France and America

Eloquent and Beautiful Tributes to the Great French Nation by Eminent Speakers.

Archbishop Ireland's Speech.

Archbishop Ireland was then introduced to respond to "France and the United States." He spoke first in English and then in French, displaying great earnestness in all that he said. His speech was, in part, as follows:

"Far down the coming ages may this toast be spoken in the richness of joyous life, from which it now goes forth from our souls, France and the United States—the words are rapturous in their music. Banner of France, banner of the United States, enwreathed with one another in fondest embrace, you but symbolize the hearts that quiver beneath your folds. (Applause.)

"The union of to-night is not born of a moment. It is the result of neither circumstances nor diplomatic negotiations. Fields crimsoned with blood witnessed its early throbbing, purposes most holy breathed into its life an inspiration. The old days are back to us. Rochambeau and Lafayette; the vessels of France sweeping up the Chesapeake; the French swords gleaming beneath the sunshine of the American sky.

"Oh, the tale those days tell! The Declaration of Independence had been spoken, a new Nation had sprung into being, when, alone and unaided, the fighters for American liberty faced dismay and defeat. France then arose and in the goodness of her heart determined that the American Republic should live and conquer. Then France made our cause her own. (Applause.)

"Without France, it is the verdict of history, the American Revolution was a failure. France, with her money, her army, her navy, gave us our independence. Her name is in our most cherished annals. Turn the Republic into ashes, blot America out of existence, bury her beneath the ruins that accumulate above the memory of her faded glory—and then only will we forget France.

"Alas for the land that the green flag symbolizes. Its people hold no place among the nations of the earth. When they wish to serve justice and liberty, they must mass under the flags of other lands. But Ireland, as well as France, helped America to gain her liberty.

And I charge you, Sons of St. Patrick, see to it that in Washington City, near the monuments to Lafayette and Rochambeau, there be erected a monument to some Irish soldier to commemorate the part Ireland took in the Revolutionary War.

"France helped the United States to establish democracy, and, say what you will, the future of the world belongs to democracy. Here is a wreath tying you together—France and the United States. To-night the United States is a great Nation. The world marvels. We marvel ourselves. But she is a democracy, standing for liberty and order. Wherever the flag goes, our hearts will go. She has not changed. All nations pay her court to-day, but when she was poor and

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

In the cause of fusion among the Home Rule and Democratic parties, if such is being thought of and considered, we will endeavor to give advice gratis without the asking. While undertaking to do so unsought for, we hope we will not offend anyone nor tread upon somebody's corns.

Of the three political parties in the field, the Democratic is the weakest. Being aware of such fact, is it just to expect that the strongest should come in under the weakest? We think not, and we feel that the weakest ought to give way to the strongest, even if that means the merging of the weak into the strong by bearing the other's name. What's in a name anyway?

If the Democrats expect to control politics in this Territory and be of some influence, we can see no other way for them to do but to become Home Rulers. If they want to control native votes, then it means that they must give way to a great deal by permitting their Territorial Committee to be controlled by Hawaiians, even to the chairmanship.

When they can do these things conscientiously and without any feeling whatsoever, but in good grace, then and then only can we see their possibility of controlling native votes, otherwise they will always remain nil and stay pat. When they can be so gracious as to concede to Hawaiian Democrats the control and the preponderating majority, it will only be a question of time when the Democratic name and banner will wave over the Hawaiian party, for the great majority of Hawaiians are naturally patriotic Democrats.

And in so doing, the haole

Democrats must bury self for the nonce and vote for joint Home Rule and Democratic candidates, then will they succeed and the party become paramount. But if they were to act as some dyad-in-the-wool Democrats did at the recent bye election by voting for the opponent or by refraining from voting, then they will fail always to carry.

The Democratic party may be able to put forward the best candidates, both haole and native, still they (the haoles) are a hopeless minority in the politics of this Territory. Their only salvation is by submission and fusion with the stronger party who controls the Hawaiian votes, to be ultimately redeemed by tact, conversion and education to party fealty and principles, and when we can enter into national politics and have a say in affairs, then and then only will we be of either party in national politics. Otherwise it will be nil or nil, just as it may be taken.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

THE INDEPENDENT will join its American friends in the celebration of their national day tomorrow and will accordingly stop its pyrotechnical display in printer's ink for the day and will not issue in order to give our devil another day of jollification in less than a month.

Tomorrow is the day of days to Americans. It is the real American national holiday, but it is not ours—Hawaiians to the manner born. But since we've become bastard Americans, yes, and that most unwillingly and without choice, we feel that we ought to do like the rest of the good Americans and celebrate the day. Therefore, we will celebrate it as in the past, and yell and shout, not very lustily as it might be if we were real and good earnest Americans—but anyway, Hurrah! Too-too!

THE INDEPENDENT opines that the alleged choice of the Democrats for the chairmanship of the Territorial Committee, made vacant by the resignation of Col. McCarthy, if it is carried out as intended, would be a mistake and a most dangerous course for the future progress and activity of that party. Mr. E. B. McClanahan may be available and a good man for the position, as he is most capable and quite competent to cope with their political aspirations, whatever those may be. He is a most strenuous and energetic worker, but very arrogant, domineering, dictatorial and overbearing. And furthermore, his associations are against him, and that alone of itself will not draw native voters to assimilate with his party and accept its principles and teachings. Democrats, go slow and digest our advice, elsewhere given, well before doing anything rash and detrimental to the party. Better take your cue from THE INDEPENDENT. "A stitch in time saves nine."

And so the inquisitiveness of THE INDEPENDENT has been noticed and answered by the Advertiser this morning, but we think the excuse very lame and tame. Of course, as the job office of the Morning Glory did not turn out the job of printing the invitations, it has a reason to poke abuse at the get up of the same. It says that "one reason is that the printer's spelling needed correction; the other that the typography looked as if the job had been set up with bullets and printed on a cider press." Why were not the "printer's spelling" noticed before their issuance? But as to the other, we agree with our contemporary. The job was bum and printed on cheap Bristol board. Any beer saloon would have issued a much neater and better cards than those invitations. Even the one horse job department of this paper would have turned out a much better job. It seems that the committee on invitations are guys of the cheapest kind and are unbecomingly patriotic Americans. There are other reasons, one of them being that the Governor objected to the promiscuous issuance of them to every "Tom, Dick and Harry" who may apply for them, and therefore, took the matter out of the committee's hands, but under his immediate control, so we are informed. Other reasons may follow later.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

How America's National Day Will be Celebrated Here.

Oh, wake me early, mother, dear, on Fourth of July morn;
You'll find that I've to bed my shoes and trousers also worn.
The punk is by my bedside; the fire-crackers there, too, lay,
For I can't miss one minute's fun on Independence day.
Kiss me tonight, and hurry up and let me go to sleep,
For all the fun I've got to have would make an awful heap.
And all day long I'll make more noise than Dewey's famous fight.
Hi yah! Gee whiz! Hurrah! Ho! Ho!

What fun, mamma! Goodnight!
The celebration in commemoration of the birth of the American Union, which will be held tomorrow in every section of the earth under the dominion of the Stars and Stripes, will be duly observed in Honolulu. The pyrotechnic display, the enthusiasm of the people, the noise of the small boys, the decorations, the sports, the speech making, everything will be on the program of celebration of the day on the Pacific Islands, near America's shores, the same as heretofore, even when under the hated monarchy.

The day will commence by the great parade. At 9 o'clock tomorrow morning U. S. troops, the Hawaiian National Guard, the labor organizations and others will march through the streets to the martial tunes of the Bands, and in presence of an admiring populace. The Government and Catholic Mission Bands, with perhaps the Portuguese, will furnish the music.
At 11 o'clock a literary and musical program will be rendered at the Opera House, which will be presided over by Governor Dole. Addresses will be delivered by Charles L. Hopkins and Frank E. Thompson. Mrs. Agatha Kelley will sing "Columbia, the gem of the Ocean," and David Kamaoaha will read the Declaration of Independence.

In the afternoon, on the campus of Oahu College, all kinds of sports will be provided the Hawaiian Band being in attendance. The H. A. C's will play the Paauhau and the Customs will line up with the Artillerys. There will also be a hundred yards and a two hundred and twenty yards dashes, a hammer throw, a sack race, a pota'o race, a shot put and a wheelbarrow race. Trophies or their cash equivalents will be offered for the winners. It costs nothing to see any and all of them during the whole afternoon.

The fire works will illuminate the skies at 8 o'clock in the evening. The Governor will receive between 8:30 and 9:30, the grand march for the ball commencing at 9:30.

The Hawaiian Band will furnish the music for the dancing.

THE INDEPENDENT 50 cents per month.

Catholic Benevolent Union.

At a meeting of the Catholic Benevolent Union of Hawaii held last evening at the Union hall, the following officers were unanimously elected to serve for one year: president, J. F. Eckardt; first vice-president, F. C. Betters; second vice-president, C. McGonagle; recording secretary, F. D. Creedon; financial secretary and treasurer, Father Valentio; sergeant-at-arms, A. S. Nascimento. Board of Directors: W. F. Erving, A. E. Murphy, S. J. Salter, Julius Ashe, Dr. W. Jennings, J. W. McDonald and C. H. Rose.
A donation of $50 was received by the Union from the Holy Ghost Society.

Chairman of the Home Rulers.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Home Rule party the evening before last, the younger element of the party managed to control things their own way. They first elected Jesse P. Makainai, a representative of the Fifth District, a member in place of the late J. K. Kaulia, and secondly, they again elected him as chairman in the place made vacant by Kaulia's death. There is no doubt at all that the new element in those ranks are making themselves heard and felt.

Where is the Mohican?

When the shipping expert of the Advertiser quits his guessing and prophetic work as to the cause for the non arrival of the Mohican then the training vessel, who is not a mail packet, may be seen looming up in the horizon, taking things easy in a general way. It may be though that during a southwester, all hands went down below for breakfast at 3 o'clock in the morning, and never came up again. Perhaps! Who knows!

The two Christian associations have called off their picnic intended for tomorrow up in Maunaloa valley.

Today is the fourth anniversary of the battle of Santiago, and the annihilation of the Spanish fleet.

The train which will bear the public to the Peninsula in time for the races leaves Honolulu at 8:45 tomorrow morning.

IN MEMORIAM.

Anniversary of One of the Most Appalling Marine Disasters of Modern Times.

TO MOTHER DEAR.

If life be only presence here on earth:

If life be merely being in the flesh; If life be finding out the dearth Of worldly good, and fullness of the bad—

Then what is death?

To be forgotten soon, and cast from memory's view,

With older, darker thoughts, to make more room for new?

Or mayhap living o'er again our sorrows here,

Or future life of bliss in an eternal sphere?

When shall we know?

If death be recompense for sorrows deep;

If death be longing for the ones who weep;

If death be endless, sweet eternal sleep—

Speak, ye who know.

In life and death all travel toward God's throne;

His hands reach out to draw us gently home;

He, at our journey's end, gives peaceful rest;

His heart the only homeland of the blest—

This much we know.

—J. B. S.

Four years ago tomorrow morning just at the break of day, the beautiful French line steamer La Bourgogne with more than 700 passengers on board, was run down by the iron sailing ship Cromarty shire and sunk within a half hour, carrying with her to the ocean's bottom over 500 of her passengers and crew.

The crash came at 5 o'clock in the morning, when, in a dense fog, the ocean greyhound collided with the Cromartyshire and passed on in the gray light to plunge to the bottom, drawing down its helpless victims in the whirling surge that marked the spot where she had floated.

In the few minutes that elapsed between the shock and the disappearance the greater horror of the disaster was enacted. In an instant the quiet deck of the liner was transformed into an inferno. Women who obstructed the way of strong men to the boats were struck down with knives. The steerage had contained many Italians, and it seemed as though in the face of death a thirst for blood came upon them. Right and left their weapons flashed and trampled bodies marked their course.

One raft on which forty women were placed, and according to the only woman survivor, the mother and sister of the writer among them, had been made fast to the ship's side. It was dragged down by the ship and all on it perished. Not one man would pause to cut the lines and give them life!

The officers,—may they rest in peace,—to a man went down with the ship.

Mr. Lacasse, was the only saloon and cabin passenger who survived and his wife was the only woman of 300 in the whole ship who escaped. They are now living at Plainfield, N. J. Nearly all of the Italian and Assyrian steerage passengers saved their lives by capturing the boats.

Among those who went down with the ship were Mrs. Sabate and Miss Charlotte Sabate, mother and sister of Jean B. Sabate of this city.

A memorial service for the repose of their souls will be celebrated at the Roman Catholic Cathedral at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning. Requiescat in Pace.

Band Concert at the Moana Hotel this evening.

The special car of the regatta officials and members of the press will leave the city at 8 o'clock sharp tomorrow morning. The newspapermen will be given a place in the judges launch which will follow the shells from the starting point to the finish.

A Great Island Tramp.

The grand "pedestrian" tour of the Y. M. C. A. ended at Kahuku and the train did the rest. The party was scheduled to walk to Waialua and back, but even the feat performed recently by two young ladies of Oahu College, who footed it all the way from Honolulu to the Halsewa Hotel in record time could not be equalled by the "athletes" of the Y. M. C. A.

It took two days to for party to reach Kahuku. There they rested a whole night, and held a council of war as to how to make the remainder of the trip. Their feet were sore, and their light clothing was soaked through with perspiration. A beer saloon was dangerously near and attractive, and contained the means to alleviate a cruel thirst, but it is said that the young men resisted the temptation.

An old native who was in Honolulu on Kamehameha Day and who knew a thing or two happened to come along and noticed the sad plight of the tramps. Kindly he suggested that a telephone could be found in the mill with which they could connect with the office of those "queer looking things they have in Honolulu, who make puff, puff, and go without horses." He was nearly mobbed.

Something was said about an airship, but nothing came out of it. Finally a train of the Oahu Railway and Land Co. hove in sight and the burly tramps breathed easier. Tickets were purchased, and the train puffed away to Honolulu, giving Waialua a last fond look after they had passed it.

The INDEPENDENT last night tried to get an interview with some of the party but they could not be found. They locked themselves up in their rooms, sent for doctors, and denied themselves to all callers. Another big "tramp" is scheduled for tomorrow and it is said that stretchers and a medicine chest will be carried along.

The First Local Mint.

One of the institutions here which has the special attention of tourists as well as the local people is the Mint, which is established on Nuuanu street, opposite Queen Emma Hall. It is interesting to enter the large main working room where general manager McDonough and his corps of assistants are at work. The cool and large lanai is a proper resting place and the vaults, where the "bars" to be minted and beer are kept present a very tasty spectacle. The Mint is open from 5:30 a. m. to 11:30 p. m. and during those hours the work never ceases. Visitors after looking over the place will find first class refreshments and the purest of liquors.

Jas. D. McIneray departed in the Moana yesterday en route for Germany on a long vacation.

France and America.

destitute France only smiled upon her. (Great applause.) The union between America and France is cemented in blood. And I tell you, gentlemen from France, say this to your country when you go back home; tell her that America does not forget her." (Long continued applause.)

Bourke Cockran's Tribute.

W. Bourke Cockran was introduced as America's greatest living orator. His subject was "France and Ireland." When he arose all the guests arose and cheered him. The orchestra played "The Wearing of the Green," and everybody cheered all the more. Mr. Cockran said he was a sick man, but he would have risen from his deathbed to be present on that occasion.

"The most impressive fact about this whole matter," said the speaker, continuing, "is that for the first time in history a country went to the rescue of another without any hope of gain.

"The intervention of France was as remarkable for what she failed to do as for what she did. When the victory was won, she made no demand for remuneration, no demand for a coaling station, no demand for any advantage on our shores.

"Her heroes were as generous in peace as invincible in war. The expedition brought France to the verge of ruin, but they gave us liberty and left us to enjoy it. (Applause.) The achievement stands alone in the history of nations. It is the supreme contribution to human history which has been made in the whole history of the race.

"It has been said that for a nation to draw the sword in behalf of abstract justice is quixotic. But we find that what man has done for the love of mankind remains permanent and fruitful, but what he does for love of conquest is ineffective and perishes. These cities, these fertile valleys of ours, are monuments to France.

"Here, indeed, is a new France. Not a new France in the way it would have been conceived in past ages; not a dependency, but a new France as Louis XVI helped us to make it, as Lafayette and Rochambeau helped us to make it.

"To understand why this republic endures to-day while nearly every other republic in the history of the world has met with confusion and disaster; where there is no pomp of ceremony or power yet where the laws are obeyed implicitly, we must go to underlying principles.

"Upon what does this Government rest. This Republic is stable and secure because it is built upon the moral law. We cannot find it in the Declaration of Independence, in the Bill of Rights, in any other written utterance, but we must go to the shores of Galilee where the Savior of mankind declared that before God all human beings are born free and equal. (Applause.)

"Ireland and France suggest what I have said. The tie between these countries extends far beyond the Revolutionary War; beyond even the period when the Crusaders were seeking to rescue the Holy Sepulchre from the Saracens, to the time when Patrick made his mission to France, when he was sowing the seeds which were to make Ireland the home of saints, the fountain of European learning, the cradle of modern civilization. (To be Continued.)
