CARTER IS CALLED

ANOTHER SENSATION FOLLOWING THE POLICE CHANGES—CARTER WILL NOT GIVE THE GRAND JURY HATTER'S REPORT—MIXING PRIVATE FUNDS AND PUBLIC MONEY A CAUSE FOR PROSECUTION, SAYS THE GOVERNOR.

The principal developments in the police department shake-up today were the issuance of subpoena for Governor Carter, to appear in the police court with the "undated resignation" of Judge Lindsay, if he has such a document, in the matter of the trials of Dow and Mossman for embezzlement, and reports that the Grand Jury was preparing to take a hand and considerably widen the investigations.

The subpoena for Carter was issued at the call of George A. Davis, attorney for Dow, and was served on the governor this morning. It is understood that Davis proposes to try to show that Lindsay has no jurisdiction to try the cases, because of the alleged resignation. On the other hand, it is claimed that as the resignation is an unaccepted one it is of no effect. Davis' action created quite a sensation about town this morning.

Ever since the Hatter bomb-shell was exploded by Governor Carter in the police camp there has been more or less speculation as to what the Grand Jury would do in the matter. The Grand Jury is in a large sense the custodian of the public morals and here it has been published under the authority of no less a person than the Governor himself that he has a report

ALICE KIMBALL WAS WRECKED

WELL KNOWN VESSEL LOST OFF MOUTH OF SIUSLAW RIVER—REPORTED TO BE GOING TO PIECES

News of the loss of the schooner Alice Kimball was brought today by the S. S. Ventura. The dispatch is as follows:

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 19.—A special to the Telegram from Eugene, Or., reports the schooner Alice Kimball, from San Francisco, ashore one mile south of the mouth of the Siuslaw river. It is believed the vessel will be a total wreck. The schooner arrived off the mouth of the river on Saturday night and anchored, awaiting a towboat to take her into Florence, where she was to load lumber. During the night a terrific gale blew the vessel ashore. The crew of seven men swam ashore, secured a rowboat and with great difficulty rescued the owner, George Martin, and his wife, who were aboard the ill-fated vessel. The schooner is fast breaking up. It is said she carried no insurance.

The vessel is well known in these islands. She was for years engaged in the inter-island traffic and operated generally between Honolulu and Maui ports. She was taken to the coast a couple of years ago and put into the coasting trade.

The depot at Waipahu was robbed by thieves last night. A number of tickets were carried away.

Honolulu Sugar Company has a notice in this issue.

Russia's Reply Is Not Satisfactory

(Associated Press Cable to The Star.)

LONDON, October 26.—The Russian reply to British demands in connection with the sinking of a fishing trawl in the North Sea, and Admiral Rodjesvinsky's report, have been received. Lord Lansdowne considers the reply incomplete. It expresses the regrets of the Russian Government and promises reparation soon. The reply is considered incomplete in that it fails to grant the British demand for the punishment of the officers responsible for the North Sea outrage. The British fleet is concentrating. Russia is sounding the Powers regarding the passage of the Dardanelles by her Black Sea fleet.

Miranda Hanged

MURDERER EXPIATED HIS CRIME THIS MORNING AT OAHU PRISON. WAS COMPOSED TO THE LAST—MADE NO DYING STATEMENT AND LEFT NO FURTHER CONFESSION—EXECUTION PROMPTLY CONDUCTED ONLY TWO MINUTES ON SCAFFOLD.

Jose Miranda, the Porto Rican who murdered S. E. Damon on the night of September 27, paid the penalty of his crime this morning. The murderer was executed at the Oahu prison, the trap to the scaffold being sprung at exactly 10:53 a. m. In exactly 17 minutes, Miranda was pronounced dead by Drs. Pratt and Moore, the government physicians. The execution was conducted without a hitch of any kind. The doomed man was composed to the last and the wait on the scaffold was very brief.

Miranda passed a very restless night. He spent most of the time until midnight, reading some of the religious works supplied him by Father Clement, the Catholic priest who has been constantly ministering to the spiritual welfare of the murderer. At midnight, Miranda went to bed but he did not sleep well, being very restless throughout the night. At 4:30 o'clock this morning the murderer left his cot and sat up and resumed his reading. At 7 o'clock breakfast was served him. He ate quite heartily, as a liberal meal had been provided by order of High Sheriff Henry. Miranda made no request for any special article of food, however, but at 10 o'clock asked for a smoke and a cigarette was given him. The murderer assumed a stolid air of resignation and displayed no emotion during the morning. Shortly after 10 o'clock he dressed in the suit in which he was to be executed, a dark blue serge suit,

POLICE AND I. O. U'S

SHERIFF HENRY WILL NOT ABOLISH PRIVILEGE OF BOLDNESS IN BORROWING MONEY DURING MONTH BUT WILL CONDUCT THE SYSTEM DIFFERENTLY FROM THAT FORMERLY IN VOGUE—IS NOW DEVISING SOME MEANS OF HELPING MEN.

"The I. O. U. system," said High Sheriff Henry today, "will not be continued in exactly the way it was done in the past. I realize that the members of the police force are not well off financially and to shut down on them at once without giving them a chance of securing money to meet their living expenses, would be an injustice. I am now thinking of some means that can be devised whereby they can be accommodated. The system which was followed before I took charge of this office, will of course not be followed and I am now trying to devise a method that will not err along similar lines yet, will not make it hard for the men to secure loans during the month. I realize that some of the men will have practically nothing coming to them at the end of the month and if they are shut off securing money, to run their living expenses, it will naturally go very hard with them. It is my desire to get the present tangle in the office straightened out in the matter of these I. O. U's. At the end of the month when the warrants are drawn we will deduct what the various men owe so that the I. O. U's can be taken up and the business settled, but the future system of loaning money will not be along such lines again. It must be in an entirely different way in the future. It is wrong to charge the men an exorbitant rate of interest, yet, of course, it is but natural that these comparatively small loans on short time, should pay a little more interest than one would pay for a larger amount at longer time."

ARE "KNOCKING" THE ISLANDS

EFFORTS OF THE PROMOTION COMMITTEE CONTRAICTED BY DISPARAGING REPORTS.

A late number of the Farm and Irrigation Age of California contained a sensational statement about Hawaii which acts as a heavy blow to efforts by the local promotion committee. The article in question stated among other things that times are so hard in the islands that there is a stampede to get out of the country and that steamers are so crowded that a premium is offered for berths by people who want to get away.

Secretary Boyd of the Tourist Promotion committee this morning received a letter from a man who intended to come here, with a party of two others, seeking homes and investments. He writes that the article published in San Francisco made them all change their minds, and they have gone back East after visiting California.

It is known that people who have come here in the last six months have been given the same sort of "information." In one case a German came here with his wife, having travelled directly all the way from Germany. On landing here he was given such a startling account of the dire conditions prevailing that he took passage back at once.

The Promotion committee believes that its work is seriously hurt by the "knockers," especially by such widely circulated Knocks as appeared in the "Farm and Irrigation Age."

EWA PLANTATION AND DIVIDENDS

Beginning with next March Ewa Plantation will pay a regular dividend of 2 per cent per quarter, paying it quarterly instead of monthly. This was decided upon at a meeting of the directors, at which it was found from reports submitted that the plantation is in a highly satisfactory condition and that the prospects for next year are excellent.

An extra dividend was voted for the end of November and another the end of December, this year, which will make eight per cent that Ewa has paid this year, besides taking up $100,000 worth of bonds. In addition to this $200,000 worth of bonds will be taken up about the first of next year, leaving only $100,000 outstanding.

STEVENS HAS LANDED IN JAIL

JOURNALIST WHOM EDITOR GILL SHOT AT AND WOUNDED HAS AN ALIAS.

SEATTLE, Wash., October 19.—Mortimer Stevens, alias Earl Barrington, who fled his fellow workers on the Post-Intelligencer out of $1000 by getting them to sign notes on the plea that he intended to reform, is in jail at Nome charged with embezzlement. According to the story from Nome he was elected city assessor and tax collector and in four months was $2500 behind in his accounts.

Two or three years ago Stevens came here and gave his name to Barrington. He said that he had worked on the Chicago Record writing "Stories of Street and Town," also that he had done work on San Francisco papers. He was a brilliant reporter and special writer. In a short time he had borrowed so much money around town that he was deep in debt. A fast life did it. His friends among the reporters signed notes amounting to about $1000. Barrington told them that he had made a fool of himself and wanted to reform.

After he had got his friends in financial trouble he skipped and was next heard of in Dawson, where it appears he had been before he came to Seattle. He had been driven out of the Klondike, it is said. He sent word to newspaper men in Seattle that he was doing well and asked them to let him alone. This they did and he eventually worked his way to Nome, where he has again fallen by the wayside.

Barrington said he was shot in Honolulu by an angry husband who chased him across a field in the moonlight. He had one story about being the son of an earl and another about being the son or closely related to a very wealthy Chicago merchant.

Pathetic Petition By Samoa Chinese

GOVERNOR SOLO IS ASKED BY NINE OLD RESIDENTS WITH FAMILIES IN SAMOA FOR PERMISSION TO REMAIN IN THE COUNTRY AND CARRY ON THEIR SMALL BUSINESS—THE MATTER REFERRED TO BERLIN.

Nine Chinese tradesmen in Apia, Samoa, who have all been there over 15 years engaged as carpenters, cooks, laundrymen, have addressed the following petition to Dr. Soli, governor of German Samoa.

"Your Excellency will notice that nearly all your above-mentioned petitioners are aged, and married to native women, and nearly all have native-born children. Therefore your petitioners most humbly pray that Your Excellency may be pleased to grant them freedom as a European to be allowed to carry on business as storekeepers for the sake of their little ones who will be destitute if your petitioners are prohibited from carrying on business as storekeepers.

"Your petitioners also most humbly pray that Your Excellency may be pleased to grant them leniency and mercy, and consider the amount of misery which will overcome the families of your humble petitioners who are now too old to return to the hard work which they used to perform in by-gone days with ease, if they are to give up the only means whereby they are able to provide for their daily needs.

"Your petitioners also most humbly pray that Your Excellency may be pleased to hold back your decision until you have considered our petition leniently, and we are one and all unanimous in faithfully promising that if Your Excellency may be pleased to grant us our request we will bind ourselves under penalty of cancellation of license not to form any company among ourselves or with any outside Chinese merchants.

"Your Excellency will notice that we are only a few remaining Chinese left in Samoa, and do not expect to live long. We only pray that your Excellency will allow us to carry on business until we are all gone, after which we hope our children will be allowed to carry it on in the same way which we have done up to the present without disgrace and dishonesty, but always in the most law-abiding manner.

"Up to the present we have always been treated as Europeans, and have always tried to live up to it, as there is never a subscription for church, sports, entertainments, or even for some poor destitute European that we have not given our help towards. Your Excellency will see that we only ask to be allowed to carry on such small shops as we now have, and we will bind ourselves not to combine or cut down prices.

"Your Excellency will see it is very difficult for us to give up our living, and take up new habits without funds. We think Your Excellency will see we are well meaning, and the condition we are in, and the promises we will sign will be a guarantee that we will keep our word or lose our license.

"Hoping Your Excellency may be pleased to treat our petition with pity and mercy.

"We have the honor to be, Your most obedient servants."

The result of the petition is given by the Samoanische Zeitung as follows:

"In answer to the petitioners the Governor informed them that the further extension of Chinese trade in Samoa must be checked. He had not decided what means would be employed to effect this check, but it would be brought about in as lenient a manner to them as was possible. His Excellency further informed them that he would communicate with Berlin about the matter, but at the same time he pointed out to them that in case the home government's decision was unfavorable to the Chinese traders, he could only allow them six months from the date of receiving such a decision, in which to wind up their business affairs with Sydney, Auckland and China."

MOSSMAN AND DOW WERE ARRESTED

BOTH WERE CHARGED LAST NIGHT WITH EMBEZZLING MONEY FROM POLICE DEPARTMENT

Two arrests as the result of the investigation of the books of the police department by the auditor were made last night. H. M. Dow, former clerk in the High Sheriff's office, was arrested on a charge of embezzling $572 alleged to have been bail money in his care, and which he is said to have turned to police officers, charging them at the rate of 10 per cent a month in some instances. Dow was arrested last night but was released on his own recognizance.

A long report had been filed by the auditor covering the investigation in the High Sheriff's office, showing that bail money which for the most part was temporary money in the possession of the police department, had been used by Mr. Dow for private advances to members of the police force.

Harry Mossman, the former clerk in the Deputy High Sheriff's office, was arrested last night about 10 o'clock on a charge of embezzlement. Mossman is charged with embezzling $455.40. A shortage to this amount was found in his books in connection with the tax sales of property, entries being made of certain advertising bills having been paid when they had not been so. Mossman's $610 which he handed to High Sheriff Henry yesterday, however, more than covers the shortage charged against Mossman, but it is contended by the authorities that this money can not be applied for such purpose, as it was found outside of the building.

Mossman was released under $1,000 bail supplied by Mrs. Bertelman. He has retained Frank E. Thompson as counsel.

Dow claims to have spoken to Deputy Auditor Meyers some time ago regarding the use of the bail money and that Meyers told him that that money was not a government asset and he could make what use of it was proper. This shortage, if such it can be called, appears to be covered by the "I. O. U.'s" of police officers.

Willie—I met our new minister on my way to Sunday-school, mamma, and he asked me if I ever played marbles on Sunday. Mother—H'm! And what did you say to that? Willie—I said "Get thee behind me, Satan!" and walked right off and left him.—London Tit Bits.

Dr. Jackson's experiment in acclimatizing Siberian reindeer in Alaska has proved to be a great success, although it was thought it was going to be a disastrous failure at first. The animals have learned to eat the Alaskan moss, and are multiplying rapidly. Their milk is very rich and they are also used for sledge animals.

The Japanese began the study of modern warfare 40 years ago. Ten Samurai detailed for the purpose by the government, got instruction from the officers of a British regiment then stationed out tactical problem with little pieces of painted wood upon a mat spread out on the floor.

Some way or other we do not hear much liquid air nowadays. It seems to have taken its place, and will probably fill about as useful a place in the world as the former plaything of science.

The Ohio statute which consigns the burglar of an inhabited building to the penitentiary for life—save when the jury recommends to mercy—found exemplification in Judge Spiegel's court recently, when two of the fraternity were dazed by the imposition of a life sentence at Columbus. The law, while it does not go to the extent of the North Carolina statutes, which punish the burning of an inhabited building with death, is severe enough, though none too severe, and the commendation of the press in other states is a tribute to the wisdom which impelled the members of the legislature to the imposition of an adequate penalty. The burglar, like the incendiary, is one of the worst possible enemies to society and one of the most dangerous and brutal. He is deserving of no sympathy. The one possibility of overcoming the good effects of the law is in the possibility of pardon, and pardon ought not to be extended to him. Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Mainland Results
As An Issue

The practical certainty of the election of Roosevelt as President removes one of the arguments advanced by local Democracy in favor of their Populistically inclined ticket. A prominent contention has been that a Democratic victory would be followed by Carter's resignation or removal as governor and a general change in the Territorial administration. As the campaign develops on the Mainland it has become evident that Democracy cannot oppose Roosevelt with anything like success. This certainty removes Carter still further out of the campaign as an issue. Even Chairman Kinney, in his last address, was disposed to doubt the election of Parker. We may therefore be assured that there will be no change in the Territorial administration, not only for several years, but if Carter should be a candidate for another term, for much longer.

There is no doubt that Carter's policies are thoroughly backed by the administration at Washington and that they will continue to be. The wasteful folly of sending men to the legislature on the sole issue of trying to "do up Carter" is therefore more striking than ever in view of the new reports showing the conceding of Republican victory even by prominent Democrats of the nation. What is wanted is a businesslike legislature, in harmony with the executive, which will carry on the work of legislation and let politics severely alone. As a matter of self-protection tax payers should fight shy of every candidate who has politics and "doing up" the administration for his main idea.

The Hard Lot Of a Chinese

The petition of nine Chinese in Samoa, for permission to remain and carry on their business for the support of their families, most of them part Samoan, for the Chinese married native women years ago, is a striking example of the methods the white nations have adopted towards the weak giant of the Orient. The petitioners pathetically tell his Excellency the Samoan governor that they have not long to live and that they cannot support their families if suddenly forced out of business and compelled to seek new fields. They even offer to make agreements about prices and to agree not to form new combinations to extend their business; they remind the governor that they have always been law-abiding and have for years carried on their businesses honestly and contributed shares in all subscriptions for charities, churches, sports and entertainments, even of the European kind. His Excellency's answer is that he has referred the matter to Berlin and if the decision is unfavorable, he could only give them six months in which to clear out.

If the education of China makes her a Yellow Peril, it will be largely because of the memories the Chinese race will harbor of this sort of injustice. It is borne peacefully, with the submission that becomes those who cannot resist, but the depth of resentment that is concealed in the breasts of those who encounter such treatment must be greater than any race hatred. For a score of years, the civilized nations, America included and possibly leading all others, have been sending to China more than one kind of missionary. For every Christian who has gone to China to preach Jesus Christ and justice, to try, as most of them think, to overcome blind race hatreds and make the Chinese accept the so-called occidental and Christian doctrine of loving their fellowmen, hundreds of Chinese have gone back to tell stories of the intense race hatred of the great west. The most powerful impressions Chinese receive of the incident must be from their own returning countrymen, who tell of riots against them which were little better than the Boxer riots in China against whites, and of laws in which justice, as preached by the missionaries to an unbelieving people, have no part at all. The harvest will come in the future. What can the missionary say to those who hear of the nine small merchants of German Samoa, making a most adject petition to be allowed to continue to earn a living as they have done for from fifteen to twenty years past? Imagine nine Americans or Germans who had lived for years in China and perhaps had married native women and raised families, being told that they must give up their business and clear out. Their rights would be defended by war. But the Chinaman is helpless among the nations and he pays the penalty of not being able to look after himself. If in the day when he is stronger he remembers the past injustices, his memory will be a strong element in any Yellow Peril that may develop.

Strategy Back To The Sea

The theory that the Czar forced General Kuropatkin to make his disastrous southerly movement receives strong confirmation in a St. Petersburg dispatch which declares definitely that such imperial interference was the cause of the unexpected return of the Russian army to attack the Japanese after the defeat at Liaoyang. It fits in with other stories of the constant statements by Alexieff that retreat was unnecessary and that Kuropatkin's duty was to turn southward and attempt the relief of Port Arthur. Alexieff, in spite of early blunders, is still a strong influence at St. Petersburg.

As a result of the battle, Russia's hope of relieving Port Arthur seems to have been removed from the land to the sea. It is admitted now that Oyama cannot be forced back and that relief of the fortress by land is impossible, but St. Petersburg says that the fortress can hold out until the Baltic fleet arrives, some time next spring, and that then relief is to be expected. In other words Russia hopes to defeat Togo and re-enter the harbor of Port Arthur with a new fleet. This would completely change the entire war, for it would not only save Port Arthur, but would be the doom of the Japanese armies that have landed on the mainland. They would be cut off from their home country, with no chance of retreat or of receiving supplies. Certainly no fleet ever left its home basis with vaster hopes than these with which Admiral Rodjestvensky has started. The plan possibly includes picking up reinforcements in the way of newly purchased war vessels, as the fleet proceeds, and if all the Russian vessels arrive safely in the Far East, Admiral Togo will have a dangerous foe.

Nothing is heard of the Japanese fleet. No one can tell where or when the Japs may choose to meet the Russians and offer battle. No one except those in charge of the Japanese vessels knows where her vessels are scattered over the world looking for the approaching Russians. The absurd scare of the Baltic fleet in the North Sea shows how fully the Russians appreciate the fact that there is no point in all their long journey at which they are safe from a sudden attack. It is more than probable that the Baltic fleet will not reach eastern waters without experiences much more exciting than that of encountering some harmless fishing boats. The strategic importance of the situation seems to have suddenly shifted again, from the land to the sea. There should be stirring news from some point in the great Russian naval journey long before Rodjestvensky nears Port Arthur.

DR. FIELD'S CLAIMS FOR HIS INVENTION TO FACILITATE DISTANCE COMMUNICATION.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., October 16.—Stephen Dudley Field, speaking of his new invention the "amplifier" designed to facilitate telegraphy, especially wireless and cable, declares that by it the speed of ocean cabling may be doubled and its radius of action made unlimited and that wireless telegraphy may be at once brought to commercial practicability.

"I can hardly prophesy that my amplifier will revolutionize electrical message transmission," he continued, "but it certainly will bring all present known methods to perfection and into greater use. For instance, it will make it almost as easy to send a message from London to Shanghai, more than 10,000 miles, as to send it from Stockbridge to Great Barrington, less than ten miles.

"The amplifier, with its system of wire coils and magnets, trussed on threads one-thousandth of an inch in size, works the same with one-hundred-thousandth of an ampere as with a one-one-thousandth ampere current. I have sent, by means of the amplifier, messages through a resistance coil so strong as to take two seconds to transmit the signals, at the rate of thirty-two words a minute. The Atlantic cable resistance causes but a second or a second and a half of three-quarters interruption, and the highest speed it has is from sixteen to seventeen words a minute.

"The amplifier practically annihilates terrestrial space. It does this joining together any system of telegraphy or cabling so that a continuous message may be sent completely around the earth with repeating or interruption. This is possible even though wireless system and land lines and ocean cable be all joined together. With a bit of perfecting I don't doubt I could combine it to include telephone system as well.

BISHOP RESTARICK'S ADDRESS

HE TALKS OF HAWAII AT THE EPISCOPAL GENERAL CONVENTION IN BOSTON—THE RESULTS OF THE MISSIONARY WORK DONE HERE AND PROSPECTS FOR THE FUTURE—BISHOP BRENT ON THE PHILIPPINES.

BOSTON, October 14—The two houses of the Episcopal general convention met jointly yesterday afternoon as the board of missions, and listened to addresses on the subject of "The Missions in the Islands." Bishop Tuttle presided and the speakers were Bishop Restarick of Honolulu, who told of the work in Hawaii; Bishop Brent of the Philippines and Bishop Van Buren of Porto Rico. Bishop Restarick spoke first, saying in part:

"I believe there is no place where can be seen to greater advantage the success of missions. Despite every effort at disparagement, the fact remains that in the last century an entire people not only became Christian, but through the efforts of the missionaries had a system of public schools, and an institution of learning preparatory for entrance to college, long before there was a school in California. The Hawaiian people, while usually of indolent temperament, yet have always valued education, and there are many who are intelligent and refined and are at home in any society.

"The white man, while their friend in carrying to them the gospel and all that it means in law and custom, yet has also been their enemy in taking to them diseases and vices which have tended, with the stress of competition, to decimate this kindly, generous people, with whom Americans, English and Germans of high character and education have largely intermarried. While the native population is decreasing, the half-white is increasing.

"All the younger Hawaiians speak English and understand it better than they do Hawaiian. We have only one service in their language and many Hawaiians advise the discontinuance of that, except at such periods as once a month.

"Our work is largely among the young. Two of our schools are composed almost entirely of Hawaiians, and I believe that we are training many of these so that they will be not only intelligent Christians but loyal church men and women.

"The people of the islands have responded gladly to the effort made to promote systematic offerings to missions. All this makes Hawaii a fine field for missionary enterprise, and as the bishop said there I am trying in every way to take advantage of opportunities I believe that work can be done among the Orientals at less cost than anywhere else, and that the results are more quickly sure. The people are usually anxious to learn."

Bishop Brent said: "The Philippines are paradise, but also, paradise after the fall. The moral conditions of the Philippines are extremely sad. The Christian men who have gone from our own country to that fair spot in the Orient agree in this one thing, that the gospel of the righteousness of Jesus Christ has yet to become a reality. And I include among the Christian men the American Roman Catholics who have gone there to replace the Spanish hierarchy, for I believe it is their purpose to do all they can to link together what have been most unrighteously divorced—devotion and the righteousness of Jesus Christ.

"Although so many of the islanders profess to be Christians there is at least a large minority which cannot fairly be called Christians. There is a schism there in the Catholic church. I refer to the Reformed Filipino Catholic Church, which has a power of additives, which none of us who looked on in the beginning ever supposed it would have. It carries with it between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 people. Unfortunately the leaders of this movement are not the right kind of men, and I fear that something dire will happen to these people as a result. I would rather see them reabsorbed into the Roman church."

NAONE IN COURT

Philip Naone, charged with the murder of his wife, faced Judge Gear again this morning. He was there to hear the decision of the Judge on the point raised by Attorney J. J. Dunne on a plea in abatement and a motion to quash attacking the constitutionality of the Grand Jury which indicted Naone.

Judge Gear reserved his decision until this morning when he ruled that the jury was properly constituted.

An exception was taken by Dunne who at once produced another paper in the shape of a demurrer to the indictment a copy of which he served on Assistant Attorney General Prosser. Prosser said that he was ready for argument at once and Dunne took the floor.

He attacked the indictment from every point of the compass and from above as well as below. There was no offence against the law set up, he said, the first count was insufficient as it did not set up facts, that it was insufficient as it did not fairly apprise the defendant of the charge, that the second count was also insufficient, that it was not set forth that the jury was empanelled and sworn or when it was empanelled and sworn—and so on through a long list of reasonings.

After a long argument and production of authorities on behalf of the defence the Assistant Attorney General replied and Judge Gear took the matter under advisement.

E. Geneau, charged with the murder of the negro U. S. Harris in June last, took his seat on the prisoner's bench in Judge Gear's court once more this morning. His attorney F. A. Douthett was ready to go on with argument in support of his affidavit to the effect that it was necessary to continue the case until the January term owing to the absence of two important witnesses for the defence.

Assistant Attorney General Prosser also had an affidavit in opposition to that of the defence which he proceeded to file. In it he set forth that the prosecution was detaining three witnesses here at much expense and that it would be unfair to expect that they be kept here until January, while if they get out of the country their absence will materially hurt the case.

Judge Gear continued the case for a day to give the defence its opportunity to answer by filing other affidavits if any more are forthcoming.

from a Pinkerton detective of such moment that it moves him to make a complete upheaval in one of the most important departments of the government.

"Will the Grand Jury summon the Governor and demand that the report from Detective Hatter be given over?" That is the question that many have asked and as a corollary it has followed that considerable wonder has been expressed as to what the Governor would do under such circumstances.

"As far as my going before the Grand Jury is concerned," said Governor Carter when the blunt question was put to him this morning, "I may say that it has already been intimated to me that I would be required to attend and of course will do so at the Grand Jury's pleasure, but as to the report made to me by Detective Hatter, that is a different matter. Every portion of that report which is of value to the public will be given to the public through the courts. Further than that I may say that I regard the report as a privileged communication to me as the Pinkerton people will only agree to act on condition that their reports are secret. Another matter in connection with it is that it would do many people injury if it were published without any resultant good. At all events Detective Hatter is here and the Grand Jury can summon him and get all the information from him that may be wanted as to what he has seen in and about Honolulu. So far as I am personally concerned I shall be very glad to go before that body and tell exactly what I know about matters coming under my own observation, such things for instance as the sort of man that 'Dicky' Davis is,—he is a member of the Grand Jury—and the value he is to the community.

"As regards recent developments in the police affairs I was told recently that even if certain parties were arrested they could never be indicted. That idea may be current but in no case will it have any weight with the administration. It will make no difference to us if the Grand Jury turns us down every time and refuses to find indictments on the ground of insufficient evidence, we will go ahead.

"Every man, irrespective of race or creed, who mixes up public money with his own will be placed under arrest as soon as his fault is discovered and then the matter will be passed up to the people, that is to say, to the Grand Jury. Ever since I can remember there has been in Hawaii a tendency on the part of the public and of juries as well, to condone an offence of stealing money from either the public or from private parties, so long as the money is paid back, sometimes if it is only paid back in part. This shows a bad state of public opinion, but notwithstanding that state of opinion the administration will go ahead with what it conceives to be its duty."

brief. At 10:51 o'clock Miranda was placed upon the trap. Father Clement handed him a prayer book from which Miranda read a few words. A minute later the black cap was placed over the murderer. The latter was very composed and seemed almost in a trance. He made no further request to speak. The noose was at once adjusted and at exactly 10:53 o'clock after the signal had been given by High Sheriff Henry, the trap was sprung. The drop was 4 feet 1-4 inches. The neck of the murderer was dislocated by the fall and unconsciousness evidently occurred practically instantaneously.

The wanted crime for which Miranda paid the death penalty was committed on the night of September 27. S. E. Damon of Bishop and Company's Bank was in a buggy with a Chinese carriage boy, driving home to Moanalua after having taken young Robert Hendry to the Kalia street car. When near the Grace place on the road, Damon saw three people approaching on foot, two men and a woman. He noticed that one of them carried a lantern. This lantern had been evidently taken from the side of the road where the lamp had been originally placed to signal approaching vehicles that some repairs were being made at that section of the road. Mr. Damon became certain that the lantern had been taken from the place and then called in the native language, to the man to please return the lantern. The lantern was carried by Jose Miranda who was accompanied by Maria Antonia Callona and Chito all absolute Porto Rican thieves and vagrants.

Owing to the darkness, Mr. Damon did not recognize that they were Porto Ricans and supposed them to be natives. Miranda replied that it was none of Damon's damned business. Mr. Damon asked him again, politely, to replace the lantern, and Miranda again replied with an oath, that it was none of Damon's business. The lantern had been placed on the work which was being done for Mr. Damon. The latter got out of the carriage and walking to Miranda placed his hand on the Porto Rican's shoulder and again ordered him to give up the lantern. Without further warning, Miranda drew a knife and stabbed Mr. Damon in the abdomen inflicting a fatal wound.

At this time Eugene Sullivan and a Japanese boy appeared on the scene. Sullivan saw the stabbing as did the others present, though the darkness, it being about 7 p. m. was such as to prevent the occurrence being clearly noticed. Miranda threatened to stab Sullivan and then the three Porto Ricans hurried away in the darkness. Sullivan drove Damon hurriedly into the city but before Damon could be operated upon at the Queen's Hospital, the wound had proved fatal.

The police were notified of the crime the afternoon being that the crime had been committed by natives, Charles F. Chillingworth who was then deputy high sheriff, hurried to the scene of the stabbing but got no clue except that the crime had been committed by natives. Returning from the scene of the crime, Chillingworth happened to see a woman standing on King street near Liliha. There was nothing in her action to arouse suspicion and her dress was a different color from that reported to have been worn by the woman who had been at the scene of the murder.

but Chillingworth watched the woman after his hawk had driven past. He saw her motion and 2 men jumped from behind a stone wall and joined her. Chillingworth by a sudden inspiration, hurried back and placed all of them under arrest after making a chase after the trio. At the police station, blood was found to be on Miranda's sleeve and coat and then the official became satisfied that he had caught the right man. And so it proved for within a short time, both Miranda and the woman confessed to the stabbing of Damon.

The crime aroused the most universal evidence was concluded by October 6, to descend upon the murderer. The grand jury at once took up the case and returned an indictment on September 28 against Miranda for murder in the first degree. It was with difficulty that counsel could be secured to defend Miranda. Finally Judge Gear appointed George A. Davis and Frank E. Thompson to represent the interests of Miranda. The case went to trial on September 29, counsel being appointed for the defence on that date. Miranda pleaded not guilty. The following jury was secured on October 5 Jonathan Shaw, Sam E. Pierce, Charles Hummel, W. C. Wilder, W. Matlock Campbell, C. J. Ludwigen, W. P. Kaohi, F. J. Dura, Frank E. Blake, C. F. Marrifield, F. E. Nichols and B. F. Vickers. The feeling of horror and just re-ump, and the case then went to the jury. A verdict of murder in the first degree was returned by the jury after a brief deliberation. Sentence of death was pronounced by Judge Gear on October 11 and the death warrant was signed by Governor Carter on October 14, the sentence being carried into effect this morning.

Blood came from the nose and a few drops fell upon the ground about the swinging body. The fall was straight and not a tremor passed through the body. The body was cut down as soon as Drs. Moore and Pratt had pronounced the man dead, 17 minutes after the drop. The remains were taken to the Makiki cemetery and interred.

The execution was witnessed only by the necessary police and prison officials, physicians, the members of the jury that had convicted Miranda of murder, and representatives of the local press.

Miranda made no further confession or statement just before his death. His conduct was one of dull resignation to the inevitable.

W. C. T. U. ANNIVERSARY.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. held yesterday afternoon at the residence of the President Mrs. Whitney, was also the twentieth anniversary of the association. Besides the regular reports of the various officers and committees, Mrs. Whitney gave a history of the organization. Of 1,000 members of the first year, only 23 have died.

Ensign Anderson of the Salvation Army gave notice that Mrs. (Brig.) Shilwell was expected next week and intends to give several lectures. The society proposed that she give an address at the Castle Home.

MAHAULU ABSENT

The case of Stephen Mahaulu charged with embezzlement was called in Judge Gear's court this morning, but the defendant was not present. Judge Gear issued an order for his attendance tomorrow in default of which a bench warrant is to issue. The case of Arakal, charged with assaug with a woman, was continued to the 28th.

RENNIE KILLS WHALE

STEAMER MARIPOSA STRIKES AN OCEAN MONSTER WITH HER PROPELLER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Captain James Rennie of the Oceanic steamer Mariposa never laid claim to being a whaler, but he killed a leviathan on his last trip to the South Sea island of Tahiti, and with the greatest ease. When the steamer was plowing along at her usual speed early in the morning of September 23d, in latitude 4 deg. 53 min. south, longitude 144 deg. 3 sec. west, the propeller struck some object with such force that the whole ship trembled. The liner was turned around, in the hope of ascertaining the cause of the disturbance, when the surface of the water was found to be covered with oil and pieces of whale, though the carcass itself was not visible. So Captain Rennie concluded that he had killed a whale. At Tahiti the chief engineer and his assistant made a careful examination of the propeller, but discovered no evidence of damage. The sharp blades curved out the big chunks of blubber from the whale without the slightest effort, though the whale is believed to have received its death blow.

The bark W. G. Flint 14 days from San Francisco, was sighted this afternoon at 2:20 o'clock off Koko Head.

THE CZAR FORCED KUROPATKIN'S HAND

THE JAPS APPALLED BY THE SLAUGHTER IN THE LAST GREAT BATTLE AND ANXIOUS TO SEE PEACE—CZAR'S ORDER MADE THE RUSSIAN GENERAL ATTACK—HOPE OF RELIEVING PORT ARTHUR IS GIVEN UP.

TOKIO, October 16, 8 p. m.—According to statements made by Russian prisoners, General Kuropatkin was ordered by Emperor Nicholas to make a stand at Mukden and to assume the aggressive as speedily as possible in order to relieve the Port Arthur garrison. This order the prisoners say reached Mukden on September 27th and General Kuropatkin, in obedience to it, began his disastrous southern advance movement.

TOKIO, Oct. 16.—Even the Japanese seem to be shocked by the slaughter of their enemies. The reports indicate that about sixty thousand men of both sides have been either killed or wounded, the larger number being Russians, since the two armies closed in the battle of the Shakhe river. It is probable that the death roll will be largely increased before the final shot.

MUKDEN, Oct. 16.—There was a lull in the battle yesterday, but fighting was continued today on the right. The army is ten miles southwest of here. It is now certain that the army will be able to extricate itself. The losses amount to thirty thousand killed and wounded. It has been a bigger battle than Liaoyang. The Russians are attacking on the right today.

MUKDEN, Oct. 16.—Under the cover of the artillery fire yesterday the Japanese infantry courageously assumed the offensive against the Russian entrenched positions, but their courage was unavailing. Toward evening the Russians actually moved forward. General Kuropatkin personally directing the operations on the center-right flank, where the fighting was the hottest. Taking command of the Petroff regiment, he ordered them forward. Animated by the courage of their idolized commander, the troops rushed forward with a shout, driving the Japanese from the heights. Standing there, Kuropatkin could see through his field glasses a group of Japanese officers on the opposite heights at a distance of three miles and in their midst a hoisted battle-flag. These were probably General Oku and his staff watching the progress of the battle.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—It is no longer a question of a Russian Sedan, although all hope of relieving Port Arthur must be apparently abandoned. Little hope is expressed that Kuropatkin will be able to continue to advance.

The four days fight of the eastern column was of the same desperate character that marked the operations of the center and right wings. A heavy Russian column under such leaders as Ivanoff, Rennenkampf, Carr-gross and Kondratovitch repeatedly assaulted strongly entrenched Japanese positions on heights commanding the passes. The assaults were largely night work. The cannonading was so powerful that it was impossible to advance in the light of day. Finally, on October 13th, when the passes had been actually occupied, came the order to withdraw, probably owing to a critical position at other parts of the front. Here the story of the operations of the eastern wing of the western army ends.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Daily Chronicle's correspondent at Yantai, telegraphing October 12, via Fusan, October 14, says:

"The Russian attack failed everywhere and they are in full retreat along the whole line, pursued by the Japanese. Thirty Russian guns were captured and the Japanese turning movement is pressing the Russians back to Mukden. The Russians made sixteen counter attacks with splendid bravery, sacrificing themselves freely, but unavailingly."

All accounts of the fighting south of Mukden that have reached London appear to confirm the completeness of the Japanese victory, and the only question discussed by military critics is whether General Kuropatkin will be able to make an orderly retreat as he did from Liaoyang or whether the Japanese possess sufficient fresh reserves to undertake a successful pursuit, in which latter case it is believed the Russians will be compelled to abandon Mukden. In this connection, the Standard's Yantai correspondent asserts that General Oku's army has occupied Pachiatze, only twelve miles from Mukden. It is considered here, however, that the Japanese advance could hardly have pushed as far as these reports make it appear, and probably the error arises out of the difficulty of locating places mentioned in various reports.

TOKIO, October 16, 6 p. m.—There is a strong appeal for peace in the appalling tragedy which is now under enactment in Manchuria. Both armies have fought ferociously for a week and desperate fighting still continues. It is probable that the death roll will be largely increased before the final shot is fired.

The preliminary reports indicate that about 60,000 men of both sides have been killed or wounded, the larger portion of them being Russians, since the armies of the two belligerents closed in combat.

Even the Japanese, to whom the great victory is of paramount importance, seem to be shocked by the slaughter of their enemies. The Japanese people are receiving the news from the field of battle calmly, and there can be heard no shouts in the streets proclaiming the victory of their nation. Few flags are displayed. Probably later on there will be a procession, with the consequent jollification, but there are heard many expressions of opinion that no demonstration of any kind should be held. A prominent Japanese said today:

"We have won a sweeping and a decisive victory, which may prove to be the salvation of our country's existence, but we regret both our own losses and the terrible slaughter which our forces have inflicted on the enemy. We regret still more the necessity which forced us to engage in this war."

A member of the diplomatic corps, in an interview, said: "I believe the world will recoil from the sickening slaughter of this battle. Every interest of humanity demands the adjustment of the differences between the two nations and the proclamation of peace. The situation between the two belligerents is a delicate one, but what a splendid triumph for diplomacy it would be if peace could be arranged. It seems to me that the question of honor is no longer involved. If Russia feels that such a question is involved, surely the heroic and successful defense of Port Arthur and the valor shown by Russia's sons on the fields of Manchuria should forever determine the quality of Russian courage. Russians should remember that the distance dividing her strength and the limitations of her railway are historical factors in this war. These factors are generally known. They are appreciated by everybody and are not looked upon as faults."

MAKING IT VERY EASY FOR READERS

FOREST CITY ALBUMS OFFERED ON TERMS CERTAIN TO MAKE A VERY STRONG APPEAL.

Among those who are now securing the beautiful and valuable photographic reproductions of scenes at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition are many who wisely obtained and now highly prize the set of views of the Columbian Exposition a decade ago.

Many who call or write state that these views of the former World's Fair are in their possession and that they would not part with them at any price. It is quite safe to say that the views of the St. Louis World's Fair will be in even greater demand, since the event will far transcend anything in the history of expositions.

With this idea in mind this paper has made it exceptionally easy for all its readers to satisfy their desires in this respect, since it has placed within their reach the superb "Forest City" series which is now being issued in thirty weekly portfolios, each containing 16 splendid views of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

These portfolios are distributed practically free, the only cost to readers being the nominal sum of 10 cents a part, to cover the cost of handling, wrapping, mailing, etc.

Eighteen parts now ready at Star office.

MARU ARRIVED YESTERDAY. The S. S. America Maru arrived yesterday afternoon from San Francisco after a disagreeable trip. She left San Francisco October 19. She went out of the usual course in order to avoid meeting any Russian cruiser that might have been hovering about the usual course. Rough weather was experienced. The vessel brought five days' later mail. She carries 22 cabin passengers and 3,500 tons of through cargo practically all of which is for Japanese ports. She has tan bark for tanning leather for the soldiers, lead for bullets and salt peter to manufacture powder. The vessel will leave for the Orient at 5 p. m. today from the Hackfeld wharf. A number of the Japanese army reserves will depart on her for Japan.

Lumber experts estimate that there is $4,020,000 worth of lumber in Oregon today. This means that it would take twice as much money as there is now in circulation in this country to buy it at its minimum price now.

The Best Treatment that can be given cuts, bruises, sprains, scalds or like injuries is a free, a Heaton of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It should be kept on hand. For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., agents for Hawaii.

WILL KEEP IN STRAIGHT LINE

REPUBLICANS OF SECOND OF FOURTH DISTRICT LAST NIGHT TO DISCUSS STRAIGHT TICKET.

A meeting of Republicans of the second precinct of the Fourth District was held last evening at their hall on Wilder Avenue when the question of voting the straight ticket was discussed. After a long talk in which many aired their views the result was that all but a few were opposed to scratching.

Col. J. H. Soper presided over the meeting. Among the first speakers called was Lorrin Andrews who went over the ground in similar terms to those employed by him at the other precinct meetings. The whole cry of the Home Rulers and Democrats was to scratch, anything to down Carter, but he asked how the return of one of either of the other parties could injure either Carter or the administration, yet the safest way to elect representatives of the other party was by scratching the Republican ticket.

Ed. Towse followed in similar lines and then in turn Captain Dabel, J. A. Thompson and W. H. Hoogs pronounced their adherence to the straight ticket proposition.

W. D. Monsarrat objected to being criticized and Marston Campbell also objected when Col. Soper informed them that they were not being criticized, but were simply asked what they thought of the straight ticket.

This brought peace and the next speaker was Ed. Nowhouse who said that he had come to the meeting with an open mind and was now thoroughly convinced that the straight ticket was the ticket for him.

Many others rose to affirm their principles and the number of "split-ticketers" who were present seemed very small indeed by the time the meeting adjourned.

FIDDED WHILE CUPID GOT TIRED

HOW "JOE MARINER" FORMERLY OF HONOLULU, WAS ASSISTED IN WINNING A BRIDE.

STOCKTON, October 17.—Joseph A. Mariner, a former Stocktonian who has also made his home in Honolulu and at San Francisco, figures in a rather interesting little romance at St. Louis. Cards have just been received here announcing his wedding to Miss Katherine Lair, but they do not give any intimation of the fact that George Wilkins, a Louisville musician, had purchased a license last July to wed the former Miss Lair, but had been too busy with his fiddling to have the ceremony performed.

Mariner was more insistent and succeeded in having her journey from her home in Louisville to St. Louis to have the marital knot tied. It was in September 23rd that she went from her home to St. Louis to see the fair, and Mariner went with her to the exposition that day. Before they returned to her aunt's house that afternoon she was Mrs. Mariner. The couple were old sweethearts, and so, when Wilkins applied himself more devoutly to fiddling than lovelinking, she looked with favor on Mariner, with whom she had been in correspondence. She thought that she would teach her lagard lover a lesson, and, as he allowed the marriage license that he had secured in July to wear itself out in his pocket, she rebelled and consented to wed Mariner, who is also quite a musician, but also very much of a lover.

Mr. and Mrs. Mariner are residing at 2628 Washington boulevard, St. Louis. After the ceremony had been performed she telegraphed the violinist Wilkins.

"You've fiddled away your bride. Congratulate me as Mrs. Joseph A. Mariner." "KATHERINE."

That was the rude awakening for Wilkins. He hurried to the Lair residence to find the same news there, and then remarked:

"It's all my fault. I kept her waiting, and she got tired of it."

Mrs. Mariner is a very attractive young woman and is quite a socialist. Mariner is a well-known commercial traveler of St. Louis.

CELEBRATING THE VICTORY. SAN FRANCISCO, October 15.—The Japanese liner America Maru was decorated from stem to stern yesterday in honor of the victory of the Japanese over the Russians in the big battles of the last few days in Manchuria. Though the flags of all nations flew to the breeze on the liner, however, the sturdy Japanese in the crew did not appear to be unduly enthused, but kept to their work and had nothing to say. The work of loading a cargo in the America Maru was in progress all day long. She is to sail at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for Honolulu and ports of Japan and China.

HEYWOOD INTERVIEWED

WASHINGTON, October 16.—William Heywood, the representative in this country of the Hawaiian sugar planters, has just returned from Honolulu. He says that business is thriving there, but that the great need of the islands is good labor.

"I could guarantee to provide good, steady employment for 60,000 American workmen," said Mr. Heywood today. "If they would be willing to live in Hawaii. What our people need more than anything else is labor. Every person who leaves the islands to visit a foreign country has his expenses paid by the planters if he will agree to look about outside of the beaten paths of travel for some good laborers. Our people would be willing to pay liberal wages to 100,000 American citizens who wanted to become permanent citizens of that country. When we ask Congress for a modified immigration law that will admit to the islands Chinese coolies, we are told that there is plenty of labor to be had in the United States. But we have been unable to find any number of American workmen who care to go to Hawaii to work in the sugar fields. Of course there is a limit on the pay we can give to this kind of labor. As it is now, our expenses are so great that it costs Hawaiian sugar $15 a ton to market it in this country against $1 a ton for Cuban sugar."
