IMPRESSIVE SERVICE AT NEW CHURCH

First Of Two Services Will Take Place Next Sunday At New Church At Paia

APPROPRIATE PROGRAM ARRANGED

Music Will Be A Noteworthy Feature—Offering Is For The Armenian Relief

On Sunday next, September 2nd, will occur the first of the two services devoted to the dedication of the new and beautiful Henry Perrine Baldwin Memorial Church at Paia. This edifice has been in process of construction since the breaking of the ground that ceremony having occurred on the 20th of August, 1916.

The program arranged for the service, which will begin at 10:30 A. M. will take about two hours and contains many appropriate features. Visiting ministers who will participate are Rev. George Laughton of Hilo who delivers the sermon; Rev. John H. Williams of Central Union Church, and Rev. Henry P. Judd of the Hawaiian Board, Honolulu. There will be responsive readings by the congregation and Rev. Rowland B. Dodge, Rev. Ellis E. Pleasant, and Rev. Willis B. Coale will assist in Scripture readings and prayers.

The music of the service will be a noteworthy feature as the splendid organ at which Miss Mary Hoffmann will preside, is to be heard in several solo numbers. Mrs. G. K. Tackabury of Honolulu, will render a contralto solo, and Mrs. L. C. Jones and Mr. H. W. Baldwin will be heard in the duet "Guide Me, O, Thou Great Jehovah." Special music prepared under the direction of Mr. Harry Washburn Baldwin will be sung by a strong chorus choir, and consists of the two anthems "Sanctus," Gounod; and "Gloria in Excelsis," Farmer.

As an expression of thanksgiving for the beautiful building which is being dedicated the offering for the day is for the Armenian Relief. The Armenians have been systematically persecuted by the Turks because this people is Christian and progressive. They have been killed by hundreds of thousands and the remaining have been stripped of all their living.

For the day of thanksgiving and peace and gladness which this coming Sunday promises, all of Central Maui should give thanks.

New Men For The Wailuku Sugar Company

Mr. Caleb Burns, who has been in charge of the Keahua section of the Maui Agricultural Company, on September first, relinquishes that position to become the head luna of the Wailuku Sugar Company, and general assistant to the manager, Mr. H. P. Penhallow. Mr. Burns and family will reside in Wailuku, occupying the John Ferreira premises on Vinyard Street. Wailuku also gains another resident in the person of Mr. G. Zabriskie, who as time-keeper for the Wailuku Sugar Company, with his wife will shortly go to house-keeping in town.

Mr. Paul Townsley will fill the position of civil engineer, for the Wailuku Sugar Company, which was recently occupied by Mr. David Townsend, and at present enrolled with those at the Reserve Officers Training Camp, Honolulu.

The Service at the Church of the Good Shepherd, will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, only. The 10 o'clock Sunday school exercises and the 11 o'clock service will be omitted.

Maui Baseball Teams Defeat Hilo Aggregation

Win Three Games Out Of Four—First Game A Joke—Maui Boys Make Good In Balance

CROWDS NOT UP TO EXPECTATION

In the baseball series with the Hilo Japanese team, which was finished on Tuesday of this week, the Maui teams demonstrated their ability as players and made a showing, of which Maui may well be proud.

The first game which was played last Saturday afternoon between the Hilo J. A. C.s and the Maui H. A. C.s, was somewhat of a joke, and ended with a score of 21 to 12 in favor of the visitors. There was no doubt but that the Hiloites were somewhat upset by the trip from Hilo. The local team for some reason or other failed to play to form and allowed the visitors to scamper around the bases till they were practically worn out. The balance of the games, however, were a different story and the local boys made good, and Maui saw some baseball that was really worth while.

From a financial standpoint the series was very disappointing to the promoters, who were left to make up a deficit of a considerable amount, in order to meet the expense of bringing Hilo team to Wailuku. On no occasion were the crowds up to expectations, which was no doubt due, in part at least, to the poor showing made in the initial game. The scores for the different games were as follows:

Saturday, August 25th—
Maui H. A. C. . . . .	3 4 0 0 2 2 1 0 0—12
Hilo J. A. C. . . . .	6 2 0 3 0 2 2 6 0—21
Sunday, August 26th—

Maui Japanese Organize For Mutual Benefit

The Maui Jitsugyo Doshikwai is the name adopted by a newly formed organization on Maui in which a number of leading Japanese merchants and business men are taking an active interest.

At a meeting held last Sunday at Wailuku, the following officers were elected: President, J. Onishi; Vice-President, S. Yoshimasu; Secretary, S. Nakamoto; Treasurer, H. Hanaoka; Auditor, N. K. Otsuka.

The directors of the organization are H. Oyagi, S. Saito, S. Ikeuchi, and C. Kozuki. The new association takes the place of the former Japanese Merchants' Association and is placing itself on record as organizing for the welfare and advancement of Maui.

Marshall--Kingsbury

The following announcement has been received on Maui by a number of friends of Mrs. Katherine Kingsbury, who formerly resided in Wailuku.

Doctor Edward Jones Announces the marriage of his sister Mrs. Katherine Kingsbury to

Mr. John Murray Marshall On Saturday the Eighteenth of August One Thousand Nine Hundred and Seventeen Los Angeles, California.

The wedding ceremony occurred on August 18 at the Los Angeles residence of Mr. Fred Kingsbury, and was witnessed by only a few of the most intimate friends. The wedding trip will include the smart watering places the coast and occupy probably the greater part of two months. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will make their home in Pasadena, California, after the fifteenth of November.

BRITONS OF MAUI TO DO THEIR BIT

Meeting At Puunene Well Attended Expect To Sail With Last In November

SEVERAL QUESTIONS TO SETTLE

Recruits May Be Given Preliminary Medical Examination On Maui Before Leaving

A meeting of the British Recruiting Commission for the island of Maui was held at Puunene last Wednesday evening, when Mr. H. D. Sloggett and Mr. James B. Mackenzie, the local representatives talked over matters with the Maui volunteers. As the meeting was the first of its kind and only a preliminary one, nothing definite was arrived at, although the last draft sailing about the middle of November seemed to be favored.

As the written matter from Honolulu seemed rather vague on certain points, a number of questions arose which were noted by Mr. Sloggett who will take them up personally in the near future with the recruiting officer for the Territory. If these are satisfactorily answered it is certain that recruiting will proceed and there will be eligible men to come forward. It was intimated that Dr. Rothrock of Paia would be in readiness to put the recruits through the necessary preliminary examination, although it was pointed out, that a second would probably be necessary in Honolulu, by the medical authorities in charge there, before the recruit would finally be accepted.

Those present were—H. D. Sloggett, J. B. Mackenzie, D. C. Rattray, F. Coe, J. B. Thomson, J. H. Pratt, F. Peacock, James Hood, George Crook, Patrick Robertson, Dr. Fitzgerald, Alex. McNeill, Ben Williams, William Phillips and A. McLaren who were unable to be present, sent word that they were to be counted on.

Bridge Party To Announce Engagement

Mrs. H. B. Penhallow of Wailuku, entertained about twenty-five ladies at a pleasant bridge party last Wednesday afternoon. Card tables were arranged on the spacious lawn under the beautiful shade trees, and delicious refreshments sped the hours only too quickly. The affair was in honor of Miss Gwen von Tempisky, the second daughter of Louis von Tempisky, and was given to announce her engagement to Mr. Barton J. Bridgeford of Wailuku. The young lady, who is charming and popular was showered with felicitations. Mr. Bridgeford who arrived here from the Northwest about nine months ago, is manager of the Insurance Department of the Bank of Maui, at Wailuku.

FAREWELL PARTY TO POPULAR PAIA BOY

Master Robert Murdoch was the guest of honor at a beach party Thursday night to which his many young friends of central Paia were bidden by Mesdames Boyum, Foster and Nicoll who arranged the affair. About thirty-five guests gathered to enjoy a delicious spread at the old lime-kill in the moonlight, and later motored to the Paia Community House where dancing had been arranged for as a surprise to end a very pleasant evening. Robert Murdoch leaves on Saturday for the East where he will enter the Boston School of Technology.

Rev. H. P. Judd, of Honolulu, will preach tomorrow evening at the Wailuku Union Church.

OAHU POLO TEAM WINS FAST GAME

Maui Team Is Unable To Wrest Game From Fast Oahu Players Was Uphill Game

GAME WAS WON BY SPEEDY MOUNTS

Large Crowd Witness Second Game Of Series—Maui Was The Favorite In Most Exciting Game Of Season

The Maui polo team met defeat at the hands of the Oahu players in the second game of the 1917 Island polo championship, which was played off on last Saturday afternoon and ended in a score of 13 to 7½. The game from the very start seemed to be in favor of Oahu and it was only in the final period that Maui seemed to have the advantage. It was impossible that late in the game to make up the lead that the home team had secured in the earlier periods. From start to finish it was a game of speed and brought out some of the finest horsemanship ever seen on the islands. The game was marked by no exceptional star playing but seemed to depend entirely on who had the fastest horses and with this last in favor of the Oahus it was an uphill game, for Maui, from start to finish.

The field was in exceptionally good shape and a crowd which practically filled all parking space, the grandstand and the bleachers, cheered to the limit. If cheering would win a game it would have gone to Maui, as the latter was no doubt the favorite with the crowds. The Hawaiian band played between the periods. The lineups were as follows—Oahu: Walter MacFarlane 1, Harold Castle 2, Walter Dillingham 3, Arthur Rice 4, Maui: Harold Rice 1, Sam Baldwin 2, Frank Baldwin 3, Dave Fleming 4.

A Friend Of Maui

One of the principal speakers at the recent Chamber of Commerce Get-Together Dinner at the Maui Hotel, was Mr. Emil Berndt of Honolulu, who had much to say regarding the rare beauty of Maui scenery. The Advertiser reports him as follows:

"After having spent three weeks on Maui, Emil A. Berndt, chairman of the promotion committee has returned to Honolulu. On his trip he did a considerable amount of boosting for the civic convention and traveled extensively through the Valley Isle.

Maui will be well represented at the civic convention, Mr. Berndt believes. He says fifty or sixty delegates may be expected and that those who bring their wives and families will thus double the number of visitors from that island.

During his travels through the island Mr. Berndt visited the cement works on the Maui Agricultural Company property near Paia. The plant has been completed and is expected to soon be in operation. It is to have an output of 200 to 300 barrels daily. At the Haleakala rest house, he says, records of number of tourists accommodated are being broken this season."

DIVORCES GRANTED THIS WEEK

Divorces in the following cases were granted by Judge Edings of the Circuit Court, on August 30, to take effect from and after September 10, 1917.

G. A. Wetzel vs. Nannie Wetzel on grounds of desertion; Mary Vidal Pacheco vs. Manuel Correa Pacheco on grounds of non-support; Pomaikal Dickens vs. Poni Dickens.

Words comes from Honolulu of the death of Captain D. F. Nicholson on August 27. Captain Nicholson was pilot at Kahului a number of years ago. He was also a member of Lodge Maui No. 984 and his funeral was held under Masonic auspices.

GERMANY'S PRISONERS FORCED TO WORK BRUTAL TREATMENT

According The Russian Prisoners Escaping From Germany, Conditions In Prison Camps Are Deplorable--Insufficient Food And Clothing--German Rioters Get Same Treatment

WASHINGTON, August 31—Department of State advises, state that Russians escaping from Germany report prisoners are starved, beaten, subjected to indignities, forced to labor in trenches and fields in open country, in range of Teutonic guns. Rations are bread, then soup and occasionally meat of horses killed in action. Prisoners are organized in units and are worked long hours without medical attention. Half are dying. No new cloths and are wearing vermin covered rags which are frequently tied to bodies. They are beaten when exhaustion prevents working. German rioters included in units and are given similar treatment.

ROME August 31—President's reply to Pope presented at Vatican. NEW YORK, August 31—Despite desertions southeast of Fokshane, permitting Teuton advances, Russians battle with invaders and regain Onakezdi and Vasarhoay. Blood and iron policy, begun against foes. Official statement says one of these regiments was dispersed.

Italians are giving Austrians no respite. New important gains made on several points.

French-Belgium fighting unimportant. LONDON, August 31—Importation of bacon, butter and lard prohibited, except under special license.

Full report of Venizelos speech on the 26th received. Shows that if Constantine had not vetoed Venizelos' plans regarding Dardanells campaign, Serbia might have been saved. Bulgaria would have been held neutral and Turkey defeated early in 1916, and war would have been ended at least a year earlier.

VALENCIA, August 31—Spain rice crop plentiful. Price fixed at $2.20 per bushel at Chicago for 1917 crop. Figures submitted to Wilson and approved.

PETROGRAD, August 31—General McChelson, attached to Berlin from 1906 to 1911, testified at trial that Germany contemplated declaration of war in 1909 and 1913. He reports this to the Russian war office.

WEST POINT, August 31—Class of 1918 given diplomas. Baker speaks.

WASHINGTON, August 31—Food administration requests refiners here to sell cane refined for same as beet sugar. 7½ cents per pound, for granulated, commencing on October 1st. Means reduction in bed price for Cuban raw to about 5 cents plus freight. Ranges from 8¼ to 8½. Allies sugar needs will be handled through food commission. This will eliminate competition in Cuba and elsewhere. Price fixed here enforceable in foreign countries.

HONOLULU, August 30—Local sake brewers express readiness to suspend if shown law forbidding the use of rice in the manufacture of intoxicants.

Link McCandless brings suit to stop pay of park superintendent Vierra, claiming his office was illegally created.

Prince Mitchell Cantacuzene, great grandson of U. S. Grant is here with two sisters, on their way to the mainland. Were driven from Russia by the disturbances.

Colonel Brete becomes department commander, the official notification of the promotion of General Berry not arriving. Brete will hold position only four days, when he leaves for the mainland.

WASHINGTON, August 30—Division of national guard ordered to France. Brigadier-General Mann is commanding division which includes troops from twenty-six states.

NEW YORK, August 30—French repulsed several attacks at Verdun. In Champagne district they storm and capture trenches.

PETROGRAD, August 30—Disgraceful retreat of two Russian regiments on Wednesday, aroused strong feeling of resentment here. Urgent steps to retrieve demanded.

WASHINGTON, August 30—Ishii addressed senate and urged Americans not to believe what slanderers say to incite trouble between the two nations.

COPENHAGEN, August 30—Reported that Polish council resigned, being unable to organize owing to German official interference.

THE NEW YORK SCHOOL PROBLEM

An editorial in a recent issue of the Star-Bulletin called attention to alleged inefficiency in the New York city schools due to political graft. With a target much nearer home the Star-Bulletin editor preferred to expend his ammunition on a target located at a hopeless distance well out of the range of its circulation, or was the editor only aiming at New York, and the editorial noise was intended for the local school board? Since the New York school board is turning out very unsatisfactory spellers at a very big expense to the city taxpayers, is the local school board getting any better results, or in other words has ex-editor Kinney made good or is he simply working on a theory the resulting good from which he hopes to be better than the resulting good worked out on the theories of his predecessors in office?

At the recent summer school session the official wireless censor let through a report, probably to advertise the nearly forgotten fact of the presence of the summer school gathering, that some unnamed teacher had cheated at the exams, as if cheating at lessons by an unknown person was as an important piece of news as the allied offensive at Lens in France.

Now at the summer school there was some complaint about the spelling tests being hard, and goes to show how the finished product of the local school board fell in the same plane as the raw product of the New York school board, and further goes to show poor spelling to be a universal failing.

Another much grumbled about policy of the school board is that of importing school teachers. Every year it is said between fifty and a hundred school teachers are brought in from the mainland to fill the best positions in the Territorial schools to the exclusion of local talent. Now this is no new school policy, from the good old days under the monarchy it has always been so. Whenever former educational boards felt financially able to do so they imported teachers, and when the financial showing was poor the importation fell off. Public opinion on this point, if public opinion existed at all, favored imported talent, rightly taking the position that home talent was not sufficient to supply the demand, but it appears the imported talent are unable to root out poor spelling, or did they bring the issue with them all the way from New York to Hawaii? And if by chance the home trained teachers could get the upper hand could they master the subject and make good spellers of the youth of this Territory?

CITIZENSHIP-WORK AND REGISTRATION ON MAUI

The tense interest which our daily papers and monthly periodicals have shown in trying to find out the attitude of the young men in the sugar camps here on Maui concerning Registration, tempts me to relate an experience that we as citizenship-workers had the evening before Registration in a camp not far from Wailuku.

The boys were no sooner together than they began asking questions concerning Registration. Some of the questions, to be sure, were hypothetical, but most of the inquiries showed a real interest to know what the morrow held in store for them. It was also quite evident that the boys back in the camps were equally interested to know and were using these boys as a medium for their own questions.

Luckily we sensed the situation and upon the suggestion of one of our party I offered to come down to the camp and tell them something about Registration, besides offering myself as a target to all the questions they might ask.

Upon my arrival in the camp, lanterns were lit and hung to handy nails here and there; benches were drawn up in order—but the boys, in the majority of cases they were already in bed for the night. Just a few were sitting on a porch to one side. Who could have guessed that about sixty boys, some Filipino, some Portuguese, and some Japanese would be filling the benches and standing around in a circle in ten minutes. With the help of interpreters I tried to erase a few false notions that they had gotten. Among some of the worst notions were such as the following; that to register meant to sign a contract for five years to go to war. Another was that if they registered they would not be granted any time to say good-bye to their family and friends.

There is, perhaps, no special significance in these facts by themselves. But in the light of developing good honest faithful Americans on Maui it can not be emphasized too strongly, for the lesson that it seems to me must be driven home to all true Americans is the eagerness on the part of these foreign-born boys in our midst to know more about the institutions of the government in which they are working. If we could picture ourselves or our children in a foreign land striving with every intention of being law-abiding citizens but wholly without the knowledge of whether we are obeying or breaking the laws, we would, I'm sure, be more interested in seeing to it that these honest but ignorant boys that come to our coast receive every possible opportunity of learning what our country really stands for.

Laying aside the matter of expediency, I consider it one of our great duties to offer these boys all the opportunities possible to learn not only the English language but also something of the American institutions. Regardless of whether we look upon them as "guests" of our commonwealth or whether they are to be our future citizens, nothing short of this is commensurate with our duty to them and to our country.

THE DROUGHT

The drought, now prevailing on Maui, is likely to cause much loss to the Maui plantations, and if continued much longer might easily make the loss amount to millions. If some plan could be worked out for conserving the storage of rain water or surface water annually allowed to escape to the sea by the billions of gallons, much of this loss could have been averted, but the prevailing policy seems to be to provide the ditches, the pipe lines and reservoirs of not very large storage capacity, leaving the supplying of the much needed water to providence.

Now the large plantations are not the only sufferers from the drought. Residents of the towns of Kahului and Wailuku received a reminder of the prevailing water scarcity in the form of a preemptory notice from the Board of Supervisors to stop using water for lawn irrigation, and that water will be shut off between the hours of 8:30 p. m. and 3 a. m. Friday night and presumably until further notice.

A conservation policy looking to the building of more and larger reservoirs all around would have tided over the present water scarcity and be an insurance against repetition of our occasional lesson of loss and inconvenience from scarcity of water.

THE HENRY FERRINE BALDWIN MEMORIAL

Maui is again unusually fortunate in another public building. This time it is a church edifice, the most beautiful structure of its class in Hawaii Nei. Perfect in equipment, of remarkably suitable design, located upon the exact site of the former church, which was erected on the spot where the life of Mr. Baldwin was spared in an accident in the sugar mill, this memorial to Henry Ferrine Baldwin could not be more fitting.

For half a century, Mr. Baldwin was Maui's leading citizen. It is most appropriate that to the memory of such a man and such a Christian philanthropist a beautiful church should now be erected as a thank-offering by a devoted family that his life was spared for so many years. The memories that will cluster about this new building are a precious heritage of Maui's past and a rich promise for the future.

Misleading Promotion Literature

One of the essential features of promotion literature, should be honesty. Recently acting on the flowery literature which recommended certain caves at Kalapana, Puna, as being well worth seeing, and easily accessible, we made a somewhat arduous trip to the place;—to find a hole in the rocky ledge into which one could crawl with difficulty, with grave danger of getting stuck, and out, of which one could crawl with difficulty.

The Hawaiian had whom we prevailed on to take us there and finally emerged at the sea some distance away, all of which was doubtless true; but the average tourist doesn't appreciate that sort of burrowing in a craggy wessel hole, and goes away disgusted. And a few experiences like that discredit promotion literature and Hawaiian wonders, and gives the Islands a "black eye."

Let us be honest about our wares; say nothing about them that isn't true, and advertise only those that really worth while, and can be seen and enjoyed with reasonable exertion.—Garden Island.

Maui Not On The Job?

Honolulu, Hawaii.—That action should be immediately taken to prevent the gathering of silver sword from the crater of Haleakala, because if this is not done the rare plant will soon become extinct, is the assertion of Miss Edna Peltz, secretary to Robert S. Yard of the bureau of national parks in Washington, D. C., who has been visiting the recently created Hawaii national park.

"It is a part of the work of the park bureau to preserve rare things and I was impressed with the thought that some action should be taken to make it illegal to gather the silver sword," says Miss Peltz. "Certainly anything of such rareness and beauty as the silver sword should be preserved. If some action is not taken it certainly will become extinct."—Christian Science Monitor.

Boost Hawaii—Everywhere
That the greater publicity scheme

as outlined in the Tribune yesterday will eventually receive the unanimous support of every person on Hawaii is evidenced by the fact that already several people have written letters on the lines suggested, to friends in distant parts of the world.

Congratulations on launching this scheme were received from quite a number of persons yesterday. But while the Tribune does not claim exclusive originality in this connection, it claims to be the first to moot such a project in Hawaii. A scheme along similar lines was undertaken in Honolulu some time back.

It is not too much to ask of anyone that a day be set apart to write a letter to a friend asking them to visit Hawaii, for there is no better place on this earth.

The Tribune is confident that every person on Hawaii will fall in with the suggestions made. If any person is unfortunate enough not to have a friend residing on some other part of this planet, look up a directory and write someone—anyone—it does not matter. The main point is to give Hawaii more publicity.—Hilo Tribune.

McCubbin Submarine Destroyer Saves Peshings Forces

The Captain of the "Mexican", recently at Port Allen, and who is just back from France, reports that the safe and successful landing of the American forces under Peshing, in spite of submarine attack, was due mainly to the effectiveness of the McCubbin destroyer. All Hawaii will rejoice that a native son has helped so effectively.

Mr. McCubbin is mill engineer at Pioneer Plantation, Lahaina.—Garden Island.

Strangers who come to this island are immediately and favorably impressed with the appearance of the wide streets in the main part of our city. The parking cars in the center of the main thoroughfare, is a new one on the Honolulu visitor from whom it never fails to elicit astonishment at the splendid idea.—Hawaii Post.

"There are more American flags on display in Hilo than there are in Honolulu," remarked a Honolulu visitor this morning. Well, and why shouldn't there be? Isn't this little old city about all the time considerably ahead of every other place in the spirit of the times? Rather.—Hawaii Post.

LIBERTY CATERING
No. 16
BY MAUI WOMEN
A Department Of Domestic Economy Intended To Serve A Patriotic Purpose In Conserving Food Needed By The Allied Armies In Europe

A woman cannot be too careful how she interprets the word economy just at this time. For her to hoard money, to cut down on necessities, to check the wise and regular flow of money into the usual channels in which she spends, is not asked of her. If this is her view of economy she will do the country harm, and create a depression in business that is the very last thing that we want. True economy—the kind that the country asks of every woman just now—is a freedom from waste, from extravagance, from going beyond the ordinary and the useful.—Ladies Home Journal.

INTELLIGENT

FOOD CONSERVATION

By Ernest F. Robinson, M. D.

Many of those who are trying to follow the advice of the government in regard to the conservation of food are not doing so intelligently. When any one has followed a certain diet for a long time, it is not wise to make a sudden change in it, even for a better diet. The first thing of importance, then, is to make the changes a little at a time.

Next you must consider your own needs and those of the rest of the family. Those, for example, who have been eating more meat than they really need can reduce this part of the ration, but those who are already eating as little as is healthful should not try to reduce it further. Remember that, while it is possible to get all the necessary protein from a strictly vegetarian diet, this cannot be safely attempted by any one except one with a good digestion and doing plenty of hard work. Another point is that growing children need more meat and other animal protein foods than do adults, especially the aged.

Next as to starchy foods. It is wise to use corn bread part of the time instead of wheat bread, but it is not wise to use it exclusively. Graham bread and whole-wheat bread are excellent for most persons. There are, however, various conditions which may make it unwise for certain individuals to use much of these. This applies even more to the use of rye flour. Rice can replace potato part of the time; but the potato when properly cooked is rich in cell salts, and should not be given up entirely.

Fat is a very necessary part of the diet, but "Criso or Wesson Oil" or some similar preparation can well replace butter, part of the time at least and especially for cooking. Olive-oil and peanut-oil are useful in this way.

As a nation we use far too much sugar and most persons can reduce the daily consumption of sugar to advantage. In the vast majority of cases cake, pastry, and desserts in general, except fruit, are absolutely unnecessary. It is starch and sugar in these forms which can be reduced the most safely.

Remember that tea, coffee, and cocoa are not necessities in any case. They are mild stimulants, but aside from the milk and sugar have virtually no food-value.

Most persons in good health will do best to reduce the total daily ration rather than any special line of food, in all probability. Potato once a day is plenty for any one. Very few need meat, fish, or eggs more than once a day; and no one needs these for more than two meals a day. Two meals a day is a good plan for those who do not need a large quantity of food, those who do no hard muscular work, provided the digestion is good. This is not a good plan for those with weak digestions. Remember that overeating is virtually always due to rapid eating. Eat slowly, and chew all food well, and you will eat less and digest more of what you do eat.

Remember that the more vegetable food you eat, especially the more green foods, the more waste there is to get rid of; hence the offer the bowels must move. With a strictly vegetarian diet this would mean three times a day.

Finally, remember that the needs of each member of the family as to food are different. It is folly to expect grandpa and his growing grandson to live on the same kinds and quantities of food.—Christian Endeavor World.

Tennis Entries For Mixed Doubles

The Puunene Athletic Club have received a gratifying number of entries for the mixed doubles championship tournament which was announced in last week's Maui News, and practice has begun in dead earnest among the wielders of the racquet.

A Strange Belief About Forest Fires

Old Theory Of No Value According To Forest Service Experts—Enormous Quantity Of Fiber Destroyed In California

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—There is an odd belief widespread through the mountainous regions of California in the benefit and value of forest fires, according to the Forest Service. The essence of this belief, known as "light burning," is that a fire spreading along the ground in the forest does no damage to the timber, but removes the litter and underbrush which, if allowed to accumulate, becomes fuel for a fire that in time will consume the mature timber. Therefore, in the opinion of those holding this theory, occasional fires in a forest are beneficial and necessary. The Indians and early settlers, it is said, always "light burned" the forests in order to make feed for the deer and the cattle and to clear the brush out of the way, and these fires did the forest no harm, but on the other hand, did a great deal of good.

This theory, declare the experts of the Forest Service, although a somewhat plausible one on its face, is entirely fallacious, and light burning, if practiced, would do an immense harm to the forests of California and affect adversely the welfare of the entire state. The damage done to the young growth by a "light fire" is severe. Fifty percent of the trees between ten and fifteen feet high are usually killed by a fire running through the forest. Nor is any permanent protection given the forests by the removal of the litter on the ground by fire, for within a few months it accumulates thicker than ever from the immense amount of foliage and young stuff killed but not consumed by the light fire. This material begins to fall soon after the light fire, and in a year or two is often more plentiful than ever before.

A few years ago the Forest Service experimented with "light burning" on an eighty-acre tract in Shasta County near Castle Rock. The tract which had not been touched by fire for fourteen years, consisted of dense thickets of young trees, mature timber, patches of brush and grass. Fire was allowed to run uncontrolled over it. Part of the litter was consumed and much brush was killed but not burned. Sixty percent of the young trees between ten and fifteen feet high were killed. Six months later the litter on the ground was just as plentiful as it had been at the time of the fire. Two and a half years after the experiment, the needles and leaves on the ground were fifty percent more than at the time of the burn. It was estimated that the risk of fire in this tract had been increased at least fifty percent in less than three years.

This erroneous "light burning" theory has not been entirely confined to mountaineers. A year or two ago, the officials of a Sierra power company, it is said, thinking to decrease the fire hazard along the right of way of a large lumber flume, caused to be set controlled fires. A year or two later an accidental fire spread to this right of way, and so great was the accumulation of the needles and debris, the fruit of the light burn, that this accidental fire could not be controlled. It wiped out several hundred feet of flume, causing a great loss to the company.

It would have been much better for the forests of California, declare the forest experts, if the Indians and early settlers had not set the fires they are credited with setting. As a result of fire, there is not a forest in California that contains as many mature trees as the ground is capable of supporting. Of the 1,300,000 acres of lands covered with the brush in the National Forests of California, a million acres at one time supported dense stands of mature timber. There is evidence at hand that 25 billion feet of mature timber have been destroyed by fire in California, enough to run all the mills of the State for 25 years. There is one region in the Squaw Creek country in Shasta County of 150,000 acres that in the sixties was heavily forested. Today it is chiefly a chaparral desert due to a fire in the seventies. Another fire in this same region on the southeast slope of Mt. Shasta near McCloud destroyed 10,000 acres of yellow pine and sugar pine in the seventies. The timber has never returned. Chaparral has taken its place. Undoubtedly, declare the Forest officers, this belief in the value of light burning has been responsible for a loss of millions of dollars to California.

Some Good Shows Coming

"The Prison Without Walls"
Two-fisted Wallace Reid was selected for the star of the film which goes on at the Wailuku Orpheum Sunday night, and those who have become acquainted with his work through his frequent and popular appearance here may take it for granted that he will do justice to the part he has. "The Prison Without Walls," the story of a campaign against the iniquities of the prison system with an excellent human interest story back of it, affords Reid opportunities to do his best, and Myrtle Stedman, his co-star, completes an interesting combination.

Reid was the first movie star to realize the pulling power of the real fight on the screen and his work in "The Birth of a Nation," Griffith's masterpiece, put an end forever in first class productions of the fake battle. When Reid scraps, he scraps, and if he gets beaten it is because the scenario called for that. There is a bonus in the studio to the man who beats him in a film fight sufficiently well to make the audience believe it. Incidentally, the present story was written for him with his two-fisted powers in mind.

Pauline Frederick as "Sapho"
It will not be difficult for patrons of the Orpheum on Wednesday next to imagine Pauline Frederick appearing in the title role of "Sapho". There is something about this popular star that fixes her as an ideal artist for part of the heroine of the immortal Daudet story.

There are a few slight changes in the camera version of this popular play and one very important one. In the finale, both book and stage play, Sapho continued to live a life that was considered far from proper. In the screen story the present war has been drawn upon to good purpose and the heroine is made to repent, take up Red Cross work and make every effort to repent for her early dissipation. The changes have taken nothing away from the story or play.

Thomas Meighan appears as Jean Gaussin, student lover of the famous Parisian artist's model and the balance of the cast includes Frank Losee, John Sainpolis, Pedro de Cordoba. This is one of the strongest casts of Famous Players sent to Wailuku in some time.

"The Battle Of Life"
"The Battle of Life" is the offering and Gladys Coburn and Art Acord are the stars. This is a pair of new featured artists over the Fox circuit and they are equal to the usual high standard set by the Fox stars.

The story deals with a young girl, raised amongst crooks and as a crook. There is nothing in crookdom with which this miss is not thoroughly conversant. All the tricks of the game are well-known to her. The following of the underworld, however, fails to have the charm for her that it has for so many of her unfortunate sister—and brothers. She rebels against the life and decides it is not for her. The strength that is needed in renouncing the life to which she has been accustomed and the thoroughness with which she eventually reforms are the features of the film drama.

On Sunday, September 2nd, one of the most noteworthy productions of the season will be offered at the Kahului Lyceum. H. B. Warner whose great characterization of the Beggar in the "Beggars of Cawnpore" was received with such enthusiasm will be seen in "The Market of Vain Desire." So great is Mr. Snyder's belief in the worth and value of this picture that special invitations have been sent to the members of the clergy on Maui to attend that evening and give their personal criticism of this fine intelligent work of Mr. Thos. H. Ince.

No more appropriate picture could have been secured for a Sunday performance. The intellectual value of this picture is as great, if not greater, than the production of the Passion Play. A young minister in a New England church attracts the attention of the heads of one of the large New York churches. They induce him to come to New York and take up his work in the church where the former minister has been taken by death. In the city he meets and falls in love with a wealthy young member of his congregation whose parents are bent on her marrying a Frenchman whose title is to them the height of their ambitions. Asked to announce her engagement from the pulpit the minister in a last attempt to bring the girl to her senses calls in a woman from the streets and taking her into his pulpit he asks whether the girl is any worse whose body is sold on the streets for gain than the woman whose body is sold in the Market of Vain Desire. This picture was recommended by many of the ministers and priests in the states as containing a moral lesson of immense value and advising everyone to see it. Mr. Snyder is arranging a special musical program to accompany this production on Sunday night at the Lyceum. The performance will commence at 8:00 o'clock.—Adv.

Maui County Agent's Trip To Hana District

The Maui County Agricultural Agent made a brief visit to the Hana district during the past week to get into as close personal touch with the farming community as possible. Practically the entire trip was made on horseback, which enabled a more intimate inspection of the country side. One of the most striking features of the entire trip was the greater or less evidence of the protracted drought being experienced over the entire island. Even Nahiku district, with its usual heavy rainfall, showed some signs of the prevailing drought. However, all kinds of garden truck were in a thriving condition. The most notable places visited being Mr. George A. Pollister's interesting homestead in the midst of the Nahiku Rubber Plantation, and that of Mr. George Weight at Keanae. Isolated as these places may seem to the casual traveler, it may be safely said that they fare on the fat of the land insofar as the succulent vegetables are concerned during this period of unusual drought.

As one proceeds along the ditch trail the scantiness of the impound waters is very noticeable. However, as one approaches the cane fields tributary to Hana, the crops do not appear to have suffered nearly as much as in central Maui even though no irrigation is practiced in the district. Towards the sea-shore the cane appears to have suffered somewhat more. Hana was reached at nightfall after a trip of approximately 50 miles overland, every mile of which presented some new and interesting agricultural phase of this somewhat neglected section of Maui. Mr. N. Omsted, Postmaster at Hana, had kindly arranged interviews with a number of representative plantation and ranch-men from Hana to Kipahulu. The County Agent was very courteously received by all those interviewed, and considerable interest was shown in the work and aims of the Food Commission. It was found that much work in the way of vegetable gardening was being done, the plantation managements offering both seeds and land to their employees, of which, however, the children appear to have made the greater use. The writer was surprised to learn that taro was selling at $2.50 a bag in and around Hana. When it is considered that up-land taro grows to perfection in this district, it would appear that the small farmer has a splendid opportunity to grow the crop profitably.

Through the assistance of Mr. R. A. Drummond, a meeting of the settlers of Waiahou-Kakio Homestead Tract near Pukulua and others of the neighborhood was arranged for. Nineteen men and women, all Hawaiians, assembled at one of their beautiful tree bedecked homesteads, and through an intelligent interpreter the work and aims of the Territorial Food Commission, was made clear. The closest possible interest and attention was shown by all present. All desired to co-operate with the County Agent. Most of the men work on the county roads when opportunity offers, but their homesteads provide most of their livelihood. Papaias, taro, sweet potatoes and small garden truck were noticed in abundance. Hogs do unusually well, and cost of production is low when fed on home grown produce. It was ascertained that there are about one hundred brood sows in the district. Most of these are of native type, and it was plain, could and should be greatly improved. This gave your County Agent his cue. He at once proposed to the homesteaders that they form a little swine breeders association, and that in some way a choice boar would be provided to improve their herds. It is hoped that the Food Commission may see fit to introduce pure bred sires into such farming districts as these. It would be hard to estimate the good results that would follow such a course if systematically followed throughout the Islands.

The main draw-back to the development of a prosperous diversified agriculture in this district would appear to be the high cost of transportation. A number of concrete illustrations were given the agent to bear out this point. However, there can be no question but that the district should produce practically all the agricultural products consumed by the local community. Insofar as the commoner fruits, sweet potatoes, taro, etc. are concerned the district is well provided for. Irish potatoes and field corn and possibly onions and beans, all of which are said to do well in favorable seasons, should be encouraged for further development. With this in view the County Agent has made plans to distribute freely among the farmers choice seed potatoes and seeds of other field crops as is being done in the Kula and Makawao districts of central Maui. With corn and leguminous seeds established in the cropping system, improved hog and poultry production, to which the district would seem especially adapted, would follow as a natural consequence. The present high price of hogs, poultry and eggs might well overcome some of the disadvantages of high transportation costs, and with increased volume of freight, such costs should be materially lowered.

We bespeak for the east end of Maui, while possibly somewhat limited, a prosperous diversified agriculture. Largely manned by the small native Hawaiian farmers who know his soil and climate through long and intimate association, there needs only the guiding hand of a sympathetic government to show him better methods and new and improved varieties.

—F. G. K.

Island Eggs Are In Demand Again

Red Beans Slow—Potatoes Sold Out —Planters Should See Their County Agent — Longley Takes Vacation

HONOLULU, August 25.—Island eggs are in demand again and the price has advanced two and a half cents a dozen. It is probable that there will be further advances during the week.

Red beans are moving slowly. Practically all of the island potatoes have been sold. Every man that plants potatoes this year should get the advise of his county agent on the best method of treating the seed and spraying the plants.

Since the Hilo grapes are not coming into the market, the Oahu grapes are bringing a little better price.

The superintendent of the Division has received a three months leave of absence beginning the 27th instant and Mr. O. B. Lightfoot, the assistant superintendent will be in charge.

A. T. LONGLEY, Superintendent.

Pertinent Paragraphs

Monday, September 3, is Labor Day. Saint Anthony's School, Wailuku, opens for the new school term, September 4th. John Makaiwa, one of the alleged slackers from Maui, was released yesterday on furnishing bond of $1000.—Advertiser. The Woman's Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd will hold a meeting with Mrs. H. D. Stoggett, Hama-kuapoko, on Tuesday, September 4th at 2:30 P. M. The Haiku Farmers' Association will hold their annual meeting on Saturday, September 3rd, at the Kulaha schoolhouse. There will be an election of officers and all members are urged to come. George Shaw, a member of a Hawaiian troupe of singers, died on July 21, at Cincinnati from typhoid fever. He was twenty years old and was the nephew of Mrs. C. D. Cockett, of Lahaina. That the federal officials are determined to make an example of slackers, is shown in the cases of C. Kama, Manuel D. Kaina and J. Makaiwa, who were recently brought from Maui on a charge of having testified to their wrong age on Registration Day. In the federal court defendants were brought before United States Commissioner George S. Curry, for preliminary examination, yesterday, which in all three cases was waived. Defendants' bond were fixed at $1000 each.—Advertiser. Miss Julia E. Snow has been granted a pension by the Department of Public Instruction in recognition of twenty-five years of continuous service in the Territorial schools.—The Friend. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rice, Mr. and Mrs. T. V. King, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Weller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rice and Colonel and Mrs. Jack Hayes, were Major and Mrs. Case Deering's dinner guests on Thursday. Pink gladioli and fern combined to make a pretty table decoration.—Advertiser. Consigned to the supply officer of the Navy in New York, 1560 crates of pineapples arrived on the Claudine yesterday morning from the Maui Pineapple Company at Pauwela, Maui. They will be transhipped here on some government vessel sailing within the next two weeks. These are part of the recent big purchase of the government.—Advertiser. The W. A. Baldwin premises at Haiku were entered last Saturday night by someone unknown and a number of new and costly garments, valued at about sixty dollars were taken which belonged to the wife of the Japanese yard boy. The servants were away attending the Japanese show at Pauwela. By simply affixing a 1 cent stamp to nearly all creditable magazines, the same can be sent now to some soldier with expeditionary forces in France. This is true of every magazine which has a printed notice on its front page stating that it will be accepted without wrapping or address at all postoffices for delivery to the expeditionary forces after a 1 cent stamp is attached over the notice.—Star-Bulletin. Mr. Earl Corson and Dr. Hoeffler, both of Wailuku, enjoy the distinction of having been the first successful trappers to attempt the long obliterated trail through beautiful Iao which opens out on the other side of the island near Ohowalu, close to Lahaina. All difficulties were surmounted with more than considerable pluck and despite moments when further progress seemed impossible, after traveling from about four o'clock on Saturday, by Sunday evening at six o'clock their strenuous journey was over, and congratulations in order. San Francisco, July 23.—Odd requests for exports are coming into the Chamber of Commerce here from all parts of the world. According to a bulletin issued recently by the chamber, Osaka, Japan, is in the market for second hand kerosene tin cans, while Tokio reports a shortage of coral canoes, and wants to know what America can do to relieve it. Several South American places are seeking tinware ice cream freezers, while several Japanese points want shoe black. Venice, Italy, has put in a call for greases of all sorts, while any number of places are keenly interested in the grape juice output of this country. One San Francisco firm reports rush orders for second hand boilers from several places.—Hilo Daily Tribune.

On The Other Islands

Six prominent Honolulu young men, Francis Brown, Fred Biven, William Wells, Ernest Podmore, William A. Noble and Franklin D. Richardson have passed the army physical examination and have been accepted for service in France with the U. S. Medical Corps. A probable plikia to the steering gear, was the cause of an accident to E. Bryant, at a point about fifteen miles from Hilo on the Volcano road. With Mr. Bryant was A. L. Greenwell, both occupants escaping scarcely hurt from the care which plunged from the beaten path of safety down an embankment of some 25 feet. Mr. Bryant was enroute to Kona, when the accident took place, and had not yet ascertained the exact cause of the trouble when seen, but it is likely that when examined, that the steering gear will be found responsible for the plikia.—Hawaii Post. A regular plantation tennis league is being formed and at least five clubs will take part in the monthly tournaments. Teams from Iaa, Hakalau, Popekeo, Papekou, and Wainaku will join and possibly other clubs. It is the plan to have tournaments every month or six weeks. All clubs will send two teams of two men each, and for the whole day Sunday the teams will battle to see which club will take the cup donated for the tournaments. The club which wins three times, not necessarily in succession, will become permanent owner and then another cup will be provided.—Hawaii Independent. Confirmation of the proposal to form a platoon of Japanese soldiers in Hilo to be attached to the local National Guard, was received from army headquarters in Honolulu by Lieut.-Col. H. M. Morehead last night. Instructions were given to organize the platoon immediately so that all would be in readiness for the coming camp National Guardsmen. It is principally through the efforts of Futoshi Arakawa, president of the Japanese-American Citizens' Association, that this proposition has reached maturity. Learning that similar steps had been taken in Honolulu, Arakawa wrote to Governor Pinkham asking permission to raise a local platoon. He received a reply instructing him to secure the names of fifty who would be desirous of joining such a body, and the question would be then considered. Up to Friday last forty names had been collected, and these were sent by letter to Honolulu. The other ten are now being canvassed for and it is thought that little difficulty will be experienced in getting all the men necessary.—Hilo Daily Tribune. Mrs. A. C. Kamaoaha has received an appointment as chief surgical nurse at the Queen's Hospital, Honolulu. She is the first nurse to finish the course in the new training school, and has had preparatory work in the Children's Hospital for three years. Mrs. K. Z. Zedwitz of Lahaina, Maui, with her two little girls, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. Rohrig of Lihue. The many friends of Mrs. Zedwitz, who remember her as Miss Betty Weinheimer, learned to love her very dearly while she lived in Koloa some years ago, with her brother Mr. L. Weinheimer, then manager of Koloa Plantation. We are glad to welcome Mrs. Zedwitz to our midst.—Garden Island. Kau, Aug. 24.—The multitude of friends of Miss Aileen Gibbs will be pleased to learn of the announcement of her engagement to Leslie Forrest, the same being made known at a delightful lawn tennis luncheon party given by Mrs. George Gibbs of Naelehu last Wednesday afternoon.—Hawaii Post.

WHAT THE MEN ARE ASKED TO DO

Work Of Women Is Satisfactory—Hoover Turns Attention To Men—Should Not Eat Too Much

Mr. Herbert Hoover, apparently satisfied that the women are making a nation-wide effort to do their best in conserving food, now turns his attention to the men who are to do the eating. In part, his appeal to the men reads as follows: "Let us work together in whole-hearted response to the patriotic duty to which we are called. Let us make it the purpose and motto of every household to 'save the waste and win the war.'" What shall I do to conserve? As A Single Man: I will patronize no extravagant restaurants. I will select well-balanced meals. I will order only so much as can eat. I will cut the last slice of bread. If I only want half of it. I will consistently ask for hash when it is offered. I will not eat between meals. I will not eat meat oftener than once a day. I will not overeat. As A Married Man: I will make an extra effort to eat at home. I will substituted corn and rye bread for wheat bread, at least once a day. I will eat meat not oftener than 3 times a week. I will not eat canned goods, but let them go to Europe. I will eat fresh vegetables in their season. I will ask my wife to do her own marketing. I will check up any waste of my cooks. I will do away with luxuries during the war. I will not overeat. I will not growl but smile when hash is served.

Try This At Your Own Risk

"My wife wants me to go shopping with her. I don't see how I'm going to get out of it."
"If she were to send you back to your office after less than an hour of shopping and told you she would never take you on such an expedition again, you would consider yourself repaid for your trouble, wouldn't you?"
"Certainly. But how am I going to do that?"
"Let her catch you flirting with a fascinating girl clerk."—Birmingham Age-Herald.
