CLAUS SPRECKELS.

Honolulu, Sept. 13th, 1883.

YESTERDAY'S EDITORIAL.

Mr. F. H. Hayselden has forwarded us a letter requesting a complete retraction of a supposed charge which appeared in our yesterday's issue in an Editorial article under the heading of "AN EXPLANATION REQUIRED."

Messrs. Hackfeld & Co. must explain by what authority they used the name of Mr. Hayselden in that letter, as Mr. Hayselden states that he never had any conversation on this subject with any other person or persons.

Our questions still remain unanswered.

BUSINESS.

A daily contemporary in its commercial article in a recent issue says "Leading business men are not afraid to expend large sums of money in investments, which it is generally considered will result in a profit or a loss, according to the wisdom and firmness or the vacillation of the Government in the management of internal affairs."

Our business men have settled in this Kingdom and have determined to invest their money to good advantage in spite of the mal-administration of the present Government.

Let any business man in Honolulu be asked his honest opinion and he will endorse our remarks.

Bonds are quoted at $75. We venture to assert that, when an administration of integrity and strength shall be in office, Government bonds will advance considerably on their present value.

A meeting of the Mechanics of Honolulu and their friends will be held at the Hawaiian Hotel to-morrow evening at half past seven.

DURING the evening's entertainment at the Music Hall to-morrow a clog dance will be given by two New Yorkers known as "The New York Boot Blacks."

Rev. Cruzan having returned from his vacation on Monday was welcomed back at Fort St. on Wednesday evening. After the usual interesting meeting, a goodly number being present, the Pastor shook hands and exchanged pleasant greetings all around.

The remaining cases of the German laborers from Kaula were heard yesterday and all decided against them. Three men have agreed to return to the plantation to work but the rest go to jail until they can change their minds.

The hotel affray was heard yesterday at the Police Court. Four witnesses were examined but no defense was offered, the defendant being fined $15 and costs. An appeal was noted and defendant was released on a $200 bond. The fine was subsequently paid and the appeal withdrawn.
