MEASURING OF VESSELS

DEPUTY COLLECTOR STRATEMEYER'S HARD JOB.

All of the Island Fleets May Have to Be Re-Measured—Some Complicated Calculations.

Deputy Collector Stratemeyer has been appointed to re-measure the vessels of the island fleet, and he is busy studying how to do it. The old measurements in some cases will not be acceptable to the United States authorities and in other cases the owners of the vessels may ask for re-measurement, hoping for more favorable figures resulting in less taxation.

The problem in measurement is to get the dimensions, with a view to ascertaining the carrying capacity. G. D. Claygett, clerk of the United States inspectors of hulls and boilers has compiled the following interesting explanation of measurements for tonnage:
There are three distinct meanings attached to the term "Tonnage." In other words there are three ways of describing the capacity or internal measurement of a ship, and all of them are expressed in tons. There is under-deck tonnage, gross tonnage, and net tonnage; the two latter being sometimes designated gross register and net register tonnage; the net register tonnage being that which is accessible for dues or pilotage, etc. In practice, too, the term "tonnage" is often used to apply to net register tonnage. The under-deck tonnage of a ship is the measurement of the cubic capacity of that section of the vessel's interior under the tonnage deck, and the tonnage deck is the second deck from the floor of the ship. This measurement is stated in tons and each of these tons equals 100 cubic feet, so that when it is stated that under tonnage of a ship is 500 tons, what is meant is that there are 500 by 100 cubic feet of space under her tonnage deck. To measure this space it is only necessary to know the length, breadth, and depth (inside measurement of course) and the coefficient of fineness which latter practically corrects for the shape of the vessel being a departure from an oblong box. Thus, if a ship were a perfect tank her gross under-deck tonnage would be the length multiplied by breadth by depth and divided by 100 the product of course, being cubic feet. The greater the deviation from the rectangular tank form the smaller will be the fraction representing the coefficient of fineness. The gross tonnage or gross register tonnage of a ship is simply the under-deck tonnage plus the tonnage—i. e., number of cubic feet in hundreds, in all the enclosed space above the tonnage deck. One of the principal objects in assigning tonnage to a vessel is fixing a standard on which dues can be levied. Now, it would be manifestly unfair to levy charges on a ship's gross tonnage, as only a portion of such space is available for money making purposes, i. e., for the carriage of freight. In other words, the object of the net register is to exempt from payment that portion of the vessel which does not earn money. Thus, in the case of the average steamer her gross tonnage will include under-deck tonnage, plus tonnage of poop, raised quarter deck, bridge house, deck houses, etc., according to type and construction; while the deductions will include space occupied by propelling machinery, chart room, masters' and officers' accommodation, crew space, boatswain's stores, etc. With regard to deductions for propelling space, it may be stated that the plan usually followed is to allow one and three-quarter times the actual engine space, etc., to be deducted from the gross tonnage of the vessel.

It is useful to know that 25 cubic feet of sea water weigh the ton, also that the water displaced by a vessel equates in volume the immersed section of the vessel. The dead weight carrying capacity of a vessel may be taken as the difference between the weight of water displaced at light draft and with the cargo or dead weight on board. Net tonnage is no guide whatever to the size of a ship. Take, for example, the "Campania," which is 12,350 tons gross, but only 4,974 tons net.

There were few dry eyes in the court room when the commission returned their verdict of "insanity," and the unfortunate man seemed to realize the gravity of his situation as the heartbroken wife bade him farewell. As the officers started to lead him from the room his little daughter came to him and reaching up put her chubby arms around his neck. Between her convulsive sobs came the pathetic words, "good-bye, papa, I guess I'll never see you anymore."

The mental breakdown which settled as a pall over this once happy family, came after years of concentrated nervous strain and overwork had sapped the brain and nerves of their vitality. How different might have been the ending had that fond father known what Mr. George H. Howard, of Marshall, Ill., knows today. Mr. Howard says: "The first trouble I noticed was inability to sleep followed by general weakness, which continued until I had to be taken to and from my store in a carriage. Finally I had to give up and for five months was confined to the house with an attendant night and day. For seventeen days and nights I never closed my eyes in sleep. I was taken to a private asylum but in a few days they brought me back again to die. A friend brought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' Nerve and Persuade me to try it. After taking one-half the contents I began to get some sleep, and when I had used three bottles I was able to return to my store. Had I taken the nerve in the first place I would have been spared months of agonizing torture and an expense of nearly $2,000."

Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold at all druggists on a positive guarantee. Write for free advice and booklet to Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

PLAGUE OR NO PLAGUE

MEDICAL JOURNALS ARGUE ABOUT SAN FRANCISCO.

The Pacific Medical Journal Emphatically Declares the City Has Never Had a Case.

Whether or not there was bubonic plague in San Francisco is a question which is now being argued in the court of final resort, the medical journals. The Medical Times of Sacramento says: "The situation in brief is this: The Governor of the State of California, urged by the business and moneyed interests of San Francisco, and also by the politicians, upon whom similar pressure had been brought to bear, has undertaken with the assistance of the State Board of Health to suppress every fact in connection with the existence of plague in San Francisco."

The Pacific Medical Journal commenting, says: "In other words, according to the Times, the Governor of the State, the business and moneyed men of San Francisco, and the State Board of Health are dishonest and untruthful, and are using their best efforts to spread a dangerous and loathsome disease through their own community and through their own State, and by doing it as well to spread throughout the country. There are, then, left but two honest publications in the State of California, and some one-half dozen honest medical men. The Chronicle, the Call, the Bulletin, the Post, the medical profession generally, the entire medical profession, the clergy, the banks, the railroads, the wholesale firms—a unanimous press and people—practically are all, according to the Times, untruthful, dishonest and liars. The Associated Press refuses to accept these false plague reports, and it is only by the efforts of some third-class publications and their supporters that California has been given the bad reputation which she so unjustly bears. It would be a lovely state of affairs if such publications could dictate the policy of our state government and the news emanating therefrom. Their methods and intentions, if carried out, would have stationed around this State a cordon of police, and added a host of warships at the entrance of every harbor."

The Medical Journal wades up its editorial with the following strong denial of the plague stories: "For emphasis, we repeat that this city has never had one case of plague. That disease could not gain entrance except through the port of San Francisco, and when the quarantine officer reports that the disease is here he must at the same time admit that he is responsible for its presence. No ship has ever been quarantined here for plague; no case in man or rat has ever been reported entering this port. Our ships are given clean bills of health, and are permitted to enter any harbor on earth, although more than once when a clean bill of health has been signed, a private letter has gone on the same ship signed by the same party, one signature giving the lie to the other."

"We have investigated this matter most thoroughly and are firm and sincere in the conviction that our position is the correct one. We are doing what we can for the protection of our city and our State. Should the disease at any future time develop, that would be no evidence that it has existed here during the last nine months."

MORE OF BOOK QUESTION

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION HAS LIVELY MEETING.

Mr. Mott-Smith Falls to Get Through a Resolution to Bind Department Against Contracts.

At yesterday's meeting of the Commissioners of Education, E. A. Mott-Smith offered a resolution binding the present and future boards not to enter into any book contracts, and incorporating a section of a recent report of the Attorney-General in which it was declared that the department, under the law, was obliged to keep up a book establishment. Though not intentionally so, the resolution was offensive to the superintendent, inasmuch as the report in question had gone in his report to the Governor. Mr. Mott-Smith stoutly defended his resolution and insisted that it should pass at once. There was no second, however, and it was thrown out.

The subject of the resolution came out when a Mr. Hodgson, representing Heath & Company, a large publishing house of Boston, came in. He did not say he wanted to make a contract, but such was the assumption of Mr. Mott-Smith. There is a general sentiment in favor of abolishing the book store of the department, provided books and material are not advanced in price.

W. C. Crook, teacher of Paia, having completed twenty years of faithful service under the department, was advanced in salary to $1,500 a year according to schedule.

The resignation of Mrs. Caroline Hayden of Lahaina was accepted and she was granted on retiring a life certificate. A life diploma was granted to Miss Doye, of Hilo.

Miss Laura Sabej was made principal of the school at Spreckelsville in place of Miss Nina McLean, recently married.

It was decided to withdraw certain manuscripts from the Bishop Museum and deposit same with the Hawaiian Historical Society.

Miss T. Henry applied for a leave of absence in order to complete a book on Tahiti which she is writing. As the object of the vacation is business the request was denied.

The following teachers passed examinations on Hawaii and Kauai: First-class—Eliza Y. Atkins, John A. Perrele, Beatrice K. Mahlum, Leslie Trowbridge.

Second-class—Patrick Cockett, Helen Gardner, John B. Freitas, Emma Kaipu, Carleton Miller.

Third-class—T. K. R. Amalu, David K. Baker, Trinidad Marcos, Aoe Aki-na, Tamar Hussey, W. H. Neal, Mrs. W. J. Wells, Hermine E. Whiddington.

BEAT OUT OF AN INCREASE OF HIS PENSION.

A Mexican war veteran and prominent editor writes: "Seeing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, I am reminded that as a soldier in Mexico in '47 and '48, I contracted Mexican diarrhoea and this remedy has kept me from getting an increase in my pension for an even longer time than it restores me." It is unequalled as a quick cure for diarrhoea and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers, Benson, Smith & Company, general agents Hawaiian Islands.

REPUBLICAN PROGRESS.

American prosperity is troubling Germany, and under title of "The American Danger," the Hamburger Fremdenblatt recently presented an editorial article on its front page based upon the report of the Secretary of the United States Treasury.

The article is a wall which is almost heart rending. Like many German statements it is lengthy and not terse as our American methods teach, but whatever he said has strong common sense. To start with the article says:

"The statement in the annual report of the finance minister of the United States that the national revenues have increased by $38,000,000 and the expenditures decreased by $17,000,000 merits serious attention. The United States had only a few years ago to struggle with not inconsiderable annual deficits in the national revenues; it has regularly sent abroad—principally to England and Germany—a large part of the interest on national bonds and a considerable share of railway and industrial securities, and has had to make for more than ten years past a yearly appropriation for the pensioners of the war of the rebellion larger than the cost of the German army and navy. The Union has had to meet more recently the heavy cost of the war with Spain, and its industries have to reckon with considerably higher wages and higher rates of interest than the European countries. In spite of all this, the national budget of the United States shows the favorable balance which is announced in the annual report of the Treasury."

The fact that the United States exported in the last fiscal year goods valued at $1,394,483,682 and that more than $1,370,000,000 were of domestic origin seems appalling, but the true importance of the danger the German paper sees not so much in the volume of exports as in the percentage of exports. It states that the present percentage of manufactured goods amounted to 31.54 per cent of the whole, or very nearly one-third. One must give another quotation to show the reason for the feeling. It runs as follows:

"To appreciate this fact, it must be remembered that in the year 1899 only 23 per cent, in 1898 only 23 per cent, and in the year 1899 only 17 per cent of the total exports were the products of manufacturing industries. These figures mean more than they alone say. They speak a threatening language; they say clearly and forcibly that the United States, which ten years ago exported more than 80 per cent of agricultural products and less than a fifth of manufactured goods, today draws nearly a third—more than 14 per cent more—of its entire export from the products of its factories. In other words, the Union is marching with gigantic strides toward conversion from an agricultural to an industrial nation."

"This will be more apparent if we consider the export statistics of the years 1899 and 1900 from another standpoint. We see that the value of industrial products exported during the fiscal year 1899 was $339,592,146, while that of the fiscal year 1900 was $432,284,366, an increase of a round $100,000,000, or 27 per cent, in a single year. Do not such an enormous increase and the correspondingly rapid progress in productive and selling capacity constitute an imminent danger for all competing nations?"

It is evident what is worrying the German mind. In Germany. As long as the United States remained an agricultural nation there was not much danger to be feared, but when manufacturing came to the fore, and the wealth and brains of the nation are turned in that direction the matter becomes one of intense interest. The manufactures of the United States are going to dominate the world, and are going to sweep the markets of the world. The United States has the energy, the skill and the secrets of the old world in her lap. Her sons can afford to "pay higher wages and higher rates of interest" and yet produce a better article and sell it cheaper than can be done in Europe.

To what is the present manufacturing prosperity of the United States due? To what is the fear of competing nations due? The answer is clear. It is due to the Republican party. There never would have been the wall about "The American Danger" in the Hamburger paper, if the Democratic party had got the upper hand last November. The Republican party has fostered the manufactures of the United States till they have become a dominant power in the world, a power to be feared and reckoned with. The Democratic party would have wrecked the manufactures and the millions of keen eyed and skillful handicraftsmen, and either left them to starve, which the weakly and aged would have done, while the sturdy and saving would have carried their skill to other markets. There can be no stronger comment upon the relative positions of the two great parties of our country than these remarks in an influential German paper. Republican, the United States is feared as a serious competitor, Democratic it ceases to be menace. Ergo Germany believes in the Democracy.

There is one more wall which ought to be reproduced before closing this article. The Hamburger paper after citing the many manufactures in which the United States excels the world writes:

"Incidentally, it may be remarked that the typewriting machine with which this article is written, as well as the thousands—nay, hundreds of thousands—of others that are in use throughout the world, were made in America; that it stands on an American table, in an office furnished with American desks, bookcases, and chairs, which can not be made in Europe of equal quality, so practical and convenient, for a similar price. The list of such articles, apparently unimportant in themselves, but in their aggregate number and value of the highest significance, could be extended indefinitely. But it would seem more interesting and characteristic to cite the fact that an American syndicate is now planning, and has even taken the initial steps in a scheme, to take in hand the whole sleeping-car service of Europe, to improve it and make it cheaper than is now possible. Moreover, American manufacturers of underclothing, gloves and men's clothing, as well as women's cloaks—all articles which a few years ago were exported in vast quantities from Europe to the United States—are already beginning to calculate how they can place their surplus output in European markets.

"But enough of examples. Everyone who understands the existing conditions and has followed these conclusions, drawn from the best sources and based upon thorough knowledge of the facts, will agree that the threatened danger from America is neither exaggerated nor painted too darkly, but is, in fact, real and serious. But the mere recognition of the peril avails nothing; what is demanded is to face it, to overcome it, or at least to minimize as far as possible its effects. We must ask ourselves whether this is still possible, and, if so, what are the means, the methods, that must be employed to secure a successful result. There is but one answer to this question. We must fight Americanism with its own methods; the battle must be fought with their weapons, and wherever possible their weapons must be bettered and improved by us. Or, to speak with other and more practical words, Germany—Europe—must adopt improved and progressive methods in every department of industry; must use more, and more effective, machinery. Manufacturers as well as merchants must go to America, send thither their assistants and workmen, not merely to superficially observe the methods there employed, but to study them thoroughly, to adopt them, and wherever possible to improve upon them. Just as the Americans have done and are still doing in Europe."

This is a confession which is well worth consideration. The United States of America has always had a pretty good opinion of itself, but when it comes to so important a manufacturing country as Germany, with its phenomenally cheap labor and its mechanical skill, the legacy of the ages doffing its cap to our ability, we may consider that we have made a stride such as no nation has done before our time. The United States may soon count itself the foremost manufacturing and commercial country of the world, and greater than any of its predecessors.

PRIZE OR BLANK.

At the present time the Territory is passing through a crucial period. Old land marks, by which the older generation has guided its steps are being and have been swept away, and new land marks are being sought. It is a period of unrest, and prevents in certain directions a progress which should be continuous. But because there is a lull there is no reason why progress should be much retarded. The lull is undoubted. No one knows what is going to happen. It is a sort of grab bag that many people see before them, and the grab may result in good set of laws and regulations being framed, while it may result in some or even many which will be of a dis-advantage to the community.

One is very disinclined to preach, for preaching has been of little avail, and the Roman softened the word "I advise" to really "I warn," and who has even been warned to his own good. But one cannot help—especially a person who has been intimately connected with many social and progressive movements for years past—one cannot help hoping that changes which come, and which must come, shall not be of such a nature that a reaction must take place. The reaction would be political, but it would be a sad thing to see forces which have hitherto worked for good, rent asunder, and the one used against the others not only to their natural detriment, but to the ultimate detriment of the present Territory and the future State.

There are those who have thought and there are those who have no thought. There are those who love their country, their territory, their home, and there are those who do not give a snap for either country, territory, or home, and who calmly and truthfully state that, (in a slang phrase) "they are not out here for their health." He is the true citizen is out "here for his health." He is here to build a home for his family, the aborigines of the soil desire and most of them have the same. What is before those who love the territory now is to help it to progress and to happiness and not to experiment with ideas that may bring sorrow and poverty to the many, while it enriches the few.

The Independent members of the Legislature intend to have everything cut and dried as soon as the Legislature meets. They must be credited with research and desire for information. Discussion will however come when the Legislature opens, and the speed with which bills will go through will not be quick as many anticipate.

Judge Wilcox very properly turned down some Japanese Monday. There is a class of Japanese which has an idea that it can run every thing around. The people belonging to this class have a fair knowledge of English and a certain smattering of law. Under the monarchy and the republic they were in a certain measure not only a nuisance but through their diplomatic and consular representatives sometimes a menace. Against the United States they are only turbulent nobodies that are treated as any other turbulent or noisy citizens whether the Japanese consul may like it or not. The time for letters to a local foreign office has gone by. The complaints now have to go to Washington, and are valued not on local fears but upon the abstract justice of a great power.

JUDGE WILCOX TRIES ONLY ONE CASE.

A Feud That Began Years Ago on a Steamer Scores Its Third Police Court Trial.

Jordas Freitas and Jacinto Cordeira settled in the police court this morning a feud which they began several years ago, when they were together on board a steamer bound from Portugal to Ha-wail. They had a quarrel then and since that time has been fighting one another, when drunk, to see who could delude and lick him. Twice before the two have landed in the police court as a result of their enmity and this morning, with Vivas for the defense and Cordoba as prosecuting attorney, they fought. The fight was a fine of $10 for Freitas.

The defendant innocently admitted having committed an assault and acknowledged that his jaws usually took the peculiar form of an uncontrollable frown for a fight with Cordoba. "I was having a little time last Sunday Judge," he said, "Finally I had a few drinks and I knew I came out pretty well filled up and I sat alongside of or in front of or somewhere near Cordoba, in some place round there.
We began to show the rag and grabbed one another and fell down. I don't know whether I hit him or he hit me, or what happened. The fact is, Judge, that I was pretty well kicked up."

Cordeira testified that he had been sitting peacefully on a fence when Freitas came and sat by him. Freitas made a remark about the weather and Cor-deira said "Nobody is talking to you." Then Freitas already being longtongued, saw a light with Cordoba behind him and he started shouting. He struck two blows before his victim would get on the defensive, but other Portuguese separated the two and Cordeira picked up a rock and with it he held Freitas at bay.

Jacinto Tavares, whose countenance was observed to bear a remarkable resemblance to that of William J. Bryan, confirmed the account of the complaining witness. It was during his testimony that the old feud was revealed.
"Every time the defendant gets drunk," said Tavares in one of his many declarations, "he seeks out the defendant and assaults him. The last time he nearly beat him to death and then had him arrested for assault."

Jacinto was asked if the men were drunk.

"Oh no," he said, "if they had been drunk they would have been on the ground. Nothing could shake his idea that 'no drink is he who from the floor can arise and drink some more.'"
"Had they had any drinks?" he was asked.

"Everybody drinks on Sunday" was the response, and Jacinto was given up as an expert on intoxication.

The defendant was the last witness.
He was sorry that whenever he went out for a time he began to look for Cor-deira. Judge Wilcox recalled the two other times the men had been up for assault and battery cases, and said that the feud would have to be stopped.
He thought that Freitas had committed an assault and that the best way to change the current of his alcoholic thoughts from the notion of going after Cordeira was to fine him $10.

The case was fought as hard as if it had been a murder case. The two Portuguese attorneys opposed to one another did not lose any chances and once the judge had to call them to order. The Portuguese colony was well represented in the courtroom and as the Freitas case was the only one tried it was a Portuguese day, many of the witnesses, defendant, complaining witness and spectators being Portuguese.

ESTIMATING THEIR WEALTH.

People Busy Filing Returns With the Assessor.

This is a very busy time at the assessor's office and tomorrow will be busier still. Tomorrow January 31st, will be the last day when people can file their returns, giving their valuations of their real estate and personal property.
The present rush is not for fear of any delinquent taxes with fines being counted against the holders. The reason people are advised to file their returns and estimates by tomorrow is that they will have the right of appeal to the tax appeal court.

Every return is canvassed at the assessor's office and the assessment determined. If any property owner should fail to supply the assessors with estimates, the estimates are made by the collectors. In this event the assessment will have to stand for the right of appeal to the court tax is forfeited by failure to supply the returns. Taxes will not become due on real estate and personal property however until September 1st or delinquent until November 16th. The poll and dog taxes are not due until March 31st.

PROF. MARQUES.

In "The Orient" for January is an article by Prof. A. Marques on "Universal Brotherhood." In this he seeks to show that the idea of universal brotherhood, which is the basic idea of most of the principal religions of the world has been throttled in its growth by most of these religions in their development. Theosophy alone, according to his argument is doing most to develop it.

The Orient is a bi-monthly published

DIVIDED OVER PROPER DATE OF NEW YEAR.

Council Says February 19th. But the Majority of the Colony Will Celebrate
One Day Earlier.

A house divided against itself may not be able to stand but there is no reason why a house divided against itself can not celebrate. The Chinese are engaged at the present time in an unpleasant controversy over the proper date for observing their New Year.
Unless some thing very unexpected occurs there will be two distinct celebrations of the day. In fact the dissension which the Emperor William maintained for several weeks with the rest of the world regarding the Nineteenth century is the result of a similar dispute compared to an archbishop-disputation, when considered with this Chinese New Year celebration. The Honolulu Chinese have for once, turned a deaf ear to the solicitations of London and the Emperor for the reformers. The Chinese have been for-worn in the gratuity of the opposing forces. Tongas have united, cousins have become estranged over the question of when to celebrate New Years.

Officially, the new year begins on Tuesday, February 19th, but the majority of the Chinese colony throughout the territory propose to stick to the traditions which they brought with them and celebrate the day on Monday, the 18th. An arriving authority by the Minister Wu at Washington, D. C., has declared in favor of celebrating the new year on Tuesday but with the average Chinese, proclamations cannot be made against long observed customs. The result is that there will be two New Years which mean that the community will be treated to the sounding, incessant-sounding noise of the fire crackers and bomb, just one extra day. According to the present outlook, the larger celebration will occur on Monday, the second day being spent in celebrating the day on Tuesday. The celebration will be in the hands of the Minister Wu and his followers in which to light their fireworks and conduct their bombardment of the deity.

The reason for there being any dispute over the proper date on which to observe the new year is the direct result of the Minister Wu becoming acquainted with the western scheme of computing the difference in time in various sections of the globe. When John Chinaman boarded the steamer for the United States, he was ignorant of the fact that he was in the 18th degree of longitude. When the boat began to bump a little bit he was thinking of the homes of his ancestors and it made no difference to him whether there was any difference in time as he was carried toward the western horizons, or not. There was difference enough in the pitching and tumbling of the vessel from the even tenor of his Chinese way of an land, for him to bother about changes in time.

The result was that when John marched down the gang plank at Honolulu or San Francisco he did so with the belief that his careful computation of the days on the voyage had been correct. How the 18th could be the 19th in the new country when it was the 18th in his native land was beyond the comprehensive of the man who was childlike and bland. So, in his unless way he continued to celebrate at the exact time when he supposed his countrymen at home were welcoming the new year.

Three years ago however a change occurred and from the serenity of the 18th a controversy was started in favor of the 19th. Minister Wu the very enlightened American representative of the Chinese government, started the rue. He learned of the variations of time and the wisdom of one appealed to him. After mastering the details of the system he issued a proclamation to his countrymen notifying them to change the date of their new year's celebration. They were a few two previous he declared. Obstinate with the traditions and pride of his race, John failed to see why he should be set back a day. That he was more than a day in advance of the western people was evident to him for discussion. His countrymen in China celebrated on the 18th and he wanted to do the same thing here.

A portion of the more conservative Chinese colony took sides with the Minister and deflected their celebration to the official date. The remainder of the race clung to the old date, and so the day according to the Hongkong calendar continued the popular time for the celebration.

Two years ago the Chinese merchants, and the more intelligent class of Chinese generally, adopted the official day, and in 1899, the official day witnessed the big celebration. But it was an unlucky thing for occidental learning and the improved system of Chinese almanac making which Minister Wu had grafted on the ancient customs of "The Eighteen Provinces." Within a year it was made as clear as a percept from Confucius that Minister Wu and his western learning was all at fault. The year after the New Year at all, for the Chinese, or only a vicarious one. The impact which had supposed that the date upon which the great Chinese festival falls could be changed in deference to the sapienter of Western learning or anything else, was promptly rebuked.

The very next year most of the Chinese in Honolulu were burned out of house and home, and were confined in great detention camps. The Chinese of the remainder of the islands were not much better off, for they were not allowed to get supplies of fire crackers and bombs with which to celebrate.

The Chinese in the detention camps had little opportunity to celebrate either the real Hongkong date, or the new fangled Minister Wu date. They did the best they could. The Board of Health allowed a moderate quantity of delicacies and explosives for use in the camps, and those eminent man-daring, Jack Atkinson and Chester Doyle, each on behalf of the Chinese in the respective camps over which they were superintendents, called in state on the Chinese Consul General, carrying the New Year's greetings of their wards.
They did not go wearing the Peacock feathers and the yellow jacket which Li Hung Chang once lost, nor even the flowing robe and high top boots which are de rigueur in Chinese social circles, but they wore and both the consul general and their wards were much gratified.

But there is to be no more juggling with dates.

This year the Chinese will be able to do their own celebrating. A meeting was held several weeks ago when it was decided by the majority to celebrate on the 18th. They had tried the new year and it was unlucky as the big fire had come the following year. They would hereafter they declared, stick to the traditions of their people. Consul Yang Wai Pin and his following will observe the 19th.

The Chinese are looking forward to the event for it is always the biggest festival of the year with them. As the celebration will last about three days

ORIGINAL OIL MAN.

William H. Abbott, who died a day or two ago at Titusville, Fla., is reminded by the Pittsburg Dispatch with being after Francis Drake, the pioneer oil man. Drake sunk the first well in 1620 and Abbott sunk the second, also erecting the first refinery in the history of the industry. He accumulated a large fortune, but lost it by speculations, after the genuine American fashion.

DANGEROUS CHEMICAL.

The deadly fumes of concentrated nitric acid raised havoc at Rochester, N. Y.
Tuesday night when fire broke out in the factory of the Eastman Kodak company. The leakage of a carboy of the acid caused it, and three firemen were killed by inhaling the poisonous gas. Nitric acid is a dangerous chemical in a fire.

THE TOY SOLDIER.

The South African war has brought about a great boom in the toy soldier business. The makers have sent out cart loads. Now some Parisians, Emile Zola at their head, have banded together to stop the trade and founded "The League against Toy Soldiers." They are determined to fight against the practice of giving toy soldiers to children, thereby implicating "le fetichisme de l'uniforme" and perpetuating the military spirit.

THE MOTHER'S FAVORITE.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the mother's favorite. It is pleasant and safe for children to take and always cures. It is intended especially for croup, colds, croup and whooping cough, and is the best medicine made for these diseases. There is not the least danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by all

The morning of life is the time of abundance, profusion, strength, vigor, growth. When the sun begins to sink, when the midday of life is past, then the hair begins to fade and the silvery gray tells of approaching age.

Sunrise or sunset? Which shall your mirror say? If the former, then it is rich and dark hair, long and heavy hair; if the latter, it is short and falling hair, thin and gray hair.

The choice is yours.—for

always restores color to gray hair, stops falling of the hair, and makes the hair grow long and heavy.

This is something you have been looking for, isn't it? And it is something you can have confidence in, for it is no experiment; people have been using it for half a century. We do not claim it will do everything, but we do claim it is the best hair preparation ever made.

APPEAL TO THE GOVERNOR

BOERS ASK HELP OF HAWAII IN GETTING PEACE.

Petition Signatures to Appeal the Object of Which is to Influence British Opinion.

Governor Dole has received an appeal from the Boer League of New York in influencing British opinion against a continuance of the struggle in South Africa. The Governor, being an appointee of the administration at Washington and, in a measure or to that extent, a part thereof, has deemed it impossible to act upon the appeal, and has so written the committee. The letter sent out together with a blank petition for signatures, is as follows:

We are convinced that a very large number of people in this country, if they only knew how, would gladly help the Boers in their struggle for freedom of justice and peace in South Africa. It is evident that so vast are the resources of the British Empire in comparison with those of the South African Republics, that unless the history of our own War of Independence repeats itself in this case, to the point at which the majority of the Boers have concluded that there was neither gain nor glory in its continuance, the Republic might, in the course of time, become temporarily exhausted. The sooner, then, that the British people can be brought to the point which they reached in their war with us, the better it will be for them, for South Africa, and for the whole world.

With this end in view, it becomes of the utmost importance to evoke such an expression of popular feeling in the United States that the people of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British Colonies will be made to realize at last that the large majority of Americans look with extreme disfavor upon the continued struggle in order to the extermination of the citizens of the South African Republic and Orange Free State.

The British people have been deceived in regard to public sentiment here. They have been led to believe that they have the moral support of America in their dealings with the Boers, and Mr. Chamberlain's claim that some sort of an alliance had been entered into by him with this country—a claim immediately refuted by the Administration here—was made in order to foster the erroneous belief. The majority of the English newspapers are so bitterly anti-Boer that they do not publish news that might open the eyes of their readers on this subject. They know that "the man in the street," upon whose support Mr. Chamberlain depends, feels that in Europe he stands among enemies, and is, therefore, not only anxious to conciliate and to preserve the good opinion of the Americans, but would be shocked to learn that the action of his government had already alienated, and threatens to alienate still further, much of the friendly feeling for Great Britain which at one time existed in this country.

We purpose to administer that shock, so far as possible, by crystallizing the pro-Boer sympathy of the majority of Americans and by taking steps to bring the result—in the form of a brief protest—to the notice of the British people. This, in our opinion, will do more for the Boer cause than could be accomplished by any other means. We have, therefore, at this time to shake the blind confidence of many Englishmen in the righteousness of their cause.

A number of prominent residents of New York have already signed the protest referred to, inserted separately herewith.

As soon as a sufficient number of signatures to it has been obtained, we intend to insert the protest as an advertisement in the leading British newspapers, and to leave it standing as long as our funds permit, with a statement beneath giving the number who have signed it and such names from among them as are likely to be known in England.

For this purpose money is needed, first for the collection of signatures, secondly for the insertion of the protest as an advertisement in the British press. We feel confident that all other sympathizers, will co-operate with us in this undertaking; but we appeal particularly to the general public, who may not have had an opportunity heretofore to show in a practical way their admiration for the gallant struggle of the South African burghers or for the great principles for which the burghers fight.

We guarantee that every member of our organization shall continue to give his services to the cause, gratis, and that all money subscribed will be spent exclusively for the purposes named above.

Cheques and money orders should be made payable to the Treasurer, Mr. E. Reeve Merritt, at 7 East Fifty-third Street, New York City.

(Signed)—W. Loring Andrews, Theodore M. Barntz, Wm. G. Davies, Frederic J. de Peyster, H. H. de V. Howard, E. C. Hillegas, Edward Lauterbach, E. C. Herritt, John V. L. Pruyn, Killian Van Rensselaer, Executive Committee of the Transvaal League of the Eastern States.

CHINESE CITIZENSHIP.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—Attorney General Olney, in an opinion rendered upon the request of the Secretary of the Treasury, holds, first, that a person born in the Hawaiian Islands, in 1885, of Chinese parents who are laborers, and taken to China with his mother in 1890, is entitled to recover the Territory of Hawaii, where his father still resides; second, that the wife and children of a Chinese person, who was naturalized in 1887 in Hawaii and still resides there, are entitled to enter that territory "by virtue of the citizenship" of the husband and father.

MISPLACED LIGHTHOUSE.

Captain Pond commander of the local naval station has notified the navy department of the hydrographic office of a mistake in the charting of the Light-house at Lanunabohoe. According to the chart, the light is located at upper Lanunabohoe. In reality the light is not there at all but at lower Lanunabohoe. It is to be hoped that a correction will be made at an early date inasmuch as a serious wreck might be caused by the misdirection.

A ROMANTIC STORY, THIS

OHIO MAN CLAIMED TO HAVE BEEN KING.

Strange Tale From Pen of a Preacher in Colorado—Hero of Story May Have Been a Court Favorite.

Rev. C. M. Rupe, pastor of the First Baptist church of Greeley, Colorado, has written Governor Dole, inciting the history of an Ohio boy who was once King of Hawaii. The story is a romantic one, but of course is not true in every particular, as every king of Hawaii since the first Kamehameha was full blooded Hawaiian. It is not impossible that the boy of the story was a favorite or something of that sort. The exploit has the flavor of some of the experiences of Walter Murray Gibson, but the antecedents of that dignitary are clearly established in South Carolina. It has been suggested that the boy of the story, known here as Abe Russell, or Abalahama, as such a name was really a favorite in the early days and some of the facts stated correspond to his history. The following is the letter in full. It is dated Greeley, Colorado, December 1, 1899, and is addressed to His Excellency, Sanford B. Dole, Honolulu, Hawaii.

The following little narrative will, I hope, be of interest to you and justify me in addressing you. If true it is an interesting bit of Hawaiian history, and a romantic fact in the history of a part of Ohio in which I spent several years. I have it from very responsible people that an American boy was adopted into the royal family 70 or 75 years ago, and afterwards came to the throne. A youth by the name of Ben Badgley grew up in one of the noble households of Southwestern Ohio, left home when sixteen or seventeen years of age, went to New Orleans, shipped on a vessel bound for the Sandwich Islands, working his passage, and arrived in Honolulu, standing about on the streets handsome and curious, he attracted the attention of an official of the royal household because of his striking resemblance to the king's son who had recently died. He was summoned into the royal presence, won the favor of the king, was finally adopted as his son, and, on the death of the king succeeded him on the throne.

When the king of the Islands visited this country about the year 1870 Mr. Derrick Barkalow, who had lived in the neighborhood with young Badgley, but was then a resident of Iowa, went to Chicago for the purpose of gratifying his desire to see an actual crowned head. The king was arrested by his countenance in the crowd and sent for him to the latter's surprise. Mr. Barkalow, in the first embarrassment of the meeting, ventured the commonplace question, "was your majesty ever in this country before?" His majesty replied, "If you will keep my secret until after I have returned to my own country I will tell you who I am. On the promise being given he said, "I am nobody but Ben Badgley." Mr. Barkalow kept his promise, and sometime after the royal visitor's departure told the story to some of his relatives. I had it from one of the Barkalows and their relatives are strong and thrifty, but plain families. Why Mr. Barkalow never gave the story wider publication I do not know.

I came to the knowledge of it several years after his death, and could not verify it from his own mouth.

It is quite romantic and there are improbabilities on its face. But the character of the parties responsible for it leads me to believe that there is some foundation for it in fact. I have ventured to write it to you knowing your exceptional opportunities, by your long residence in the islands in official service, for knowing the history of the royal households, and would be very glad to know if there are any facts to furnish a basis for the story. Is there any evidence that an American ever came to the islands in close relation with the royal family in the islands? Any information you may have leisure or inclination to give me with regard to the matter would be highly appreciated.

Governor Dole has replied in effect that the man described could not possibly have been king of Hawaii but that he may have been a prominent officer of the government in the early days.

TRUST ABSORBS ANOTHER

AMERICAN STEEL BOUGHT OUT BY FEDERAL.

J. Pierpont Morgan and Other New Yorkers in the Deal—Enormous Bond Issue of $14,000,000.

CHICAGO, January 18.—The Record tomorrow will say: The Federal Steel Company interests have bought outright or secured options and proxies on practically the entire common stock issue of the American Steel and Wire Company. Arrangements have been made for the underwriting of a Federal Steel bond issue large enough to pay for the stock, much of it subscribed in Chicago, but most of it taken by the great Wall-street interests, Morgan, Porter, Flower, Gary, Mills, Spencer, Rogers and others of similar weight. Norman B. Ream and Marshall Field represent the Chicago interest and Boston is in it.

The enormous deal has been brought to completion, nothing now remaining but the routine of casting ballots and proxies for the Federal bond issue. By the day the annual meeting of the American Steel and Wire Company is held it will be found that some of the present all-powerful men of that corporation have railway interests which will compel them to abandon executive positions in the wire company. Their places will be taken by the nominees of the Morgan-Hill-Gary-Porter Company, in other words, the Gates party will virtually disappear from the wire company or will fall into a hopeless minority and the Federal Steel Company will rule it.

John W. Gates, John Lambert, Colonel Drake and other directors of the American Steel and Wire Company will start for New York tomorrow. The regular meeting of the board is scheduled for January 23rd. It is said that a bond issue of $12,000,000 or $14,000,000 will be required to carry out the deal, and that this amount of money has been provided for.

JUDGES' SALARIES.

WASHINGTON, January 1.—Senator Clark of Wyoming introduced a bill increasing the salary of officials of Hawaii. It gives the Governor $5,000 and $500 as perquisites; the Justices of the Territorial Supreme Court $2000, with $500 additional to the Chief Justice, and to the Judges of the Circuit Courts $4,000.

DEBATE ON THE ARMY BILL

DEFEAT OF PHILIPPINE PROHIBITION AMENDMENT.

All Attacks on the Measure Substantially as it Came From the House Prove to be Unavailing.

WASHINGTON, January 18.—When the consideration of the Army reorganization bill was resumed in the Senate, Gallinger of New Hampshire vigorously advocated his amendment providing for the revocation of all licenses granted to American saloons in the Philippines and providing against the manufacture, sale or importation of beer, wine or distilled liquors in the Philippines. He said the record showed there had been a steady increase in the export of liquors from the United States to the Philippines because of the American occupation.

"What is the necessity for this legislation?" inquired Coker of Missouri, "when the whole question is within the control of the President?" Gallinger replied that there really was no necessity, as the power under which the saloons were established in the islands could be destroyed there. He felt it was time for Congress to assert its authority.

Lodge, chairman of the Philippine Commission, said that with American occupation of the Philippines, 400,000 American bar-rooms had been established and licensed in Manila. They had done well and were doing better than ever. He said that the Philippine Commission had been established and licensed in Manila. They had done well and were doing better than ever.

Hale of Maine then, in a brief but forcible and earnest speech, enumerated some of the reasons why he should vote for the pending bill. Hale thought the only question involved in the discussion was whether the proposed army was needed. He wished all the advocates of the bill had been as frank in their utterances as those of New Jersey, who had admitted that probably 20,000 men would be needed in the Philippines for several years. Hale said he would be glad if the form of negotiations with the Philippines could have been adopted as a means of settling the pending matter, but the Senate did not approve of it. He believed, too, it would be better to attach a temporary force to the present standing Army, but the Senate would not hear to that. He pointed out that unless this bill was passed there would be in the Philippines after July 1st next only about 20,000 American soldiers.

Pressed by the Philippine forces, they would be "hemmed in Manila" and would be "lucky if they were not driven into the sea."

He added: "No man, no party, could stand upon such a condition. Therefore I am constrained, as much as I am opposed to it to support the measure."

Hale declared that a standing army of 30,000 provided every soldier needed by this country in time of peace, but he would vote for the pending bill, because "without it an almost immeasurable disaster and tragedy might befall the Army in the Philippines."

Spooner, Stewart and Foraker opposed the prohibition amendment. Perkins of California offered an amendment, which was agreed to, provided for the payment of $200 to each soldier now in the Philippines, whose term of service will expire before July 1st next and who will re-enlist for three years.

The debate upon the bill then closed, and the voting began on the amendments to the bill. Mallory of Florida offered an amendment striking out Section 25, empowering the President to maintain the enlisted force of the Army at the maximum strength during the present exigencies of the service, until such time as Congress may hereafter direct. The amendment was rejected, 26 to 42.

Money proposed an amendment providing that the provisions of the pending bill should remain in force only until July 1st, 1902, after which time the Army should be reduced to the number provided by law prior to April 1, 1898. Rejected, 25 to 39.

Berry proposed an amendment directing the President to issue a proclamation within ten days after the passage of the bill disclaiming any intention on the part of the United States to exercise sovereignty over the Philippine islands except for the purpose of pacification and thereafter to leave the government of the islands to their people. Rejected, 22 to 43. Senators Lindsay, McLaurin and Sullivan voted with the Republicans against the amendment.

A motion by Pettigrew to strike out section 22 of the bill providing for the enlistment of Filipinos, was rejected, 24 to 41, as was an amendment by Daniel to fix the pay of native officers and men at the same rate paid to Americans.

Spooner suggested an amendment leaving the fixing of the pay of native troops to the discretion of the Secretary of War. It was agreed to. McComas suggested several amendments, which were agreed to. They strike out the age limit for volunteer officers to be examined for the grades of Captains and First or Second Lieutenants and to include in the eligible list for such examination volunteer officers who served prior to 1898.

Gallinger offered his amendment, providing that the veterinarians authorized by the bill shall have the rank and allowance of a Second Lieutenant. It was rejected.

Gallinger withdrew his amendment providing for a chief veterinarian with a rank of Major.

Gallinger then offered a new section to the bill, providing that all licenses for the sale of liquor in the Philippines heretofore granted be revoked and that none hereafter be granted, and that the importation of beer, wine and distilled spirits into the islands be prohibited. The amendment was rejected, 23 to 42.

The amendment of Lodge prohibiting the importation into the Philippines of distilled liquors except for medical purposes was rejected, 23 to 41. Gallinger then offered his amendment in modified form, providing that licenses heretofore granted in the Philippines be revoked and that none be granted hereafter. Rejected, 20 to 41. An amendment offered by Lodge, fixing the allowances for clothing and rations of the native Porto Rican soldier, was adopted.

Most Superb

Now for the Mardi-Gras ball, the most elegant line of Ladies' dancing slippers, ever imported to this country. These new creations in slippers were selected personally by Mr. McInerny, from French exhibits at the Paris Exposition.

Ideal Kid, the substitute for Patent leather, is a new feature in these slippers and has proved a grand success in Dancing Slippers.

McInerny's Shoe Store,

Center, opp. Union of Nevada, any better of slippers in the maximum. Rejected, 22 to 42.

Many amendments changing the bill in minor particulars were offered, but as a rule they were rejected without discussion.

The measure having originated in the Senate, the question then was upon agreeing to the bill as amended. The motion to agree was adopted, 42 to 22.

The measure was sent to conference between the two houses. Senators Hawley (R.) of Colorado, President (R.) of Vermont and Cocker (R.) of Missouri being appointed conferees on the part of the Senate.

John Emmeluth, J. T. Irvine, L. H. Duce and about seven others will address the Single Taxers meeting in Foster hall at 7:30 Saturday evening. The meeting will have no political flavor whatever, its object being the imparting of information on the one hand and study on the other.

WOULD KNOW AUTHORITY

The matter of George W. Macfarlane vs. Robert Catton, bill for accounting, was before Judge Humphreys this morning. The particular matter considered was whether or not William Lishman was clothed with legal authority to present the action for and in the interest of Colonel Macfarlane. The court ordered that the plaintiff be required to produce his authority in writing, if it is in writing, within forty-eight hours, or not having it in writing to file an affidavit as to the extent of his authority and from whence he derived the same.

The following cases for the February term of the Circuit Court have already been placed on the calendar: Territory of Hawaii vs. Manuel Silva et al., liquor distilling, jury waived; J. M. McChesney vs. A. M. Brown, Marshal, replevin; J. M. McChesney vs. A. M. Brown, replevin; Behring & Butzke vs. W. S. Edinas, assumpsit; J. M. Vivas vs. J. N. Luiz, assumpsit; M. Bernado vs. M. R.
