HOW MAUI'S $100,000 INVESTMENT LOOKS

Exposed Piping Buckles--Few Breaks--Looks Odd,
But Will Still Be Useful.

The work of laying miles and miles of water pipe for the Kula district has been going on merrily for sometime, and prompted partly by curiosity and partly by stories that are being carried about concerning said work, a representative of the Maui News made a thirty mile trip on horseback last Sunday, for an actual look at the $100,000 improvement, and to get first hand information of what is going on and what has taken place.

In several places on the six-inch section, between Waiakoa and Olinda, it had been reported the pipes had buckled, twisted and had broken from no apparent cause at all, except that the sections had been joined together by Contractor Landgraf. The breaks happened where the piping were laid across ravines and had been repaired in a way, so the foreman of the section gang said, that would preclude further breaks. Probably his predecessor had as much faith in his own work, but the forces of nature are beyond us and, with conditions unchanged the pipe exposed to the noon heat of the sun and the chill airs of the night, who can say it will not happen again?

That a long section of heavy inanimate six-inch piping could buckle and twist like a thing of life in response to the laws of nature was quite incredible, and in itself was an impressive lesson in natural science.

Usually one's impression of a pipe line running over miles of country would be that of a straight line like that formed by the rails of a railway, but the real pipe line, at least the Kula pipe line, is not. Originally it had lain in a straight line but sun heat and the chill of night had forced it to expand and contract so that a twist to the right followed a twist to the left in regular succession over miles of piping.

At one place, on the five-inch section, the pipe line ran syphon like down one side across the bottom and up the other side of a wide ravine finally crossing the roadway to disappear in a green field of growing corn. Across the bottom of the ravine it was held above ground on some shaky wooden making a curve to the right and, after crossing a small ridge in the middle of the ravine, where the piping lay in a small trench, it balanced off the first curve with a similar one to the left.

Experts in civil engineering work say this buckling and twisting will keep right on until water flows through the pipe which will then tend to keep it cool and prevent further bending and buckling. Although to the eye the buckling of the piping looks odd, yet in fact, the actual damage, if any, will be very small, no greater than what should be allowed for breaks or wear and tear from usage.

From Waiakoa to Olinda the six inch piping will be buried in trenches, and, except where laid across the numerous dry ravines, will be protected from weather effects, but from Waiakoa to Ulupalakua the piping will be exposed on top of the ground.

Probably within thirty days Contractor Landgraf will be through with his work. But the laying of the wooden stave piping from the intake to Olinda has not yet begun, in fact tenders for that work is being advertised to be handed in July 30th, so at least, it will be between four and six months before water could be conducted through the water mains laid by Contractor Landgraf in the Kula district. And in the meantime until the water begins to flow through the pipes they will buckle and twist, as a resident of Kula said, buckle and lift itself a foot off the ground between morning and noon, and repeat the operation almost daily, let alone its twisting from one side to the other like an uneasy fretful thing.

The work of laying the remainder of the piping is progressing satisfactorily under the conditions, averaging about 1,500 feet daily, and Contractor Landgraf maintains that, but for the delay in delivering the piping on the line, he could push the work ahead faster and finish it sooner. The piles of piping lying besides the government road towards the Ulupalakua end of the line seem to favor his contention.

The contractor has laid or joined all of the six inch piping, except less than five thousand feet at the Pulehu section of the line. All of the five inch piping has been connected from Waiakoa to Waiohuli, the Keokea section is still in the hands of the workmen, and a mile or so of the Kamaole section has been connected. With smaller piping, no deep gulches to cross and better ground, the work of connecting the piping towards Ulupalakua and Kanaio could, by putting on another gang, proceed much more rapidly than on the sections already completed.

While the buckling and bending of the piping has caused unfavorable comment still the damage that may be caused to the exposed piping by changes in temperature will be no greater than the effect of water pressure in said piping when the flood gates are opened and the waters of Koolau shall eventually be flowing through the twenty miles or so of piping within the next four or six months at the latest.

Mormons Are Favoring Prohibition.

Sunday last the Church of the Latter Day Saints had a Sunday school celebration at Waiehu, and, at the conclusion of the exercises, a number of the Maui Prohibition League speakers were allowed to address the gathering of over 300 people. Six young Mormon elders strongly supported the prohibition speakers and advised their people to vote for prohibition.

At the conclusion of their addresses Senator Coelho, who was present, got into a controversy with one of the elders over the prohibition issue until the senator got hot. He then told the natives that these young Mormon elders from Utah were a lot of wayward boys at home, whose parents had shipped them out here to get rid of them, and to keep them away from evil influences and temptations at home, and to enable them to get over their bad habits.

The Senator further advised the Hawaiians to get rid of these haole youngsters, and not to support them or listen to them and their pernicious doctrines.

The Kailua Convention

Missionaries Arrival Commemorated With S. one Arch.

One of the most remarkable gatherings in Hawaiian history was held at Kailua the last past of last month. It was the eighty-eighth annual session of the Hawaiian Evangelical Association, which commemorated the ninetieth anniversary of the landing of the first band of missionaries on these Islands.

A large number of delegates and pastors were present from all parts of the Territory, and there were probably as many as six hundred people in attendance at the meetings each day. The Inter Island Steamship Company was considerable of the large crowd that had to be handled, and provided the Kinan on the outward trip from Honolulu and the Maui on the return trip in addition to regular boats.

The entertainment committee, of which Rev. Stephen Desha was the chairman, did exceptionally well in handling such a big crowd. Abundance of the best kind of food was provided for all who came to the meeting. An immense lanai was constructed under the direction of Rev. E. S. Timoteo, where the majority of the delegates had their meals. The English speaking contingent was cared for in royal style by Mrs. J. C. Robinson in the beautiful old dining room of the palace.

The exercises began on Saturday with an address of welcome by Rev. Dr. A. S. Baker. In the name of the old missionaries, whose houses were still standing near the Church, in the name of the many in the past who had helped in the work in Hawaii, and in the name of the present members of the old Kailua Church, he bade the guests welcome. We are very much in doubt if an abler welcoming speech were ever made at the opening of the annual session of the Association. Rev. W. B. Olsen in an excellent address gave the key note for the whole of the meetings. He spoke of the early evangelism and the need today of earnestness and enthusiasm for the course of temperance.

Fifteen hundred people were present at the memorial exercises on Sunday, when the handsome Memorial Arch was dedicated. The arch was made out of the stone near the old church, and is a substantial memorial to the missionary fathers, Opukahaia and his companions. The speeches of Rev. Messrs. Desha, Gulick and Oleson were full of unusual interest.

The key note of the six days of meeting was the coming question of whether or not liquor shall be manufactured and sold in the Territory of Hawaii. Contrary to the false report in one of the Honolulu papers that Prohibition had not many supporters at this great convention, it can be truthfully said by those who are thoroughly conversant with the entire session at Kailua that of the hundreds of people there, all but a handful were solidly for Prohibition. Those who were not with the majority were for liquor, they claimed, largely for political reasons. The speeches in favor of Prohibition by Messrs. Desha, Nakima, Magoon, and others were remarkable pieces of oratory not only, but were made of the solidiest kinds of argument, so that those who dared to say a word on the liquor side of the question admitted that they were worsted in argument. In fact, those present at Kailua, who have attended similar conferences in the States and elsewhere, pronounced the Kailua Convention one of unusual force and earnestness. For the cosmopolitan spirit and their determination to succeed, we doubt if this convention could be equaled in the last decade of great religious gatherings in America.

New Plan for Schools

Supervising Principals to be Appointed Teachers for Maui

A centralization scheme was outlined in a report on a plan for better supervision of the public schools of the Territory, made to the Commissioners by Superintendent Pope. The new system is considered generally to be an improvement on the old, both from an economic and utility standpoint. A saving in actual money and a general cooperation of work is expected to be obtained at the same time.

The Islands, under the new system, will be divided into educational districts. The first of these is formed of Kauai and Niuhau containing seventeen schools and sixty-nine teachers to be in charge of a supervising principal who will also be the principal of one of the schools.

The second will be Oahu, with seventeen schools and forty-eight teachers, supervision in charge of the superintendent assisted by the Normal inspector.

The third will be Maui, Molokai and Lanai, containing thirty-nine schools and eighty-two teachers. One supervising principal is to report regularly on all the schools in this district, making visits to Molokai and Lanai once or twice each term to lay out work and give assistance. The Lahainaluna Seminary is not included.

The fourth is East Hawaii--Haukapuapa, Hilo and Puna--containing twenty-seven schools and sixty teachers. One supervising principal also to be a regular principal of one of the schools of the district, is to make regular visits and reports on his district's work.

Mr. Vincent was granted his life certificate and the following requests were also granted under the head of new business.

Miss F. K. Bindt, a life diploma; Miss Alice Winter, a grammar grade certificate, on her credentials; Mrs. C. O. Hottel, a life certificate; Mrs. Ida Knight, a life diploma; and Katherine McIntyre, a life certificate. The commissioners also accepted the certificate of Miss A. L. Arms.

All the requests for vacations were granted.

Requests for additional teachers in schools in all islands were discussed at length. It was shown that they are needed in probably one-third of the schools but that the commissioners so far have found no way in which they can be added. In some there is no room and finances are such that they can not be stretched over to make appointments for all applications. Probably six or ten teachers can be appointed but the commissioners will have to wait until the payroll for the coming year is completed.

There has been some doubt as to the status of the holidays usually observed in some manner by the schools and this matter was threshed out at length yesterday.

The following were denoted as holidays during which the schools are to close: Labor Day, if during school time; Thanksgiving, Washington's Birthday, Good Friday, Decoration Day and Kamehameha Day. The holidays to be observed on the school premises are Arbor Day, Lincoln's Birthday, May Day and Flag Day.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Maui is to be commended for devoting almost all of the available receipts of the County for road making and for other public improvements.

The road building under the present County administration is going ahead as fast as the means for doing the work could be gotten, and the strangers who come among us are the best judges of the work our super- visors are doing.

For years past the Department of Education has been talking of centralizing public schools, and it is about time a practical demonstration of whether or not the plans are workable here should be made.

Why not select a centrally located school on Maui, like the Lahaina or Paia school for instance, and have the county Supervisors provide means for transporting children from other public schools within a five or six mile radii to the central school, and within a year or two we shall know whether or not the central school plan is an improvement or only an illusory fad.

Evolution in Petticoats.

He acknowledged she was clever, and he took a certain pride in saying that a woman can do anything she tried; But when she left the kitchen and commenced to study Greek, He said: "Oh, let her try it,—she will drop it in a week."

And when she "beat him to it" on the coveted degree And began to add such letters to her name as "L. L. B.," He spouted indignation when he'd rallied from the shock, And to the present writing has done little else but knock.

'Twas fun, of course, to watch her, and he rather liked her nerve When she went in for athletics and learned how to throw a curve; But now he's growing fearful she will leave him in the lurch—"A woman's place is obviously," says he, "at home or church."

When she went into his office it amused him for a spell, Till she learned to add the columns up and typewrite rather well Now she's grown so self-reliant that His Majesty repines For the frail and fragile class of maids once known as "clinging vines."

Once she shyly asked a question now and then on politics, (A thing in which no "lady" would of course desire to mix); But when her probings brought to light how certain things are done, My! Didn't consternation reign in good old Washington?

And now when women want to vote men say thing's absurd, But what a woman wills to do she does—just take my word. The day of days for women is at hand without a doubt, And the suffragists will git ye if ye don't watch out.—

Lahaina Listens to Prohibition.

Friday evening last week D. Kalauokalani, Wm. White and John Kalino addressed a prohibition rally in front of Seong's saloon at Lahaina. The talkfest lasted over three hours, and the crowd, estimated between 300 and 400 people, listened as if charmed by the eloquence of the speakers.

Although the meeting was held in front of a saloon, the prohibitionists were greatly encouraged by the fact that the crowd remained to listen to them and no one went into the saloon for a drink during all the time the meeting was in progress.

Many of the older Hawaiians came and kissed the hands of Kalauokalani and White, and promised to vote as they wished them to. Friends of Masuda, the Japanese saloon keeper, who was refused a license recently, believing that he was done up by others for selfish reasons, have joined forces with the prohibitionists and intend to vote for prohibition to spite the others.

The return of Mr. White to Lahaina in the role of a reformer, where once he trod the booze route, made a wonderful impression on his old time companions. Many congratulated the home rule leader for his efforts and his new born purposes, in seeking to lead the Hawaiians away from the temptations of the bar.

The Anti-prohibitionists are sending their spellbinders after the prohibition speakers. The campaign for votes is getting warm.

Coke Family Going Away.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Coke and family will leave for California in the Lurline. Their stay there may be indefinite. Mr. Coke was for years a public school teacher here serving on Kauai, Hawaii and Maui. For five years he was editor and manager of the Maui News, bringing it up to a financial success as well as making it a power in the country. Lately he retired from the newspaper business and at once found a good practice in the profession of law.

The published report that he gave up the News on account of differing with the controlling interest on prohibition was not true. Mr. Coke declined to take any part in the prohibition controversy on Maui, and the organization of himself and others as an anti-prohibition league was a practical joke perpetrated by Lorrin Andrews. It got into print without authority. Mr. Coke is a temperance man, although doubting practicability of prohibition. He is a man the Territory can badly afford to lose and all who know him will hope for his return to Hawaii. —Star

Mrs. L. O. Case of Topeka, Kansas mother of Attorney D. H. Did Officials Eat Too Much?

Do the County officials eat more than other people and therefore have to pay more for their meals? This question is puzzling County Attorney Beers.

Will the County pay the $30.00 which it lopped off from the bill charged for meals furnished County Attorney Beers, Clerk Earl Williams and Sheriff Pua during the session of the Circuit Court at Kailua, or will it be necessary to sue the County for the money? This question is worrying Ah Lap, the Kailua boniface.

Ah Lap is much displeased that the Supervisors at their last meeting, without giving any reason, decided to pay him thirty dollars less than he asked for. He will, it is understood, write to the Board giving it the alternative of digging up forthwith or being sued for the amount. This letter should be received in time to come before the board at its meeting next Wednesday.

County Attorney Beers is much pained at the incident. He says that he understands that Ah Lap charged the officials 50 cents per meal, whereas ordinary mortals were charged only twenty-five cents for the same kind of meals. Both he and his clerk deny strenuously that they ate more than the ordinary run of Ah Lap's patrons. However, this will be a matter for the County Fathers to investigate. In the mean time it will be funny if the official appetites bring the County into a law suit.—Hilo Tribune.

There has been considerable speculation among the local politicians in regard to the action of the Home Rulers and the Democrats of Kona who have been having conferences with the view of possible fusion between their parties. There has been but little reliable information coming from Kona in regard to the matter, but it appears that the fusion plan fell through mainly on account of the nomination for sheriff. The Democrats insisting on having Sam Pua as the candidate, while the Home Rulers utterly declined to consider any one except their old love, Keolanui.—Hilo Tribune.

Three bills have been drafted by the Commission of Advances to Homesteaders, and submitted to the Governor, which will have a far-reaching effect on the future of this Territory if they are passed by the next Legislature. The Commission recommends, first, that the Territory provide cheap transportation for agricultural products; second that improvements on public land about to be opened for homestead be made such as the erection of houses, building of fences, etc., and, third, that the rate of interest on deferred payments to the Territory by homesteaders be reduced to 5 per cent per annum.—Hilo Tribune.

Yesterday the 15th was the last day for the payment of water rates, without the addition of the ten per cent penalty.

Homesteaders on the Omaopio tract are making a garden spot of it, and their plantings are in a flourishing condition.

By half past six o'clock Tuesday evening last automobiles with passengers and mail from the Mauna Kea were in Wailuku.

Mrs. Nachuelua, old resident of Kalua, Wailuku, passed away Wednesday July 13th, at the ripe old age of ninety-one.

Prohibition workers are holding meetings every night of the week with Stereopticon pictures to illustrate their views on the subject.

The Kalua premises on Main Street will make a splendid hotel site if something tangible will turn up on the new hotel proposition.

Mr. Marston Campbell, Superintendent of Public Works and Public Land Commissioner went through Kula on an automobile last Sunday.

The road committee of the County board of supervisors had the pleasure, for the first time, of riding in a carriage from Nahiku to Kipahulu.

There is talk of putting up a fine new hotel building in Wailuku on the lot at the corner on the upper side of High Street opposite the Pioneer Store.

Mr. John Duggan is the foreman in charge of the construction of a new concrete culvert for the road to the new steamboat wharf at Kahului.

All the school buildings in the district of Makawao are in good shape, and need but little renovating and some painting to make them as good as new.

Louis Warren's stallion and racer, Warning, has been purchased by A. Garcia of Wailuku, and will be kept here to improve the breed of Maui horses.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Rose gave a party to a few of their friends last Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Otto W. Rose of Hilo. It was a very enjoyable affair.

The Pukalani Dairy and Pineapple Company will take off a crop of 150 tons from their pineapple plantings this season, or double that of their last year's crop.

Services at the Church of Good Shepherd Sunday July 17, as usual. Sunday School at 10. Holy Communion with sermon at 11. Evening services at Puanene, 7:45.

Prohibition leaders are planning to make a demonstration or a grand parade through the streets of Wailuku, Sunday afternoon July 24th next. A brass band will head the procession.

On her trip to Honolulu last Tuesday the Claudine came into Kahului harbor and laid alongside of the new steamboat wharf. The approach to it is not yet completed and the Claudine took neither freight nor passengers from the new wharf.

The cornfields of Kula are in a splendid condition. Along the roadway the cornstalks run from eight to twelve feet or more in height, and, with no blight or insect pest to injure the plants, this season's crop bids to be a record breaking one.

Brughelli Says He Was Done Up.

Felix Brughelli, whose horse, Harry Hearst was beaten on Maui, has a kick coming which he has asked the Herald to make public for him. He states that he was unfairly defeated on Maui, and it looks very much as though he was right. The race which was advertised was for named horses and "Maui," the winner, was not among the candidates. In the program of the day, the race is given a free for all and Maui is among the entrants. Brughelli also complains that when Cyclone was behaving badly and broke each time the horses scored that, contrary to all racing rules, the horses were sent back to the stables and later on brought out again. He also claims that in the first heat Cyclone was distanced and that the judges stated that there was no rules for distancing a horse in a half mile race.—Hawaii Herald.

The Maui Horse That Beat Harry Hearst.

Sometime ago Mr. A. Gross of Waihee was looking for a good roadster when his attention was called to an ad. of a colt for sale, which had been running for several weeks in the "Breeder and Sportsman!" He commissioned Mr. J. Kirkland to look up the animal, and if everything was right to purchase the colt.

Mr. Kirkland went and saw the animal and as everything was satisfactory purchased the colt from the farmer, or breeder, who was not a racing man, and, probably did not know that his colt was an extra fast animal.

In due time after he had the animal Mr. Gross found him to be a very good trotter, and, when the Maui Racing Association put up a purse for trotters, he naturally wanted to have his horse try for it. At first the Racing Association refused, and not until all the owners of the trotters entered for the event had given their consent, was Mr. Gross allowed to enter his animal.

It is stated positively on behalf of the owner, who has affidavits sworn to before a notary public to that effect, that Maui was never before entered in a race, although his sire, Monterey, holds a record of having trotted a mile in 2:09, and his dam, Theresa, is also a trotter with a 2:14 record. Beyond the fact that Maui sprung from excellent racing stock, he was, practically an unknown animal, until he beat Harry Hearst, the Hilo favorite, at the Spreckels' Park race course.

Large Amount of Coin Disappears.

When Neill Boyle left Hilo last Saturday noon he had $985 with him. When he arrived at Honoumou two hours later he did not have the money. The question of whether the money went is now puzzling the police.

Boyle is employed by Contractor Wery, of this city, as foreman on the contract he has to build a piece of homestead road at Honoumou. He had been so employed for the past two months. Last Saturday Wery gave him the $985, in gold and silver, in order that he might pay off the laborers with it. Boyle has been taking money to the laborers in this manner a number of times, but this was the largest amount he ever had.

Boyle says that he wrapped the money in his oil suit which he tied on the back of his saddle before starting horseback for Honoumou. On the way he felt several times to ascertain if the suit was there. When he arrived at his destination the suit was in position, but the money was gone. Boyle had not left the saddle during his trip. The suit was tied at both ends as it had been when he started out, and there were no breaks or tears in it. Boyle feels positive that the coin must have worked itself out through the jolting of the horse.

Public Improvements Lahaina and Molokai.

The following extracts are taken from the report of the committee appointed by the supervisors to inspect and report on various improvements in the County of Maui.

Probably Lahaina should have a new school building of the same class as the Wailuku and Paia schools. Such a building should cost over $20,000 and would be an ornament to the town. This class of building, however, the County of Maui cannot erect without assistance from the Territory.

Plastering the outside of the Lahaina Court House has been completed, but needs some more attention from the contractor. The plaster on the front of the building being one mass of "spider web" cracks. The contractor will be obliged to replaster or do the work all over again.

As soon as the change in the supply of the water works is completed the necessary changes to the water mains in the town can be made, when the streets in Lahaina can be redressed and oiled, this work should be pushed forward as rapidly as possible, in order to be completed before the winter months.

Relocating the Ukunehame road should be started as soon as practicable. This project has been deferred too long already, as the public should have had the benefit of the new road before now.

The much talked of Honouliwai new road Molokai, was carefully inspected. The grade of a portion of this road is too low. Your committee could find no criticism to make with the construction of this project. Natural settling of a new earth fill is the only defect in the road, a defect that is natural and ordinary and that can be repaired easily from time to time. The low portion of the road will continually be wet and muddy, until that portion is raised so that the sea will not wash over it in times of extremely high tides.

The whole inspection trip on Molokai was made in, either a carriage or automobile, which, of itself, shows the general good condition of roads in that district.

A Farewell Dance to Mrs. Von Tempky.

Friends of Mrs. Von Tempky gave her a farewell dance at the Maunaloa Seminary on the evening of Saturday July the ninth, which was quite a gathering of the Central Maui friends of the popular lady, who is about to leave for a trip to the coast.

Shortly after eight o'clock dancing began and was kept up till midnight. Everyone of the eighteen numbers on the program was enjoyed, and several were repeated thrice as often as others. The music, furnished by a club of native musicians, was just right, and the night of all the nights was pleasant to the light hearted guests who thoroughly enjoyed the gathering and the occasion.

Light refreshments of cakes and ice cream and soft drinks were served and all had an enjoyable time till a late hour when the party broke up.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Alexander, Mr. Geo. Aiken, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Baldwin, Mr. C. R. Burns, Miss Nellie Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Born, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. District Magistrate D. W. Burchard.

Judge W. S. Burchard took charge of the Wailuku district court Monday, having accepted a commission as acting magistrate during the absence of Judge McKay. The judge made a short address to those present giving an outline of the course he would pursue and closing with a statement that he would follow in the footsteps of his predecessor and keep in touch with Judge McKay's policies.

The first case to come up before him was that of a Filipino minor, Marcus McMann, charged with burglary in the first degree. Judge Kingsbury at the March term had appointed Judge Burchard probation officer to look after the young man under suspension of a thirteen months' sentence, but the young man seemed bent on going wrong, and was haled before the district court to answer a charge of burglary in the first degree. The judge committed young Marcus McMann for trial at the October term of the Circuit Court.

A Setta on Prohibition.

In the question of Prohibition our sugar barons have one serious phase of the problem to consider. Hundreds of Russians have of late been brought into the Territory as field laborers and it now seems to be the intention of the board of immigration to import a large number of Portuguese for field labor. All the Latin people, the Portuguese as much as any other, use wine at any meal, at least in the old country, as well as at all public and family ceremonies. If prohibition should carry on the 26th instant, which we certainly doubt very much, and we know whereof we speak, the chances of obtaining any more Portuguese laborers for Hawaii will indeed dwindle very much. Let the planters think seriously of the matter—if they are at all anxious of avoiding an additional item of discontent to the many the laborers already treasured up.—A Setta.

Salvation Army Leader Will Speak.

Colonel Miles, of San Francisco, the Provincial Officer for the Pacific Coast Province of the Salvation Army, which includes the Hawaiian Islands, will conduct a great Salvation rally in the Salvation Army Hall in Wailuku on Saturday evening, July 16th. The Colonel will be accompanied by Major Willis, the Divisional Officer for the Islands.

On Sunday morning, Colonel Miles will preach in the Union Church at Paia, and in the evening in the Union Church in Wailuku.

The Colonel is a fluent speaker, and has held some of the most important positions in the Salvation Army in America and in other countries. The public is cordially invited to attend all the services, and will be well repaid for hearing him.

BY AUTHORITY.

SEALED TENDERS.

Sealed Tenders will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Maui up to 4:30 P. M. Thursday, August 11, 1910 for laying 6 inch pipe near Lahaina, Island of Maui.

HUGH HOWELL, County Engineer.

July 16, 23, 30, Aug. 6.

Notice To Contractors.

Sealed Tenders will be received by the Superintendent of Public Works until 12 o'clock, noon, Saturday, July 30th, 1910, for furnishing all labor and such other material as is not furnished by the Department of Public Works for laying 19,000 feet, more or less, of wooden stave pipe on the forest end of the Kula pipeline.

Plans and specification may be obtained from the Superintendent of Public Works, Honolulu, or F. E. Harvey, Olinde, Maui. July 13, 1910.

(Signed.) MARSTON CAMPBELL, Superintendent Public Works, July 16 and 23.

THE CAR OF THE AGE

Mitchell Automobiles Have Stood at the Front Season after Season

Not a year has passed that the MITCHELL has not demonstrated its extreme reliability

IT WAS NOISY IN THE PAST: "YES."

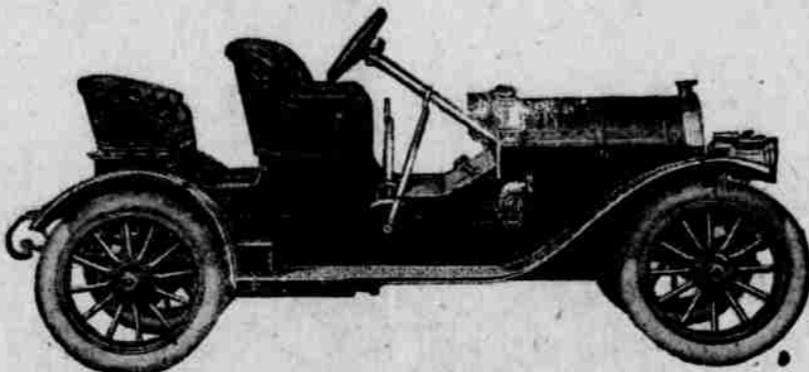

This noise displeased certain fastidious people, but what did that amount to? Was there not a feeling of confidence engendered by hearing the operation or listening to the purring of the engine?

It was said the "MITCHELL" is a good car, but noisy. We assert the "MITCHELL" is more than a good car. It is the last word in automobile construction for 1910.

We claim boldly, but confidently, that there is not a car on the market today which equals it at or near the price.

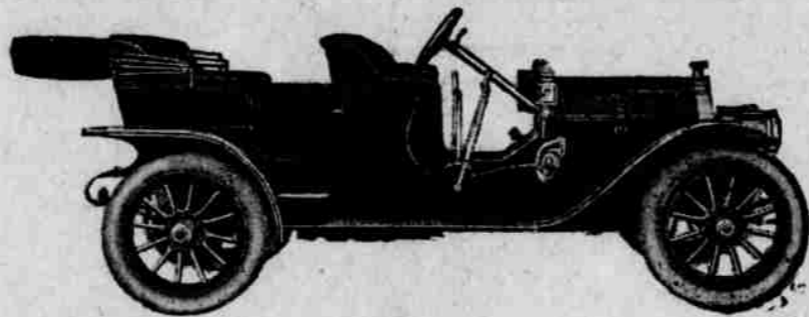

The 1910 Models are Silent as the Foot of Time

Look
At Those Three Magnificent Models

Think of it. For $1100 at the Factory, we give you 30-35 horsepower, 100 inch wheel base and all the luxuries of a $2000 car.

This model with full equipment and ready to run $1450.

For $1350 at the factory, we give you a large, powerful Touring Car, which has speed, comfort, style and low cost of operation.

Price, with full equipment, $1700.

This powerful, speedy, stylish six cylinder car, will do everything that a $4500 car will do. Sixty miles an hour, fast on the hills, quiet, smooth running, it will stand comparison, point for point, with every standard six on the market, and is victor in the comparison, not "price considered," but in respect of price.

Price, with full equipment, $2450.

Our next carload of Mitchells will arrive early in June. We can demonstrate now and will gladly do so to prospective purchasers.
