MUD THROWING. The "Gazette" this morning says It is a pity to see the BULLETIN being made a catapult for throwing mud at public men who have the confidence of the whole community." If he has reference to a letter in our Issue of yesterday signed "Curiosity," we fail to see the propriety of the simile, as in that letter a few pertinent questions were asked in regard to the source from which the money came for the Sanitary expedition, ostensibly in the interests of the Board of Health, to select a suitable place on the Island of Kauai, for the establishment of a leper settlement. According to their own report, and from the testimony of [private individuals, the place visited by the commission is not at all adapted for the purpose, and leaving all other considerations out of the question the cost of maintaining another settlement of lepers would be far in excess of the benefits derived from such a settlement. We now have a well equipped and and comfortable Lazaretto for this class of unfortunate beings, with ample appropriations, if judiciously used, for all requirements-a place where segregation can be made almost absolute, and with natural advantages unsurpassed by any place on the Islands for making it one of the best Leper Hospitals in the world. And with these consideration in view, is it a wonder that people should ask where the money is coming from to pay for such expeditions that are of no practical benefit to the country? Or if such questions are asked through the columns of a newspaper, should the propounders be accused of throwing mud on Government officials? The "Gazette," as it is peculiarly situated, may think this is mud throwing, as it does all investigations into the doings of the present government, but we contend that it

EDITOR BULLELIN:--It seems to me that it is no more than fair before publishing "interviews" by newspaper men, to submit them to the party to see if they are substantially correct before republishing them in our local papers especially when the party who is interviewed is near at hand.

I know of "interviews" with Hon. H. A. P. Carter at Washington when he was in the pine woods of Maine, and he has been so annoyed at things which the reporters have given him credit for saying that I received the following telegrams from him not long since:-

"Welch & Co., San Francisco. Write Jones deny truth of all reported interviews with me.

H. A. P. CARTER." By giving this in your paper of to-day, you will oblige, Honolulu, Oct. 4.

THE WILDER INTERVIEW. EDITOR BULLETIN: -- I was greatly impressed with the political significance of the interview with the Hon, S. G. Wilder, published in the last page of yesterday's BULLETIN from the Boston "Herald." It should be carefully read by everybody having any interest in the Islands. Whether it will form very agreeable reading to the men in power is quite another thing. But Mr. Wilder has played far too important a part in Hawaiian affairs have his utterances ignored. He throws considerable light upon the revolutionary movement, and makes a statement from which it may be inferred that the foreign representatives had been consulted, step by step, by the League up to the final point. If this be true it places these gentlemen in a rather embarrassing position, accredited as they were and are to King Kalakana by their respective Governments. Mr. Wilder is made to say: "The plan originally agreed upon was for the entire overthrow of the Kalakaua Government and the establishment of a republic on almost identical lines with that of the United States. To this, when the issue was prematurely forced, the English, French and Portuguese representatives oblican form of government with the United States so prominently in the foreground. Therefore it was agreed that the King should be shorn of most of his power over legislation," &c. By whom was this agreement to shear the King made? The inference is that it was an agreement between the revolutionary party and the foreign representatives mentioned, the absence of reference to the American Minister throughout suggesting that he was a party to the original scheme of an independent republic. This part of the secret history of the revolution gesting it. But there is a logical inconsistency between Mr. Wilder's position as approving the Hawaiian Republic scheme, and his reason for throwing cold water on the American annexation scheme, which appears to many unbiassed people the natural and only satisfactory solution of the problem. Quoting again from the interview:

has yet to be written. Doubtless it will form interesting reading, and

Mr. Wilder is to be thanked for sug-

"Could it be made a State?" asked the interviewer.

"I should hardly think that would be desirable," is Mr. Wilder's rejoinder, "because the natives would hardly be capable of exercising the right of suffrage; yet that is a matter for further consideration." Now, is it not the fact that the natives have exercised, and do exercise, the right of suffrage? Mr. Wilder has been elected a noble by the highest number of votes polled. largely by kanaka votes with whom is a favorite. If they would hardly be capable, as he says, of exercising the right of franchise under American institutions, what happens to qualify them for its exercise under the existing regime or an independent republic? Manifestly their responsibility is greater while the independence of their country remains, than it would be as voters of a state or territory of the great American Union. There are many other points in the interview which suggest comment but these will suffice for the present.

ETIQUETTE OF THE CICARETTE. There is a fashion even in so small a thing as the lighting of a igarette. In Cuba it is customary among gentlemen for one to place the eigarette between his lips, light it, take a few puffs and then hand it to his friend. In Spain the same fashion prevails. An Austrian is very punctilious about the etiquette of eigar lighting. He lights his cigarette first and then hands the lighted match to his companion. The idea is that it is more courteous to allow a comrade the greater length of time. If he is handed the match first he naturally hurries in spending the people's money in all order to hand it back again. A sorts of extravagances, and which Frenchman always hands his comultimately resulted in its overthrow, panion the match first. An Englishman proffers the eigarette to his friend, lights a match, hands it to him, and then helps himself to aupenditure of the public funds for no other eigarette and match. An American usually hands his friend > from his eigarette afterward. The small boy gets a light wherever he can, generally from some passer-by on the street. This habit of stopping men on the street for a light is looked upon as ill-bred in all countries. In no country is it tolerated to such an extent as in the United States .- [N. Y. Mail and Express,

ANOTHER BIG PROJECT FOR NEW YORK.

New York is emphatically a city of big things. The latest project is the new East-river Tunnel, which is to run between Hunter's Point and Fourth avenue. Beginning at or near Borden avenue and Hayward street, in Long Island City, it is intended to follow Borden avenue to the river and to cross in a direct line to about Thirty-fourth street. Following Thirty - fourth street the tunnel will go to Fourth avenue, whence branches will connect with the Grand Central Railroad station and the New York Central freight depot at Thirtieth street and Ninth avenue. A third branch may be extended to the Hudson-river Tunnel. Electricity will furnish both light and power, and ventilation will be accomplished through numerous air shafts by means of power fans. Elevators will connect the surface with stations under the Grand Central station. Sixth avenue and Thirty-third street, Thirteenth street and Ninth avenue. Thirtyfourth street at Third and Second avenue, and Broadway and Thirtythird street, in New York, and Borden avenue at Front and Vergon streets in Long Island City. Such a tunnel would establish connections between the railroad systems of the nation and the 400 miles now in operation on Long Island,

The Belgian Liberals have had their convention at Brussels, and have issued the programme by which they hope to allay existing discontents. They call for gratuitous and obligatory education; the regulation of child labor in factories; the provision of technical school for adults; the separation of church and state; the abolition of conscription and of substitution; an income tax; the repeal of the duties lately imposed on foreign cattle; insurance against accidents for workingmen on the jected. WHILE talking to the Superintend-ent of the Water Works, the follow-ing items were gleaned. The reason why pipes are being laid on the Insane Asylum road, is because the natives living on and near that road have been begging and petitioning for the line for the past six months. The line will not run to the Insane Asylum unless that institution pays the ex-

A GENTLEMAN told à very pathetic stery about his Chinese cook, this morning. This cook, a lad of tender years, is a devoted memer of the Chinese Y. M. C. A. as is also his father. The other day the boy, with a doleful expression on his face, said to his employer, I's going to leave. His father had bought him a Chinese wife for $400. SAMOAN CURIOS. Some of the Kaimiloa crew have brought here a number of remarkable Samoan curios. The spears of iron wood, carved out of one piece, are elaborately worked with fantastic scallops and antique crooks while the war clubs like oldfashioned meat choppers, and other implements of terror, were ornamented by carvings of remarkable delicacy.

MR. LIPPINCOTT.

He is also the correspondent of the Chicago "Lumberman," New York "World," Philadelphia "Times" and "Forest and Stream," in which journals he will encourage tourists and settlers to seek us out.

THE JORAN CONCERT. A fair attendance at the Music Every number on the programme was rendered with masterly skill. and fully sustained the reputation the young artists have earned in America and the Colonies, as being without a rival. Particular mention should be made of Signor Roselli's singing the "Heart Bowed Down" from the Bohemian Girl, which was received with loud applause and encored. In response he sang "In Happy Moments' in fine style; also the Trio, for two pianos and violin, by Lula, Pauline, and Elsie, which was magnificently rendered and scored another musical triumph for these ladies. These artists will give two more concerts, one on Thursday, night and one on Saturday night, with an entire change of programme for each occasion.

She was an Austrian baroness, but was employed by the German Government. She came to Paris and set up a handsome establishment near the Elysee. She soon made the acquaintance of the then Minister of her that he didn't know when in her presence whether he was standing on his feet or his head. He was at

J. Renton and wife, J. A. Beckwith, lunch. During the luncheon, which the islands to the United States, was always prolonged until the middle of the afternoon, the baroness' assistants would go through the portfolio and copy every paper in it. Within an hour they would all be transmitted by telegraph to Prince Bismarek. This went on for a long time. But at length it was discover-The baroness was expelled from France at 3 hours' warning, and the old fool of a War Minister was removed from his office and tried by a court martial. It is owing, indeed, to this spy system that diplomatic relations between France and Germany have been suspended.

TIGHT LACING. Here are some thoughts on lacing, advanced by a New York "Times" correspondent: "Every women will, of course, deny that she laces. A very eminent lady specialist of New York said a few weeks since that you could not lay the weight of your finger on an exposed vein without limiting its natural flow of blood. She also said that she had not had a female patient for many months who had drawn a full breath for a year. The doctors and druggists say that a perfectly sound girl of twenty is uncommon in society. Those flat chests were simply the natural result of a generation or so of dressing and living on the fashionable American plan."

TALE OF A COBRA AND MOUSE.

I was visiting at a friend's house in Calcutta, says Mr. Keane, in his "Three Years of a Wanderer's Life," and was on this evening sitting at dinner alone. The table had been some time waiting for the host, and I had at last received a note that he was not coming home, so I sat down alone. I had finished dinner and was still lingering at the table, when a little mouse ran up to the top of a bowl with a sort of basket-work cover on it. I should not have thought that of itself very singular, for the "tribes on our frontier" made most unexpected incursions. But when he did get perched on the cover of the bowl, the little fellow rose on his hind legs, with his hands before him, and began to entertain me with the funniest little mouse song you can imagine. Chit-chit, cheep-cheepchit," he whistled, and kept it up before me in a most unembarrassed and self-possessed little way. I must have been a trying audience, for I leaned back in my chair and roared with laughter. As I looked at the little performer I gradually became aware of a shadow, a something strange gliding out from behind a dish toward the mouse. Silently and slowly it neared the mouse; in another minute a beady snake's eye glittered in the lamplight. My hand stole softly for the carving-knife. The snake reared his head level with the mouse, and the poor little fellow's song, which Hall last night, greeted the Joran sisters and Signor Roselli in their first of a series of 3 grand concerts. had never ceased, became piercingly shrill, though he sat up rigidly erect and motionless. The head of the snake drew back a little to strike; out flashed the carvingknife. The spell was broken instantly, for the mouse dropped and scampered. The snake was wounded, for there were spots of blood on the tablecloth, and it was writhing about among the dishes and plates. I could not make a bold stroke at it for fear of breaking the crockery, and whenever I made a dig with the point it was like pricking the garter. I would not have believed until I had seen it how much of himself a snake can stow away under the edge of a plate. At last I saw the end of his tail projecting out from under a dish. A snake held by the tail and swung rapidly around cannot turn back and bite. I grabbed the tail with my left thumb and finger, and drew him out till I judged the middle of his body to be under the knife, then I came down and cut him in two. He was a cobra-a little one about two feet long, but quite long enough to "gravel" a man .- [Pall Mall Gazette.

The report by the directors of the Western and Hawaiian Investment Company, Limited, for the year ending June 30 last is as follows:-The net revenue, including balance brought forward, and after deduction of interest on departures, debenture expenses, expenses of management, and income-tax, amounts to £3,458 15s. 11d. From this there falls to be deducted, interim dividend of 3 per cent., free of income-tax, paid in February last, £600; and your directors now recommend payment of a further dividend of 5 per cent., free of income-tax, making 8 per cent. for the year, £1,000; that there be added to the reserved fund, £1,400; and that the balance of £458 15s. 11d. be carried forward to next account, subject to the remuneration which may be voted to the directors -£3,458 15s. 11d. The reserve fund will then amount to £6,000. War, and got him so in love with Of this sum £4,290 has already been applied in paying off the company's debentures at maturity, and the balance will be similarly applied at her house daily, and she always the ensuing term. causing a loss of interest for a time. The recent political changes in the islands are regarded by the directors as decidedly favorable to the interests of the company; and it most be gratifying to the shareholders to know that Mr. Green, the company's manager in Honolulu, has been placed at the head of the Cabinet by the unanimous choice of the people. -[Financial News, Sept. 7.

RAILWAYS IN HAWAII.

There are now worked in Hawaii 20 miles of 3-ft. gauge road, and in Maui 15 miles. These lines skirt the coast, and nearly all their traffic is bringing sugar to the ports. The mountain sides are cut by deep gorges, making very difficult location. On the Hawaiian line there are several 60-degree curves on bridges, one 70-degree on a trestle, and one 70degree in a cut. The maximum grade is 118 ft. per mile. This road has one 124-ton Baldwin locomotive. one 74-ton Baldwin, and one 74-ton English. The lighter locomotives have four drivers and trailing trucks, the heavy one has leading truck also. The Baldwin locomotives have cost practically nothing for repairs, against over £600 for repairs to the English engine. The rails are 20-pound steel English.

There has never been a derailment on the curve, nor a fatal accident. Seventy miles more will be built with 40-pound rail, and equipped with American rolling stock .-[English Exchange.

IF YOUR WATCH GET WET.

An Albany watchmaker to whom a watch that had been dropped overboard on a fishing excursion was taken found that some of the works were so badly rusted that they were useless. "If," said he, "you had dropped your watch in oil as soon as you took it out of the water, or, better yet, have dropped it into alcohol or any kind strong liquor, it would have cost you nothing but the cleaning."

At a sale of autographs in Paris the other day two men, one young and one old, bid actively against each other for the possession of a certain letter. The young man secured the letter at a high price. Then the old man said to him: "You have obtained something that I desired, but I would I could have had it to destroy, for it compromises a man who was my friend." The younger, with tears in his eyes, responded as he grasped the old man's hand, "And I am his son." Another proposal is made to amend the Constitution of France by changing the method of electing Senators and submitting them to universal suffrage. This is the entering wedge for a proposition for the abolition of the Senate. If the change were accepted, France would have two representative bodies, both elected in the same way, and this obvious superfluity would lead to the dropping out of one.

If the Embassy now in Philadelphia wants a design for paper currency the wash tickets from any Chinese laundry would furnish a good basis. No attempt at counter-feiting these has yet been known-[Baltimore American.

The Italian Government has ordered the excavation of the site of the lost city of Sybaris, in that part of Southern Italy known as "Magna Grecia." The city lies seven feet under the water of the river Crati, where it has reposed for twenty-five centuries. The results are expected to be as interesting as those attending the resurrection of Pompeii.

JOB PRINTING of all kinds exc-THE DAILY BULLETIN - The most popular paper published.

An amusing and yet pathetic inan amusing and yet pathetic in-cident in what the poet Gray called "the short and simple annals of the poor," is told by Mr. John J. R. Micklejohn, one of the Inspectors of the Poor, at Sherwick, Shetland Islands. He says that some time ago an old woman, named Barbara Smith, came under the notice of the Board. She was extremely ill, and it did not look likely that she would long need care of any kind. She did not reside on the main land, but on a small island a few miles distant, and there being no parochial institutions in that place, Barbara necessarily occupied the position of a pauper living out. The trouble from which she suffered dated back many years. In better and more prosperous days she had in some way laid the foundation for Chronic Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and out of this had sprung other complaints as age and bodily infirmities crept apace upon her. Barbara was not ignorant, albeit she had fallen into poverty. In earlier life she somehow obtained the advantage of a fair education, and this, added to native shrewdness, enabled her to use good judgment in respect to her own situation and state of health. Although she had long suffered from asthma and a bronchial affection, Barbara was wise enough to see that these ailments arose from the disordered stomach and digestion, and that if the main trouble could be cured the others would soon leave her. It is probable that her disease began as others do, with the usual symptoms: headaches, bad breath, the rising of sour fluids in the throat, oppression and faintness at the pit of the stomach, loss of sleep, conted tongue, dull eyes, bad taste in the mouth, &c., and finally became chronic and hopeless through her not being able to find any remedy. The Inspector states that she had been under medical treatment for years, but to no effect. In this strait she one day made the following touching appeal to the Inspector: "I have been swallowing medicines for months. They do me no good. I am going on from worse to worse. I can endure it no longer. I feel that in a week or two I shall be dead. There is one last request I would make of you: give me a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup; it is my only hope. If it proves a failure and does me no good I will die in peace, and make no more expense to the parish."

It seems she had got hold of one of Mother Seigel's Almanacks and read of the great cures wrought by the Syrup in cases like hers.

The Board pitied the poor lone woman and granted her petition, believing, however, the syrup would prove as useless as the other medicines she had already taken. What was their astonishment to find, in the course of a few days, that she had not only been able to get out of bed, but to move about outside the house, and had taken journeys to a considerable distance, and was actually enjoying better health than since she was first taken ill. The asthma and bronchitis, which were no more than symptoms of her true disease (indigestion and dyspepsia), rapidly abated, and it now seems that Barbara will soon be as hale and hearty as the Inspector himself, and be one of the hosts of living witnesses to the power of Mother Seigel's Syrup to save the thousands who were just ready to perish, Mother Seigel's Curative Sryup is for sale by all chemists and medicine vendors, and by the proprietors, A. J. White, Limited, 35 Farringdon Road, London, E. C.

THE EVOLUTION OF THE "UNION

JACK." The most familiar English flag is the ensign or Union Jack, a by no means artistic or admirable attempt to combine the several ensigns of the three countries of the United Kingdom. The early patron saint of England was St. George, whose ensign, adopted as the standard of the country, was a red cross on a white field. St. Andrew was the patron saint of Scotland, and his banner was a white diagonal cross on a blue field. On the union of England and Scotland under James I. these two ensigns were combined into the first Union Jack, forming a square red cross over a white diagonal cross on a field of blue. On the union with Ireland in 1801 the banner of that country's patron, St. Patrick, a red diagonal cross on a white field, was added, completing the present Union Jack with a bar of red along the white bars of St. Andrew. This Jack is the eanton of the British naval and commercial flags, the commercial flag being a white field quartered by a red cross, the canton occupying the first square; the merchant flag being the canton on a red field unquartered. The word "Jack" is supposed to be derived from the jacque or surcoat, charged with St. George cross, worn by the English soldiers in the crusades, the name in time being transferred to the cross itself, and finally to the flag bearing the cross. The present royal standard of England was first hoisted on the Tower January 1, 1801, and may be thus described: A banner in four quarters, first and fourth red with three lions passant gardant in pale gold, for England; the second yellow, with a red lion rampant within a double frame or border (tressure) flory counter flory, for Scotland; the third blue, bearing a gold harp with silver strings, for Ireland, This flag is always displayed at the mainmast when the Sovereign or a member of the royal family is on board ship, and is also hoisted over the royal residence. Next in importance to the royal standard is the Admiralty flag, which is red, charged along the centre, with an anchor and cable. The Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland has a special flag. which is the Union Jack, supporting in the centre a blue shield charged with a golden harp. Until 1864 there were three different ensigns borne by the ships of the British navy, but in that year Her Majesty ordered the white ensign, with its broad and narrow pennants, to be established as the colors of the royal navy, the use of the red and blue colors being reserved for special occasions. It may interest readers to know that in 1776 the American flag, with its red and white stripes numbering the original States, hore as its canton the British Union Jack. This was displaced in 1777, however, and thirteen white stars in a circle on a blue field indicated the severance of ties between Old and New England. This unwillingness to entirely abandon the flag of the old Government in the attempt to establish a new order was manifest in the action of the Southern Confederacy in adopting a flag. Its flag of 1861, though of three bars only, was of red, white and red, and had a canton of white stars circled on a blue field, though there were only nine stars. As this hore close resemblance to a Federal flag when seen at a distance, a change was made in 1863, when a canton of red with diagonal cross of blue, spotted with thirteen white stars, was set on a white banner. As this flag was In the London "Standard" of a late date Professor Goldwin Smith offers England the following sensi ble advice: You will have to enlarge your policy with regard to this Continent, to bring within its scope not only 5,000,000 of English-speaking people, but 65,000,000, and to it at once more genial and more conformable to the behest of nature. Hope of creating permanent divisions and autagonism among the English-speaking | people of North America there is none; and a policy of which that is the aim, whether its instruments be separatist tariffs, political railways, or baronetcies and knighthoods, can be fruitful only of waste, mischief and peril. * * * The movement in favor of commercial union is spreading rapidly in Canada, one farmers' council after another declaring its adhesion. If anything can hasten political changes it is the galling pressure of commercial separation on the maritime provinces and Manitoba, whose discontent threatens to break up confederation. Of wresting the new world, or any part of it, from democracy there is just as little hope as there of its permanent division. Canada, in spite of the monarchical forms, is essentially not a whit less democratic than the United States. To make elective government a government not of popular will or passion, but of reason, is a hard task,

A YOUNG FRENCHMAN'S DELUSION. One of the most singular delusions that have ever come under the notice of the medical fraternity is that of a young Frenchman recently sent to a local asylum. He was at one time an officer in the French Army, and it is supposed that he has participated in more than one duel, for his malady is noticeable only from the fact that he asserts that everybody wants to fight with him. He insists in having pockets made in every conceivable portion of his clothing, in order that he may carry pieces of coin, wood, stone and metal to protect him against his adversary's sword or bullet in the duel which he believes he is soon to fight. He is always ready to talk about the duel, and to speculate upon his chances because of the numerous articles he carries in his pockets. Rochefort was saved from a pistol ball by a 5-franc piece which he carried in his waistcoat pocket, says the crazy Frenchman, and so he hopes to be saved. A watch once saved the life of Broderick of California, and for that reason he carries one in each breast pocket of his waistcoat. He also refers when talking on the subject to the fact that the life of Handel, the composer, was saved by the sword of his adversary striking a button, and tells of others who escaped because of the different things they happened to have in their pockets. On all other matters, the young Frenchman is said to be perfeetly rational .- [N. Y. Mail and LUNACY REGULATIONS IN FRANCE. In consequence of certain irregularities revealed by the investigations into the case of Baron Seillieres, who, it was alleged, was improperly detained in a lunatic asylum near Paris after he recovered his mental equilibrium, the Minister of the Interior, M. Fallieres, has issued a circular to all perfects directing them to rigidly obey the enactment which requires them to make periodieni visits to all asylums, public or private, within their jurisdiction. It is directed that these visits should be paid unexpectedly, and not less frequently than once a quarter: that patients who desire to leave the asylum should be interviewed, and in every doubtful case subsequently subjected to a special medical inquiry; that the use of shower-bath as a punishment should be forbidden; that the period of observation should be reduced to the shortest possible time; and that frequent transfers from one establishment to another should be discouraged .-

The latest fashionable craze in England is said to be amateur dressmaking, in which enthusiasm waxes so warm that rooms are opened in a public building to exhibit the dresses made by amateurs, some of whom are very rich, fashionable women, and ladies of title. Original designs are introduced and prizes are awarded to successful competi-

Why am I so Miserable?

so weak and languid? Why such heartburns and pains in the stomach, such acidity, and such an unpleasant taste in the mouth? Why at times such a gnawing specific, and then again such disreish for tood? Why is the mind so frequently irrivable, despending, melancholy, and dejected? Why does one often feel under the apprehension of some imaginary dauger, and start at any unexpected noise, becoming agitated as though some great calamity was impend-ing? What is the meaning of these duil, sick headaches; these violent pal-pitations of the heart, this feverish restlessue s, these night sweats; this dis-turbed and dreamy sleep, which brings no refreshing rest, but only meanings and mutterfugs, and the horrors of the minimum. nightmare?

The answer is: These are the symptoms of Indigestion or Dyspepsia—the beginning and the forerunner of almost every other human disease. Indigestion is a weakness or want of power of the digestive fluids of the somuch to con-vert the food into healthy matter for the proper nourishment of the body. It is caused most frequently by the irregucaused most frequently by the irregu-larity of diet, or improper food, want of healthy exercise and pure outdoor air. It may be induced by mental distress— the shock of some great calamity. It may be, and often is, aggravated and in-tensified, if not originally brought on, by exhaustion from intense mental ap-plication, of physical overwork, domes-tic troubles, anxiety in business, or finantic troubles, anxiety in business, or finan-cial embarrassments. If the stomach could always be kept in order, death would no longer be a subject of fearful anxiety to the young and middle-aged, but what would be contemplated by all as a visit of an expected friend at the close of a peaceful and happy old age. However, the first hessile invader upon the domain of health and happine s is Indigestion.

Is there any relief, any remedy, any cure? That is the question of the suffering and unhappy dyspeptic. What is wanted is a medicine that will thoroughly renovate the stomach, towels, liver, and kidneys, and afford speedy and effectual assistance to the digestive organs, and restore to the nervous and muscular systems their original energy.

Such a medicine is happily at hand.

Never in the history of medical discoveries, evidenced by a dozen years' their ough test, has there been found a remedy for Indigestion so speedy, so sire, and so surprising in its results as Siegel's Curative Syrup, but to-day it is a standard remedy for that almost universal affliction in every civilized country in Europe, Asia, Africa and America. Public tes timonials and private letters from mili-tary officers, bankers, merchants, ship captains, mechanics, farmers, and their wives and daughters, alike confirm its

Dear Sirs:—If a testimonial is of any use to you respecting the remarkable cure I have derived by taking your "Siegel's Syrup," you are at liberty to make any use of this you may deem lest. For upwards of twelve years I aave suffered from extreme Nervous Debility and Gastrie Catarrh which reduced me so that I was totally unable to do any business, and caused great pros-tration and weakness. About three years ago I had the advice of several members of the medical faculty, and under their treatment derived little or no good. Being in town some ten months ago, I was advised to try your Curative Syrup, and purchased a boule. I had not taken many doses before I began to feel a fresh man. I could walk with case, while before I had hard work o carry one leg before the other. My strength gradually increased and my evesight got better, which before I frequently lost, owing to the malady arising from a sluggish liver, often in bed for several days with piles, and could hardly move. I am thankful to you and to God for nearly raising me from the to God for nearly raising me from the grave, for it was nothing but your Seigel's Syrup that has restored me to ro-bust health. Dear Sir:—I hope that your Siegel's Syrup and Pills may get the sale they so well deserve. I had a very delicate child, a boy now over nine years, but being averse to eating any kind of vegetable or food from his birth, I began giving him Mother Siegel's Curative Syrup, and after a few weeks he recovered so as to be able to consume as much food as other boys of his age, and to the great astonishment of his neighbours, he is lively, getting into flesh, and thriving is lively, getting into flesh, and thriving as well as boys of his age do.
