

INQUEST OF JULES DE BAR

COMPANIONS TELL HOW HE WAS LOST.

Harbor Bathers Frightened by the Theory That He Was Seized by a Devil Fish.

The coroner's inquest in the case of Jules de Bar brought in a verdict of death by accidental drowning. The only testimony offered was that of his companions and Captain Gibbs, who saw him swimming in the water, and tried to find him after he sunk.

The theory that the young sailor was held under water by a devil fish has frightened a number of bathers who were accustomed to swim in the water near where he met his death.

A number of cases are recalled by Honolulu in which bathers who have gone where the squid are have been seized and held by the strong tendons of the monsters, which are capable of taking a hold that they never release till they are slain or the tendon is cut off.

MR. CREIGHTON ILL. This morning at the Judiciary building, Charles Creighton was taken quite ill with a nervous trouble. He repaired at once to the office of Dr. Wayson for medical treatment.

WAIT FOR LEGISLATURE

NO SPECIAL SESSION WILL BE HELD.

Executive Meeting Discusses and Decides the Matter This Morning—Chinatown Insurance.

The Star of last Friday stated that the decision of the Executive would most probably be against a special session of the legislature. This morning the question was so decided. It appeared on Friday that a majority of the Government heads were unfavorable to the session and Governor Dole seemed to hold the same view.

In the discussion it was clearly brought out that there was business that might be referred to advantage to an early session of the legislature. At the same time the expense and turmoil of a special session seemed to outweigh the advantages to be achieved.

Theo. F. Lansing, the new treasurer, qualified this morning before business hours and was present at the meeting. Superintendent McCandless stated that he would at 2 o'clock this afternoon have a meeting with members of the Board of Underwriters in regard to insurance rates in old Chinatown.

HER LONG VOYAGE ENDED

THE GERMAN BARK SOLIDE'S UNLUCKY TRIP.

Had to Put in to Falmouth After Leaving Hamburg—Thought Honolulu an American Port.

The German bark Solide, 173 days from Hamburg and 152 from Falmouth, made port this morning with 1200 tons of freight on which American tariffs will be collected, making the trip probably a losing game in consideration of the unexpected tariff and the very long voyage.

When the Solide cleared from Hamburg on the third of last January the Hawaiian territorial bill's passage was in doubt, and no one could predict when the Hawaiian Islands would become American territory.

SPEAKING ON THE STREETS

A SWEDISH ORATOR ARRESTED AND FINED.

Makes an Appeal to Judge Wilcox, and Wants to Know Why Salvationists Are Not Arrested.

A charge of common nuisance was placed against A. Clement yesterday because he lifted up his voice on the public streets to instruct the working man in politics and other things. Clement is a Swede, and says he proposes to organize labor unions and assist generally in telling American working men of Hawaii how they ought to conduct themselves so that they will not lose any of their "rights."

Judge Wilcox answered, telling the prisoner that he had right to speak his mind whenever and wherever he wanted, just the same as any American, but that obstruction or causing obstruction of the public streets was an entirely different matter.

THE HOURS CHANGED. Postoffice is Now Open From 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

MARSDEN AT NOME.
 SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—The J. S. Kimball Steamship Company, for which the new steamer John S. Kimball has lately been completed, contemplates the construction of two more steamers, and shipbuilders from Puget sound are now here figuring on the work. Since the advent of Joseph Merrill, G. C. Horn, Miss C. Wright, to the Kimball's Steamship Company and his election to the presidency, the concern is going into the shipping business on a large scale. President Marsden is at present on his way to Nome on a pleasure trip, but will return here next month.

THE ROSAMOND DELAYED.
 SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—The new schooner Rosamond is delayed in sailing for Honolulu, and was not the first vessel to clear for the island under the new shipping laws, as expected. The bark Roderick Dhu had that honor. The Rosamond has been finely fitted up, and takes several passengers in addition to a cargo of 2000 tons of freight. Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Carter go in the new vessel as steward and stewardess, the owners of the Rosamond having decided to make a feature of the passenger business to the islands.

DRUMMERS COMING NOW

THE MAN WHO LOOKED FOR A SAMPLE ROOM.

A New Feature Called for at the Hawaiian Hotel—The Shock the Hotel Clerk Got.

Honolulu is beginning to be invaded by the American drummer as it has never been before.

The first man to arrive under the new conditions was a Chicago soap and perfume man, who gave the Hawaiian hotel clerk quite a shock. He landed from the steamer in all the glory that characterizes an up to date traveling man and headed for the hotel. Arriving there, one of his first requests was to be shown the "sample room." But there wasn't any. Honolulu has never achieved the distinction of having one. In American cities the big hotels have to have a sample room, where the drummers may keep their big stock of samples, but while Hawaii had a tax of $500 on everyone who tried to sell goods here, no sample room was needed. Firms that wanted to give their men $500 as a starter to buy the privilege of doing Hawaiian business were not very numerous.

Manager Lucas fixed up quarters to be used for a sample room for the soap man, and he is now casting about for a place that can be permanently devoted to the purpose. Hereafter, Honolulu will be included in the itineraries of many drummers who have kept away in the past.

Don't Preach

Economy these good times some one says—but the smokers we cater to are men of affairs who know what's what and we'll get their cigar trade if we convince them they save money buying here.

We pay a little more than some dealers for cigars to get extra care in the selection of the tobacco leaf and for better work.

Our specialty is selling imported cigars that you pay more for elsewhere—and don't get as good tobacco either.

Alsen Portland Cement

WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED a large shipment of this celebrated Cement, which is the STONGEST AND MOST SERVICEABLE CEMENT MADE, and will permit the admixture of a larger amount of sand or gravel, with less loss of strength, than any other brand; it is therefore the most economical.

ALSEN has no equal in color, fineness and sand carrying capacity. It weighs less per bushel, measuring about 10 per cent. more cement to a barrel than other brands, which very materially reduces its cost as compared with other cements is therefore an economical cement to use, and specially adapted for fine concrete work.

The following tests, made in actual work by Col. D. C. Houston, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., at the seawall around Governor's Island, New York Harbor, has never been equaled by any other cement. It is as follows: Tensile strength per square inch—One day, 324 pounds; seven days, 600 pounds; thirty days, 818 pounds.

For sidewalks it gives the best color and the most durable wearing surface. A few of the large contracts in which Alsen Cement was used: Cable R. R., Baltimore, 35,000 barrels; Quebec Harbor Improvement, 20,000 barrels; Northern Pacific R. R. bridges, 20,000 barrels.

Nearly every disease is the sign of poverty, either of the blood or of the nerves. When the brain cells and nervous tissues are used up faster than they are repaired, not only the brain and nerves, but every vital organ of the body cries out for help. Headaches, neuralgia, heart disease, nervous dyspepsia and liver and kidney troubles run rampant in the helplessness system, destroying whatever strength remains until at last the break-down comes and then—

VEILED WAR IN CHINA

MANCHU SOLDIERS GUARD THE GATES OF PEKING.

The Foreign Legations Virtually Prisoners Within the Walls—America Will Send More Troops—Russia's Attitude.

LONDON, June 15.—This is the situation in China as it appears to the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express, calling last evening: "It is really a state of veiled war. The members of the foreign legations in Peking are only restrained from attacking them by fear of the legation guards."

"Meanwhile the ministers are altogether unable to communicate with the commanders of the relief column, which is making an enforced and isolated halt between Tien-tsin and Peking. The walls of the capital are guarded by 100,000 imperial troops. The gates are heavily defended with modern guns. General Tung, acting under orders from the emperor, says that no more foreign troops shall enter the sacred city."

"On Monday the ministers sent a demand to Tsung-ii-Yamen that the gates be opened, declaring that otherwise the foreign troops would enter forcibly. To this no reply was given. A second message went unanswered, or had not been answered when the latest news left Peking. Sir Claude MacDonald's latest message says that the legations are capable of sustaining an effective defense unless attacked in force."

"Russia, this correspondent asserts, notwithstanding assurances to the contrary, sides with China. Some of the foreign troops are already reported to be in the environs of Peking and the attitude of the Chinese troops is increasingly menacing."

"The streets of Peking," continues the correspondent of the Daily Express, "are reported to be seething with anti-foreign mobs, clamoring for the destruction of the legations and the death of the foreign ministers. Even were the Tsung-ii-Yamen disposed to restrain the violence of the reactionaries, it is considered highly improbable that they would be able to hold them in check. For the foreign ministers the crisis will arrive when the relief column comes in sight of Peking. It is still felt that the Chinese force is wholly inadequate to battle with the hordes of Chinese troops massed outside the gates, which now include the imperial troops from Shan-Hai-Kwan."

A disquieting element in the situation is the fact that although the Russo-Chinese telegraph line from Peking via Khabkha (eastern Siberia) is working, the transmission of messages is rigidly refused.

From Tien-tsin it is reported that the foreign forces in the harbor will attack the Taku forts and if necessary, bombard them.

The international column appears to be still at Lang Fan, engaged in slowly repairing the railway, which, according to a dispatch from Tien-tsin to the Daily Mail, dated June 14, cannot be effected for weeks. The force in short of provisions, and as it is without field transport, it must stick to the railway. The report that the mixed forces will seize the Taku forts is taken to mean that the foreign commanders expect no aid from the Chinese government in repressing the disorders and are determined to make Taku secure as a base from which to operate.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The President and his cabinet have decided that the situation in China demands more troops. The question now is whether these shall be drawn from the navy or the army. The navy, it seems has detached all the marines it can well spare, and additional troops it is thought must come from the army.

Nearly all the other nations represented in the international troops will also send additional troops.

THE STRIKES.

The laborers are still being stirred up, and there has been more or less rioting in some of the principal centers on the windward islands, but the tendency seems towards a settlement now. Kaula has settled into perfect peace, and with the explanations which have been given by Consul Saito, we need expect no further trouble there.

The Island of Oahu, though employing an immense army of laborers, seems, beyond one slight misunderstanding, to have escaped altogether. This is probably due to the ease with which the laborers can be reached by their officials, who have explained the legal aspect of the situation to them. We need not look for trouble here.

Maul and Hawaii furnish the turbulent element. The riot at Spreckelaville arose through the census taker. Though several camps had been successfully taken, he and his interpreter struck a camp which regarded them with suspicion, which finally broke out into open violence. The census taker escaped, but the interpreter was badly beaten. Then the police come in, forces from other camps came along, and there seemed every likelihood of a free fight, but appeals and soft words brought a better feeling, and matters have calmed down. It shows, however, how small a spark may start a blaze. The census taker had nothing to do with plantation authorities.

On Hawaii the most important difficulty occurred at Olaa, but Manager McStocker is a man of vigor and resource, and has managed his share of the trouble.

However much excitement there may be it will gradually tone down, especially when the consul gets a chance of going around.

UNEASY CHINA.

The news from China is indeed disquieting, and it is hard to unravel the exact situation and the part which is being played by each power in this drama of intrigue, murder and possible massacre in and around Peking. One thing is plain, and that is that the ambassadors are in grave danger, and that they depend for protection upon a very slender set of guards. There are over 100,000 Chinese soldiers in Peking, and however ill armed these may be, by sheer force of numbers they may crush that bodyguard.

The relief column, some 2,000 strong, formed of contingents from the fleets of various nations, has come to a halt midway between Tien-tsin and Peking. The railway has been destroyed, and the contingent having no means of transport, cannot leave the railway line, and has to devote itself to the repair of the permanent way, which may take very considerable time. Moreover, there are already signs of jealousies and dissensions among the allied forces, which, of course, was to be expected. It looks very much as if the relief column might itself have to be relieved, or it might disintegrate through jealousies, just as the crusading armies disintegrated upon the march to Jerusalem, when Richard Coeur de Lion was the only leader who got to Jerusalem with a handful of men, too weak to attack the holy city.

The disquieting element comes from Russia's attitude. Though the telegraphic communications from Peking to Tien-tsin are cut off, and the powers are practically cut off from all information of what is going on, Russia still has a means of communication by a line running north to the frontier town of Kiachta. This line of communication she sedulously guards, and will not permit the use of by other powers. Thus Russia is informed of what is going on, while the rest of the world remains in ignorance.

Exactly what force Russia has concentrated up on the frontier few if any can say. The movements of Russian troops in the extreme east and south-east of eastern Siberia are veiled in almost impenetrable mystery. We do know, however, that great bodies have been stationed in that direction. The Russian soldier is not confined to drill work. In the piping times of peace a paternal government gets as much as it can out of him as a laborer. He builds roads, railroad track, barracks, forts, reservoirs, and labors cheerfully on a pay of three or four cents a day, with the privilege of getting drunk on Saints' days, which come fairly often. Under such conditions it is not so expensive keeping a large army ready for emergencies, for the men are engaged on remunerative work, and yet can be concentrated rapidly.

Fifty years ago an Englishman who had visited and carefully studied eastern Siberia, gave evidence before a committee of the House of Commons that Russian forces could occupy Peking in a fortnight. During the fifty years Russia has been devoting herself to reducing that time, and it is quite possible that she can get her troops to the Chinese capital in a week.

If once Russia lays her military hand on Peking she will never let go. Northern China will become a Russian province, and the other powers will of necessity be forced to look out for themselves. To the United States the occupation of north China by Russia means the closing of markets, with immense possibilities to our trade. How important that trade is, and how growing, the recent trade statistics show. Take only the matter of oil. This formerly was monopolized by Russia. The open door policy has enabled the United States oils to almost sweep the Russian product from the field. Not a gallon of United States oil will reach the northern Chinese market when once Russia's hand closes upon the province. And oil is only one of many growing commercial successes which we are having in the east. Our cottons, watches, tools, machinery, etc., are all finding expanding markets, which would all infallibly be lost to us.

The events in China, therefore, are of great interest to us, and in token of it we are sending force to emphasize our needs, when a time for settlement comes. But before settlement comes, great and momentous events must happen.

NATIONAL POLITICS.

The main struggle at the Philadelphia convention will rest between those who are pulling for the vice presidency. In spite of those who will insist that there is a dark horse for the presidency, Mr. McKinley will get the nomination for the second term, and will sweep the country. From the latest intelligence it looks as if Irving M. Scott had come well forward, and was favorably regarded by Senator Hanna and the leaders of the party, but how a western man will be regarded in the east, is a question.

Apart from politics, and taking a purely sentimental view, Scott will be popular because of being the builder of the Oregon and Olympic, and as both those vessels won honors in the late war, their constructor will necessarily win much popularity, especially will this be the case as the navy, owing to the impending operations in China, will be again prominently brought before the public, and anyone who has had much to do with it, will necessarily gain in popularity with the masses.

Of course California will appreciate the honor, but it is doubtful whether Scott will be a very strong candidate in his own State, whatever he may be elsewhere. According to the observation of old politicians in California, Scott is not a popular man, and his candidacy might cost the State to the Republicans.

The Democrats seem to be in very much the same quandary as to the vice presidency. Everybody is satisfied that Bryan will be nominated, but who his running mate will be, remains to be seen, though there are several horses in the field.

The position of vice president, though an honorable one, is not a place where an ambitious man cares to bury his political fortunes, for the vice presidency, except through the death of the president, does not lead to the highest honors in the State. It is therefore shunned by first class men. But during the election it is of importance, as a good running mate adds strength to the principal candidate, and a poor running mate acts as a drag.

The Japanese labor companies have something to say on their side. As Consul Saito has undertaken to explain the situation to the laborers, it may be well to wait the results of his negotiations before passing opinion either for or against the representatives of the companies.

The Boer news is indecisive. It is quite possible that Roberts is preparing to "rush" the last of the Boer positions, but he is getting his troops to converge upon the now crippled foe. It may be that he is preparing to cut off Kruger from the Portuguese border. Lord Roberts works secretly and one only learns his plans by his results.

The San Francisco authorities claim that there is no plague in the city, and the courts decide that there is none, though what the courts have to do with it is not clear. Report comes that the rest of the States have come to the conclusion that San Francisco does have plague. What are the San Franciscans going to do about it.

The Neill company, if it keeps up to the standard of Saturday evening, will be very popular among the theater loving population. A refined, elevating entertainment on the stage is thoroughly educative, and does much for the mental advancement of a people. The stage preaches more powerful sermons at times than ever come from lips in a pulpit. After a visit to the Neill's one comes away with a clean taste in one's mouth.

The census returns as published in the Coast papers are not to be relied on; at best they are mere estimates. The orders from the census bureau are peremptory that no figures are to be made up by the local bureaus, and no information to be given out. The only authoritative statement which can be made will come from Washington. We shall therefore, have to wait some time for the authoritative statement about Honolulu and the rest of the group. The Honolulu schedules will go forward by the next mail to the Coast. It has been pointed out that there will be a considerable difference between the census taken by the Board of Health officials and the census as required by the federal authorities.

A picture is but a piece of canvas upon which someone has placed colors with a brush. There are certain rules of perspective which anyone can easily learn. In point of fact, drawing and painting is taught in every primary school. Anybody with a few dollars in his pocket can get the painting outfit, but how few can paint the picture that will penetrate through the eye of every heart. Of the hundreds of thousands of pictures painted, how many of each generation are worth preserving? It is only genius with painstaking skill that gives us works that will live, or will appeal to the higher senses and touch the heart, not of one, but of many. This is true of every art, it is especially true of the art of acting. Given a memory of fairly good quality, an average amount of good looks, and a fair knowledge of the language in which the play is written, and a production of a character can be given. But how given? It may be as flat as a Chinese picture, as grotesque a caricature as certain actors in the cheap French comic papers, as uninteresting as the dulllest sermon. But let the touch of genius brighten up the player, and add to genius the power of concentration and fidelity to a high ideal, and you get a picture which lives in the mind, and which one can always cherish.

It is marvelous how the impression made by a good actor or actress will remain impressed on the mind. Years after the actor or actress has passed away from the boards, I can remember certain scenes and even certain actions of those whom it has been my good fortune to have beheld on the stage which form an indelible portion of my mental equipment; while hundreds of others are forgotten, and even the names of the pieces in which they appeared, are gone forever.

James Neill's company is one which will make an indelible impression. It has among its members those who have the touch of genius, and it adds to this the painstaking accuracy of detail; the finish of the true artist, without which no genius will be successful or appeal fully to the highest emotions of our nature. Yet all this painstaking detail is not manifest, for with the true artist the motto is "ars est celare artem"—art lies in concealing art. The player produces his effects with pains, but they seem to bubble spontaneously from his lips and actions. The modulation of a voice, a whisper, an accent, a touch of the hand, the caress of an inanimate object, all coming without apparent effort, but all studied to the minutest detail, make up the true artistic picture and appeal to the inmost sense.

In choosing "An American Citizen" for his opening piece, Mr. Neill gave us an appropriate play for the hour. It is from the pen of one of America's most gifted daughters, Madeline Lucette Ryley. Though a high class comedy, there is a touch of patriotism and a note of pathos which latter shows us how nearly akin are laughter and tears. The plot of the piece is clever. A young American lawyer, in order to secure a fortune for his cousin and to pay the debts of a defaulting partner, marries her at a moment's notice, the two agreeing to separate and each go a free course. By this marriage the will of an eccentric parent is defeated. Naturally the young husband falls in love with his wife, and it is upon the misunderstanding as to his love for her, who is also in love with him, that the play runs through four acts. The play itself is a good one, healthy and clean in tone, showing us self-sacrifice, honor, affection, tenderness—in fact, all the nobler qualities of human nature, and yet with such a kindly vein of humor, that it appeals to the heart more readily than a production pitched in a loftier vein.

Having chosen so well, Mr. Neill and his company gave a representation which was worthy of the author and her ideal. It was not a representation which only was good in part, but it was good throughout. Every minor character individualized itself and formed a harmonious whole of artistic excellence, framing the principals in worthy surroundings, which made their roles sparkle as gems do when daintily set.

Mr. Neill is an actor of the Nat Goodwin type, and played the part of the young lawyer, Beresford Carew, with the same dash, and yet with a delicacy of touch and an indication of sentiment which marked him at once as a leader in his profession. There was not much direct love making, but Mr. Neill would make an ideal stage lover. There were passages between Beresford and Beatrice which were idyllic in their suggestion of sentiment. Notably did these occur in the third act, where Beresford represses his love for Beatrice, and again at the fall of the curtain when he seats his wife beside the humble fireside, at home. Mr. Neill has a reputation for great versatility and in his sound of characters will give us many opportunities for criticism and discussion. One can but say that his opening character was delicately and artistically played.

The Beatrice Carew of Edythe Chapman was a charming picture. Miss Chapman has the advantage of her own presence, and has that great charm in woman, a sympathetic, rich toned voice, whose clever intonation can reach every part of the house, and yet falls on the ear like some sweet note from some well tuned musical instrument. There is a not a discordant note in her voice. From the moment Miss Chapman came upon the stage, she captured her audience. The growing love for her husband; the fear that he loved some one else; the natural petulance of a true hearted woman, were all portrayed with the daintiest skill. Probably the prettiest effect was obtained by Miss Chapman in the third act, where she first threw away the violets that Georgia had left for Beresford, and then seeing his smoking jacket on a chair, she caressed it, showing by her actions the tender thoughts which are passing through her mind, and finally, in spite of her evident jealousy of Georgia, picks up the offending violets and places them by the coat. Told baldly in print, there is nothing in this, but Miss Chapman held the house spellbound for five minutes, and yet never uttered one word. It was a triumph of silent expression.

In the production by Nat Goodwin, Maxine Elliot played Beatrice, but Miss Elliot never put the feeling and pathos, as well as the spontaneous humor into the part which Miss Chapman does, and then again Maxine Elliot, though her vocal tones are full and deep, they are not as sympathetic as Miss Chapman's. The young actress who played Georgia, Miss Dean, gave a very pretty rendering of the part. Her patriotic feelings and her love, unrequited, for Beresford, were well portrayed. Miss Lamkin made a good Lady Bunn, and Miss Andrews scored a strong point as the only old woman, Cora Chappin, while Miss Swain, was an effective Beatrice's London maid.

James McVane as Peter Harbory, Beresford's early partner, proved himself as a thoroughly reliable and pleasing actor, one who belongs to the class of actors who are the backbone of the stage. The part of the villain, Captain Haver, was effectively played by Mr. Howard, who kept it down to its proper limits, and thus showed his histrionic ability. Emmet Shackelford's Stimm, an unpretentious English valet, was one of the hits of the piece. It was most amusing. Mr. Shackelford's manner was imitable. John W. Burton portrayed the precise Sir Humphrey Bunn, and Robert Norris made a glib and boomer as Otto Strohm.

The dresses of the ladies were very handsome, fresh and appropriate. In the third act Miss Chapman wore a beautiful ball costume and a very elegant cloak, which won the admiration of the ladies in the audience. The special scenery and the details of furniture were irreproachable, and mark the company as not falling in the necessary accessories which add so much to the charm of the performance.

The house was an excellent one. I have seldom seen a larger or more appreciative one in our little theater. We shall have an opportunity of seeing so excellent a company for some time. Their repertoire is very appetizing. The fullest success to Mr. Neill and his company is wished by the OLD PLAY-GOER.

HAWAII'S CONTRIBUTION

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS
ON THE ISLANDS.

Only About $200,000 a Year for the Government—Stamp Taxes as a Permanent Thing.

The national government will not get a very large sum of money annually by the collection of internal revenue in Hawaii. It is estimated that the annual sum will be about $200,000, mostly in special war taxes, collected by means of stamps. Special Agent Thomas, who is at work on the organization of the new bureau, has looked over the field and estimates that aside from the special taxes and stamps, there is only about $50,000 a year to be collected on the islands.

In many parts of the States an agitation has begun for the repeal of the stamp taxes, which were declared for the purpose of raising revenue for the war with Spain. They have served their purpose to such an extent that a surplus is being gathered at Washington, and Congress was urged to abolish the taxes before adjournment of its last session, but did not do so.

Treasurer Agent Thomas is of the opinion that it will be a long time before the stamp taxes are taken off.
"I don't think they will be abolished within the next ten years," said the internal revenue man. "The stamp duty has been found to be such an easy way of collecting revenue that it is well thought of in Washington. If there is too much revenue I think the changes that will be made will be in customs duties."

Aside from stamp duties the principal internal revenue collections here will be for licenses and special taxes, on banks, etc. The duties on cigars and tobacco are mostly paid in America before the goods are sent here.

MASS FOR THE SAILORS.

High mass was held at the Catholic cathedral yesterday morning for the officers and men of the French cruiser Protet. For the occasion the church was splendidly decorated with evergreens and French colors. About 175 men were present. The Bishop of Panopolis preached the sermon.

TREASURER LANSING.

Theo. F. Lansing was today commissioned Treasurer of the Territory of Hawaii. He sent his acceptance to Governor Dole late Saturday. Having acted before as minister of finance, Mr.
Lansing is considered an excellent choice. He has already assumed the duties of his office.

MATCH RACE ARRANGED.

A matched race between Aggravation and Ahimama has been arranged for 3 o'clock next Saturday. It will be a seven-eighths mile run for a purse of $500, or $250 a side. Nichols will ride Aggravation, and his competitor will probably be Louge.

FOR THE FOURTH.

A meeting has been called for 7:30 this evening in the drill shed to arrange a program for July the Fourth. Thus far literary exercises and aquatic sports are the only features decided upon.
They will also probably be a military parade and fireworks.

CENSUS AGENT AND INTERPRET ASSAULTED.

Sheriff Baldwin and the Police Arrest Seven Men, But Have to Fight Two Hundred to Do It.

PAIA, Maui, June 22.—Trouble with Japanese on the plantations still keeps up, and on Wednesday last a very serious affair occurred at Spreckelsville, brought about by causes entirely aloof from the plantation. On Tuesday evening, a United States census agent, James Kaunimahu, with a Japanese interpreter entered a camp of strikers, who had not worked for several days, for the purpose of enumerating them. Immediately upon asking the first Japanese his name, the Special Agent and his interpreter were accused of being agents of Manager Lowrie sent into the Camp to secure the names of the ringleaders of the strike, and were set upon by a number of Japanese. The Special Agent took to his heels and escaped immediately, but the interpreter was beaten and very roughly handled for a time, finally getting away with many bruises and injuries. On Wednesday morning Sheriff Baldwin with a small posse of police went to this Spreckelsville camp to arrest the assailants of the census agent and his interpreter. Upon their arrival there the Japanese at a signal gathered together, about two hundred of them and attacked the police.

Sheriff Baldwin then called upon Mr. Lowrie and his lunas, as citizens to assist the Government, which they did, making all together a force of about sixty men armed with black snakes. The assaulting force of Japanese armed with clubs and stones, which they frequently used and threw were met, and most thoroughly black snaked back to their camp and to a show of submission. Seven of those who had assaulted the census men the night before were identified and arrested, and two were taken into custody. On a road not far from this camp along which the white men and police were expected to pass, several hundred Japanese from other camps had gathered, armed with clubs and stones, with the apparent intention of attacking them as they came along. The Government force however decided as they had no quarrel with this gang to leave them unmolested, and so did not pass near them, consequently the Japanese have the idea that the white force were afraid of them. It perhaps would have been better had the Government force gone in and dispersed this gang, with a good thrashing thrown in, as the sixty men well mounted, were able to have done, merely for the moral effect of the same. As it is, naturally much ill feeling has been aroused, and the Japanese have vowed that they will kill several of the white men who assaulted the police. During the fight several of the white men were struck by stones, Mr. Lowrie getting one on the back of his hand, injuring it considerably, and a number of the Japanese were cut by black snakes. On the plantation at Spreckelsville, peaceful conditions for what will next occur, and fear and great anxiety prevails. With the large force of Japanese there, about two thousand, almost any act of violence could be committed before adequate hindrance could be made effective. The police force is so small that alone it can practically do nothing in such emergencies, and must call upon citizens for assistance. This is decidedly objectionable, when the citizens are employees of these citizens, and must be dealt with thereafter in a business way, the feeling engendered being anything but pleasant and agreeable. Acts of violence and much trouble would be always liable thereafter. From the state of affairs that now exists, the people consider that something must be done. Some favor the establishment of a camp of United States troops on each island, giving the Sheriff's discretionary power to call upon them in emergencies, or if this is not feasible then the enlargement and improvement of the police force.

The condition of affairs where an employer is obliged to get out and fight his employees for the enforcement of law, is not conducive to the prosperity or peace of the employer, or of the country. In consequence of the strike Manager Lowrie is without house servants or cook and the family are obliged to get along as best they can. The Japanese servants were forced to leave by the strikers, though they did not wish to. As matters now stand Spreckelsville is practically an armed camp, and all the white women have come in from the outside camps, and are staying at the main camp near the mill. The Maui Planters' Association held a meeting yesterday at the house of Manager Wells, Wailuku, and after a prolonged discussion, decided to cancel all contracts, and place all the Japanese on the same footing.

This decision was imparted to the Japanese of Paia last night, but they misunderstood and thought they were ordered to clear out, in consequence of which there was a strike this morning. They had packed up all their belongings, and with their wives and children congregated about the office, the street thereabout, being about blocked with baskets, trunks, boxes and blankets, the whole presenting a decidedly migrant appearance. Manager Lindsay explained matters to them, and told them all who wished their contracts could have them, and be on the same footing as the day men, when they could go back to work, or clear out as they chose. They are to get their contracts and announce their decision at four o'clock this afternoon. There is very little discontentment amongst these Paia men, and in fact, as elsewhere, if it was not for a few bad eggs, the trouble would be easily and quickly settled. However it is expected that the men will most all be at work tomorrow.

At Spreckelsville about one thousand men are today receiving their contracts, and the report is that they will return to work tomorrow. So matters may gradually settle down to a peace footing again, though it has been and is a decidedly unpleasant time.
