INTER-ISLAND SERIES

Gibson Forces Miserly Economics—Lots Will be Sold in Hanalei—College figures Are Desired.

A suggestion has been made that an inter-island series of baseball be played off in Honolulu in place of the Coast-Honolulu series. Kauai stands ready and most willing to kokua in such a series, but would have it known to begin with, that the Territorial championship trophy will bear the Kauai design. This island can furnish the best aggregation of ball players in the Territory and no place would afford the Garden Islanders more pleasure than an opportunity to make good this statement.

Will Not Give Stamps

Depriving the principals of our public schools of official stamps, by the department of education, establishes a new method of business procedure, unheard of in any well regulated business firm. The principals are indignant, and with just cause, since all the correspondence to and concerning the departmental affairs must, under the new ruling, be borne by the school marm. This may be economy, but it is at the expense of a class of workers who deserve better consideration.

Sale of Beach Lots

Twenty-three beach lots in Hanalei known as the "Waioli" lots, containing from 14,488 to 21,536 square feet and with upset prices from $30 to $45 each, will be sold at the Lihue court house at noon Saturday December 13th, 1913, no person being allowed to purchase more than one lot, and the price is to be cash on the spot. At the same time and place, a government grant, containing an area of 1-5 of an area, will be sold under the same conditions, the upset price being 25 dollars.

Doubting Thomases

It is said that since the College of Hawaii has gained such a notoriety through its recent publicity campaign, there are those who would have the college publish its enrollment. By this method the outsider could form a much more conclusive idea of what the college is accomplishing than all any long-winded newspaper articles could convey in a century.

Gibson, a Financier

Considerable comment has been occasioned by the receipt of instructions from Superintendent Gibson notifying the teachers of the public schools, that stamped envelopes is no longer to be furnished for official correspondence. It is claimed that the new superintendent is attempting to do "peanut" politics in so much as he is endeavoring to curtail expenses.

Hardy, a poet

Mr. Hardy, the geodetic survey superintendent, is about to publish a volume of verses which he has composed, the introductory of which will be a recent composition on his trip up the mountain with a party of Lihueites, the one concerning C. S. Dole, being especially good.

O'u Picnic!

The O'u Club gave an enjoyable picnic and swimming party on the Numalu beach last Saturday. The whole flock of birds were there and a more favorable evening for the varied program could not have been asked.

Program is Praised

Much favorable comment is being heard regarding the tourist schedules which appeared in our last issue, and many personal congratulations have been passed up to those responsible for the very thorough manner in which it was gotten up.

Increased Ice Output

The Waimea Ice Works, according to late reports, has almost doubled its output within the last few months. Improved quality in the ice, and new customers are said to be the cause of such results.

CHINA ASKS HELP

Stock Law Is Again on Tapis—Washington Officials Back Inspector Halsey—President Re-elected

Messages have begun to arrive from the famine-stricken district of China, and are meeting with prompt response. If there are any on this island who desire to assist in this most worthy cause, they should lose no time in getting into communication with the proper authorities in Honolulu. Old clothing that is thought to be of no longer use to you, would be welcomed by suffering humanity in the confines of our big sister republic.

The Stock Law Again

A petition signed by nineteen citizens of the Waimea District, and addressed to Sheriff Rice, was received at the Sheriff's office last Saturday. The petition asks that the police department take steps to enforce the present stock law. Sheriff Rice has asked the county attorney for a written opinion on the case, after which he will take whatever move in the matter that lies within his power.

"No Sabe Lotten Fish"

A story is going the rounds to the effect that a certain crowd of fishermen recently spent a day off the shores of Nawiliwili, and that some of them claimed to have snared ten fish, 3 inches long, while others of the party claim that there were but 3 fish and they were ten inches in length. The Japanese fisherman from whom the fish were purchased, says the fish were one day long, and that haole no sabe lotten fish.

Officials Back Halsey

Richard Halsey, inspector of immigration for the port of Honolulu, has received official sanction from Washington in regard to his recent crusade against the white-slave traffic in Honolulu. Mr. Halsey is responsible for the deportation of scores of inhabitants of the tenderloin district, back to the country from whence they came. This list is said to have been composed of Orientals and Europeans.

President Re-elected

The Chinese election was held last week, and with a majority of one vote, Yuan Shih-Kai was elected to succeed himself. It is thought that as soon as the election is entirely settled, the powers will recognize the republic. The presidential term of office will probably be for five years.

Inter-Island Bowling

The Lihue bowling club members are doing some practice work in view of the Kauai-Maui bowling contest. Some excellent scores have been made, and the Valley Islanders will probably meet with a greater degree of opposition in the coming contest than in any of the past.

Better Water Service

New piping is being placed from the main water source to the Lihue Hospital. When completed, the pump which has been the former means of getting water through the buildings, will go on the shelf as an auxiliary.

Trouble Brewing

Bad blood is said to be brewing between the Kapaa homesteaders and cattle owners who are reported to be purposely driving their stock onto the premises of the homesteaders.

Good Road Work

Those responsible for the better condition of the Hulais road, should have a medal, for the drive over this strip of public highway, is now a pleasure, whereas before the same was decidedly precarious.

Sugar Crop Short

According to authentic reports, the sugar output for the Territory the past year was 55,000 tons short owing, it is said, to the drought.

TO ASSIST FARMERS

WILL AID THE FARMER IN SELLING OF HIS PRODUCE

Market Superintendent Longley, one of the Federal employees who are looking out for the best interests of the small farmer, spent nearly a week here recently, during which time he consulted with the farmers concerning the marketing of their products. Arrangements are effected whereby the farmer sends his produce to the department, and there it is disposed of at the highest market value, and after expenses are deducted the balance is returned to the grower. No commission whatever is exacted from the farmer.

Naming Town-Site

The members of the Farmers' Institute at Kapaa Homesteads at their meeting last week, decided unanimously, on giving their new homestead possessions, an appropriate name. Several familiar town names, some of them ending in "villes," etc., were considered but lightly as the consensus of opinion was to the effect that an appropriate Hawaiian name would be more suitable. A committee will be named at the next meeting to settle the question. This done, a postoffice and school house will be next in order. The Federal Experimental Station at Honolulu will arrange a course of lectures for the Institute during the coming season, which is thought will be of great benefit to the farmers.

Gun Drops Into Bay

Tom Gunn, the Chinese aviator whose reputation for talking far exceeds that for flying, and Mrs. Newman, an apparent adventurist, narrowly escaped drowning in the shark infested waters of Pearl Harbor last week when, for lack of motor power, the machine dropped into the bay. Their predicament was observed by the spectators who reached the scene as soon as possible in a canoe. Mrs. Newman is said to have escaped uninjured, due it is thought to her having thrown her battery overboard, thus preventing her ship from sinking. The appearance of the ship's gun in the water, perhaps prevented the hungry sharks from making a supper off the aviator who floundered in the water until the canoe reached them. Mrs. Newman says she will do it again, but it might be easier said than done, when one carries a gun that isn't sure on trigger.

Just a Few Good Suggestions

Now that we have such a grand store building, that unsightly row of stables opposite the building, and the dilapidated old bunch of plantation shacks along the approach from Kapaa, should be eliminated and pretty parks be given their places. Aside from the unsightliness of this camp, it is a source of danger to traffic, as there is frequently a crowd of children at play in the road, necessitating very careful manipulation to avoid striking them at times. "A camp should never be placed in such close proximity to a public highway," remarked a business man in speaking of the present camp to a reporter.

Athletics Champions

A special wireless to THE GARDEN ISLAND from it's New York correspondent last Saturday at five P. M. announced in brief detail, the result of the last game between the world's champions and the Giants, played in New York Saturday afternoon when the latter were defeated in a score of three to one. The series was to be composed of seven games. The Phillies have won four out of these, and have therefore been declared entitled to the championship.

Gets Pictures

The photographs appearing in the "Waialeale" story running in this issue, were taken by C. S. Dole on his recent trip up the mountain. Mr. Dole secured a large number of very desirable pictures, many of which would go well with that new promotion pamphlet now under consideration.

BRODIE ON PINES

SAYS NO DIFFERENCE IN THE FRUIT FROM TOP AND SHOOT

"The difference between the sucker and the crown of the pine as seed, is that the fruit from the former, grows about five or six months before that of the latter, but as there being any difference in the quality of the fruit, I have never been able to distinguish the best lot. The crown, however, seems to give a somewhat more uniform crop. That is, the fruit ripens with a greater degree of regularity." So said H. H. Brodie, who asked if there was really any difference in the fruit from the two seed plants.

To Plant Broom Corn

Broom corn is a new crop which is said to be in for considerable consideration by Kapaa homesteaders. "With a factory in Honolulu which turns out several dozens of broom daily, there is no reason why every broom that is manufactured for use in this Territory, cannot be made from material right here at home," said a prominent farmer to a press representative. With the exception of Oahu, no other island produces the fiber, and very little is grown there. It is said that in Mexico, two crops annually can be produced, and that in as much as the same climate exists here as in the above place, the same results should be expected.

Opinion on Stock Law

County Attorney Sam Kaeo has rendered his opinion on the present stock law in reply to a request from Sheriff Rice, who asked for the information as a result of a petition presented him by the leading citizens of the Waimea District. The petition, the sheriff's request for the opinion, and the latter's reply, appear on a page three of this issue, and make interesting reading. The law as interpreted by the county attorney, does not apply to the conditions complained of in the petition.

Should Paint'er Up a Little

With the new bankbuilding, the new store edifice, the county building and the pretty residence of Frank Crawford, looming up as it pleasing background, the Lihue Plantation office should get busy with the paint brush if it doesn't wish to become a second-rate piece of furniture.

New P. O. BOXES

Four hundred and ten new post-office boxes arrived last Friday, and the postoffice officials got busy at once, with the result that there are everyone now in place. There has been a big demand for more box accommodation at the local office, and general satisfaction is felt over the classy supply just installed.

Going Some

Now will the frayed shirt, and the ravelled stocking and the rent button hole fall into oblivion, while the silk pen wiper and the embroidered button bag and the initialled dish rag come to the front for a while. Here's to safety pins and burnt matches for men till December 6.

May Bring Kilauea

It is rumored that one of the biggest Inter-Island steamers is to replace the Kinan between here and Honolulu. That the passenger traffic will justify the chance. No official statement has been made concerning the rumor, yet it is believed that such a move is on foot.

The Lihue Ladies

Request you to "sit up and take notice" that they have fixed on Dec. 6 as the date of the fair. At that time they will make it interesting for you, or you will know the reason why.

"Mutt" Headquarters

"Mutt" headquarters has been established in the Lihue Meat Market, where choice French Mutton chons are all the rage. A trial will convince you.

A BIT IMPERTINENT

Writer Would Know More About Our Political Magnerisms—Militant Says Kill to Gain Suffrage.

A letter has been received at this office, asking if politics is responsible for the conditions prevailing in Hanamauhi. We are unprepared to say, definitely, but in so much as the police department is republican, the members of the board of supervisors the same, and the Lihue Plantation manager is likewise, and since some of the above are responsible, it would seem that politics has a little to do with the failure to secure justice for the people. And we might add, that its kind of politics that may not wash down in the future.

Rope Factory Next

It is rumored that a company is to be formed for the purpose of manufacturing rope, the factory to be in Waimea district. As it requires several years to produce material for the making of rope, it is hardly likely that a rope factory is one of the early local probibilities.

Would Kill For Cause

Miss Joan Wickham, Mrs. Pankhurst's advance agent declares that unless the British women are speedily given the vote they would begin to take human life as present methods of destruction of property did not seem to bring about desired results.

Friday Service Interesting

The Salvation Army services at the Foreign church Friday evening were well attended, and highly appreciated. Col. Cox is a forceful speaker, and many regrets were expressed that the able little talker could not remain for another address.

Show People Haggle

There seems to be a muddle in Koloa's moving picture show business, all of which, it is said would be eliminated were the deputy sheriff of the district to attend to his duties instead of engaging in business of this nature.

Baseball Spirit Rife

Our baseball fans of which there are hundreds—are as greatly interested in the big games now going on in the east as are those living near by. This is the spirit that makes this island respected as the last to be said in crack baseball material.

"Kids" Play Good Tennis

The local tennis court is furnishing opportunities for surprises almost daily. Some of the youngsters are developing into dangerous antagonists to the grown-ups. There has been nothing further heard of late concerning the night tournament.

Grand Opening Coming

The Lihue Store is getting ready to move into its big, new quarters, some of the minor departments being already under way. The grand opening of the new store will be announced in a page ad. in the near future.

Cheap Notoriety

The Carter-Kuhlo controversy appearing in the Honolulu press is looked upon by some as an attempt upon the part of both gentlemen to gain notoriety, and that they are succeeding goes without saying.

Makes a Hit

THE GARDEN ISLAND'S baseball extra published every afternoon, giving details of the big league games, made a hit and was very highly appreciated by its readers.

Wholesome Advice

The fool and his money are soon parted. Don't part with yours till Dec. 6 then let go all at once at the fair.

Lee Austin, Davies & Co's representative, is again on Kauai in the interest of his popular concern.

TO FURNISH COAST

School Hours May be Changed in Order To Benefit Children—Who Will Buy The Hanalei Lots.

As a result of the advise given the small farmers by Market Superintendent Longley while on his recent visit here, the homesteaders in the Kapaa District are preparing to experiment with the famous Merced sweet potato, which is much the best seller on the market, and which brings as high as 8 cents per pound at certain seasons in San Francisco. It is the intention of the farmer to produce a crop and to get it on the market when cost prices are highest. Mr. Longley thinks this can be done, and is aiding the homesteader in getting his seed.

Would Change The Hours

Much discussion has been heard concerning the proposed change in the hours of our public schools, Supervising Principal of Schools, H. H. Brodie, suggests that the change be from 8 A. M. to 12:45 P. M. with a single recess period.

This plan is looked upon by the teaching staff with more favor than that proposed by the department which was from 8 A. M. to 1:15 P. M. It is thought that the Kauai Teacher's Association may take the matter up.

Who Will Buy Lots?

Considerable speculation is heard in regard to the probable purchasers of the Hanalei beach lots. As the only condition is simply the price in cash, it is thought by many that persons of ordinary means, will have little if any chance to secure the lots, which are especially well situated for beach homes and will therefore in all probability bring prices much in excess of the amount represented in the upset price.

Foot-ball Season is On

An appreciative audience witnessed the foot ball game at the Lihue Park last Sunday afternoon. Some expert kicking was done by a number of players who give promise of becoming the real stuff when future contests become the fashion. The field is in good condition.

A New Meat-Shop For Anahola

Preparations are said to be under way for the re-establishment of a new meat market in the vicinity of Anahola. An owner of a large number of choice beef cattle is said to be behind the project.

1913 Crop is Pau

The Hanamauhi Plantation gathered in the last stalk of cane of this season's yield last Friday afternoon and the mill is closed until some time in December. The plantation's output this year amounted to 10,600 tons of sugar, a yield in excess of the estimate by a good margin.

A Fascinating Experience

A fascinating story written by the late Dole, begins in this issue. It relates a trip to the summit of Waialeale, 51 years ago, being the first time that a white man had ever been on the summit of this mountain.

E. B. BRIDGEWATER, EDITOR

It has come at last. Prominent citizens, some nineteen in number, have filed a petition with Sheriff Rice, asking that some definite step be taken in regard to our stock law. As suggested in this paper in our last issue, this seems the proper course to pursue, and one which will most likely be productive of results. There are many who disregard the present antiquated stock law which provides that all fences shall be a certain height before loose stock can be impounded. There is a new law, however, the effects of which will probably be felt by these violators before they can be convinced that the public road is not a general pasture. Reports of damaged cars from having come into contact with stock on the public highways, are almost of daily occurrence, and if the present law is inadequate in stopping these conditions, the board of supervisors might try their hand at an ordinance that would prove effective.

If the Lihue Plantation really wishes to carry out its idea of beautifying and cleaning up Lihue, then it would do well to turn its attention to the Lihue coffee shop, the immediate vicinity from which emerged a beautiful specimen of insobriety the other Sunday, who, only by the aid of an assistant on either side, was able to navigate up and down the street, a walking advertisement not only for the notorious joint, but to the community as well. About the same conditions are said to prevail in a certain coffee shop in the immediate vicinity of the Hanamaulu Store, the same being also under the supervision of the Lihue Plantation, in so much as the property belongs to the company.

It is a clear case that a democratic delegate is not wanted as a Hawaiian representative in Washington. And why? Well, we are told that if such is the case, that it will stamp Hawaii's approval on the tariff bill. For the love of Mike! Would it not be advisable to hold our horses awhile? At least until we have positive proof of the rumorous schedule? It is a bad policy to cross a bridge before we come to it. We republicans have no corner on grey matter, and it strikes us that all this talk is rather premature. That the republican party is sorely in need of reorganization, we must admit, but to let out a howl such as some of Honolulu's disgruntled are doing at present, is showing both weakness and fear, neither of which there is any reason to believe really exists.

"No stamps will be allowed the teachers from now on," says a letter from superintendent of schools to principals. Gibson is certainly looking out for the financial end of his department, since the furnishing the teachers with stamps must amount to at least a considerable sum each year. This means that each principal must furnish the stamps for her monthly report to the department, who hires her, another one in her report to the board of health, and still another to the board of supervisors. That the department is too poor to allow the teacher her due, is regrettable, but on the other hand, it is well that the teachers are all wealthy as the result of such princely (?) salaries.

OUR Delegate to Congress says that "he doesn't believe" in running around like a chicken with its head cut off and blustering blindly everywhere and to every one." Its a pity he didn't believe like that before he ran around blustering blindly everywhere to everyone about Governor Frear and supplying every one having an axe out for Hawaii with the ammunition used against the Territory in the tariff fight. Besides, come to think about it, we cannot remember ever hearing a chicken with its head cut off doing any blustering about anything. It always had something else to do.—Advertiser.

POLICEMAN Lovell, who took a pot-shot at a fleeing Japanese whom he had placed under arrest, and who was trying to make a get-away, has been criticised by some who entertain the idea that he was too hasty. Of course, it was rather unfortunate, but when a feller is under arrest about the only thing for him to do, is to be good. If an officer tells a prisoner to stop, and he fails to obey, what else is there to do, but to wing him?

"WORKINGMEN'S table bill is in creasing in spite of democratic rule," is the headline in a republican contemporary. This would be mendacious if it wasn't so silly. Some republican papers must think the workingmen are a lot of bone-heads. Every working man knows that there is no democratic rule yet, and that the country is still under a republican tariff.

WHEN the Hanamaulu people are compelled to sit in a corral formed by a wall tent, and along side of an offensive stable, in order to attend a moving picture show, it is high time that they were entitled to some sort of a show hall as well as a policeman and postoffice. There is but one reason why such is not provided.

WE have been told that if we had common sense, even, we would not criticise such a beautiful piece of art as that represented in the "obstruction" at the corner of the street in front of the Lihue Store. We would remind our critic, that we are possessed with "uncommon" sense, hence the hences.

POSSIBLY had the mother of the girl performed her whole duty to the child, Rev. Hans Schmidt, the Catholic priest, would not now be awaiting the electric chair in New York.—Exchange.

Isn't it just a little bit possible, too, that the mother of the man failed in her whole duty to the child? Isn't it strange how many people place the blame for such crimes on the women?

AND now it is reported that the other islands are contemplating sending their various boards of supervisors over to get a few lessons from the Kauai bunch. Bring 'em along. It would be the best investment the counties ever made, for they could sure learn something.

JACK Coney, onion king, declares that he is expecting a strong crop this year, and that he had been advised to plant Irish potatoes between the rows, but that he feared the close proximity would cause their eyes to water.

HARRY Thaw is said to have wanted to go to church on Sundays, but the sheriff wouldn't let him. And just think of the people who are not crazy, who have a chance to go to church and don't do so.

It is not altogether unlikely that things may begin to happen in the Waimea district in the near future, that will prove some jolt to some who think themselves far beyond the pale of discovery.

It was thought the doctors had found out all about woman's anatomy by this time, but we notice that a St. Louis woman was shot in a n adjoining room last week.

THE biggest hog in the Territory is on Hawaii. It weighs nearly 800 pounds. Kauai has some that don't weigh so much, but they are the biggest hogs, just the same.

WHEN the county officials get round to it, let us hope they will remove that pile of rubbish which graces the east side of the county lot.

The Lihue Ladies Alert

There is a deal of unwonted activity among the ladies of Lihue, much flying to and fro in autos, and hasty commings by the way and checking off of names and dates, and items; much profound study over obtrusive problems with inadvertent chewing of pencil tips and counting up on fingers. What does it all mean! Our first foreboding was "some kind of a suffragette movement, look out for squalls and we rejoiced that THE GARDEN ISLAND didn't have plate glass windows.

On second thought we knew that the ladies of Lihue had too much sense for that. "Perhaps they are working over problems in economy consequent on free sugar" and we rejoiced therat. But this didn't seem just like them! Finally we summoned up courage to stop one of them and inquire and found that it was the first premonitory stirring of the wheels for a church fair. In fact that the thing was well underway with the whole community committed and sub-committed into kindling wood, and ambitious plans laid to capture as much as possible of the current cash reserve.

In spite of the fact that sleeves, these days, are neither large nor long, they intimate that they have important things up them which will be disclosed later.

SOME FACTS GIVEN ON ESTRAYS BY S. K. KAEO

Sheriff Rice Receives Petition Asking Enforcement Of Stock Laws.

"LAWS DON'T STOP IT"

Says County Attorney Sam Kaeo In Response to The Official Inquiry

Upon receipt of the following petition from citizens of the Waimea District, Sheriff W. H. Rice sent the following request to County Attorney S. K. Kaeo:

The Sheriff's Request.
Lihue, Kauai, Oct. 11th, 1913.
S. K. Kaeo, Esq.,
County Attorney,
County of Kauai.

Dear Sir:
I herewith request a written opinion regarding the Estry Law regarding horses and meat cattle which have become a great danger to those who travel the County roads in autos.

Have the police a right to take up animals on the public high way, which public high way is not bounded on both sides by a legal fence?

I have a petition from some of the leading citizens of the district of Waimea requesting me to instruct my officers to take up animals which are upon the public high way. I am only too willing to assist in abating this nuisance; but want to do so in a legal way and not have a damage suit on my hands.

Thanking you in advance for your prompt attention to this matter.

Yours very respectfully,
WM. HENRY RICE,
Sheriff, County of Kauai

Attorney's Opinion.
Lihue, Kauai, Oct. 11, 1913.
Wm. Hyde Rice, Esq.,
Sheriff, County of Kauai.

Sir:

Your letter of the 8th inst., to this office, received, requesting a written opinion in regard to estrays, upon the following question:

"Have the police a right to take up animals on the public highway, which public highway is not bounded on both sides by a legal fence?"

To thoroughly understand and make clear what the law is upon the question asked, will quote part of the law relating to pounds.

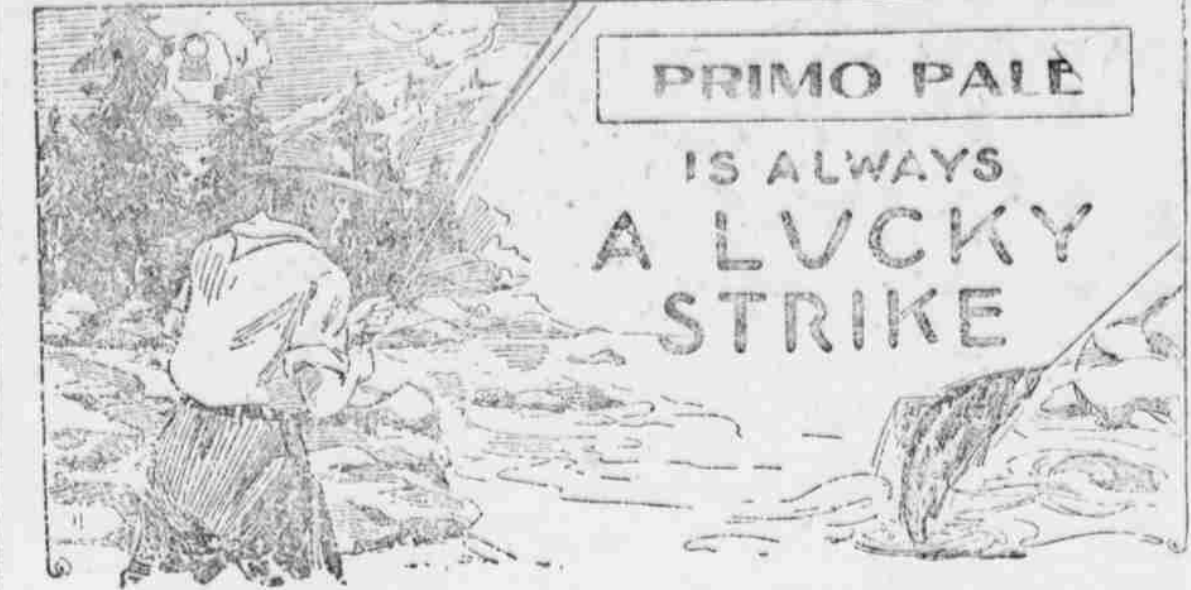

Act 125 of the Session Laws of 1907 sections 7, 10 and 15, will be set out in the above order.

Section 7. Estrays. If any horse, mule, ass, hog, sheep, goat or meat cattle shall be found at large, and not upon the land of the owner, or person having charge of such animal; or if found doing damage to the property of private individuals, or of the government, such animal shall be regarded as an estray within the meaning of this Act.

Section 10. Lawful fence. Every fence shall be deemed a lawful fence which shall be made of stone, posts and rails, posts and boards, posts and iron wire, or other suitable materials, provided it be not less than four and a half feet in height, substantially built, strong and close, to turn all stock excepting swine, and in good repair. The sea, rivers, ponds and natural perpendicular bluffs, whenever impassable, shall be a legal fence.

Section 15. On public roads, lands. If any animal mentioned in Section 12 shall trespass or stray upon any of the government roads in and around the city of Honolulu, town and district of Hilo, Hawaii, towns of Wailuku and Lahaina, Maui, or upon any government land, in this Territory, any police constable or such person or persons as may be thereunto authorized in writing by the Board of Supervisors or road authorities of the county, are hereby authorized to take up such animal and to impound the same in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Under section 7, the animals therein mentioned are regarded as estrays within the meaning of the act, when found at large, and not upon the land of the owner, or person having charge of such animal. Section 10 defines what a legal fence should be; the same to be not less than four and a half feet in height, substantially built, strong and close, to turn all stock excepting swine, and in good repair. Section 15 shows upon what roads and land such animal found

Libellee.

LIHEL FOR DIVORCE.
ORDER

On this day came on to be heard the motion of Maili Ikimura Kinzo, Libellant in the above entitled cause, wherein she asks that an order for service by publication of the said cause be made. It appearing to the Court from the affidavit of A. G. Kaulikou, Attorney for Libellant, and all the files in said cause, that the said libel for divorce and summons thereto attached were filed more than six months last past; that the said summons was returned unserved after due and diligent search had been made throughout the Territory of Hawaii for the libellee by the officer having authority to make service of the said libellee for divorce and summons thereof for a period of more than one year; that upon inquiry, the address or residence of said libellee could not be ascertained.

It is hereby ordered that the above named libellee Ikimura Kinzo appear before this court at Lihue county of Kauai, Territory of Hawaii, at 9 o'clock A. M. on December 15, 1913, to answer the libel of Maili Ikimura Kinzo, and that service of this order be made by publication by publishing same once a week for six successive weeks in THE GARDEN ISLAND, a newspaper published in Lihue aforesaid.

READ THE GARDEN ISLAND

Waialeale, "Rippling Waters"

(Below is printed a copy of a letter written by the late George H. Dole, then a resident of Kauai, in 1862, to Judge Jacob Hardy, who had at that time only recently removed from Lihue, Kauai, to California, after resigning his position as Circuit Judge of this island;—which describes the first ascent of the highest mountain on Kauai by white men. It was made by a party of twelve men, including Mr. Dole, Reverend G. B. Rowell of Wainena, and several others whose name we have been unable to ascertain, besides a number of Hawaiians who carried supplies and opened up the pathways, overgrown with vines and other tropical vegetation.

October 13th, 1913.

Dear Sir:

In accordance with your request I will endeavor here-with to give you an account of the long talk of, but only recently executed, expedition to Waialeale, Nature's grand chef d'oeuvre on Kauai.

Permit me merely to promise that the mountain of Waialeale, although in former times frequently visited by the natives, had never until our visit been trod by the foot of a haole. A number of years ago the late Rev. S. Whitney endeavored to make the ascent, but his guides, purposely perhaps, lost their way in the depths of the forest, and he was glad to reach home without having accomplished the object of his journey, having been in some danger of starvation. No foreigner, to my knowledge, has since ventured to make the attempt.

We left Wainena at eight o'clock on Tuesday morning, Oct. 7th, and rode up through the cocconut groves of the valley until we reached Kalaokana, where we turned off into the Makaweli valley. Our general course through this valley was about northeast; as we proceeded, the road,—to use an expression from St. Paul,—waxed worse and worse; the sides of the valley became higher and more precipitous, till they reached a degree of rugged sublimity which made them worthy objects of contemplation. After riding on seven or eight miles, frequently crossing the rushing waters of the river by rocky, neck-breaking fords, we entered the Kalia valley, whose waters making at this spot a junction with the Olokele stream, combine to form the Makaweli river.

Separating the two valleys is a lofty promontory, which, according to native tradition, was anciently used as a Pukana; one would think, looking up at its black mural sides, that it would be an exceedingly difficult task to scale them, even without any opposition in the way of showers of stones and firebrands.

A few minutes after entering the Kahana valley, on emerging from the shadow of a huge precipice, we came in sight of a natural bridge; the arch was well-proportioned and the span quite extensive, but being perched up near the top of the ridge it is doubtful whether it ever will be of any practical benefit to the travelling public.

We left our horses at a house about ten miles from our starting point in Wainena, and after having disposed of a very passable aboriginal dinner,—for it was now noon,—we set out on foot in company with our men and guides, who, joining us here, increased our number to twelve.

The narrow path led us on up its winding course, now across the pure, cool waters of the brook, and now into the deep shade of a kukui grove, from whose airy branches the brilliantly dyed little songster whistled a merry "God-speed," or the awkward Anku gazed with wonderment in his yellow eyes.

The sides of the valley gradually approached each other and increased in height. Ever and anon we paused to take breath, and as we looked upon the immense perpendicular walls almost surrounding us where "time had notched his scurries in the eternal rock," our souls would be filled with astonishment and awe,—when suddenly the appearance perhaps of a flock of wild goats midway up the precipice a thousand feet above heads, would dispel all feelings of a reverential nature, and cause us to lament our lack of a rifle. Sometimes we could see a goat as white as the snowy tropic fawns which were sailing gracefully around him, standing on a projecting rock and lazily chewing his cud, apparently all unmindful of his exalted station.

After a search of an hour or two the snow, which hitherto had appeared only in isolated groves, formed a dense forest with a wild tangled undergrowth of fern bushes and vines and heavy grass; the hillsides became less steep than before, and green with vegetation. A walk of about five miles brought us to the pretty water-fall of Waikakaa, which is perhaps one hundred and fifty feet in height,—we could only give its arrow-like flakes of white from a passing glance, as they descended with a quiet roar to the dark deep waters of the round basin beneath, and then hastened up the steep hill, richly robed in a many-tinted dress of green.

"'Twas oft so steep that foot was laid Assistance from the hand to gain;" but the round bald top was reached without mishap, and as we sat down for a moment to rest, the sun was shiking behind the blue western mountain ranges. A few rods further on by the side of the rocky stream we pitched our tent in an opening among the trees, which place is called "Kaipuhaa" ("The Dancing Calabash.")

While our energetic cook was making the tea and roasting a fowl on an extemporaneous spit for supper, we lay on the soft grass watching his proceedings or speculating on the probability of pleasant weather on the morrow; prospects were flattering, for it was a delightful evening;—"the sky was without a cloud and the winds were whist."

After supper, which was eaten by the flickering light of the camp-fire, we sat wrapped in our blankets beneath the brilliant stars, and listened with admiration and wonder to the exquisite music which pealed out like a chime of distant sleigh-bells from every leaf above and around us. The still atmosphere was filled with an ocean of melody, swelling and falling like the waves of the sea, but ceasing not for a moment. The natives say we are indebted for this nocturnal entertainment to the land-shells, but, unfortunately for this interesting hypothesis, shells are very scarce in the region, a few specimens of the Helix, with one or two diminutive varieties, being all we could obtain; it is more probable that the music proceeded from some kind of insect.

When we arose in the morning the thermometer stood at 55°. Some of the party, evidently believers in cold water, rashly plunged into the stream for a bath, but they immediately concluded that the temperature of the water was rather too near zero to be agreeable.

After breakfast our party shouldered their packs and set off once more on the journey; our path now took us up a long steep hill, in whose ascent more than two hours were employed. It proved to be the only 'long climb' we had to encounter on the whole route, the remainder of the way being over a great plateau, cut up at intervals by deep ravines. From its top we had a fine view of the surrounding country, while in the distance the verdant valley of Wainena, with its bit of a river, looked like an oasis in the desert.

We waited a few minutes for stragglers to come up, and then plunged into the labyrinth of the primeval forest with which these high table-lands are covered, and from which we only emerged when within a short distance of Waialeale's summit. The trees consist chiefly of Lehua, although the Kaunila, Ohia, Koa, and many other varieties are frequently met with. The trees throughout this forest are often covered to the depth of two or three inches with gray moss, and the ground is at frequent intervals heavily carpeted with the same material.

Our party could proceed but slowly owing to the thick under growth with which the path was overgrown; and it was had it not been kept partially open by the wild logs which wander over these solitudes in great numbers, descending an immense amount of Ki-roo.

Two or three miles from our encampment of the previous night we came into a small open spot called Pukanamae; it was here, our guide informed us, that Mr. Whitney stopped and ate his dinner while on his way to Waialeale. There were a number of little brown birds, resembling very much the Wren, hopping about among the bushes; their Hawaiian name is Akoke; the natives formerly worshipped them as the gods of the Kauhwi, and to this day the ancient superstition clings to them that if one of the birds be killed a terrible tempest will
