WORKING MEN AND PROTECTION.

Mr. George Odger has addressed another letter to the Times on this question, replying to a leader on the subject in that paper.

It is not necessary to reply to all, but to the fact that the working class of Great Britain have just entered into the possession of political power.

It is a matter of course that the working class in the state, and the question as to how they may seek to influence it, is no doubt, a matter of great interest to the general public.

CALIFORNIA CORRESPONDENCE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17, 1869.

The subject of immigration is engrossing the attention of the people of this State as well as of the merchants and planters of your islands. It is the opinion of those here, who have taken an interest in the discussions which have filled your newspapers lately, that such free ventilation of the important subject of labor is the harbinger of a better and more successful future for your most important industries.

—an evidence that the public mind is alive on such vital issues, and ready to profit by the ideas developed. This fact is staring us squarely in the face, viz: every effort must be made towards the reduction of expenses, whether on a sugar plantation in Hawaii, or in a sugar refinery or a woolen factory in San Francisco.

Economy must be the order of the day and everything that tends to that end, whether in the revision of the labor system, or changes in the process of manufacture, must be adopted. Reduction in the amount of profits compels a reduction of expenses in every industry requiring a large outlay of capital; and this reduction in the amount of profits will continue.

Flax. A profitable crop to raise in this State is flax-seed, and there seems to be no reason why the seed can not be raised on the islands with success. It will grow in any soil that will produce wheat. The yield in this State has been anywhere between 800 pounds and 2,100 pounds to the acre; the average being 1,200 pounds to the acre.

The seed is sown in the winter, and the crop is harvested in September and October. The Pacific Oil Company of this city have imported the greater portion of their seed from South America. They have paid farmers here 4 cents per pound, this year, for the seed; and are making great efforts to have them take hold of its cultivation. They contract to advance the seed to farmers, and to pay them 3 cents per pound for all they can raise next year. It will be a great many years before a sufficient quantity of flax-seed can be raised in this State to reduce the price which the Oil Company have paid the past few years, as they say they expect to pay from 3 to 4 cents per pound for many years to come.

The duty on the seed is something over 1/4 of a cent a pound, or 16 cents a bushel of 52 pounds. The straw can be sold here for about $15 a ton. An acre will produce about one ton of straw. The duty on straw is 20 per cent ad valorem. Straw, in its prepared state, is worth in New York about $200 a ton. Flax-seed is as easily cultivated as wheat; the capital required in its cultivation being an amount sufficient to buy or rent the land, and purchase a plow and horses, and the seed. Fifty pounds of seed to the acre is required for sowing the land, and it can be bought of the Oil Company in this city for 4 1/2 cents per pound; or they will advance the seed, and contract to pay 3 cents per pound for the crop next year. At the rate of 4 cents per pound, or even 3 cents, for the crop, why could not the raising of flax be made to pay on any of your islands?

A Terrible Murder. One of the most horrible murders that has ever taken place in this State was committed a few nights since, in the San Joaquin Valley, a few miles from Stockton. A party of five men were found dead near their store, piled one above the other, having been shot during the night. This wholesale murder was probably made by a good-sized band of ruffians for the purpose of plunder. It has seemed to create little or no excitement, although there is just cause for fear, if bands of murderers of sufficient force to overpower five men in one night are traveling through the State. The desperadoes have not been discovered as yet, although officers are in pursuit, and Governor Haight has offered $500 for their arrest.

Free Education. The State University, whose grounds are located at Berkeley, near Oakland, but whose buildings have not yet been erected, has lately been organized with an efficient corps of Professors. The charges in the Institution now are $20 for admission, and $20 per term for instruction, so that it costs a student $60 for the first year, and $60 for each subsequent year. At present there are only forty-five students attending the University, and as a larger number would be much better, for both the Institution and the students, the Board of Regents, at a late meeting, resolved to "abolish, after April 6th, 1870, admission, alms and tuition fees, and all other fees of every kind whatsoever. After the date above mentioned, instruction in all the Colleges shall be absolutely free, and all properly qualified applicants, as well from other States and countries as from California, shall be admitted to all the benefits and privileges of the University without charge."

Amusements. We are being treated now to Italian Opera. A troupe, consisting of the renowned tenor, Signor Brignoli, basso, Signor Suzzini, soprano, Miss McCulloch, and others, have given us "Martha," "Lucia di Borgia," "Trovatore," "Lucia," &c. at the California Theatre, in splendid style. A troupe of ballet dancers from Paris, with dresses as scant as the law allows are drawing crowded houses at Maguire's Opera House.

Madam Camilla Urso, a talented artist, who has been giving concerts, and who has been well received, proposes a grand concert in the Mechanics' Pavilion, for the purpose of extricating the Mercantile Library from its financial embarrassment. She proposes to gather from all parts of this and the adjoining States, 800 or 1000 musicians—instrumental and vocal—who shall form an efficient and monster chorus and orchestra. Her plan is to get up a three days' musical festival, which, in extent and completeness, shall exceed anything hitherto known on this Continent, excepting only the famous Peace Festival in Boston." She thinks that, with the help of the artists who will congregate on this occasion, she will be able to hand over a check for at least $30,000 to the Trustees of the Library. The Trustees have accepted her generous proposition, and two months will be taken to prepare for the occasion.

SIX SAMUEL BAKER, the well-known African traveler, is organizing at the present time an expedition of great strength to explore the central portions of that country. The expedition is to be composed of 400 men, and will consist of a small army of 2,000 infantry, 200 irregular cavalry of Basha Basha, and three batteries of guns. The rear guard is to consist of 80 camel loads of provisions, which is to be used for barter with the natives, and will be sent by the Koroko-Doo to Khartoum. A battery of 50 large heavy and seven large river steamers, which left Cairo in August last, has just been heard of as having managed to ascend the formidable Dogra Cataract, and as having reached Khartoum. Had they not succeeded in ascending the cataract at this time, the expedition would have been delayed till next year, for from Khartoum to Sandokoro the land is so marshy and perfectly impassable for troops. The vessels are to convey the expedition between the two points. There are to be three parties formed; the first under the direct command of Sir Samuel Baker, whose former style was "Governor General of all the provinces of Central Africa that he may succeed in annexing to Egypt." Sir Samuel will take with him some rockets and light guns for mountain warfare, if necessary; also six English and forty Arab mechanics. The grand depot and first station will be formed at the top of a high mountain about 15 miles south of Gondokoro, where there is a large plateau. The position is very healthy, and the expedition is provided with a quantity of corn, wheat, rice, and other provisions against the possibility of heavy rains that fall in this region. After this point the real difficulties will begin, as a few miles further on, commences the territory of the Barry tribe, which is very warlike and dangerous, and exceedingly difficult to deal with. There is no practical road through their country, and the river from this point to about thirty miles further on is impassable on account of the number of rapids and falls that abound there. It will therefore be necessary to make a road through this inhospitable tract. Sir Samuel has his previous knowledge of the lakes, will establish fortified posts at every available spot, and will set to work to subjugate the different tribes to the Egyptian Government. In the meantime, the troops will be forwarded from Cairo until there are enough to man all the posts. At every post there will be a commercial depot, where articles will be made for barter with the natives. All the soldiers chosen for the expedition are agriculturists, and will have to cultivate farms round about the forts. They are provided with several qualities of cotton seed.

THE PIONEERS OF THE SUEZ CANAL.—Lieutenant Thomas Waggoner, R. N., while on duty in the East in 1857, conceived his project of communication by steamers between Great Britain and the East Indies. The chief authorities of the Post Office, as well as nearly the whole of the East India directors, were adverse to his proposition. In 1859 Lord Ellesborough, president of the Board of Control, engaged him to proceed through Egypt to Hindostan with dispatches, directing him to join the English steamer "Suez" at Suez, and to proceed to the Red Sea, and on to the East Indies. He was to be accompanied by a small party of men, and was to be supplied with provisions for the journey. He was to be accompanied by a small party of men, and was to be supplied with provisions for the journey.

With unabated energy and perseverance, supported only by the Bombay Steam Committee, he was enabled to complete the overland route three days before it was taken up by the British Government. He built halting places and established hotels in the desert between Cairo and Suez; he supplied the Red Sea with provisions, and he was to be accompanied by a small party of men, and was to be supplied with provisions for the journey.
