HILO IS FAVORED WITH CONVENTION.

Over Vigorous Objections, Hilo Gets the Convention—Big Island Entitled to Honor—Committee Vote to Fulfill Former Promise—Hope to Obliterate Local Factional Feeling and Strengthen Party.

Hilo is to have the Republican Convention. For the first time since the formation of the party, the republican territorial convention this year will be held at Hilo instead of at Honolulu. By a majority vote of the members of the Territorial Central Committee, held in Honolulu last Monday night, it was decided to hold the territorial convention in Hilo. The prevailing opinion seems to be that Hilo has been slighted heretofore, and when the party failed to live up to its promises to hold the last convention on the big island, in accordance with the published call, it was under obligations to do so now. The main objection urged against Hilo as the convention place was the lack of hotel accommodations, and the difficulty and expense attached to the journey to Hilo and return. On the other hand it was pointed out by those who championed Hilo's cause, the good that might be accomplished by way of moral support and encouragement if the convention were held here.

While the exact date of holding the convention was not determined upon, it will probably be convened on Thursday, September 1st. If there is any contest over the delegateship or the platform it may be necessary for the delegates to remain over a week in Hilo, but no such difficulty is anticipated and the work of the convention, it is believed, can be finished Thursday night.

Those to whom Hilo is indebted for its victory are Col. Sam Parker, F. B. McStocker, John C. Lane, A. J. Campbell and William Aylet, while those who were vigorously opposed to the movement were A. G. M. Robertson, J. A. Gilman and G. F. Renton. The vote stood 13 for Hilo, 8 for Honolulu.

In support of the motion to hold the convention in Hilo, Col. Sam Parker, said: "Hawaii wants the convention. Give us a show. We would like to have a chance to show what we can do for you. I have part of a ranch over there and can put you up there if necessary, and have three or four houses in Hilo where I can accommodate some of you."

"We have won over some staunch Home Rulers, among them being Senator John T. Brown and Fernandez, and you ought to go over and help more to join us. All we want is fair play." J. A. Gilman, spoke against the motion, saying: "We have elected a convention which consists of 135 members and they would all probably want to be present. If we hold the convention in Hilo it is going to be an expensive proposition to outside members. The very least it will cost will be $2500 and the chances are it will cost more. At least fifty per cent of the members elected are not in a position to go to the expense of traveling to Hilo. About seventy-five per cent of the members elected from the other islands will be absolutely impossible for them to go."

"As far as doing any good in Hilo we will only be there two days and can't do any outside talking. It is just as much trouble for the delegates of Hawaii to go to Hilo as to Honolulu. The delegates from Kauai have to come here and then go to Hilo. It is generally a pleasure for the delegates from other islands to come to the capital to attend a convention. There are no accommodations in Hilo and that is a factor to be considered."

In reply to this Colonel Parker said he had talked with a good many delegates from Oahu, who were willing to go to Hilo. President Wight of the Wilder S. S. Co. had promised to allow a half rate to delegates, and it was no greater hardship on Honoluluans to incur the expenses of a trip to Hilo as to require Hiloites and outside delegates to go to Honolulu. He offered to take Gilman's proxy, if he could not afford the trip.

Chairman Crabbe on behalf of Hilo, said he thought it was good politics for the party to live up to their former promise. The last convention had been called to meet at Hilo on April 21st, but owing to the special session of the legislature called by Governor Carter, the date was changed and the convention held in Honolulu.

William Aylet spoke strongly in favor of Hilo. He felt that the committee had pledged itself to hold the convention in Hilo and not to do so now, would be to break faith. John C. Lane and Treasurer A. J. Campbell spoke in the same vein. R. N. Boyd believed Hilo had gotten the worst of it in the Chicago deal and he was willing to give Hilo a chance. He said there was a faction around Hilo which needed to be harmonized.

Geo. F. Renton and F. T. P. Waterhouse thought the committee ought to vote for the good of the party, which was to hold the convention in Honolulu. Waterhouse claimed that himself and four others would not attend the convention, if it were held in Hilo. A. G. M. Robertson said the fighting ground was not in Hilo but in the "fighting fifth" on Oahu. A Hilo convention would be a "paper convention," would do Hilo no good and might injure the party success. He believed the best interests of the party should be considered in fixing the place of holding the convention.

F. B. McStocker put the finishing touch to the argument in Hilo's favor, when he said the key-note had been struck when some one had said the best interests of the party should be considered.

"I think it is good politics that when you have a weak spot to strengthen it. The party is safe in Honolulu. Hawaii is not safe. The Republicans there do not seem to realize the necessity of cohesion and need to be taught. It would be a good idea to hold the convention there and boost them up. Let them see what the party is. Let them see how men here can put their own private interests in the background, to advance the party's interests. It is the duty of a good party man to show that he will put himself to any trouble to advance the interests of his party. Men elected to office must accept the responsibilities of the office. If you decide you want to strengthen a weak spot, you cannot do better than by having the convention in Hilo."

On a ballot being taken, the result was as above indicated. The number of convention delegates are as follows: Oahu, 67; Kauai, 13; Maui and Molokai, 22; Hawaii, 33; total, 135.

What is Best for HILO Is Best for Us

FOR POLITICAL REASONS.

Objections Made to Removal of Kalapana school teacher.

Politics in Kalapana is at a high tension just now, and this usually quiet community is wrought up over the proposed change in the teacher of the public school at that point. There has been a movement on foot by one or two individuals to secure the removal of H. E. Wilson, principal of the Kalapana school, for the purpose it is alleged of winning over a strong Home Rule worker to the Republican ranks. Wilson claims to have the almost unanimous support of the entire district and has a petition numerously signed by all classes asking for his retention. He is a stalwart Republican, has taught school in Kalapana for ten years, is postmaster and altogether has been a valuable citizen in the community. It is understood, however Governor Carter has promised some of the members of the Young Men's Republican Club in Hilo to make the change and Wilson will be transferred, over the objections of parents and others residing there. Waikalani, a native school teacher, convicted several years ago in Puna for assault and battery on his pupils, is reported to be slated for the place. Waikalani has adopted the life of the "nachur man" who recently visited Puna, and goes about garbed in a breechclout. He has original ideas of the origin of the Hawaiian race, alleging that the native population has been on the islands eleven trillion years. He also claims he has an official letter from the Governor of California ordering Governor Carter to appoint him principal of the Kalapana school. Of course, no one places any confidence in his statements, but his name has been mentioned for the vacancy in the event of Wilson's removal.

Purdy—Christal.

San Francisco, Cal., August 2.—The wedding of Miss Anita Christal and Major W. A. Purdy of Honolulu was celebrated on Wednesday night at the Paulist church, the Rev. Father Wyman officiating. The pretty bride is the granddaughter of the well-known Italian capitalist, A. Gresconi of Santa Cruz, who bequeathed her something like $100,000 to be paid to her on her wedding day.

Her meeting with Major Purdy came about while on a visit to the Campbells of Honolulu.

Russians Are Born Linguists.

The marvelous memory and aptitude for learning possessed by Russians are shown by the rapidity with which they acquire languages. It is said that a Russian will learn Chinese in six months. As for English, they acquire it with ease in a few weeks. They think no more of acquiring a new language than an Englishman would of learning a recitation or a new game of cards.

Chefoo, Aug. 2.—Refugees from Port Arthur say that the Japanese failed in a three days' assault to capture the inner forts. During the fighting the Russians lost 5000 and the Japanese 20,000.

Colorado Springs, Colo., August 8.—Seventy people were drowned in the Denver & Rio Grande wreck. Heavy rains and cloudburst weakened trestlework. Three cars were miraculously saved while six went through the trestle. The bodies of the dead were carried for miles down stream. The river banks are crowded with the lamenting relatives of the dead seeking their lost.

THE FAIR THING.

A better move could not have been made by the Territorial Committee than that of holding the Republican Territorial Convention this year in Hilo. Hilo has been promised the convention so many times that she had abandoned all hope of receiving that honor. It now devolves upon the residents to see that the guests are properly entertained in order to refute the charges that Hilo cannot accommodate a large crowd of visitors.

To be sure the work of the convention will be largely pro forma, the renomination of Delegate Kuliho being a foregone conclusion. The convention will merely ratify in advance the wishes of the people in this respect, which are later to be expressed at the polls. However, the republicans of Hilo are glad of the opportunity to show their loyalty to the party and the political possibilities of this island. Political honors seldom come Hilo-wards, and it is the general belief that Hawaii has not been treated fairly on delegations or otherwise, in the distribution of political favors.

The action of the committee is in line with Governor Carter's universal spirit of fairness, which has marked his administration, and there are latent possibilities in Hilo which a convention like the one proposed are sure to reveal. All hail to the committee and to the territorial convention.

TRADE AT HOME.

The ideal community is that in which there is a reciprocity of good feeling among merchants in all branches of trade, mechanics, professional men, workmen and farmers, each availing himself as far as possible of the other's services, buying his goods or employing his labor, as the case may be. The community where this practice obtains is always found to be an exceptionally prosperous one, populated by cheerful, honest, neighborly and enterprising people, and a good place for the home seeker to locate in. The member of a community who habitually ignores his home merchant, mechanic or tradesman and makes his purchases and spends his money in other towns does not deserve the name of a good citizen and should not be countenanced by those who have the best interests of their own locality at heart. That it pays to trade near home is a well established fact, and no town or city ever prospered whose citizens enticed by the alluring baits held out by the merchant in the big cities, spend their money with them.

A Public Character.

Even if not popular, Sheriff Andrews of Hawaii has become known as a public character to the postal authorities and articles of mail matter intended for him would probably be forwarded from any part of the world, as in the case of the late P. T. Barnum without any further superscription than "the world" on its face. Such fame frequently occurs in the case of great men, and when Sheriff Andrews received through the local post office a roll of maps with no address whatever and simply bearing the name "L. A. Andrews," he tossed it aside with the utmost indifference as though it were a daily occurrence. The parcel bore the post mark of "Honolulu" post office, and the official at that point apparently was not at loss to know for whom the package was intended.

THE SLATE WINN.

Young Men Carry Their Ticket Without Opposition.

The Young Men's Republican Club swept the boards at the Republican primaries held on Saturday wherever they had a ticket in the field. The candidates not on the slate of the Club received the lowest vote in every instance, and many of the old stalwarts of the party like Philip Peck, Joe Vierra and Jas. D. Lewis went down in defeat before the splendid organization of the young republicans. Word was passed along the line to vote only for those candidates who had been agreed upon at the meeting of the Club, and the result showed the force of this new factor in politics.

In Hilo there was a general apathy as to the result of the primaries, and little surprise is expressed by those who witnessed the work of runners and others who were permitted in and about the polling booths. The members of the Club voted almost as a unit and the tally of ballots cast was almost uniform except where the popularity of one or two candidates increased their strength. Andrews and Stacker were not favorites, the latter polling the lowest vote of those elected, showing where some of the young men broke away from the program and voted according to their own lights. J. U. Smith was no more popular than Stacker and Andrews, and failing to get the support of the young republicans, went down in ignominious defeat.

The detailed vote for the Fourth precinct (Hilo) is as follows: the names of those elected being printed in capital letters:

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Judge Gear Holds Territory Cannot Control Foreign Corporations.

Honolulu, Aug. 2.—Judge Gear this morning rendered a decision in the Territory's test case against the Pacific Hardware & Steel Company, a foreign corporation, and T. A. Hays, its representative to restrain them from carrying on business within the Territory.

The Government contended that the defendant corporation having opened an office here, had acquired a domicile here and having failed to comply with the statute it should be enjoined from doing business in the Territory.

The respondents admit that the corporation is a foreign corporation, but allege that all business done in the Territory "is an order business," and part of the interstate commerce of the U. S.

The evidence shows that for about two years Hays has acted as an employe of the respondent corporation, acted as their representative in Honolulu. The corporation carries no stock of goods in this Territory. Hays receives a salary for his services and is allowed a certain sum for expenses.

After an exhaustive review of the authorities the Court found no case which holds that a foreign corporation doing a business of strictly commerce, interstate or foreign, has been held to be subject to the legislative control of a State or Territory.

Concluding his opinion, Judge Gear says:

"It appearing that the defendant corporation carries no stock of goods here, but fills all its orders by shipment from California direct to the customers here, and that it is engaged in a business of strict commerce, it follows that it falls within the exception in the statute as a 'corporation engaged in the business of foreign or interstate commerce,' and cannot be enjoined from carrying on business in this Territory. The respondents are therefore entitled to judgment and it will be so ordered."

LANTANA PEST.

The Plant Should Not Be Exterminated.

The Journal d'Agriculture Tropicale (Tahiti) for March copies the article on lantana from the Hawaiian Forester and Agriculturist for January, saying by way of introduction:

"The species of lantana, a tropical genus of the verbena family, are prickly shrubs, and cultivated in Europe as ornamental plants, but in warm climates they are a perfect pest and a source of great trouble to agriculturists. This applies more especially to the lantana camara and the numerous varieties of this ubiquitous species. India, Australia, Java and indeed from all tropical countries." The Chamber of Agriculture of Tahiti, is now seeking the best means of arresting the lantana pest.

"Messrs. Koebel and Perkins are persuaded that by insisting on and favoring the propagation of certain other insects, and, if necessary, importing others (now well known), the lantana would be entirely destroyed in the Hawaiian Islands; but the question arises as to whether it would be of common interest to effect this, and different opinions exist on the subject. Entomologists do not care to take upon themselves a decision on this matter, and ask in first place that the question should be carefully studied by the Department of Forestry. We will inform our readers as to the result of this curious debate.

We are convinced the complete destruction of the lantana is undesirable, for in Ceylon, it greatly contributes to the fertility of abandoned fields."

St. Petersburg, August 3.—The Emperor has received an alarming telegram from the front. Its contents are not made public but the news is believed to detail a serious condition of affairs among the Russian forces. General Alexieff has returned to Liaoyang for a conference with Kuropatkin.

MAY CURE LEPROSY.

Officer of the Indian Medical Service Makes Discovery.

New York, July 14.—Capt. E. R. Rost of the Indian medical service has succeeded in cultivating the bacillus of leprosy, according to dispatches from Rangoon, Burma, says a Times special from London.

He has made a substance from the cultures which he calls leprolin and which when injected into lepers has marked beneficial action, alleviating the disease.

The method of growing the bacillus is to extract the salts from the nutrient media, and Captain Rost has discovered that the bacillus will not grow in the presence of the salt. In order to make such nutrient medium he distills beef extract soaked in pumice stone in a current of superheated steam and obtains a medium in which the bacillus of leprosy and also that of tuberculosis grow with the greatest ease.

Over one hundred cases of leprosy are being treated in Burma by injections of this substance, and the treatment is also being tried in thirty places in India. Already four cases have been reported cured and in the great majority of those under treatment the improvement is said to be marked.

Chinese May Enter.

In spite of the vigorous opposition of the English labor unions, the British government has authorized the mining companies in South Africa to import Chinese coolies to work in the gold mines under contracts which will provide in every case that at the termination of three years the laborer shall be returned to China free of cost. Whether this condition will be complied with remains to be seen. It is not improbable that the mining companies, having gained their point by securing Chinese labor, will find it convenient to have the contract conditions abrogated before the expiration of three years, in order to release them from their obligation to send the laborers back to China. In that event the greater part of this imported labor will remain in the country and will force to the wall the native African, who is unfitted for mining work.

When the question of the exclusion of Chinese labor was before congress during the administration of President Hayes, the large employers of labor in the west used the same arguments against exclusion that were advanced by the mining companies before the British government in favor of importing Chinese labor into South Africa. But congress realized the evils that would follow unrestricted Chinese immigration and shut out the coolies. What might have been the results of an opposite course may be witnessed within a few years in South Africa, where the social and race conditions promise to be such as will convince the most skeptical that congress acted wisely in passing the exclusion act.

White Horse

The Blazed Trail

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE
Copyright, 1902, by Stewart Edward White

"I intend to do so, however," replied the girl coldly.
"What do you mean?"
"I mean," she cried, "that I am sick of waiting on your good pleasure. I waited and slaved and stood unbearable things for two years. I did it cheerfully, and in return I don't get a civil word, not a decent explanation, not even a caress!" She fairly sobbed out the last word. "I can't stand it any longer. I have tried and tried and tried, and then when I've come to you for the littlest word of encouragement you have told me I was young and ought to finish my education. You haven't a cent when it is a question of what I want, but you raise money quick enough when your old family is insulted. Isn't it my family too? And then you blame me because, after

"Helen," said Thorpe, with new energy, waiting in vain for two years for you to do something. I start out to do the best I can for myself. I'm not of age, but you're not my guardian."

During this long speech Thorpe had stood motionless, growing paler and paler. Like most noble natures, when absolutely in the right he was incapable of defending himself against misunderstandings.

"You know that is not true, Helen," he replied, almost sternly.
"It is true," she asserted, "and I'm through."

"It's a little hard," said Thorpe, passing his hand wearily before his eyes. "to work hard this way for years and then—"

She laughed with a hard little note of scorn.
"Helen," said Thorpe, with new energy. "I forbid you to have anything to do with Amos Thorpe. I think he is a scoundrel and a sneak."

"I shall do as I please," she replied, crossing her hands behind her. Thorpe's eyes darkened.

"We have talked this over a great many times," he warned, "and you've always agreed with me. Remember you owe something to the family."

"Most of the family seem to owe something," she replied, with a flip-pant laugh. "I'm sure I didn't choose the family. If I had I'd have picked out a better one."

"You may take your choice, Helen," he said formally. "If you go into the household of Amos Thorpe, if you deliberately prefer your comfort to your honor, we will have nothing more in common."

They faced each other with the cool, deadly glance of the race, so similar in appearance, but so unlike in nature.
"I, too, offer you a home, such as it is," repeated the man. "Choose."

At the mention of the home for which means were so quickly forthcoming when Thorpe, not she, considered it needful, the girl's eyes flashed. She stooped and dragged violently from beneath the bed a flat steamer trunk, the lid of which she threw open. A dress lay on the bed. With a fine gesture she folded the garment and laid it in the bottom of the trunk. Then she knelt and without another glance at her brother standing rigid at the door began feverishly to arrange the folds.

Thorpe himself went to Detroit, where he interviewed at once Northrop, the brilliant young lawyer whom the firm had engaged to defend its case.
"I'm afraid we have no show," he replied to Thorpe's question. "You see, you fellows were on the wrong side of the fence in trying to enforce the law yourselves. Of course you may well say that justice was all on your side. That does not count. The only recourse recognized for injustice lies in the law courts. I'm afraid you are due to lose your case."

"Well," said Thorpe, "they can't prove much damage."
"I don't expect that they will be able to procure a very heavy judgment," replied Northrop. "The facts I shall be able to adduce will cut down damages. But the costs will be very heavy."

"Yes," agreed Thorpe.
"And," then pursued Northrop, with a dry smile, "they practically own Sherman. You may be in for contempt of court—at their instigation. As I understand it, they are trying rather to injure you than to get anything out of it themselves."

"That's it," nodded Thorpe.
"In other words, it's a case for compromise."

"Just what I wanted to get at," said Thorpe, with satisfaction. "Now answer me a question. Suppose a man injures government or state land by trespass. The land is afterward bought by another party. Has the latter any claim for damage against the trespasser? Understand me, the purchaser bought after the trespass was committed."

"Certainly," answered Northrop without hesitation, "provided suit is brought within six years of the time the trespass was committed."
"Good! Now, see here. These M. & D. people stole about a section of government pine up on that river, and I don't believe they've ever bought in the land it stood on. In fact, I don't believe they suspect that any one knows they've been stealing. How would it do if I were to buy that section at the land office and threaten to sue them for the value of the pine that originally stood on it?"

The lawyer's eyes glimmered behind the lenses of his pince-nez.
"It would do his price well," he replied, "but you'd have to prove they did the cutting, and you'll have to pay the experts to estimate the probable amount of the timber. How much, on a broad guess, would you estimate the timber to come to?"

"There ought to be eight or ten millions," guessed Thorpe after an instant's silence. "worth in the stump anywhere from sixteen to twenty thousand dollars. It would cost me only eight hundred to buy it."

"Do so by all means. Get your documents and evidence all in shape and let me have them. I'll see that the suit is discontinued then."

The next day Thorpe took the train north. By the time he had bought the sixteen acres constituting the section, searched out a dozen witnesses to the theft and spent a week with the Marquette expert in looking over the ground he had fallen into the swing of work again. His experience still ached, but dully.

Only now he possessed no interests outside of those in the new country, no affections save the half-protecting, good-natured comradeship with Wallace, the mutual self-restraint respect that subsisted between Tim Shearer and himself and the dumb, unreasoning dog liking he shared with Injun Charlie. His eye became clearer and steadier, his methods more simple and direct. The taciturnity of his mood lessened in thickness. He was less charitable to failure on the part of subordinates. And the new firm on the Ossawinamakee prospered.

CHAPTER XX.
FIVE years passed. In that time Thorpe had succeeded in cutting 100,000,000 feet of pine. The money received for this had all been turned back into the company's funds. From a single camp of twenty-five men the concern had increased to a large, well-equipped community of 80 to 100 men apiece, using nearly 500 horses and hauling as far as eight or nine miles.

Near the port stood a mammoth saw-mill capable of taking care of 22,000,000 feet a year, about which a lumber town had sprung up. Besides its original holding the company had acquired about 150,000,000 more back near the headwaters of the Ossawinamakee.

During the four years in which the Morrison & Daly company shared the stream with Thorpe the two firms lived in complete amity and understanding. Northrop had played his cards skillfully. The older capitalists had withdrawn suit. Afterward they kept scrupulously within their rights and saw to it that no more careless openings were left for Thorpe's shrewdness.

And as the younger man on his side never attempted to overstep his own rights the interests of the rival firms rarely clashed. As to the few disputes that did arise Thorpe found Mr. Daly singularly anxious to please. In the desire was no friendliness, however. Thorpe was watchful for treachery and could hardly believe the affairs

OBJECTED TO ARTICLE.

Japanese Citizen Takes Exception to Publication in Japanese Newspaper.

Waketa, secretary of the Japanese League of Hawaii, took the law into his own hands last week and proceeded to punish Editor Tomika of the Japanese "Sunday News" for an alleged libelous article appearing in that paper the Sunday previous. The Japanese editor sustained the reputation of the profession by showing he was no coward himself, and the pair proceeded to pummel each other until the arrival of the police. Editor Tomika swore out a warrant charging his assailant with assault and battery, and after hearing the case two days, District Magistrate Hapai found Secretary Waketa guilty, imposing a fine of $12 and costs amounting to $6.10. The article to which Waketa objected, charged him with receiving as secretary of the Japanese League contributions intended for the Japan war fund, which he had appropriated to his own use. It was also alleged that many white sympathizers with the Japanese cause had contributed largely to the fund, which Secretary Waketa had failed to forward to the headquarters of the society in Yokohama. A considerable sum is claimed to have gone astray in this manner and a publication of the facts in the "Sunday News" involved its editor in the above pugilistic encounter. Waketa is determined to have justice and has appealed his case to the Circuit Court.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

Steamer Mauna Loa Carried Out of Its Course by Monster of the Deep.

Capt. A. C. Simerson of the S. S. Mauna Loa, who won the first prize in the annual contest of the International Association of Fish Story Prevaricators by his wonderful account of flying fish milking cows in Kauai, related a marvelous experience on the arrival of his vessel at Kailua last week. About 4 o'clock in the morning, as the steamer Mauna Loa was nearing port, being able to distinguish clearly the shore lights, Captain Simerson gave the order to "let go the anchor." The starboard anchor was dropped and length after length of the chain spun out, until no more chain remained in the locker. The vessel was not in deep water and the master and crew were dumfounded to find the ship moving with considerable velocity, although the engines had been stopped when the order "to let go" was given. Gradually the nose of the vessel swung away from the shore, and it was not until the steamer began rapidly to attain a high rate of speed that the Captain realized some monster of the deep had gotten hold of his mud hook and was carrying his vessel out to the high seas. He reversed his engines, but still the ship continued to move along by an irresistible undertow. A happy thought came to the veteran sailor, and he immediately ordered thrown overboard a carcass of mutton, which was in the ship's stores of provisions. No sooner had the carcass been dropped than the strong flavor of Honolulu mutton permeated the water, when the animal or submarine demon relaxed its hold on the ship's anchor and made for the meat. In the meantime the Captain hauled up his anchor and changing his course put into Kailua two hours late.

Reduction in Rates Demanded.

R. T. Guard, agent of the Matson Navigation Co., proposes to bring the matter of discrimination on island freights by local steamship companies before the Executive Council of the Board of Trade this evening. He claims that the freight on ten cases of pineapples shipped from Mahukona to Hilo was $5.00 per ton, whereas the rate to San Francisco on the same shipment was $3.50 per ton. He declares such exorbitant rates are prohibitory. On the other hand, the Wilder S. S. Co. state they are willing to make special rates on large shipments, and will make special concessions for island products. The shipment in question, it is claimed, was from Nihiu, partly by rail to Mahukona, and the freight rates were to cover the railroad rate as well as by steamer.

NO EMBEZZLEMENT FOUND.

Grand Jury Exonerates Baldwin and Williams.

Owing to the disposition of lawyers and litigants to postpone or set the cases out of court, the bottom dropped out of Judge Parsons' calendar for the special term. Aside from the trial of one civil and two criminal cases, there have been no jury trials. While the grand jury were at their deliberations, Judge Parsons devoted Thursday and Friday of last week to cleaning up the calendar of cases in which he was disqualified, or in which the controversies had been postponed or settled between litigants. A number of persons were naturalized as United States citizens at odd times by Judge Parsons, among whom were Keith F. Mackie, H. D. Beveridge, Jose Baptiste, Manuel C. Baptiste.

It soon became known about the streets that the cases of embezzlement alleged to have been discovered in the local land offices against E. D. Baldwin, Chas. Williams and others had been dropped, on account of the failure of the grand jury to return an indictment in any of the cases presented. These were the cases in which Baldwin and Williams as respective sub-agents of lands at Hilo and Honokaa, and Wm. K. Ragsdale, ranger, were charged with misappropriation of government funds. Attorney General Andrews has been giving his personal attention to these cases and came to the special term of court at Hilo to prosecute the several cases. He felt confident of securing an indictment against former Sub-agent Baldwin. Baldwin's conduct had already been the subject of an investigation by the last grand jury, which while criticizing the local office for lax business methods, failed to return an indictment. Later, on June 9th, on the discovery of additional evidence. Attorney General Andrews accompanied by Auditor J. H. Fisher made a special visit to Hilo, and after a thorough examination of witnesses, arraigned Baldwin before District Magistrate Hapai at a special night session. Baldwin waived examination and his case came before the present grand jury for investigation. When that body failed to find bills against Williams and Baldwin on the new showing of evidence, Attorney General Andrews called up the case of Wm. K. Ragsdale, which had resulted in a mistrial at the last term of court, and entered a nolle prosequi.

There is a general feeling of approval over the grand jury's findings that whatever irregularities that occurred in the local offices are chargeable to the main office in Honolulu. Attorney General Andrews was much disappointed with the grand jury report. He took the afternoon train and left overland for Honouapo, where he caught the Mauna Loa for Honolulu, leaving the remainder of the criminal cases to be prosecuted by attorney C. S. Smith. The grand jury returned nine indictments. They investigated two cases in which they found no bill and one case which was later withdrawn. Their report, made by W. D. Schmidt, foreman, is as follows:

HILO, HAWAII, Aug. 8, 1904. Hon. C. F. Parsons, Judge Fourth Judicial Circuit, Territory of Hawaii: Sir: We, the grand jury selected to serve during this special August term, after carefully considering and thoroughly investigating the various cases brought to our attention, herewith submit our final report: In addition to the five indictments already handed in we find four others, presented herewith: We investigated two cases in which we found no bill; also one case where no evidence was submitted and ballot was waived. Complaint was made to the grand jury as to the unsanitary condition of a certain section of the city of Hilo, to wit, Smithville. We, the grand jury, recommend that the Sanitary Inspector give this matter his immediate attention and thereby rectify the nuisance. In closing we would add that the Honorable Attorney-General Lorrin Andrews, and the Deputy Attorney General, Carl S. Smith, have performed their duties in an intelligent and expeditious manner, and have left no stone unturned to ferret out the guilty offenders of the law. Respectfully submitted. (Signed) W. D. SCHMIDT, Foreman.

Mike Lehuanni, the hack driver who was indicted for attempting to murder his wife by shooting, plead guilty to the charge and put himself on the mercy of the court. He was sentenced by Judge Parsons to two years imprisonment and $100 fine.

Hatada Harachi, indicted for an assault with a dangerous weapon, plead guilty and was sentenced to six months imprisonment.

One of Sheriff Andrews' old friends, Francisco Lopez, the Porto Rican desperado, who has escaped jail so many times the sheriff cannot count them, was indicted for burglarizing a store at Onomea on one of his breaks for liberty.

Rafael Pomales, a luna on the Olaa plantation, was indicted for assaulting a Porto Rican countryman, with a pocket knife. A true bill was also found against Carlos Leander for a similar offence.

Growing out of a fight in July last in Puna between two Porto Ricans, several witnesses in the case who testified to the facts before Judge Kamau, swished on their evidence before the grand jury, denying upon examination that they knew anything about the difficulty. The grand jury felt that perjury had been committed and returned three indictments against Eugene Santiago, Frank Borden, and Aquilino Otis for perjury. Another witness was released for lack of convicting testimony.

There is one murder case, Oda Takashiro, a Japanese, who is charged with causing the death of Sugai Masaji in a cutting affray at Amuula camp. As the defendant was caught red-handed, in a drunken delirium, waving the bloody knife over the prostrate form of his victim, he had no defense to offer except that of intoxication. He plead guilty and Judge Parsons on Wednesday sentenced the murderer to ten years imprisonment, which was generally regarded as a very light punishment.

The "kahuna" case which came over from the May term against Kanaloa, a native woman charged with practicing the black art in Puna was acquitted by the jury on Saturday night.

The cases of conspiracy against Watanabe and Funakoshi were continued over to the November term, when Attorney Davis could be present to defend his clients. The larceny case against Ikeole also went over. The Rulia case, was postponed to the Honokaa term.

On the civil side of the calendar, after going through the formal calling, there was little left to be tried at this special term. The fishing rights cases against the Territory were all continued over to the November term. The Hilo waterfront cases likewise were passed to the November term. The two cases of Whitehouse & Hawxhurst vs. Benton & Arioli were continued for the term.

In the case of M. V. Holmes vs. M. F. de Mello, assumpsit, default was taken by the plaintiff. The ejectment suit between Kaaukai and Kemilia Holt was continued over. Lalakea vs. Hilo Sugar Co. was discontinued by the plaintiff, as was also the case of Ichimura Yanasuke vs. Y. Hamada. The appeal of Ellison Powell from a judgment in the lower court obtained against him by George Mumby was dismissed for lack of prosecution. The suits of T. H. Davies & Co. vs. Tanimoto, and of H. Hackfeld & Co. vs. Maluko were dismissed by the attorney of the respective plaintiffs. The appeal of Sam Decker and Neves in their suit for damages against F. Brughelli was dismissed for lack of prosecution.

All day Tuesday was devoted to the trial of the case of I. E. Ray vs. A. E. Sutton, for damages arising out of the sale of the latter's business to Ray, which plaintiff claimed did not materialize after purchase.

Judge Gear heard the case all day Tuesday and part of Wednesday. After remaining out half an hour the jury came back for additional instructions, and later returned with a verdict for plaintiff for $600, which increased the amount claimed by Ray. Motion was made to set aside the verdict, and it is probable a new trial will be allowed. The suit in ejectment, Paakiki vs. Owaanui, jury waived, was heard all day yesterday by Judge Gear.

COFFEE ON MAUI.

The Product Being Shipped to Hilo to be Milled.

Wailuku, July 30.—Ten years ago Judge Copp was so thoroughly convinced that coffee would grow in the Kokomo district of Makawao, Maui, that he devoted fifteen acres of his home property to the berry. His original supply was from half grown trees believed to have come from the Azores, but later abandoned. A News representative was shown over the plantation and saw the effect of trimming trees in half grown state, but which were planted at the same time as the untrimmed, which measure from seven to ten feet high.

Judge Copp believes that the trimming has the same effect on the trees as the bleeding of a person; i.e., it weakens the trees and consequently retards the growth. The entire crop, outside of a few families which are supplied, is shipped in the parchment to the Hilo Coffee Mill.—Maui News.

Debility

Perhaps you eat enough, yet you do not get much benefit from your food. You keep thin and weak; are tired all the time, and your nerves are in a bad way. Why not strengthen your digestion and get rid of your debility?

Read these words from Mrs. E. G. Munro, of Colong, Victoria. Mrs. Munro also sends her photograph. "I suffered greatly with indigestion and debility for a long time. Sleep did not refresh me, and I was in a very bad state. One of my friends strongly recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after a good deal of hesitation I made up my mind to try it. To my great surprise, I had not taken one-half a bottle before I felt greatly improved in every way. I only took three bottles, and I can now honestly say that I am entirely free from all of my old troubles, and consider myself perfectly cured. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is certainly a wonderful blood medicine."

There are many imitation Sarsaparillas. Be sure you get "Ayer's."
