

Chamber of Commerce

At a Meeting Wednesday Afternoon the Fruit Fly Situation Was Discussed.

The matter of fighting the fruit fly on Maui was discussed at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce this week, and the report of the committee in charge of the work here was read by chairman Williams. So far the only district on Maui where the pest has made its appearance is in Wailuku. In the meantime the quarantine regulations are being strictly enforced.

Mr. Hugh Howell presented a map of the Kihei harbor for the inspection of the members, and also told of his findings as regards the most suitable location for a ships landing. He recommends that the new wharf be built at a point about half a mile nearer Wailuku than is the present landing. His contention is that a wharf at this point will have a much better foundation, necessitate a lesser expenditure of money, and be more convenient for travel.

The Chamber unanimously endorsed Mr. Howell's recommendation, and the secretary was instructed to so notify the Harbor Commission.

Mr. Baldwin stated that it was necessary for the Harbor Commission to specify where they intended to build the wharf, before the property could be deeded to the Territory, as the property the present landing belonged to the H. P. Baldwin Co., Ltd., while the new site recommended by Mr. Howell belonged to the H. C. & S. Co.

From correspondence read it seems that the Harbor Commission will put the wharf wherever the people of Maui want it, so now there seems no reason for any further delay.

A petition was presented for the endorsement of the Chamber, praying that the Loan Fund Commission straighten some of the dangerous curves on the pali between Wailuku and Lahaina. This petition was endorsed, and a committee appointed composed of Hugh Howell, H. B. Penhallow, Wm. Henning, J. J. Walsh and R. A. Wadsworth to confer with the Loan Fund Commission regarding the expenditure of all funds. There being no further business before the Chamber it adjourned.

Silver Mine on Maui.

Last Saturday afternoon, while a gang of road men under George Weight were excavating just off the road by the slaughterhouse, they came upon a small cache of silver coins. A large amount of the dirt had been carted away before the coins were discovered. Altogether, eight American half dollars were picked up, the dates ranging from 1861 to 1876. This find is a very unusual one, as at the time when coins of these dates were in general circulation, very little American money was to be found in Hawaii.

Paia Orpheum.

The Paia Orpheum is planning to give their patrons some high class vaudeville tonight and Monday night. The management has secured the Francis Dainty Co., slack wire and trick, bicycle artists, and they are said to be exceedingly clever. The bald head row should be well filled by these performances, as the lady performing in the team is both "Dainty" and smart.

Will the Race Die Out?

Prophecy of a Medical Professor That Is Not Likely to Be Fulfilled.

Reversing the thesis of Malthus, that population in all times has tended to outgrow subsistence, Dr. William Charles White, professor of medicine in the University of Pittsburgh, confesses his belief that the human race gradually will extinguish itself.

In a lecture at Lehigh University on the "Conservation of Children," Dr. White said: "Among the prominent sources of loss are the respiratory diseases, which cause so much sickness and death. Most of these diseases are the result of low resistance in children, caused by poor food and poor air, in addition to the sources of infection spread by coughing, sneezing or spitting."

The ravages of tuberculosis are, of course, well known, but the movement against the disease which has been under way during the last few years gives promise that within a short time it will be well under control. Certainly fewer deaths from this source are recorded now than was the case some years ago.

How Professor White can believe that the race will extinguish itself, in view of the well-established fact that the death rate in civilized countries is rapidly falling and that the average age of mankind has increased more than 10 per cent in the last half century, it is difficult to see. That there has been a general advance in national and civic cleanliness and hygiene, together with increasing successful provision for the sick and for old age, is universally known, and the results cannot but operate against the extinguishment of which Professor White speaks.

The health of a people is very largely a matter of economics and environment. The comparatively short lives of the very poor are due to the insanitary conditions of the slums in which many of them are compelled to dwell. But society is surely, if slowly, improving these conditions, and with the improvement is coming a longer lease of life.

Together with the decreasing death rate there is to be considered the diminishing birth rate as a further answer to Professor White's pessimistic prediction. Although on the surface the decrease of population, proportionately, may seem to be an economic question, at bottom it is intellectual and esthetic. According as the desire to rise in the industrial, intellectual or esthetic world increases, the birth rate diminishes.

It is coming about, therefore, that not only do people nowadays live longer than they used to, but that they enjoy life more. Under such conditions the race is in little danger of extinction.

Homesteaders at Work.

The settlers who took up homesteads on the 1200-acre Pauwela-Kuiaha tract in February are already making a showing. Most of the members of the Lindsay Settlement Association have already cleared and plowed a considerable portion of their lands and some have already planted pines. Several of the members of the California Association, most of whom did not live on Maui, have moved upon their lots and others will do so during the coming summer.

Reports Advance

Chief Forester Hosmer Tells of the Work of Planting Trees.

In the report of the Board of Agriculture in Honolulu last Saturday, Chief Forester Hosmer has the following to say regarding tree planting on Maui:

"At Wailuku I arranged with H. B. Penhallow, manager of the Wailuku Sugar Company, details in regard to the planting of a portion of the government land of Polipoli, set apart last year as a part of the West Maui forest reserve. I also had a general look at the planting which the Wailuku Sugar Company has been carrying on on its private lands on the lower slopes of the hills above its cane fields, back of Wailuku. The notable thing here is the excellent start which both ironwood and eucalyptus seedlings, planted out over a year ago, are making on the base, eroding slopes, especially on the south side of Iao Valley. Not only are the little trees doing well but small as they are, leaves and forest litter are already beginning to collect under them helping to hold the soil in the little gullies and check the damage from wash. This is work of high value which cannot but repay the plantation company in years to come.

"In addition to the strictly protective belts, Mr. Penhallow is also doing considerable planting of algaroba and eucalyptus with the object of securing a fuel wood supply for the plantation. In all 11,400 trees were planted in 1911.

"Next I spent several days in the Koolau district carefully going over the forest planting work now in progress along the ditch systems controlled by the Alexander & Baldwin interests. This planting, for the most part on government land, is being done jointly by the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company and the Maui Agricultural Company, under a plan drawn up by me last autumn. The general purpose of the planting is to establish shelter belts to assist in the return of the native forest on areas where large numbers of trees died a few years since and to start stands of thrifty trees in places now without useful vegetation.

"It is encouraging to note that the naive Hawaiian forest shows indication of recovery. There has apparently been no setback since the trees started to grow again and undergrowth of certain kinds is considerably more in evidence now than it was a year ago when I visited Koolau.

"On my return from Kailua, I stopped for a day with Waldemar Hannestad at Kailili, particularly to arrange with him about the planting of a portion of the Makawao forest reserve, a government land. This work is being done under an agreement made some two years ago with the Maui Agricultural Company whereby trees are being planted in return for the right to remove dead wood. On the fee simple lands belonging to the Maui Agricultural Company at Kailili, Mr. Hannestad has this winter planted out about 170,000 seedling trees. Unusually cold weather has retarded the growth of trees all over Maui, but with the coming warm months the trees set out will grow rapidly. For several years now the Maui Agricultural Company has planted about 100 acres of forest a year at Kailili principally Eucalyptus globulus, E. robusta and Japanese cedar."

Almost Wrecked

Boat Belonging to Raymond Ranch Has Narrow Escape.

On the last trip of the "Makana" from Honolulu, orders were given for the boat to call at Kahoolawe and pick up a pot for the ranch. The little vessel was taken in as close as she could go and the pot rolled down the steep bank. There is a small drop and when the pot went over this it raised a cloud of dust that obscured things from those on shore. When the dust cleared away it was seen that the wind had caught the Makana broadside on and that she was fast being swept out to sea with only one man on her, who did not know what to do.

The anchor which was down would not hold her and with a high sea running the dingy was pushed out from the shore and the launch reached just as she was about to surge out into the full force of the big rollers that were coming bounding toward the shore. The weather was so bad that she was compelled to stay there most of the day before venturing outside into the channel. Even then some of the crew did not like to make the trip as they were afraid of the engines breaking down.

Plans are now under way for the building of another vessel to run meat from the Raymond ranch to Honolulu which will be much larger than the Makana. The new vessel which is to be built by John Hughes is to be about the same size as the Kaena and will have all the sampan lines eliminated—Star.

In an interview with Dr. Raymond, who is now on Maui we were informed that there is absolutely no truth in the above, and that the whole story originated in the mind of some knocker in Honolulu.

Pipe Line Extension.

The contract for the construction of the Kula pipe line extension has been awarded to Hugh Howell for the sum of $17,215. This extension will run from Waikamoi, the present intake to a point about four miles further on, where the supply of water is much greater than at the present intake.

Trails are to be built along the line, and part of the trail will be cleared for five feet below and fifteen feet above of all the ferns and bushes, but not of the larger trees. The necessary bonds have been filed and Mr. Howell will begin work on the line at once.

Death From Exposure.

Joe Fernandez, the aged Portuguese, who wandered away from his home in Kula, about two weeks ago, was found last Tuesday in one of the many small gulches which abound in that district. The bank of the gulch shows that the old man fell into it, and though he could not get out, it does not seem that he was badly hurt. His tobacco has been found at his side, and a number of burnt matches were lying about, showing that he had smoked while lying there.

The theory of the police is that the exposure while lying there, together with the lack of nourishment was the cause of death.

Maui the Model County.

FOR some time past when comparisons are being made regarding conditions on the different islands, Maui is invariably taken as a model for the others to pattern after. Maui possesses no natural advantages over any other island in the group, still we are looked upon as the model island. There must be a reason for this, and some man or a set of men deserve the credit. Maui has public spirited citizens who have always been willing to lend their best efforts for the betterment of the county. Maui has been fortunate in electing men to the county offices, who represent the highest standards of integrity and ability, and to all of these belong a share of the credit for making Maui what she is today.

When the Loan Fund Commissions were appointed for the different islands, the governor named men to serve on each commission whom he thought would be fitted to serve the best interests of the communities. Again Maui got far and away the best of the deal. Take a look at the czarlike attitude of the different members of the Oahu Loan Fund Commission. Almost immediately they managed to get into a controversy chiefly because of their high and mighty attitude. They have been getting the worst of it, and will continue to get the worst of it so as long as they assume their present attitude. In the meantime, the taxpayers are paying the fiddler. They have spent $7,000, and nothing to show for it but an old grey horse. The Maui Loan Fund Commission has at its head Mr. W. F. Pogue, who has probably done more to put Maui in the forefront of the counties than any other single individual. Mr. Pogue, with the cooperation of the other members of the commission, has so far expended the monies of the commission in a most judicious manner, yet this week he goes before the Maui Chamber of Commerce, and asks that a committee from that body be appointed to confer with the commission, to determine the best possible expenditure of all funds. Here is the great secret of Maui's prosperity. No Star Chamber sessions here, but a free and open discussion of what is best for Maui. This suggestion of Mr. Pogue's is so far in advance of anything which possibly could occur on Oahu or Hawaii, with the present commissioners in office, that the mere thought of such a thing will probably send cold shivers running up and down their backs. As we said before, we are not any better than the people of the other islands, but simply more fortunate in having men such as Mr. Pogue in office, who see their duty, and know how to perform it.

The people of Honolulu and by this we mean, the business people, are always so fond of knocking the other islands to the tourists. Hardly a tourist comes to Maui, but marvels at our climate, our scenery, and our progress. "Why," they say, "what is the matter, over in Honolulu, they told us, it was roasting hot here, and there was nothing to see, and things here are not at all like we expected. You have a beautiful island." No doubt this kind of thing keeps many away, but others come, and all who do come are loud in their praises of Maui. It is pure, unadulterated hoggishness which prompts the Honolulu business interests to thus misrepresent the other islands. One tourist even laid the charge at the door of the promotion committee. Honolulu is rapidly gaining an unenviable reputation for its ability to gouge the traveller within its gates and give very little in return, and they are in a fair way to reap the whirlwind.

Now that Wailuku is to be a really and truly city, with real electric lights, the Board of Supervisors would incur the good-will of every citizen, and add lasting glory to their fame as statesmen, if they would complete the sidewalk along Main Street. The section from the Lyons property to the Enos store looks bad, very bad, and soon the citizens will be asking why the work has not been completed. The supervisors will have to answer this question, and how much easier it would be to have the sidewalk put in immediately.

An international track-master at Cape Race, with plenty of help, could have the Newfoundland banks patrolled with signal vessels and fix buoy lights on southbound icebergs during the danger season. This, with an efficient speed regulation might soon bring an end to the record of avoidable disaster in the graveyard of the Atlantic.—Star.

The suggestions coming from the Star, generally hit the mark, but to anyone who has frequented the waters off the Newfoundland coast, the above is ridiculous.

Let Go!

(By Dr. W. A. Blackwell.)

HOLD fast! That splendid motto has many battles won. When linked with noble purpose to earn the world's "well done," But one of equal import for all shrewd men to know Is when to quit and have the grit to then and there "let go."

Have you lost your coign of vantage, have you slipped into a rut, It's no disgrace to change your base before the wires are cut. It bespeaks the wily general to outwit a stubborn foe.

Don't stand your ground when you have found 'twill pay you to let go.

Board of Supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors have been in session this week. The current month's business was attended to, and the reports of the different county officers received and placed on file.

A resolution was passed requesting the governor to segregate the $35,000 appropriated by the legislature, from the next loan issue, for the reclamation of the swamp lands in the Lahaina district.

The appointment of Sam Keliinoi as clerk of the Wailuku Road Overseer, was not approved, on motion of Supervisor Lake.

Auditor Wilcox was granted a leave of absence, to attend the republican convention at Chicago.

Mrs. W. E. Foster, was asked to remain as district nurse at the Kula Sanitarium, and in addition was appointed manager of the sanitarium, with permission to engage some one to aid her in the work.

The Chairman was instructed to make an effort to secure a doctor for the sanitarium at Kula.

Cookery Points

One Egg Cake. Cream a half cupful of butter, work in one cupful of sugar, then one egg yolk. When smooth stir in one cupful of milk and gradually two cupfuls of sifted flour, with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor with vanilla, bake and ice with the following: Beat one cupful of confectioner's sugar slowly into the white of one egg and flavor with a half teaspoonful of vanilla. Stir over the fire a half cupful of grated chocolate, two tablespoonfuls of confectioner's sugar and one tablespoonful of hot water until smooth, then add one more tablespoonful of hot water and stir into the sugar and beaten egg. Nuts may be added, whole or chopped.

Veal Croquettes. Mince fine one cupful of cold veal, add a half cupful of cooked sweetbreads, also cold and minced, one cupful of cooked rice, a few drops of onion juice and minced parsley, celery or thyme to season. Moisten with a little veal stock and heat over the fire. Add salt and pepper and beaten egg yolk. Cook for one or two minutes and turn out on a dish to cool. When firm and cold form into croquettes, egg shape, roll in bread crumbs, then in beaten egg, to which a tablespoonful of milk has been added, again in the crumbs and fry in hot fat until a rich brown. Mince chicken may be substituted for the veal and sweetbreads.

New Scrambled Eggs. The member of your family who scorns scrambled eggs may enjoy them in a new, glorified form. Cut thin slices of ham in strips like matches. Mince an onion. Fry both in butter seasoned with salt and pepper, and when nearly done add three or four slices of mushrooms. Make a circle of the ham and onions and place the scrambled eggs in the center, garnishing with parsley.

Another variation is to spread round croquettes with a layer of sweet red pepper cooked, then the scrambled eggs, then a sprinkling of truffles. All scrambled eggs must be served at once and must not be tough.

Banana Croquettes. Peel six bananas, cut a slice from each end, then cut into crosswise sections. Dredge well with powdered sugar and marinate one hour in the juice of two oranges, turning the sections over now and then. Roll in beaten egg, then in grated crumbs, and fry in deep hot fat. For the sauce, strain the sirup after the bananas have been taken out, bring just to boiling point, then thicken with one tablespoonful cornstarch stirred smooth in a little cold water. Cook until clear, take from the fire and add a half teaspoonful of orange extract.

Pot Roast. Use any kind of meat. Put into an iron pot a tablespoonful of meat fryings or butter; let it brown; wash off the roast and put into the pot. After it begins to fry, pour in enough water to half cover the meat; season with pepper and salt; cover and stew slowly. As the meat begins to fry, add more water; turn it often, and cook about three hours. A half hour before serving add either Irish or sweet potatoes or turnips; allow to brown with meat. If turnips are added prepare browned sweet potatoes separately.

Dried Fruit. Dried fruit tastes just as good when stewed in the oven, and this method has its advantages—the fruit will not dry and burn. It will remain whole and may be cooked while roasting or baking. Wash the fruit, pour boiling water over it and let it stand in a covered dish until ready to put in the oven. Then add the sugar, cover lightly and let the heat of the oven do the cooking. Prunes are always delicious when stewed in this way.

A Delicious Rabbit. A treasured rule for Welsh rabbit in a girl's recipe book calls for a quarter of a cupful of milk, three ounces of Cheddar cheese cut into small dice, an egg, a tablespoonful of butter, salt, a little mustard and a shake or two of paprika. Bring the milk to a boil, put in the cheese and stir until it is melted. Then add the egg and seasonings, stir until the mixture is creamy and turn over toasted bread or crackers.

A Sandwich Novelty. White bread sandwiches sprinkled with sugar are a delight in one house hold where everybody has a sweet tooth. It may be that the fashionable "nervous stomach" has been cultivated as much by the puddles in the way of cakes and bonbons served at daily teas as anything else. Sweet sandwiches are twice as healthy and to most persons are a welcome relief from the universal American cake habit.

Southern Johnnycake. For southern johnnycake make a batter of half a cupful of sugar, an egg, four tablespoonfuls of drippings or butter, a level teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a cupful of sour milk, a cupful of cornmeal and a cupful of flour. Put a large tablespoonful of lard into an iron frying pan, and when it is very hot turn in the batter and bake in a hot oven. Southern cooks score a tin baking dish for this cake.

The Scrap Book

Too Polite. There are many humorous anecdotes current among his countrymen, which Chedo Mijatovich relates in "Servia of the Servians." The following neatly illustrates the point that there are other things more important than mere etiquette: Nasradin Chodja took much trouble to teach his pupils how to behave politely. Among other things he taught them always to clap their hands and shout, "Hayr Allah!" (God bless you) whenever they heard an older person sneeze.

Once the Chodja, mending something in the open pit in his garden, slipped and fell in. Nearly drowned in the deep water of the pit, he called to his pupils to bring a rope and drag him out. The dutiful schoolboys soon found a rope and threw it down to their master, and when he had seized it, began to drag him out. Only a few feet more and he would be out of the pit—when, unfortunately, thoroughly wet as he was, he sneezed.

In an instant all his pupils dropped the rope to clap their hands, shouting: "Hayr Allah, Chodja!" The poor Chodja fell back down to the bottom of the pit. "Ah, it serves me right!" he cried. "I ought to have taught these boys common sense first and then politeness!"

Despair Not. We were not made to pass in sorrow Our brief existence here away. For grief's a cloud that on the morrow Gives promise of a brighter day.

Bright flowers decay, gay foliage fades Beneath November's chilly reign; But, robed in gayer tints, the spring Beholds the blushing flowers again.

So when some grief has blighted hopes Of happiness too dearly cherished Too oft we deem that every joy Has with departed idols perished.

However deep the wound we feel, However great our cause of sadness, Time rolls the clouds of grief away And brings again our wonted gladness. —L. W. Muller.

The Brother's Rakeoff. William J. Bryan was never a book agent, but he at one time came near enough to it to qualify as a counselor of those who followed the business. On one occasion he undertook to sell to the citizens of the Salem neighborhood, in Illinois, ten maps which his brother had been peddling unsuccessfully for several weeks. "All you want me to do, as I understand it, is to sell these maps," said Bryan. "Yes, that's all," agreed the brother. That night William returned home with the announcement: "I have sold them all!" This astonished the brother, who insisted that the ten maps could not have been disposed of within so short a time. "Oh, it was easy enough," said the future presidential candidate. "I did not bother about the money. One map I sold to the barber, who will keep me shaved for weeks. Another I turned over to a groceryman, and I used the remainder to pay some little bills I owed around town."

"But where do I get off?" asked the brother. "How do I get my percentage?" "Well," said Bryan without enthusiasm, "you can come around and have supper with me some time."—Popular Magazine.

The Way Webster Spelled. There was an old newspaper proprietor in an Indiana town whose copy the compositors had to watch carefully for bad spelling. One day two young women went to his office to write a letter. They borrowed the old man's paper, his pen and ink and asked him to let them sit at his desk while they wrote the letter. The old man accommodated them, and while they were writing he busied himself looking over the newspaper files, not in the best of humor because he had been disturbed. "Please, Mr. Blank, how do you spell autocratic?" asked one of the girls. "Spell it any way you darn please," he replied. "Do like Noah Webster. He never asked anybody how to spell a word, and we have to like the way he spelled 'em."—Indianapolis News.

The Fellow That Beat Him. L. Q. C. Lamar of Mississippi, who was one of the best story tellers of his day, used to tell this: In one of the small towns of the state lived a man with a chronic desire to hold office. Any office would do for him. He had been a candidate for office many times, but had always been defeated. Finally an opportunity arose for him, so it was thought. An office was to be filled by election, for which there was no announced candidate except this man. Under the constitution of the state a majority of all votes cast was required to elect. On the evening of the election every one expected, of course, that this man would be elected. His friends were congratulating him that at last he had secured an office and were jollifying over the event. When he returned in a crestfallen spirit his friends asked him what the result was. He was silent for a moment and then said that he had not been elected. "How is that?" they asked. "There was no other candidate against you."

"That's what I thought," he replied, "but at the last minute they trotted out a fellow named 'Scattering' and he beat me to death. I won't run any more."—Washington Post.

Matinee Today.

The people of Maui are to be congratulated on having so broad minded a man amongst them as the Manager of the Orpheum, Wailuku, proved himself to be. When Mr. W. H. Engle told him that they wanted to raise money for the bowling alleys and that the MacWatters Male Quartette was coming here, he immediately gave them the use of the Orpheum. Now its up to every man, woman and child on Maui to buy a ticket and the Alexander House Bowling Alleys will get the financial assistance they need and the public will get the benefit. The regular trains from Paia, Camp I and Kahului will enable everybody to come to Wailuku and take in the Double Header. MacWatters Male Quartett of Boston in the afternoon and the Passion Play at night with a full choir of voices and Orchestral accompaniment.

Growing Population.

If any one thinks the population of Maui is not growing or there are signs of race suicide, they had better journey to Lahaina and interview Hugh McCubbin, and as McCubbin says they will have another guess coming. But as usual Hugh is happy, only more so, because last Sunday morning his wife presented him with twins,—a boy and a girl. We always thought McCubbin was a full grown man, but since the happy event, his size has increased visibly.

Akother happy individual is Geo. Wilbur, head luna at the Wailuku Sugar Co. George has been longing for a son and heir these many years, and Thursday morning Mrs. Wilbur presented him with a 9½ pound boy,— his heart's desire.

Kahului Union Church.

The annual meeting of the Kahului Union Church was held in the church on Thursday evening, May 9th. The auditorium had been transformed into a parlor by substituting easy chairs, tables and carpets for the pews, and by the decorations of bamboo and flowers. The meeting began with a devotional service led by the pastor, Rev. H. P. Judd. Then followed the various reports from the treasurer, showing the healthy financial condition, from the clerk, reporting the last annual meeting, and the last monthly meeting of the executive committee of the church; from the pastor, reviewing the work of the past year and looking forward to the coming year, from the treasurer of the Sunday school, reporting a balance in the treasury, and from the superintendent of the Sunday School, reviewing what the school has done during the past twelve months.

The election of officers resulted as follows: New deacon, Mr. John Kalino; Clerk, H. B. Weller; Treasurer, Capt. E. H. Parker; Executive Committee, the above officers with Mr. E. J. Walker, Deacon, the Pastor, Messrs John Makahio, W. S. Mountcastle and Levi Faufata. The Sunday School Committee was reelected and consists of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Walker and Mrs. J. J. Walsh.

The matter of sending a delegate to the annual meeting of the Hawaiian Evangelical Association at Lihue, Kauai, July 10-16 was brought up by the pastor and after discussion it was voted to send Mr. Jeremiah to represent the church at the coming convention.

After the singing of the Doxology, and prayer by the pastor, the business session was over and refreshments were then served by the Ladies' Aid Society. During the evening Mrs. Jennings gave several recitations which were greatly enjoyed by everyone present.

There will be a game of baseball Sunday afternoon, at three o'clock, at the Wailuku baseball grounds, between the Stars and the Kahuluis. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged. Ladies free.

A championship bowling tournament will soon be started at the Paunene alleys, which should prove of more than ordinary interest. A fine cup is being put up by the club, and it is proposed that this cup shall be bowled for once a year, and must be won two years in succession to become the absolute property of the winner. Those winning it once will have their names engraved thereon.

This tournament is open to all members in good standing, and those wishing to enter, may hand their names to the bowling committee or sign the entry list.

The case of Tam Shu, for illegal liquor selling was tried before Judge Goodness at Makawao this week. The defendant was acquitted. This is another side of the perjury case in which Lilia Paleka was tried and convicted recently in the Circuit Court. The evidence in both cases was practically the same, but the Makawao judge, decided this case in direct opposition to the verdict rendered by the jury in the Paleka case. The grand jury may have something to say about this matter at the next term.

Fred Butler and wife were the guests of W. O. Aiken on a trip up Haleakala this past week. Mr. Butler was singing at Lahaina the latter part of the week, conducting services on Friday evening and on Sunday evening at the Lahainaluna school for boys. He left on Monday with Rev. R. B. What the Wrestlers, Boxers and Base Ball Artists Are Doing.

Of all games lawn tennis appears to afford the only exception to the rule "youth will be served." Youth takes a back seat on the tennis courts and age and experience combine to hold the upper hand. Though this game calls for the agility of youth more strongly than any other sport, the veterans appear able to offset this quality which is plainly against them with craftiness and stroke control, which can only be acquired through long terms of hard practice.

The cracks of yesterday are the cracks of today, and they continue to calmly brush aside the younger aspirants, seemingly saying "not yet," and forbearing to even add "but soon." The Larneds, Clothiers, Wrights and Littles, who were making tennis history in America ten years ago, have been able to block the Behrs, Touchards, McLoughlins and other phenomenal players of the younger set from the first place. In England it is true that Wilding, the champion, is only about 30 years of age, but he is a veteran player, having won his first important tourney in 1898.

His English championship was won in 1910, when the old English veterans, H. L. and R. F. Doherty, A. H. Smith and F. H. Risely had all retired from play, and in the last two years he has retained his honors with considerable difficulty, not from young players, but from Dixon, Barret and Gore, the latter of whom is 44 years old, while the other two are each close to the forty-five mark.

In Australia, Brooks ten years ago was the leading player, and he has maintained his supremacy ever since.

Even sectional championships have been generally held by experienced players throughout America. The Pacific coast is the one section in which youth has frequently succeeded in toppling the old-timers from the place of honor.

Sam and Sumner Hardy, Melville H. Long and Maurice McLoughlin all gained the coast championship before they had attained the age of 17 years. This does not show that our men are likely to go back sooner than those of other sections, but rather that our players can rarely afford to continue the hard practice necessary to maintain their positions after they finish their school and college life.

In the Eastern States many of the experts are so situated that they can suit themselves in this respect, and where this is the case they make a good showing against the younger players who try to dispose them.

California players, however, have strong hopes that this year one of their star youngsters will walk away with the blue ribbon of American tennis, and a strong delegation will be sent East after the national championship.

The Eastern tennis journals, in discussing the possibilities of the "young blood," have come to the conclusion that the thrills of the game will be furnished almost exclusively by the young Californians, and agree that without them the last two seasons would have been devoid of interest.

Totals—Returned $3,409,176, assessed, $4,463,297; difference, $1,054,121.

The Polo Season.

For some weeks past the polo enthusiasts have been putting in some strenuous practice every Saturday afternoon up at the Sunnyside polo field. Maui always sends a crack team to Honolulu, for the inter-island championship matches, and from all appearances the team this year will be the best ever sent out of Maui. The team as chosen will be: No. 1, A. W. Collins; No. 2, Harold Rice; No. 3, F. F. Baldwin; No. 4, Dave Fleming.

Many new men have come out this year, and while none of them have shown speed enough to make the team, still they are all working strenuously on the second team, in an effort to give the first team the hard practice they need in order to perfect their play.

When the Maui team comes back with the championship the second team will share in the triumph, as they will have the satisfaction of knowing it was their untiring efforts which helped make the team what it is.

Maui has always gone on the field well mounted, but this year they are better off in this respect than ever. Several new ponies are being worked and when the championship series is played these new ones together with the tried veterans will have the speed to carry the team to victory.

Prominent Chinaman Dies.

Sunday night, the 5th, Tam Sing, a well-known Chinese merchant, died at his home in Makawao of hemorrhage of the lungs. Several years ago he suffered severely from pneumonia and since then has never been in robust health.

He was born in Canton, China, about 59 years ago and came to Makawao thirty-three years ago as bookkeeper for Tam Yau, who had established a general store three years previous. Later Tam Yau, Tam Sing, and Tam Chong formed a partnership and conducted a thriving business in Makawao until several years ago when Tam Sing bought out his two partners and became sole proprietor.

He is survived by a widow and thirteen children. He was a member of the Hawaiian Lodge of Knights of Pythias, a delegation of its members being present at his funeral.

The funeral services which were largely attended by all classes and denominations were held in the new St. Joseph's church, at Makawao, Rev. Father Rodrigues of Paia officiating.

Though Tam Sing did not openly become a Christian until the night of his death, his conduct whether in public or private, in family or business life seemed always to have been based upon Christian principles. His amiability of character caused him to make many friends.

Wm. A. Conway Passes Away.

An old and respected resident of Maui, Wm. A. Conway, died last Thursday, May 2, at his home in Waikapu. About two years ago Mr. Conway underwent an operation and since that time he has never been robust health.

Mr. Conway was born in Hilo, in 1860. He was educated in Hilo and Lahaina. After leaving school he worked for many years as freight clerk on the different Inter-Island boats. He was the first lighthouse keeper at Maalaea bay, and served as steamship agent at that point for 18 years.

In 1885 Mr. Conway married Mary Poepoe Silva of Waikapu. One son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Conway, who died of pneumonia while attending the Kamehameha Preparatory School in Honolulu, in 1902.

Mr. Conway was a man of quiet disposition and highly respected by everyone with whom he came in contact. He leaves a widow and two sisters to mourn his loss.
