot of work.

Dearth of Steamers.

With the departure of the Wilhelmina this morning, there was not a large steamer left in the harbor. There is quite a fleet of inter-island boats, but there is no steamer here larger than the Thetis, and only a few sailing craft. The next big steamer to arrive is the America Maru, due from the Orient tomorrow at one o'clock. Zealandia Friday From Vancouver. The C.A. S. S. Zealandia was wireless in on Monday that she was 1,280 miles off at noon that day, with the Sheffield Choir on board, and that all was well. This should bring her here early on Friday morning. No word was said about the affected cylinder head. But it is not likely that she has had it repaired at Vancouver, for the facilities there are no better than they are in Sydney, so in all probability she is making port in the same crippled condition that she left Sydney in.

The "All-Red" Service Next Year. VANCOUVER.—Mr. Arthur Kilman, meat exporter of Sydney, who has been visiting England and America, and arrived here on his way from London to Australia, states that the "All-Red" steamship service will materialize at the end of next year.

SPORTS

BOXERS WILL ARRIVE ON FRIDAY

On Friday the Sierra will arrive from the Coast and on board are the two middleweight pugilists engaged by Dick Sullivan to fight at the Orpheum theater on the night of June 10. They are Vic Hansen and Kid George and the fans are anxiously awaiting their arrival.

Boxing has been on the down grade in Honolulu for the past year, but it is expected that the enterprise shown by Dick Sullivan will result in the game being lifted from the mire and placed on a high plane. From the comment which one hears on all sides it would seem a foregone conclusion that the Orpheum theater will be packed when these two men don the mitts, and that if they make good the fans will continue their support. That the sporting crowd want boxing is evident by the attendances at some of the recent bouts, none of which, however, can be classed with the contest which the middleweights are expected to provide.

Having got everything in line for the bringing off of the contest Dick Sullivan is now marking time, and will leave the matter of a referee to the lads themselves. Mike Paton will be first choice in the public's mind and Mike will probably be made an offer. If he accepts the fans will be certain that the two visitors will put up a fair go or be ejected. One of the new comers will train at the Orpheum theater and fans will be given an opportunity of seeing him in action, while the other will take up his quarters at Fort Shafter and regale the soldiers with his training operations.

INTEREST IN THE MAT CONTESTS

The wrestling bouts scheduled for next Saturday night at the Orpheum theater between John Froelicher and Jack Younger, and Derby and Allten are the talk of the fans, as the dope which is being handed out regarding Younger is swinging the fans round to the conclusion that it will not exactly be a case of strength versus skill, for Younger is no mutt at the game. He has wrestled with Fred Bell, the middleweight, and though lacking the experience of Froelicher he has sufficient knowledge of the game to give him a chance of breaking even with Froelicher.

Froelicher's work on the mat is perhaps too well known to need reiteration. Suffice it to say that he is in splendid condition at present and will bring into play all the various noits of which he is master.

The preliminary promises to be a good bout. Derby meets Allten, of Portland, in this, and Hyman Raphael will referee the bout. Raphael is there with the goods, for he has made good at the game, winning a gold medal when the Big Fleb was in 'Frisco. No referee has yet been selected for the main event, it being a matter of mutual choice.

The Japanese who were at work at the Athletic Park were out early in the week with a challenge against Froelicher, offering him $200 win, lose, or draw for a contest. But Froelicher turned down the offer on account of the conditions attaching to it. Froelicher will stack up against the best the Japs have in the wrestling or jujitsu line, but only on the condition that the match is decided on falls; shoulders must be put on the mat. If this suits the Japanese Froelicher will talk business. Some years ago Froelicher met one of the Japanese then touring Europe, in London and threw him right off the stage.

FITZGERALD STARTS AT LAST

Jimmie Fitzgerald, the marathon runner, who commenced negotiations for a match in Honolulu last February and who has since pulled out at least twice, has at last come out pat with an acceptance of all conditions and will arrive on the Makura on June 20th. Yesterday, Soldier King received a cable from Fitzgerald, in response to which King arranged for a ticket to be sent Fitzgerald. Will he again disappoint the fans? That remains to be seen. Fitzgerald is a great little runner but he will need to make a full explanation of why he backed out of the plans made on his behalf here.

King and Fitzgerald will probably run on the Athletic Park on the night of July 4th, though there is a proposal to hold the race in the forenoon.

Whether held in the evening or the morning matters little; there is sure to be a good crowd on hand, particularly if King downs Hubbenette on the 12th prox. Hubbenette will probably come in against Fitzgerald and maybe Antone Kaoo will also run against them. If the full marathon distance is chosen after the shorter race between King and Fitzgerald it is probable that Kaoo will enter, as such a race would be a big draw.

King is likely to have a busy time between now and July 4th. There is a proposal for King to run Nigel Jackson on Monday night next over a distance of ten miles, King conceding Jackson a mile start, but nothing has been definitely settled as yet. The runners both have declared their willingness to run, but there seems to be some doubts about the advisability of running at night. King has also a race in sight against Ah Fook, Hilo's five mile runner, which is talked of for Decoration Day but if there is to be anything doing the boys will have to get busy, as the time is fast approaching. King thinks he can beat Ah Fook over the five-mile route and Sam Hop is doing the matching of it.

THE DOUBLES BEGIN TODAY

As entertainments for the spectators doubles tennis are always far more interesting than singles and for this reason, perhaps, more than any other it is likely that the attendance at the doubles this afternoon will be greater than that at the singles just closed.

On the Beretania courts three matches will be played, one of which should prove a remarkably interesting game, viz., that between Castle and Nowell and R. A. Cooke and Atherton Richards. Even at this stage, it is not taking too much of a chance to tip that the winners of this match will win the championship, even though such good players as Walter Dillingham and Will Roth are partnered. Dillingham and Roth have played so often together that each is thoroughly familiar with the other's style of play but even with this distinct advantage thrown in, the winner of this match should just about win out.

On the same courts Sam Baldwin and L. M. Judd, the finalists in the Castle Cup tournament, are paired to meet D. W. Anderson and R. Sinclair and Dillingham and Roth will stack up against Barnes and Bartlett.

On the Pacific courts an entertaining game is scheduled, that in which

C. G. Bockus and Jack Guard meet F. E. Steere and Theodore Richards. F. E. Steere and Theodore Richards. One can never be certain how Bockus will play but he is always entertaining on the courts, particularly in a doubles match.

SPORT NOTES

Sam Hop, Fight Promoter.

The smiling Sam Hop, baseball organizer, athletic trainer, runner, boxer, etc., etc., is off to the islands in a few days to arrange for a boxing match. He is trying to sign up De Mello, of Hilo, with Ah You, a Chinese lad weighing 176 lbs. who Sam claims is a comer at the game. Sam also modestly adds that if there is anything in sight he may get into the garb again himself, as the fans down the islands think well of Sam in the ring.

Baseball Dead in Lihue.

The projected match between Sam Hop's aggregation of ball tossers and Al Kauai, is off, a letter having been received from Lihue which states that the game is dead there. Barry's Beaus also tried for a game at Kauai for July 4th and met with a similar reply.

Polo Practice This Afternoon.

Walter Dillingham's brigade will be out for practice on the Moanalua polo field this afternoon. It is anticipated that there will be a good attendance of players and, with the long string of ponies now at the disposal of the men, something in the shape of fast work is expected.

Apau Ready for the Stars.

Last Sunday, Apau, the Chinese pitcher, donned the uniform of the Stars and waited the call to the box, but Hayes' pitching was evidently to the satisfaction of the captain and Apau did not get his chance to shine. However, it is probable he will be given a chance with the sphere in the near future and his appearance into the game will be welcomed by the fans.

Pearl Harbor Dance Plans.

Tonight at the meeting of the members of the Hawaii Yacht Club the plans for the dance at Pearl Harbor on Saturday night and the Ladies' Day events slated for Sunday will be finally settled. The yachtmen are preparing for a swell affair on Saturday night, when the ladies will be entertained and Sunday's events promise to be well in advance of anything of a similar nature in the past. Those who wish to go down in the yachts on Saturday afternoon will be given an opportunity of gratifying their desires, while a special train will take those who desire to leave later. The final plans are awaited with interest.

The 1911 Indians embody a feature that revolutionizes the construction of motorcycles, and which effectually solves the long studied problem of the transmission of the power of the motor to the driving wheel.

This feature is a new positively acting free engine clutch, that not only fulfills every function heretofore performed by the well known Indian compensating sprocket, but also makes the starting of the machine easy under every condition, and gives the rider as absolute, simple and positive control over his machine as is possible in the most perfect automobile. The rider can with ease and certainty run his machine at a walking pace in a crowded street, stop and start again without stopping his motor; and the machine can be started on a rough road where there is no possibility of starting by the usual methods.

The operation of this clutch is described in another place, but it may be stated here that this feature is a part of the regular equipment of all 1911 models, without extra charge.

In other directions the 1911 Indians have been improved as usual in many minor details where new methods of construction and new ways of manipulating and applying special steels and other materials afford opportunities for making the several parts better and stronger.

The 1911 Indians will all be of the handsome and convenient drop loop frame model that has proved so successful and popular, and which has been so widely copied in other machines; and the line will comprise the same sizes as were offered during the past year. These are the 2 3-4 and 4 h. p. single cylinder models and the 5 and 7 h. p. twin cylinder machines, of which descriptions follow:

The two speed gear, announced last year, has proved most efficient and perfect, and it has been modified and improved by the substitution of the new Indian clutch for the one used previously. This gear will be supplied to riders this season on the 4 and 7 h. p. chain drive models only.

In presenting this line of motorcycles the public is afforded a variety of choice not offered by any other maker in the world; and in perfection, design and quality, nothing approaching them has ever been produced.

We have just been appointed Agents for the INDIAN and by the Lurline we received 9 of the 1911 models. Most of these are already spoken for but we have another shipment following, which we hope to receive by the Sierra this week. Call and leave your orders for the most up to date motorcycle made.

CARBONIC ACID SNOW AS A CURE

Scientific American: An interesting and promising method of treatment has lately been employed in various diseases. It consists in the application of intense cold to circumscribed and easily attainable parts of the body—chiefly to the external skin, but also to the mucous linings of the cavities of the body.

This method, like many other apparently violent therapeutic procedures, appears to have originated in America, where it was employed by Posey. Soon afterward it was shown at the dermatological congress held in Frankfurt three years ago. Practical methods of applying the principle have since been developed, more or less successfully, by many German physicians.

The treatment of cutaneous diseases by the application of cold produced by liquid air was attempted in Germany long ago, but the results were unsatisfactory owing to the physical peculiarities of liquid air and the employment of excessively low temperatures. The American experiments proved that the temperature of carbonic acid snow—112 deg. F., is quite low enough.

This snow is easily produced by allowing liquid carbonic acid to flow from a commercial cylinder of the compressed gas into a porous vessel, which retains the snow formed by the refrigerating effect of evaporation. This snow can be molded like ordinary snow and can be used directly for therapeutic purposes, but it must not be grasped tightly with bare hands, as it produces "burns." The physiological effects of its application, indeed, resemble those of some burns, but are usually beneficial rather than malignant. Dr. Axmann, who describes this new therapeutic procedure in Die Umschau, has never caused a permanent lesion in any of the hundreds of cases which he has treated, nor has he heard of any such accident. He has devised a very simple and convenient apparatus, consisting of a frame which securely holds the carbonic acid cylinder, with its mouth downward, and a leather pouch which is attached to the mouth of the cylinder directly or by means of a short tube. By repeatedly opening the stopcock for a few seconds, liquid carbonic acid is expelled in small portions into the pouch, where the evaporation of part of the liquid freezes the rest. The snow that accumulates in the pouch is transferred to glass or metal tubes one-half to three-quarter inch in diameter, and four to six inches long, in which it is compressed by pistons until it issues from the mouth of the tube as a solid cylindrical or polygonal rod, which can be applied directly to the skin.

The depth to which the action penetrates can be regulated by the pressure with which the rod of carbonic acid snow is applied. When the flesh is touched lightly it is protected by a stratum of carbonic acid gas which its heat evolves from the snow, but this insulating coating of gas is squeezed out by vigorous pressure. This effect, which is known as Lelid-enfrost's phenomenon, accounts for the fact that carbonic acid snow can be touched lightly with impunity but "burns" the fingers when grasped firmly.

The duration of the treatment is measured by seconds. Ten seconds' application, with firm pressure, raises a blister and entirely destroys the outer skin; sixty or even thirty seconds may produce deep-seated and serious effects. If proper caution is observed, however, no permanent injury results. The frozen and pitted skin presents an alarming appearance, but in a few seconds the normal aspect has returned and the pain, which is usually slight, is entirely gone. Inflammation, swelling, and blisters come later, but in a week a new skin, often free from the imperfections of the old one, is formed.

The treatment is especially efficacious in a variety of disagreeable and disfiguring, but not serious, affections of the skin, such as the red, blue or brown moles which sometimes thickly cover the face. It also gives excellent results in obstinate cancer of the skin (canceroid), and various small tumors of the nature of warts. The carbonic acid method is particularly indicated for the treatment of small blemishes of the skin, as it can be applied without even causing serious pain, scars or any injurious effect.

Psoriasis, a rather common skin disease, which though not dangerous is very annoying, and which has rarely ever been completely and permanently cured, has in recent years been treated successfully with ultraviolet rays and Roentgen rays. Even the latter, however leaves patches of eruption, the removal of which by repeated application of Roentgen rays would be both expensive and dangerous. These patches yield to the cold treatment, which is preferable to ray treatment in all cases of small local infection with psoriasis. The new method will also be found useful in surgery. A pencil of solid carbonic acid can be introduced into the nasal cavity or a wound fistula without difficulty, and is a safer and more efficient agent for the destruction of morbid growth than the electric cauterizing needle, the temperature of which is variable and uncertain.

LAI HAS ANNUAL CLEAN-UP DAY

Clean-up day may be new to Honolulu but there is one place on Oahu which has had its annual clean-up day for years and years.

The thriving Mormon settlement of Lalewal, situated between Kahuku and Hauula on the windward side of the island, blossoms forth in a shining coat of whitewash once every twelve months.

On that particular day everyone gets busy and all rubbish and unsightly objects are removed and burned, while things stationary and household goods are scrubbed and burnished.

The settlement is always a model of cleanliness but after clean-up day Lai holds up her head, proud in the knowledge that in this respect she is unrivalled throughout the Territory.

AFRAID TO BUY HILO THEATER

(Correspondence of The Star)

HILO, May 22.—No one seems anxious to purchase the Gaiety theater, in this city, which was put up at auction on Saturday as the result of foreclosure proceedings upon a mortgage given by Lawson and Bailey to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Eckberg. The sale was advertised to take place at noon, on Saturday, and at that time it was announced that there was an upset price placed on the property of $4000 and the auctioneer, Mr. A. S. Le Baron Gurney, called in vain for even a single bid above this figure.

The trouble with the sale comes from the fact that the value of the property depends very greatly upon two leases. One, which is for the land on which the main part of the building is located, has seven years to run, while the land on which the entire stage is located is leased for but four years more. Since there is no clause providing for an extension of this lease, the opportunity is left for the owners of this land to hold up the purchasers of the theater for an amount which they may see fit upon the expiration of this lease, which has made the purchasers feel doubtful about doing anything with the proposition. It was expected that Mrs. Eckberg would put in a bid but nothing of this sort was done and the sale was postponed till Thursday next.

RATS LIVE IN THE ALGAROBAS

The datepalm may harbor an occasional rat but it is in the algarobas that the rodents love most to make their nests. The thorns along the branches make excellent fixing for nest material and the proximity of the trees in thickets makes visiting a thing of ease for the gregarious rat.

During the 1900 epidemic of bubonic plague when a reward was offered and a price set on the head of every rat delivered at the Board of Health headquarters, the majority of the bounty-earners made the algaroba thickets of the Kailhi district their happy hunting grounds.

Nests in the branches were destroyed by the hundreds and thousands of rats were killed. Records kept at that time do not state that many rats were taken from the branches of the date-palms.

THE THEATERS

Firewalker at the Park.

Kishun Dass, the wonderful Hindu firewalker, who walks across a bed of red hot coals, is here having arrived on the Marama from Fiji yesterday. Tomorrow night he will make his first appearance at the Park theater which has been reopened for the occasion.

The Western Pacific World of May 15, printed at Suva, Fiji, where Dass been for some time, says of his last performance there:

"Kishun Dass, the marvellous firewalker, made his farewell appearance in Suva on Saturday night, under the direction of the proprietor of Grant's pictures. The Indian's performance is of a unique character, quite distinct from the usual music-hall 'turn.' After chanting in his native language, which for all we know, is an appeal to the Fire God for immunity from the flames, he proceeds to dance out and in amongst the burning embers in a manner that makes one's hair stand on end. The dance in itself is a novelty, but taken in conjunction with the fire, and the bare feet of the performer, it produces a sensational effect. Kishun Dass leaves today on the Marama on a tour of the world, opening, we understand at Honolulu. There can be no doubt but that his performances will be tremendous draw, and we predict for him a highly successful tour."

This afternoon the Indian will give a private performance for members of the press and physicians.

In addition to the Indian's feat, Grant will exhibit 25,000 feet of moving picture films devoted to scenery and life in India, and there will also be slides of Fiji scenes.

ITCHING ECZEMA CURED.

You don't need to suffer another day with that awful itch. A few drops of that wonderful compound known as the D. D. D. Prescription will take away the itch instantly, yes, the moment the first drops are applied to the inflamed skin, the itching is stopped.

Many Eczema sufferers have failed so utterly with salves and other "discoveries" that even the assurance of the best physician or druggist cannot induce them to invest another cent in any remedy.

It is to just these discouraged sufferers that we now offer at 25c a trial bottle of the genuine D. D. D. Prescription, a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and a few other ingredients, so compounded that they reach the very worst cases of Eczema and all other skin diseases.

Besides, there is nothing so good as D. D. D. for a household skin remedy, for it washes away pimples over night, and cleanses the skin of all forms of skin impurities.

ONLY MATINEE

A wireless is expected tonight from the great Sheffield Choir aboard the S. S. Zealandia, announcing just the hour when the vessel will arrive at Honolulu from Vancouver. This will give time to those who plan to go out to meet the vessel at quarantine an opportunity to lay their plans, while those who plan to give them a welcome in the city will be able to know just when they may be received at the Capitol.

Meanwhile, the sale of seats is going on satisfactorily, and Manager W. D. Adams, of the Hawaiian Opera House, has assurance that all the matinee tickets will be sold before Friday morning. Those are about the only seats available at present, and there are still a number of choice seats left. The box office plan is still open at Bergstrom's music store.

The matinee will commence at three o'clock, an hour later than usual, in order to give a better opportunity for the community in general to attend. The matinee program throughout Canada has been extremely popular and the audiences have always packed the theaters to the doors.

The evening concert will start at eight-fifteen Friday evening.

EPISCOPALIANS TO CELEBRATE

Next year will be the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Episcopal church in the Hawaiian Islands, and the tenth anniversary of the "Americanization" of the local church, and plans are already being discussed for a suitable observance on the double anniversary. At the dinner given at the Pacific club last night by the Church club, in honor of the bishop and clergy, the matter was referred to Bishop Resterick. It is proposed to invite Bishop Nichols, of California to come here for the celebration.

The organization of the church here forty-nine years ago, was by Bishop Staley, who came here from England, at the direct invitation of King Kamehameha Fourth, then reigning, said Bishop Resterick. There were members of the church here before that, but no organization, and the King expressed a desire to have the English bishop come here and organize the church.

It was announced yesterday at the meeting of the Woman's auxiliary that the Morgan home property, on the corner of Emma Square and Emma street, may be purchased by the Episcopal Church as a home for the graduates of the Priory who are earning their own living in the city and who have no homes of their own to shelter them.

The appointment of officers for the coming year was as follows: Miss Ethelwyn Castle, president; Mrs. F. B. Smith, vice president; Mrs. B. L. Marx, treasurer; Mrs. O. A. Steven, secretary.

LAWYERS DIDN'T WANT THIS CASE

Fukushima, a Japanese who has made a number of appearances in the police court during the past few months, claims acquaintance with some of the leading legal lights, but they are averse to acknowledging him.

This morning, when faced with a charge of using threatening language, Fukushima claimed that Wm. T. Rawlins was his attorney, and he wanted a continuance to consult with him, but the request brought Deputy City and County Brown to his feet with a strenuous objection.

Brown waxed eloquent as he expostulated. It was the same old story which the defendant had told and retold. On several occasions he had communicated with Mr. Rawlins when Fukushima made a similar claim and each time Rawlins had turned the case down. Only a month ago Fukushima had been charged with vagrancy but sentence was suspended on defendant promising to leave the territory, but defendant had gone back on the promise.

Fukushima (through the interpreter) — "Mr. Rawlins never made that statement."

Lorin Andrews, who appeared to prosecute, pointed out that the defendant had the Japanese working on the Damon Estate at Moanalua in a state of absolute terror, so much so that one of the employees had not been to his own home since Saturday, being afraid of the defendant. It seemed to Andrews that the court could sentence the defendant under the vagrancy charge and thus put him out of the way, a course which commended itself to Brown, but he found instead of sentence being suspended the case had been nollied prossed.

On Brown pointing out that defendant had been to jail half-a-dozen times for various offences and re-iterating that Rawlins would not defend him, the court proceeded with the case.

On the first witness being called, however, Fukushima decided to have Charlie Chillingworth as his attorney and the case was set aside to get Chillingworth in court. Some time later, Attorney Chillingworth appeared, but would have nothing to do with the defendant and the case then went to trial.

The court convicted Fukushima of using threatening language and ordered him to find a bond of $250 or go to jail for six months. This should reassure the Japanese at Moanalua.

MANY CHICKENS WERE "LIFTED"

Eddie Fragas, John Elias and M. de Mello, who are alleged to be three of the members of a chicken stealing gang, which has been depleting hen coops around the city, were before Judge J. M. Monsarrat in the police court this morning. There was no doubt as to the guilt of Eddie Fragas, for "Monkey," as he is known, readily admitted it, but the other two men denied that they were concerned in the thefts.

It seems that the police have run this gang to earth but whether these three men comprise the whole gang is matter for further investigation. From the questions put by defendant Elias to a witness it seems that such is not the case.

Elias came under the notice of the police in this matter as an informer. He called at headquarters, with a little liquor in his head he says, and announced that he could tell who were the chicken thieves, but he wanted payment for his information. Chief Detective McDuffie had the matter in hand and he soon had Elias, Fragas and de Mello under arrest. Against them he had five charges, three against Fragas and one each against the other two men. Nine fowls stolen from the premises of A. Macintosh, one game cock stolen from Akamoto, two Minorca roosters, one hen and six chickens stolen from W. O. Smith formed the basis of the charges.

"Monkey" Fragas seems to have been the cat's paw. It was he who did the stealing while the others kept watch, and according to David Manuel Elias had "Monkey" under his thumb. "Monkey" told of the theft of the game cock from Akamoto. He did the thieving while Elias kept watch. David Manuel saw the cock at his house, where it had been brought by "Monkey" and, to Manuel, Elias admitted that he had been with Fragas when the bird was stolen. Manuel said that he had taken Elias into his house because he was homeless and seemed an honest boy, though one night Elias had awakened David to partake of chicken stew, the chickens having been stolen. Then Elias got on a drunk, raised a rough house and finally brought a bicycle home on Saturday night and David kicked him out.

"Weren't you the man who coached 'Monkey' to steal chickens?" asked Elias of David, but David only laughed. Then Elias repeated the question. "Did you hear me tell him that?" asked David of Elias.

"Yes, I did. Right at your house," was the prompt reply, but here Deputy City and County Attorney Brown interposed and cut short the discussion.

Elias entered a complete denial of the matter, though he admitted knowing that "Monkey" stole chickens. Judge Monsarrat took the case under advisement and will render a decision tomorrow morning.

BRITISH SOUTH POLE EXPEDITION HEARD FROM; JAPANESE RETURNS AFTER MEETING MUCH MISFORTUNE

Sydney Telegraph: All unexpected, the Japanese Antarctic exploring schooner Kainan Maru arrived in Sydney Harbor yesterday afternoon. She has on board 11 Japanese scientists, and the vessel is direct from Coulman Island, which is well within the Antarctic Circle. An attempt was to have been made to reach the South Pole, but the weather was unfavorable. Captain Nomura said, however, that another attempt would shortly be made.

Lieutenant Shirase is the leader of the exploring party, and associated with him are S. Musho (doctor) E. Tada (secretary), G. Nishikawa, T. Takeda, Y. Yashina, S. Marumatsu, K. Miura, K. Watanabe, Y. Yamabe, and S. Hanamori. None speak English except with difficulty.

The explorers stated that they left Wellington (N. Z.) on February 11, and, sailing south, the ship met terrible weather. The sea was mountainous, the wind blew in gales, and the temperature fell very low. On March 14 they arrived off Coulman Island (latitude 74 deg. S., long. 171 deg. E.). It was intended to make a dash from here for the South Pole, but 10 of the Esquimaux dogs which were brought had died of sickness and the cold. The sea was freezing and icebergs were all round. After staying in the vicinity of the island for four days, the idea of trying to reach the Pole was abandoned for the time being, and the vessel turned and sailed back to Sydney. Until three days before reaching port she experienced violent weather incessantly, but she sailed well, and at no time was recourse had to the engines with which the schooner is equipped to supplement the power of the sails.

The scientists were invited to give further details as to the object of the expedition and the equipment of the party. They replied that they had sledges, and that meteorology and photography were subjects in which they were interested.

"More than that I cannot say," announced Captain Nomura. "I must keep my secret." The vessel will probably remain in Sydney some weeks, but no definite information on this point was offered.

What the Explorers Intended.
Though they are disinclined to tell the world the plans by which they hoped to reach the Pole, the explorers' intentions were made known before they left Japan. Lieutenant Shirase then stated:

"At Wellington the expedition will take in a supply of coal and provisions, and enter the Antarctic Sea; and after proceeding 2172 miles, struggling with icebergs and flocks will, it is hoped, reach Edward VII. Bay about the middle of February. There the expedition party will land, and the ship will return immediately to Wellington, as it was considered dangerous for the vessel to stop in the Antarctic. Meanwhile the party will carry out explorations on shore for about seven months, before making the dash for the Pole, spending the winter struggling with the severe cold. On September 15, when winter will have ended, the party will proceed southwards, traveling, it is hoped, a distance of over 500 miles over the ice in 155 days. They will return to the rendezvous by the latter part of February, 1912. By this time their vessel will have returned to Edward VII. Bay from Wellington, and will receive the party. On arriving in New Zealand fuel and water will be taken in, and the expedition will arrive back in Japan in July, 1912. The time occupied by the expedition is estimated at one year and nine months."

"Unprecedented Heroism."
The explorers are being backed by a scientific society in Japan, and, as the expedition was setting out, Count Okuma (the president) paid a high tribute to the gallantry of the adventurers and to the value of the work they were undertaking.

Count Okuma said the heroic enterprise of Lieutenant Shirase was a more sublime and greater undertaking in the interests of science than the action of a brave man who stood

The Sydney Evening News has the following from a steamer arriving from the Antarctic:
The following dispatch from Captain Scott gives an outline of the happenings in connection with the expedition till he parted company with the Terra Nova on January 15:
"When three days out from New Zealand, the ship, which was deeply laden, encountered a heavy south-westerly gale. She shipped much water, and part of her bulwarks were washed away, and some of the deck cargo was started. The pumps became choked and as water got into the engine room it was necessary to put the fires out. The crew were, therefore, compelled to bail for many hours with buckets. The position became serious, but fortunately the weather moderated, and then the pumps were cleared.

"Two ponies, one dog and a small amount of deck cargo, were lost. The remaining animals suffered badly, but afterwards recovered.
"We proceeded south on meridian 179 west, and entered the ice pack on December 9, in latitude 65. We encountered phenomenally heavy ice, and spent twenty-one days in pushing through. We had great difficulty in traversing the 3,800 miles—the greatest extent of pack ice yet recorded. Interesting soundings and a series of sea temperatures off the edge of the continental shelf were obtained.

The vessel entered open water in Ross Sea on December 30, but was forced west by a southerly gale, and sighted the Admiralty Mountains, Victoria Land.

"We reached Cape Crozier on January 3. A heavy swell prevented a landing there, but after forcing our way through the pack we found McMurdo Sound exceptionally open, and it was decided to make winter quarters at Cape Evans, fourteen miles north of the Discovery station, and eight miles south of Cape Royds.

"Landing stores for the western party was commenced. A mile and a half of sea ice had to be traversed. Ponies, motor sledges, dogs and men were employed in transporting. All the stores were landed in a week. We had the misfortune to lose one motor sledge through a hole in the ice.

"A house was built and occupied, and the station was put in order. The live stock comprised fifteen ponies, thirty dogs and one rabbit. In a fortnight everything was comfortable. The situation is very convenient for scientific work, and already the expedition has obtained a rich biological collection.

"The weather was very changeable, and there were strong winds. Considerable difficulty was experienced in keeping the ship anchored to the ice, and once she was driven on a shoal but was refloated without damage.

"We are now departing on a sledge journey south with thirteen men, eight ponies and two dog teams. We expect to be cut off from Cape Evans for two months, and hope to return over new ice early in April. The ship proceeds west to land the geological party, then east, in accordance with the program. All the men and animals are in excellent health. (Signed) Scott, January 25."

Details supplied by the ship's officers show that the Terra Nova proceeded east, surveying the ice barrier to 170 west. A southeasterly gale forced her head for Cape Colbeck. She arrived there on February 2, but a heavy pack stopped all progress east. A high ice cliff prevented the eastern party from landing at Cape Colbeck or in the vicinity. She returned along the barrier searching for a landing, but no place was possible until the Bay of Whales, 164 west, was reached. It was noticed that Balloon Bight had broken away, and is now entirely merged into the Bay of Whales.

The ship arrived at the Bay of Whales on February 4. Captain Amundsen was wintering here with eight men, 116 Greenland dogs, and a full equipment for a journey to the Former Hilo Editor's Sensational Statements About Hawaiian Affairs

Copies have been sent to Hawaii of a pamphlet reproduction of articles by J. Liddell Kelly, former editor of the Hilo Tribune, in which are contained the severest criticisms yet passed on Hawaiian government.

Kelly didn't stay in Hawaii long and didn't make a hit in Hilo. The articles referred to are a discussion of the racial problem generally. In an effort to show the general unfitness for self-government of all races except the Caucasian, Kelly makes more extended reference to Hawaii than to any other country. Here is what Kelly thinks he learned about Hawaiian affairs during his residence in Hilo:

Hawaiians Prevail.

It may be objected that such examples of colored rule as have been cited would not apply to India and Egypt if the natives were enfranchised, nor to Canada, Australia and New Zealand if these countries allowed millions of Asiatics to enter and exercise the full rights of citizenship, under British laws and institutions. The white minority, it may be alleged, would still govern by virtue of inherited superiority, and there would be no deterioration in our public morality and no curtailment of our liberties. We should still have sane laws, pure administration, and so forth. Let no such illusion be harbored as that a colored majority would conform to European ideals. The case of the Hawaiian islands—now a territory of the United States—may be quoted as providing an exact parallel to what would happen to a white minority under the rule of a colored democracy.

The Hawaiians, a branch of the Polynesian race, have been civilized and Christianized for nearly a century. They are educated, intelligent and peaceful. When the islands were incorporated in the United States in 1898 the natives were given full rights of citizenship. They now number about 40,000, against 7,500 white Americans in the territory. As a consequence, all political power is in the hands of the Hawaiians. The office of Governor and the higher administrative and judicial positions are filled by Americans; but they rule only in appearance—in effect, they carry on the work of the government at the bidding of the Hawaiians. The latter elect a majority to both branches of the Legislature; they control all the functions of local government; their ideas and ethics prevail in every sphere, and the result is a complete travesty of democratic institutions, and of law and order as we understand them.

Two Strange Stories.

Take the Legislature, to begin with. Holders of official positions are debarred from sitting in either branch, but the law is not enforced. A deputy sheriff on one island was recently moved by aspirations to sit in the Senate. He resigned his position in order to qualify as a candidate; but as soon as he was elected he withdrew his resignation and continued to hold his appointment and seat. Two sessions ago a Hawaiian member of the House of Representatives introduced a resolution calling for the setting up of a joint committee to draft a law "to suppress the solar-plexing pugilistic encounters, including cock fighting, which is destructive of family life in the territory." When the hilarity evoked by the reading of the resolution had subsided the Speaker solemnly inquired, "Does the honorable gentleman know the meaning of his resolution?" The honorable gentleman bluntly confessed that he did not. "Then," said the Speaker, "I decline to put it;" and he ordered that all reference to it be expunged from the minutes. A prominent journalist in Honolulu told the writer that the newspapers frequently, at the instance of the Speaker and white representatives, misrepresented the meaning and scope of legislative proposals, in order to mislead the Hawaiian members. Only by this means can they secure the occasional passage of beneficial laws.

Incompetent Lawyers.

In the Judiciary the state of affairs is almost as scandalous. Although the circuit judges are Americans, appointed from Washington, their courts are frequently brought into contempt by the incompetence of the county attorneys, who are chosen by the Hawaiian electors, and usually belong to the native race. These functionaries are nominally qualified, but they rarely draw a second indictment, and about ninety per cent of accused persons escape on technicalities, or have to be re-indicted. The Governor occasionally appoints a Hawaiian as district judge. Two years ago one of the functionaries was removed from office for having embezzled $2,000 from the estate of a minor

PEARL HARBOR DRY DOCK BLOCKS BEING MADE BY PAHOA MILL

(Correspondence of The Star)
HILO, May 15.—Diversified industries are shown in their fullest extent at the Pahoa Lumber Mill, in its present state of operation. In the last few months the character of the work being done there has completely changed and the product is no longer one of ohia ties but of every possible finer product of ohia. There are still being a few ties cut at Pahoa, but they are only those of the finest kind, which bring far higher prices than are ordinarily received for such work.

One of the special jobs which is being looked after by Manager Sam Johnson, is the cutting of the huge ohia blocks for the Pearl Harbor dock, which are most carefully selected from the finest logs that are brought to the mill and only a few of these are turned out each day. Higher prices are being received for these than has been the case on any tie work and only specially selected wood is used.

Another interesting feature of the Pahoa Mill at present is the large amount of lumber which is being turned out and which is being carefully seasoned for the market. In the last few months well over two million feet of the finest kind of lumber has been cut and placed in great piles in the yard, in addition to large quantities which have been shipped out for use on various contracts.

In addition to this a very large amount of ohia flooring, of the finest seasoned lumber, has been turned out and gold and the mill now has on hand over 100,000 feet of flooring for the orders that are rapidly coming in. It is interesting to know that this flooring, which can hardly be excelled by any hardwood on the market, costs but a little more than the ordinary pine which is used on most floors in Hawaii. The special machinery which has been installed for this work is most satisfactory in every way.

Last week a new building was erected at Pahoa for the manufacture of furniture from both koa and ohia. This will be one of the special products of the mill from now on. This furniture made for selected woods will be placed on the market at prices which will compete very closely with the higher grade furniture which is imported from the mainland and which has by no means the same quality as the local product.

Another interesting part of the mill is that in which wagons are being built the iron work being made in the Pahoa machine shop and the wood being ohia. For strength and utility it should be hard to excel the product. Kollers, pins for telephone and telegraph crossarms are also being turned out and the various manufactures of the mill are constantly being extended in every way.

HONOLULU AS AN OUTPOST DISCUSSED BY AN EXPERT IN WASHINGTON MILITARY JOURNAL

Infantry Journal: The strategic position of Honolulu has been recognized by the United States Government in announcing its intention to make Pearl Harbor the main naval base of the Pacific Ocean. To carry this into effect the following measures are under way: (1) The dredging of Pearl Harbor and its preparation as a navy yard. (2) The fortification of Pearl Harbor and Honolulu to gain security against attack from the sea. (3) Preparation of a plan for land defense of the navy yard and Honolulu.

The choosing of Honolulu as a strong point in national defense is based on sound reasoning. It must appeal to anyone at a glance what a disadvantage it would be to this country in war time to have Honolulu controlled by an enemy. The possession of Honolulu by an Oriental power would very materially solve her problem of attacking our coast, and in fact would so ease the situation for her military forces as to make such an attack a real temptation.

An outpost is valueless unless it is secure. It is a waste of good time, money, and nervous energy to prepare a place for defense and still feel that only extreme good luck will enable it to fulfill its mission. In a game of cards or in business competition each one engaged recognizes that in certain points his opponent is superior and is bound to win. These points are given up cheerfully and wastes no time over them but concentrates his energy and force where he has a chance for victory. So in the game of national politics, in the struggle of a nation for existence, questions arise as to its outposts, and they should be determined by the same principles as those by which a game is played. Where a nation is weak and expects to lose it must not expend one dollar or one man. Once a nation yields to sentiment in placing its defenses and forces it lays itself open to dangerous dispersion, so that it may be overpowered at any point where the enemy concentrates.

The principle of concentrating where you can win and making sure of that much must be faithfully adhered to. For example, it seems openly acknowledged that this country does not intend to defend Alaska against attack, and if in war an Oriental power should be superior at sea she could unquestionably obtain sovereignty over that vast country. On the principle cited, then, the United States can not afford to expend one cent or one man of its defensive powers in Alaska. The Government has seen fit to place one regiment there for police purposes, scattered over thousands of miles, and in case of war this regiment will be a gift to the enemy. It is a serious question to decide, whether a full regiment is needed in Alaska, and whether it is more valuable there as a peace force than on our western coast as a war defensive force.

The same principles apply to Honolulu. Our Government has already determined that Honolulu shall be our main naval base in the Pacific Ocean; that it is capable of defense; and that it shall be defended. It is now pertinent to inquire what measures are being taken to secure Honolulu and whether or not they are sufficient. To assume that Honolulu is safe and rely on it in our scheme of national defense and yet nervously feel that it may fall, that its defenses are doubtful, would be a fatal mistake. Honolulu must be secured beyond all doubt or every cent and every man put there are wasted. A thousand times better that the same energy be put on our western coast than to be half hearted or doubtful at Honolulu. Make Honolulu impregnable or leave it for the enemy.

The ships of the Navy must not be depended upon for the defense of a naval base. This is a well recognized principle. The value of the Navy is its mobility, its availability at any point where needed. Our Navy must be left free to seek the enemy's coast or his commerce, to protect our own merchant marine and to perform hundreds of other duties that demand its presence at sea, none of which can be performed when it is tied down to protect a naval base. The naval base must offer a safe retreat, a supply and repair point, whenever the Navy needs it. Therefore Honolulu is dependent on its shore defenses. Several batteries of large guns have already been mounted, guarding the entrances to Pearl Harbor and Honolulu. The ability of such guns to resist attack, when they are properly manned and supplied with ammunition, has been successfully demonstrated. Honolulu may be considered safe from naval attack when the present plans are completed. Honolulu can, however, be attacked from the land side. The island of Oahu, on which Honolulu is situated, is about forty-five miles long and thirty miles wide with a shore line of over 170 miles. Approximately forty miles of the shore line is to be protected by the fortifications near Honolulu. Military men recognize that under the guns of a naval convoy troops from transports can successfully land on Oahu. The lighterage of such a force would be cared for by seventy gasoline sea-going sampans now used in Hawaii by Japanese fishermen.

Assuming that a force can disembark on Oahu, the decision as to whether Honolulu and Pearl Harbor shall fall rests with our preparation for land defense. So far as available to the public, the land defense measures are as follows:

Defensive measures taken by the Government:

1. Engineer Corps is preparing an excellent map of Oahu.
2. A plan for defense.
3. A proposed permanent garrison as follows: Two regiments of Infantry, 1,600 men; one regiment of Cavalry, 800 men; eight companies of Coast Artillery, 800 men; one company of Engineers, 150 men; one company of Signal Corps, 100 men; detachment of Hospital Corps, 50 men; present garrison of Marines, 400 men; National Guard, 600 men. Total, all forces, 4,500 men.
4. Fortifications on the land side, none.

Sources of information: Common talk in Honolulu. Army and Navy Register, December 24, 1910. (This garrison is merely proposed; it has not yet been ordered.) See Navy lists. Latest report. Observation.

Whether or not these measures are adequate depends on the nature of the lines to be held, viewed in the light of the experience in other similar cases. To select the lines from the maps now available to the public would be a waste of time. But assuming that the line is not less than two miles from Pearl Harbor, Honolulu, or Diamond Head, the length of west of Pearl Harbor is thirty miles, line from east of Diamond Head to A large part of this line is reasonably protected by a difficult mountainous country. North of Pearl Harbor is a wide valley which extends to the north coast of Oahu, the most probable landing point for an enemy. West of Pearl Harbor the country is open extending to the approach from the west coast. Whatever line is chosen for the protection of this extensive front, it is reasonable to assume that there will be over eight miles of front where the enemy must be actively opposed. Reasoning from past experience it is folly to assume the naval base as secure with anything less than permanent fortification of the land front, with proper armament, and at least 20,000 troops. Extensive study of the conditions will be necessary to determine whether so few can accomplish the desired result. In the fall of 1909, it was persistently rumored that the War Department intended to place a garrison of 20,000 men at Honolulu or abandon its defense. This was so plausible to England that the Statesman's Year Book, London, carries the proposed garrison of Honolulu at 15,000 men. That rumor fell through some time ago and no such intention can be unearthed at present.

In this connection the fate of Port Arthur should be borne in mind. There the Russians had a land front of only thirteen miles, were well fortified, and had a garrison of 50,000 men. (Continued on page ten.)

HONOLULU AS AN OUTPOST

2000 men to start with. After the surrender there were still about 25,000 men able to march out of the fortress.

We have a great deal to learn from our imperial neighbor, Great Britain. If one will observe her "Imperial Outposts" (Murray), it will be found that she does not leave her naval bases and trade routes to uncertain security. Compare Malta, the base of the Mediterranean fleet, with our own shipyard attempt at defending Honolulu. Malta is the most powerful maritime fortress in the world. It has no land frontier to protect and is capable therefore of great powers of self defense, yet England maintains the Malta garrison at 10,000 troops. Other examples by which we may profit can be quoted readily, but all lead to the conclusion that we are not doing our best at Honolulu and, therefore, can not expect to hold the naval base there.

In determining for oneself an intelligent opinion on this subject, several peculiarities and difficulties arise. In the group of Hawaiian Islands there are over 75,000 Japanese, mostly males; in Oahu alone there are over 16,000. Many of these served in the Japanese army against Russia and have, of course, the customary patriotic reverence for the Mikado. A large number of boats in the islands is in the hands of the Japanese and would be available to concentrate their countrymen in Oahu. A subsidized merchant line piles between Japan and South America, and a ship of this line could, very readily, in the course of its regular run, land arms secretly were it so disposed. The site selected for Schofield Barracks is about eighteen miles from Honolulu and is separated from it by several large sugar plantations which employ Japanese labor. It is a conservative estimate to say that there are over 7,000 Japanese between the 800 United States cavalrymen now at the barracks and the city of Honolulu.

Other annoying matters appear in studying the defense of Honolulu, but nothing arises which makes its defense impossible. The naval base can be defended; it is a matter of dollars and men. Our nation is too rich to give up Honolulu to a poorer enemy because of expense. The defense of Honolulu is a question of broad governmental policy and each citizen is entitled to an intelligent opinion. At present the Government is making a mere pretense of its defense, with barely a police force on hand. This is expensive and deceptive to the people. The question should be faced squarely, and it should be decided that Honolulu shall or shall not be held. If it is not to be held, then immediate cessation of military activity and expenditure there should follow. If Honolulu as an outpost is necessary for our fleet and for our security, as is held by a large number of intelligent persons, then we should demand that it be made defensible beyond all doubt and made defensible at once.

THE VALUE OF TESTIMONIALS.

It was Walt Whitman who first in America recognized the advertising value of the testimonial when he printed on the cover of the second edition of "Leaves of Grass" a sentence from Emerson's letter to him, "I greet you at the beginning of a great career." Publishers' opinions about testimonials are conflicting, yet their practice seems the same. They all publish testimonials from people of literary importance, though they admit that these often have a reactionary effect in antagonizing local critics and in occasioning close scrutiny for books which might not otherwise receive critical analysis; they all say that the testimony of public people is valuable unless it carries conviction by pointing out some specific quality; yet waves of seemingly pointless testimonial have time and again struck book advertising and probably will continue to do so. And certainly book history offers tempting illustrations of success.

The man who made "David Harum," says its publisher, was Governor Flower of New York. He carried it about in his pocket and brought it into every conversation. Mrs. Eddy for once indorsed a book—one of the first Christian Science novels—and for a time it was almost a rival to Science and Health. Senator Beveridge's "The Young Man and the World," was helped a great deal by the views of important persons in business, social and church activities.

Perhaps the most notable instance of the unmistakable value of testimonial is furnished by the "Valor of Ignorance," a book of our unpreparedness for a Japanese invasion. This was written by a Californian—and exploited in the state where the subject would appear to be most burning—yet it didn't go at all until Lord Roberts took it up as propaganda for English unpreparedness against Germany. And finally, though all publishers agree that a testimonial is worth nothing unless the man is known as an authority on that subject, they all publish eagerly the least word of praise from the most indiscriminate praiser of our times. Mr. Roosevelt is the recommender. From "The Story of Modern Book Advertising" in the May Bookman.

FORMER EDITOR

which he was administering. A case that came under the personal notice of the writer may be cited to show the slipshod methods of conducting criminal prosecutions. At the Circuit Court in Hilo a Japanese, Fukuda Tetsuji, was indicted for murder in the first degree. Deputy Attorney General Larnach was sent from Honolulu to prosecute. The indictment proved good; the evidence was conclusive that the accused had deliberately killed two people. But when the time came for Mr. Larnach to address the jury he was suddenly taken ill. The county attorney, a part Hawaiian, was in town, but absented himself from court without reason or apology. It fell to his deputy, a Hawaiian, who had graduated with high honors from two American universities, to address the jury. This gentleman had been in court during the trial, but it soon became apparent that he had not been an intelligent auditor. In the third sentence of his address he remarked that they had the testimony of a Japanese woman who saw the shooting.

"No," said a jurymen.

"No?" queried the attorney. "Then it was—ah, yes, let me see—it was a Japanese man—I forget his name—who saw the accused shoot Fukuda." "Shoot who?" asked the jurymen. "Shoot Fukuda," repeated the learned attorney.

"No, no," put in counsel for the defense, "this is Fukuda here" (indicating the prisoner).

"Oh, yes, of course," said the flustered attorney, "I mean the witness saw this accused, Fukuda, shoot—shoot—"

"Shoot who?" asked the inexorable jurymen.

"Oh, the man that was shot in this case." The titter that went around the court completed the confusion of the Hawaiian lawyer. He made several stammering attempts to proceed, but finally gave it up, closing with the words: "Gentlemen of the jury, I have been jumped into this case. You know more about it than I do. I ask you, therefore, to find this accused guilty of murder in the first degree." But the jury, impressed by the able address of the white lawyer who defended Fukuda, found a verdict of murder in the second degree, and the double murderer escaped the gallows.

Discrimination Against Whites.

In the administration of the law in minor matters, there is often unfair discrimination. A man's color or his politics serves to shield him from prosecution. The whole white population of Hilo had to submit to most unfair treatment. Prior to the Fourth of July the sheriff (a Hawaiian with a white deputy, who does all the skilled work of the office), announced that information would be laid against all persons who let off crackers or other fireworks in the public streets. This was deemed a reasonable precaution against setting fire to the inflammable wooden buildings of Hilo, and on the Fourth citizens curbed their patriotic fervor and refrained from fireworks. When, however, the Chinese New Year, or "Konohi," arrived, it was seen that there was one law for the Occidental and another for the Oriental. For about a week, day and night, the Chinese "celebrated," exploding crackers and bombs incessantly, and making the hours of sleep hideous with all sorts of alarming noises—the police offering no interference. The Chinaman is "persona grata" with the Hawaiians; the American is not. That is the only explanation of the differential treatment.

All Is Graft.

The sheriffs are elected by the Hawaiians, who always give preference to a man of their own nationality. In turn, the sheriffs choose the police—nearly all Hawaiians—and levy an assessment on their salaries to provide an election fighting fund. Sometimes the sheriff calmly appropriates the whole of the fighting fund and chances re-election. The county supervisors are nearly all Hawaiians, and appoint Hawaiians to be road workers, clerks, and other officials. The road-men shirk their duties, with the connivance of the Hawaiian overseer; the officials are generally dishonest; the police are hopelessly incompetent, and are often in league with gamblers and sly-grog sellers, who pay bribes as the price of immunity from prosecution; and so the travesty of law and order goes on. Hawaiian police officers revel in an opportunity to employ the American inquisitorial torture known as the Third Degree but they improve upon it by using threats of personal violence. In one case, during the writer's stay in Hawaii, they in this way extorted a confession of guilt from a Portuguese boy, who was proved to be innocent after he had suffered imprisonment. Supposing Home Rule were granted to India, there can be no doubt that the Hindus would make the same use of political power as the Hawaiians, and life would be made well-nigh unbearable to the hundred thousand or so of British people resident in the great dependency.

The fact that the Hawaiians have learned the use of the political "machine" and the secret of "graft" from American exemplars only emphasizes the truth that contact between white and colored races has a deteriorating effect on both. They copy each other's vices and despise each other's ideals, with the result that both sink in the social and moral scale. Our religion has been almost powerless to stop this downward tendency; indeed, in many cases, the Christianized man of color is less reliable than the heathen. It is doubtful if Christianity will ever make headway among Asiatics, who have an older religion of their own. Africans take kindly to emotional Christianity, but it produces only a superficial or temporary effect upon their characters and actions. In view of the great preponderance of Asiatics, the result on religion of a mingling of a white and colored races would be to import into Christianity elements of mysticism and fatalism, which would tend to weaken our sense of moral responsibility, making us also less strenuous and ambitious to excel. In every way, as it appears to me, we shall lose by the awakening of Asia.

FIRST AID.

During the warm weather, attacks of diarrhoea are very frequent and often are so swift in their results that life is in danger before a physician can be summoned. Every man who has the interest of his family at heart should keep a reliable remedy in his home for immediate use in cases of this kind. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is, without doubt the best remedy prepared for diarrhoea. It should be given if possible, at the first unusual looseness of the bowels. THE MUSIC OF HAWAII.

Sydney Telegraph: Mr. Ernest Kaai of the Royal Hawaiian Concert party, talks interestingly of Hawaii as a musical country. "Hawaiians," he states, "all live for song and music. At every gathering there is music of some kind. There is music at their festivities, and music at times of sorrow. The national anthem was written by the lately-deceased King Kalakaua, the author of several songs. The native instrument, the ukulele, is a creation from the old Hawaiian instrument, the ukeke. Originally it was of two strings, with no set tuning to it, and it was strummed with straw. Now there are four strings, and the instrument covers every known chord in music. The Royal Hawaiian band is subsidized by the government. The members always play when steamers are departing, for this is an old custom and wreaths of flowers are given to the passengers, the wish being that they shall have good luck, the wreath or "lei" signifying respect and love for the departing one."

COURTEOUS TO THE LAST.

A visitor to the jail in a New England city was much impressed by the manners of the few prisoners. "They seem so gentle and so polite," she said. "I knew there were no hardened criminals here, but I was not prepared for such courteous, even cordial, reception."

"Oh, they're cordial and courteous, all right," said the jailer, "but I'd rather have less manners, myself."

"You would!" and the visitor was evidently shocked. "I would, ma'am," repeated the jailer. "Six months ago one of the politest men I had here escaped one night, and left a note for me, saying, 'I trust you will pardon me for the liberty I take.'—Youth's Companion."

up with a sword in his hand. Such a heroic enterprise was unprecedented in the annals of Japan, and it would infinitely elevate the spirit of the Japanese people and influence them in a favorable direction. Lieutenant Shirase's action was not an empty bombastic example of grandiloquence, but it was the firing of the shell itself. This shot would awake the indolent nation from its slumber and inspire it with alertness and vigor. The profound faith of the lieutenant would not fail to crown him with success in the exploration. He (the speaker), in common with the people assembled would bid good-bye to the heroic lieutenant and his party, and hoped to welcome the party at the head of Shingawa Bay on their triumphant return.

Lieut. Shirase and Captain Nomura (master of the Kolman Maru), responding to the farewell messages, thanked the Japanese people for the support given them, and assured them that they would not fail to accomplish their object.

A long, rakish-looking vessel, light grey in color, with three masts of equal height, and a squat, dark stump of a funnel, briefly describes the Japanese vessel. At the stern, where a projecting rack is fixed to the bulwark, is a bundle of very lightly—almost precariously—constructed sledges. Forward of that is the wheelhouse, a sort of wooden hood, which shelters the steersman. Just in front of the wheel is the entrance to the chart-room and officers' quarters. The bunks are crowded into a small space in the crew's quarters, forward, and are reached by a yawning abyss of a stairway. They are arranged in tiers. However, it looks comfortable enough, and should, certainly be warm and snug. Between the officers' quarters and those of the crew is the cook's galley, quite a commodious pace, with a brick-up fireplace, and generously equipped with cooking utensils.

TAKING CENSUS BY NIGHT.

The method of taking the census at night in Colombo, Ceylon, is described in interesting fashion by the superintendent of the census. After saying that the population, taken on the night of March 10, 1911, was 211,184, an increase 33 1/2 per cent over the census of 1901, he says:

"The work of the enumerators was arduous—the success of the preliminary enumeration depended the final success of the census—the enumerators had to visit over 100 houses and obtain full and correct particulars with regard to their inmates, they completed their enumeration in a week, February 6th to 13th; all schedules were checked by the end of the following week, and the results of the preliminary enumeration were available on March 6. I personally inspected the work of 200 enumerators and can testify to the careful and efficient manner in which the large majority did their work.

"I think it will be found that the number of rickshaw coolies and beggars enumerated at this census in Colombo is very large. The enumeration of these two classes presents considerable difficulties. The outdoor population of Colombo at night is very considerable, and special measures were taken to enumerate the coal, wharf and boat coolies sleeping on the fore-shore, the numerous rickshaw stands and the wanderers who make the Raquet Court, Price Park and other open spaces their resting places for the night. Many of the enumerators were working until 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning. The attitude of the people was excellent. Lights were displayed in nearly every house, and persons remained awake with the doors of their houses open until the arrival of the enumerator, often at a very late hour. Considerable interest was taken, especially in the poorer quarters, in seeing that every one was enumerated, and many persons who were not in their houses at the time the enumerators called came to inquire whether their names had been included.

"Considerable help was rendered by the police in keeping the streets clear and warning persons that they should be at their houses when the enumerator visited them. The Superintendent of Police of Colombo, the inspectors and other police officers visited all parts of the town. The census of the police force in Colombo was also very carefully taken.

"I desire also to acknowledge the great assistance rendered by the many labor forces. Steps were taken at the principal mills and works to inform the workmen that they should see that they were enumerated that night, and that they should stay in their houses until the enumerator visited them. At most works there was no night work on the census night."

Pole. Captain Amundsen reported that the health of the expedition was excellent. The Fram is proceeding to Buenos Ayres and will return the following season to embark Amundsen.

The Terra Nova left for M'Murdo Sound, and found a message from the Discovery but depot. The party were all well. The vessel proceeded north and encountered a heavy southerly gale off Cape Adare. She was blown over a hundred miles north, and made land east of Smith's Inlet. She followed the coast for a distance of two miles, to Robertson's Bay. Landing was impossible, owing to the precipitous and heavily glaciated coast.

The eastern party are wintering at Cape Adare. The ship proceeded to explore to the east of Cape North, finding no pack south of Balleny Island in 68 degrees 40 minutes south. She encountered strong winds till February 23, when mountainous land was discovered in about latitude 69 degrees 50 minutes south and longitude 163 degrees 23 minutes east. The ship was hampered by cloudy and foggy weather, and was forced away from the land by heavy pack ice. She found the coast line again in February 25, in latitude 69 degrees 20 minutes south and longitude 159 degrees east. She was unable to approach nearer than twelve miles, and was caught in an exceptionally heavy pack. She was released the next day by the wind shifting.

The ship followed the coast line northwest for thirty miles, but was unable to approach closer than ten miles, owing to the pack. The whole coast is hilly and rugged, with numerous glaciers. The higher land was mostly obscured by low clouds the whole time.

The ship was prevented from getting further west than 68 degrees 30 minutes south and 158 degrees 15 minutes east, and was forced eastward, skirting the pack, until in the vicinity of the Ballenies. She was frequently stopped entirely by the pack, and was once stationary for three days. She cleared the pack on March 8, in latitude 64 degrees 23 minutes south and longitude 161 degrees 39 minutes east.

Interesting soundings were taken, and the biologist obtained some excellent trawls in 200 fathoms. The health of all is excellent.

GREAT JANSEN

Seeking the solution for the strange and the sensational, the people of the world have at all times turned to magic, at first as a belief, attributing supernatural powers to the masters of the art. Their powers have been and are supernatural only to the extent that their minds have passed beyond the common ability to conceive and their ingenuity surpasses that of their fellows who wonder at their works. From the Orient to the Occident have come strange tales of the illusions wrought by fakirs, almost revered as a profession and whose powers have been described as more than human. In the Eastern world have arisen many magicians, and illusionists, each adding something to that which had gone before, until the final glory has apparently been achieved by Jansen. The performances that were detailed in books of fiction have to him become facts. He actually presents the things attributed to the strolling magicians of the far East, but never by them produced. Jansen has devoted his life to study and application. To his overwhelming ability he has brought the support of ample wealth, so that he has been able to produce all the accessories that have been required for the creation of the effects that have surprised and delighted the people of all the great cities of America, and have placed the name Jansen at the head of the list of entertainers throughout the Occident. His personal history has been the record of phenomenal success. His acts have always borne the stamp of originality. He has not copied. Suggestions in the minds of the most fanciful writers have by Jansen been demonstrated, until they appear as facts. For the first time, by anyone, will be presented by Jansen on this world tour, acts that heretofore have had no existence outside the imagination of story writers. He cannot afford to allow a promise to fail. He stands at the head of his art and illusionists, and he has helped to make their success a possibility, conceiving and producing the paraphernalia which is all important to the skillful manipulator. Jansen carries more effects than were ever transported for his presentations. Time may unfold new wonders of the human mind and prove new triumphs of the human hand, but until now, in the field he has chosen to make his own, Jansen stands forth as the commanding figure and supreme intellect. Jansen is supported by an all-star American company, among them De Hallis and Valora, the famous jugglers; Miss Daisy Thorne, operatic soloist; "Musical Story," the best musical act of America, and others. This great American company will be in Honolulu at the Orpheum Theater, commencing Wednesday, May 31.

DURING WARM WEATHER.

Honolulu is pleasant at all times of the year, but during the summer months Haleiwa offers greater attractions to those who are inclined to field sports as well as those who demand quiet and rest. It is an ideal spot and now is the time to get room reservations for the summer vacation. Manager Kimball makes guests comfortable. He arranges little entertainments for them and looks after the cuisine and service as it was never looked after before. For a long or short summer vacation Haleiwa is the spot.
