The Daily Bulletin.
Pledged to neither Sect nor Party.
But established for the benefit of all.
SATURDAY, APRIL 2, 1887.

THE TROGLDYTE DISCOVERY.
Our First of April story, the wonderful troglodyte discovery, published last evening, was a complete success. The expressions of surprise and enquiries for additional information, through the telephone and in person, were more than one man could attend to. Of course, there were some readers who remembered that it was the first of April, but others seemed entirely oblivious of that fact. One gentleman intimated his purpose to organize a party and go right up to Hawaii by the first steamer, and another rang up a friend who was asleep, near midnight, to tell him in all seriousness of the new discovery. A third, on being informed, in answer to enquiry, that it was a First of April story, used some vigorous language, and said that that meant a loss to him of a bet of a bottle of whiskey.
But the best of all is, a morning contemporary was duped by the belief that "a clever scribbler purporting to write from Hilo had worked off a first-class April fool 'sell' on the BULLETIN, in the shape of a circumstantial account of the discovery of a degraded type of human beings in a mammoth cave in the interior of Maunakea." The BULLETIN did not expect that its story, specially designed for the occasion, would have gone to the extent of impressing members of the fraternity with the idea that the paper itself had been "sold." If our friend had carefully noted the item in the same issue, calling special attention to the article, he would have observed an exclamation point at the end, the meaning of which is well understood by printers.

SCIENCE OF SURGERY.
Boston, March 6.—A correspondent of the Transcript reports a recent successful operation by Dr. H.
W. Bradford in transplanting a rabbit's eye. The patient was a Swiss, thirty-four years old. After the operation the eye was left undisturbed for seven days, but the patient was carefully watched for febrile disturbances. The eye was then examined and found to be in fair condition. On the twelfth day the condition of the eye was much improved. The muscles were working satisfactorily and the divergence had improved. A month later the eye was capable of moving in all directions. The Doctor thinks there is a faint possibility that if the elements of the eye could be properly followed vision could be secured.
He thinks there is a possibility of sight in the case of children if the eye of a young dog was used, as the transplanted eye might continue to grow.—[S. F. Bulletin.]

A ROYAL LETTER.

King Malletoa Undertakes to Give Absurd Advice.

Perverted Views of the Hawaiian Situation.

The sending of a special Ambassador and Minister Plenipotentiary on the part of the Hawaiian Government to the Samoan Islands has been, so far, effectual in drawing from Malletoa, the so-called king at Apia, at least two communications.
The first was published in the official organ several weeks ago, and its contents have been pretty well digested ere this; the second is in the form of "advice," omitting the "encouragement," to the Envoy's master. This appears, from some accident, to have missed being delivered, or it would undoubtedly have been given to the public in the same way as the first. Fortunately, however, it has not been for ever lost, but was recently fished out of the gutter in Smith street, by a person who was ignorant of the real value of his discovery, and sold it to a curiosity-hunter for a mere trifle. This individual, the rightful owner by purchase, is of opinion that this important document should become as widely known as the first, and therefore requests its publication. It is here reproduced word for word:

To His Mighty and Enlightened Majesty the King of the Islands of Hawaii, from His Mighty and Enlightened Brother Malletoa, Autocrat and Emperor of the Samoan Islands—Greeting:— I have seen with immense satisfaction the Envoy you have sent to me at the Samoan Court, and have listened to the arguments he has adduced to bring me to the belief that the prosperity of our two kingdoms depends in a great measure on their being united, and in their acting entirely in reciprocity. I have received from Mr. Bush much valuable information on this subject. An alliance to be of advantage to both of us should be of a permanent nature, reaching far into the future. Yet Mr. Bush, to my astonishment, has told me that the Hawaiian natives are fast disappearing from the face of the earth, and that in his opinion it may be very difficult to find a handful of them after the lapse of another twenty years. He attributes this to their manner of living, and the loose way of their being governed. This with me raises a very grave question, as the reflection naturally comes to me, "Who shall take their place?" I may say once for all that Chinese would not suit me.

Mr. Bush informs me that very great dissatisfaction is rife in your kingdom, which may at any moment culminate in revolution; that nine-tenths of the taxes, out of which your own salary is paid and with which your government is carried on, are subscribed by or collected from white people, who for the purpose of finding profitable investment on Hawaiian soil, and who roundly assert that at present they have no voice in the disbursement of the monies they contribute; and that for the future they are determined to have a voice, and to use it for the public good.

Since I have known English I have read history much, and I find that the story is always the same with these white people, and that they eventually carry their point, sometimes firmly and quietly, sometimes extravagantly and through blood, as for instance in France at the end of the last century.

I have read sufficient to convince me that in the end one man power, or despotism, has always to give way to popular manifestation, although the time taken for the change may be long or short. In Samoa, at present, I have none of these troubles to face.

One good turn deserves another, and filled as I am with grave surmises as to the uncertainty of human arrangements, and more especially the fates of rulers and kingdoms, it seems to me that the best way to reciprocate your interference in the affairs of Samoa will be to give you what I consider sound advice, viz.: 1st—To occupy yourself wholly and solely with the affairs of your own country. They need all the attention you can spare, if you desire to remain there as ruler.
2nd—To pacify, so far as you can, the American party who put you on the throne of your country, and who otherwise may become just as active in endeavors to put you back again to where you were originally, and inaugurate a republic. This would be a serious misfortune both for yourself and your friends, who now draw large sums out of the tax monies, and who then would draw nothing at all.
3rd—To do away with, at once and for ever, all nonsense of creating orders, and naming companions and officers and knights of those orders. This may do very well for the old and respectable monarchies of Europe, but is quite out of place in a little paltry state of aborigines, so close to an enormous republic where all these frivolities are laughed at, and all exorcences of nobility lopped off.

4th—To annul, at once and for ever, all creations of offices of rank, such as Lieutenants-General, Admirals, and fellows of that kind.
The tax payers don't like it, and won't stand it.

5th—To consult the interest of the tax payers alone, and never your own, in promoting persons white or brown to positions of trust, in the public offices, and that the last qualification for office shall be that their wives are good-looking, etc.

6th—To see that the roads in and about your metropolis are kept in perfect order. Bad roads invariably mean bad government.

7th—To top off, at once and for ever, any people attached to your Court or Court-yard, drawing pay for doing nothing. The tax payers are averse to it.

8th—To avoid by every means in your power dipping your hand into the public purse, and be watchful that none of your dependents receive bribes for opium concessions from two or three parties, or from any other source. In fact, to content yourself wholly and solely with what is allowed you by the public, and never let them think they could get a better man for less money.

9th—To inculcate by your own example and by the strongest admonition to your Ministers, that one and all are but servants, for the time being, of the tax payer, without any Grace of God in the matter; and that those of all classes in the public service who have been feathering their nests by spoliation and by malversation of public funds, are liable by every law of both God and man to impeachment and entire confiscation for the public benefit, of all they have amassed.

On the other hand, I would allow no public discussion of politics as in the United States. In my little country I have been terribly annoyed by adventurers who have gone so far as to say that in San Francisco they would undertake to find men, who, for seven dollars and fifty cents and a drink of whiskey, would have no scruples at pitching some stuff contained in little globes of glass beneath my feet, and blowing me to the devil, as the easiest means of solving the situation. I do all in my power to put a stop to all talk of this kind.

If I have said anything to hurt your feelings, pray excuse me. We rulers are only here for a brief period, which depends mainly on how we conduct ourselves, and we can, so the missionaries say, carry nothing away with us. I am getting thirsty, and must subscribe myself, Your Majesty's Loving Brother, MALLETOA.

N. B.—Excuse me if I beg you in the next parcel you send me, to put in three or four pairs of old pants.

HOLY WEEK.

Next week is the Holy Week, also called the Great Week, the week of the Holy Passion, the Penal Week, the Week of Forgiveness. This week is called by these mysterious names, because it is the week in which the Church commemorates Christ's death and burial, and reminds us of the consummation of the work of our redemption. It could be called, like the very first week, Creation week, because by the death of the God-Man, which it reminds us of, creation was renewed and man restored to his original dignity and forfeited claims. The custom of keeping Holy Week dates from Apostolic times. It is true that the first day of Holy Week is Palm Sunday, in which Christ's triumphant entry into Jerusalem is chiefly commemorated; but, in fact, Holy Week begins with Monday, and not with the Sunday. During the week no more joyous chant may be heard of the Church, but all her chanting, ceremonies and vestments are so many signs of her mourning. The gospel at mass is the history of the Passion of our Lord, according to the four Evangelists, whose different relations of that stupendous event are read or sung, viz., Matthew's on Palm Sunday,—Mark's on Tuesday,—Luke's on Wednesday,—and John's on Good Friday.

On Thursday, which is called Holy Thursday, also Maundy Thursday, the institution of the Holy Eucharist is joyfully commemorated at the one mass which can be said in the same church. And then the bells, after ringing at the gloria of the mass, do not sound again till the gloria in the mass of Holy Saturday. The altars are stripped, and then follows the washing of the feet called "mandatum," which means commandment, from the words of our Saviour "a new commandment I give unto you, that you love one another," whence the English word "Maundy." On this day the Pope washes the feet of 13 poor persons, all of whom are priests.
In catholic countries it was the custom of sovereigns to wash themselves the feet of 12 poor men in resemblance of what our Lord had done; and this is very likely kept nowadays yet in Austria, when the Emperor washes the feet of 12 poor men. On Holy Thursday the holy oils to be used for the administration of the sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation, Extreme Unction, and Holy Orders, during the whole year, are consecrated with a grand solemnity, by the Bishop, assisted by several priests.

On Holy Friday, also called Good Friday, the Church commemorates the Passion and death of Christ, so that it is the most sad and solemn of all the days in Holy Week. The officiating clergy appear in black vestments. The cross which has been up to the time covered with black is exposed to view, and kissed by clergy and people. But the most striking and singular feature in the Good Friday ritual is the uncelebrating of the Holy Mass, which must be celebrated on every other day of the year.

Holy Saturday, which is the last day of Holy Week, reminds us of the sepulture of our Lord.

And when Holy Week is closed, then the souls of men awake from the grief and affliction, in which they have been buried during the week of our Lord's Passion, to greet and adore our triumphantly risen Redeemer, saluting each other with the Angel's words "Christ is risen," and the Easter bells catch the glad murmur from the lips of men, and chant together in their lofty towers "Christ is risen, Alleluia." Easter Sunday, more properly called Paschal Sunday, is the day of our Lord's resurrection. Easter is of a pagan origin, being derived from the Saxon Eastre, the divinity of the dawn, while pascha has a Christian meaning. This word pascha is of a Jewish origin; it reminds us of the Passover or Pasch, a feast celebrated on the 14th of Nisan, and instituted in commemoration of the wonderful deliverance, which God wrought for the Jews on the night of their exit from Egypt. The distroying angel smote the first born of Egypt, but passed over the house of the Hebrews. This deliverance was granted on a certain condition.
Each head of a Hebrew was to slay a lamb or kid without blemish on the evening, sprinkle its blood on the lintel and side posts of the door, and then when the lamb had been roasted, no bone being broken, it was eaten by all the family with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.
That lamb prefigured the true paschal lamb, Jesus Christ, by whom we are delivered from the bondage of sin, and the blood of the lamb prefigured the blood of our Redeemer, which was shed to the last drop for the washing away of our sins.

Easter is called "the feast of feasts;" it is the greatest of Christian solemnities, being the foundation of our Faith, for as said St.
Paul in his 1st epistle to the Corinthians (xv—17), "If Christ be not risen again, your faith is vain, for you are yet in your sins. Then they also that are fallen asleep in Christ, are perished. If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable. But now Christ is risen from the dead, the first fruits of them that sleep."
FATHER CLEMENT.

SUPREME COURT.

FRIDAY, April 1st.
In the probate division of the Supreme Court, this morning, His Honor the Chief Justice heard the application of Joseph P. Mendonca, administrator of the estate of Domingo Lopes Ramos, deceased, praying for confirmation of sale of real estate belonging to the deceased.
The sale was held yesterday in the auctioneer's rooms of Lewis J. Levey, and two parcels of land situate in Kalihi, Honolulu, were offered for sale. The purchaser of the first parcel was His Excellency A. Rosa, for the sum of $900, and Domingo Cabrera was the purchaser of the second lot, sold for $350. His Honor after examining the auctioneer's account and affidavits as to regulation of sale found the order of Court duly complied with, and ordered the sale confirmed and deeds to the purchasers to be made.
Hon. Cecil Brown appeared for the administrator.

HABEAS CORPUS CASE.
The habeas corpus case, in which F. P. dos Santos is the prisoner, was before His Honor Justice Preston this afternoon, and the argument of counsel was unfinished as we go to press. Senhor Canavarro was present during the proceedings.

A DONKEY GAME.

Frank Leslie's weekly, of a recent date, speaks of a new parlor game that would be highly interesting to Honolulu society people. The lady who gives the party has a large donkey, worked in worsted, on a white back-ground, and hung at the further end of the parlor. This donkey has a detachable tail made of cloth, and after the guests have assembled, each one, in turn, is blind-folded, and taking the donkey's tail steps forward to pin it in its natural place as nearly as possible.

HAWAIIAN OPERA HOUSE.

THE OLD FOLKS' CONCERT.

As people appeared at the door of the Hawaiian Opera House, last night, they were received by attentive ushers arrayed in ancient costumes and bedecked with wigs, and conducted to seats. By 8 o'clock, the house was full, and the concert began. A company of about thirty ladies and gentlemen occupied the stage. Their dresses and general get-up resembled those we see in English pictures of a hundred and more years ago—grotesque and solemn. The programme was printed in old style English, which our representative mistook for some Conti-ental language, probably Norwegian. On being informed by a gentleman sitting next to him that it was the English that "was," he suspected that he was being "First-of-Apriled," and said he'd be hanged if he could read it, and questioned if one in ten of those present could.

The great feature of the entertainment was the singing, and this merited such encomiums as "good," "very good," "excellent," etc. Most of the selections were old and familiar, and were none the worse nor the less appreciated because of that. The solos were mostly pleasing specimens of vocalization, with a good background of chorus which enhanced their beauty. A couple of quartettes were very pretty. The harmonious blending of about thirty well-trained voices in the company pieces produced a volume of charming sound. But the jewel that sparkled brightest of all to many eyes, or the music that sounded sweetest in their ears, was a duet by two ladies. As this notice is only intended to be a brief outline, no names have been mentioned, and as the mention of some names without the whole might be construed into unfair partiality, we are precluded from saying that the two ladies just now referred to were Mrs. Hanford and Miss Grieve, and that Miss Grieve has a sweetly pretty voice, over which she has complete control. Would like to pay this merited compliment, but refrain.

The dramatic part of the entertainment was rather small, but what there was of it, was pretty good. A little silent courtship between two young people, while a third party enunciated the plot in a clear, distinct voice, constituted one short play, and a second laughably represented a quaker courtship. Sombre religious asceticism, with natural amateness occasionally cropping through the crust, was capably illustrated.

The singing of "Auld Lang Syne," in which the audience joined, closed a pleasant evening's entertainment a little before 10 o'clock.

THE APRIL TERM CALENDAR.

The April Term of the Supreme Court will open on Monday next, First Associate Justice McCully, presiding. According to the printed list of cases to be heard, there are sixty-four in all, divided as follows: Hawaiian, Criminal, one only, a case of selling liquor without a license. Hawaiian Civil cases consist of one Probate appeal, and three ejectment suits. The mixed jury cases comprise four ejectments, one damage, one trover, one assumption, and one case of replevin.

Before a foreign jury, there are set down to be tried, six criminal, and sixteen civil cases, distributed as follows: Criminal—one possession of opium, one adultery, one malicious injury, one assault with a pistol, and one case of larceny. The civil cases comprise, one case of trespass, one ejectment, eleven assumption, one debt, one case, and one damage.

Of the twenty cases set down to be heard in Banco, there are seven equity appeals, eight cases of exceptions, one appeal by Aseu as garnishee, two Police Court appeals, one probate appeal, and one appeal from the Third Circuit Court.

The suits for divorce are few in number, comparatively, comprising only nine.

To try the whole of the above named cases in the allotted time, will probably be more than the Court can accomplish. The work to be accomplished by the gentlemen of the bar is pretty evenly divided.

POLICE COURT PROCEEDINGS.

THE JAPANESE STABBING CASE.

SATURDAY, April 2nd.

The Japanese who stabbed another Japanese on the 16th ultimo in Fowler's yard was tried at the Police Court to-day. The Japanese Consul and Vice-Consul were present, the latter acting as interpreter. Mr. Jno. Austin appeared for the prisoner, and made a short address on his behalf, pleading for mitigation of punishment. His Honor addressed the prisoner on what might have been, the enormity of the crime he had committed. He sentenced him to a fine of $100 and to be imprisoned at hard labor for four months.

A YOUTHFUL CULPRIT.

A Chinese boy of nine years of age, appeared to answer a charge of larceny of an earring, the property of Mrs. Julia Rawson. Mr. Hatch appeared for the prisoner. He was discharged.

AMERICAN-GROWN FIGS.

TURKEY'S FAMOUS FRUIT TRANSFERRED TO UNITED STATES SOIL—SUCCESS OF THE ENTERPRISE.

The continued outbreaks of Asiatic cholera have had the effect of creating a lack of confidence in the Turkish fig and of causing that healthy fruit to be extensively planted on American soil. The semi-tropical States as in Asia Minor, great attention is being given to its cultivation. This has proved to be profitable to the planter and has in many instances caused the American fruit to be more appreciated than the product of Turkey. The true fig of commerce in all countries has been the white Smyrna variety, which is now being profitably produced in Southern California. In many features the American reproduction has been proven to be superior to the Turkish. It is now in its thinnest skin and finer seeds. Already this variety has commanded a higher price in many of the markets of this country on account of the above-mentioned advantages over the imported fig. A well-known California planter, now in this city, gave the following description to a reporter for the "Mail and Express" of the way he prepares his fruit for the market when intended to be sold in a dried state: "In curing and packing I gather my figs—for I have trees twelve years old, which have increased in the quantity and quality of the crop as they grow—just as I would gather other fruit, that is when fully ripe. I leave all the stem on the fig, and am careful to soil the skin as little as possible. When gathered I place the figs on trays similar to those used in curing raisins. Having fumigated them for an hour I place the trays in the sun at an angle of forty-five degrees facing the sun. They are thus left for six or eight days, when, if the weather has been favorable, they will be ready for the sweat-box. In foggy weather this drying may take ten days or two weeks. When in the sweat-box they are left until I am ready to pack them for market, when I use 2 1/2, 5 or 25-pound boxes, as may suit the commercial center to which they are to be despatched. The new Pacific or brown Smyrna will dry in less time than any fig of which I have knowledge. I see a bright future for those who cultivate figs, as a fig orchard will in a shorter time pay better than any other fruit. This has been my own experience. To get good fruit requires care in cultivation, as in anything else. If the proper soil be selected, care taken to have enough of moisture by irrigation or otherwise while the fruit is growing, good and perfect drainage at all times, and the gradual drying of the soil while the fruit is ripening, with sufficient heat to insure sweetness in the fig, there is no reason that I can see why fig culture will not become one of the most profitable industries of the United States."—[N. Y. Mail and Express.
