The Life of the Land is Established in Righteousness.

HONOLULU, JAN. 15, 1894.

RIDICULOUS MUS.

MORE COMMENT ON MR. DOLE'S LABORS.

PART III.

(Communicated.)

In Part II, it was clearly shown that there did undoubtedly exist a mutual understanding on the subject matter of arbitration between Queen Liliuokalani, and Mr. Dole and his satellites. It will now be most conclusively shown, that the provisional government "did submit their claim to the sovereignty of this country, to the adjudication of the United States," and also, that Mr. Dole and his satellites recognized the Hon. J. H. Blount as an ARBITRATOR.

Written statements are stubborn facts to deny. To prove the falsity of Mr. Dole's denials regarding his government's want of knowledge in the matter of arbitration, its own expressions of opinion as voiced through its organ the Advertiser will be used. Those sentiments as expressed in an editorial, which appeared in the Advertiser on the morning of Mr. Blount's departure from this city after a four months investigation into our political affairs, are noteworthy. It will not be of any use for Mr. Dole to deny the fact, that, the statements contained in the editorial referred to, did unquestionably and undeniably express the settled opinions of himself and his government, on the subject matter of arbitration.

Mr. Dole says, "an arbitrator can be created only by the act of two parties."

"You may not be aware, but such is the fact, that at no time until the presentation of the claim of the President of the United States of his right to interfere in the internal affairs of this country, by you on December 19th, has this government been officially informed by the United States government that any such course was contemplated. And not until the publication of Mr. Gresham's letter to the President of the United States on the Hawaiian question, had we any reliable intimation of such a policy."

"If your contention that President Cleveland believes that this government and the ex-queen have submitted their respective claims to the sovereignty of this country, to the adjudication of the United States is correct, then, may I ask, when and where has the President held his court of Arbitration? This government has had no notice of the sitting of such a tribunal and no opportunity of presenting evidence of its claims. If Mr. Blount's investigations were a part of the proceedings of such a court, this government did not know it and was never informed of it."

For a reply to the above question and also to the untruthful allegations in the above quotations, Mr. Dole's attention is called to the letter from President Cleveland handed to him by Mr. Blount, in which the "President informs Mr. Dole, that Mr. Blount is my special Commissioner to visit the Hawaiian Islands and make report concerning the present status of affairs in that country." The Court of Arbitration was evidently then held in Honolulu. The following expressions from that—no doubt inspired—editorial in the Advertiser throws a different view on the matter in question. Mr. Dole might also read them with interest.

"As an arbitrator he (Mr. Blount) placed upon one side the ambitions of contending political factions and did his duty to his country without fear or favor by reporting a finding of the facts, and leaving the burden of the great responsibility of determining the future weal or woe of the Hawaiian islands to the integrity and justness of the United States of America."

Again, in the same editorial, may be found the following further evidences to prove the falsity of those allegations.

"The bulk of the people, and especially Americans, following the lead of the Provisional Government, placed the matters in dispute wholly in the hands of the American representative, and suspended further action until an answer should be received upon the proposition of annexation made by the Hawaiian commissioners to the authorities at Washington."

"From the moment this determination was arrived at with the landing of Mr. Blount in Hawaii, he was treated virtually as an arbitrator and the cases of both sides were laid before him on demand." These have been fully stated and impartially reported to the United States government.

So much to prove, that in the person of Mr. Blount, there did exist an Arbitrator.

Mr. Dole next attacks Mr. Blount's mode of procedure in making his investigations. That inspired editorial also furnishes information on that subject; and shows Mr. Dole's assertions to be unfounded. As will be seen on reading these extracts:

"It may be truthfully said that Mr. Blount's arrival at first caused more or less disappointment from the extremists of both sides. Local politics in Hawaii blinded the factional leaders somewhat to the policy and line of procedure which would inevitably be followed by the representative of a great power, called in to report upon the existent conditions of a country which felt it had outgrown an unfit form of government and pending a settlement of its affairs, had established a Provisional government, demanding that the Hawaiian islands be made an active participant and member of the great republic which represents western civilization in the Pacific."

"At first the Americans failed to look upon Mr. Blount otherwise than as a countryman and the royalists refused to view him in any other light than as a savior come to restore the monarchy. He proved to be neither of these—he proved to be a representative of the American people as a whole, and refused to view Hawaiian affairs from a party or factional standpoint."

"The details of his investigation were made after his own method, which, as far as known, has been one of singular wisdom and justness."

Mr. Dole says, that Mr. Blount was only here a few months; and being so occupied with his work of investigation "that he had little opportunity left for receiving those impressions of the state of affairs, etc." The sentiments of Mr. Dole and his government as voiced in that inspired editorial, was this:

"That he should be able after a four months' residence, during which he has investigated and reported upon existing conditions such as happen but once in the life of a nation, and retain, with very few exceptions, the respect and friendship of both sides, fighting the political battle to the death, is a triumph of diplomacy and statesmanship that demands public plaudit without reference to political or racial differences from a local standpoint."

In a news article in the same paper, appear these lines:

"Minister Blount arrived here on March 29th, by the U. S. revenue cutter Richard Rush, and has consequently been something over four months an official sojourner in the Hawaiian Islands. His work in preparing his report on Hawaiian affairs to the United States Government has occupied fully four months of his time. In this period, with the aid of one secretary, as commissioner and minister to these islands, he has performed an amount of labor that probably very few men in the United States or elsewhere would be able to perform in the same time and under similar difficult circumstances."

"First the facts were gleaned in the most thorough and searching manner from all sides of the question at issue. The amount of verbosity accompanying the testimony made the labor of editing and sifting the evidence very great. Added to this was the collection and compilation of economic and historical facts and statistics which were received and arranged down to the hour almost that Minister Blount's report was forwarded to Washington a few weeks ago."

Mr. Dole says, "Mr. Blount came here as a stranger and at once entered upon his duties." That inspired article, says:

"From the moment the Richard Rush arrived in the Honolulu harbor, Mr. Blount showed himself the right man in the right place, and subsequent events have proved the wisdom of President Cleveland in sending to Hawaii a man and statesman of Mr. Blount's abilities and experience."

"That an entire stranger and a foreigner, in one sense of the word, should drop into the Hawaiian world in the midst of revolution accomplished and the excitement which always accompanies such an upheaval, without exciting the opposition or distrust of contending factions, was an exceptional feat."

"It is just probable that no diplomat of the United States was ever before sent upon so delicate a mission on such short notice, who has filled the bill with such entire satisfaction to all the interested parties."

Mr. Dole says, that, "He (Mr. Blount) saw the country from his cottage in the center of Honolulu, mainly through the eyes of the witnesses whom he examined." Can it be that Mr. Dole has forgotten the attentions he and his colleagues paid to Mr. Blount during his sojourn in this city? How frequently they dined him? How often members of the present Cabinet were seen walking with Mr. Blount on the streets? How about the yachting trips, and the excursions on the railroad? Have all of those incidents escaped Mr. Dole's memory? It is well known that Mr. Blount accepted courtesies from the members of this government and not from those of the opposition. Does Mr. Dole not know, that Mr. Blount was accustomed to walk mornings and evenings about the city? That, the day, on which Mr. Dole and his satellites moved their offices, to the Palace Building, Mr. Blount took the opportunity of riding past the government building in a tramcar, and saw that high-handed proceeding for himself? Yet, Mr. Dole has the presumption to say, that Mr. Blount only saw the country from his cottage.

The remaining allegations contained in Mr. Dole's brief, may be refuted by the following paragraphs, also taken from that precious inspired editorial.

"The people of Hawaii, with a few exceptions to be found in the ultra anti American faction, will unite in wishing Minister Blount God-speed."

"The Americans of Hawaii will hold him in the highest estimation, and will part with him with regret, no matter what is the ultimate decision of the United States regarding the annexation of these islands."

Mr. Dole now endeavors to "show up" the misrule of the Governments under King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani. That point has already been conclusively set aside and rebuked by articles in the HOLOMUA and Bulletin. It is not necessary to enlarge upon it here, suffice it to say, that never in the history of these Islands have the Hawaiians been ruled over by such tyrannical, despotic and oligarchical methods, as has been experienced during the past year.

What effect Dole's stupendous brief may have on President Cleveland's policy remains to be seen. The following extract from a letter received by a gentleman in this city, from a prominent business man in San Francisco, shows appropriation of President Cleveland.

"Our sympathy is with your Queen and we feel it would be simple justice to have her restored to her rightful throne. The friends and followers of the previous administration seem determined on making a strong fight in defense of their act, and are doing all in their power to create a feeling against President Cleveland and the course he seems disposed to pursue; but he is a great man, a man of the people and for the people, and will stand firm against all odds, when he feels satisfied that his position is the correct one."

The name "American," as appropriated by a secret political organization here is a most decided misnomer. "American" is, or was, synonymous for one who believed in right against wrong and one who would assist the weak against the strong in the effort to expose wrong done, especially in high places. "For the public good," is an "American" motto and many a good man has "gone under" in that endeavor. But, what do we, of Hawaii, find "American" to, of late, mean here? Simply that the word has become synonymous with, usurpation, tyranny, espionage, bullying and injustice! Or else why does the, so-called, American League ostracize ex-Captain Juen, for their stated reason, in writing, that he had exposed the damnable dynamite plot "in a Royalist paper." Was that American, in its action! The exposure, by the only newspaper that dared to print it, of a plot most dangerous to the safety of the whole community, to be condemned? The exposure was too bitter a bill for the honest (?) annexation, papers, to swallow themselves or present to their partisans, and Juen availed himself of the only opportunity. As yet the charges are unrefuted and the League may, with justice, reconsider their faux pas and ostracize the Marshal.

THE Star has been conducted, in its late backward course, "to the entire satisfaction of the share-holders." So say the directors. When they learn that their bull is being gored they will very probable change their tune and join in a different chorus. "The times change and men change with them," and, mayhap, in the near future, the changes rung upon some of their sins of commission, or omission, may not prove such satisfactory reading. Many of the Star's stockholders live in large glass houses, their reputations founded on sand, and when the bricks of criticism and hurled, breaches will be made which will allow the light of exposure to be cast upon their other selves and the water of truth will reveal a Hyde where a Jekyll was supposed to be. There is something very rotten in the politics of the annexationists when they now publicly give certificates of good character, to a, many-times libellous sheet.

A Barefaced Insult.

The Advertiser lately presented a statement in which besides using in an insulting manner the expression of "Great and Good Friend" as applied to the President of the United States it also allowed the publication of a story which implied that the crew of the U. S. S. Philadelphia "understood" that they were to desert their colors and act the part of cowards by "running" away from the Provisional (not Hawaiian) troops. Much surprise has been evinced by American citizens here that such a bare faced, and, believed to be, untruthful statement should be allowed to pass unchallenged, but, so far, the American officers and men of the U. S. S. Philadelphia have quietly accepted the implied insult to their flag, their Commander-in-chief and their own honor. And so has the Minister.

Following is the tale published by the Advertiser under the heading "They were to run. A sailor from the Philadelphia explains his orders;"

"An amusing story of what might have happened had the American troops landed according to the wishes of our Great and Good Friend has just come out. A few days ago, some one asked a sailor from the Philadelphia whether the crew of that ship had made any preparations to land if called upon by Minister Willis to do so. He replied that they had, and went on to say, in perfect good faith, that the way they understood the matter was that if they were called upon to shoot at the government forces, they were first to fire over their heads, then the Hawaiian troops were to do the same, and then the United States troops were to run. He seemed perfectly sure that this was the programme that would be carried out."

Poverty and Grief.

Gaze at those P. G. soldiers Standing at their posts, Some are robust looking, Whilst others look like ghosts. There are more that look like sprinters, And others resemble pug's. But, our law-abiding citizens Are tired of those Mug's.

There are more that do remember They have served a term in jail. In the cold month of December When no one would go their bail. There are more that were beach-combers Just recently, this Fall, But now they've struck the racket That snits them, one and all.

The bums have fallen in the ranks And gave the streets a spell, Whilst some have said since they have joined They'd sooner be in—well. The scrubs from foreign countries Have flocked in here like bee's. Those are the class of people That uphold the great P. G's.

I must inform this Government And tell them one and all, That we that are bred and born here Have got no show at all, They support those bums and loafers That make up Tim's secret clique, And Congress now will soon decide And make the P. G's sick.

The Dutch claim that the Irish Are nothing else but cranks, Whilst some of Captain Charlie's corps Declare that they are "Yanks." The Germans too have formed a League And say, they'll make it peer, I guess they will, the 17th, With kegs of Lager Beer.

The Portuguese will form a league And won't be in the lurch, Still they know they're doing wrong And yet they go to Church. The scrubs from foreign countries Are swarming in like bee's What an intelligent class of hoo-doo's Uphold the great P. G's.

The time is drawing to a close When politics will boom, And we that have been cheated . Our rights we will resume. We then will drink a hearty toast In honor of our home And once more be united When LILIU takes her Throne.

A DOLEFUL FEAST.

A Repetition of History.

The midnight hour was drawing on,
Flushed in repose lay Honolulu;
But in the palace of the king,
The herd of soldiers shout and sing
There in the royal palace's banquet hall
King Dole holds forth high festival.
The soldiers sit in glittering rows,
The beakers are drained, the red wine flows;
The beakers clash and the soldiers sing
A pleasing sound to the moody king.
King Dole's cheeks flush and his wild eyes
shine,
His spirit now waxes bold with wine;
Until by maddening passion stung,
He scoffs at Cleveland!!! with impious
tongue;
And his poor heart swells as he wildly raves
Mid shouts of applause from his fawning slaves.
He spoke the word and his eyes flushed flame!
The ready servants went and came;
Vessels of massive gold they bore,
Of Liliu's property, the plundered store.
Then seizing a consecrated cup,
The king in his fury fills it up;
He fills, and hastily drains it dry;
From his foaming lip leaps forth the cry,
"Clevel and Liliu! to you my scorn I fling!
I am the Dole, the P. G.'s king."
Yet scarce had the impious words been said
When the King's heart shrank with secret dread.
Suddenly died the shout and yell—
A death-like hush on the tumult fell.
And see! and see! on the white wall high,
The form of a hand went slowly by,
And wrote—and wrote in sight of all—
Letters of Fire upon the wall!
King Dole sat still with a stony look;
His trembling knees with terror shook;
The mental throng nor spoke nor stirred;
Fear froze their blood—no sound was heard.
Sereus' kahunas came, but none of all,
Could read the writing on the wall.
At length to solve those words of flame,
Fearless, but meek, Paul the prophet,
came;
One glance he gave, and all was clear!
"King Dole, there is reason in thy fear!
Those words proclaim thy empire ends—
The day of woe and wrath impends;
Weighed in the balance wanting found,
Then and thy Empire strike the ground!"
YOUNG HAWAII.

Walter Besant is right in describing the American people as a nation of slammers. We slam doors everywhere, and we slam our public men as do no other people on earth.

A Close Call.

Mrs. Willis the wife of the American Minister had a narrow escape from injury Saturday afternoon, the buggy in which she was driving being run into by drunken hackman. Happily there was no serious results except the damage to the buggy which had the hind axle bent and a wheel disbed. The hackman was arrested on a charge of furious driving and deposited a bail of $25. He forfeited this but was again arrested this morning on a warrant issued by Judge Robertson.

THE LAST RITES.

Funeral of the Late F. S. Pratt.

In accord with previous notice, as given in the daily papers the funeral of the late Franklin S. Pratt who died on the 11th inst. took place on last Sunday afternoon from St. Andrew's Cathedral. The ceremonies at the church were of a very impressive nature and were attended by a large numbers of friends of the deceased. Undertaker Williams had charge of the funeral arrangements connected with the transfer of the body from the house to church and finally to the last resting place in Nuuanu Valley.

At the church the National Band, under the leadership of Senior Libornio, played a dirge on the arrival of the body, and at the conclusion of the church services headed the procession, en route to the grave, playing appropriate music. The pall bearers were ex-Gov. A. S. Cleghorn, Justice W. A. Whiting; ex-Judge Foster, Hons. W. G. Irwin, W. F. Allen, G. Brown, Geo. Roses and J. O. Carter. Sixteen Hawaiians acted as kahilis bearers and walked by the sides of the hearse. There was a beautiful and profuse display of flowers and a very large attendance of mourning friends.

Go Slow.

It will be well to receive with caution the "news" about the Hawaiian situation which dribbles in from various quarters by way of vessels that left Honolulu later than the last mail steamer. But all indications tend to the conclusion that the Provisional Government does not propose to yield to persuasion and consent to the restoration of the status quo of early January, and that our Government has never had any purpose of employing unauthorized force to restore the dethroned monarch of Hawaii. Unless something can be agreed upon between Mr. Willis and the provisional authorities, Congress will have to take some action for the extrication of the United States Government from the awkward predicament in which it was put by Mr. Steven's officiousness in promoting the annexation scheme. The one thing certain is that annexation will not be the solution of the difficulty, whether the "legitimate Government" is restored or not. The provisional government was set to last only until union with the United States could be agreed upon, and the Queen relinquished her authority only until such time as the wrong done her by authority of the United States should be undone by the same authority. Good faith would require the provisional government to retire now and let the people of the islands settle the questions of their future Government, but good faith has had little to do with the performances of the "Missionary Children."—New York Times.

Who the Men are.

The principal witnesses in the Hawaiian case, now on trial before the people of this country, are Mr. Stevens and Mr. Blount. Indeed, to no small degree the main question at issue, just now, is the question of the veracity and good judgment of these two men. In making up a verdict on this phase of the matter, the character, standing and record of the men must be taken into consideration and must form the basis of a judgment so far as their rival and contradictory statements are concerned. In this connection, it will not be forgotten that the Republican administration, under which Mr. Stevens acted, "disavowed" his course, though availing itself of the results of that course to seek the making of political capital. Mr. Blount has been a member of Congress for something like twenty years and had resigned his seat with a magnificent expression of his fellow members' confidence and admiration. In that, the Republicans joined un-animously. When he was sent to Honolulu, his former Republican associates in the House un-animously approved his selection as that of a man of immense experience in dealing with our foreign relations and of a most judicial cast of mind. Stevens was "disavowed" by his party representatives, and Blount was endorsed by the Republicans in Congress who had been associated with him for years.—Grand Rapids Dem.

The Average Life.

The annual mortality of the entire human race amounts, roughly speaking, to 33,000,000 persons. This makes the average deaths per day over 91,000, being at the rate of 3730 an hour, or 62 people every minute of the day and night the year round. A fourth of the race die before completing their 8th year, and one-half before the end of the 17th year, but the average duration of life is about 38 years. Not more than one person in 100, 000 lives to be 100.—Exchange.
