Resort project on Rota takes off

by Teri M. Flores

Gov. Larry I. DeLeon Guerrero led several dignitaries including officials of the Shi-rayama Northern Marianas Corporation during the groundbreaking ceremony of the $40 million Rota Island Resort.

The landmark project which is expected to bring economic benefits to Rota is expected to be completed within the next three years.

It includes a 210 hotel room complex done in the Spanish island motif and an 18 hole golf course which will be situated in 640,000 sq. m. of private land and 1.5 M. sq. m. of public land.

"The project meets two important development goals of the CNMI because it not only welcomes and encourages joint ventures that will benefit the local populace but, it will also spur economic growth for the island," the Governor said during his remarks.

SNM Board of Director Victor B. Hocog said the project will not only play a vital role towards the improvement of the local economy but, it will also create tourist-related businesses for the people and will also help local farmers and fishermen in their trade by assuring them a steady market for their produce.

Hocog said the investors have already pledged $4 M. to the Rota Municipality which will be allocated for the needed infrastructure development on the island as well as to fund the Mayor's special projects.

He said that a portion of the amount will also be used to develop and expand the existing airport facility so that it can accommodate much bigger aircrafts which are used for international travel.

CRM Administrator Jack Villagomez said in a Monday interview that the SNM project is one of the best permit applications received by his agency.

"The CRM Board was in close coordination with the developer so as to assure that such concerns such as the wildlife and groundwater issue will be addressed properly," Villagomez said.

Another project which is expected to be constructed on Rota is the Southern Cross Resort Project Partnership Rota Plumeria Country Club which will be situated in Appalatatgua on Rota.

The three phase construction plan for the project includes 120 rooms of hotel-condominium, an 18 hole golf course, a clubhouse and a restaurant.

The project is expected to be completed in three years time. The CRM is currently reviewing the permit application of Southern Cross in lieu of several concerns raised by the CRM Board.

Another developer that has shown interest in developing some land on Rota is Marianas Agupa which has already contributed funds for the Rota-Pinantang Park Development.

Agupa also has plans to construct a five-star resort complex with an 18 hole golf course and several amenities.

Among those who attended the groundbreaking ceremony included Senate President Joseph Inos Sen. John Torres, Cong. Antonio Quitugua, Rota Mayor Prudencio Manglona and Haruo Hirayama, President of Hirayama Kikaku Co. Ltd.

Saipan water safe, lab tests declared

by Ronel B. Concepcion

Several CNMI government officials sat down together Monday morning to declare before the general public that Saipan's water supply is safe.

The announcement was made as an update on earlier newsreports that high levels of contaminants, specifically lead and mercury, were found in several sources of drinking water on Saipan.

Bringing the good news were Governor Larry I. Guerrero, Commonwealth Utilities Corporation Deputy Director Tim Villagomez, Department of Environmental Quality Acting Chief Miriam Seman, Commonwealth Health Center's Director Jose Chong and Administrator Pete Untalan.

The declaration was based from laboratory test analysis received last Saturday from three different certified US Environmental Protection Agency laboratories.

The samples were tested at the University of Hawaii laboratory, US Geological Survey Laboratory in Honolulu, and the US Geological Survey National Water-Quality Laboratory in Colorado.

Last May 7- the DEQ, the CUC, together with the Public Health, announced that four wells on Saipan were found to have contained mercury and lead "that exceeded the drinking water maximum contaminant level of the EPA and the CNMI government standards."

The contaminants were identified by DEQ officials earlier after they took samples of the sixty sources of water for the Saipan public water system.

The incident was made known to the public to let the people know of the existing problem, and to show that the CNMI government is doing something to alleviate it.

According to CUC information, test results were received Saturday morning by CUC Executive Director Ray Guerrero, indicating that Saipan water are "well below the maximum contaminant level."

Maximum contaminant level (MCL) for mercury is 2, while 5 MCL for lead.

The type of analysis executed by US laboratories can not be done locally, but the CUC is in the process of developing a laboratory program to do the same thing.

CNMI Gov. Guerrero expressed that "We are glad to know it...we are back to normal...no need to panic since the islands potable water is safe for human consumption."

He added that even though they are already satisfied with the result of the test, they also made a "cross-reference" by sending water samples to Japan.

According to the Governor, results of the Japanese lab test samples is forthcoming... "expecting it by this week."

Public Health Director Chong agreed with Gov. Guerrero, while CUC's Villagomez said at the time they found out that mercury and lead were present in the wells, they decided to shut it off.

Four wells were identified, but as a result of the test, they were again opened for service

One man dead, others injured in car mishap

by Teri M. Flores

A 37-year old Chinese national was pronounced dead on arrival at the Commonwealth Health Center while ten others were reportedly injured after they were involved in an auto collision at the Airport Road early Sunday morning.

Chief of Police Tony Reyes identified the fatality as Hong Yue Ziang who died due to injuries of the central nervous system.

Reyes said the cause of death will be determined pending an autopsy which is expected to be conducted within this week.

Reyes said that of the ten people listed as injured and placed under observation in the hospital, five were children with ages ranging from 2 to 6-years old.

Initial reports indicate that a white Suzuki sedan which 32-year old Yun Zhi Hwang was driving was heading north to the Airport when it collided with a white Mazda pick-up which was being operated by Pegrolina Chipuelong.

The accident left serious damage to the Suzuki sedan while reports also indicate that the some of the passengers in the pick-up were also thrown several meters where the accident occurred.

Reyes said the police are still investigating the cause of the accident which occurred in front of Herman's Bakery and reported to the police at about 7 a.m. Sunday.

FORUM A Meeting Place For Our Opinions And Yours...

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am flabbergasted that after all these years most of the current Palauan political leadership still blame the United States for the "mess" in Palau. The real problem in Palau is not the United States but the current "national" leaders who put their personal and business interests before the national interests. The only solution is for the Palauan voters to replace the current leaders with new leaders who will not hide behind US skirts but persons who are not afraid to make decisions and who spend more time tending to public welfare instead of personal gain.

Blaming the United States for the mess in Palau was a favorite political pastime but it does not cut anymore and will not get any vote next election. Even, the communists world over have realized people do not buy it anymore. Only in Palau and in the Philippines do politicians continue this blame-the-US silliness to cover up personal ineptitude, corruption and maleficence in office.

And I suggest that the lawsuit filed by Chief Ibedul and others be withdrawn. Frankly, I just do not see any point for the lawsuit;

however, desirable its stated objectives are, it will be naive for Palauans to expect US courts to solve what is basically a political issue between Palau and the United States. Even if Ibedul was successful in convincing the US courts to force the US government to spend millions of dollars to create a viable private sector economy and build Palau's entire infrastructure, the US government does not have, now or in the near future, the money and it will be years another 10-20 years before anything is done. At best, the lawsuit is diversionary and will only further delay the resolution of Palau's political status by forcing both sides to expend, unnecessarily, money and energy on the lawsuit instead of meeting in negotiations to find a final resolution to Palau's political future.

What's needed now is for Ibedul and other Palauan leaders to sit down with the US and set a deadline to terminate the trusteeship. The Palau National Congress should then pass legislation to hold a plebiscite next November elections to let Palauan voters to decide, once and for all, between free association and commonwealth status. And let me again suggest that candidates running next election should declare which status option they support and let the voters choose which candidates to support on the basis of their stand on the status question. The next government will then have the popular mandate and directive to implement the political option approved by the voters.

Supporters of both options should begin now to organize. As an advocate of the US commonwealth option, I urge Palauan voters — in Palau, Guam, and CNMI — to begin organize and put up commonwealth candidates for the presidency, vice presidency and the congress. After trying unsuccessfully for 25 years to get Palau to become a US free associated state, it's now time for Palauans to work to become a US commonwealth.

Sincerely,
/s/Francisco T. Uludong

Read and Write Program for students held

... pilot program teaches kindergarten and 1st grade students to read & write

The Public School System and the Northern Marianas College have once again joined hands to aid the education of Commonwealth students. A memorandum of understanding between the two institutions last year resulted in implementing an innovative learning program called "Write to Read", according to PSS news release.

Developed by Dr. John Henry Martin, IBM's Writing to Read program is designed to help teach kindergartners and first graders how to write anything they can say and read anything they can write.

A pilot program has been in operation at San Vicente Elementary School since October 1990. It is the only CNMI school that is using the program. Pakka Kavan, district coordinator for the Writing to Read program, said 180 students, plus 10 special need students are using the program. She added that she has never seen kindergartners and first grade students write so much with so much energy and enthusiasm. The Writing to Read center the PSS release said, is a separate room containing five learning stations; the Computer station, the Work Journal station, the Writing/Typing station, the Listening Library station and the Make Words station. Alice Diaz, teaching at SVS for four years, is the classroom manager and handles the computer station. "The program is really working", says Diaz.

Kavan, employed by NMC, says each kindergarten and first grade class spends 55 minutes in the center every day. Diaz says the children spend about 10-15 minutes at each station during the class.

IBM literature says its computer-based program teaches students to read by teaching them to write, using 42 phonemes (letter-sound combinations) as building blocks. Diaz said the students typically go to the computer station first where they see, hear, say and type words and sounds. She says it's true what the program states—that the children write about whatever they choose fearlessly because they are not stopped or corrected. "It builds confidence, because they can see how they learn" she said in the PSS press release.

Diaz says her students get excited about testing because they want to learn. If they do something wrong, Diaz says, they say "can I try again". Diaz says, for example, a student may start with spelling the word "the" "da". But later on that student will begin to spell "the" correctly, this, says Diaz, is fine because the Write to Read program encourages this. The program states that by the end of the program, most children can spell phonemically any English word they can say.

A typical example of a story was written by 6-year old Louienna Pangelinan. "I have a big flower and it is nays tosmely ti and it is red and blue it so Prely." (I have a big flower and it is nice to smell it and it is red and blue it is so pretty) the PSS release stated....

After the computer station, Diaz says the student would go to the Work Journal station where they listen to a taped lesson about the sounds of the words they just learned at the computer. They write those words in their journals, plus new words that use the same sounds.

Diaz says the students then go to the typing station where they write their stories. When they've finished that, says Diaz, students can go to the Listening Library station, reading station or Make words station.

On Thursday, May 2, the Make words station seemed the most popular. At this station students use a variety of materials (clay, sand crayons, paper, etc.) and games to form letters and words they've learned. Leonida Estadilla, whose first grade class was using the center at the time, echoes the comments of the others. "The program is working good", she says. "It's very helpful to the kids, and I can see the difference compared to previous years."

According to Kavan, NMC provided $26,000 worth of materials (IBM Write to Read computer program) and her services to the SVS pilot program. Kavan serves as teacher, trainer and researcher. She says PSS provided the dedicated classroom, library materials, books shelves, air conditioner, a full time teacher aide, tapes, perishables and administrative support, said the news release from PSS.

Ideally, Kavan would like to see another year of the pilot program. She says more will be known after results from a reading yardsticks test become

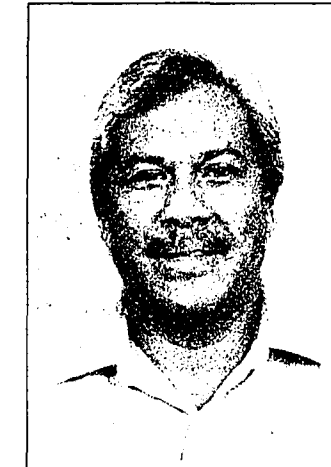

6 year old Zelvonne H. Camacho proudly displays the story and artwork she created in the Writing to Read program at San Vicente Elementary School. The pilot program is a joint effort between the Public School System and Northern Marianas College. (PSS Photo)

Bill to restrict business permits introduced, others

by R.B. Concepcion

A bill that would impose stricter restrictions on business permit and would prohibit the issuance of nonresident worker permits to immediate relatives of non-immigrant visitors was recently introduced in the Senate.

The proposed measure, authored by Sen. Herman Guerrero, is otherwise known as the Nonimmigrants Business Entry Standards Act of 1991.

Numbered as 7-87, the bill's existence is primarily due to those persons who have been using business entry permits as a means to "stay in the CNMI indefinitely and engage in business."

It said that it is one of the violations of the law being committed to "effectively" immigrate in the Commonwealth.

According to the proposed measure, these individuals even compete with local, small businesses like other retail stores such as 'Mom and Pop.'

Moreover, these business permit holders "frequently obtain" nonresident worker permits so that members of their family can join them here in the CNMI.

The bill would solve the problem with foreign investment and too much alien workers... "without sending any negative signals to worthy and desirable foreign investors."

The bill, with that in purpose, would then put a limit to the number of days a person can stay in the CNMI for each year using a visitor or business permit.

The limit set by the bill is that every issued business permit would have a validity period for only one year, and that the holder can stay in the CNMI for not more than a total of 120 days during that given period.

Furthermore, immediate relatives of these permit holders will not be eligible and be given any nonresident worker permits.

It states under Section 5-"No nonresident worker permit shall be issued to a spouse, parent, sibling, or child or a person holding an entry permit under PL 3-105..."

Another proposed measure, Senate Legislative Initiative 7-1, introduced by Senate President Joseph Inos would establish a time period for the legislature to reconsider a bill or item vetoed by the Governor.

This piece of legislation originated due to recent events where in the Governor vetoed a proposed statute by the Sixth Legislature. The bill then went back to the Seventh Legislature, which they overrode.

Confusions arose as to whether the bill, known as the Public Auditor's Act is now a law. An opinion from the Attorney General's office provide that the Seventh Legislature does not have the authority to override a bill which they did not make.

The Senate now has re-introduced and passed the PA's bill, while the House of Representatives keeps on arguing that it is now a law.

According to the proposed initiative, the CNMI Constitution "is silent" on the length of time that should pass before the legislature can reconsider a vetoed measure.

The initiative, which will be placed on referendum ballot in the 1991 election, would require both the Senate and the House to make reconsideration of a bill or an item within 60 days of the receipt of the governor's veto message.

OTIA's Guerra endorses $27.7 M for CNMI

by Ronel B. Concepcion

OTIA Assistant Secretary Stella Guerra testified before the US Congress budget hearing Thursday endorsing approval of FY 1992 budget for the interior department amounting to $314.7 million. While $27.7 million is requested for the CNMI.

Guerra, in her prepared testimony, told the Sub-Committee on Appropriations that majority of the budget or $210.2 million will go to "permanent" appropriations.

Her testimony explained that "permanent appropriations" include the $131.9 M payment under the Compact of Free Association, and $78.3 million for tax collection on Guam and the Virgin Islands.

Guerra added that aside from those payments, there is a need for another $104.5 M.

It was broken down as follows-$67.1 M for the administration of territories account, $19.5 M for the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, and $17.9 M for discretionary payments under CFA.

Guerra told the committee that the budget proposal "meets all mandatory obligation to the insular areas and provides sufficient funds to continue important programs..."

Guerra justified the need for the $67.1 million to administer the various territories, by citing the federal funding needed in each US territories and commonwealths.

She said that the funding request for various territories decreased by about $38.7 million as compared to FY 1991.

Last year's appropriation included the funding for infrastructure development caused by Hurricane Hugo in 1989, she said.

The Commonwealth needs $27.7 million, where $17.4 M will be used for capital improvements and the $10.3 M for government operations.

According to Guerra, the amount "is consistent with the schedule of payments agreed by the Special Representatives of the President and the Governor and enacted in Federal Law."

The testimony mentioned that they are now working with the CNMI for another seven-year US funding agreement which could soon be finalized.

Mentioned was CNMI's increase of revenues from 1986 to 1992... "from $43.2 M in 1986 to an estimated $131.1 M in 1992."

She pointed out that in spite of that, the CNMI still needs funding for its ever growing demand for infrastructure.

The committee was also informed that the CNMI is at the same time also looking at other alternatives to Federal grants, which position will be presented in next year's budget hearing.

In other territories, Guerra's testimony said that her office is not requesting any new construction assistance for the Virgin Islands.

The Virgin Islands was already appropriated an amount of $20.4 million last year, currently being used to improve its infrastructure destroyed by Hurricane Hugo.

American Samoa's budget request is placed at $21.9 million... "an amount equal to the 1991 appropriation... and another million for new construction, for water system improvements."

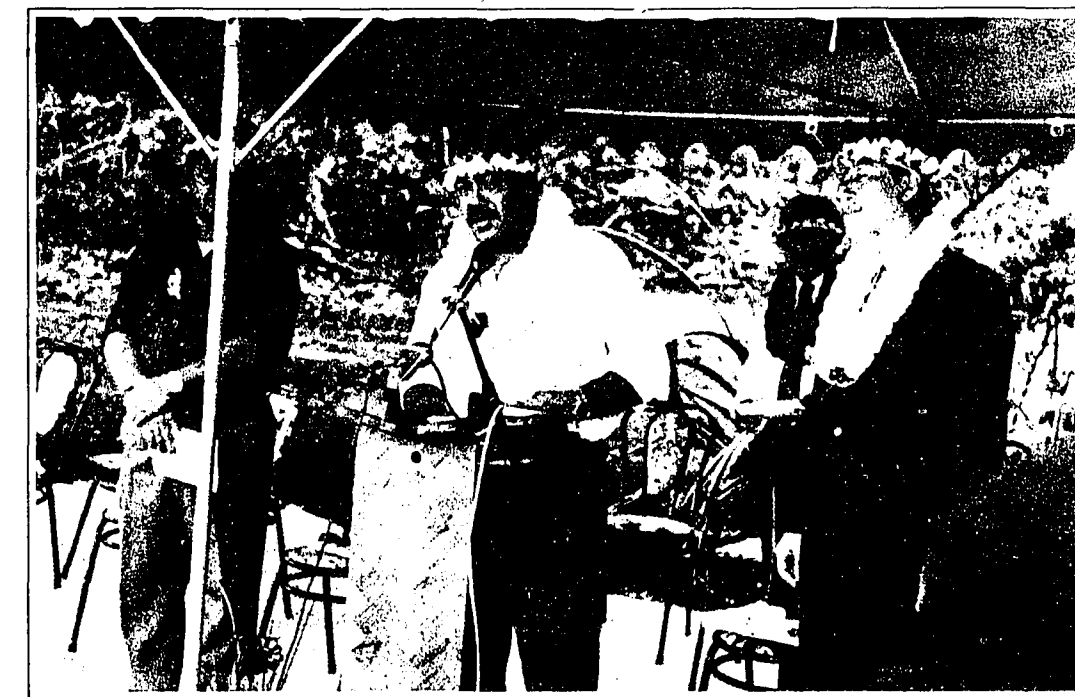

Guerra, in her testimony, cited that increased federal funding is not the solution to American Samoa's financial problem... "but increased economic activity combined with effective management control..."

Among many other budget justifications by Guerra, her testimony also calls for an additional $1 million for the purpose of eradicating brown tree snake on Guam and its prevention to other areas in the Pacific.

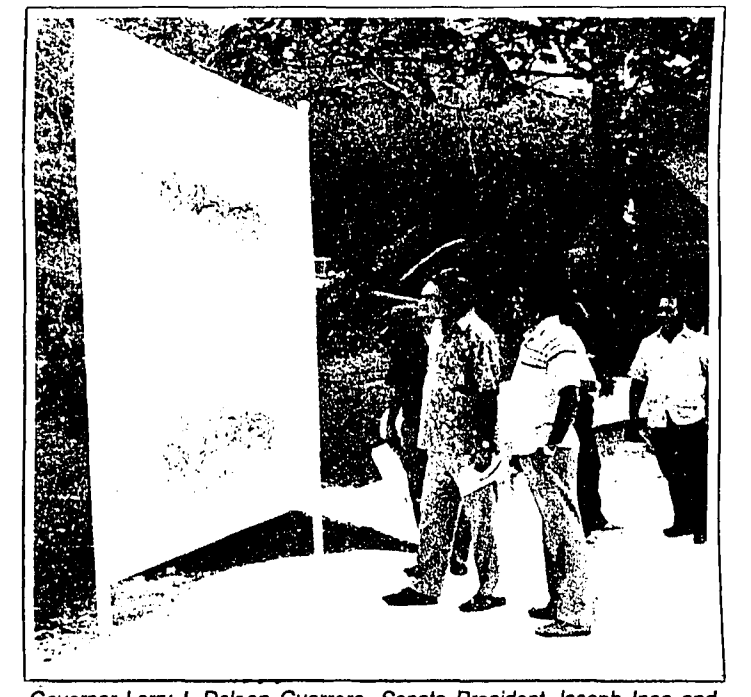

"Our desire to find a solution to this problem has been heightened by recent sightings of the snake in the CNMI," according to the testimony.

Cockfighting in Rota regulated

by R.B. Concepcion
Rota residents can now play cockfighting with ease...CNMI Governor Larry I. Guerrero signed Senate Local Bill 7-5, with that, cockfights in Rota will now be regulated and licensed. The bill, otherwise known as the Rota Cockfighting Act of 1990, was assigned Public Law no. 7-2. It was offered by Sen. Edward Maratita.

According to the Act, a Rota Cockfighting Board will be established and will be responsible in regulating the game. It will be composed of three appointed members by the Mayor of Rota. Each member, serving a term of two years, will serve without any compensation but will receive reimbursements spent at the time of their job performance. The Board will assist organization and individuals interested in promoting an "efficient" cockfight, enforce its rules and regulations, decide any dispute arising from cockfighting among many others.

On one side, Sen. Maratita introduced local bill 7-9 which will provide a curfew for "juveniles" on Rota. The proposed measure, also known as the Rota Curfew Act of 1991, argues that "enforcement of curfew hours for minors, and that the betterment of our community and the protection of our youth requires the establishment of such." According to the proposed measure, minors are not allowed to roam around in any public streets or roadways, places of amusement and eateries or vacant lots within the island of Rota "during and between" 9 in the evening and 5 in the morning. However, it clarified that minors accompanied by a parent or an adult person can be allowed to loiter during those hours. It further said that the proposed measure will not apply in theaters, sports arenas and places "where supervised entertainment, sports, or instruction for minors is conducted." Any violator of the proposed measure, once it is passed into law, will be charged with misdemeanor, the local bill provides.

50 to graduate from college this summer

More than 50 students will receive associate degrees and certificates of completion from the Northern Marianas College Sunday, making the class of 1991 the schools' largest ever, said a press release from the NMC.

NMC Director of Admissions Rose Igitol said, "Fifty-one students will receive diplomas and certificates in our tenth commencement, up from 42 last year."

She said that four students will receive associate of applied science degrees, 39 will get associate of art diplomas, and eight will receive certificates of completion.

The release said that twelve students will receive bachelor of Arta degrees from the University of Guam under a cooperative program with the NMC, coordinator Dr. Robert Stahlnecker said.

The baaalaureate mass for the NMC Class of 91 will be at 2 in the afternoon, Sunday at the Diamon Hotel Ballroom, said the release.

Student academic and leadership awards, which began in 1986, will be presented during the commencement exercises, Dean of Students Manny Borja said.

He said that the academic achievement award is given to the student with the top grade point average while the receipt of the leadership award is selected by a faculty and staff committee based on a student's leadership skills on campus.

Borja said that determining who should receive the leadership award can be difficult, the release provided.

"Some students work hard behind the scenes, staying out of the public eye," he said.

This year's keynote graduation speaker will be Dr. Dale Parnell, president of the American Association of COMMunity and Junior Colleges, and a former superintendent of public instruction in Oregon.

Parnell is nationally known for his 1985 book, "The Neglected Majority," which emphasizes the need to provide technical training and education to serve those "who keep this country working."

The release said that he has been a leading advocate of the "2+2" program, where students technical education is provided in a coordinated partnership between high schools and community colleges.

Appropriation of $3.4M for airport tower introduced

Washington Representative Juan N. Babauta sends his congratulations to Rep. George Miller for having been elected as a member of the US House of Representatives Interior Committee. Babauta, in his congratulatory letter, like wise thanked Miller for the support he has been extending to the CNMI regarding the added appropriation of $3.4

million more for the completion of Saipan airport's traffic control tower.

According to the Washington Rep., Miller's election into the committee "coupled with your concern for the political and economic welfare of the insular areas, bodes well for the people of the Marianas."

Babauta used the communication to say that the CNMI has "many big ticket infrastructure needs, but the control tower is a project that is of manageable proportions...Congress and the CNMI would both feel relieved to get this one wrapped up and put behind us."

Miller was also requested by Babauta to "confirm" and be in agreement with the Interior Committee Chairman Yates positive contention of approving CNMI request of $3.4 million additional funding for the airport tower.

Federal permit granted for swimming area, Rota

A federal permit has been granted to the CNMI by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) authorizing dredging in nearshore waters at the Pinatang island on Rota, to create a swimming area as a part of a public park development on the island, according to a press release from the USACE.

Under the permit, approximately 7,550 sq.ft. of intertidal reef flat will be dredged to remove approximately 330 cubic yards of sand, coralline, limestone and rubble, according to Lt. Col. Tim Wynn, the Honolulu District Engineer.

Dredging will be by backhoe and a small bulldozer working at low tide periods. Blasting is prohibited while dredging will be disposed of at an approved upland site.

"Other improvements permitted included a rock rubble mound in the dredged area to support the base of a water slide, a wooden deck supported on concrete piles to encircle the swimming area, and a series of pedestrian bridges to provide access to the facilities," Wynn said in the press release.

The application for the permit was publicized in January for public review and comments. Wynn said that the minor concerns raised during the evaluation period have been resolved satisfactorily. Special conditions are incorporated in the permit to protect the public interest in the nearshore waters, he said.

Prior to the dredging, any microinvertebrate must be removed and transplanted in similar habitats outside the project area. Dredging must also be conducted during low tide conditions and silt curtains must be used during dredging and filling activities if necessary, practicable and effective.

the day the "good" result was received.

The utilities corporation, in cooperation with the DEQ and Public Health, will soon work out a monitoring program for the incident not to occur again.

DEQ's Seman added that they are still working closely with the involved agencies to identify the "ultimate" source of the contaminants in the wells.

According to CHC's Untalan the probable cause of the contaminants termed as of "temporal nature", might be due to the materials used in the revitalization process applied to the wells.

Tap water for drinking and cooking can now be used as before, however, it is advised to boil them first.

Earlier reports provided that health risks associated with the contaminants affects on kids of 4 years and under, those still developing their nervous system.

10th annual DFS Tennis tourney, this month

A milestone in Commonwealth sports arrives this month with the beginning of the 10th Annual DFS Saipan Ltd. tennis event. This year's competition, to be held May 25-27 and June 1-2, is the longest running tournament in the Northern Marianas. Hosted by the Pacific Islands Club and the Saipan Diamond Hotel, the 10th anniversary event bears a new name, the "Micronesian Championships" in recognition of the growing regional significance of the oldest and most prestigious tourney on the island.

The tournament began way back in May of 1979, according to top tennis official Bobbi Grizzard, who played in the first ever Duty Free Shoppers tournament. Although no one could quite remember who took the winner's trophies that year, past champs include Franz Reksid and mark Fish. Irene Alpet has dominated the women's division most years since 1984, except 1988, when current SPG team member Hiroko Amemiya took the crown. Jeff Race has claimed a DFS title every year since 1988, when it became his first tournament win since moving to the island.

More importantly, note DFS coordinators Marian Aldan-Pierce and Lino Fritz, DFS tournaments have brought many hundreds of tennis enthusiasts together for more than a decade. Aldan-Pierce and Frits, participants in the earliest DFS events, continue to guide the tournament on behalf of the sponsor.

With over 100 entries expected, the 1991 DFS

Saipan Ltd. Micronesian Championships promises to be the largest tournament ever in the Commonwealth. From the beginners in the "C" division to the big guns in the "Open", the most international sport in the Commonwealth continues to provide fun, fitness and friendship for all those involved.

Antigo Club Dancers preparing for festival

The Antigo Club Dancers of Saipan are just one of the many groups that will be performing at this year's 10th annual Flame Tree Festival on June 1 and 2 at the American Memorial Park.

The Flame Tree Festival is also an audition for the 6th Pacific Festival of the Arts scheduled for Rarotonga, Cook Islands in October of 1992., according to a release from the CCAC.

The local dance group, an outgrowth of the Antigo Club at Marianas High School, was formed in 1980 and is directed by Frances Sablan, senior counselor at the MHS.

The group ranges in age from 12 to 35 and has performed traditional chamorrom dances in the CNMI, on Guam and in Japan.

The 22-member group hopes to be chosen for the FESTPAC and will help raise the $30,000 needed for airfare for the 150-member CNMI delegation to attend the festival in the Cook Islands.
