Uncle Sam's Troops In Philippines May Go To China

The U. S. A. T. Sherman arrived from San Francisco this afternoon. She was docked at Naval Wharf at 3 o'clock. The Sherman experienced a pleasant and uneventful passage.

The transport carries a large list of the usual government supplies to the Philippines. It is whispered on board that these supplies include a shipment of heavy clothing for the troops in the Philippines.

The transport carries on board the officers and men of the 12th U. S. Infantry, under command of Col. J. W. Bubb. The regiment served in the Cuban campaign, taking a prominent part in the capture of El Caney.

For Manila the Sherman has 90 cabin passengers, 27 second cabin, 784 enlisted men of the 12th Infantry, 498 recruits and 63 casuals.

MAJORITY DECISION IN NOTLEY WILL CASE

Supreme Court this afternoon rendered decision in the matter of Charles Notley, deceased, in relation to his last will and testament, overruling the exceptions of the contestants to the granting in Circuit Court of the Fourth Circuit, of proponent's motion for a directed verdict in their favor.

Says Galbraith, in his dissenting opinion: "The contestants certainly had the right to demand that the evidence be submitted to the jury and to have their free and fair judgment thereon."

The Circuit Judge after a hearing admitted the Notley will to probate. Contestants, his widow and four children appealed to the Circuit Court and the case was there tried before a jury and a different Circuit Judge on the issue of undue influence by the decedent's niece, Mrs. Emma Danford, see Mulligan.

Says the majority opinion: "A testator may make even what is sometimes called an unnatural will if he does so freely and with a sound mind, but in this case the will was not of that character. Mere suspicion of undue influence is insufficient."

It was contended by the wife and children that the will was procured by the undue influence of the niece above named, who had been brought up in the family as a daughter.

Uncle and niece were very fond of each other.

Decision holds that there was no evidence of undue influence and says it was not error to direct a verdict for the proponent.

Notley's will gave $1,000 to Miss Barnard, who had lived at the Notley home; $500 to the decedent's brother; $500 to Emma Mulligan's father.

It was objected that the niece instead of the wife was given the home-estate and that Charles' children instead of himself were given most of what would have been given to him if he had been treated like the other children and the niece.

The wife elected to take her dower instead of being bound by the provisions of the will and did not join in the appeal.

Estate is valued at $400,000 and the contest has been strenuous.

Water Works Clerk Richardson Alleged Embezzler

Vivian Richardson, chief clerk of the Water Works Department, is in custody, charged with embezzlement. A shortage in the accounts of the clerk was discovered this morning.

Governor Cager was at once notified and he immediately communicated with the High Sheriff, with the result that Richardson was arrested.

The news of the shortage came as a shock to the executive.

"We will permit no opportunity of escape in such a case as this," said Mr. Carter. "It makes no difference where the iron strikes, or whom it hits."

No sooner was the Governor notified that something was wrong in Clerk Richardson's accounts that he reached for his desk telephone and summoned the High Sheriff.

With the accused young man in charge of the police, it was ordered that an immediate investigation of Richardson's books be made.

Superintendent of Water Works A. Brown; Superintendent of Public Works C. S. Holloway and Auditor J. H. Fisher, started the work of examination in Superintendent Brown's office this forenoon.

At noon they were still going through Richardson's accounts.

At that time admission was refused representatives of the press, Superintendent Brown declining to have anything whatever to say on the subject.

Prosecution has been left in the hands of the Attorney General's Department, which is now engaged in preparing the case against Richardson.

It has been discovered that at least eighteen hundred dollars have been carried over on the books, unaccounted for.

Territorial Secretary A. L. C. Atkinson stated early this afternoon that *****

MANES AND TAILS CUT BY MISCREANT

News came up from Wahiawa yesterday that a certain white man, with motives of revenge in his heart, was maiming the stock—particularly the horses—of the farmers of the place mentioned. It was reported that several valuable animals had been hamstringed.

High Sheriff Brown was seen at the police station this afternoon and he told of a letter which he had received, under date of February 26, telling of the maiming of horses at Pearl City.

The letter is from James D. Dole, and it mentions several cases which were found at the stables of one W. H. Wilkinson, at Pearl City.

The letter states that for three or four months some person or persons have been carrying on a system of malicious practices which the police had been unable to gain any information about.

Not long ago A. W. Eames left a horse at the stables over night. He came up to town and upon going down the next day, found that the tail of his horse had been docked.

The same kind of thing happened to Dr. E. C. Rhodes. His horse was cut and his wagon fouled. Not only this, but the nuts were removed and he barely escaped serious injury to himself.

On the 24th of February, Dole himself left a horse and rig at the Wilkinson stables. On the following day he returned, only to find his horse with several cuts on the forward side of the hind legs, his harness broken and damage done to his carriage.

At about the same time L. S. Kellogg of the Wahiawa colony had his horse badly cut and mutilated. The tail was also docked.

Deputy Sheriff Fernandez, seen by a Bulletin reporter today, said that he was working on the case but had been unable to secure any clue to the person or persons who had been maiming the poor dumb brutes.

Quite naturally, the Wahiawa people do not fancy this kind of business and have complained to the police, who are now working on the case. Incidentally, the Wahiawa people are doing a little detective work themselves and it will not go well if the man who is suspected, is caught at his work.

Hawaiian Defense Is Struck Out

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—The Fortification Bill reported to the Senate today eliminates the item of $200,000 for Hawaiian defenses passed by the House.

Ito To Korea On Secret Mission

TOKIO, Japan, March 8.—Marquis Ito, the leading statesman of Japan, and other officers of the Government are contemplating a trip to Korea on a special mission. The officials refuse to disclose the object of their visit, but it is believed that matters of vast import in the relations of Japan and Korea are involved.

Japan To Regain Sakhalien Island

ST. PETERSBURG, Russia, March 8.—It is believed that Japan is trying to regain possession of the island of Sakhalien, off the coast of Russian Manchuria, which was formally ceded to Russia. Sakhalien commands the Gulf of Tartary and the mouth of the Amur river. In the possession of the Japanese it would be a constant menace to Russian interests and practically shut Russia off from free outlet to the Pacific. The appearance of the Japanese fleet at Vladivostok and the extension of its activities to northern waters strengthens the Russian belief that Sakhalien may be occupied by the Japanese forces.

KEPOIKAI ON NEED OF SPECIAL SESSION

Interviewed this morning with reference to the finances of the Territory, Treasurer Kepoikai said that in the event of the Supreme Court sustaining the contentions of the Government in the test case now before it, he saw absolutely no reason why a special session of the Legislature should be called. Continuing, he said:

"In my statement to the business men I told them there was in the neighborhood of $528,000 with which to run the Territory for a year. In addition to this, there will be another $100,000 in special deposits for roads, making $628,000 in round figures. This will give the Territory something like $50,000 a month, which I consider to be ample for the carrying on of the work of the Government. Mind you, this is exclusive of salaries and pay rolls, which are provided for."

The Superintendent of Public Works can use every cent of that $10,000 a month, besides the other money out of the $528,000 for repair and other work. I really do not see any necessity for calling the Legislature in session if the Supreme Court upholds the test case brought by the Attorney General's Department.

GRAND JUROR LEWIS DENIES ANY INTIMIDATION

Pleas in abatement were argued before Judge Robinson early today in the matter of indictments against Solomon Meheula, Enoch Johnson and Jonah Kumalae, alleged fraud in connection with "house vouchers."

Kumalae, through his attorney, C. W. Ashford, in an affidavit, charges Deputy Attorney General E. C. Peters with intimidation and threats that he, Kumalae, unless he answered certain questions before the grand jury, would be punished for contempt or otherwise.

Foreman E. C. Lewis of the grand jury was put on the stand by Peters. Lewis denied that Peters had in any way intimidated Kumalae, or that he had threatened him.

Peters read allegations from the affidavit of Kumalae and Lewis pronounced them to be false.

Lewis testified, under Ashford's examination, that Peters on one occasion had told Kumalae that he would have to answer certain questions. Peters insisted on an answer. Lewis did not recollect if Peters said anything about "perjury."

Peters said the absurdity of the whole examination was apparent.

Lewis swore that he heard Peters make no threats.

On account of the Jones murder trial and the fact that Ashford had to leave town for Maui, further hearing was over until Monday morning next.

The Book Tells You How To Get Well At My Risk

If you want to feel better, if you want more strength, if you lack ambition, if you can't do things like you used to, if your nerves—your courage—is leaving you, if your confidence in yourself is less, if you lack vim, vigor, vitality, if something is eating away your constitution, ask me by letter for the book.

Don't send a penny. Let me take the risk. Let me tell you of a druggist near you who will give you six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative on a month's trial. Take it and see for yourself what it will do. Then decide.

No cost—not a penny—if you say, "I am no better." Don't leave it to the druggist—not to me. We might be prejudiced. You, you alone, shall say the word, whether you pay $5 or nothing. The druggist can't complain. He is to bill the cost to me at your say so.

Try Dr. Shoop's Restorative at my risk. Not a penny if it fails.

It's a two-cent stamp—or a postal—against six bottles of my Restorative—against $5.00, their cost. Don't you begin to believe the Restorative can do something unusual for the sick? I have found, long ago, how certain it is, how seldom it fails.

It risks my reputation on it. And the cost of the medicine too. I know and I want you to know. This is my way of gaining your interest. Others don't do it that way. It's pay anyway with them. Ask me for the book you need.

Write me? Now—today.

Simply state which book you want and address Dr. Shoop, Box 811, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured with one or two bottles. At druggists.

Should the transport be delayed until tomorrow, the concert will be given on the evening of that day. The Territorial band gave a concert on the hurricane deck of the transport Thomas yesterday afternoon preparatory to the departure of that vessel for San Francisco, and the Filipino Constabulary band of fifty pieces played from 3 to 5. At 4 o'clock, the commanding officer of the vessel decided to return the compliment and sent the Filipinos upon the dock, they alternating with the music of Berger's bandmen. Their playing was exceptionally fine.

The funeral of Wm. S. Bailey, one of the clerks at the Honolulu post office, took place at the late home, corner of Cottage Grove and King street, yesterday afternoon, the Rev. G. L. Pearson officiating. The choir of the Methodist church sang "Nearer My God, to Thee" and "Rock of Ages." The body had been cremated and the copper urn containing the ashes, occupied a place on a pedestal in the center of the room. After the services, the urn was taken to a vault to await shipment to Oregon, where the parents of Mr. Bailey reside.

The Social Science Club met last evening at the home of Judge Dole, Emma street. The paper of the evening was on the subject of "The New West" by Rev. Doremus Scudder and it dealt with the relations of Japan and Russia from their earliest contact. The successive steps, beginning with 1855 at the close of the China-Japan war, the growing aggressiveness of Russia, the continuous evasions of promises of that country and the final determination to seize and retain not only Manchuria, but Korea, were analyzed.

GARNISHEE DISCHARGED.
Judge Gear yesterday rendered the following decision in First National Bank vs. Jesse M. McChesney et al., jury waived:

"This is an action for the balance, due upon a promissory note for $50,000, dated March 29, 1901. I find that there is now due the sum of $37,557.20, principal and interest on $50,000 from January 31, 1902, to March 21, 1903, at 7 1/2% per annum, and interest on $37,557.20, at 7 1/2% per annum, from March 21, 1903, to date of judgment herein.

"The evidence shows that on September 18, 1902, the defendant partnership transferred all their property to a corporation of the same name, including in the transfer all book accounts and choses in action. This had the legal effect of transferring all the debts due the partnership to the corporation, and therefore the garnishees will be discharged.

"Judgment for plaintiffs as prayed for, with interest, attorneys' fees and costs, will be signed upon presentation."

CARTER REFUSES GEHR.
A. C. Gehr yesterday afternoon called on Governor Carter in relation to the Kohala water franchise referring to an agreement with Governor Dole two years ago, by which, he held, he and his associates were entitled to be granted the license. Gehr asked Carter to investigate the matter of a map case and its contents having been tampered with. Gehr had left a Kohala map with the Government and found the lock of the case broken when it was, after much delay, returned to him.

Governor Carter refused to recognize as binding any claim concerning negotiations with Governor Dole. He said the sale of the license would be held as advertised, when Gehr could bid with the rest. The Governor would assume no responsibility in regard to the map case. Mr. Carter further said that he had not postponed the water sale to await Gehr's arrival, but for public reasons.

Representative W. W. Harris has already framed a readjustment of the appropriations, salary and current, so that the expense of the Territory will come within the income as estimated by the Auditor and Treasurer.

Believing an extra session necessary in the present crisis, and thinking the Governor might call the Legislature, Mr. Harris went to work on the appropriation bills to work out a scheme for bringing the appropriations within the income as estimated for the period ending June 30, 1905.

TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1904.

Somehow, neither the troops nor the naval vessels are following the plan of action laid down for them by the strategists.

The morning strategists is not the first man who, after stepping on a barrel hoop, has thought of rapid military evolutions.

Refined sugar is advanced in price presumably to give the Trust another large dividend. For the same reason the price of raw sugar will presumably remain the same.

Federal control of the leper settlement now appeals to many who when the question was first broached were swayed entirely by the political phase of the question.

If the Advertiser had any reputable standing as a Republican paper the Home Rulers would have only to use its editorial remarks on the militia as a vindication of their attitude in the first legislative session.

Advocates of centralized government continue to talk of appealing to Congress for more centralization. These were the good Indians who strenuously objected to an appeal to Congress to confirm the County Law—because Hawaii would better do its own legislating.

Representative Harris has made a review of the appropriation bills and produces new measures that keep well within the income of the Territory.

The Bulletin cordially endorses the statement of P. C. Jones that "Any mercantile house could run the government for twenty-five per cent of what it is costing now."

Financial legislation and sanction of the financial program mapped out by the Territorial administration is the platform on which Republican members of the Legislature should stand in event of a call for an extra session.

Reducing salaries ten or twenty per cent all along the line is an easy way to reach an economical basis but it is not the most effective method of readjustment in the public service.

The fire department was called out this morning by an alarm from box 35, on the corner of Alakea and Halekuanui streets.

reduction is through the Legislature. To once lawfully establish the salary lists of this Territory on an economical basis would be worth the price of two legislative sessions.

PROFIT IN COTTON THINKS BIERCE FOR HAWAII TERRITORY

Wm. W. Bierce, cotton expert, and a man who has had wide experience with this product throughout all the countries where the unpromising brown shells burst forth at certain seasons into the snow-white masses that furnish clothing for the millions, is a guest at the Alexander Young Hotel.

A few days ago, Mr. Bierce was told that there were some cotton "trees" in Honolulu as old as ten years and which not only produced a continuous crop but showed no signs of losing any of their original vigor.

"I consider the growth of cotton in this country nothing short of marvelous. In all my experience I have never seen anything like it and I have seen about every country where the plant is grown."

"Judge Galbraith and I went to the home of Prof. Lyons in Punahou the other day and I there obtained samples of cotton that vie in every component part with the very best product on the market, I do not care where you may go."

"I have learned that the crop from the few plants you have here and to which you pay absolutely no attention, is continuous and that is a point which is not only surprising to me but which gives Hawaii an advantage I have found nowhere else."

"The cotton you have here I have examined minutely. It is as good as the cotton of the Southern States and almost borders on the Sea Island cotton."

"There is no question about the excellence of the fibre and now comes another important point which I have discovered in the examination of the samples secured at the Lyons home. The seed is simply full of oil."

"When the cotton industry was in its infancy, these seeds were thrown away. Now the by-product obtained therefrom is worth something like $75,000,000 per annum to the Southern States."

"Still another advantage. As you see from this sample I have, when the fibre is pulled away, the seed is left clean. This is not so with the cotton in other parts of the world, there being considerable of the fibre left clinging to the seed, the cleaning away of which entails considerable expense."

"Now, as to my conclusions: It seems to me that you have in cotton an industry which will pay you magnificently if only some of you people would take up the proposition. You have advantages here which no other cotton-growing country in the world is possessed of and there would be a great profit coming to those who would undertake the work. I see absolutely no scientific reason why you should not make a big success of cotton growing in this country."

Mr. Bierce is the owner of the mill in Oklahoma City for the extraction of cotton-seed oil and a builder of cotton compresses in use on the mainland from New York to Galveston.

VIDA FAVORS SESSION

Representative Henry C. Vida, asked this morning if he would favor a special session of the Legislature in the event of the scope of the work being confined to financial matters, said:

"I do not see any other legal way of remedying the present financial condition of the Government. I say, by all means, call a special session of the Legislature if it is found that the members are willing to confine themselves to financial measures. We should certainly do something when the finances of the Territory are in such a bad way."

The fire department was called out this morning by an alarm from box 35, on the corner of Alakea and Halekuanui streets. Engines Nos. 1 and 2, with hosewagons No. 1 and 2 and the chemical engine responded, only to find the alarm to be a false one, probably having been turned in by some mischievous person.

PROVINCIALISM

Editor Evening Bulletin:—The floundering of the self-constituted fiscal mentors of our insular-American kindergarten has an aspect of circus absurdity, painfully pathetic in some respects to behold, while the legally constituted authority is conspicuous by its inaction, compared with which the Sansculottic National assembly in its palmiest days of subservency was not to be classed. Some of the urchins in knickerbockers and gold lace are indulging silly pranks—Dame Law is absent; her way interrupted—others are grimacing at one another, while many are coddled together in variegated groups, applauding serio-comic efforts to thrust a barrel through its own bung-hole, or to get the smaller end of a tapering funnel to pass water faster than the larger end receives it.

The silly giggle of the infantile sycophant, is mingled with the rapid chagrin of the credulous. Some, wise in their generation, realize that Dame Law is not absent—not departed permanently—that she will resume her dominion—with the switch of compensatory retribution. To these the hubbub is amusing.

It would seem that the provincial economist works on the principle that ends justify means—a dangerous propaganda to follow—absolutely incompatible with fundamental American institutions. No hesitation would be tolerated for a moment were the present contingency to arise in any State or Territory on the mainland. Duty enjoins the following of Law, where-soever it may lead. If Law was made to satisfy the whim of the individual, society had better revert to feudal vassalage, or to where every man was law unto himself. That liberty, which would in our day, signify anarchy. No judicial decision can make law, and even a permitted misinterpretation of law, is but a temporary and doubtful expedient. The law here is plain—no one need misunderstand—no one should be permitted to misconstrue it. It would be a calamity, the end of which can not be foreseen.

This insular conception of government in order to attain a reputable working basis requires a thorough overhauling and readjustment throughout. An insular Moses is also requisite, with stalwart, up-to-date American instincts, an American heart, bone and sinews, to give a body and brain that won't vacillate with every wind or hesitate to respond when duty calls, regardless of personal relations or business affiliations. One who can lift himself from mediocrity of origin to the heights of opportune greatness; who can measure men and motives in the scale of patriotism—and in the pride of his manhood, say "yea!" or "nay!" with "malice toward none and justice toward all"—such is the measure of the man to fit the era.

Brush away the last lingering Quixotic cobwebs of monarchy and oligarchy of plutocracy, and get down to the plain everyday "brass-tack democracy" of American government, with all of its virtues and vices. Nay! It must be done! whether acceptable or not, and the better the grace, the easier the task. Hawaii took its own prescription and will take its medicine. If it tastes unpleasant at first, it is but natural to make bad faces—though it don't improve appearances. Find solace in the grand thought that many millions of happy people have found national and individual prosperity under it, although the slave holder and many other individual interests have been sacrificed upon the altar of national greatness.

So this being our model per se let us examine our household. Who ever heard of a territorial policy that was not subject to legislative review and sanction to give it effect?

Who ever heard of the official public servants of a State or Territory, massaged like puppets by the process of appointment into automatic jumping-jacks of political monkeys-on-sticks.

But the means justify the ends! Yes? And the native cannot be trusted to exercise his franchise? Remember what Lincoln told Douglas about the folly of trying to prevent a lawful act? What is being done, or what has been done, to increase the natives' respect for the American institutions? Is it by giving him the form rather than the substance of citizenship? Depend upon it, American people intended him to have it, and they will see that he receives it. Has he had the best of example set as to the use of his prerogatives, so will it be in politics? No one

Or, after all, is it hoped to continue this dog-in-the-manger policy ad infinitum ad nauseam? Already the cry has been voiced and openly proclaimed, not by foreign born alone, that "the Territory would have been better off if it had never been annexed to the United States."

Why? Can it be as suggested that "the Territory" interests are embraced body and soul in the selfish ends of a few? Is the bank account of the favored to outweigh the priceless gem of liberty and law. Thank God, the scales of justice are not always balanced by Shylock!

Again it is feared our government machinery is too strong for the stomach of provincialism. Well, Uncle Sam has some other kindergartens, and has had much experience. Columbia has been known to raise several very puny babies, and if found necessary can increase or diminish the diet, from heroic to homeopathic measures with the greatest facility and success. Orphans are her specialty.

has ever accused him of being vicious, but rather irresponsible. If so weak-brained why fear him? If capable of affirmative action, why not win him to political faith, as to religion? Is anyone afraid to test his credulity, on the basis of his experience with the white man's religion?

The adviser of the Hawaiian should feel his responsibility to this remnant of Polynesia. The American people are testing him by the stethoscope of popular government—the ear of a nation of free men is at its office. The judgment will come slowly, but surely—and it will be—for good or ill—final! Don't make any mistake—the reward of virtue and the wages of vice are sure to be meted out by the American government—fall on or favor whom it may, and the seeming slow process of Congressional action, is but the glove that softens the paternal touch, and conceals the steely grip, of the mightiest power on earth. If the opponents of Hawaiian suffrage have a scintilla of merit in their contentions, the surest remedy is to let the native hang himself; if there is no merit in their fears and contentions, if it is the rule or ruin spirit that prompts them, they can encompass their own discomfiture in no more effective manner than to oppose the operation of the machinery of popular government. Therefore, white or yellow, cease parading insular deformities.

hour repenters there should be a modicum of patience, little sympathy and less respect. Life to them is a hogging game all the way through. Is it possible to hide one side's, shiftable heart, under the shadow of the other's defective perceptions? Is it a callous condition of brain that detects the calloused heart? Yes; the American rule will be a sore trial to its apostate son and the unchangeling stranger. The fact is, it is not only the ancient savage who must yield to the new order of things. The votaries of selfishness—the refugee spirit of the unreconstructed rebel—doing most of the talking during and most of the fighting after hostilities had ceased, in the security of his temporary asylum,—the creed that precludes the possible existence of a pure heart beneath any but a white skin—the hollow mockery of caste—all these—and many other obstacles to human progress must bow to the inevitable triumph of human liberty and legal equality as a fact—not a fiction—as the herald of American government steadily treads this island Territory.

These islands are beautiful. God—not man—made them so. To dwell amidst beauty is lovely—one should be sorry to part with it. But it would be better that every defacement or improvement—religious, moral, physical, or otherwise,—introduced here since the white man's advent should vanish; the native relegated to his pristine simplicity; or the islands by act of God returned to the elements whence they came; than that the logic of recent events should be reversed—by sordid designs against an ideal realization of American government,—its institutions and citizenship.

Provincialism never failed to yield to civilization's progress, with its companions—education and liberty. The latter are concomitant and essential elements of the former. Where provincialism is dominant the civilizing forces must be automatic or adjusted according to varying contingencies. Neither the disease nor its cures are respecters of persons—all must yield or be vanquished.

The true mission of this community is how best to utilize American government and expand its beneficence—not to curtail or abuse it. The latter is a mission for Provincialists—not for free men.

SATISFIED AS TO THE GUILTY MAN Drawing a jury in the Jones murder case proceeded before Judge Robinson this morning. Special venire for fifty names was returned. The majority of those drawn on the venire were present; others could not be found.

Emmett May was excused. He was called on the former trial of Jones and excused for cause. Bruce Cartwright was excused as he is Peruvian Consul; Frank E. Nichols, on a doctor's certificate; M. R. de Sa, because no one else could take his place in the soda-water business; Frank Carvalho, not an American citizen; John Leal, as he is a policeman, and C. C. Eakin and Wm. Prestige, not citizens.

Albert Lucas was excused as he is married to the sister-in-law of the defendant, Edward Mitchell Jones. J. J. Egan, being examined, said he knew everybody concerned in the trial; besides he was opposed to the infliction of the death penalty. He said he had voted against the death penalty and it had been abolished in Michigan, whence he came.

Captain O. Soule said that he lived on Lunalilo street, between Alapai and Hackfeld, a very short distance from the scene of the tragedy. He was at home at the time of the shooting on Kinau street, near Alapai, and heard the whole story from a neighbor. He was up that night on account of a birth in the family. He read the newspaper accounts of the shooting and had formed a very decided opinion. It was hard not to form a decided opinion. The tragedy was shocking and had been the general subject of discussion in the community. Soule was excused.

But five jurors have been passed for cause, so far, H. A. Parmelee, Wm. Dunbar, E. R. Bivens, J. J. Egan and E. C. Brown. Egan stated that he did not want to serve on the jury; he did not like to. Judge Robinson said that probably no juror would care to serve, but that it was not a question of preference; it was a question of being able to set aside preconceived ideas and deciding the case on the evidence.

Egan thought he could do this if he had to. Soule, in answer to Deputy Attorney General Peters' questions, said he had formed an opinion in regard to who killed Mrs. Lida K. Jones. He would find it difficult to set aside his opinion. It was firm.

"When a thing like this is brought home to the community one naturally forms an opinion," said Captain Soule. Soule took for granted that what the newspapers had printed was true. The stories agreed with what he had heard from a neighbor on the night of the tragedy.

Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Brown also had an opinion, but could set it aside to try the case. At the present rate it is clear that great difficulty will be experienced in securing a jury to try Jones. Probably the special venire of fifty will be exhausted and another venire rendered necessary.

MARY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD

(Based Upon the Mystery Surrounding the Fate of the Dauphin, Son of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette)

Copyright, 1901, by the BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY

Those spring days I was wild with restlessness. Life revived to dare things. We heard afterward that about that time the meteor rushed once more across France. Napoleon landed at a Mediterranean port, gathering force at he marched, swept Louis XVIII. away like a cobweb in his path and moved on to Waterloo. The greatest Frenchman that ever lived fell ultimately as low as St. Helena, and the Bourbons sat again upon the throne. But the changes of which I knew nothing affected me in the Illinois territory. Sometimes I waked at night and sat up in bed, hot with indignation at the injustice done me, which I could never prove, which I did not care to combat, yet which unreasonably waked the fighting spirit in me. Our natures toss and change, expand or contract, influenced by invisible powers we know not why.

One April night I sat up in the veiled light made by a clouded moon. Rain points multiplied themselves on the window glass; I heard their sting. The impulse to get up and ride the wind, or pick the river up and empty it all at once into the bay, or tear Eagle out of the cloud, or go to France and proclaim myself, with myself for follower, and other feats of like nature being particularly strong in me, I struck the pillow beside me with my fist. Something bounced from it on the floor with a clack like wood. I stretched downward from one of Mme. Ursule's thick feather beds and picked up what brought me to my feet. Without letting go of it I lighted my candle. It was the padlocked book which Skenedon said he had burned.

And there the scoundrel lay at the other side of the room wrapped in his blanket from head to foot, mummied by sleep. I wanted to take him by the scalp and drag him around on the floor. He had carried it with him or secreted it somewhere month after month. I could imagine how the state of the writer worked on his Indian mind. He repented and was not able to face me, but felt obliged to restore what he had withheld. So, waiting until I slept, he brought forth the padlocked book and laid it on the pillow beside my head, thus beseeching pardon and intimating that the subject was closed between us.

I got my key, and then a fit of shivering seized me. I put the candle stand beside the pillow and lay wrapped in bedding, clenching the small, chilly padlock and sharp cornered boards. Remembering the change which had come upon the life recorded in it, I hesitated. Remembering how it had eluded me before, I opened it.

The few entries were made without date. The first pages were torn out, crumpled and smoothed and pasted to place again. Rose petals and violets and some bright poppy leaves, crushed inside its lids, slid down upon the bed cover.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Padlocked Book.—In this book I am going to write you, Louis, a letter which will never be delivered, because I shall burn it when it is finished. Yet that will not prevent my tantalizing you about it. To the padlocked book I can say what I want to say. To you I must say what is expedient.

That is a foolish woman who does violence to love by inordinate loving. Yet first I will tell you that I sink to sleep saying, "He loves me!" and rise to the surface saying, "He loves me!" and sink again saying, "He loves me!" all night long.

The days when I see you are real days, finished and perfect, and this is the best of them all. God forever bless in paradise your mother for bearing you! If you never had come to the world I should not have waked to life myself. And why this I I cannot tell. The first time I ever saw your tawny head and tawny eyes, though you did not notice me, I said, "Whether he be the king or not would make no difference." Because I knew you were more than the king to me.

Sire, you told me once you could not understand why people took kindly to you. There is in you a gentle dignity and manhood most royal. As you come into a room you cast your eyes about on unfeeling. Your head and shoulders are erect. You are like a lion in suppleness and tawny color, which influences me against my will. You inspire confidence. Even girls like Annabel, who feel mercy at their finger ends and are as well satisfied with one husband, as another, know you to be solid man, not the mere image of a man. Besides these traits there is a power going out from you that takes hold of people invisibly. My father told me there was a man at the court of your father who could put others to sleep by a waving of his hands. I am not comparing you to this charlatan, yet when you touch my hand a strange current runs through me.

When we were in Paris I used to dress myself every morning like a priestess going to serve in a temple. And what was it for? To worship one dear head for half an hour perhaps. You robbed me of the sight of you for two months. Sophie Saint-Michel told me to beware of loving a man. Today he says: "I love you! I need you! I shall go to the devil without you!" Tomorrow he turns to his affairs. In six months he says, "I was a fool!" Next year he says: "Who was it that drove me wild for a time last year? What was her name?"

In love a game where men and women try to outwit each other, and man boasts, "She loves me"—not "I love her?" You are two persons. Lazarre thinks to me. He follows, he thinks about me. He used to slip past my windows at Lake George and cast his eyes up at the panes. But Louis is my sovereign. He sees and thinks and acts without me, and his lot is apart from mine.

We are in a ship going to the side of the world where you are. Except that we are going toward you it is like being pushed off a cliff. All my faith in the appearances of things is at an end. I have been juggled with. I have misjudged.

I could have insisted that we hold Mont-Louis as tenants. The count is our friend. It is not a strong man's fault that a weak man is weak and unfortunate. Yet, seeing Cousin Philippe wince, I could not put the daily humiliation upon him. He is like my father come back, broken, helpless. And Paul and I, who are young, must take care of him where he will be least humbled.

I was overpowered in Mont-Louis and Paris. I like easy living, carriages, long-trailed gowns, jewels, trained servants, music and spectacles on the stage, a park and wide lands all my own, acclamation from people who do not interest me, idleness in enjoyment.

I am the devil of vanity. Annabel has not half the points I have. When the men are around her I laugh to think I shall be fine and firm as a statue when she is a mass of wrinkles and a wisp of fuzz. When she is a mass of wrinkles and a wisp of fuzz she will be ripper and tenderer inside. But will the men see that? No. They will be off after a fresher Annabel, so much for men. On the other hand, I had but a few months of luxury, and may count on the hardness that comes of endurance, for I was an exile from childhood. There is strength in doing the right thing. If there were no God, if Christ had never died on the cross, I should have to do the right thing because it is right.

Why should we lay up grievances against one another? They must disappear, and they only burn our hearts. Sometimes I put my arms around Ernestine and rest her old head against me. She revolts. People incline to doubt the superiority of a person who will associate with them. But the clearer our poverty rubs us the more Ernestine insists upon class differences.

There should be a colossal mother going about the world to turn men over her lap and give them the slipper. They pine for it.

Am I helping forward the general good, or am I only suffering nature's punishment?

A woman can fasten the bonds of habit on a man, giving him food from her table, hourly strengthening his care for her. By merely putting herself before him every day she makes him think of her. What chance has an exiled woman against the fearful odds of daily life?

Yet sometimes I think I can wait a thousand years. In sun and snow, in wind and just, a woman waits. If she stretched her hand and said "Come," who could despise her so much as she would despise herself?

after hour, day after day, year after year, he presses the iron spike of silence in.

Coward to let me suffer such anguish!

Is it because I kissed you? That was the highest act of my life! I groped down the black stairs of the Tuilleries blinded by light. Why are the natural things called wrong and the unnatural ones just?

Is it because I said I would come to you some time? This is what I meant—that it should give me no jealous pang to think of another woman's head on your breast; that there is a wedlock which appearances cannot touch.

No; I never would—I never would seek you, though sometimes the horror of doing without you turns into reproach. What is he doing? He may need me, and I am letting his life slip away. Am I cheating us both of what could have harmed no one?

It is not that usage is broken off. Yet if you were to come I would punish you for coming.

Fine, heroic days I tell myself we are marching to meet each other. If the day has been particularly hard I say, "Perhaps I have carried his load, too, and he marches lighter."

You have faults, no doubt, but the only one I could not pardon would be your saying "I repent!"

The instinct to conceal defeat and pain is so strong in me that I would have my heart cut out rather than own it ached. Yet many women carry all before them by a little judicious whining and rebellion.

I never believe in your unfaith. If you brought a wife and showed her to me I should be sorry for her and still not believe in your unfaith.

Louis, I have been falling down flat and crawling on the ground. Now I am up again. It didn't hurt.

It is the old German fairy story. Every day gold must be spun out of straw. How big the pile of straw looks every morning, and how little the handful of gold every night!

This prairie in the Indiana territory that I dreamed as a black gulf is a grassy valley.

I love the garden and I love to hoe the Indian corn. It springs so clean from the sod and is a miracle of growth. After the stalks are around my knees they are soon around my shoulders. The broad leaves have a fragrance and the silk is sweet as violets.

We wash our clothes in the river. Women who hoe corn, dig in a garden and wash clothes earn the wholesome bread of life.

Today Paul brought the first bluebells of spring and put them in water for me. They were buds, and when they bloomed out he said, "God has blessed these flowers."

We have to nurse the sick. The goodness of these pioneer women is unending. It is like the great and kind friendship of the De Chaumonts. They help me take care of Cousin Philippe.

Paul meditated today: "I don't want to hurt the Father's feelings. I don't want to say he was greedy and made a better place for himself in heaven than he made for us down here. Is it sheer just because he is there?"

His prayer: "God bless my father and mother and Ernestine. God keep my father and mother with me day and night, dressed and undressed! God keep together all that love each other."

When he is a man I am going to tell him, and say: "But I have built my house, not wrecked it. I have been yours, not love's."

He tells me such stories as this: "Once upon a time there was such a loving angel came down. And they ran a string through his stomach and hung him on the wall. He never whined a bit."

The people in this country, which is called free, are nearly all bound. Those who lack money, as we do, cannot go where they please or live as they would live. Is that freedom?

A RAPID TRANSIT EPISODE.

This morning about half past ten, a tall lady with a half-sized husband, boarded a King street car. The lady was wearing her husband on her right hand, when they entered the husband looked up, and said to his wife: "You're tall enough to reach a strap, but what can I hold," she said, "if I was as short as you are, I'd hold my tongue," so he took hold of his tongue, the car started and he fell down, whereupon his dutiful spouse hollored, "What's the matter, can't you stand up?" Said hubby, "They both slipped." "Both what," said the wife. "Both my feet and my tongue," said the little husband, but he's got off the car and go and see Bath the plumber and have a look at that new line of Douglass Patent Closets that have just arrived. His telephone is 61 Main.

Save Expense And Improve Conditions

Editor Evening Bulletin—I address you on a very delicate matter, but one in which I feel sure that you and your numerous friends will support me. The situation here as far as the government is concerned is simply disastrous. A special session may be the only way out of the political quagmire, into which Mr. Carter and his "missionary" friends have thrown us. Methods must be adopted, which will place the government on a safe working basis—and Mr. Carter's panacea for all ills—the cutting of salaries—will not amount to anything tangible, as far as the treasury is concerned. I am not a croaker, as you may claim, but I can also suggest remedies which may relieve the situation, and the first and most important is the surrender of the Leper Settlement to the Federal Government. I know all about the sentimental howl which will be raised if such a step is taken, but I believe that today the unfortunate inmates of the institution on Molokai have gotten over their dread of Federal control, and that they are perfectly willing to have the United States Government pay for their subsistence, as a sure thing, instead of speculating in the uncertainties of the Carter burlesque. Let the Governor wire at once to Washington and learn whether the administration there will be willing to take over the responsibility and cost of the Settlement, and, if the answer is favorable, which I know it will be, there will be a so much better showing, when he presents his appropriation bill and his immediate pilikia to Mr. Kumalea and the other honorable members of our assembled wisdom. I have a few other suggestions to make, Mr. Editor, for the consideration of the Governor in special session, but "he can only take politics in small doses," so I cease for today. MAZUMA.

A WHALE STRANDED

Kihai, March 5.—Last Saturday a live baby sperm whale, about eight feet in length, was washed ashore at the Kihai wharf. The little "sperm" whale baby remained alive until the man who discovered it chopped it up in the evening. When he was dragging it home with a team of mules baby whale objected and would bend up almost double but two good mules on dry land was more than it could hold back. It kept alive on dry land seven or eight hours until butchered with an axe. I suggested tying a strong rope to it and letting it go into the sea again in the expectation of having the mother whale follow the baby ashore, as whalers say mother whales will stick by their babies till killed, but Mr. Man evidently was of the opinion that a baby whale on dry land was worth all the mother whales at large in the sea and did not see my way of looking at it. A large full grown whale is worth thousands of dollars providing it is a sperm whale as old whalers around here claim this baby whale to be. The baby whale probably netted $4 or $5 to the lucky man who found her.

There are quite a number of whales off the shore. You can see them sporting, jumping out of the water, and blowing almost any hour of the day all the time I have been up here, but more especially this week and last. Either the weather is driving them in to the land or they are uncommonly plentiful around here this season.

ANDREW WELCH STORY IS NAILED

The bark Andrew Welch arrived from San Francisco yesterday with all well on board in spite of the rumors which were sent out to the effect that reinsurance was being quoted on her at San Francisco.

It has been learned that this rumor was purposely started by people old enough to know better, who could find no better way of spending their very idle time. Responsible waterfront people are rather indignant at the trick. One of them, who is of a humorous turn of mind, characterizes the outfit as follows: "Very few people in Honolulu know that by shaping their course N. E. by N. Mag. from the boat-landing, say at 7 a. m. local time, will by the time the sun is over the fore-yard, bring them to a safe anchorage, at the headquarters of the Spun Yarn Club. How I happened to find this anchorage was this way about: Strolling leisurely along the waterfront I happened to overhear some mention of the bark Andrew Jackson, and the captain and I being old shipmates, I made bold enough to enter.

"The sun being fully ten degrees over the fore-yard, I found the Club in full session. Capt. Bellows in the chair, and after readjusting his gold-rimmed glasses just about two points further up his nose, called upon the old and ancient mariner, Capt. McFinnigan, to give the Club some information concerning long passages at this time of the year, such as had come under his own personal observation.

"Poor, little Capt. Mac, being rather religiously inclined, and who always prefers listening to speaking, felt for the time being just a little shy, and actually blushed; but, however, the little Captain got up like a good man and this is what he said:

"Mr. Chairman, I now most humbly ask that you rest this meeting from labor for refreshment, and that we adjourn for twenty minutes, or just long enough to go around the corner and take a throat-ozing."

"Having arrived at the Spun Yarn Club's refreshment rooms, poor little Mac, proudly saluted the bar with the information that the drinks for all those Ancient Mariners were on him.

"Drinks ordered at follows: Capt. Bellows, one pair galvanized clip hoops well thrumbed with wire; Capt. Cabbage Hill, one 8-in. dead-eye score 4-in. for starboard side; Capt. Whartson, a bucket scupper. Nails: Capt. Do-Nothing, five fathom condemned wire hawser with a straw; Capt. Mac, one Spanish fox well rubbed down."

A giant swordfish was caught last night by Japanese fishermen after a hard struggle. The monster was brought to the Kekaulike street fish-market, where it was cut up. The swordfish was one of the largest of its kind ever seen here. When placed on the Inter-Island wharf coal scales it registered 440 pounds. The fish was about eight feet long.

TALKS OF EFFECT ON NEXT LEGISLATURE

A Republican legislator seen today and asked as to his ideas regarding a special session for the consideration of financial matters, said:

"I think there should be a special session. Perhaps people who are against such a proposition have not stopped to think what the effect of a failure to call such a session will have on the next Legislature. No one can say just now who will win out. There is a possibility of a Home Rule victory such as there was in the first Legislature under the Territory. In such an event, do you think that the Government will not come in for censure if a special session is not called? Most certainly it will and there will be no harmony between the executive and the legislative branches, which will certainly result disastrously for the Territory.

"On the other hand, if a special session is called, the Executive will be credited with proceeding along lawful lines and will be upheld by no matter what party is in power.

"My theory is this: that as long as there is a question as to the legality of the action of the Executive in the matter of appropriation bills, it would be best to adopt a method about which there can be absolutely no doubt. This is the calling of the Legislature in special session, and I think that if you ask the legislators all over the islands, the great majority will be in favor of such a session for the consideration of financial matters only."

Mississippi Day at the World's Fair will be July 7. The date is the anniversary of the meeting of the first constitutional convention which paved the way for the entrance of Mississippi into the Union.
