Another Attack

Ray Stannard Baker Takes Another
Slap at the Planters.

"Human Nature in Hawaii: How the Few want the Many to Work for Them—Perpetually and at Low Wages," is the title of Ray Stannard Baker's article of his Hawaiian series, which appears in the January number of the American Magazine.

Mr. Baker quotes from the local papers, school commissioners report and from personal conversations. Some of his remarks are as follows:

As I have already shown, practically everything in Hawaii depends upon the sugar industry—all the wealth, the fine houses, the beautiful buildings, the smooth automobile roads, the extraordinary charitable and benevolent institutions. And the sugar industry depends largely upon the labor of these foreign peoples, mostly Japanese, upon the land.

When Hawaii was admitted into the American union, no more Chinese could be brought in. Therefore, the Hawaiian planters turned to the next great source of labor, the Japanese. An aristocracy does not care a whit where labor comes from or what it is, so long as backs and biceps are strong, and souls are sodden and unambitious. But democracy in its rough way desires not merely workers, but associates and neighbors. And the democracy of the Pacific Coast, where the Japanese were also crowding in, began to protest and expostulate. The Japanese were coming too fast, there was no time to get acquainted or to arrive at mutual understandings; they could not associate with them. Consequently the Japanese stream was cut off, both on the mainland and in Hawaii.

The planters had already been bringing in, at large expense, shipments of Portuguese peasants and this was now continued, but the supply was still inadequate. So they tried bringing in ignorant Porto Ricans, ignorant Koreans, ignorant Russian peasants from Siberia, and, more recently, considerable numbers of underfed and diseased Filipinos.

So urgent is the need of labor that two separate immigration bureaus are maintained in the islands. One is privately supported by the Planters' Association, the other by the Territorial government, and both expend very large sums of money yearly. As a matter of fact, both of the bureaus represent the planters' interest, one being the right hand of the Planters' Association, the other the left hand.

The purpose of both organizations of course, is to get cheap laborers, but the Territorial bureau represents what may be called the progressive element among the planters. It seeks to bring in white men and to offset Oriental immigration by that of peasant white labor from Europe. It hopes thus to "Americanize" the islands. It has the hearty support of men like Governor Frear and Dr. Victor S. Clark, who is the leading spirit on the Territorial board and who is intensely in earnest upon this subject. The bureau of the Planters' Association, on the other hand, is bringing in Filipinos—in spite of the objections and warnings of the medical authorities.

Those who favor white immigration are having to meet all sorts of difficulties. In the first place the Asiatic element in the islands is now overwhelmingly predominant, and

Almost Intervention

Large Force Held Ready For Trouble at a Moment's Notice.

That the United States has been for months on the verge of intervention in the troubled politics of China, was the information brought by the army transport Sherman, when she arrived in Honolulu. According to officers on the transport the United States government has been holding a force of approximately fifteen hundred men in readiness, for immediate service in China ever since last October.

Nothing was spared in order that the expedition as planned in Washington might be thoroughly equal to the stern task it was designed to accomplish. Men from other regiments in the Philippines were exchanged into the infantry and cavalry commands selected for the service. A detachment of signal corps men and another from the hospital corps were detailed, outfitted and received their orders to hold themselves in readiness to move at a moment's notice, as early as October 15 last.

According to the information obtained the expedition was to have been made up of the entire Thirtieth Infantry under the command of Col. Frederick W. Sibley, a squadron of the Seventh Cavalry under the command of Lieut.-Col. William J. Nicholson, a battery of field artillery, a detachment of the signal corps from F company, and a detachment from the hospital corps attached to the military hospitals in Manila.

In speaking of the matter one of the officers of the Seventh Infantry said that while the orders were kept very secret, some knowledge of them leaked out in the city while the transport Sherman was lying at the dock awaiting orders to hurry the force to China, but that nothing definite was made public. The officers and their ladies then on board the transport were ordered to hold themselves in readiness to remove their effects at a moment's notice in order to clear the ship for the more warlike force.

The commands selected by General Bliss in response to the orders from Washington were kept practically under arms for several weeks and then, as the apparent need for intervention diminished, the strain slackened and officers and men of the detachments were allowed more liberty.

While nothing definite could be learned from officers on board the transport yesterday, who were evidently of the opinion that discretion was their best policy, it is understood that the expedition was to have sailed for Tien-Tsin, and was to have followed pretty much the course taken by the allies during the Boxer troubles back in 1900. This time, however, history did not repeat herself and the commands, while still under waiting orders when the Sherman left Manila, had abandoned all hope of any "fun at the front."

Everyone ought to come to hear Mr. Smith, as he is a very well known speaker, and for years was in the greatest demand in New England and the East as a popular and Chautauqua lecturer. His press commendations are among the very highest. Frederick J. Stanley, the Oriental Traveler and Lecturer says of Mr. Smith "His public efforts evidence wide research, thorough preparation and heartfelt enthusiasm in his message."

School Scandal

Hawaii In For Another Airing of Her
School Troubles.

HILO, December 29.—For the past couple of weeks the county attorney's department and Sheriff Pua have been working quietly on the investigation of charges, which, it is feared, may work out into the worst school scandal which the Islands have ever seen. The investigation culminated last Thursday morning in the swearing out of a warrant against Principal Wilson of the school at Hilea, Kau. The charge is one of criminal assault upon more than one of his girl pupils.

The Hilea affair was first brought to the attention of the county authorities a couple of weeks ago, when Lillian Wilson, the daughter of the principal, was arrested together with one Kahaule Aipu, a young Hawaiian, for committing a statutory offense. According to the law, the parties in such cases may, when they legally marry, escape the punishment otherwise meted out on such a charge. It seems that the Wilson girl and her lover tried to take advantage of this way out of their trouble, when they ran up against an unexpected snag in that the girl's father declined to give his consent to the match. As the girl was only seventeen years of age, no marriage license could be issued to her, except with the consent of her parents. The Kau authorities therefore decided to let the law take its course, and Lillian was sentenced to incarceration in the industrial school for girls pending the rest of her minority.

At this point the plot thickened, for the girl protested that her father had been guilty of a serious offense towards her. The sheriff rushed over to Kau, and arrived there just in time to stop the girl's being sent to Honolulu in the steamer.

The sheriff, assisted by Deputy Sheriff Kekaula, immediately proceeded to make a thorough investigation, during the course of which statements were taken from Lillian Wilson and from four other girls, all young Hawaiians or part-Hawaiians. The allegations made by these girls were so serious that the authorities were for some time undecided what nature of a charge they should enter. The evidence given spoke in the plainest of terms. The girls stated, one after another, that they had, at one time or another as the individual case might be, stayed in the same room with Lillian Wilson, when Wilson had given them wine to drink, after which more serious happenings had taken place. The character of the testimony was such as to induce the authorities to press a charge of rape against Wilson. The Wilson girl named no less than seven school girls, who, she claimed, had been staying with her and had been victims of as well as witnesses to her father's alleged offenses. She added that her sister, Violet, was another sufferer, and that she herself had run away from home merely in order to escape from her father.

Wilson is an American by birth. He has been in the Islands many years, having entered the service of the department of public instruction in 1894. He taught for several years at Kalapana, where he is said to have had trouble with some of the parents of pupils, and has been the principal of the Hilea school since September, 1904. He holds a first class primary certificate. His wife, a Hawaiian, has been teaching

Champion Bowler

Garden Island Spills More Hot Air
About Bowling.

With its usual exuberance the Garden Island publishes an account of some recent bowling matches, in which Ed. Deinert figured. We take it for granted that our contemporary has the score right at least, as it would really be too bad, should they thus explode, and later find that the score was twisted. Mr. Deinert did not have the highest score in the recent match with Kauai, as stated by the Garden Island, and in fact Ed was away off in his bowling on that occasion, and we are confident that his natural bashfulness would never allow him to pose as a champion. This also must have originated in the over fertile brain of the newspaper man, who was eager to grasp at any straw to offset the recent beating Kauai received at the hands of the Maui bowlers. We give herewith the account of the matches:

Mr. Deinert, of Maui, a member of the Puunene Bowling Club, is spending his vacation with relatives here. Mr. Deinert holds the highest individual score in the recent Maui-Kauai Contest, for the Maui team, while H. Wolters enjoys this distinction for Kauai.

The courtesies of the Kegel Club have been extended Mr. Deinert during his visit and on Saturday night he was the club's guest. During the evening, some member suggested that as the two holding the highest scores in the representative teams were present, it would be interesting to pit them against each other in a final try out. The suggestion met with such favor that, tho' Mr. Deinert did not profess to be an expert, and was unfamiliar with the alley, he would stand pat and "do or die." It is said to relate however, that he died—tho' game. The following scores, give some idea of how it happened:

Wolters...199 155 156 153 184—847
Deinert...154 160 174 134 140—762

Mr. Deinert being possessed with a letter from the secretary of the Maui aggregation, it would seem that the above scores have an official ring.

E. F. Deinert, Maui's champion bowler, for the second time within a week, was put down and out at the Kegel Club last Tuesday evening. This time his own father did the trick. The scores were such up to the last inning as to make it look pretty dubious for Deinert Sr., but he manfully stayed with his guns. Excitement ran high at this point, when the last roll showed "dad" the winner, it is said by some that only the presence of the sheriff kept the roof of the building on. "I expected defeat by other members," said Deinert Jr., "but I am surprised that 'dad' could do it." Mr. Deinert didn't seem to mind his "beating" a bit however—nor did anybody else. He is very much pleased with his reception by the club.

A proposition is in the air which may eventually materialize into a reality, to the effect that there be another Kauai-Maui Contest, this time to consist of three or five games—two best out of three, or three best out of five, one game to be played each Saturday.

Moving Pictures.

THAT people like to see really good, educational moving pictures and are willing to pay even more than the 5 or 10 cent price was shown by the exhibition of the coronation pictures during two recent weeks. At every exhibition the house was well filled although the lowest price for a seat in the gallery was 25 cents, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

The motion picture is a truly wonderful invention and it is a pity to waste it on trivial and inferior subjects. It can be made to combine in a wonderful degree entertainment and instruction, exhibiting the marvels of nature, the interesting sights of foreign lands, and even imparting a good deal of scientific knowledge. On the latter Thomas A. Edison has this to say in Harper's Weekly:

Take a pump. Did you ever learn out of your school book how a pump pumped and why it is pumped? No; but as soon as you actually saw a pump at work you understood right away. Well, in the moving picture drama I'll have a fellow build a pump, make all the parts and put them together. The section of tube facing the camera will be made of glass, so the children can see all that's inside of it. They'll see the piston drive down, the little valve, the trap door, fly up as the plunger is forced under water, close down again as the plunger is drawn up, and the water raised up the tube. Steam engine the same way—they'll see the water boil and the steam go through the cylinders and drive the engine.

Perhaps pump may seem a less interesting subject for moving picture instruction than some other things that might be selected. Nature study, for instance, could be made as full of action as anybody might want.

Mr. Edison suggests one example by describing how we might see, in the pictures, a man walking in the woods carrying a tomato can, which he fills with water from a pond. With no break he returns to his laboratory and pours the water into a tank and forthwith, by the aid of the microscope, we see a hideous helgramite down at the bottom, and all the water above him full of little creatures devouring one another. Up at the top is a water beetle—he looks like a dragon before the microscope. Down he plunges, and stabs the helgramite in the neck; the latter fights back, but finally the beetle wins and gobbles his prey.

Action? There certainly is plenty in that. And the scene would be educative also. Our learning about things is too much made up of reading about them instead of looking at them. Some day, no doubt, our schools will make use of motion pictures to supplement and illustrate the text-books. In the meantime the motion picture theaters are losing an opportunity in not combining more instruction with their entertainment.

As good a bit of economic philosophy as I heard while in the Hawaiian Islands came from the lips of a curious character who keeps a little stopping place in the Island of Maui. When he took our bags at the wharf, my companion asked him how the town was prospering. "Oh," said he, "we're all right so long as the Japs keep on working."

—Ray Stannard Baker.

Watch Meeting Episode.

(By Willis Hawkins)

FOR seven mortal years on end
Sim Lucas courted Mary Burr
Till folks began to apprehend
He wouldn't never capture her.
Yit Sim he stuck an' hung to it
An' swore by jing, he'd never quit
Till she give in an' named the day
When she'd love, honor an' obey.
He'd dog her ev'rywhere she'd go.
No other feller got a chance
To take her out to any show
Or party, festival or dance.
An' allus of a Sunday night
We'd see the same familiar sight
Of Sim a-waitin' by the door
To take her home f'm church once more.
The women all took sides with Sim,
An' some talked plain to Mary Burr,
A-sayin' they regarded him
As jes' the fitting man fer her.
But Mary wouldn't bugde a peg,
She jes' sot back and let him beg
Till somep'n happened Noo Year's eve
That all us men could hardly b'lieve.
Watch meetin' had begun a-while
When with a sort o' gallus stride
Sim come a-marching down the aisle
With Sallie Goodwin at his side.
An' when, as if not seein' her
They sot in front of Mary Burr
All around the church the women folks
Grinned like it was the best of jokes.
Nex' mornin' Mary chanced to meet
With Sim (I guess she made the chance),
An' there, right out upon the street,
She ast him to the leap year dance.
Then Sim walked with her to her gate,
An' on her way she sealed her fate.
That's how one wedding come about
Through watchin' of the old year out.

First Lady Of China

Long Lived Here on Maui and Raised
Her Family.

While the name and fame of Dr. Sun Yat Sen have sped around the world since the commencement of the revolution in China, little thought has been given to the feminine side of the new order of things in that vast nation. The world is hardly prepared to grasp the fact that in future there will be no Empress Dowager of China, but a "First Lady of the Land." That lady will be our fellow islander Loo See, wife of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, whose last residence in Hawaii was at Kula.

All her life Loo See lived in the Hawaiian Islands, and in the little Kula home she dwelt with Doctor Sun's mother, while her husband wandered the world, teaching the propaganda of republicanism for the 400,000,000 of Chinese. In the past twelve years Doctor Sun was seldom at home. Occasionally he slipped into Honolulu from abroad, mysteriously, and came to Maui to visit his aged mother and his wife and their small ones, and then as mysteriously he slipped away again, to continue his self-imposed task of creating sympathy for the "new China."

Loo See's life has not been cast in smooth places for she has had a horror for many years that some day the information would be brought to her that her husband had been entrapped by the Manchus carried to Peking, and there beheaded, for a price of $350,000 had long ago been placed upon his head by the imperial government.

Three years ago Loo See and her family went to Honolulu from Maui with Doctor Sun's mother. While in Honolulu they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chan Kim, in a lane off Vineyard street, on the Ewa side of Nuuanu stream.

Loo See spoke English well, almost as well as her husband. She, too, had faith in the success of the doctor's plans. She said then that the doctor had sent for his family to go to the Orient, and she at once made ready for the journey.

Dr. Sun's mother died in Kowloon about two years ago, but Mrs. Sun is now in Penang, in the Straits Settlements, with all the family, save for the eldest son, Sun Fo, who is now in Honolulu.

Doctor Sun is a Christian, for he was educated in Iolani College, the old Anglican school in Honolulu, and was baptized by Frank Damon, who is also responsible for the high ideals of American civil government which Doctor Sun early took as his standard for the government he hoped one day to establish in China.

Paia News.

Mrs. Jno. M. Medeiros presented her husband with a ten pound baby girl last Saturday morning at 4:30. Both mother and child are doing well.

The Paia Dramatic Club is rehearsing a three act comedy, to be staged at Fernandez new show house in the near future.

The members of the Paia baseball team were the guests of Jno. M. Medeiros at a large luau, last Sunday, at his home in Lower Paia.

The New Year's dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Nunes to their many friends was a very brilliant affair. The Paia Quintett club furnished music for the occasion.

Mrs. Antone Fernandez, Jr., who for the past five months has been confined to her home with inflammatory rheumatism is recovering slowly.

There are two cases of diphtheria in the camps of the H. C. & S. Co. Both are under strict quarantine.

Successful Tournament.

The Puunene club again came to the front Monday with an inter-club tennis tournament. The playing started at 10 o'clock in the morning and continued until late in the afternoon, with an intermission at the noon hour, when refreshments were served. The best teams from the Paia, Kahului and Puunene clubs participated in the tournament, and some excellent tennis was the result. The Puunene club won with a score of 68 points, Paia 57, and Kahului 30.

The committee in charge deserve great credit for the manner in which the arrangements were made, and especially is this true in the serving of the refreshments. The big crowd were all seated in the big hall at the club house, and many were the expressions of satisfaction at the splendid arrangement.

After the regular tournament had been finished a number of special matches were played between the different teams. Perhaps the one which created the most interest was between F. F. Baldwin and C. E. Meyers against W. Walsh and J. B. Thompson. Walsh and Thompson started the first set with a rush and had their opponents on the run till it looked like an easy win. Meyers and Baldwin pulled together however, and won the set 8-6. The last set was easy, and the players were all pretty well tired out.

J. J. Walsh was on hand taking the picture of everyone and presenting them with their photo engaged in a dainty New Year's card. This proved quite a novel and entertaining feature.

An Innovation.

Realizing it is sometimes inconvenient for our patrons residing outside of Kahului, to visit our furniture store, we propose to send the store to them, through the medium of our new catalog, displaying photographs of everything which we carry in stock. It will only be necessary for anyone desiring to purchase any article, be it ever so small, to telephone or write to the Kahului Store Furniture Department, when the catalog will be immediately forwarded. A selection can be made, and the catalog returned to us. We will be pleased to forward catalog whether purchases are made or not, as we are anxious to show the fine line of furniture carried.

Extending our sincere thanks for past patronage, we remain,
Very sincerely,

Wailuku Wins.

A match game was played on the Puunene bowling alleys, after the tennis matches on Monday, between a team from Wailuku and one from Puunene. The Wailuku team had little difficulty in winning the match, and they rolled a steady, consistent game throughout. Meyers of Wailuku rolled the high score of the day with a string of 215 in the second game. The Wailuku team was made up of the following players: C. E. Meyers, W. Chillingworth, W. E. Bal, Frank Lufkin, and C. C. Clark. The Puunene team were H. E. Savage, C. C. Campbell, J. B. Thompson, Harold Rice, and W. Walsh.

Another match will be rolled between the teams in the near future.

Had Seen One.

An English comedian told of appearing before a swell London audience at the house of a noble lord. The language of his listeners made him feel not too happy, and he was glad to get through and retire to the dressing room allotted him. While he was removing the grease paint a very young peer who had strolled after him stood watching the process. He told the comedian in the most approved drawl that some of his sayings had really been rather funny, "especially that one, you know, where your wife made a pancake on a gridiron and the pancake slipped through and put the fire out. That made me laugh awfully, because I know what a gridiron is. I have seen one."

Forgot a Detail.

An absentminded professor who shall be nameless was reading about a great feat of engineering that aroused his enthusiasm. Suddenly he sprang from his chair and advanced toward his wife. His manner betrayed his excitement.
"Now, listen to me, wife," he said, "and I do not want you to oppose me. Do you hear?"
"Yes, dear. What is it, then?"
"Now, no opposition, mind! I wish the boy to be an engineer."
"But, my dear, what are you talking about? We haven't any boy."
"Oh, yes, that is so. I had forgotten that," said the professor as he resumed his seat in the rocking chair.

WOULDN'T STAY OUSTED.

Champ Clark's Church Experience in His Early Days.

Champ Clark became a member of the Campbellite church very early in life, and thereby hangs a tale.

While still a young man he went to the town of Louisiana, Mo., to establish himself. The town was a lousy, bustling, typical Mississippi river town of the steamboat era, and there was a good deal of life there, in which Mr. Clark became a factor. Evening parties to take moonlight trips up and down the river were very much in vogue, and one evening the young lawyer went up the river on one of these parties, which had chartered a barge called the Mamie, in tow of the river steamer War Eagle. There was dancing all the way up the river and back, and Mr. Clark, in the youthful exuberance of his spirits, was one of the gay throng.

When the next Sunday rolled around and young Clark, unconscious of the coming storm, went as usual to the Campbellite church, where a few weeks previous he had put in his letter from the church he had belonged to back east, his case was called up, and after a swift but formal trial before services at the bar of the church he was ignominiously expelled from membership for dancing. Chagrined, humiliated and crestfallen, young Clark wandered forth in a despondent mood, but after walking around for a time he resolutely returned to the church, slipped in and took a seat on the last bench in the rear, observed by none. There he sat and heard a sermon on backsliding that seemed to be directed at him alone.

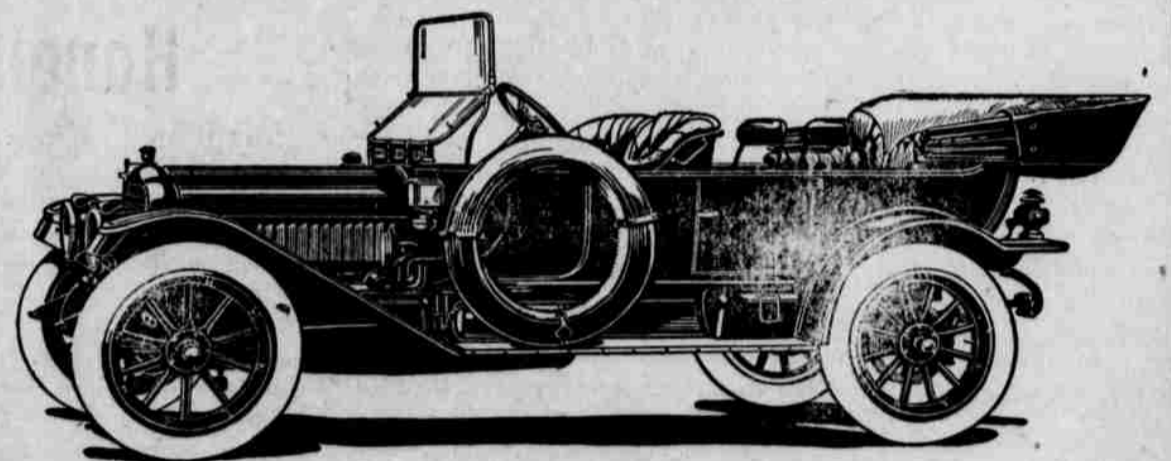

As was the custom in the Campbellite church, an invitation was extended by the pastor at the end of the sermon for repentant sinners to come forward and kneel at the chancel.

When this invitation was extended Champ Clark solemnly arose, marched forward to the mourners' bench and, to the astonishment of the congregation, took his place with the penitents. The pastor was nonplussed; the presiding elder gasped; the deacons were stunned with astonishment, and all were temporarily at their wits' end to know what to do with the repentant brother who only that morning had been expelled from the congregation. The book containing the rules and laws of the church was hastily dug up and consulted. All the officials put their heads together, but there was only one thing to do—a repentant sinner could not be turned away, so Clark went back into the fold and there abided to this day.

Scareful.

The family at the supper table had been discussing a horse frightened by an automobile into running away. After silently listening for awhile, little Mary finally looked up from her plate.

"I don't blame horses," she said, "for being afraid of automobiles. You would be, too, if you were a horse."
"Why, Mary?" asked her father.
"Well," said Mary, "wouldn't you be scared if you saw a pair of pants coming along without a man in them?"
—Everybody's.

THE WHITE "SIX"

A man doesn't have to be a mechanic to recognize the simplicity of the WHITE motor. If he is at all familiar with the appearance of motors he will be likely to think, looking at a WHITE, that some parts are missing. It is all there, however, and whatever parts have been eliminated result in its efficiency, simplicity and economy of operation. To the average man the WHITE motor is the most attractive part of the car because its probability to need repairs is minimized, and, if it does need adjusting its construction is not so bewildering that he cannot make minor repairs himself, however little he may know of mechanics.

Five Important Features of White Motors

First of all, the four cylinders are cast en bloc—that is in one piece. This construction gives a rigidity to the crank case and keeps the bearings in alignment.

The cylinders each have a three and three-fourth inch bore and five and one-eighth inch stroke. The stroke is very long in proportion to the bore, resulting in increased power with less effort, which means maximum efficiency and gasoline economy.

There are four forward speeds, with direct drive on the third, which means a speed for every condition, giving greater road efficiency, and making it unnecessary to overtax the engine at any time.

WHITE motors are equipped with a honeycomb radiator in which the cooling surface is practically twice that of an ordinary kind. This radiator is the most efficient of which we know, and, because of its high cost, is used only in the better grade of cars.

A double oiling system is used. After lubricating the connecting rod bearings, the oil drops into the crank case, where it is used in the regular splash system. Besides being a very effective means of lubrication, the economy of using the oil twice is apparent. The crank shaft casing and the side plates on the motor, which when removed make the crank shaft accessible, confines the oil to the inside of the motor, preventing a general besmearing with oil which would otherwise occur.

The Scrap Book

Rank Cheating. Speaking of family poker parties, this really happened in Cleveland, says the Plain Dealer.

A young married couple attended such a session at the home of a neighbor out on the edge of Collinwood the other night. And when this young couple got home the female end of the sketch said:

"Jim, I hate to say anything about the Halls—they seem to be nice people. But I'm afraid they cheat at cards."

"Nonsense!" "I knew you'd say that, and it's dear of you to be so unsuspecting. But—well, what was the price of the chips tonight? Five cents each? That's what I thought. Jim, I examined those chips carefully, and they're the very same thing that I could have bought at Jones' store for a dollar a hundred, in all three colors too!"

Why Repine? Why, why repine, my pensive friend. At pleasure slept away? Some stern fates will never lend And all refuse to stay.

I see the rainbow in the sky, The dew upon the grass. I see them, and I ask not why They glimmer or they pass.

With folded arms I linger not To call them back; 'twere vain. In this or 'n some other spot I know they'll shine again. —W. S. Lander.

A Phenomenon. He was an odd character about town. He was known as Tommy and was tolerated because of his quaint ways. Tommy got pneumonia and had a long siege in the hospital, where they treated him so well that he was much averse to the prospect of being discharged as "cured."

One day the doctor in charge was taking his temperature, and while Tommy had the thermometer in his mouth the doctor moved on and happened to turn his back. Tommy saw his chance. He pulled the thermometer out of his mouth and popped it into a cup of hot tea, replacing it in his mouth at the first sign of the medico turning.

When that worthy examined the thermometer he jumped a foot, looked at Tommy, then back to the thermometer and finally gasped: "Well, my man, you're not dead, but, by Jove, you ought to be!"

Royal Humor. The late King Leopold II. of Belgium once made a quick answer to a radical deputy who had said of the king that he would make an admirable president of a republic.

"Really?" replied the king, with his most ingenious air. "Really? Do you know, I think I shall pay a compliment in your style to my physician, Dr. Thirier, who is coming to see me presently. I shall say, 'Thirier, you are a great doctor, and I think you would make an excellent veterinary surgeon.'"

A Surprise For Horace Greeley. In the early days of the suffragist movement Miss Susan B. Anthony had no more bitter opponent than Horace Greeley. It was for a long time his custom to wind up all debates with the conclusive remark, "The best women I know do not want to vote."

When the New York constitution was being altered in 1867 Miss Anthony laid a train for him. She wrote to Mrs. Greeley and persuaded the editor's wife not only to sign a petition for woman's suffrage herself, but to circulate the paper and get 300 signatures among her acquaintances.

In the committee Mr. Greeley, who was chairman, had listened to the debate and prepared to introduce to the convention an adverse report. He was just about to utter his usual "settler" when George William Curtis rose.

"Mr. Chairman," said he, "I hold in my hand a petition for suffrage signed by 300 women of Westchester, headed by Mrs. Horace Greeley."

The chairman's embarrassment could hardly be controlled. He had found at least one of "the best women I know" wanted to vote, but he revenged himself later upon the leaders by scathing editorials.

One of Curran's Witticisms. Curran once had as colleague in a case a remarkably tall and slender man, who had originally intended to take holy orders. When the judge observed that the case involved a question in ecclesiastical law, Curran said, "I can refer your lordship to the high authority behind me, who was once intended for the church, though in my opinion he is fitter for the steeple."

A Comedy of Errors. When Baron Haussmann went to Constantinople on a visit to Abdul Aziz, who was then sultan, he had an interview with the grand vizier, who did not know a word of French. At the beginning of the interview the old long Turkish pipes were brought in, and then Baron Haussmann began making a very long speech in French. The grand vizier could not understand a word, but listened most attentively till he noticed that his pipe had gone out and clapped his hand for a servant to come and relight it. Haussmann, thinking he was applauding, rushed toward him with outstretched hand, intending to shake hands and thank him. The grand vizier, seeing his hand put forth, shook it warmly and said "Goodby," under the impression it was Haussmann's intention to leave, and quitted the room.

Murderer Captured

The Japanese Who Murdered the Woman
At Lahaina Caught.

Hashamoto, the Japanese murderer, who shot the Japanese woman Tuesday evening, was caught Friday morning, at Honokohau. It seems that the woman had been living with Hashamoto for some time, but on learning that he had a wife and child in Japan she left him, and went to live with Yamamoto, a cousin of the murderer. Hashamoto objected to this arrangement, so Yamamoto offered to buy the woman for $200. This was agreeable to Hashamoto, but the other man failed to come through with the two hundred bucks. Tuesday evening about eight o'clock, fortified with an over abundance of sake, the murderer went to the house of Yamamoto, and found them all in bed. After some hot words he drew a revolver and immediately Yamamoto grappled with him, and they went to the floor. In the scuffle Yamamoto was shot in the arm, and he got out leaving the woman alone. Hashamoto fired at her point blank, killing her instantly.

After the murder he went and jumped into the sea. He did not like drowning, however, and swam ashore and wandered along the beach. Becoming hungry he went into a native house, where he found Mrs. Paole. He told her he was a murderer and wanted something to eat. She notified the natives and when they returned to the house they tied the Jap up and sent for the sheriff.

The murderer says he threw the revolver into the water along the beach and the police are now trying to locate it.

The County machine belonging to the Sheriff's department is disabled, the differential housing being broken.

Rev. Mr. Turner Resigns.

At the morning service of the Makawao Union Church last Sunday, Dec. 31, 1911, a letter from Rev. Edward B. Turner, now in New York City, was read, in which he resigned his church, the resignation to take effect January first 1912.

As many know, Mr. Turner has been engaged in study at the Bible Teacher's Training School for the last few months. This school trains young men and women for teaching the English Bible. Two hundred pupils are now enrolled and they have a graduate list of over 15,000, though the school has been in existence only ten years. Dr. W. W. White is president of the institution.

Mr. Turner had a flattering offer to travel in the interests of the school. This is the reason for his resignation. His work will be to address college students throughout the United States, presenting the work of teaching the English Bible as a profession, thus seeking to build up its membership and standing of the school. A campaign for endowing the school is also inaugurated and in this work of raising funds Mr. Turner will also be engaged.

At a meeting held immediately after service, Mr. Turner's resignation was accepted.

A committee consisting of Mrs. H. P. Baldwin, Mrs. W. F. McConkey, Mr. W. S. Nicoll was appointed to look up a suitable pastor for the Church and report at some future meeting of the congregation.

Until a new pastor is selected Rev. R. B. Dodge of Wailuku has been engaged as permanent supply, who will preach at Makawao Sunday mornings.

Quite a number of Spanish laborers arrived from Honolulu Tuesday night. Those for this side of the island mostly went to the Wailuku Sugar Co.

Locals

Frank Lufkin is confined to the house with an attack of the grip.

R. A. Wadsworth goes to Hilo tonight to install the Hilo lodge K. of P.

A masquerade ball will be given at the Gymnasium on February 24th.

Mr. C. E. Myers has resigned his position as surveyor for the Wailuku Sugar Company.

George Weight has had a severe attack of rheumatism ever since he returned from Honolulu.

The child of Dr. Oyama which has been seriously ill for some time, died Thursday morning early.

The poles for the new electric light company are expected to arrive here on the Honolulu Sunday morning.

A large number of people enjoyed the dance at the Gymnasium last Saturday night. Mr. O. J. Whitehead was floor manager.

Mr. W. Leslie West wishes us to state that he is in no way connected with the vulcanizing works previously owned by J. W. Kersner.

The steamer Heiene made a special trip this week. She came to Kahului with considerable local freight, and from here went to Hawaii.

Capt. Bai has been doing some good work on the roads about Wailuku. The steam roller is at work on Kalua avenue this week, and that street is now fit for traffic. Work will soon begin on the Camp 1 road, and it will be put in first class shape.

What came very nearly being a serious fire occurred in the home of Dan Quill the other day. The little grandchildren were playing with matches and got the bed afire. Luckily Dan was in the house at the time and partly smothered the fire, and a hose did the rest. Dan is quite badly burned about the hands.

Maui Hotel arrivals: Wm. Rathman, R. F. Dempsey, Wm. Knight, I. T. Carr, A. W. Keech, Honolulu; Mrs. Chalmers, Hilo; G. Mills, Paul F. Lada, San Francisco; B. K. Miller, Miss Miller, Milwaukee; Louise C. Frain, Hana; J. B. Stewart, Denver; Mrs. Vaughan, Haiku; L. E. Hutchins, Paia; E. W. Deming, New York.

Don't forget the public meeting in the Library rooms of the Alexander House next week Monday evening, January 8th. The committee appointed on the Constitution and By-Laws have a careful report ready. Be there to help in the organization and become a Charter Member of the Maui Library Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodge and Mr. William H. Engle gave a bowling party at the Gymnasium on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Dora B. Engle, who is spending her vacation on Maui. There were present A. R. Wadsworth, Edith L. Baldwin, Harold Baldwin, Ernest Baldwin, Herbert Baldwin, Garnie E. Rosecrans, David S. Wadsworth, Elsa Meinecke, Cleo Case and Olive Lindsay, all Punahou students home for their Christmas vacation. After spending two pleasant hours at the Gymnasium the young people had refreshments at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dodge.

At the Orpheum.

Ed. Fernandez arrived this morning with You Go See, the great Chinese magician, direct from the Orient, the home of things mysterious. The first performance of this artist will be this evening, and his work is said to be very entertaining. In addition four reels of moving pictures, new, novel and exciting, will be shown.

Because of the good clean pictures being put on, the Orpheum is rapidly becoming very popular, while the vaudeville from time to time has proven very acceptable.

white workers who meet Asiatic competition must live on a very low scale. Moreover most of the planters would much prefer the Oriental—who is docile and industrious and who cannot become a citizen and voter. More than all else, however, it is very difficult to keep the imported white workers. Many of the Portuguese immigrants brought to Hawaii at large expense remain only long enough to save a little money and then fly to California, where the air is freer.

One of the underlying ideas of the planters in supporting the really sincere work of the government immigration bureau in attempting to bring in white peasant from Europe is frankly to meet the now overwhelming Japanese element with many other diverse peoples, with diverse customs and prejudices. A strike of Japanese workmen on several plantations two years ago caused the Planters' Association to see a great light in this connection. A population having no common language, no common ambitions, and being fierce competitors in the labor market, is difficult to organize, and therefore it becomes more unlikely that there can be any concerted movement that would tend to disturb conditions or shake the control of the small and closely associated and interrelated group of white men who dominate the islands. They approve the wisdom of Napoleon's motto, "Divide and you dominate."

But it would not be fair to present only these methods of legal force, for the planters are also pursuing other and constructive methods for keeping workmen in the islands and preserving the system by which they thrive, they have made many improvements in their methods of housing and treating workmen in the camps. Formerly, in contract-labor times, physical violence was of common occurrence; the Chinese were kicked and cuffed about without much ceremony. But with growing scarcity of labor and a growing self-consciousness on the part of labor, all this has passed away. Labor must be treated well. Especially since the Japanese strike of two years ago—which thoroughly frightened the planters—great progress has been made. White labor, especially, can not be attracted without being given better camp conditions. Everywhere I went, therefore, I found the planters building new houses, putting in better water connections, developing sewer systems, extending the free medical service and in many other ways making conditions more livable for the workmen. Often the manager permits the working people to use a bit of land around their houses, and it is surprising to see, as at Kahuku and Ewa, with what skill and beauty the Japanese have developed their little yards.

The effort of the planters at all hazards to maintain the present feudalistic system not only leads to "dividing and dominating" the laborers, but it finds further and perfectly logical expression in the hostility to the proper education of the children of the foreigners. Education brings people together, gives them a common language and common motives and it makes them ambitious. As one planter expressed it to me: "It spoils good workmen; turns the young men away from the plantations; disturbs political conditions." Save for some few exceptional schools (of which I shall speak later) I found the public schools, especially in the back country districts, nearly everywhere overcrowded, the buildings often miserably dilapidated, and not a few of the teachers inefficient and underpaid. In several instances owing to lack of facilities in public schools, I found rooms rented from private Japanese schools. Although a compulsory education law nominally exists, hundreds of children in the islands are getting no opportunity in the public schools.

Notwithstanding the enormous profits of the sugar industry, the growing wealth, and an almost passionate interest in charities and benevolences on the part of many rich people, the crucial element in our civilization—public education—is being neglected. They will spend hundreds of thousands of dollars a year for bringing in hordes of ignorant people and skimp and strain over the education of those they already have—and then wonder why labor will not remain in the islands!

Hana News.

New Year's passed off very quietly in Hana, it is an off year.

Mr. Biela of Hana, now chemist and sugar boiler of the Kaeleku Sugar Co., goes to Honolulu by this S. S. Kinau to be married to Mrs. Marie Scott, formerly of Hilo. They will be married at the Central Union Church, Wednesday evening, by Rev. Dr. Scudder.

D. P. Kao, while fishing at Hana had his hand blown off at the wrist. He is a very prominent young Hawaiian, and is an expert fisherman, but of course quick work and return is what has been the undoing of a lot of our men in this line along the Hana coast.

Mr. Carr, postal inspector, who has been spending his holidays in Hana for the last two weeks, returns by this steamer to resume his arduous duties.

Lahaina Lines

Last Saturday evening there was an enjoyable New Year's dance in Lahaina Hall. The decorations were very appropriate.

When the New Year came in, the church bells were rung, the mill whistles were sounded, together with fire crackers galore and gun firing. During the evening two parties of serenaders made the rounds, often receiving liberal compensation. On New Year's morning an Oriental band played at intervals, and the fish deity was invoked for blessings on Lahaina fisheries.

Mortgagee's Notice of Intention to Foreclose and of Sale.

Notice is hereby given that, under the power of sale contained in that certain mortgage of date November 16, 1908, from John Santos, of Kamaole, Kula, County of Maui, Territory of Hawaii, to G. Akuna of said Kamaole, of record in the office of the Registrar of Conveyances, in Honolulu, in Liber 312, on pages 30, 31 and 32, the present owner and holder thereof intends to foreclose the same and sell the mortgaged property therein named because of non-payment of principal and interest due on the promissory note secured thereby. The above mentioned mortgage was given to secure the payment of a promissory note for one thousand dollars, of even date therewith, payable one year after date, bearing interest at the rate of 9% per annum, executed by said John Santos to G. Akuna.

For value received said promissory note, together with said mortgage securing payment of the same, was sold and assigned to the First National Bank of Wailuku, a corporation, said Bank being the present owner and holder of said note and mortgage.

Notice is likewise given that, after the expiration of three weeks from date of first publication of this notice, to-wit on Saturday, January 27, 1912, at twelve o'clock noon of said day, the said mortgaged property, for the reasons above stated, will be sold at public auction at the front entrance to the First National Bank building on Main Street, in the town of Wailuku, County of Maui, Territory of Hawaii.

Terms of sale cash. Deeds at expense of purchaser.

For further particulars apply to the First National Bank of Wailuku, or D. H. Case, of Wailuku.
