WHAT ONE SMALL HEAD KNOWS.

The Weight of Dead Facts Stored in the Pigeon-Holes of Memory.

Take the animal world, for example—the creatures themselves, and not their names—and look at the diversity of cats and dogs, goats and sheep, beetles and butterflies, soles and shrimps, that even the ordinary unlearned man knows and recognizes, and mostly remembers. Narrow the question down to dogs alone, and still you get the same result. Consider the St. Bernards and mastiffs, the pugs and bulldogs, the black and tan and King Charles, the sheep dogs and the deer hounds, the shivering little Italian greyhounds and the long dachshunds that you buy by the yard. Every one of these, and countless others, has got to have its name all to itself in the classificatory department of the human brain, and I suppose another cell for its name in the portion specially devoted to language also. Add to these the plants, flowers, fruits, roots, and other well-known vegetable products whose names are familiar to almost everybody and what a total you have got at once! A good botanist, to take a more specific case, knows (in addition to a stock of general knowledge about equivalent on the average to any body else's) the names and natures of hundreds and thousands of distinct plants, to say nothing about innumerable small peculiarities of stem, and leaf, and flower, and seed in every species and variety among them all.

No, the mere bare weight of dead fact with which everybody's memory is stored and laden defies the possibility of reckoning and pigeon-holing. Make your separate docketts ever so tiny, reduce them all to their smallest dimensions, and yet their will not be room for all of them in the human brain. The more we think on it the more will the wonder grow that one small head can carry all that the merest infant knows.—Grant Allen in the Gentleman's Magazine.

Curious Psychological Phenomenology.

During a certain period of my life I suffered from frequent syncope, and I had the opportunity of observing on myself the psychological phenomenology of the return to consciousness. During syncope there is absolute psychological non-existence, total absence of all consciousness; then one begins to have a vague, unlimited, infinite feeling, a feeling of existence in general without any delineation of one's own individuality without the least trace of any distinction between the ego and the non-ego. One is then "an organic part of nature," having the consciousness of the fact of one's existence, but having none of the fact of his organic unity; one has, in a word, an impersonal consciousness. This feeling may be agreeable if the syncope is not due to violent pain, and very disagreeable if it is; this is the only possible distinction, one feels that he is living and enjoying, or living and suffering without knowing why he enjoys or suffers, and without knowing the seat of this sentiment.—Professor A. Herzon in Journal of Medical Science.

A Little Girl Uncovers a Skeleton.

Three families of social, commercial and religious distinction live in the same block at one of the north side avenues. People who live across the street have long suspected that there was a chord out of tune in the distinctive set. A little girl let the secret out. There was a collision in the street. The carriage of one of the families first mentioned suffered severely and the occupants were thrown out. One was the lady of the brown-stone front. She received a slight injury and was assisted to one of the little grass plots that fringed the sidewalk, where she swooned from excitement, but quickly recovered. Let her family name be Smith. The people across the street noticed that none of the set in the block came out to give relief or assistance. When it became apparent that there was no occasion for any alarm this little girl, who is responsible for the story, came out of her house, and approaching the lady who had met with the accident, said, in her truthful child way, "Why, Mrs. Smith—is it you? We thought it was the Joneses!"—Chicago Herald.

When a Pugilist Has Had Enough.

"Is there any way of forcing men to fight after they have had enough and want to quit?"

"None but talking to them," replied the old sport. "You may nerve a man up by encouraging him, or you may shame him into going ahead rather than be thought a coward, or you may make him desperate by telling him how everybody will go back on him if he does not show game, but if all these fails there is nothing more to be done. If the cur is in him he will not fight, and you can not force him to. You might bite chunks out of him, and the cur would endure all rather than fight if he once gets a terror on him of the man that is pitted against him and feels that he has got enough. You may even shove him out into the ring, and he will stand up to be knocked down, without putting up his hands to defend himself, if he has cur blood in him and it has been waked up!"—New York Sun.

Usefulness of the Newspapers.

How useful are the newspapers to make men contented with their times! Of course it is said that they imitate people who would otherwise be imitated by something else, but then how magnificent they make life to other kinds of vanity! Here is the young woman who has married the rich man, and lives a dull, disgusted existence and the newspaper refers to her as the exquisite Mrs. Jewsharp. All that day she is perfectly happy, and she buys an edition of the paper and sends it around. So with the man who has the big picture that cost $27,000; the principal joy he gets out of it is having it referred to about once a year as his property.—"Gath's" Letter.

Heat Sufficient to Kill Germs.

From recent experiments by Dr. Parsons on the disinfection of clothes and bedding by heat, the conclusion is reached that the germs of the ordinary infectious diseases can not withstand an exposure of an hour to dry heat of 230 degrees Fahrenheit, or an exposure of five minutes to boiling water or steam of 212 degrees.—Arkansas Traveler.

Outdoor Employment for Women.

Professor Maria Mitchell, of Vassar college, favors outdoor employment for women to the extent of advising them to take up land surveying for a business.—Exchange.

A RETREATING SALLY.

Nothing but a backdown could have been made by the Advertiser, from the awkward position where it placed itself by its wild attack on this paper. Its retreat is, however, not a very graceful one. Our charge against the Government, of having wrongfully made away with the special deposit to cover the difference between silver and gold, remains unanswered and unanswerable. That the Legislature did not take cognizance of the transaction before the currency bill came up is not to the point. Perhaps none of the members took the time to investigate the true nature of the item in the Finance Minister's report, showing that the $37,000 (or whatever the exact amount was) had been converted into a Government realization. All the same the transaction was a flagrant breach of trust, as the money had been placed in the treasury as security to the holders of silver certificates. Again we have to deny that we meant anything but what we said in relation to this matter. We confessed and confess no ignorance, but acknowledged and do acknowledge that we had forgotten the exact figures. The writer of the articles in the HERALD had part in the public discussions of the currency when that special deposit was made, and, excepting the exact details, knew what he was writing about in the issue of last Friday. As to the covering up of tracks on the part of the Government, it is only necessary to say that, had the Minister of Foreign Affairs succeeded with his proposed amendments, instead of having been forced to capitulate by the Opposition, the results would have been pretty much as we stated.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Too hot for you to hold it, eh? That's why you dropped the HERALD, neighbor.

Mr. Dillingham is doing a service, the value of which may be incalculable, to this country, in endeavoring to push new products on the attention of foreign consumers.

A while ago the organ in its wisdom deprecated so much work going to committees. It is the work done by the committees, however, that enables the House in these closing days to despatch useful business that otherwise would have to go by the board.

It is really too good to hear people deprecate anything tending to prevent the negotiation of the $2,000,000 loan, when the last thing those people want is to have it negotiated, as there is a prospect of it being, with a new financial king who will not know the Hawaiian Josephs.

The electric light project met with sudden collapse yesterday, so far as the franchise to Mr. Berger and associates is concerned. It is rumored that a Government scheme will burst on the House in a few days. Then it will be seen just how far the Hawaiian Legislative Assembly is capable of being trifled with. Possibly the bitter may be badly bitten before the show is over.

The Appropriation Bill is nearly four millions, and it is not quite through the House yet. The items that have swelled it several hundreds of thousands of dollars, both above necessary expenditures and above the revenue, are the very ones that will receive first preference in administering the finances. There will be the same begging of the more essential services, the same illegal methods of raising the wind.

In Slavery Days.

Dr. James E. King was telling some of his early experiences in the South last evening to some newspaper men. "Early in the fifties," he said, "I was in Memphis, Tenn., when a fight took place between a banker and a speculator, who had been against each other at the slave block for a beautiful slave girl—dazzling white and lovely as a dream, yet a negress and the daughter of a planter who had died intestate and bankrupt. She was about sixteen years of age, and might have stood as a model for the Greek Slave. Her mistress tried to save her, but her means gave out, and she was crying because, though the girl was her husband's illegitimate child, she was her companion and friend. While she was crying the row arose between the two bidders. One had a bowie knife and the other a small hatchet, which he had picked up. The way they cut and slashed was something awful. The banker had the knife and he cut the face of his antagonist from the forehead to the neck, ripping out his left eye, while his opponent's hatchet descended upon his brain, and he was laid out. This over, the crowd allowed the bodies to lie where they fell, and turned back to the sale. A St. Louis man took up the bidding from where the widow left it, and raised her $500. He was understood to be the agent of a rich personage who had seen the girl and given orders to have her secured at any price. Her mistress appealed to her friends in vain for money, when a Mississippi steamer captain, who had known her husband, came along and asked her what was the trouble. Hearing the cause of her distress, he bid $3,000 for the girl, and pulling a pistol half a yard long dared the St. Louis man to bid again on peril of having his brain-pan emptied. The other at once wilted, and the mistress was made intensely happy by the recovery of the girl. The incident has gone into many a play," continued the doctor, "but it's as true as gospel."

Henry Watterson on England.

The warp and woof of English society is a sham. Thackeray saw it out of the clearest kind of cosmopolitan eyes, and even Dickens was not wholly dead to it. But, while the purse holds out, it is resplendent indeed. The bully in the men makes good soldiers. The power of England is undeniable. The slave in the woman, when she does not elope, makes excellent housewifery. The domestic fabric of England is respectable and orderly. But the church, the state and the home built upon a complex feudal system depend upon the noise and balance of classes in the relation which now exists, and which, with trifling incidents not seriously disturbing the personal life of England, has existed since Magna Charta.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Odds and Ends.

A New York paper declares that the country must be more prosperous this year than it was last year, because more people are getting married.

A deacon of a Greenville, Penn., church has a string of buttons half a yard long. They have been taken out of the collections of the church during the past few years.

There are nearly seven hundred musicians in Philadelphia and not one first-class band. Efforts of musicians to organize have always failed through lack of public support.

The Best Tonic.

Mr. Henry Billings, Washington, D. C., writes: "I have used your Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky for medicinal purposes. As a tonic I consider it superior to the hundreds of concoctions which are now flooding the land as stimulant liquors."

BUSINESS ITEMS.

Artist Materials, Picture Frames and Cornices made to order. King Bros., Art Store, Hotel street.

No hand-book excels the Hawaiian Almanac and Annual for reliable statistical and general information relating to these Islands. Price 50 cents.

If you want a good smoke for your money, patronize home industry and call at J. W. Hingley's, Crystal Soda Works, 69 Hotel street.

What everybody needs at the present hot spell is something cold and refreshing. There is nothing like the superior hand-made Ice Creams, Sherbets and Fruit Ices served at the Elite Ice Cream Parlors, 85 Hotel street. Keep our fancy cakes and candies in mind. They can't be beat.

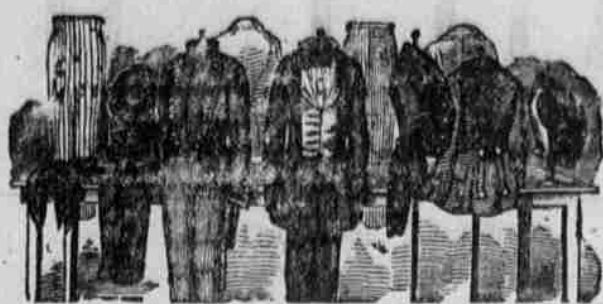

Fresh, steam-frozen, pure and richest ice-cream every day. No cream frozen over the second, third, or even fourth day. Sold at the Pioneer Steam Candy Factory, Bakery and Ice Cream Rooms, No. 71, Hotel street, between Fort and Nuuanu streets. F. Horn, Proprietor, Practical Confectioner and Pastry Cook and Ornamentier.

Fresh home-made Hawaiian Chocolate, Strawberry, Vanilla and other Flavored Caramels always on hand, guaranteed to be far superior than any imported, and sold cheaper at the above establishment than anywhere else. Both Telephones 74.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky is not a medicated liquor, but a pure, unadulterated whisky for medicinal use, free from fusel oil and all noxious impurities, and is prescribed by physicians. It is a medicine for the sick and feeble, and a beverage for the million, because it is absolutely pure.

LOCAL NEWS.

The steamer W. G. Hall reports fine weather on Hawaii.

Two inebriates were slated last night at the Station House.

Hon. S. B. Dole left for Kauai by the steamer Iwalani last evening.

P. N. Makee, Waihee, Maui, is registered at the Hawaiian Hotel.

Both the senior and junior crews of the Myrtle Club were out last night.

Mr. J. J. Aubertin, of London, had a pleasant interview with the King on Monday.

The Honolulu Rifles meet for drill this evening. A full attendance is requested.

The steamship Geo. W. Elder is expected from San Francisco to-day or to-morrow.

There was a regular jam of customers at the Popular Millinery House yesterday afternoon.

Princess Likelike will be at home at her Waikiki residence from two to five o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. T. J. King, of King Bros., goes to the Coast by the Alameda, to select Christmas goods for the Art Store.

The examination of Soy Yung, the Chinese alleged pistol welder, comes up in the Police Court this morning.

Maui is very dry. It is said that planting had to be stopped at Spreckelsville, as it was not prudent to commit the seed to the parched soil.

A gay transparency, over the Pioneer steam candy factory and bakery store, shows the wayfarer where the only steamed frozen ice cream is to be found.

Mr. John Cassidy, Superintendent Bell Telephone Company, is at Punalu, on the other side of the island, attending to business connected with the lines.

Mr. C. J. McCarthy is going to move his pleasant place of recreation from Hotel to Fort street, next door to Messrs. West, Dow & Co.'s, the first of October.

The sporting rooms of the Hotel were well patronized last night. A limb of the law menaced one with a cue, but presented him with the cue for a news item.

The G. A. R. Camp Fire will be held on Saturday evening next. Those who were privileged to be present at last year's will not willingly absent themselves.

The Athletic Association, which had exhibited but slight vitality for the past few years, on Monday night resolved to disband and divide the effects among the members.

A party of ladies gambled in the water at the Kapiolani bath-house yesterday afternoon. They thoroughly enjoyed themselves, leaping from the spring board without hesitation.

Four drunks paid the regulation six dollars in the Police Court yesterday morning, and Hy Brown, charged with assault and battery, was sentenced to three days' hard labor.

Eggs are very dear in the city at present, commanding five cents each. Perhaps the wholesale robbery of chicken coops a few months ago has something to do with it.

There will be a special meeting of the Myrtle Boat Club this evening at the clubhouse, when weighty business in connection with the November regatta will be the order.

Captain J. J. Phelps and his friend and fellow traveler, Mr. Hillard, were entertained at breakfast by the King on Monday. Yesterday afternoon they were guests of Princess Likelike at Waikiki.

A picture of the volcano as it was just prior to the collapse, painted by Tavernier, is on exhibition at King Bros' Art Store; also a painting by the same artist of a forest scene at Redwood, California.

Mr. Bishop, clerk at Messrs. C. Brewer & Co.'s, has returned from a holiday on Hawaii by the W. G. Hall. He reports more rain in Kau, where there has been a fall of nine inches in a month. Pahala looks like a different place, from the effects of the moisture.

There was a large crowd at Messrs. E. P. Adams & Co.'s saleroom yesterday, when Mr. J. F. McLaughlin's horse, phaeton and harness were sold.

Hon. S. M. Damon bought the horse for the satisfactory figure of $290, Mr. W. S. Luce the phaeton for $95, and two sets of harness went together for $43.

Observations on Hawaii.

Mr. Harry Armitage, agent of the Inter-Island volcano route, returned to town by the W. G. Hall yesterday after a fortnight's visit to Hawaii. He was at all the principal places in Kau, as well as the volcano. On the ranches he saw cattle lying dead from the drouth by the hundred. A few cattle died at Kapapala, Mr. Julian Monsarrat's ranch, but the mortality there was less than at other places, on account of the Ainapo lake in the upper section, to which the cattle from the dry region below could be driven. The cattle on Hon. C. R. Bishop's ranch, South Point, have been dying in numbers since the recent rains, the sudden transition from dry to wet grazing, and from deprivation to abundance of water, having produced sickness in the droves. Most of the planters have lost more or less in working cattle, Chung Peu, a Chinese planter, suffering to the extent of a hundred head. The cane was badly dried up, some of it almost beyond hope of recovery. Hilea cane looks well. Honuapo felt the drouth very badly. Pahala was seriously wilted, but is showing the beneficent effects of the rain.

The volcano was pretty active. There was fire all round Halemaumau, and a good distance out on the floor of the caldera it showed in the cracks. Not a bit of fire was in the New Lake on the Little Beggar, the ruins of which are still well defined. Mr. Armitage believes there is a great body of molten matter and fire just beneath the surface, and that activity will become more and more pronounced until the former grandeur of the volcano is restored. The agent's face presents a good advertisement of the hale effects of an excursion among the mountains of Hawaii and over the inter-island seas.

Robbery Last Night.

Between ten o'clock and midnight last night the store of Quong Son, on King street, near the Chinese Theatre, was entered and a haul of valuable plunder made. The burglar climbed over a gate and got round to the back door, by breaking a glass in which he was able to unlock it. Going into a back room, he broke open a tin box and two small fancy boxes, taking therefrom twenty-seven dollars in silver, a silver watch and chain, a gold ring worth four dollars, and an article of Chinese lady's head dress worth ten dollars. Having secured this booty, the robber escaped by the way he came. The proprietor of the store left at ten o'clock to attend the theatre, returning at a quarter to twelve to discover the robbery. Word was sent to the Station, when Officer J. Kauhane went to the store and made an examination of the premises without discovering any clue. Quong Son believes a fellow countryman committed the robbery.

Fancy Sale.

A sale of fancy articles, made by the pupils of the school, was held at the Convent of the Sacred Heart yesterday. Besides a goodly attendance from St. Louis College, there were only a few outside friends present, as the event was not made very public in advance. The college youth bought up the cheaper goods—knickknacks for holiday presents—with alacrity, and the whole stock was cleared out. A few of the more expensive articles, these of utility, remained unsold, but the Sisters are not disappointed in the result. The realizations go to charitable objects in the line of the Sisters' works of mercy. A much enjoyed ice cream festival was given the pupils and friends of the school in the evening.

Inviting Fire.

Mr. John L. Reese, one of the watch at the Central Fire Station, on Sunday last took a stroll through Chinatown, keeping a fireman's eye open to whatever was in view. He saw in numbers of places kerosene tins used for stoves set on the bare wooden floors, as if the Celestials had wholly forgot the fearful lesson of April 18th. Mr. Reese reported the fact to the Fire Marshal, Mr. McGuire. No doubt that official will take steps to prevent such reckless inviting of another conflagration. It is also important that the tenants of both new and old Chinatown are not allowed to exceed the legal limit in oil and other explosives stored in their places. John needs close watching.

Sample Shipment.

By the Alameda, due on Saturday from the Colonies, Mr. B. F. Dillingham will send to London a number of sample packages each of the dried bananas and pineapples, and taro flour, manufactured by the Alden Fruit and Taro Company, Wailuku. They will be submitted to analysis in London, to show English housekeepers their rich qualities as food. It is hoped that they will speedily make a name for themselves in the English market, so that a large lucrative export of the different articles from this Kingdom may ensue. Doubtless on the success of these, other articles of food and luxury will be added to the manufactures of the company.

P. A. Brouse publishes the statement that he will allow anyone the choice of Clementina and Redwood, then take the one that is left and run it against the other for $250 a side.

LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.

Tuesday was the one hundred and seventh day. Mr. Brown reported from the Judiciary Committee, recommending the passage of the bill for the relief of certain persons at Waikiki, deprived of their property for the reservoir there. Report was tabled for consideration with that and the Appropriation Bill. Mr. Gibson reported the joint resolution of $15,000 additional legislative expenses, as signed by His Majesty. Mr. Brown from the Judiciary Committee reported a recommendation to pay Mr. J. H. Soper $362.25, incurred by him in litigation as Marshal. The committee thought that $100 of the amount should not have been paid by the Marshal, being for attorney's fee while it was the duty of the Attorney General to defend all suits against a Government officer. Tabled. The same committee recommended the passage of a bill relating to dead letters, and the bill was thereupon forwarded to engrossment. Mr. Richardson, from select committee on the bill relating to prisons, jails and houses of correction, presented two substitute bills, as the original covered two objects. The report was adopted and the bills passed to engrossment. Mr. Dole, from committee of commerce, recommended amendments to the bill relating to explosives other than gunpowder. The report was adopted and the bill passed to engrossment. Mr. Brown made a motion for night sessions, which was rejected in favor of an amendment by Mr. Castle, that the house sit from 9:30 to 12, mornings, and from 1 till 5:30 afternoons. Mr. Kaunamano made a funny speech on the question—the same one he made when night sessions were proposed earlier in the session. Mr. Keau had his fish market bill placed on the special orders. Mr. Baker, with a little worrying, got his bill, providing for keeping the public accounts in both languages, out of the hands of the Judiciary Committee and on the special orders. Then Mr. Keau had the bill making the Hawaiian the binding version of the laws put on a special footing. Monday was appointed for the hearing and consideration of the Molokai visiting committee's report. In the forenoon the Appropriation Bill was given to the Finance Committee to add up the departments and report. It was returned in the afternoon, with the following showing of totals under the different heads:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes Civil List ($126,000), Permanent Settlements ($17,800), Legislative Assembly and Privy Council ($50,300), Judiciary ($53,750), Foreign Office ($262,204), Interior Department ($725,083), Finance Department ($760,145), Attorney General's Department ($276,923), Board of Education ($193,000), Board of Health ($251,750), Grand Total ($3,822,976).

The bill passed to engrossment. The electric light bill was taken up, when Mr. Baker moved for leave to withdraw it. This was opposed on the ground of irregularity, as the bill had been substituted by a committee for the original one introduced by Mr. Baker. The opposition, however, suddenly collapsed, and a motion by Mr. Dare to grant the desired leave carried.

News from the Arctic.

The schooner Bonanza, from Alaska, reports that on June 21st the whaling bark John Carver was crushed in the ice north of the St. Lawrence Islands. All hands were saved and picked up by the bark Atlantic after being in an open boat thirty-three hours. She had two whales when she was crushed. The Bonanza spoke the schooner Henrietta south of the St. Lawrence Islands. June 23d the barks Arnolda and the Atlantic were spoken, ice-bound, off St. Lawrence Islands. The latter had one sperm whale. The Helen Mar was spoken off St. Lawrence Islands June 25th, and on July 7th the United States steamer Bear was spoken in Golovin Bay. All were well. The Bonanza brought down two of the crew of the John Carver, namely David Hansen and John Johnson. The other members of the crew were divided among the fleet.

Additional particulars concerning the John Carver are as follows: She was owned by William Lewis of New Bedford. She sailed for the Arctic from this port on the 5th of December last, in command of Captain Montross, with a crew of forty, all told. An attempt was made to escape from the ice in Behring Strait which was closing in. On June 21st the Carver, while running before the wind, about forty miles southwest of St. Lawrence Islands, struck a cake of ice which stove her port bow and the water rushed in so that the crew had only time to get a few things in a boat to make their escape. The crew had a cold time for thirty-three hours. On the morning of June 23d the whaler Atlantic was sighted. Captain Montross remained north on the Atlantic. The Bonanza, which brought down the news of the disaster, was nipped by the ice but suffered no damage beyond losing a plank. In Golovin Bay the Bonanza was boarded by the third officer and surgeon of the United States steamer Bear, who reported all well on board the Bear but said that owing to the ice their search for the crew of the Amethyst had been retarded. The Atlantic and Young Phoenix are reported to have caught one whale each. No reports have been received from the steam whaling fleet. It is reported that the Bear at St. Michaels, June 15th, was compelled to slip anchor to escape the ice. Generally the ice is broken up about the 1st of June. The indications are that the season will be very late. Last year the Bonanza left here about the same relative time as she did this year, to go north, and found no ice. This year she was held in the ice twenty days. No tidings are brought concerning the Amethyst. If any additional wreckage, which may have belonged to that vessel, has been found, the fact is not reported. The mate of the Bonanza thinks that the whaling fleet will be down late.

The Bulletin reports a marriage feast at Punalu, Oahu, on the occasion of a half Portuguese girl "going off," which comprised three bullocks, ten pigs, twenty-five sacks of sweet potatoes, several barrels of poi, with liquors in galore. What need of emigration drummers at the Azores when accounts go home of such abundant luxury among descendants of former emigrants?

Yesterday the Chief Justice granted the motion for change of venue, from Waiohina, Hawaii, to Honolulu, in the case of George Glendon, charged with gross cheat. The bail was at the same time reduced. It will be remembered, from the HERALD report, that the jury disagreed on the trial at the September term of the Third Judicial Circuit at Waiohina.

THE WHIMS OF ENGINES.

LOCOMOTIVES THAT GET THE SULK AND HAVE BALKY STREAKS.

An Account of the Stubbornest Engine That was Ever Put on a Road—Likes and Dislikes Between Locomotives and Engineers—Some Cases.

"Locomotives are funny things," said an Erie engineer, "and I've seen them sometimes when I believed they were actually human. They get the sulks and have balky streaks, and when they're in such moods you can't make time with them any more than you can fly. Then, again, they'll be as chipper and willing as a thoroughbred horse, and you actually have to hold 'em in to keep from running into stations ahead of time.

"I suppose the stubbornest locomotive that was ever put on a road was one of the 'Twin Sisters,' a couple of splendid machines built by the New York Central a few years ago. They were made exactly alike in every particular, from the same patterns, by the same workmen, and with the same materials. There wasn't a man on the road that could tell which was which until their numbers were painted on them. They were beauties, and the engineers who were assigned to duty on them were the envy of all the boys. When the engines were put on trial one of the locomotives developed amazing power and speed. She could take a freight train up a grade with scarcely an effort, and with a passenger train made fifty miles an hour with ease.

"Spiteful puffs of black smoke. The other wouldn't go at all. Even when pulled wide open she would simply give a few spiteful puffs of black smoke, a few turns of her driving wheels, and then would stop. The way she exhausted steam showed she was a vixen. She was taken apart and not a single thing could be found wrong with her mechanism. Different parts of the locomotive that was so great a success were exchanged for the same parts in the stubborn one. The willing locomotive ran as well as ever, but the stubborn one refused to move a peg. She tried half a dozen different engineers on her—for you must know that sometimes a locomotive is particular about the man that handles her throttle, and will do work for one that she refuses to do for another; but she treated them all with equal disdain. They put her in the round-house and kept her there for six months, thinking that she might get over her balky fit, and run all right on another trial.

"One day they fired her up and tried her. She started off like a beauty, and ran two miles in a little over two minutes. Then she stopped, and couldn't be induced to make a move in either direction. She was towed back to the shops and taken to pieces. The same machinery was used in building another locomotive, and that one was as big a success as the mate of the stubborn engine, and when I last heard of her she was still one of the best engines on the road.

"It sounds queer to say that locomotives have their likes and dislikes, but it actually does seem that they have, and there are few engineers who don't believe it. There isn't a railroad man who can't tell you instances by the dozen of engines that positively would not make time with some engineers; but would get there every time under the hands of others. You might say it was the fault of the engineers if the engines did not make their time, but I have known the very best engineers that ever mounted the footboard who have been obliged to be transferred from locomotives placed in their charge because the locomotives would not make their time, but which, under the hand of other engineers, neither as skillful nor so experienced, would never run behind.

A CASE OF MUTUAL ATTACHMENT. "Take the case of Josh Martin and Gad Lyman, two of the old-time Erie engineers, and either of them without a superior in their day. Josh was running a locomotive that he was greatly attached to, and the sequel proved that the attachment was mutual. For some reason or other the superintendent of the road wanted Josh's locomotive for use on a portion of the road that Lyman ran on, so he ordered Lyman and Martin to exchange engines. The old fellows who remember it say that when Josh's engine was run away from Port Jarvis, Josh cried like a baby, and that the engine herself was all broke up at the parting, for she was an hour longer than she should have been in getting to her new field of labor. Gad Lyman took charge of her, but she had made up her mind that she would not work under him, and she didn't. She got stalled with the lightest trains, and never made her run on time. After a week's trial Lyman reported the locomotive 'No good,' and she was condemned to run the gravel train. She worked as balky and sulky as ever, and the superintendent ordered her taken to Paterson and broken up.

"Josh Martin heard of this, and came down the road a-flyin'. He begged to have his 'old gal' back again, and finally the superintendent said he might try her. Josh mounted his footboard once more, and when he pulled the throttle away she went like a bird. She made the run back to Fort Jervis quicker than any locomotive had ever done it up to that day, and Josh Martin ran her for years over the Delaware division after that, and always made his run on time as easy as could be, except in case of accident. No, sir; the fact of the matter was, Josh and that engine just loved one another, and simply would not be parted; and there are plenty of cases just like it to-day."—New York Times.

A New Device for the Library. It is said that Mr. George Vanderbilt, the literary member of the family, will not spoil old and rare books by the profanation of new covers, and has invented a new device for maintaining the old covers and at the same time for retaining the elegant outside appearance of his library. He has had beautiful separate covers, bindings that could be removed, placed on these rare books, and passes his time alone with his favorites.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Little 3-Year-Old's Reason Why. "Papa," asked a little 3-year-old, "why do I say a short prayer and you a long prayer?" "Because you are not old enough to learn a long prayer," explained the father. "Is that it? I thought it was because I haven't got wicked enough yet to have to say a long prayer."—New York Sun.

THE DAILY HERALD.

To-day, September 1st, 1886, is issued the first number of THE DAILY HERALD, a morning newspaper, to be printed for the proprietor under contract by the "Press Publishing Company," Merchant street, Honolulu.

Price Six Dollars per Annum or Fifty Cents per Month.

All who receive a copy of the initial or any succeeding number are respectfully

INVITED TO SUBSCRIBE.

ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.

The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.

Try the "Daily Herald" for a month at least.

WHAT ONE SMALL HEAD KNOWS.

The Weight of Dead Facts Stored in the Pigeon-Holes of Memory.

Take the animal world, for example—the creatures themselves, and not their names—and look at the diversity of cats and dogs, goats and sheep, beetles and butterflies, soles and shrimps, that even the ordinary unlearned man knows and recognizes, and mostly remembers.

Narrow the question down to dogs alone, and still you get the same result. Consider the St. Bernards and mastiffs, the pugs and bulldogs, the black and tans and King Charles, the sheep dogs and the grey hounds, the shivering little Italian greyhounds and the long dachshunds that you buy by the yard. Every one of these, and countless others, has got to have its cell all to itself in the classificatory department of the human brain, and I suppose another cell for its name in the portion specially devoted to language also. Add to these the plants, flowers, fruits, roots, and other well-known vegetable products whose names are familiar to almost everybody and what a total you have got at once! A good botanist, to take a more specific case, knows (in addition to a stock of general knowledge about equivalent on the average to anybody else's) the names and natures of hundreds and thousands of distinct plants, to say nothing about innumerable small peculiarities of stem, and leaf, and flower, and seed in every species and variety among them all.

No, the mere bare weight of dead fact with which everybody's memory is stored and laden defies the possibility of reckoning and pigeon-holing. Make your separate docketts ever so tiny, reduce them all to their smallest dimensions, and yet their will not be room for all of them in the human brain. The more we think on the more will the wonder grow that one small head can carry all that the merest infant knows.—Grant Allen in the Gentleman's Magazine.

Curious Psychological Phenomenology.

During a certain period of my life I suffered from frequent syncope, and I had the opportunity of observing on myself the psychological phenomenology of the return to consciousness. During syncope there is absolute psychological non-existence, total absence of all consciousness; then one begins to have a vague, unlimited, infinite feeling, a feeling of existence in general without any delineation of one's own individuality without the least trace of any distinction between the ego and the non-ego; one is then "an organic part of nature," having the consciousness of the fact of one's existence, but having none of the fact of his organic unity; one has, in a word, an impersonal consciousness. This feeling may be agreeable if the syncope is not due to violent pain, and very disagreeable if it is; this is the only possible distinction, one feels that he is living and enjoying, or living and suffering without knowing why he enjoys or suffers, and without knowing the seat of this sentiment.—Professor A. Herzen in Journal of Medical Science.

A Little Girl Uncovers a Skeleton.

Three families of social, commercial and religious distinction live in the same block at one of the north side avenues. People who live across the street have long suspected that there was a chord out of tune in the distinctive set. A little girl let the secret out. There was a collision in the street. The carriage of one of the families first mentioned suffered severely and the occupants were thrown out. One was the lady of the brown-stone front. She received a slight injury and was assisted to one of the little grass plots that fringed the sidewalk, where she swooned from excitement, but quickly recovered. Let her family name be Smith. The people across the street noticed that none of the set in the block came out to give relief or assistance. When it became apparent that there was no occasion for any alarm this little girl, who is responsible for the story, came out of her house, and approaching the lady who had met with the accident, said, in her truthful, child way: "Why, Mrs. Smith—is it you? We thought it was the Joneses!"—Chicago Herald.

When a Pugilist Has Had Enough.

"Is there any way of foreing men to fight after they have had enough and want to quit?" "None but talking to them," replied the old sport. "You may nerve a man up by encouraging him, or you may shame him into going ahead rather than be thought a coward, or you may make him desperate by telling him how everybody will go back on him if he does not show game, but if all these fails there is nothing more to be done. If the cur is in him he will not fight, and you can not force him to. You might like to chuck out of him, and the cur would endure all rather than fight if he once gets a terror on him of the man that is pitted against him and feels that he has got enough. You may even shove him out into the ring, and he will stand up to be knocked down, without putting up his hands to defend himself, if he has cur blood in him and it has been waked up."—New York Sun.

Usefulness of the Newspapers.

How useful are the newspapers to make men contented with their times? Of course it is said that they irritate people who would otherwise be initiated by something else, but then how magnificent they make life to other kinds of vanity! Here is the young woman who has married the rich man, and lives a dull, disgusted existence, and the newspaper refers to her as the exquisite Mrs. Jewsbury. All that day she would endure all rather than fight if he once gets a terror on him of the man that is pitted against him and feels that he has got enough. You may even shove him out into the ring, and he will stand up to be knocked down, without putting up his hands to defend himself, if he has cur blood in him and it has been waked up."—New York Sun.

Heat Sufficient to Kill Germs.

From recent experiments by Dr. Parsons on the disinfection of clothes and bedding by heat, the conclusion is reached that the germs of the ordinary infectious diseases can not withstand an exposure of an hour to dry heat of 220 degrees Fahrenheit, or an exposure of five minutes to boiling water or steam of 212 degrees.—Arkansas Traveler.

A RETREATING SALLY.

Nothing but a backdown could have been made by the Advertiser, from the awkward position where it placed itself by its wild attack on this paper. Its retreat is, however, not a very graceful one. Our charge against the Government, of having wrongfully made away with the special deposit to cover the difference between silver and gold, remains unanswered and unanswerable. That the Legislature did not take cognizance of the transaction before the currency bill came up is not to the point. Perhaps none of the members took the time to investigate the true nature of the item in the Finance Minister's report, showing that the $37,000 (or whatever the exact amount was) had been converted into a Government realization. All the same the transaction was a flagrant breach of trust, as the money had been placed in the treasury as security to the holders of silver certificates. Again we have to deny that we meant anything but what we said in relation to this matter. We confessed and confess no ignorance, but acknowledged and do acknowledge that we had forgotten the exact figures. The writer of the articles in the HERALD had part in the public discussions of the currency when that special deposit was made, and, excepting the exact details, knew what he was writing about in the issue of last Friday. As to the covering up of tracks on the part of the Government, it is only necessary to say that, had the Minister of Foreign Affairs succeeded with his proposed amendments, instead of having been forced to capitulate, by the Opposition, the results would have been pretty much as we stated.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Too hot for you to hold it, eh? That's why you dropped the HERALD, neighbor.

Mr. Dillingham is doing a service, the value of which may be incalculable, to this country, in endeavoring to push new products on the attention of foreign consumers.

A while ago the organ in its wisdom deprecated so much work going to committees. It is the work done by the committees, however, that enables the House in these closing days to despatch useful business that otherwise would have to go by the board.

It is really too good to hear people deprecate anything tending to prevent the negotiation of the $2,000,000 loan, when the last thing those people want is to have it negotiated, as there is a prospect of it being, with a new financial king who will not know the Hawaiian Josephs.

The electric light project met with sudden collapse yesterday, so far as the franchise to Mr. Berger and associates is concerned. It is rumored that a Government scheme will burst on the House in a few days. Then it will be seen just how far the Hawaiian Legislative Assembly is capable of being trifled with. Possibly the bitter may be badly bitten before the show is over.

The Appropriation Bill is nearly four millions, and it is not quite through the House yet. The items that have swelled it several hundreds of thousands of dollars, both above necessary expenditures and above the revenue, are the very ones that will receive first preference in administering the finances. There will be the same begging of the more essential services, the same illegal methods of raising the wind.

In Slavery Days.

Dr. James E. King was telling some of his early experiences in the South last evening to some newspaper men. "Early in the fifties," he said, "I was in Memphis, Tenn., when a fight took place between a banker and a speculator, who had been against each other at the slave block for a beautiful slave girl—dazzling white and lovely as a dream, yet a negress and the daughter of a planter who had died intestate and bankrupt. She was about sixteen years of age, and might have stood as a model for the Greek Slave. Her mistress tried to save her, but her means gave out, and she was crying because, though the girl was her husband's illegitimate child, she was her companion and friend. While she was crying the row arose between the two bidders. One had a bowie knife and the other a small hatchet, which he had picked up. The way they cut and slashed was something awful. The banker had the knife and he cut the face of his antagonist from the forehead to the neck, ripping out his left eye, while his opponent's hatchet descended upon his brain, and he was laid out. This over, the crowd allowed the bodies to lie where they fell, and turned back to the sale. A St. Louis man took up the bidding from where the widow left it, and raised her $500. He was understood to be the agent of a rich personage who had seen the girl and given orders to have her secured at any price. Her mistress appealed to her friends in vain for money, when a Mississippi steamer captain, who had known her husband, came along and asked her what was the trouble. Hearing the cause of her distress, he bid $3,000 for the girl, and pulling a pistol half a yard long dared the St. Louis man to bid again on peril of having his brain emptied. The other at once wilted, and the mistress was made intensely happy by the recovery of the girl. The incident has gone into many a play," continued the doctor, "but it's as true as gospel."

Henry Watterson on England.

The warp and woof of English society is a sham. Thackeray saw it out of the clearest kind of cosmopolitan eyes, and even Dickens was not wholly dead to it. But, while the purse holds out, it is resplendent indeed. The bully in the men makes good soldiers. The power of England is undeniable. The slave in the woman, when she does not clope, makes excellent housewifery. The domestic fabric of England is respectable and orderly. But the church, the state and the home built upon a complex feudal system depend upon the poise and balance of classes in the relation which now exists, and which, with trifling incidents not seriously disturbing the personal life of England, has existed since Magna Charta.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Odds and Ends.

A New York paper declares that the country must be more prosperous this year than it was last year, because more people are getting married.

A deacon of a Greenville, Penn., church has a string of buttons half a yard long. They have been taken out of the collections of the church during the past few years.

There are nearly seven hundred musicians in Philadelphia and not one first-class band. Efforts of musicians to organize have always failed through lack of public support.

The Best Tonic.

Mr. Henry, Billings, Washington, D. C., writes: "I have used your Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky for medicinal purposes. As a tonic I consider it superior to the hundreds of concoctions which are now flooding the land as stimulant liquors."

BUSINESS ITEMS.

Fresh, steam-frozen, pure and richest ice-cream every day. No cream frozen over the second, third, or even fourth day. Sold at the Pioneer Steam Candy Factory, Bakery and Ice Cream Rooms. F. HORN, Proprietor, Hotel, between Fort and Nuuanu streets. Both telegraph phones, No. 74.

The largest stock and greatest variety of home manufactured, strictly pure Candies, can only be found at the Pioneer Steam Candy Factory, Bakery, and Ice Cream Rooms, No. 71, Hotel street, between Fort and Nuuanu streets. F. Horn, Proprietor, Practical Confectioner and Pastry Cook and Ornamentor.

Fresh home-made Hawaiian Chocolate, Strawberry, Vanilla and other Flavored Caramels always on hand, guaranteed to be far superior than any imported, and sold cheaper at the above establishment than anywhere else. Both Telephones 74.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky is not a medicated liquor, but a pure, unadulterated whisky for medicinal use, free from fusel oil and all noxious impurities, and is prescribed by physicians. It is a medicine for the sick and feeble, and a beverage for the million, because it is absolutely pure.

LOCAL NEWS.

The steamer W. G. Hall reports fine weather on Hawaii.

Two inebrates were slated last night at the Station House.

Both the senior and junior crews of the Myrtle Club were out last night.

The Honolulu Rifles meet for drill this evening. A full attendance is requested.

The steamship Geo. W. Elder is expected from San Francisco to-day or to-morrow.

There was a regular jam of customers at the Popular Millinery House yesterday afternoon.

Princess Likelike will be at home at her Waikiki residence from two to five o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. T. J. King, of King Bros., goes to the Coast by the Alameda, to select Christmas goods for the Art Store.

The examination of Soy Yung, the Chinese alleged pistol welder, comes up in the Police Court this morning.

Maui is very dry. It is said that planting had to be stopped at Spreckelsville, as it was not prudent to commit the seed to the parched soil.

A gay transparency, over the Pioneer steam candy factory and bakery store, shows the wayfarer where the only steamed frozen ice cream is to be found.

Mr. John Cassidy, Superintendent Bell Telephone Company, is at Punaluu, on the other side of the island, attending to business connected with the lines.

Mr. C. J. McCarthy is going to move his pleasant place of recreation from Hotel to Fort street, next door to Messrs. West, Dow & Co.'s, the first of October.

The sporting rooms of the Hotel were well patronized last night. A limb of the law menaced our? with a cue, but presented him with the cue for a news item.

The G. A. R. Camp Fire will be held on Saturday evening next. Those who were privileged to be present at last year's will not willingly absent themselves.

The Athletic Association, which had exhibited but slight vitality for the past few years, on Monday night resolved to disband and divide the effects among the members.

A party of ladies gamboled in the water at the Kapiolani bath-house yesterday afternoon. They thoroughly enjoyed themselves, leaping from the spring board without hesitation.

Four drunks paid the regulation six dollars in the Police Court yesterday morning, and Hy Brown, charged with assault and battery, was sentenced to three days' hard labor.

Eggs are very dear in the city at present, commanding five cents each. Perhaps the wholesale robbery of chicken coops a few months ago has something to do with it.

There will be a special meeting of the Myrtle Boat Club this evening at the clubhouse, when weighty business in connection with the November regatta will be the order.

Captain J. J. Phelps and his friend and fellow traveler, Mr. Hillard, were entertained at breakfast by the King on Monday. Yesterday afternoon they were guests of Princess Likelike at Waikiki.

A picture of the volcano as it was just prior to the collapse, painted by Tavernier, is on exhibition at King Bros. Art Store; also a painting by the same artist of a forest scene at Redwood, California.

Mr. Bishop, clerk at Messrs. C. Brewer & Co.'s, has returned from a holiday on Hawaii by the W. G. Hall. He reports more rain in Kau, where there has been a fall of nine inches in a month. Pahala looks like a different place, from the effects of the moisture.

There was a large crowd at Messrs. E. P. Adams & Co.'s saleroom yesterday, when Mr. J. F. McLaughlin's horse, phaeton and harness were sold. Hon. S. M. Damon bought the horse for the satisfactory figure of $290, Mr. W. S. Luce the phaeton for $95, and two sets of harness went together for $43.

Observations on Hawaii.

Mr. Harry Armitage, agent of the Inter-Island volcano route, returned to town by the W. G. Hall yesterday after a fortnight's visit to Hawaii. He was at all the principal places in Kau, as well as the volcano. On the ranches he saw cattle lying dead from the drouth by the hundred. A few cattle died at Kapapala, Mr. Julian Monsarrat's ranch, but the mortality there was less than at other places, on account of the Ainapo lake in the upper section, to which the cattle from the dry region below could be driven. The cattle on Hon. C. R. Bishop's ranch, South Point, have been dying in numbers since the recent rains, the sudden transition from dry to wet grazing, and from deprivation to abundance of water, having produced sickness in the droves. Most of the planters have lost more or less in working cattle, Chung Peu, a Chinese planter, suffering to the extent of a hundred head. The cane was badly dried up, some of it almost beyond hope of recovery. Hilea cane looks well. Honapu felt the drouth very badly. Pahala was seriously wilted, but is showing the beneficent effects of the rain.

The volcano was pretty active. There was fire all round Halemauau, and a good distance out on the floor of the caldera it showed in the cracks. Not a bit of fire was in the New Lake on the Little Beggar, the ruins of which are still well defined. Mr. Armitage believes there is a great body of molten matter and fire just beneath the surface, and that activity will become more and more pronounced until the former grandeur of the volcano is restored. The agent's face presents a good advertisement of the hale effects of an excursion among the mountains of Hawaii and over the inter-island seas.

Robbery Last Night.

Between ten o'clock and midnight last night the store of Quong Son, on King street, near the Chinese Theatre, was entered and a haul of valuable plunder made. The burglar climbed over a gate and got round to the back door, by breaking a glass in which he was able to unlock it. Going into a back room, he broke open a tin box and two small fancy boxes, taking therefrom twenty seven dollars in silver, a silver watch and chain, a gold ring worth four dollars, and an article of Chinese lady's head dress worth ten dollars. Having secured this booty, the robber escaped by the way he came. The proprietor of the store left at ten o'clock to attend the theatre, returning at a quarter to twelve to discover the robbery. Word was sent to the Station, when Officer J. Kaubane went to the store and made an examination of the premises without discovering any clue. Quong Son believes a fellow countryman committed the robbery.

Fancy Sale.

A sale of fancy articles, made by the pupils of the school, was held at the Convent of the Sacred Heart yesterday. Besides a goodly attendance from St. Louis College, there were only a few outside friends present, as the event was not made very public in advance. The college youth bought up the cheaper goods—knickknacks for holiday presents—with alacrity, and the whole stock was cleared out. A few of the more expensive articles, these of utility, remained unsold, but the Sisters are not disappointed in the result. The realizations go to charitable objects in the line of the Sisters' works of mercy. A much enjoyed ice cream festival was given the pupils and friends of the school in the evening.

Inviting Fire.

Mr. John L. Reese, one of the watch at the Central Fire Station, on Sunday last took a stroll through Chinatown, keeping a fireman's eye open to whatever was in view. He saw in numbers of places kerosene tins used for stoves set on the bare wooden floors, as if the Celestials had wholly forgot the fearful lesson of April 18th. Mr. Reese reported the fact to the Fire Marshal, Mr. McGuire. No doubt that official will take steps to prevent such reckless inviting of another conflagration. It is also important that the tenants of both new and old Chinatown are not allowed to exceed the legal limit in oil and other explosives stored in their places. John needs close watching.

Sample Shipment.

By the Alameda, due on Saturday from the Colonies, Mr. B. F. Dillingham will send to London a number of sample packages each of the dried bananas and pineapples, and taro flour, manufactured by the Alden Fruit and Taro Company, Wailuku. They will be submitted to analysis in London, to show English housekeepers their rich qualities as food. It is hoped that they will speedily make a name for themselves in the English market, so that a large lucrative export of the different articles from this Kingdom may ensue. Doubtless on the success of these, other articles of food and luxury will be added to the manufactures of the company.

LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.

Tuesday was the one hundred and seventh day. Mr. Brown reported from the Judiciary Committee, recommending the passage of the bill for the relief of certain persons at Waikiki, deprived of their property for the reservoir there. Report was tabled for consideration with that and the Appropriation Bill. Mr. Gibson reported the joint resolution of $15,000 additional legislative expenses, as signed by His Majesty. Mr. Brown from the Judiciary Committee reported a recommendation to pay Mr. J. H. Soper $362.25, incurred by him in litigation as Marshal. The committee thought that $100 of the amount should not have been paid by the Marshal, being for attorney's fee while it was the duty of the Attorney General to defend all suits against a Government officer. Tabled. The same committee recommended the passage of a bill relating to dead letters, and the bill was thereupon forwarded to engrossment. Mr. Richardson, from select committee on the bill relating to prisons, jails and houses of correction, presented two substitute bills, as the original covered two objects. The report was adopted and the bills passed to engrossment. Mr. Dole, from committee of commerce, recommended amendments to the bill relating to explosives other than gunpowder. The report was adopted and the bill passed to engrossment. Mr. Brown made a motion for night sessions, which was rejected in favor of an amendment by Mr. Castle, that the house sit from 9:30 to 12, mornings, and from 1 till 5, afternoons. Mr. Kaunamano made a funny speech on the question—the same one he made when night sessions were proposed earlier in the session. Mr. Keau had his fish market bill placed on the special orders. Mr. Baker, with a little worrying, got his bill, providing for keeping the public accounts in both languages, out of the hands of the Judiciary Committee and on the special orders. Then Mr. Keau had the bill making the Hawaiian the binding version of the laws put on a special footing. Monday was appointed for the hearing and consideration of the Molokai visiting committee's report. In the forenoon the Appropriation Bill was given to the Finance Committee to add up the departments and report. It was returned in the afternoon, with the following showing of totals under the different heads:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes Civil List ($126,000.00), Permanent Settlements (17,800.00), Legislative Assembly and Privy Council (50,300.00), Judiciary (153,750.00), Foreign Office (262,204.34), Interior Department (1,725,083.42), Finance Department (766,145.60), Attorney General's Department (276,923.50), Board of Education (193,020.00), Board of Health (251,750.00), Grand Total ($3,822,976.86).

The bill passed to engrossment. The electric light bill was taken up, when Mr. Baker moved for leave to withdraw it. This was opposed on the ground of irregularity, as the bill had been substituted by a committee for the original one introduced by Mr. Baker. The opposition, however, suddenly collapsed, and a motion by Mr. Dare to grant the desired leave carried.

News from the Arctic.

The schooner Bonanza, from Alaska, reports that on June 21st the whaling bark John Carver was crushed in the ice north of the St. Lawrence Islands. All hands were saved and picked up by the bark Atlantic after being in an open boat thirty-three hours. She had two whales when she was crushed. The Bonanza spoke the schooner Henrietta south of the St. Lawrence Islands. June 23d the barks Arnolda and the Atlantic were spoken, ice-bound, off St. Lawrence Islands. The latter had one sperm whale. The Helen Mar was spoken off St. Lawrence Islands June 25th, and on July 7th the United States steamer Bear was spoken in Golovin Bay. All were well. The Bonanza brought down two of the crew of the John Carver, namely David Hansen and John Johnson. The other members of the crew were divided among the fleet.

Additional particulars concerning the John Carver are as follows: She was owned by William Lewis of New Bedford. She sailed for the Arctic from this port on the 5th of December last, in command of Captain Montross, with a crew of forty, all told. An attempt was made to escape from the ice in Behring Strait which was closing in. On June 21st the Carver, while running before the wind, about forty miles southwest of St. Lawrence Islands, struck a cake of ice which stove her port bow and the water rushed in so that the crew had only time to get a few things in a boat to make their escape. The crew had a cold time for thirty-three hours. On the morning of June 23d the whaler Atlantic was sighted. Captain Montross remained north on the Atlantic. The Bonanza, which brought down the news of the disaster, was nipped by the ice but suffered no damage beyond losing a plank. In Golovin Bay the Bonanza was boarded by the third officer and surgeon of the United States steamer Bear, who reported all well on board the Bear but said that owing to the ice their search for the crew of the Amethyst had been retarded. The Atlantic and Young Phoenix are reported to have caught one whale each. No reports have been received from the steam whaling fleet. It is reported that the Bear at St. Michaels, June 15th, was compelled to slip anchor to escape the ice. Generally the ice is broken up about the 1st of June. The indications are that the season will be very late. Last year the Bonanza left here about the same relative time as she did this year, to go north, and found no ice. This year she was held in the ice twenty days. No tidings are brought concerning the Amethyst if any additional wreckage, which may have belonged to that vessel, has been found, the fact is not reported. The mate of the Bonanza thinks that the whaling fleet will be down late.

The Bulletin reports a marriage feast at Punaluu, Oahu, on the occasion of a half Portuguese girl "going off," which comprised three bullocks, ten pigs, twenty-five sacks of sweet potatoes, several barrels of poi, with liquors in galore. What need of emigration drummers at the Azores when accounts go home of such abundant luxury among descendants of former emigrants?

Yesterday the Chief Justice granted the motion for change of venue, from Waiohina, Hawaii, to Honolulu, in the case of George Glendon, charged with gross cheat. The bail was at the same time reduced. It will be remembered, from the HERALD report, that the jury disagreed on the trial at the September term of the Third Judicial Circuit at Waiohina.

LOCOMOTIVES THAT GET THE SULK AND HAVE BALKY STREAKS.

An Account of the Stabberest Engine That was Ever Put on a Road—Likes and Dislikes Between Locomotives and Engineers—Some Cases.

"Locomotives are funny things," said an Erie engineer, "and I've seen them sometimes when I believed they were actually human. They get the sulks and have balky streaks, and when they're in such moods you can't make time with them any more than you can fly. Then, again, they'll be as chipper and willing as a thoroughbred horse, and you actually have to hold 'em in to keep from running into stations ahead of time.

"I suppose the stubbornest locomotive that was ever put on a road was one of the 'Twin Sisters,' a couple of splendid machines built by the New York Central a few years ago. They were made exactly alike in every particular, from the same patterns, by the same workmen, and with the same materials. There wasn't a man on the road that could tell which was which until their numbers were painted on them. They were beauties, and the engineers who were assigned to duty on them were the envy of all the boys. When the engines were put on trial one of the locomotives developed amazing power and speed. She could take a freight train up a grade with scarcely an effort, and with a passenger train made fifty miles an hour with ease.

"Spiteful puffs of black smoke. The other wouldn't go at all. Even when pulled wide open she would simply give a few spiteful puffs of black smoke, a few turns of her driving wheels, and then would stop. The way she exhausted steam showed she was a vixen. She was taken apart and not a single thing could be found wrong with her mechanism. Different parts of the locomotive that was so great a success were exchanged for the same parts in the stubborn one. The willing locomotive ran as well as ever, but the stubborn one refused to move a peg. They tried half a dozen different engineers on her—for you must know that sometimes a locomotive is particular about the man that handles her throttle, and will do work for one that she refuses to do for another; but she treated them all with equal disdain. They put her in the roundhouse and kept her there for six months, thinking that she might get over her balky fit, and run all right on another trial.

"One day they fired her up and tried her. She started off like a beauty, and ran two miles in a little over two minutes. Then she stopped, and couldn't be induced to make a move in either direction. She was towed back to the shops and taken to pieces. The same machinery was used in building another locomotive, and that one was as big a success as the mate of the stubborn engine, and when I last heard of her she was still one of the best engines on the road.

"It sounds queer to say that locomotives have their likes and dislikes, but it actually does seem that they have, and there are few engineers who don't believe it. There isn't a railroad man who can't tell you instances by the dozen of engines that positively would not make time with some engineers; but would get there every time under the hands of others. You might say it was the fault of the engineers if the engines did not make their time, but I have known the very best engineers that ever mounted the footboard who have been obliged to be transferred from locomotives placed in their charge because the locomotives would not make their time, but which, under the hand of other engineers neither as skillful nor so experienced, would never run behind.

A CASE OF MUTUAL ATTACHMENT. "Take the case of Josh Martin and Gad Lyman, two of the old-time Erie engineers, and either of them without a superior in their day. Josh was running a locomotive that he was greatly attached to, and the sequel proved that the attachment was mutual. For some reason or other the superintendent of the road wanted Josh's locomotive for use on a portion of the road that Lyman ran on, so he ordered Lyman and Martin to exchange engines. The old fellows who remember it say that when Josh's engine was run away from Port Jarvis, Josh cried like a baby, and that the engine herself was all broke up at the parting, for she was an hour longer than she should have been in getting to her new field of labor. Gad Lyman took charge of her, but she had made up her mind that she would not work under him, and she didn't. She got stalled with the lightest trains, and never made her run on time. After a week's trial Lyman reported the locomotive 'No good,' and she was condemned to run the gravel train. She worked as balky and sulky as ever, and the superintendent ordered her taken to Paterson and broken up.

"Josh Martin heard of this, and came down the road a-flyin'. He begged to have his 'old gal' back again, and finally the superintendent said he might try her. Josh mounted his footboard once more, and when he pulled the throttle away she went like a bird. She made the run back to Port Jarvis quicker than any locomotive had ever done it up to that day, and Josh Martin ran her for years over the Delaware division after that, and always made his run on time as easy as could be, except in case of accident. No, sir; the fact of the matter was, Josh and that engine just loved one another, and simply would not be parted; and there are plenty of cases just like it to-day."—New York Times.

A New Device for the Library. It is said that Mr. George Vanderhilt, the literary member of the family, will not spoil old and rare books by the profanation of new covers, and has invented a new device for maintaining the old covers and at the same time for retaining the elegant outside appearance of his library. He has had beautiful separate covers, bindings that could be removed, placed on these rare books, and passes the time alone with his favorites.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Little 3-Year-Old's Reason Why. "Papa," asked a little 3-year-old, "why do I say a short prayer and you a long prayer?" "Because you are not old enough to learn a long prayer," explained the father. "Is that it? I thought it was because I haven't got wicked enough yet to have to say a long prayer."—New York Sun.

ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.

The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.
