THE CAMPAIGN ON THE SEAS TO DATE.

The destruction of the great British battle ship Bulwark as she lay at Sherness dock yesterday morning adds another to the now rather formidable list of British warships lost during the war.

It is stated by the admiralty that the explosion was due not to a German torpedo or mine but to an accident in the transferring of ammunition. While Germany gains no victory in the destruction of this 15,000-ton fighting machine, the loss to England comes at a critical time.

Great Britain has now lost 21 warships since the war started. Of these the Bulwark was considerably the most effective as well as the largest. The next in size was the armored cruiser Good Hope, with a displacement of 14,100 tons, smashed in the naval engagement off Coronel, Chile. In this same engagement the British lost the armored cruiser Monmouth, 9800 tons, and the protected cruiser Glasgow, 4800 tons, fed to avoid certain destruction at the hands of the greatly superior German squadron. There have been conflicting reports as to the fate of the Glasgow, the last hinting that she made her escape to some unknown destination.

While the naval engagement off the Chilean coast marked the gravest defeat of Britain on the sea since the war started, her greatest actual loss in naval strength occurred in the torpedoing of the armored cruisers Aboukir, Hogue and Cressy in the North Sea. Each of these vessels was of 12,200 tons displacement. The loss of the armored cruiser Warrior, 13,700 tons, built in 1905, was a serious blow.

The list of losses during the war includes the Hermes, 5600 tons; the Arethusa, 3600; the Hawke, 7800; the Gloucester, 4900; the Fearless, 3500; the Pathfinder, 3000; the Amphion, 3500; the Druid, 770; the Laertes, 950; the Speedy, 800; the Phoenix, 770; the schoolship Fishguard and the submarine D-5.

With all these naval losses, Britain is not seriously damaged on the water. Her splendid navy rules the sea. With the exception of the German squadron operating somewhere on the Pacific—presumably in the eastern part of this vast ocean—nowhere is there a known active menace to British commerce. German ocean commerce has been wiped out, the German merchantmen either captured or bottled up. In comparison with the advantage gained, British naval losses have been slight.

On the other hand, for the number of her warships engaged in harrying the seas, Germany has done a tremendous amount of damage. The loss to England of her war-vessels is only part of the total toll taken by the German raiders. The Karlsruhe and the Emden destroyed merchantmen and cargoes worth more than $20,000,000, according to a recent estimate.

None of the naval battles to date have been more than minor. Not even the fight off the Chilean coast was a major engagement. Much has been done by the torpedo and the submarine. While German harriers have been dashing in and out of widely-distant ports, destroying, fleeing, destroying again, and while British squadrons and single vessels have been steaming on their ocean trail, the great British North Sea fleet has been blockading the German ports steadily and effectively.

Of late there have been rumors that the Germans were getting ready to come out and do battle with the battle-fleet on which England relies. That fight may mark the conclusive turning-point of the war.

END THE ROW!

Clean baseball in Honolulu is given a serious blow below the belt by the row that has arisen between Promoter Lowry and the Athletic Park management. The Star-Bulletin on Wednesday asked the park management for an authorized statement of its side of the case, to be met with the answer that the men who are fighting Lowry did not want to "thrash it out through the newspapers." To the general public, the allegations in the injunction papers mean little. The promoter willingly gives his side of the matter and from this angle, some very doubtful tactics are being played by the other side.

The Venice team has played splendid ball in Honolulu, its members have conducted themselves on and off the field like gentlemen, and it has won the appreciation of the thousands of fans in and around Honolulu. Thanks to the action of the Athletic Park management, these fans were deprived yesterday of their Thanksgiving baseball game. The public certainly does not appreciate the technicalities that the park management has brought up in making its sudden fight on the promoter.

There is no question that baseball is going to suffer by this mess. How much it is going to suffer depends on how long the row continues.

ENGLAND AND THE ZEPPELINS.

Speculating on the possibility of a Zeppelin raid on London, the Manchester Guardian says there is a noticeable feeling of "disappointment" in England over the non-appearance of these airships. While the Zeppelin would not be really welcome, there were those at home so humbering for excitement that as a whole England seemed ready to take the risk.

It was coldly calculated that even if fifty Zeppelins were sent over, their concentrated devastation could not cover more than six acres—or if they dropped all their bombs on the "square mile" that makes up the City of London proper "they could kill something under one in a hundred people who happened to be there.

"Over the whole of London, taking the Metropolitan Police area, the chances of escaping would be about 70,000 to one. Over what may be described as the central area of London, within which a Zeppelin might be expected to operate, the chances of escape would be about 15,000 to one."

"Personally, I think it would be a good job if the Zeppelins did come. Even if they did drop a few bombs, the stimulus to recruiting would be worth what little damage was done," says Frank Hedges Butler, who is founder of the Royal Aero Club.

A SPLENDID ADVANCE.

The County of Maui has taken a step in advance by the official act of its board of supervisors at a recent session in pronouncing a ban on booze so far as all persons employed by the county are concerned.

Hereafter no employe of any department shall be permitted, so the resolution states, during working hours to frequent a saloon under penalty of summary dismissal from county service, and all heads of departments are notified to inform the board of any such violation of said regulation that the offenders may be swiftly brought to justice.

The resolution states that this new ordinance is made for the sake of greater efficiency in the public service. Exactly. This is the new order of the day. Booze and the saloons must go for the sake of efficiency.

What argument could be stronger? Good for Maui!

The intelligent public of Oahu would surely back up the Honolulu board in a move of this kind, and it would mean a long step in advance towards the goal of an efficient and business-like control of public affairs.

ROOSEVELT WOULD MAKE AMERICA DRY.

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin: Sir: The following is an exact quotation from a great address delivered by Mr. Roosevelt to 5000 people of Columbus, Ohio, who filled and overflowed Memorial hall on the eve of election day:

"Whiskey and crooked politics unquestionably have strong mutual affinities, and it is natural that everywhere the liquor forces should line up against the Progressive party—sometimes behind one, sometimes behind the other, and sometimes behind both of the old parties. In the state this year a contest has been precipitated by the liquor men who have forced before the voters an amendment which, if successful, would mean the abolition of all effective control over the liquor traffic and the abdication of the state of all power to nullify the damage it does. The Progressive party alone has squarely and in the open come out to fight this amendment. I am glad that on their clear and tangible issue in the fight for decent social conditions the Progressive party has placed itself squarely on the right side and squarely against the two old parties. Of course, the whiskey interests are even more for the control of the legislature than for the control of the governor. It is crooked wisdom on their part and crooked folly on the part of their opponents to support a dry candidate for governor who shall have behind him a wet legislature. In such event the dry candidate for governor can accomplish nothing for temperance, while the liquor forces will have captured the governmental stronghold of which they most desire to take possession, namely, the legislative body of the state. The dry candidate for governor who seeks election from the liquor forces inevitably plays into their hands and whether willingly or unwillingly, deserts the cause of decent citizenship." James Rudolph Garfield, candidate for governor, and Arthur L. Garford, candidate for United States senator, voiced equal antipathy to the liquor program and equal support of the prohibition amendment.

"DRY"

boys or no Thanksgiving day newsboys' dinner. So Johnny Raposo stands along with Duke Kahanamoku and other world beaters.

The crowd was tired and happy and reasonably quiet when the cars arrived at 3:30 in the afternoon to take them back to town.

Fully 200 Star-Bulletin boys had a great dinner and a great day.

STAR-BULLETIN NEWSIES ENJOY THANKSGIVING

Only in Honolulu do boys celebrate Thanksgiving day by falling from a coconut tree.

So Johnny Raposo, Star-Bulletin newsboy, did it shortly after he had eaten his large Thanksgiving dinner yesterday noon at the public park.

This was the only incident of the great annual Star-Bulletin newsboy celebration that was not on the program. Otherwise the joys of the day were carried through according to schedule, even to the large tons of noise that were let loose all along the line of town travel which the boys took over the Rapid Transit lines previous to going to the park.

The cars started at 8:30 and there are 150 regular sellers on the newsboys' lists of the Star-Bulletin. It was about sunup when the boys began to gather at the Star-Bulletin office and when the time came to distribute the horns and flags, 200 was nearer the total number. Every boy, or most every one, has a brother or a friend that he wants to come along. Consequently the management has to provide for a surplus.

Two of the large closed cars were filled to overflowing for the three hours' ride through the town. Those who didn't see them must have heard 'em. The boys landed at the public park an hour before noon. And there more fun began.

The carrier boys and the other boys lined up their football teams and their baseball teams. The beach took a large share of the remainder, so there was something doing all the time. The boys were in charge of Mr. J. Bruce, head of the circulation department. He handled them as only newsboys can be handled—letting them run, which they did in most approved style.

Mr. Faithful of the Sweet Shop appeared on the scene with an automobile filled with Thanksgiving dinner. About the same time the Consolidated Soda water man arrived with an auto-load of sodawater. Immediately the boys lost interest in the game and prepared for the general assault on the dinner. Turkey with all the fixings was abundant. Then came the cake and pie and the apples and the final windup of a fine box of candy for every boy. They licked the platter clean and what they couldn't pack away inside their stomachs they stowed inside their shirts for future reference.

After dinner there was more play. This was the time when the boy fell from the coconut tree. He got on a branch that would not hold and fell to the ground in such a way that his arm was broken. An auto was summoned and the boy taken to the Queen's hospital, where he was soon made as good as new and sent to his home. It wasn't a pleasant experience but the boy certainly broke the world's newsboy record. No other newsboy has ever fallen out of a coconut tree on Thanksgiving day. In other parts of the world where they have newsboys they don't have coconut trees and where they have coconut trees they either have no news-

COAST DRUGGISTS GAIN BY REPORT OF POWDER RAISE

The price of home-made complexion is going up in Honolulu. It is getting more expensive there every day to hide the blemishes and the freckles. The war is causing a rise in the price of face powder in the island capital.

Island belles are finding it expensive to take the shine off their complexions. A small box of face powder now costs $1 in Honolulu.

Honolulu's feminine population is in a state of consternation. The cost of imitation complexions is going up on account of the war. Island belles and society matrons are finding it more expensive to hide their tan and freckles and blemishes. The situation is tense.

Over two mighty oceans the war has cast its effect. It has brought about a rise in the cost of face powder in Honolulu, thousands of miles away from the scene of hostilities. Until a few weeks ago, the price demanded in Honolulu pharmacies for a box of French powder was 85 cents. Now the price per box is $1.

News of this rise in price was brought to San Francisco by passengers of the Chiyo Maru. It spread like wildfire throughout San Francisco, and at once all the belles and matrons began besieging the drug stores to lay in a supply of the coveted complexion maker.

It is said that the manufacturers' supply of certain ingredients used in French face powder is running low and that owing to the war it is impossible to replenish the supply for the present.

What's Sauce for Big Men Is Sauce for Little Ones

Of course you recognize that advertising pays. That is the general principle.

But there are still some people in the world who think that such a maxim applies to the other fellow's business or at least is not exactly fitted to his.

That is a mistaken view. He might just as well decide to eliminate from his stock a necessity of life, because the great merchandisers of the great centers sell in quantities of millions where he cannot possibly sell more than ten.

Let the people know what you have for sale. That's all the big merchant does.

Remember what Gladstone said: "The Mint is the only business that can make money without advertising."

KAWAIAHAO SEMINARY TOMORROW TO CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

With picturesque and impressive pageant, with song and address, with exemplification of its varied activities, Kawaiahao seminary will commemorate its fiftieth anniversary tomorrow afternoon with exercises at the seminary.

The historical pageant will begin at 3 o'clock, the reception will be held from 4:30 to 6 o'clock, and the alumnae banquet will be held at 6.

It was announced today that if it rains tomorrow the reception and banquet will take place as planned, but the outdoor program will have to be postponed. Intermittent rains have been falling in Manoa for the last few days, varied by brilliant sunshine.

The program for tomorrow is as follows:

NEWSPAPER DAY TOMORROW; BUY THE PAPER EARLY

By arrangement with the Hawaii Promotion Committee the Star-Bulletin will furnish Carnival "stickers" with every paper sold over the counter at the Alakea street office tomorrow, News-paper day. These carnival stickers are miniature reproductions, brightly colored, of the 1915 carnival poster and are designed to be pasted on outgoing mail from islands. They will be an attractive addition to the papers you will mail to your friends tomorrow. It is impracticable to distribute these stickers through the newsboys, but anyone buying a paper on the street tomorrow will be supplied with stickers on application at the Alakea street office of the Star-Bulletin.

RAH! RAH! "SOAP-BOX" BARRON VISITS HARVARD AND YALE; COMING HOME

Charles Barron, well-known Democrat, has at last been heard from. It will be remembered that "Soap-box" went to Washington on a political mission not unconnected with party pie; was apparently unsuccessful, and then dropped out of sight. Now he reappears. Thus:

"Boston, Mass., Nov. 17, 1914. "Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin. "Sir: Shall leave for Honolulu today via Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Portland, San Francisco. Plenty of snow here now and Honolulu climate is my desire. Visited Yale and Harvard colleges. Prof. John Warren Edgerton of Yale, secretary of the faculty, sends his greetings to his former students, and tells me he will likely visit Hawaii next spring. My aloha to all.

"Yours very truly, "CHARLES BARRON." "P. S.—All over New England one sees signs as follows: "Libby's Hawaiian Pineapple."

Tomorrow, November 28, is Newspaper day and the Star-Bulletin and Advertiser will issue special editions to carry out the "Advertise Hawaii" plan of the Hawaii Promotion Committee.

The committee's plan is that residents or visitors here shall mail tomorrow's papers to their friends elsewhere. The editions tomorrow will be devoted largely to facts, descriptive articles and illustrations.

The Star-Bulletin's special sections tomorrow will carry primarily authoritative information about Hawaii in the form of well-written articles by men thoroughly in touch with conditions here as they are of interest and importance to tourists.

A few weeks from now the Star-Bulletin will issue its great Panama-Hawaii industrial edition, a special issue with the finest illustrations on book-paper ever produced in Hawaii. In order not to duplicate this edition, tomorrow's Promotion issue is along different lines—distinctly newspaper lines.

The list of contents includes:

"Efforts are again being made for the dredging of a channel from the harbor of Honolulu into Kaiti Harbor, island of Oahu, to provide more and needed dock facilities and anchorage. A partial survey has been made, but an appropriation has not yet been obtained.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE INDORSES FORBES' PLAN FOR LARGER HARBOR

The Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, through its maritime affairs committee, endorsed Superintendent Charles R. Forbes' plan for a larger harbor at its meeting last Wednesday afternoon. The new plan, as explained by the superintendent of public works, differs quite materially from the one approved by the civic and government officials and bodies last August, but it now has approval of the governor, the Chamber of Commerce and it is regarded as almost certain that it will be endorsed by the federal authorities whose word should carry some weight at Washington.

As outlined by Forbes the scheme, proposing a 3200-foot bulkhead wharf space along Sand Island, was explained by the Star-Bulletin several days ago, at the time the harbor board and Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company's officials approved it. In his letter to the governor, discussing the project, Superintendent Forbes says:

"The war in Europe must have some important effect on American commerce. The European war of 100 years ago created America's merchant marine. The present war may revive it, and in any case, must certainly encourage American shipping. How much Honolulu will benefit from this is problematical, but it is inconceivable that her port tonnage would be decreased by such an event.

There are several vessels under the English flag of the Canadian-Australian line regularly scheduled for Honolulu, but owing to the hostilities, these vessels have not made Honolulu a port of call, but upon the cessation of the war they will again be placed on their regular schedules.

"The detailed plan for the enlargement of Honolulu harbor has been worked out by the U. S. engineer's office here and has been the subject of discussion at Washington several times. Superintendent Forbes' plan is, of course, a change of a federal plan, but deals with matters within the jurisdiction and suggestion of the territorial authorities.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota. "I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and had a headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. P. W. LANSENG, Route No. 1, Florence, South Dakota.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The propellers of aeroplanes such as are used in the present European war may be made of selected ash, which is both strong and light and will not split under vibration or shock, or of built-up layers of spruce with mahogany centers. The framework of the machines, too, is generally made of wood, spruce being much used on account of its straight grain and freedom from hidden defects.

It is said that the German invaders of Belgium, whatever else they may have destroyed, have been careful not to injure park trees. The cavalrymen, so a report goes, are forbidden to tie their horses to trees for fear that the animals will gnaw the bark. Germany was the first nation to apply forestry on a large scale, some of the crown forests having been under scientific management for over a hundred years.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF Girls! Try H! Hair gets soft, fluffy and luxuriant at once—No more falling hair

If you care for heavy hair, that glimmers with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. It eventually—why not now?—advertisement.

SEATS FOR BIG LEAGUE GAMES READY MONDAY Plans for the staging of what will be the biggest baseball feature ever brought off in Hawaii, the exhibition games of the All-National and All-American teams, are rapidly maturing.

Alfred L. Castle, who has entire charge of the venture, made the following statement this morning:

"On Tuesday morning, December 1, the All-American and All-National baseball teams will arrive in Honolulu for a series of games to be played at Moiliili field. These are the two greatest teams that have ever visited the Hawaiian Islands and deserve hearty support from all baseball fans.

"Season tickets will be on sale at the Gunst cigar store Monday morning, such sale lasting for one day only. If for any reason people desiring such tickets cannot attend the sale they can phone me, and I will try to arrange for seats. Season tickets will be sold for the games on December 2, 5, 6, 10, 12, 13. There is a possibility, however, that the game scheduled for the 10th will be played on the 8th, so in that case transfer will of course be allowed."

The scale of prices is as follows: Boxes (six seats) $50 for the season. Center of section B or first row of section A, $9 for the season, or $1.50 per game. Remainder of sections B and A and first row of section C, $6 for the season, or $1 per game. Remainder of section C $4.50 for the season, or 75 cents per game. Prices of bleacher seats will be announced on consultation with Mr. Bancroft of the All-Nationals. Underneath the stand rests and standing room will be reserved for Oahu league players and officials, certain seats at 75 cents and standing room at 50 cents.

"Demand for seats has been heavy, but owing to the fact that I did not wish to interfere with the Venice team no seats have been sold as yet," said Castle.

'MAGGIE PEPPER' GOES OVER 'BIG' AND OVATION IS GIVEN PLAYERS

Florence Oakley, leading lady of the All-Star Company that opened a return engagement to a packed house at the Bijou theater last night.

"Maggie Pepper" made her local debut at the Bijou theater last night, and the occasion of her appearance brought to Mr. George Webb, Miss Florence Oakley and the other members of the Players All-Star Company an enthusiastic ovation from a large audience. "Maggie Pepper" is a play, of course, and a very worth-while one. The company which the management has brought to Honolulu this time is stronger in many ways than the one which these popular thespians played with here last year; this is undoubtedly the opinion of those who saw the opening performance last night, in spite of the absence of Miss Inez Kagan and other favorites.

Charles Klein wrote "Maggie Pepper" for Rose Stahl, and the manner in which Miss Oakley handled the title role last night is beyond criticism. Miss Oakley is not called upon to handle an emotional part to any great extent, the lines fitting into a more go-as-you-please style, with a dash and a vim that is pleasing and interesting. The entire play "got over" well.

There are many gripping scenes in "Maggie Pepper"; the play is the tale of a New York shopgirl who aspires for higher things after 15 years of work, and who sees her wishes gratified, only to become the victim of a plot which eventually costs her her position.

In "Maggie Pepper" each member of the company has work to do, and there was not a role last night, however small, which was not handled in a manner which predicts a bright future in Honolulu for the Players—and the audiences. George Webb and Miss Oakley received hearty welcomes.

'BURIED' ACTS ARE BEST ON BILL OF VAUDEVILLE AT THE POPULAR

"The Great Duncan," assisted by Miss Maxine Hewitt, "the mental marvel," is not the headliner on the vaudeville program at the Popular theater after this week—but he should be. While another "great" is on the bill—the great Jansen-Duncan is the "greater" and, together with Senor Serra, "The Safer Alcht," he makes the bill "go over."

Duncan is billed as "America's foremost hypnotist" and it is a safe gamble that he is as good as any in the business. His work is clean-cut and entertaining and he keeps the audience in an eager state the entire time he is on the stage, while Miss Hewitt, under the control of Duncan, performs a number of wonderful mind-reading feats. The act is entirely too good to be "buried" and by rights should "close" the bill. George M. Cohan says "Leave 'em all a laughing when you say good-bye," and Duncan "does it."

Senor Serra has one of the most thrilling aerial acts ever put on any stage anywhere and, when it is considered that he has crossed the half-century milestone, his work becomes even more marvelous.

Joe Ross, "The Trump Mardian," is a wonder with the harmonica, and when they made their initial appearances, and at the end of the second act the members of the entire company were bedecked with leis.

"Maggie Pepper" depicts the efforts of a shopgirl to "get somewhere." In the Holbrook department store Maggie Pepper (Miss Oakley) after 15 years of work aspires to the position of buyer for the house, but the air-castles which she has built crumble suddenly when John Harzen (Guy Hiltner), the manager, informs her that he has another person for the position. Seated in the stockroom, Maggie is at work when Joe Holbrook (well played indeed by Mr. Webb), the young owner of the store, just returned from a trip to Europe, comes in and spends several minutes in conversation with Maggie, not knowing that he is the owner of the store, takes him for an applicant for the position, and some terse humor is introduced. Then Maggie, who has ideas of her own and who is a thorough business woman, grows serious, and tells Joe how she thinks the store should be run. Shortly after Maggie receives notification of her dismissal.

It later develops that Holbrook is engaged to marry the niece of the manager of the store, Ethel Hargen (Miss Olga Gray), and it also develops that it was the manager, and not Holbrook, who discharged Maggie. Maggie is not discharged, however, but is given the position of buyer by Holbrook.

It is at this point in the play that the plot develops and gradually works to a climax. Holbrook's daily associations with Maggie arouse the jealousy of the manager's niece, who conspires with her uncle to discharge Maggie. Maggie finally is discharged by the manager and takes up her residence in a flat with her niece, Zaza (Miss Helen Carew) whom she has rescued from relatives who desire her to become a shoplifter or worse.

James Darkin (Jack Fraser), step-father of Zaza, comes to Maggie's apartment at night and demands more money from Maggie as pay for her having the privilege of keeping the girl. Holbrook, who has been in the apartment in an intoxicated condition, and who has insisted that Maggie marry him, is concealed in another room. Maggie had planned to go to Europe and take with her Zaza and the girl's mother, Ada Darkin (Miss Bertha Dreicer), who would reform. Darkin demands to know the whereabouts of his wife and daughter, and goes in the room where Holbrook is concealed. The two engage in a fight and Holbrook is shot.

Holbrook becomes "lost" for 10 days, as far as the newspapers are concerned, but finally is found by Mrs. Thatcher (Miss Marie Van Tassel), the drygoods store detective. With his engagement to Ethel Hargen broken, Holbrook is left free, and the consent of Maggie to marry him brings the play to the expected climax.

Pathe has but a small part in "Maggie Pepper," humor creeping into the majority of the lines. As Jack Rothschild, the Jewish merchant, Bert Chapman is good, and keeps things moving by popping up at the most unexpected moments.

"Maggie Pepper" is well worth seeing, and, according to George Webb's curtain talk, the Players have many more plays of this type, some better, he says, for Honolulu. —H. D. C.

McDUFFIE QUALIFIES AS "HOP LAYOUT" EXPERT

"Opium," a pipe for smoking the opium, an additional bowl for the pipe, a needle for taking the opium from its container, a lamp enclosed in a glass globe with a hole in the top over which the opium is cooked, scissors for trimming the wick of the lamp, a sponge for wiping the opium residue from the bowl of the pipe, and a small tin for holding the residue.

All these things complete the paraphernalia which is necessary for one to enjoy opium smoking, according to a statement made on the witness stand in the federal court Wednesday by Captain of Detectives Arthur McDuffie during the trial of Cheong Kee, charged with smuggling and smoking the poppy drug.

When McDuffie had enumerated these various appliances, it was decided by the court that he had qualified as an expert on matters pertaining to a "hop layout."

"You forgot to mention the oil in the lamp," said Attorney W. T. Rawlins, counsel for the defense.

"And the wick in the lamp," added the captain of detectives.

"They generally use peanut oil in those lamps, don't they?"

"They do."

McDuffie declared—and even swore, finally—that the substance which he found in Cheong Kee's bedroom in the rear of his store on King street is opium. Then there developed the question as to how McDuffie knew the substance was opium. McDuffie said he knew it was opium by its smell, and taste.

"A man must be a user of opium to be qualified to tell whether a substance is opium or not," declared Attorney Rawlins. "How can a man tell by looking at it?" He went on to say that, in another opium case, Judge Clemons had ruled that a government analysis was the only manner in which it could be determined whether a substance was opium. Later, said Rawlins, the judge reversed his decision and said that a man who smoked opium was qualified to tell whether a substance was the poppy drug—a person who knows the taste of opium and its ingredients.

"Have you ever smoked opium, Mr. McDuffie?" asked Rawlins.

"No, sir," answered the chief.

"Did you ever make an arrest and get a substance that you thought was opium, and which turned out to be a mixture of pot and molasses?"

"No, sir."

"How can you tell opium?" was the next question.

"The smell distinguishes it," answered McDuffie. "You can plainly taste the strychnine in it. Strychnine has a bitter taste."

"Do you know of any other substance that has a bitter taste?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you ever take any anti-billious liver pills?"

"No, sir."

At this point, Judge Dole said that opium had an acute smell, and that a person used to opium smoke could tell if a substance being smoked was opium or not. He said that there is nothing else in the islands that smells like opium smoke.

Finally, experts were called in to determine what substance was opium, and was substance was not.

The jury evidently came to the conclusion that the substance which McDuffie found in Cheong Kee's room was opium, for Cheong Kee was declared guilty, and Judge Dole imposed a fine of $100 on the defendant.

POSTERS WILL SHOW WORK OF 'DRY' FORCES

New bulletin boards have made their appearance in public places about the city. They belong to the Anti-Saloon League and are intended for the use of posters in the interests of temperance. At present the boards show a large map of the United States entitled, "Make the Map all White." This in itself is a most impressive showing of the great nation-wide sweep of the prohibition movement.

It took half a century to get nine prohibition states—then in this year 1914, five came over in a bunch. Of the seven states which voted in the recent election on statewide prohibition the "drys" were Virginia, Colorado, Oregon, Washington and Arizona. Four of these are woman suffrage states. There are now 14 prohibition states, nine of which have outlawed the liquor traffic by constitutional enactment.

GUS SCHUMAN SAYS GERMANS ARE CONFIDENT

In a San Francisco interview, Local Man Tells of European Situation

That all the people in Germany are confident of the outcome of the war; that there is plenty of money and that the crops, which will feed the population for nine and one-half months, are all gathered by the men who have not gone to war, are some of the statements made by Gustave Schuman of Honolulu, who has just returned from Europe. He is a prominent automobile dealer, who has lived in Hawaii for 39 years, since he came from Germany as a lad of 17. He left Honolulu last April and practically all of the time since he has spent in Europe, having left Germany for home October 1, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

"The idea which seems to prevail here that all the men in Germany are in the army and that the women are doing all the manual work in the country is wrong," said Schuman. "In Dresden, for instance, where I was born, a city the size of San Francisco, there are nearly as many men seen on the street as in this city. All that can be noticed is that there are not so many young men as there are middle-aged men on the streets.

"It is so in the other towns and cities of the country. Germany is nearly self-sustaining, for the crops each year, the average ones, will feed the entire population for nine and one-half months. Germany's needs are bare now; the crops are all gathered, and the work has been done since the war commenced."

Speaking of the probable losses of the Germans in the fighting with the Allies, Schuman said that there was no way of telling what they were. The Germans, he said, gave out but little information of their losses and any figures that the Allies give out for them are guesses only.

Big War Loan Floated. "There is a feeling of confidence everywhere in the country," he continued. "An immense war loan was floated just before I left Germany, and the people there had not been told of the fall back from Paris which the Allies had compelled the Germans to make."

Schuman is an American citizen. He said that the idea of American citizens of German birth having to serve in the German army against their will if they were in that country was all talk and nothing else.

He will leave for his home in Honolulu next week, after being absent nearly eight months.

WOULD-BE PEARL HUNTERS WOULD LEAVE HONOLULU

Were to Go Hunting Only For Shells, Not Gems, Allege Adventurers Three

In compliance with an affidavit filed today in the office of the clerk of the federal court, Charles Howard, Samuel R. Palmer and Arthur Fields, erstwhile expeditioners to the Admiralty islands in search of pearls, and who recently filed a suit for damages against Capt. George Frair of the schooner Jessie Fremont for breach of marine contract, this afternoon are giving testimony in the federal court before Judge Charles F. Clemons regarding what they know about Capt. Frair's expedition which, they allege, started from San Diego, but came to an abrupt end at Honolulu.

In the affidavit it is set forth that the adventurers three, being destitute from the fact that they were discharged from the Jessie Fremont by Capt. Frair and given no compensation for their labors while sailing from San Diego to Honolulu, wish to leave Honolulu as soon as they can ship on some vessel. A preliminary hearing of the libel was held by Judge Clemons Wednesday afternoon, at which time the court amended the order to seize the Jessie Fremont, in that the date of the return to be made by Capt. Frair has been set for December 16 instead of a week from today.

Howard, Fields and Palmer, accompanied by their attorney, spent some time in the federal building this morning. The adventurers would talk but little. They say they think the newspapers have treated them very severely in the matter. They further say that there is another side to the story—their side—and that, thus far, the newspapers have published only Capt. Frair's side. However, they promptly turned down an offer made to publish their side of the case.

The adventurers three claim that, when they entered into the contract at San Diego to go to the Admiralty islands with Capt. Frair, it was understood by them that they were to go in search of pearl shells, not pearls.

They claim that Capt. Frair told them that pearl shell was selling for $3 a pound in Chicago, and that broken shell would bring $1 a pound in the same city. Chicago, they say the captain told them, is a great market for pearl shell.

There is a rumor afloat that Capt. Frair is making arrangements with Max Schlemmer whereby the two will refit the schooner Helene and journey southward in search of pearls which, as Capt. Frair once told Marshal J. J. Smiddy, may be scooped from the bottom of the ocean by the shovel full within 500 miles of Honolulu.
