THE NEW BICYCLE TRACK

OPENING WILL TAKE PLACE
SOME TIME IN SEPTEMBER.

Description of One of Chas. S. Desky's New Enterprises—It Will Cost Six Thousand Dollars.

Work is being vigorously prosecuted on the new bicycle track at Kewalo, and when a representative of this paper visited the scene a day or two since some twenty teams and forty men were found busily employed. The contractor for the work is W. H. Cummings, and he promises to have the track so far advanced in a couple of weeks that wheelmen will be able to use it in training for the coming races.

The track has been laid out and surveyed by W. A. Wall. It is exactly one third of a mile in length, not an inch more or less, and is built on the latest modern ideas. It is 25 feet in width except on the home stretch, where it widens out to 40 feet to give plenty of room for spurling. It winds round Cyclomere lake, from which it is separated by a fence 2 feet high and 2 feet from the edge of the water. The dead line, or white tape stretched on the inside of the course, will be 18 inches from this fence, so that there will be little danger of wheelmen taking headers into the water unless through their own carelessness. If they do they will get wet but not be hurt. At the turn on the backstretch the track will be banked up to an angle of 2 feet in 25, just enough for drainage, while at the other turn just before entering the home stretch the angle will be 6 feet in 25. A slope of 25 per cent looks steep but it is really much less than that on some of the tracks in the United States. The surface of the track will be covered with a natural cement taken from the bottom of the lake, in preference to wood. Experienced wheelmen claim that much is lost in propelling rubber tires over wood for the reason that there is too great friction, the wood is hard and dry and there is really nothing for the tire to hold to. With the natural cement to be used on the Kewalo track it is found there is just enough moisture to cause a slight suction, thereby allowing the rider to retain all the power he puts forth. This cement is nothing but decomposed coral and it is thought it will prove much superior even to the manufactured cement of which many Eastern tracks are composed. The whole of the track will be surrounded by a tight-board fence, 9 feet high.

The grand stand will be 150x30 feet on the ground plan and so constructed that the lowest tier of seats will be 6 feet above the level of the track. The seats will be so arranged that every person will have a clear view of the whole of the track. There will also be a series of boxes for private parties. The dimensions of the grand stand will allow of a seating capacity of 800, but it will be so constructed that it can be lengthened from either end should patronage warrant it.

The judges' stand will be opposite the grand stand but placed on a level with the track so as not to obstruct the view. This will necessitate its being built out over the lake. Ample provision will be made for the press, separate quarters under the grand stand and directly opposite the judges being provided. The balance of the space under the grand stand will be utilized for dressing rooms, training quarters, shower baths and other conveniences. There will also be space appropriated for those who purchase concessions for the sale of cigars, soda water, etc., on the grounds. Connected with the bicycle track will be baseball grounds of ample size. As a matter of fact they are just 20 feet longer and 30 feet narrower than the present League grounds. It is expected the League will use these grounds when their present lease expires and a separate grand stand will then be erected.

While there have been several projects on foot among the wheelmen in the last six months to build such a track as this none of them have materialized, and Chas. S. Desky finally got tired of waiting and resolved to build it himself. It is now so far advanced that there can be no going back on it, and Mr. Desky assures the BULLETIN that everything in connection with it will be finished by September 15th, by which time an outlay of over $6000 will have been made.

On or about that date it is proposed to open a bicycle tournament, with race meets every few days for four weeks. For this purpose negotiations have already been entered into with a number of crack Eastern and Coast riders who are now doing the California circuits, several of whom have promised to come down and stay a month. Night racing is one of the new features which will be introduced during this tournament, for which purpose the track will be lit up with arc lights placed about 100 feet apart. Night racing has proved very popular wherever introduced and is especially adapted to this climate. It also affords a chance for many to participate whose daily occupations would otherwise prevent.

It should be mentioned that the main entrance will be close to South and King streets and that abundant provision has been made for carriages. Mr. Desky has not yet decided whether he will be his own manager or not but it is likely some popular member of one of the cycling clubs will be selected for that post.

BY POLICE AT CALLAO.

Inquiry here confirms the story coming from Lima to the effect that the State Department has lodged a demand with the United States charge of legation at Lima for the release of the mate of the American bark "Uncle John." He was ashore on December 19 last at Callao, and was arrested because of his constant demand for "Rainier Beer." On tap or in bottles at the Criterion Saloon.

GOOD WORDS FOR HAWAII

E. STANLEY GIBBONS TELLS OF HIS VISIT HERE.

What an English Editor Thinks of Our Climate, National Dish and a Bulletin Reporter.

There is hardly any place of prominence in the known world that has not been visited by E. Stanley Gibbons, the London philatelist, who now spends most of his time traveling about in search of rare postage stamps for the firm which bears his name. This is the firm, by the way, that recently outbid all American competitors for the great Ayer collection, paying therefor a lump sum of £50,000. Fancy a quarter of a million dollars being paid for a single collection of postage stamps. Some of the stamps in this collection are now on the market, and in the June number of the Stanley Gibbons Philatelic Journal, two Hawaiian stamps of the 1851 issue are offered for sale at $350 for the 5 cent blue, circular red postmark, and $450 for the 13 cent blue (Hawaiian Postage), fine large margins and red blobby postmark. It is some years since these two stamps have been offered for sale publicly and the figures above given may be taken as establishing the present standard of their value.

This number of Mr. Gibbons' magazine also contains a full description of the destruction of the old monarchy and provisional government stamps, reprinted from the EVENING BULLETIN, together with a very interesting account of his recent visit to the Islands, from which the following paragraphs are extracted:

"Mention of the Hawaiian newspaper, the EVENING BULLETIN, reminds me of an amusing experience I had with one of the on-lookers at the conflagration of stamps. This gentleman, who was introduced to me on the occasion in question, accompanied me for some distance on my way back to the hotel, and very naturally the conversation turned to matters philatelic. Afterwards I found I had been talking to a reporter, connected with the before-mentioned newspaper, for in its evening edition appeared a column and a half, detailing the interview in full. The heading was, as usual, in the somewhat sensational American style. I congratulate this particular member of the Press on his retentive memory, for not a note did he take in my presence, and yet it seemed to me that very little had escaped him.

"There were the usual particulars of my appearance, modes of business, and past experiences, all of which have already appeared in the pages of this Journal, so that I will not trouble the reader with them. I must say, however, that I had no cause for complaint, for taken as a whole the matter was most complimentary. And here, perhaps, it may not be amiss for me to acknowledge the universal good fellowship and general friendliness which philately seems to engender among its devotees. Wherever I travel my connection with stamps brings pleasant acquaintances; indeed, I may say friends. One says he has collected for years in one of my albums; another is an old correspondent, and so on, ad infinitum.

"To return to Honolulu, it was with much regret we left this charming place. The season at the time of our visit was what the Hawaiians themselves term their winter, but all I can say is that it was only comparable to what we in England would call delightful hot summer weather—not too warm, but thoroughly enjoyable for bathing in the open sea, and pleasant at night. Of course the inevitable mosquitoes were present, and their penetrating attacks after sunset required a good deal of equanimity of temper to bear.

The American description of the climate is, as I have heard, that people who come to the islands buy the climate and have the land thrown in for nothing, the soil being so fertile that macaroni sown in the evening produces waterpipes the next morning.

"A pleasant finish to our stay was a picnic we participated in at an estate near Pearl Harbor. The dinner was laid in true Hawaiian fashion on a table-cloth of leaves. I tried the national dish of "Poi," but cannot say I liked it, for to my mind it resembles ready-made blue starch in taste, color, and consistency, more than anything else I can think of. Mr. Oat, the Postmaster-General, paid me a farewell visit before leaving, and he also came down on his bicycle to see us all off. We left laden with flower wreaths, not only around our necks, but also decorating our hats; and sorry enough were we to leave this happy and most hospitable island."

WELLS FOR KAUAI.

Six Fine Streams of Water for Koloa Plantation.

The McCandless Bros. have just completed boring six 12-inch wells for the Koloa plantation, of which Antone Cropp is manager. The combined flow of water from these wells is estimated at one million gallons daily. They are each bored to a depth of 300 feet and in all of them the water rises 31 feet above sea level. Pumping only lowers the water about a foot in the tubes, which is immediately regained when the pump is stopped. The fine flow of water obtained from these wells is as good a thing as a Klon-dyke gold claim, as it enables an additional area of between 600 and 700 acres to be put into cultivation.

Arrangements were also made by the McCandless Bros. with A. Dreier of Koloa plantation yesterday to sink an experimental well at Hanapepe valley. If water is struck a large tract of sugar land can be utilized.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

Another Pleasing Performance by the Katie Putnam Troupe.

There was a very fair audience at the Opera House last night to greet the second appearance of Miss Katie Putnam in the present season.

The comedy of "Lens the Madcap" gave Miss Putnam full scope to display her talents in the portrayal of youthful characters and at times it was hard to imagine that it was not a young girl who was on the stage. Her antics and madcap propensities kept the audience in a roar of laughter. Miss Putnam was ably seconded in her efforts to please by H. B. Emery as Commodore Hailstorm and J. H. Buras as the negro servant, who were especially good in the masked ball scene. The other characters were made the most of by the members of the company.

The bill for tomorrow night is "Fanchon."

Foreign Jury on Chinese Gambling Case—Decree for Foreclosure of Mortgage—Etc.

Jack Marr, not "Man" as previously reported, who was convicted of burglary yesterday, was sentenced by Judge Perry to be imprisoned at hard labor one year and to pay $18.50 costs.

In the case of S. M. Kamakau vs. Makalohe D. Kekona and Kaulawahine, action to quiet title, Mr. Robertson for the plaintiff had a motion granted by Judge Perry to strike the answer from the files, the Court allowing defendants 48 hours to file a new answer with affidavit of meritorious defense. Defendants appeared in person.

Lee Chung and three other Chinese are on trial today before Judge Carter by the following foreign jury, on an appeal from conviction for maintaining a lottery: A. V. Gear, C. H. Hueston Jr., A. F. Gillfillan, M. Phillips, H. G. Danford, J. M. Tracy, C. B. Gray, W. H. Smith, C. L. Brown, Louis Singer, K. G. R. Wallace and T. S. Douglas. Kinney & Ballou assisting prosecution. P. Neumann and J. T. De Bolt for defendants.

Judge Perry at chambers heard the bill to foreclose a mortgage of T. Kat Poo vs. Tong Yan. There was no opposition, defendant in his answer having admitted the facts, and a decree was granted. A. S. Hartwell for complainant.

William Mutch and Otto S. Meyer, executors of the will of Robt. W. Meyer, have filed a bond as such in $25,000 with Henry Holmes and George J. Campbell as sureties.

H. C. C. Smoker.

Tickets for the Honolulu Cricket Club's smoker on Saturday evening are going like smoke. Dr. H. V. Murray will preside. Among contributors will be such popular amateur artists as Theo. ABOUT AQUARIA.

How to Keep Fish in a Healthy Condition—Don't Feed Them.

The whole secret of fish keeping is very simple—namely, "don't feed the fish."

There are only about four or five varieties of fish which will keep in an aquarium, anyhow.

They must be fresh water fish in the first place, for nature makes tides for salt water, and there are no tides in an aquarium. Secondly, there must be no hand dipping. Every time the hand is placed in an aquarium a fish dies, one or more.

There is always a tendency to overcrowd the aquarium. Overcrowd it, and the fish will show whitish, yellow growths about the mouth, fins and gills, eventually destroying the structure. Precisely the same thing happens in an overcrowded school, and it is commonly called consumption.

The first symptom of this disease which appears in fishes is a white, downy spot on some part of the body, generally near the tail. The best thing to do with such a fish is to destroy it, for it will never recover, and the malady will affect every fish in the tank. There is no remedy, no operation and no cure.

Confernae are a great trouble in aquaria. They are a green growth like moss, settling on the sides of the jar. If the fish are to live, the confernae must be cleaned out. While this is being done the fish should be lifted by a net, never by hand, and placed in a jar of fresh water. If the water is too cold, make it warmer; if warm, make it colder, for nothing kills fish so soon as a rapid change of temperature.

As for fish, as for humanity, any temperature above 65 degrees F. is too high, any below 45 degrees is too low.

The proper thing for the bottom of an aquarium is two inches of sand with a top layer of pebbles, in which to insert the plants for growth.

It is always to be remembered that in a well ventilated room, where the carbon and oxygen are well balanced, men, women and children will thrive and fish will live. Hence it follows that in apartments where people grow consumptive fish will die, and that in rooms where fish remain quietly and contentedly at the bottom of the jar human beings are doing well.

German carp and catfish do well in aquaria. The three tailed Japanese goldfish will also do well, but the other river fishes are best left alone.

Skirt Trimming.

Many of the models for summer gowns, says a New York fashion writer, have flat bands of velvet sewed on the skirt or lace insertions set in about four inches apart, some of these showing a color contrasting with that of the dress set beneath each row of insertion. Tiny ruches of silk outline the skirt seams, and wider ruches trim the extreme edge of the skirt, adorn the sleeves and finish the diminutive shoulder cape, and on other gowns accordion plaited frills ripple all over the dress from the neck of the bodice to the bottom of the skirt. The sleeve tops are a mass of the plaitings and the little Marie Antoinette fichu or French pelerine is edged with single, double or triple rows of the frills.

The word despot originally meant master or lord. At a later period it became an honorary title, bestowed by the Greek emperors on certain governors of provinces. Now the word conveys the idea of tyranny, though, strictly speaking, it merely means an absolute ruler.

It is perfectly harmless, you need have no fear of becoming habitually inclined to its use.

For Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, Colds, and all painful affections, a few doses will certainly give relief. You cannot afford to be without a bottle in the house.

Your forefathers used it and found it beneficial.

A TELEPHONE TALK.

There was a mistake, but the boy soon to the telephone.

The haughty Mrs. Brown of Chicago one morning recently proceeded from the breakfast table to the telephone in the hall closet to order things from her market man.

"Hello!" said Mrs. Brown. "Is this the Oakland market? Yes? Well, this is Mrs. Brown's residence. Will you please send me a large, thick, juicy steak by 4 o'clock?"

The boy employed in the Oakland market happened to answer the telephone and promptly responded:

"Well, you just bet you sweet life I will."

"Do you know, sir, to whom you are speaking?" indignantly inquired Mrs. Brown.

"Sure I do," said the boy. "You're Jenny, Mrs. Brown's cook."

"You are mistaken, young man. You are speaking with Mrs. Brown herself."

"Is that so?" replied the boy. "Then, in that case, madam, we'll call the beef off."—Electrical Review.

JAPAN'S BIG KICK.

Marquis Ito's visit to Paris has given rise to sensational reports, the basis of which purports to be utterances of that nobleman of Japan. Paris is one of the last capitals where one should expect a Japanese statesman to tell a tale of woe, seeing that France was led by the nose to back up Russia in depriving Japan of the greater part of her winnings in the war with China. An article in the Figaro says that the Marquis has come to Europe to protest most energetically in the name of his Government against what he calls a usurpation big with dangers, and that he declares to his friends that Japan, which has had to struggle against greater difficulties at the time of the war with China, will go on to the end with the United States. These are brave words, but scarcely so beyond the tenor of Minister Hoshi's written ones, formally conveying the views of his Government to the Government of the United States. Lengthy extracts from Minister Hoshi's latest protest against the Hawaiian annexation project are given in a recent Washington dispatch. There are three discernible points attempted to be made in the voluminous document, which is not a bad piece of special pleading for a weak case.

1. Annexation would render "voidable"—the Minister might as well have said "void" at once—the treaties between Japan and Hawaii, involving the loss of special privileges Japan holds in Hawaii. A double answer may be made to this: first—that the same thing has happened many times in transfers of sovereignty, and, unless in violation of a previous understanding between the succeeding sovereign state and others, is not essentially a legitimate ground of protest by any country that the change may affect prejudicially; and, secondly—that Japan has a liberal treaty with the United States, whose sovereignty succeeds in Hawaii, about coming into full force, under which Japan has privileges in all American territory fully equal to any she has a right to claim now in Hawaii under the treaties with this country.

2. Minister Hoshi says his Government has no hesitation in admitting the predominant influence of the United States in Hawaii. In its opinion, however, the very fact that predominance has existed so long unquestioned might be urged as a reason against the disturbance of the status quo, more especially as practically the whole population of Hawaii acknowledge the paramount importance of the relations of their country with the United States, while it is understood that only a small fraction of that number favor annexation. This appeal to the majority of the mixed population of Hawaii—largely constituted as it is of Japan's subjects who would never have seen Hawaii excepting for the paramountcy here of the United States—is most deliciously refreshing. Minister Hoshi before using such a plea, however, ought to have been in a position to say that a majority of the population of Corea had invited Japan to come in and rule their country, when she was so keen for that job as to go to war with China to secure it, or to assure the world that she is trying to govern the island of Formosa now in response to an affectionate invitation of its whole people. Proceeding on this point of the status quo, Minister Hoshi quotes Secretary Sherman's words saying that the predominant and paramount influence of the United States "has been the one essential feature of the status quo through three-quarters of a century, in which the constitution and government of Hawaii and the commerce of the islands with the world have undergone notable changes," and he submits that this accepted statement "furnishes, on the one hand, the amplest guarantee against anything inimical to either the United States or Hawaii, while on the other hand it obviates the necessity of a change in existing conditions which will injuriously affect the interests of others." If the American predominance constitutes a guarantee against anything inimical to either the United States or Hawaii, why was it not recognized as such by Japan in the case of the present dispute over Japanese immigration? This is the first difficulty ever to arise between Japan and Hawaii, yet the complaint coming from Japan must needs be presented to this defenseless country through the medium of a ship of war. And the paramount oversight of the United States was at the same time treated with contempt. Japan, in this warlike menace, effectually answered in advance her present argument of the status quo's affording ample security to Hawaii. Had the United States been at war on the other side of the world, and unable to spare a ship to assert her interests here, does anybody with a particle of commonsense dare to say that the dispute would have still been pending in diplomacy?

3. Japan is apprehensive, according to Minister Hoshi, that the annexation of Hawaii will revive the policy of colonial expansion among European countries, which was especially active on the Pacific during the decade ending in 1892, and as a result of which "nearly all of the island groups then autonomous passed under the sway of various western powers." He recalls that "it was precisely on account of the prevalence of this spirit of colonial absorption that one of your [Secretary Sherman's] honorable predecessors was led to declare to the German Government that your Government attached great importance to the 'maintenance of the rights to which the United States becomes entitled in the few remaining regions now under independent and autonomous native governments in the Pacific ocean.'" Minister Hoshi, remarking that the justice of that declaration cannot be questioned, argues therefrom that the Japanese Government "could not behold with indifference changes in the status of those governments that would extinguish Japanese rights." This must be allowed to be a fair argument in the abstract. It is weak when gauged by the actual conditions of the Hawaiian situation. Outside of Hawaii in the Pacific, the United States would probably be found the most potent champion of any country or people against colonial expansion at the expense of well-recognized rights existing. But the material interests of Hawaii are so essentially bound up with those of the United States that, even without annexation, the rights of Japan or any other country here must be held subordinate to the public policy of the United States. While the United States furnishes a free and practically the sole market for our products, there is a recognized element in the mutual commercial relations of the two countries which is superior even to the "most favored nation" clause in a treaty with any other country. It is competent for the United States, in its virtually protective relation toward Hawaii, to dictate an end to the colonization of these islands with an alien race which, in her judgment, might point to their future conquest. The United States, without an objection from any other power, holds the keeping of the integrity of Hawaiian soil in her hands. Similarly, she unquestionably reserves the right of supervision of treaties that Hawaii may negotiate with other countries, in so far as these may be deemed to affect her sphere of influence over these islands. Annexation would, in short, really make little difference to the rights of any nationality in these islands from those now existing. Japan by protesting against the consummation of the event that has been ripening for three-fourths of a century simply lays her motives open to suspicion.

BY WAY OF NEW ORLEANS

NEXT YEAR'S SUGAR CROP GOES TO NEW YORK.

Local Sugar Men in Conference With a Representative of Williams, Dimond & Co.

Frequent conferences are taking place between Mr. O. T. Sewall, representing the San Francisco firm of Williams, Dimond & Co., and the local sugar men. While Mr. Sewall ostensibly came down to confer with the local firms of H. Hackfeld & Co., Theo. H. Davies & Co. and Schaefer & Co., for whom they have been acting as San Francisco agents, it is said that his real object is to consummate arrangements with the local combination by which the great bulk of the island sugar goes to New York from now on by way of New Orleans. It was said today that these arrangements have so far progressed that a call for a general meeting of planters to ratify an association the agreements entered into with the individual members has been made.

This agreement calls for the shipment of sugar from Honolulu to Oakland wharf from whence it will be transferred to Southern Pacific railway cars and hauled to New Orleans, some 2000 miles. From New Orleans it will again be shipped on the steamers of the Morgan line, which is controlled by the Southern Pacific, and landed on the Morgan dock in New York, from whence it goes to the New York refinery.

The advantages of this arrangement over the Cape Horn route are many. In the first place the island fleet is given full employment, by which both San Francisco and Honolulu are largely benefited in many ways which need not be specified. The Southern Pacific Company makes a good thing in hauling to New Orleans and in employing a large fleet of steamers, partly idle from the falling off in Cuban business. But most important of all is the saving to the Hawaiian planters in time and insurance. Under the new arrangement sugar can now be laid down in New York in about six weeks instead of from four to six months over the Horn route, and the planters receive their money just that much sooner. In addition the money saved in insurance in the difference between weeks and months will be a considerable item, while the saving from loss on polarization on the trip will be another.

It is reported that the first news of the defection of Theo. H. Davies & Co. from the local combine came to Williams, Dimond & Co. who, it is said, in answer to a letter to T. H. Davies concerning these arrangements, received a very curt reply referring them to J. D. Sprickels & Co. as his future agents in such matters.

The defection of this firm seems to have had the only effect of rendering the balance of the combination more determined to hang together and it is intimated that as a result of their efforts at least two of the plantations for which they have been acting will seek other agents.

Notice of Dissolution.

The copartnership heretofore existing between A. S. Humphreys and S. J. Macdonald for the practice of law under the firm name of Humphreys & Macdonald has been dissolved. Mr. Humphreys will occupy the offices at corner of King and Bethel streets, and will attend to all civil matters now in the hands of the firm. HUMPHREYS & MACDONALD. A. S. HUMPHREYS, S. J. MACDONALD. Why Consulates Are Popular. It is well known that the pressure for consulates is greater than for any other class of offices. Various causes contribute to this desire to go abroad. Representative Hitt thinks he has the true theory. "It is the women folk," he says. "You know how it is. Brown or Jones or Smith, when he has means and leisure, likes to take his family abroad. When they come back, his wife and daughters are filled with their experiences. The whole town is fired with emulation."

Now, John Jones may not have the means to take his family to Europe, but he has influence in politics. When the political wheel turns and his party is up, he looks around to see what the reward for his services shall be. Left to himself, he would probably be content with the postoffice. But his wife and daughters have had to listen to what the Brown women or the Smith women say of life abroad, and, womanlike, they have listened with envy and with a fixed purpose some day to enjoy those experiences for themselves. So, instead of letting John Jones ask for the post-office, they insist that he must be a consul somewhere. Their ideas may be a little indefinite about the nature and duties of a consul's office, but they know it means going abroad, and that is enough for them.

So John Jones makes out his application to be consul general to Paris and writes his congressman that, while Paris is his first choice, he will take something equally good, but it must be abroad. And thus, says Representative Hitt, "are the lives of congressmen made a burden for the first six months after a new administration comes into power. By that time the consulates are all disposed of, and the disappointed applicants can return to the postoffice." -New York Tribune.

His Fear. A prisoner of the sessions had been duly convicted of theft, when it was seen on "proving previous convictions" that he had actually been in prison at the same time the theft was committed. "Why didn't you say so?" asked the judge of the prisoner angrily. "Your lordship, I was afraid of prejudicing the jury against me." —Household Words.

Good Shot. "Do you think I'd better challenge him?" asked the man who thought he had a grievance, referring to the editor. "No," returned the man of the world. "You might aim at him and miss him, but when he gets a pen in hand and aims at you he never misses. I wouldn't stir him up any more." —Chicago Post.

Ready For Anything. A tract distributor, the other day, in a new settlement in the west, popped his head into an Irishman's cabin and asked him "if he would accept a tract on the Holy Land." "Yes, bedad," cried Pat, "I'll take a houl section if ye'll pay my passage right through." —Household Words.

More Reasons.

Why people come long distances to buy at the Palama Grocery. Reason No. 1—Because one customer tells another how much they saved by dealing at this live and let live establishment.

The owner of the yacht Lena L has been notified that a provisional register for the islands will be granted her by the Minister of Foreign Affairs. A register is necessary in order to permit the Lena L to be a public carrier. Her American register was surrendered to the Consul General of the United States upon her sale by her late owners to Messrs Henry Vida and Harry Evans of the police department. Collector General Castle, however, has refused to issue a coasting license under such provisional register, as he holds that the Lena L being in a home port must perfect a permanent register. A permanent register is objected to for some reason by the government and unless some arrangements will be made the Lena L will be tied up indefinitely or only used for private purposes the same as other pleasure craft.

DIED.

KING.—In this city, August 3, 1897, Mabel, daughter of G. W. R. and Amy L. King, aged 13 years. Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral from the residence of her mother, Nuuanu street, at 4 p. m. today.

In a Bunch of Bananas.

Large spiders, and small reptiles have, occasionally, been brought to Montreal in bunches of bananas, but the higher order of animals are not often introduced to the city in this way. Mr. B. Mussen, of Wark Bros., the fruiterers, on Sherbrooke street, was, therefore, surprised to find, last week, a small opossum among some bananas. It seems to be the species known as the Ashy Opossum (Didelphys cinerea), which is not larger than a small rat, and probably comes from Brazil.

The specimen is a female, and she has brought with her a family of six or eight young opossums, which, though born, as is usual in this order of animals, in a very undeveloped state, have survived their hap-hazard voyage, and some of them, it is to be hoped, will reach maturity in their new home. Mr. Mussen has placed the little creature in the Natural History Society's Museum on University street, where it can be seen by visitors during the next few days.—Montreal Witness.

London and Its Lions.

London does its lionizing in such a very original fashion that there is no telling in advance whether a visitor will be ignored or "taken up." We make a tremendous fuss over some second rate celebrity who excels only in blowing his own trumpet, while the real empire makers are sometimes allowed to come and go unnoticed. For solid and well planned progress achieved with the most limited resources there has been nothing since the days of Clive to beat that of the Niger company. The last little campaign against the Foulahs virtually decided the question of supremacy over a population estimated at 8,000,000 or 10,000,000 of the most warlike of African natives and a country of immense potentialities. The victory was achieved by a few hundreds of black troops led by a handful of English officers. It was as significant in its way as Plassey, but when the organizer of victory, Sir George Goldie, reached London a few lines in small type on an inside page of The Times were all that he got. We do not regret this. Neither, we are sure, does Sir George Goldie. It is better to let things develop quietly in that part of the world. But when one recollects the gazettes and medals and distinctions devoted to comparatively unimportant skirmishes in India and elsewhere it raises queer ideas as to our national discrimination.—London Saturday Review.

Old Sumptuary Laws.

Mr. Burdett-Connis, M. P., in an address delivered before the English Universal Cookery and Food association, called attention to the sumptuary laws of the fifteenth century. Then it was enacted that, food being necessary to the sustenance of man, the seller had no right to ask his own price, but it was the duty of the state to fix it. In the same century equal supervision was exercised over cooks. They were ordered to make their meat "well seasoned and wholesome and sell it for a reasonable wholing, and that they rebold or relake no meat in hurt of the king's people." The mayor of a town in those days, upon entering office, was obliged to swear that he would exercise vigilant supervision over bakers, brewers, tavern keepers, cooks and such people. This was no perfunctory oversight, but the official exercised his authority with great severity in cases where cooks and dealers in food and drink failed of their duty.

Too Bad.

Of course they were both dear friends of the girl under discussion. Feminine critics are always dear friends of the ones they criticize. "She has such a lovely disposition," said the first dear friend. "And she is such a brilliant talker," said the second dear friend. "She is getting a little old," said the first dear friend, "but I see no reason why she shouldn't get married, provided"— "Yes?" said the second dear friend inquiringly. "Provided," continued the first dear friend, with an air of deep concern, "she ever meets a blind man." "Yes. Isn't it too bad?" returned the second dear friend.—Chicago Post.

Looking Upward.

One who accustoms himself to think of pure and holy things, who sets his affections on things above and strives to reach whatever things are lovely, will grow upward toward the things he loves and thinks upon. But one who lets his mind turn habitually to degrading things, things unholy, unclean, sensual, will find his whole soul bending downward and growing toward the earth.—J. R. Miller, D. D.

A Lost Chance.

"Help, help!" cried the drowning man. "I am drowning!" "Jove! What an opportunity!" cried the reporter on the shore, whipping out his notebook. "Quick, tell me your sensations, and I'll give you a send off in next Sunday's paper." But it was too late. The man had gone down for the third time.—Harper's Bazar.
