BLOUNT'S INSTRUCTIONS.

At the regular hour of going to press the STAR received from Commissioner Blount, at the hands of his Secretary, the text of the instructions under which he came to these islands as a representative of the United States.

There is no time in this issue to comment upon the instructions at length, but it will be observed by our readers that their form is such as to do away entirely with the royalist claim that the Commissioner has it within the scope of his authority to demand or procure the restoration of the ex-Queen.

HIS ONLY CHANCE.

The rough truth of the present Hawaiian situation is that the only hope the native can have of getting the suffrage lies in the prospect of annexation to the United States. So far as the monarchy is concerned, it is as dead in Hawaii as Caesarism is in Italy; and all the promises that its surviving advocates so freely make are little better than the Dead Sea's fruit of ashes.

There is light for the Hawaiian suffragist in but one direction, and that is towards the East—towards the United States, which has never refused the ballot to annexed peoples who asked for it, and who had reached that point in civilization where they could read and write.

THE NEW YORK HERALD.

There is one American in Chili who has, for the last two years, been abusing Minister Egan, maligning United States diplomacy, excusing anti-American measures and using the European arguments against the spread of American influence.

We present below a list of taxpayers of Hawaii, paying taxes on over $100,000. There are 64, and of these 59 favor annexation, 13 are divided, 8 are royalists and 4 are not designated.

COMMISSIONER BLOUNT is showing the unremitting industry which the nature of his duties require, and his report to the United States Government promises to be the most exhaustive treatise upon the commercial, industrial, racial and political status of this group which has yet been prepared.

Ensign Victor Blue has been ordered to the Alliance. Ensign McCormick has been ordered to duty on coast survey.

Aim at the Drake

And you are bound to hit some of the ducks. This is precisely the same with

Wampole's Tasteless Preparation

OF Cod Liver Oil.

It aims to cure Consumption, Hits the Mark, too, and it most effectually breaks up Colds, Coughs, Hoarseness and all Throat and Lung troubles that cause this disease.

It is natural logic to conclude that if WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL has power to prevent Consumption, it surely is able to cure these lesser emergencies.

This vigor-making, fat producing preparation is Absolutely Tasteless, in so far as Cod Liver Oil is concerned. All you notice is a delightful flavor of Wild Cherry and Anise.

But the purest Norwegian Cod Liver Oil is there all the same. It is a great blood enricher. Best of all it is a natural food that in its stomachic effects, actually assists its own assimilation.

In Pulmonary or Bronchial troubles it is unequalled. No one doubts the value of Cod Liver Oil, but not every one is able to take it.

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION

removes the nauseous objection and actually makes Cod Liver Oil palatable.

IN A ROMAN MANSION.

A Paper Read by Mrs. W. C. Weedon to the Cousins Society. (Concluded).

But we are in the peristyle, a charming and beautiful spot in the Roman home. It is in reality a second atrium, only reversed in style: that is in the covered and uncovered portions. The atrium proper having most of its space under cover, with but a comparatively small aperture above, while the peristyle has much less roofing, is broader, making the uncovered space quite large, giving an outlook into the clear blue Italian sky. We would call the peristyle a broad verandah enclosing a court or park. In the center of this stands a marble fountain, its sides painted to represent fish and water-plants. It is surrounded by shrubs and dwarf trees, and around these are tastefully arranged beds of flowers. Here violets and lilies bloom—the narcissus and amaranth. This lady tells us that so fond are the Romans of a garden that, where space is limited, they often paint their walls, representing trees, fountains, birds, etc. The spacious verandah itself is supported by columns of Numidian and Taenarian marble. The Numidian is of a golden yellow, the Taenarian a kind of green porphyry. Between these columns are statues. Upon the farthermost side of the peristyle is the triclinium or dining saloon. It is separated only by long windows, allowing a full view of the court without. Upon the side of this verandah are the cusculi or sleeping apartments. The curtains screening these rooms are of many colored tapestry, brought from Alexandria. One being drawn aside reveals an ivory bedstead almost concealed by the purple coverlet.

We now retrace our steps, as we have not yet visited the saloons that open from the atrium. No doors obstruct the passage; we simply lift the curtain. In these we find what we have not found in any other portion of the house—an abundance of the richest furniture. Here are the couches upon which guests recline. In no other article, however, does the Roman lavish so much expenditure as upon tables. If we would call it a hobby. In these saloons we have ample opportunity to observe these articles of extravagance. Our hostess tells us "They are brought from Asia, and are called orbes, not from being round, but because they are massive plates of wood, cut off the stem in its whole diameter. The most expensive are those cut off nearest the root, not only because the tree is broadest there, but because the wood down below is dappled and speckled." These orbes or slabs rest on columns of ivory. We would like very much to know the probable cost of one of these, but do not like to be so rude as to ask. We quietly do so, however, of this slave passing. He points to one and tells us 1,000,000 sesterces—equivalent to $20,000 of our money. [Cicero owned such.] The abaci or sideboards are of marble, and on them appear the gold and silver plate with other valuables. These are regarded more valuable for the beauty of workmanship upon them than for the costliness of the material.

We have, all through, had occasion to notice the skill in workmanship of the floors. Though some are simply of white marble slabs, others have stars, flowers and geometric figures traced in mosaic. In some, scenes are executed. So fine is the work that we learn that there are as many as 150 pieces to the square inch in some of them. One of these scenic representations, our hostess tells us, is the battle of Issus, between Alexander and Darius; in this is traced the Greek cavalry, making an irresistible attack upon the wavering lines of the Persians. Both kings appear in the scene, one standing upon his chariot, ready for flight.

The senator now joins our party again, but here the slave who has in charge the time pieces, enters and announces that the finger of the dial casts its shadow upon the ninth hour—3 P.M., which we infer is the dinner hour, and we are about to withdraw, but the lord most cordially invites us to dine with himself and family. We aim to be polite and not show our eagerness to remain, but he takes no heed of that, and we follow him to the triclinium.

Here we find a number of tables, around which are arranged sofas or couches, with cushions upon them to separate the places of the guests. Rather awkward we feel ourselves when invited to recline, instead of the usual "be seated." We see that those to whom it is habitual do so, leaning upon the left elbow, and we make the attempt, however ungracefully, to accomplish it. Water is then brought to each for the purpose of the 'washing of hands.' At a signal from our host then, which is given by making a noise with the fingers, slaves enter and place upon the tables—uncovered they are, that their beauties be not hidden—the first course. It consists of vegetables, with dressed snails and oysters. The vegetables are sorrel, lettuce, mushrooms, pickled cabbage, etc., such as will whet the appetite for the more solid dishes to follow. This finished, the slave musicians enliven the moments while the remains of the course are removed and the tables cleansed, and water and towels again furnished. The wines are then placed upon the tables, followed closely by the dishes of the second course—mullet and turbot, ducks, ring-doves, peacocks, and the center piece a fatted hare, which, by means of artificial wines, is made to represent pegasus. The scissor approaches and with solemnity begins to carve. This is considered an accomplishment, and to acquire it there are established training schools, practice being given in them by the use of jointed wooden models. We managed the first course very nicely with our spoons, but how are we to do with this second course—no knives, and the carver seems to be the only person provided with a fork. Watching the others, we do likewise, using our fingers. Fortunate for us water and towels are so plentifully supplied. Having partaken of quite sufficient of this course, the music ceases and a brief silence ensues while the salted meal and libations of wine are offered to the household gods. Then due honors are paid to the genius of the Emperor.

Again, many slaves are busy bringing in the dessert—dried grapes, dates, almonds, quinces, melons cut in various shapes, cheese cakes, tarts, etc.

The meal being finished, the tables are cleared and garlands of roses and perfumes are brought in; and now amusements and converse are most heartily entered into. Poems are read or quotations given. Our host gives a quotation from Virgil:

Let others better mold the running mass
Of metals, and inform the breathing brass,
And soften into flesh a marble face;
Plead better at the bar, describe the skies,
And when the stars descend and when they rise;

But, Rome, 'tis thine alone, with awful sway,
To rule mankind and make the world obey;
To tame the proud, the fatter'd slave to free—
These are imperial arts, and worthy thee.

By way of variety riddles are propounded by some, instructive and suggestive in thought as well as entertaining.

This being a feature of the entertainment in which all contributed to a greater or less extent. We desire to offer some contribution as well, and for the purpose indicate to one of the attendants our wish for a clean parchment. Receiving it we trace upon it characters in order thus:

The letter U in lines, such as a New England Jack Frost will often trace upon the window pane in northern latitudes. Then the letter S, pencilling it as if left on the sand of a seashore by some receding wave. We follow this with a letter A, forming it as if placed there by a fall of gorgeous fresh tears from some western mountain slope. Neath these we trace a simple word of letters five. Its first, in algebraic language symbolizes a known quantity, its last is symbol of an unknown.

Then in capital forms again in outline the eighth, twenty-fifth and fifth letters of our alphabet.

Underneath all, in stern Roman lines, we place the letters MDCCCXCIII.

An attendant holds the now pencilled parchment aloft. The Roman mind grasps at once the characters of the last line, and thereby read in the whole a prophecy as well as a problem. This fact stimulates their eagerness to decipher it complete. This is only accomplished, however, by the aid of an interpreter, who slowly reads: "UNITED STATES OF AMERICA ANNEX HAWAII, 1893."

What May Be Seen in the Roman Catacombs.

"There is no more interesting sight in all Europe than the Catacombs of Rome," began Benner Heckard, who is at the Southern. "One can see the ordinary routine sights of them any day for a small sum of money, and they are well worth visiting. I fancy, however, that I saw something a great long way from the ordinary, while on my visit there. Last August I was in Rome, and paid a visit to the catacombs alone. I did not care for company, as such sights always appeal more effectively to me when there is no one along to comment on them. I secured a guide, and we started on the long journey. We passed the vaults of the celebrated saints, on to the shelf-like receptacles, where a narrow box was all that could be given to the sainted dead. I saw the narrow chambers of prayer, where altar and walls were decorated with the bones and skulls of the ancient Christian martyrs. Such things are very moving. I found a climax to it when I reached the Chamber of Urns, where only the hearts of a number of saints were kept. These urns or vases were of earth baked brown and hard. One was only supposed to read the inscriptions on the outside and be satisfied with that, but I was not. I wanted to see what had become of the heart sealed up and set away so many centuries before. One was the heart of a martyred Aloysius—the sixth or seventh I believe. I endeavored to buy the guide to open it for me, but failing in this, I paid him to let me open it. Upon this agreement I broke the seal and looked in. The heart had changed to ashes. It just looked as though it had crumbled from the shaking I had given it. The most peculiar part of it was that a stain was left in the basin of the urn, an exact picture of a heart made of blood."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

M. McINERNEY.

Are we to be, or not to be, a part of the Great Republic, seems to be the burning question of the day, and one we had rather leave to wiser heads than ours to solve; and while great statesmen are wrestling with this momentous question, we want to have a little "fore-zove" with you on some other subjects, that concern you as well as ourselves.

Has it not occurred to you that you've been wearing that old hat long enough! In these progressive times if you intend to be "in it," you've got to keep pace with fashion. No matter how otherwise well dressed you may be, unless your hat is the correct thing you bear a shabby appearance.

We have already laid in a stock of the Latest Hats of the coming Spring and Summer styles, in hard felts, soft felts and straws, and including a line of the celebrated "Fidora" Hats, at present all the rage in the United States. There is therefore, no necessity for you to hang on any longer to that old Hat that bears such a strong resemblance to the hat "your father wore."

Believing that business will be better in the near future, we have not hesitated to keep our stock full in all lines. Take collars for instance: We have almost everything you could wish for. If you wear a standing collar, just come in and take a look at our "Narenta" or "Ardonia;" or if you prefer a turn down collar, try the "Winnipeg" or "Goswell;" we have have lots of others, and can't fail to suit you. Cuffs in abundance, links or otherwise.

Neckwear in profusion, scarfs windsors 4-in-hands, and a special lot of "Boys' Bows;" suspenders in great variety, leather and woven ends, good strong, serviceable goods.

We might go on indefinitely, but space is valuable, and to enumerate everything we carry would fill a pretty fair sized Book. If there is anything you want in the men's line, just drop in and see us, and if we can't suit you, we don't believe any one can.

If you should want a pair of nice shoes, let us try a hand at fitting you. Did it ever occur to you

How much a man is like his shoes; For instance, both a soul may lose. Both have been tanned; Both are made tight by Cobblers; Both get left and right; Both need a mate to be complete; And both are made to go on feet.

They both need healing; oft are sold, And both in time will turn to mould. With shoes the last is first; with men The first shall be the last; and when The shoes wear out, they're mended new; When men wear out, they're men dead too.

They both are trod upon, and both Will tread on others nothing loth. Both have their ties, and both incline When polished, in the world to shine; And both peg out. Now would you choose To be a man, or be his shoes.

BLOUNT'S INSTRUCTIONS.

THE ORDERS UNDER WHICH HE CAME.

He Cannot Interfere in Our Domestic Concerns But Will Protect Americans.

HONOLULU, H. I., May 15th, 1893 To the People of the Hawaiian Islands.

I deem it proper now to publish the following instructions under which I am now acting:

Department of State, Washington, March 11, 1893. THE HONORABLE JAMES H. BLOUNT, ETC.—Sir: The situation created in the Hawaiian Islands by the recent deposition of Queen Liliuokalani and the erection of a Provisional Government demands the fullest consideration of the President, and in order to obtain trustworthy information on this subject, as well as for the discharge of other duties herein specified, he has decided to despatch you to the Hawaiian Islands as his Special Commissioner; in which capacity you will herewith receive a commission and also a letter whereby the President accredits you to the President of the Executive and Advisory Councils of the Hawaiian Islands.

The comprehensive, delicate and confidential character of your mission can now only be briefly outlined, the details of its execution being necessarily left in great measure to your good judgment and wise discretion.

You will investigate and fully report to the President all the facts you can learn respecting the condition of affairs in the Hawaiian Islands; the causes of the revolution by which the Queen's government was overthrown, the sentiment of the people toward existing authority, and, in general, all that can fully enlighten the President touching the subject of your mission.

To enable you to fulfill this charge, your authority in all matters touching the relations of this government to the existing or other government of the Islands, and the protection of our citizens therein, is paramount and in you alone, acting in co-operation with the commander of the naval forces is vested full discretion and power to determine when such forces should be landed or withdrawn.

You are, however, authorized to avail yourself of such aid and information as you may desire from the present Minister of the United States at Honolulu, Mr. John L. Stevens, who will continue until further notice to perform the usual functions attaching to his office, not inconsistent with the powers entrusted to you. An instruction will be sent to Mr. Stevens directing him to facilitate your presentation to the head of the Government upon your arrival, and to render you all needed assistance.

The withdrawal from the Senate of the recently signed Treaty of Annexation for re-examination by the President, leaves its subject matter in abeyance, and you are not charged with any duty in respect thereto. It may be well however for you to dispel any possible misapprehension which its withdrawal may have excited touching the entire friendliness of the President and the Government of the United States towards the people of the Hawaiian Islands, or the earnest solicitude here felt for their welfare, tranquility and progress.

Historical precedents, and the general course of the United States, authorize the employment of its armed force in foreign territory for the security of the lives and property of American citizens and for the suppression of lawless and tumultuous acts threatening them; and the powers conferred to that end upon the representatives of the United States are both necessary and proper, subject always to the exercise of a sound discretion in their application.

In the judgment of the President your authority as well as that of the commander of the naval forces in Hawaiian waters, should be and is limited, in the use of physical force, to such measures as are necessary to protect the persons and property of our citizens; and while abstaining from any manner of interference with the domestic concerns of the Islands, you should indicate your willingness to interfere with your friendly offices in the interest of a peaceful settlement of troubles within the limits of sound discretion.

Should it be necessary to land an armed force upon Hawaiian territory on occasions of popular disturbance when the local authority may be unable to give adequate protection to the life and property of citizens of the United States, the assent of such authority should first be obtained, if it can be done without prejudice to the interests involved.

Your power in this regard should not, however, be claimed to the exclusion of similar measures by the representatives of other powers for the protection of the lives and property of their citizens or subjects residing in the Islands.

While the United States claim no right to interfere in the political or domestic affairs, or in the internal conflicts of the Hawaiian Islands, otherwise than as herein stated, or for the purpose of maintaining any treaty or other rights which they possess, this Government will adhere to its consistent and established policy in relation to them, and it will not acquiesce in domestic interference by other powers.

The foregoing general exposition of the President's views will indicate the safe courses within which your action should be shaped and mark the limits of your discretion in calling upon the naval commander for co-operation.

The United States revenue cutter Rush is under orders to await you at San Francisco and convey you to Honolulu.

A stenographic clerk will be detailed to accompany you and remain subject to your orders. It is expected that you will use all convenient despatch for the fulfillment of your mission as it is the President's desire to have the results before him at the earliest possible date. Besides the connected report you are expected to furnish, you will, from time to time, as occasion may offer, correspond with the Secretary of State, communicating information or soliciting special instruction in such points as you may deem necessary. In case of urgency you may telegraph, either in plain text or in the cypher of the Navy Department, through the kind offices of the Admiral Commanding, which may be sent to Mr. W. A. Cooper, United States Despatch Agent at San Francisco, to be transmitted thence.

Reposing the amplest confidence in your ability and zeal for the realization of the trust confided to you, I am, sir, Your obedient servant, W. Q. GREENHAM.

While I shall refrain from interference between conflicting forces of whatever nationality for supremacy, I will protect American citizens not participating in such conflict. Very respectfully, JAMES H. BLOUNT, Special Commissioner of the United States of America.

Fred Wilhelm, the purser of the Mikahala, died suddenly at his home in this city, yesterday. Heart disease was the cause. He left a mother, a widow and three children. Ke Kumukawai O America Hui-pua is a pamphlet of which 6000 neat copies have been issued in the native dialect, giving the constitution of the United States.

San Francisco papers erroneously stated that the steamer China would put into Honolulu, with Adolph Spreckels on board. The China left by the direct route. Miss A. E. Knapp recently gave a talk on Hawaii before the Women's Press Association at San Francisco, which, the papers say, was critical of President Cleveland's policy.

There was a tug-of-war on Emma street Saturday between a team of Hawaiians and a mixed team of Portuguese and natives. It was for a purse of $60 and ended in a draw. Hereafter Government employees will work from 8:30 A. M. to 5 P. M. and a clerk in each office will be on duty during the noon hour. On Saturdays office hours will extend from 8:30 A. M. to 1 P. M.

The W. C. T. U. meets to-morrow at half-past two in the parlors of the Central Union Church. Dr. Andrews will deliver an address on the Bichloride of Gold treatment. A cordial welcome is extended. At Lahaina last week a five-year-old boy swallowed a mango seed. He still lives, and Dr. Davidson has hopes of saving him. The seed can be felt by pressing against the walls of the stomach.

Robert Barnfield, the well-known artist, who had lived in Honolulu eight years and made many friends, died at the Queen's Hospital Sunday. He was a native of England, 38 years old. His funeral took place from the Cathedral this afternoon. Ex-Minister Colburn of Hawaii has declared in favor of the restoration of the Queen. He does not think the deposed Queen had a fair deal. He now says: "If the United States believes in fair play it will reinstate our Queen and let the rebels suffer what they deserve." The rebels are supposed to be the present Provisional Cabinet. It is presumed that Mr. Colburn would be satisfied with the execution of the ring-leaders and the banishment of subordinates. If this can be done the Queen will be restored to what Mr. Colburn considers her rights.—Call.

The Adipose Exception. In regard to the rules about hours of work in the government offices it is understood there will be certain exceptions made in the case of fat employees. Adipose gentlemen, like Land Officer Clerk Boyd and Commissioner Marsden are not supposed to be sprinters and cannot be expected to grab their breakfasts and scot down to Aliiolani Hall by 8:30.

Police Regulations. Special orders have been given by Marshal Hitchcock regulating the dress of the police while they are on duty. The rules prescribe the style of uniform to be worn each day, and that the Captain of the watch shall designate whether white or dark trousers are to be put on. The belt and club must be worn on the outside of the coat and the badge displayed on the left breast.

Stones From the Palm Summit. A gang of men are at work at the Nuunuu pali throwing down the loose rocks from the summit of the cliffs that threatened the lives of all who went down the pass. Sentries are posted, so that travellers are in no danger while the work is going on.

Fell on the Pali. While a native was riding down the Koolau side of the Pali yesterday, carrying a coffin, the girth of the saddle broke, sending the man and his burden to the ground. The coffin was broken by the fall, and the horse ran away. It is not known how the native reached home with the remnants of his load.

Horse Fell on Him. Harold M. Sewall returned on the Claudine from Maui. He was the victim of an accident while ascending Haleakala, and is now nursing a bad leg. His horse fell on him.

The Gondoliers. Gilbert and Sullivan's opera "The Gondoliers," is to be given in the near future by local musical amateurs for charitable objects at the Opera House.

The Columbus Genealogical Tree.

Christopher Columbus, Duke of Veragua, Marquis of Jamaica and Admiral of the Indies, now at Chicago to participate in the opening ceremonies of the great Fair, is the eleventh in descent from Christopher Columbus. A genealogical tree of the descendants of Columbus shows that the line of descent is as follows:

First—Christobel Colon, discoverer of the New World and first Admiral of the Indies, married to Philippa Moniz.

Second—Their son, Diego Colon, married Marie de Toledo.

Third—Christobel Colon, Diego's son, married Anna de Pavia.

Fourth—Their daughter, Francisca Colon—this being the first break in the male line of descent—married Diego Ortegon.

Fifth—Their daughter, Josefa Ortegon, married F. de Paz de la Serna.

Sixth—the issue of this marriage married a daughter, Josefa de Paz de la Serna y Ortegon, who married Martin Larreategui.

Seventh—Their son, Diego Larreategui y de Paz de la Serna, married into the Carvajal family. The lady's name does not appear.

Eighth—Francisco de Larreategui, the offspring by their marriage, married into the Angulo family.

Ninth—In this generation their son, Pedro Isidoro de Larreategui y Angulo, married into the Jimenez de Emburon family.

Tenth—Marino de Larreategui y Jimenez de Emburon married a daughter of the Ramiroz de Baquedano family.

Eleventh—Pedro de Larreategui y Ramiroz de Baquedano married into the De Cerda family.

Twelfth—We have as Columbus' eleventh direct descendant the present Duke of Veragua of Cristobal de Larreategui y de la Cerda, who married into the family of Aguilera.

The exactly proper thing as given out by the Duke's secretary, reads: "Christopher Columbus de Toledo Larreategui de la Cerda Ramirez Baquedano, Admiral and Adelantado Mayor de las Indias, Duke of Veragua and de la Vega, Marquis of Jamaica, Grandee of Spain, Senator of the Kingdom, Caballero de la Insigne Orden del Toison de Oro, de la Real Carlos III and of the Concepcion de Villaviciosa (Portugal), Gentil Hombre de la Camara of the late King Alfonso XII, and his son, the King Don Alfonso XIII, member of the Royal Council of Agriculture, Industry and Commerce."

Golden Rules for Successful Dinners.

There is a story of a dinner given by a well-known lady in London some years ago where eighteen guests comprised a perfectly representative assemblage of all that was distinguished in politics, art, science and literature. A Prime Minister, two Cabinet Ministers, an eminent divine, a well-known general and two of the most brilliant luminaries in art, science and literature composed a dinner, a most appreciative member of which said was the dullest he ever remembered. On the other hand, another hostess declares that her pleasantest dinners are those to which she asks all the "bores," for no one ever discovered why they were all invited to meet each other, and none being pre-eminently brilliant, no one found himself duller than his neighbor. But there is nothing more uncertain than the success or failure of a dinner, for it depends on a variety of small things, any of which help in either way. There are one or two golden rules for London dinners which no one can ever do wrong in following. The dinner should be unambitious and well served. Everything should be hot. There should not be too much to eat, and no dinner should last over an hour and a half or two hours. Very few people dine out for the sake of getting good food only. There are some houses where one expects, and where one gets, a dinner to dream of, but such houses are few and the ordinary hostess should content herself by feeling sure that when her guests leave they carry away the conviction that they have had an evening in which no particular dish or wine or person has made a more lasting impression on them than the fact that they have passed a more than usually pleasant evening.

Leather.—We have received within the past sixty days, by steamer and sail, 66 Rolls of Leather, containing 9088 lbs., and 5347 ft; also, 3 bales containing 142 doz. sheep skins, so it looks as if we meant to keep our Stock of Leather up, although by getting it in large lots, we are able to keep the prices down.

Salt.—We are headquarters for Hawaiian Salt, as we make it. That the quality is good, and Price Low, is easily shown by the large quantity we sell every week.

Blight Compound.—Five gallons will make 65 gallons of wash. You spray your Lime and Orange Trees with this wash, and the Blight will do the rest, die and drop off the trees. We have the compound at our store, or can give you an order on the Gov't. Nursery for it, but don't forget to bring a 5-gallon can to put it in. We sell spraying outfits.

They Have Come!

Those Razor Strops you have been waiting for several weeks, are here. They are so good that it has been said of them, that if you lay your razor, and one of these strops down together on your washstand, the razor will keep a fine edge; still, we recommend following the directions printed on each strop.

Anti-Rattlers.—We have a new kind which you can put on to the shafts of your buggy, without breaking four fingers and a thumb. They prevent two things—rattling and swearing.

Boardman's Pat. Wrench.—4 sizes, just the kind of combination wrench to have about the house.

Try the new Keystone Egg Beater, if you want a beater that will do quick, clean work.

Hose, 1/2-in. to 2-in., 3 and 4-ply plain or wired, just received; cheap and good quality; also carbolized. We have a large stock of "Hubbucks," "Pioneer," and cheaper brands of White Leads and Zinc.
