Treat for Physicians and Laymen. How Honolulu Lost Control of Pine Business.

Sometimes we find men so well gilded that we may take a better view of them than otherwise but not all of the gold of Mountain King would give Fern, the mayor of the City and County of Honolulu, that which calls forth admiration from men of affairs. As a member of an improvement club in this city I have had opportunities to study this chief executive of a city that has attractions for people from all parts of the globe. When crossed he becomes an autocrat. At other times he shows the good nature of indifference to the fact that he is the choice of the hoi polloi, not the men who provide the means, by way of taxes, for the maintenance of the institutions. Fern is the choice of the voters. A Democrat among Republicans.

Much has been written for the newspapers about the Board of Supervisors in Honolulu but I have not read anything that smells of a suspicion of graft among the members. You may hear a whisper now and again that sounds grafty but in my opinion it is rather more a belief than a condition. If you are interested enough to read the published reports you will make up your mind that two or three men run the business of the county and those three occupy the time in the meeting criticizing reports rendered by members of committees. As a taxpayer in a weak way I protest that it is not good legislation. Some persons here are harsh enough to say that Mayor Fern is an ass. I will not go so far to say he is but the lengthened shadow of the Board of Supervisors which gave him an automobile as a plaything is as far as I will venture. When the appropriation was made I asked why and was told. He had nothing to do and we are going to let him have a machine to help him occupy his time.

The mayor is supposed to have general supervision over the supervisors of the roads and in that capacity it has been stated that he must go to different parts of the island to see what is being done. Take it from me that he does not know a good piece of road building when he is going over it. Also, take it from me, that he may, possibly, inspect the county roads once in six weeks and it is usually when there is to be a luau on the other side of the island. I have been told he makes these trips occasionally on Sunday over Kalakaua Avenue, and over the Pali about the time Andrew Cox is having a birthday anniversary.

I've written sticks and sticks of stuff here without saying anything. What I wished to convey was my utter disgust at the action of the Board of Supervisors for the City and County of Honolulu in giving Mayor Fern an automobile for joy riding. It seems incredible to me that an official of this county, could run a machine so badly that it would cost more than seventeen hundred dollars a year for maintenance. I have estimated the figures for the year by doubling the actual cost from the figures in the auditor's office for six months. I do not believe I could be convinced that this expenditure is legitimate. I doubt not the $886 was spent but why should a machine used by one official

Battelle Succeeds

The Invention Which is His to Be Taken Up By the Planters.

Terms of an agreement between the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association and E. E. Battelle formerly chemist of Wailuku plantation, have been concluded, whereby a practical test will be made of Mr. Battelle's process for refining sugar.

L. J. Warren, of Smith, Warren & Hemenway, attorneys, who is also assistant secretary of the H. S. P. A. is about to draft the agreement.

It is proposed to erect a sugar factory, with a capacity of ten tons of sugar a day, upon some plantation for the purpose of testing the Battelle process. One of the chief requirements of the site is that there shall be deposits of limestone near it.

There are two parts to the invention. One is that of making refined sugar from raw. The other is such treatment of the sugar cane juice from the beginning as will eliminate the glucose content and leave much less residue in the form of molasses than is now done in the plantation factories. The process is one that comprehends treatment of the expressed juices so that there will be little or no sucrose content in the molasses.

For some time the Battelle invention has been under investigation by the association's committee on manufactures. So far as the chemical question is concerned, it has been demonstrated that the process is all right. All that remains is to demonstrate the feasibility of the practical manufacture and refinement of sugar upon a commercial scale by means of the process or processes. To this end the association will erect the plant mentioned which will be operated under the direction of the inventor.

Pending the demonstration Mr. Battelle has given the association various options on the rights of using his invention. These will include the use of the whole manufacturing process in the plantation mills or the refining process in the Crockett refinery in California or in any refinery that the association may establish elsewhere, say in Baltimore. What the money terms of the options are is not disclosed, but it may be taken for granted that if the value of the invention be satisfactorily demonstrated Mr. Battelle will have a goodly fortune assured.

A Trip Through The Crater.

A. Lewis, Jr., Vice President of the Bank of Hawaii and Mrs. Lewis, came up from Honolulu last week and spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Penhallow. On Wednesday they went up to the summit of Haleakala and remained all night. Thursday Mr. Lewis and C. D. Lufkin went to Ulupalakua and inspected the Raymond Ranch. Saturday morning early they started on a trip through the crater. They reached the summit at 8 o'clock and at 12.30 had arrived at Kipahulu. They took auto from here to Nahiku. Next day they came on to Wailuku. Mr. Lewis pronounced this the most enjoyable trip he had ever taken. Mrs. Lewis went over to Molokai last Saturday to visit the Cooke's, and Mr. Lewis went on to Hawaii.

The Latest In Sports

What the Wrestlers, Boxers and Base Ball Artists Are Doing.

Farmer Burns, chief trainer of Frank Gotch, champion wrestler, for his coming contest in Chicago with Hackenschmidt, has changed his training system.

More defensive work and stiffer wind developing work was the feature of Burns' new training. New and old styles of defense alike were brought forward by the veteran wrestler. The champion at first resented Burns' statements concerning his condition, but finally admitted his condition was not of the best, and, although his wind his improving, it is still in bad shape, while the defensive work thus far has been poor.

"Gotch has been training entirely upon the aggressive," said Burns. "He is and has been so confident that he will be able to push the match throughout that he has taken no precautions against a turn in the tide. He is at present under condition and showing signs of growing stale. He will be all right when I get through with him."

Alexander and Hackett were invincible as doubles tennis champions for four years and never lost a match in that time. They first won the championship by defeating W. A. Larned and W. J. Clothier in 1907. For two years previous to that time they won the preliminary doubles and were defeated in the challenge match by Beals Wright and H. Ward. The Pacific states teams for the last two years have been the challengers for the doubles title and both put up a good fight.

Janes and McLoughlin were the first of the coast teams to go down to defeat before the present champions and last year Bundy and Hendricks suffered the same fate. When Bundy and McLoughlin joined forces this year they were conceded by everybody to be the best team ever sent away from the coast and it was a bitter disappointment when they were defeated by Little and Touchard for it was already rumored that the champions were on the decline, and the coast team would have a good chance to capture the title.

That Alexander and Hackett are no longer the great team they were, seems evident from their easy defeat at the hands of T. R. Pell and L. E. Mahin in the New York tournament. This team was not considered a particularly strong team as Pell ranked eighth and Mahin 29th last year.

McLoughlin, Long and Bundy showed well in the New York tournament which McLoughlin won by defeating T. R. Pell in the challenge match. It was a three set match, but had the Californian not become careless in the second set he would have won easily in straight sets, as his high bounding service puzzled Pell and he had things pretty much his own way in the first and third sets which he won 6-1, 6-2.

Of the coast players, Long was the particular star in the Invitational tournament last week on the courts of the Meadow club at Southampton. This event does not carry a title with it but is an important one on account of its being held just previous to the Newport event. It was thought that Long would not do much in the last tournaments of the year as he usually plays best at the start of the season, but from his play in the Southampton event he is evidently playing as well as he

Those Kihei Homesteads

There Seems to Be Others Who See the Value of Kiawe.

The land just beyond Kihei which was sold to the homesteaders, and which the MAUI NEWS claimed was not suitable for homesteading is creating quite a stir. The Cornwell Ranch people, who have long held a lease of this land, do not intend to turn it over without getting some of the revenue to be derived from the wood. The real thorn in the side of the ranch people, however, is the fact that it is over this land their cattle must come to get water. If they can get the wood off the land, then the probability of the homesteaders taking it up will be just so much lessened. Pia Cockett, and a number of Japanese, whom he had at work cutting the wood were arrested Monday, the Japanese being put under $100 bail each.

According to the Attorney-General, there is a question whether or not the lessees have not the right to cut this wood if they wish. The claim has been made that those at work cutting the wood off the land are not only cutting the trees that are serviceable, but are destroying, and pulling up the small trees, thus wantonly making barren the land, and destroying what might in years to come be valuable wood land.

If this can be done, without any redress, then there seems to be a serious flaw, in the law, which should at once be remedied. Meanwhile the work of destruction goes on and neither territory or homesteader is getting anything.

The buck is being passed along from one official to the other, but it seems to us that if the Land Commission had an intimate knowledge of the lands they sell and are sincere in their endeavor to properly homestead these lands, these things could never happen.

Roosevelt For President.

Former President Theodore Roosevelt in a letter to Alexander P. Moore, editor of the Pittsburg Leader, made public recently says:

"I must ask not only you but every friend I have to see to it that no movement whatever is made to bring me forward for the nomination in 1912. I should esteem it a genuine calamity if such a movement were undertaken."

The Leader has been advocating the nomination of Roosevelt for president in 1912.

was when he took the first tournament of the season.

In the Newport tournament last year the coast players were much in evidence as McLoughlin reached the semi finals and was defeated by Beals Wright in three straight sets. Thomas Bundy of southern California won the tournament and the right to challenge for the title by defeating Beals Wright in the finals in a close four set match.

Bundy went down to defeat before the champion W. A. Larned, but only after five hard sets had been played.

George Dietrich, secretary of the grand harness racing circuit, says Joe Jackson is faster getting to first base than Ty Cobb or Wilbur Good. He held a stop watch on them, timing each player from the crack of the bat. Dietrich timed Jackson at 2½ seconds. The best he ever timed Cobb and Good was 2¾ seconds. He has timed Jackson from the plate to second base in 6¼ seconds. Dietrich is an experienced timer.

A Man Who Speaks His Mind Regardless.

THE special session of congress, with one conspicuous exception, has accomplished little or nothing, says the San Francisco Call. The exception is, of course, the adoption of the reciprocity agreement with Canada. For the rest congress has been busy doing politics and striving with greater or less ingenuity to put Mr. Taft "in a hole." The situation finds its analogy in Gulliver and the Lilliputians. The strings with which these little people have sought to bind the president were not hard to break, and Mr. Taft has watched the process with a certain measure of amused indifference.

The president stands firmly in his shoes and speaks his mind regardless of its effect on his personal fortunes. There is nothing of the trimmer in his makeup. A case in point is his veto of the statehood bill on the ground that the Arizona constitution authorizes the recall of the judiciary. Now, Mr. Taft knows as well as anybody that his action cannot affect ultimate results in this relation, because the people of Arizona can eliminate the recall provision before admission and will be able immediately thereafter to vote it back again by way of amendment. But Mr. Taft was not willing to give approval, either implicit or explicit, to a principle and a process which, in his opinion, are pernicious and destructive.

In fine, the president is the sort of man who will make no compromise with principle and will not be turned from his purpose by the fear of walking into a hole dug for him by his political enemies. Indeed, some of these are already floundering in the pit they themselves have dug.

Kiawe beans make fine beef. The Cornwell Ranch people appreciate this fact. They have always contended that this particular piece of land was of no use to them for their cattle raising. Now that it is slipping through their fingers they are determined that it shall be of no use to anyone else. With such high handed rascality as it being practised by this corporation, there is little reason to wonder that so many Hawaiians are haole haters.

The many bogs and dump heaps which abound around the Oriental quarter, seem to have received no attention whatever from our overworked inspector. If he had backbone enough to enforce the cleaning up of some of these pest holes, he might show some excuse for drawing his salary.

We heard so much of plans being perfected by the Board of Health under the old regime, that we expected something different now. It is the same old cry of plans, however. Wonder what they do with all these plans after they make them. They are certainly never put into execution.

We would draw the attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column, whereby they may obtain their favorite magazine at a much less cost than if they subscribed for it in the regular way. This requires no further comment. Just read the offer.

The letter by Mr. Bond, President of the Island Investment Co., is worthy of attention. Mr. Bond puts the situation before the citizens in an open and straightforward manner.

The Claimants.

(By Berton Braley.)

If there had been papers when earth was created
From Chaos and gasses and such,
In headlines next day they would blandly have stated
The job wasn't anything much,
And each of the bunch would have claimed all the credit
For all the success that was scored
And—unlike the tale as you've frequently read it—
They'd barely have mentioned the Lord.

When Noah came home from his trip Ararat
The papers would doubtless have said
That THEY had advised his procedure dramatic
And paid for the ark, long ahead;
When Hercules worked at his hugest of labors,
When Joshua halted the sun,
When Caesar went after the Gauls and their neighbors,
When Hannibal's battles were won.

The papers, if such there had been in the ages
When each of these heroes bestirred,
Would surely have triumphed for pages and pages
Explaining how all that occurred
Was really caused by the editor's pencil
Or his typewriter's rapid "rat-tat,"
That the hero was only a tool or utensil
And a pretty blamed poor one at that!

When finally all shall be over and finished,
The judgment day truly a fact,
We'll find that The Press—with its zeal undiminished—
Will shriek, while creation is racked;
"TREMENDOUS EXCITEMENT!! THE UNIVERSE ENDED!!!
THE WORLD IN A TERRIBLE MESS!
BUT HEAVEN'S ALL READY! ITS WONDERFUL!
SPLENDID!
THE CREDIT BELONGS TO THE PRESS!!!

CORRESPONDENCE.

Wailuku, Aug. 31, 1911.

To the EDITOR of the MAUI NEWS:
Since arriving in Wailuku last Tuesday night, for the purpose of doing everything possible on my part to hasten the time of satisfactory electric light and power for this and neighboring towns, I have learned with regret, from various sources, that even among men of intelligence here, an impression has been gained, from one source or another, that the Island Investment Co., Ltd., does not intend to install and operate an electric plant, but is merely working up a re-sale of its franchise at a profit to itself.

This notion is so rankly unjust and at variance with the two motives and intentions of the Island Investment Co., Ltd., that I believe I am warranted in writing you this letter to guarantee the Maui public, through the courtesy of your columns,—on behalf of the directors and stockholders of the Island Investment Co., Ltd., of which I am now president,—that the Island Investment Co., Ltd., will most certainly retain its franchise for this district and erect its plant as rapidly as the proper machinery and materials (bids for which are now being received in Honolulu) can be got upon the site.

Contracts for all but the building itself and the labor on the pole lines, will be awarded about September 15, 1911, the delay being made at the urgent request of several prospective bidders, who are not ready with their figures. Among whom are the Hawaiian Electric Co., Ltd., and Alexander & Baldwin Ltd.

The franchise is the property of, and the plant will be installed and operated by, the Island Investment Co., Ltd., unless its attorneys finally advise it that its articles of association do not sufficiently provide for such a business; in which case the electrical portion of its business will then be independently incorporated, the entire capital stock of such subsidiary company to be owned by the Island Investment Co., Ltd.

Regarding the opportunity of the Maui public to share in the financial burden and profits of an industry destined to benefit every resident and every business firm here. This opportunity was granted after our due consideration of several reasonable arguments in its favor advanced by more than one of Maui's best known business men and endorsed by others equally experienced in the administration of public service corporations. A block of $20,000 of the new capital stock was therefore reserved for Maui subscribers, with the hope that this amount would be taken in small lots well distributed among the future users of our light and power. Of this amount $15,000 is still available and may be subscribed for, up to October 1, 1911, at the Baldwin National Bank of Kahului, or at the First National Bank of Wailuku, or at the office of the Island Investment Co., Ltd., in Honolulu; in each of which places a first prospectus of the business is on file for the inspection of those desiring to invest. While more mature experience with this particular field would cause us to change some figures in the said prospectus, if we were to re-write it, the percentage of profit on the investment shows up as well now as ever, if not slightly better.

Trusting this letter may be of true value to you and your readers, as evidence of our sincerity of purpose, our determination and our desire to meet, and be met, more than half-way in our efforts both to benefit this community and to increase the field of profitable usefulness of the Island Investment Co., Ltd., in the Territory of Hawaii.

I remain,
Faithfully yours,
ROBERT E. BOND,
President of Island Investment Co., Ltd.

TIMELY HINTS FOR FARMERSCapped Elbow In Horse.

Frequently horses in lying down press the foot or the shoe against the elbow. This in time causes inflammation and ends in a tumor or shoe boil. The diseased condition is difficult to repair, as there is little flesh or muscle at the joint of the elbow where the trouble starts.

Treatment consists of opening the boil and allowing the fluid to escape. In case the swelling is hot and painful an application of lead acetate will prove comforting and helpful. In preparing the lotion use two tablespoonfuls of acetate of lead to a quart of water. There is no objection to injecting a little of this into the opening. An injection of a little tincture of iodine once a day into the opening is desirable also. In treating cases of this kind it is a good practice to wrap about the horse's foot a pad of straw or hay for cushioning the foot.—American Agriculturist.

Digestible Poultry Feed.

The Maine experiment station has made some useful digestion experiments with poultry. These experiments show that corn has a higher digestibility than any other grain tested. Wheat bran shows a low digestibility and at present prices is not an economical feed. A mixture of equal parts fine cut clover and cornmeal is more digestible and a more economical feed than bran. The mixing of about 7 per cent of bone ash with a ration consisting wholly of vegetable matter gave slightly higher average digestion coefficients than when the mixture was fed without it.

Progressive Agriculture.

Crop rotation in which the legumes, such as cowpeas, soy beans, vetch and the clovers, have a prominent place will build up the soil and place an unprofitable farm upon a paying basis. Plan a rotation that will improve the fertility of the soil and at the same time keep up the income from the farm. This is progressive agriculture.

Grated Onions For Turkey Scours.

A man who has had a good deal of experience raising turkeys says he has just one remedy for scours in young turkeys and that is grated onions. He has raised turkeys in Illinois, North Dakota and Arizona and says that at the first signs of bowel trouble in the poult he begins feeding them onions and after that he has no more trouble.

SHEEP PROFITABLE AND EASY TO KEEPValuable Farm Animal Too Often Neglected.

The sheep is the worst neglected and the least appreciated animal on our farms. It is a fact that the sheep costs less than any of our animals, not excepting the hog. The one advantage that the hog has is that it is a scavenger and consumes much of the waste on the farm.

Any farm that supports a small pasture should have a few sheep. Even if the land is rough and apparently worthless for crops, by wise management it may be terraced and sown to Bermuda or some other hardy grass for sheep grazing.

As foragers sheep are second to none unless it be their relative, the goat. Sheep require little other food than the pasture, except in winter, when they should be housed and fed hay and a little concentrated food. Sheep reproduce rapidly, and the money invested in them is soon returned with interest. There are few animals that will pay as well when given the proper attention.

Most every farm needs animals to afford fresh meat in season during the year. Mutton is palatable and wholesome, and the animal being small makes sheep desirable for this purpose. Wool and hides continue to bring good prices, and there are many reasons why you should have these products for sale.—Farm and Ranch.

Hens Need Exercise.

Remember that laying hens should have plenty of exercise to stimulate good health and to transform food into eggs. See that the hens scratch and exercise their bodies even if they are confined within close quarters. This will be necessary if the egg production is normal.

A Cash Producer.

A profitable hen is one that has the power of consuming large amounts of food and converting it into eggs economically. She may not be a very pretty fowl, and she may not be a thoroughbred, but she is a cash producer and is in demand on the farm.

When Hens Fail.

When hens pass their second laying year they are poor layers; also when they are crowded, having too many in the flock; also when fed too much corn or when not provided with plenty of fresh water or when their houses are kept in a filthy condition.

SELECT CULLINGSA Joke Adee Unearthed.

About the most tiresome place to stand around and wait for a government job would be that of second assistant secretary of state. The present second assistant, A. A. Adee, has held his job for forty years, and his predecessor was there for fifty years. Prior to that time the job didn't exist. Adee is the human precedent of the state department. Whenever there is diplomatic procedure to be handled and nobody knows how to go about it they go and ask Adee how it was done forty years ago, and he can tell off-hand. Adee has a sense of humor, and one of his hobbies is to ransack state papers for bits of unconscious humor. One of the best of these, he thinks, was in the report of a case in which an American who had lost both his legs in government service sought damages on the ground that the accident was due to improper working conditions. The government report maintained that the man had nobody but himself to blame for this accident and wound up by saying, "He hasn't a thing to stand on." This last line has been underscored by Adee, and in the margin he has written, "This is a most brutal joke."—New York Press.

Maine's Indian Solons.

There are two Indian representatives in the Maine legislature who represent the Indians of that state. They are assigned seats in the rear of the chamber, but have no vote in the proceedings. They are selected by their tribesmen because of their prominence, and their purpose in the legislature is to give the Indians' side when various matters pertaining to their constituents' welfare are under discussion. These Indians have had recognized representatives for years, who are treated with courtesy and consideration by the other members and in all matters affecting the Indians do much good. The two representatives in office at present are Lola Coly, who lives on Indian Island in Oldtown and represents the Penobscot tribe, and Levy Mitchell, who represents the Passamaquoddy tribe.—Red Man.

An Artist and a Tragedy.

"Russia is the land of tragedies. The harvest is gathered dally and the victims belong to all classes. The people have become accustomed to scenes and descriptions of horror," according to the Russische Correspondenz, "and it requires a case like that of the artist Constantin Kryschitzki to attract attention. He placed on view a painting which he had recently completed and was forthwith accused of having copied it from the work of another painter. He failed to convince his accusers of his honesty and the genuineness of his picture and in desperation killed himself. On the same night and before the news of the tragedy had reached them the artists of St. Petersburg held a meeting at which it was reported that Kryschitzki had been wrongfully accused. Too late!"

City Boys and Country Boys.

They measured 1,723 young men at Cornell university to find out how country and city bred youths compare. Here is the score: Country boys taller by half an inch, heavier by three and one-half pounds, with slightly greater chest expansion. City boys have better powers of mental concentration. At the piano they found that the country boy "plays more poetry into his music because he is thinking of the woods, the birds, the streams and the fields, but the city boy plays more human feeling and sentiment into his." The net result is that both are all right, and the country boy—a little more so!—Cleveland Press.

Spurred the Miserly Tip.

A visitor to New York complains of incivility at the large restaurants. He went into a Fifth Avenue concern with two friends, ate a modest supper and presented the waiter with a fifty cent tip. What did this menial do but throw the coin on the floor and call a boy to "pick it up and throw it away." Naturally the visitor's blood boiled in his veins, but what is there to do? A newspaper comment on the incident says that complaints in a case like this are of no avail. The faultfinder simply proclaims his ignorance of New York customs and manners.—Exchange.

Your Cup of Java.

You know how much you like your cup of Java or Java and Mocha with breakfast. You really can't get to tolerate any other. Millions of coffee drinkers just like you. The Netherlands is a clearing house for the products of Java, of course, and of some 1,442,100 bags of coffee imported into the Netherlands last year exactly 116,800 bags were from Java, and the Java crop is steadily decreasing, so you all quit your foolishness about your Java. And don't you feel a bit chagrined to know that most of you never tasted Java in your lives.—Exchange.

A Mighty Hunter.

It is the custom of the German emperor to commemorate his achievements as a hunter by the erection of monuments. One of these stones, six feet high, has been put up in a royal forest some miles to the north of Berlin. It bears the following inscription: "His majesty the emperor, King William II., shot here on Jan. 9, 1911, a big twenty-four pointer, in number of points the finest stag ever killed by a Hohenzollern prince in the Schorlhelde."

McDuffie Makes Catch.

Chief of Detectives McDuffie who came up from Honolulu Wednesday, made an arrest, which does credit to the ability of the detective force of the Honolulu police.

Last February, a large quantity of jewelry was stolen from the Seaside Hotel, the property of a family stopping there, who were relatives of Congressman Nick Longworth. The value of the stolen jewelry was between $2,000 and $3,000. The police were immediately on the job, and have stayed on it ever since, resulting with the arrest Thursday, of a young man named Johnson, who has been working at Paia for some time.

When the police first took up the case, the Chief had Johnson on the carpet as a suspect, but his story was so straightforward he was let go. For a long time no clue was obtainable. The boy began selling the rings at prices far below their actual value, and some of these fell into the hands of the police. Since then the trail has led straight to Johnson.

When arrested about $1,500 worth of the jewelry was found on him. He was taken back to Honolulu on the Mauna Kea last night.

The Puunene Club Crew.

After months of hard work, and harder coaching, Captain Hughes and his crew, left on the Mikahala Saturday for Honolulu, where they will finish their training in the new barge. All the boys got away except Billy Chillingsworth, who goes today. It is understood that one of the veteran oarsmen and coaches of Honolulu will take the boys in hand, and Captain Hughes will be able to cast off the cares of coaching and devote all his time to rowing.

The boys have worked hard, and while we have heard much criticism of the crew, still the defects in this crew, and no doubt there are defects, can be found and remedied next year. For their hard and conscientious work, if for nothing else, the crew deserves the encouragement and well wishes of every Mauiite. They have gone to Honolulu and will match their skill with the more experienced oarsmen of the Capitol, in their own balliwack. If they win we should all shout for joy. If they should lose they will not be discouraged, but will go back next year, and the next, with a better crew, till they do win. Here's to the Maui crew.

Baseball last Sunday.

The reorganized Wailuku baseball team can hardly be said to have covered themselves with glory last Sunday. Of course it was a sort of experimental game, and no doubt a better exhibition is possible from these same players. Most of the players on both the Wailuku and Waikapu teams have not been playing ball for some time, and there was a woeful lack of team play. Flemming, who started to pitch for Wailuku was hit hard at times, and for a few innings the Waikapu's had a regular batting bee. As the game progressed and the players were changed about, Wailuku began to overtake the Waikapu's and the finish of the game was as good as any seen on the local diamond.

At the beginning of the eighth inning the Wailuku's needed four runs to win. The Waikapu bunch were retired in one, two, three order by Wallace, who had succeeded Flemming in the box. The ninth inning was a repetition of the eight. While the Waikapu's were being retired, the home team fell on the offerings of Enos, and walloped out the necessary runs to win.

There will be a game tomorrow at Kahului, between the Kahului's and the Wailuku's at 2.30 p. m.

Wailuku to Have Another Show.

Next week there will visit Maui the Eldid troupe of performers. These people have visited Maui before and will be remembered for the high class show they put on. Billy Eldid is recognized as one of the most daring trick bicyclists in the business, and this year he is doing stunts on a motorcycle. The "Circle of Death" is a thrilling exhibition of riding perpendicular walls.

The two Midgets give a burlesque prize fight, also a hula dance.

In addition to the regular show the Eldids will have the latest moving pictures. They show in their own tent.

The schooner Honoiku is at Hana loading. She will leave for the mainland this week with 16262 bags of sugar.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent returned from Hana Tuesday. He has been assisting the Sheriff, in his effort to unearth the burglar who robbes the plantation store at Kipahulu.

The Woman's Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd will hold the regular business meeting at the Rectory Wailuku on Wednesday Sept. 6th. at 2:30 p. m. to arrange committee for Bazar.

Sheriff Crowell, got back from Hana this week. He has been hot on the trail of the store burglars, and while he feels confident he is on the right track, and that he will eventually land the burglars still he is not saying much but is still sawing wood.

Mr. Bond, president of the Island Investment Co., together with Mr. Wheeler the engineer in charge of the installation of the electric plant here, and Mr. Carr, of the Hawaiian Electric Co., have been in town this week going over the ground and perfecting their plans for starting active operations in the near future.

Rev. Mr. Dodge returned from Kauai Tuesday night, having had the best walking trip since he came to the Islands. The scenery about the Waimea Canyon is the grandest of its kind in the Territory, while Olokele and the climb to Waialeale are splendid trip. The tramp in the Na Pali region and over Kiloahana were arduous and were good test of endurance.

In the case of the two minor children of L. M. Vettesen, the court decides that the children shall remain in the care and custody of the mother for one year, and that they shall be sent to Punahou Preparatory School, the father and mother each sharing half the expense of such schooling. The court will take the matter up for final decision next July.

Rev. Chas. J. Ryder, D. D., the Secretary of the American Missionary Association of New York, accompanied by Rev. W. B. Oleson, secretary of the Hawaiian Board of Missions spent a few days on Maui last week. Wednesday they inspected the churches of Wailuku district, Thursday they met the ministers of Central Maui at a meeting at the Paia Portuguese Church and visited the Makawao Seminary, the Paia Union Church and the old Pookela Church. On Friday they took horses through Kahakuloa and Honokohau to Lahaina, whence they returned to Honolulu. Dr. Ryder says he never enjoyed two months so keenly as he has enjoyed these months on the Islands. For many years he had desired to visit the Territory. He was greatly impressed with the missionary work he saw, the beauty of the scenery and the hospitality of the people. He had been greeted by large audiences at the Central Union Church where he has been supplying the pulpit during the vacation of Rev. Dr. Scudder.

cial cost five times as much as that for another official, in the same county, and who has worked, requiring more travel at distances from the county hall. Understand, the mayor acts as his own chauffeur; there is no expense for that luxury so the amount must have gone for repairs, tires benzine, oil, waste, principally waste.

Sometime, when the people of Honolulu get away from the laboratory and cease turning sugar into gold they will realize the amount of money they have frittered away by means of a county act which provides for a mayor and a Board of Supervisors that fail to realize the responsibilities and obligations to the electors. The people will awaken to the fact that, after all, a government by commission would be best for the country. It may be shown to them that no government can be stronger than its weakest department and they will not look beyond the Board of Supervisors and the Mayor in a search for it. But when all is said and done what can one expect? When it is borne in mind that a majority of the Board is not more than three generations removed from idolatry we should doff our hats. What other nation can present such a per centage of literacy? What other nation can show such deficiency of judgment on the part of its legislative bodies? Failing in an attempt to secure a government by commission the people should ask for the referendum and recall, principally the recall.

What amuses me is the way competition runs in the Board. They appoint a man the head of a department and then trim the power from him going so far as to say he shall not appoint or discharge an employee directly under him. Why should the political muddlers interfere in the work the taxpayers are assessed for? Bah!

I went down to the dock last Thursday to bid bon voyage to some friends departing for the mainland and my stay there became a detention. Instead of the Sierra leaving at ten as announced it was the duty of one of the agency clerks to say that the steamer would not get away before eleven and when that hour came around she was still against the dock with a hundred or more men busy carrying in the cases of lucious Hawaiian pines for a foreign market. It seems as though there were thousands of them and no end to the line of men doing the work. Then my mind reverted to the time Jimmy Dole tried to float his pineapple business with local capital. The bankers, Mr. Tightwad here, and there, turned their noses to the "blue vault of heaven" and said "Sugar." It was a hard day for the young man for he felt that the people in his adopted town lacked confidence. But he held on.

By and by he took into his employee Archie Adams, the young man who recently gave the newspapers on the coast some good copy. Adams had been in the employ of Hunt Brothers, the big canners on the coast, and he put them wise to the opportunity offered in Hawaii for making money out of the pine apples. They had the coin and a representative from their office and Dole were brought together with the result that Hunt Brothers control the pineapple industry in the best section of the islands, for the Wahiawa pines are so much superior to those grown on the Koolau side of Oahu that there is no comparison. It was a lost opportunity to the Honolulu bankers. A lost opportunity for those who want Hawaii for the Hawaiians. The outlook for the Hunts' brought in Libby, McNeill and Libby and the end is not yet. Growing and canning pineapples will be the second largest industry in the country if the Mediterranean fly, the boll weevil or the leaf hopper does not get busy and spoil things. But at all events the pineapple men, headed by Mr. Dole, got the hook when money was asked for and the business is controlled by men whose only interest in the country is to get money out of it and help some other part of the map. The growth of the pineapple industry here is pregnant with result similar to those in every fruit section. All of the best fruit goes to the canners, or away, and the nubbins stay for home consumption. It is rather trying to persons who entertain mainland friends who have read of the delicious fruit of Hawaii. After a while every householder will have his pineapple patch as he has his chickens.

While on the subject of good things let me say a word about the treat in store for the people of this city. Wednesday, we are to have a lecture at the opera house by Doctor McCormick, whom Senator Works of California designates as the "Walking delegate of the Medical Union." Ewaliko having launched a longshoreman's union in Hilo bay, and failed here, the doctors are going to show what they can do in the way of organization. Dr. McCormick will, I presume talk on the infamous bill that was introduced in congress during the session just closed. It provides that no longer can every man be his own family physician. No more can he go to the nearest chemist shop and secure relief to a headache, whether it is from overwork or a mere "morning after the night before" affair. It will be a great thing, this union of the forces of materia media. It will be a source of joy to feel that at any time, day or night, a licensed physician may walk into your house and say to you that it is time for that operation because you have something belonging to nature that does not harmonize in you. It is a notable fact that here in far off Hawaii where there is no college to take the corpses from poor house, (which we have not), for the students can back away at separating the medulla oblongata from the serio comique, live people must take the place of dead ones. Operations are as plentiful here as promises from a candidate for supervisor. And they are not always prolific of good results. A long time ago I had a friend who had something wrong with his internal organs. The doctors decided it was cancer of the stomach and cut him open only to find that his stomach was the healthiest one in the bunch of organs. They sewed him up told him to be careful of his diet. But when he got strong again and still had the pain they made another try of it. He now rests peacefully in Nuuanu Cemetery. He had abscess of the liver.

Another friend who had been a sufferer from stomachache and other internal disorders, consulted a whole staff of physicians and each had a new cause for the trouble. A couple of years ago he had his appendix removed during an attack of appendicitis so that when one surgeon in particular, during his present ailment, insisted that he must be operated on because of an inflamed appendix he demurred. Told the Doc he would be pleased to have the useless adjunct to his intestines removed but it wasn't there. Delay followed delay while the surgeons were trying to find out what ailed my friend and operating was put off so long that when it took place and the disease located the man was in bad shape. Instead of the appendix bothering him it was a case of ulcerated stomach. I am not sure, but I am of the opinion, that one of the results of the visit and lecture of McCormick will be increased knowledge, on the part of the physicians, that will enable them to diagnose so that all of their mistakes will not be hidden in the cemetery. The "Union forever" and down with "yearb tea" brown paper and vinegar and other wholesome home remedies for the ills that flesh is heir to. Another case that attracted some notice because the lady was in high society was also diagnosed as appendicitis and the operation was imperative or there would have to be an undertaker called in. The doctor had the call and the operation was performed. It may have been the sort which Elbert Hubbard describes under a name different from appendicitis. The kind where the flesh is merely scratched and the wound bandaged. I am in doubt about that though it is a curious fact that a year or so afterward there was a recurrence of the trouble and another cutting. This time all seemed to go well. Still later the lady was visiting relatives in the east and the trouble came back. Her husband was getting tired of the trouble his wife was being put to or suspected something at all events he said he was from Missouri and wanted to be shown. He went east and when they started to cut her was on the ground and left the room with the appendix in a phial. He has been wondering ever since what he paid the other surgeons for. May be that is one of the things Doc. McCormick will give away at the lecture Wednesday night.

Now that the editor of the Advertiser and Walter G., of the Star, have settled down to a scrap that reminds one somewhat of the old days when Walter G. was on the Advertiser, the public looks for an early elimination of the mosquito from his habitat in the section of the country. Some one has suggested the use of dynamite, I believe it was Smith; said it would be a likely means to the end. Without waiting for Pratt to take it up he begins a discussion with the Advertiser and the sparks of fire, in the arguments put forth, will start a smudge that will smoke out the critters. And while the smudge is smudging the public is being entertained. It is the first scrap Smith has been in since he went on the Star and the Saturday "Onlooker" in that paper shows the falsity of the report that he has lost his hold. And "The Bystander" came back on Sunday in fine form. It looks to me as though the circulation of the Sunday Advertiser and the Saturday Star will increase perceptibly. The public has been waiting for something of this kind ever since Mr. Smith returned to Honolulu and joined the staff of a newspaper other than the Advertiser. It's good acting, this word war, of these two editors, but outside the offices of the respective publications to which the gentlemen are a part, there is nothing in it. As a matter of fact the differences of opinion, real or superficial, are having the effect of bringing Matheson from his shell. He is given an opportunity to show that he is a foeman worthy the steel of the old war horse, Smith. This morning I heard a half dozen men say "Wait and read the Star to-night" and when that is said the Star usually comes out mute. But when Saturday comes round there may be something doing. As a matter of fact it is a question of opinion between editors as individuals, for you will note that in each the lunge are made under titles, and not in the editorial column. There may not be any difference but there surely is a distinction from the viewpoint of the newspaper men. Honolulu is enjoying the affair and you will find lots of men ready to "sic 'em". Up to this time the fight is one that the people seem to enjoy rather than tire of. The Bulletin is slighted and Brother Farrington is lonesome in consequence. It cannot seem natural to him to have a fight going on and he not be in it. And he is so used to the style of Smith, after ten years of it, that he knows how to side step, counter and duck. Maybe, after Smith and the Advertiser finish in the preliminary, Farrington will come on for the main event.
