VOL. XIV. No. 2599 HONOLULU, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1903 PRICE 5 CENTS

IS UP TO DOLE

Rumors of the United States District Judgeship cablegram received in Honolulu will not down.
This morning the rumors were set at rest by a cablegram to W. O. Smith, stating that the position had been offered Mr. Dole and the Governorship goes to Carter if Dole accepts.
Though Mr. Dole and Mr. Carter both deny having received any message regarding the appointment, to this important office, positive assertions are still made that intimations were received direct from headquarters that the unexpired term of the late Judge Estee is at the disposal of a Honolulu citizen and official. The general sentiment about town seems to be that Judge Estee's successor will be named by the senior Senator from California, Perkins, or, if he is not so named, there will be trouble in the Republican camp, as the United States Senators are particularly jealous of their patronage, especially just preceding a Presidential convention and election.

Kauai Returns After An Unsuccessful Attempt To Salve Stranded Ship

The French bark Connettable de Richmond can not be salvaged. Although she is perfectly intact, it is said, her position is such that it would be impossible to pull her off.
News to this effect was brought to town this morning by Captain Haglund, port captain of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company, who commanded the Kauai on her trip to French Frigate Shoals. As stated by the Bulletin yesterday, the Kauai returned to the island of Kauai yesterday after a fruitless mission. Captain Haglund arrived in town this morning on board the steamer Ke Au Hou.
He very obligingly furnished a Bulletin reporter with full particulars regarding the trip of the Kauai and the state in which the Connettable de Richmond was found. The captain also furnished a couple of rough diagrams which plainly show the position of the stranded bark on the reef and the state she was in when the Kauai found her. Captain Haglund speaks as follows of the interesting trip:
"The Kauai left Honolulu on the evening of Thursday, October 22. She arrived at the French Frigate Shoals Sunday October 25 at 7 o'clock in the morning. The French Frigate Shoals is formed of a semi-circular reef running on a curve from North to South. The reef curves to the eastward. There is a heavy line of surf breaking constantly over this reef.
"In the middle of this great curved reef and on the inside of the curve is a minor reef running almost parallel with the main reef and joining it with its ends. Dotted on this reef are several small sand islands. These are absolutely barren.
"The smaller reef forms a little cove at its southern end close to the place where it joins the main reef. In this little cove the Connettable de Richmond was lying. The hollow of the great curve formed by the main reef is dotted promiscuously with hidden and protruding rocks and other similar menaces to navigation. The famous large rock lies almost in the line drawn from the two points of the main reef. It is a little nearer the southern point than to the northern one."
The Kauai arrived at the northeast side of the reef at 7 o'clock in the morning. Although she was close to the north end of the main reef Captain Haglund preferred to steam all the way around the great curve formed by the reef to enter the hollow of the curve by rounding the southern end of the reef. His main reason for doing this was to avoid steering with the sun in his eyes as would have been the case had he chosen the shorter route around the northern point. It would have been almost impossible to steer in safety among the many dangers offered by hidden rocks and reefs with the sun glaring on the water and in the eyes of the navigators.
The Kauai steamed around the curve

Cabinet Discusses Hawaii Judgeship

Mokuaweoweo's Fires' Increasing Grandeur

(Special to the Bulletin.)
Hilo, Oct. 27.—A small regiment of people from Kona, including Allen Wall of Hilo, made the ascent to the Mauna Loa crater last Wednesday via Greenwell's dairy without mishap or misfortune. Allan Wall, who has seen Kilauea in her splendor, says that Mokuaweoweo is surpassing all records in the way of dazzling lava eruptions in the islands. "There are more fountains and geysers," said Mr. Wall, "than I ever saw at Kilauea. The nine big centers of action, from our near view on the Kona side presented a sight never to be forgotten. We were at the crater all through Wednesday night, October 27 and there was no let up in the activity. We had the rare pleasure of witnessing the downfall of a big cone that had been built up at the Kona side of the lake of fire. When it was destroyed, chunks of fire and showers of sparks and spiral columns of fire were scattered in every direction. The boom and roar that followed this upheaval of fire was like a cannonade of rumbling thunder. Jets of fire shot up from many portions of the crater bed."
The biggest party to yet make the ascent was this party from Kona, who

TOURISTS AND BUREAU

The stay in this port yesterday of the big liner Siberia with the great number of tourist passengers on board, gave a fair test of the Hawaii tourist bureau in working order. The bureau was visited by the visitors, who seemed to appreciate its services to the full extent. Directions were given for the best of drives, trolley rides, sights to be seen, etc., and the strangers made the office in the Young building their rendezvous. It is estimated that about 100 people visited the bureau yesterday.
One direct result of the work of the Promotion Committee was noticed in the case of Dr. R. H. Crunden, who is conducting a party of tourists traveling to the Orient in the Siberia. Dr. Crunden made the request that photographs, letterpress, etc., on Hawaii be forwarded to his New York office for use in his folders and advertisements.

MAUNA LOA RETURNS

The steamer Mauna Loa arrived from Kau, Kona and Maui ports this morning at 5:26 o'clock with 326 bags coffee, 252 bags taro, 112 bunches bananas, 52 bundles fish, 49 bags awa, 30 head cattle, 25 kegs butter, 15 kegs, 19 hides, 11 cases fruits, 3 crates chickens.
The following sugar is reported at Hawaii ports ready for shipment: Punahele, 600 bags; Honokaa, 3,000; Honouliuli, 2,000; Kukuhaele, no report.
It is worth anyone's while to go to the dance of the Abahini Iolani at the Young Hotel tomorrow night, beginning at 8 o'clock. In the first place, the object is charity, and in the second place a fine time is promised. Tickets are selling very rapidly.

SAMPAN BLOWN UP

Kawamura, a Japanese fisherman, had his sampan blown up by dynamite Wednesday night. The work was evidently done by some enemy. When Kawamura left his sampan on the night mentioned it was tied to the end of the Channel wharf in good order. The next morning it had disappeared. He finally found the remains by the Inter-Island wharf. It had been blown almost into fragments.

KALUA'S GRAND JURY A WARM ONE

WAILUKU, Maui, Oct. 29.—In the case of Jesse K. Kahe vs. Maria Espinda, an action for damages, the jury last Saturday rendered a verdict for the defendant. This was the last case on the calendar for the term and there being no further business before the court the court, at about 4:30 p. m., adjourned until Tuesday morning, at which time the grand jury expected to file their report.
On Tuesday morning immediately after the opening of the court Judge Kalua called in the grand jurors, and in reply to the court stated that their labors have not been completed and asked for further time; the court then directed that they file their final report Wednesday morning, failing that they will be discharged. In the meantime the Attorney General's office was direct accusation against this grand jury that they are trying to prostitute the power in their possession for political purposes. To this accusation we wish to make a most emphatic denial! In no way, form or shape has this grand jury exercised its power in any political matter.

"Your Honor has been pleased to make a somewhat personal matter in regard to the investigation of your own court, but we can assure you that there are very strong grounds for the action taken by the grand jury, and such grounds still exist, but, as formerly stated, you have limited our time, so that we are totally unable to finish our investigations in this matter."

Court Makes Answer.
In reply to the above the court said: "In the matter now before this court, relating to the report of the grand jury, it is the opinion of the court that, having been in session since the 14th day of the present month, sufficient time was devoted to dispose of certain matters concerning the public has been acted upon and should be reported."

"Now the matter yet to be acted upon and investigated, as stated in the report presented, is that which refers to the clerk's office of the court. It is the opinion of the court, that, if the grand jury have grounds for believing any irregularities exist in this department of the judiciary, then it is proper and it is the duty of the grand jury to report that they have reason to believe that such irregularities exist; and on receipt of this information, it will then be the duty of the court to direct and order the Auditor of the Government to examine all records and account books of the office under suspicion, according to law. From the findings of the Auditor, if grounds present themselves that will warrant indictment being found, the grand jury will be charged accordingly."

Order to Jury.
"Now, therefore, the grand jury is hereby ordered to report all matters and things already acted upon by them and not yet presented to this court; and upon all matters under suspicion and which require experting of the accounts; the grand jury is hereby ordered to also report to this court the existence of any and all irregularities existing in any of the departments, with such recommendations as the grand jury may deem best to make to this court."

A Final Report.
This morning (Thursday) the grand jury filed their final report as follows: "To the Hon. J. W. Kalua, Presiding Judge of the Circuit Court, Second Circuit.

"We, the undersigned grand jurors of your honorable court, beg to make our final report as follows:

"We have investigated 11 cases; We have found true bills in the following cases: (1) Territory of Hawaii vs. Kobihi Harataro, assault and battery; (2) Territory of Hawaii vs. Joe Ambrose, assault and battery; (3) Territory of Hawaii vs. Francisco Quirasi, burglary; (4) Territory of Hawaii vs. Inai, embezzlement; (5) Territory of Hawaii vs. Ikona Kula, assault and battery; (6) Territory of Hawaii vs. Fujiwara, abduction.

"And in the following cases we have failed to find a true bill: (1) Territory of Hawaii vs. J. K. Kaupa, Kaili and Keana, burglary; (2) Territory of Hawaii vs. J. D. Holt Jr., manslaughter; (3) Territory of Hawaii vs. Toyo Kanaka, larceny; (4) Territory of Hawaii vs. Ah Len, assault with deadly weapon; (5) Territory of Hawaii vs. Tono, unlawful imprisonment.

"In regard to your honor's charge to the grand jury relative to the gross immorality amongst members of the police force of Wailuku, the grand jury appointed a committee of six to investigate these matters, and such committee has reported to the grand jury.

"We attach herewith the report of said committee, and embody it as a part of our final report.

"The recommendations by that committee in regard to the members of the police force, your grand jury thoroughly endorsed, and would ask the court to use its jurisdiction to have this recommendation carried out.

Police Force Slack.
"It is evident to this grand jury that the police force of Wailuku are very slack in their duties. There have been complaints made by citizens living here in Wailuku in regard to many annoyances which is claimed have been reported to the heads of the police force, but no action seems to have been taken in the matter.

"The police force is for the protection of the public, and it is the duty of that department to see that the people are not insulted or annoyed by the misconduct of others, such as urinating in the public streets or making indecent exposure of themselves.

"There is also a matter of astrays in the public streets, whereby private citizens have been annoyed, and their property destroyed, and it would seem to this grand jury that it is the part of the police force to see that the streets are kept clear from these wandering animals.

Lack of Discipline.
"The whole police force of this circuit shows a lack of discipline.

"There has been a complaint made to this grand jury about Government officials receiving more salary than allowed by law. We have investigated this matter, and find that there are no grounds for complaint.

"The grand jury has spent considerable time in investigating the books and accounts of the clerk of this court. We have found everything in a most unsatisfactory state, and as your honor charged us yesterday, we would request that the court direct and order the Auditor of the Government to examine all the records and accounts of the office under suspicion, according to law. We also recommend that the clerk of the court be suspended from all official duties, until such time as the books and accounts are found to be in order.

Recommendations Ignored.
"This grand jury would respectfully call the court's attention to the fact that in past terms the grand juries have met, made reports, recommendations, etc., etc., which have been entirely ignored. If this is going to be continued, it is useless for the Government to go to the expense of having a grand jury to investigate public matters.

A Complete Farce.
"The thing as it is at present is nothing more or less than a complete farce!

"Just who is to blame for these things we do not know, but we would ask this honorable court to have it brought to the attention of the proper officials, and as far as possible have the recommendations of the grand juries carried out.

Jurors Not Paid.
"The grand jury would call your honor's attention to the fact that the jurors and other creditors of the court for the December, 1902, and June, 1902, terms have not been paid until the present time. We questioned the Treasurer of the Territory in regard to this matter, and he informed us that the money had been available since last July, but from neglect or otherwise on the part of the clerk of the court, the vouchers have not been sent to Honolulu in the proper shape.

"During this last week some of the jurors of these terms, that is December and June, have been paid; others have not, and just why the clerk of the court has seen fit to make this distinction we do not know.

Bills Owing.
"We are informed that there are bills owing at Lahaina to people in business there. These things are not as they ought to be, and brings discredit upon the Government and court.

"We have received a letter from Mrs. Anna Gertz of Honolulu, making complaint and charges against Deputy Attorney General Magoon, but as we do not think that the matters are within our jurisdiction we have let this thing pass.

"There has been a complaint made to us about the collection of garbage around the streets of Wailuku. We would recommend that the road department have two prisoners detailed daily to attend to this work.

"We, the members of this grand jury recommend that the clerk of this grand jury be paid for his services as clerk at the rate of $5 per day.

"Respectfully submitted,

Committee's Report.
"To the Foreman of the Grand Jury, Second Circuit Court, October Term.

"We, the undersigned members of the grand jury, appointed as a committee, have investigated the following matters and have to report:

Menace to Public.
"1st. At two points on the roads leading to the Wailuku depot, a corporation by the name of the Wailuku Sugar Company have constructed railroads across the above mentioned streets or roads. At the last sitting of the grand jury it was recommended that the said Wailuku Sugar Company should at once be instructed to have flagmen stationed at these roads to notify passersby should any trains or cars be running at the time. Said Wailuku Sugar Company has paid no attention to and has apparently treated the matter in a contemptuous manner, placing the former grand jury in the light of having no authority whatever. We therefore recommend that this matter be taken up in a strenuous manner, and, if possible, the Wailuku Sugar Company shall be made to answer why it has not followed the instructions given. We also recommend that the Wailuku Sugar Company be forced to see that the flagmen are stationed at the above points whenever trains are run, which apparently would be during their grinding seasons. This is a menace to public safety, and is also to the interests of the Wailuku Sugar Company, as in case of accidents arising the said Wailuku Sugar Company would be held accountable.

Close Up Tank.
"2d. In the rear of the Wailuku Sugar Company (rear of their office) is a large covered molasses tank. The same measures approximately 30 x 30. It is covered by rotten boards, and when full of refuse molasses the stench which issues therefrom menaces the health of any person or persons within a radius of half a mile. This tank especially menaces the health of the small children who attend the school opposite the Wailuku Sugar Company's premises. This tank is on a level with the ground, and a child at any time might attempt to cross on the rotten boards, in which case it would result disastrously. We recommend that this tank be closed immediately.

Waihee Roads Bad.
"3d. Waihee Roads. This road is in the most pitiful state, occasioned by the fumes that cross the road, and by the overflow which comes down in numerous ditches from the uplands owned and controlled by the Wailuku Sugar Company. In one place a hole 15" x 15" was found in one of the flumes built across the road, almost in the center of the road. This hole was about 2' deep. Were a horse or man to step into this hole it would result disastrously. All along this road the flumes were composed of rotten and miserable material. Pools of water were occasioned by the overflow from rotten and ill-conducted flumes. A piece of board is handed in to the bailiff of this court as a sample of what the material is like that is used for building purposes for the flumes. This piece of wood was taken from the above mentioned hole, after which the hole was filled up by this committee with rocks, in order to avoid any accident. We recommend that this road be at once put in proper repair by the Wailuku Sugar Company, whose fault it is, and that they be made to pay all charges connected with repairing the same, should the Road Board be compelled to put it in order.

As to Hacks.
"4th. We have investigated the matter of hacks. We find that the rules and regulations governing hacks, their fares, etc., etc., are not being lived up to at all. Hack drivers and proprietors of the various stables are in the habit of charging whatever they please, irrespective of the proper charge. We recommend that a copy of the rules and regulations governing hacks be placed in every vehicle, in order that people using the same can find out what is the proper charge. The majority of the hacks in and around Wailuku are in a very poor condition, and are really unsafe. We recommend that the police department see that each and every hack is in proper condition. In a number of instances we found drivers without their proper badges, showing that they are not licensed to drive. It is entirely wrong that the lives of the people of this community and visitors should be placed in jeopardy by not having proper men to drive the hacks.

We find many of the Japanese hack drivers who actually do not know on what side of the road to keep.

Obstructing a Street.
"5th. The obstructing of Market street in Wailuku we find an increasing evil. The peddlers and fish mongers infest this district, blocking the street, and thereby menacing the public at large. Offensive odors also menace the people living in and around Market street. We recommend that a suitable market be built in some central location, to be used by these fish mongers and other peddlers. Two locations have been pointed out to us, one back of Antone Dorba's store and in front of the Maul Stables. Here there is a large lot and a suitable market should be built here such as already exists at Hilo. The people using this market should be made to pay rent for their stalls, and we feel confident that the rent thus taken in would very soon pay for the entire building. Our examination in this respect included the questioning of our Fish Inspector, Mr. Wm. Kukona, by having the greater part of the fish sold from this market. It would enable this Fish Inspector to examine the same. He could see that they were fresh, and we feel sure that thereby the public at large would be saved considerable sickness; especially the ignorant classes. Plans for this building have already been submitted the Board of Health, and we recommend that they be approached immediately by the proper authorities and be requested to take the matter up.

"6th. This committee appointed by the Grand Jury made a partial investigation of the roads in and around Lahaina. The road leading from Lahaina to Kaanapali should in some places be laid in better repair. In one location the Pioneer Mill have a railway track running parallel with the road. There is no fence between it and the road. Although we cannot say for sure, yet we feel that this railway is partially on the road; if not then it is so close as to prove a menace to people driving there. It should be removed entirely or a dividing fence should be erected immediately. Some serious accidents are bound to result if it remains in its present condition. The roads back from the main street in Lahaina require immediate attention. We understand that this matter has been taken up several times before, but the matter has been ignored entirely. Is it the policy of this government to ignore the requests and recommendations of its duly appointed grand jury? If so, wherefore the good of a grand jury? "The place we were directed to investigate by our foreman, Mr. Searle, a portion of the road from Lahaina to Kaanapali, where the track has been laid by the Pioneer Mill Co., along the road for a certain distance and across same, was examined. We find that the same has been recently removed, in violation of the intentions of this grand jury having reached the Pioneer Mill Co., before the said grand jury could arrive.

Immorality Charge.
"7th. In the matter of George Cummins, charged with immorality, and in the matter of Clement Crowel, charged with gross immorality:

"These charges being of such a grave nature this committee gave them the most thorough investigation. The following witnesses were examined: Nellie Birch, Lizzie Cockett, Ah Hoy, Ah Loy, Namaka Okaha, Maria Low, Joe Cockett, Ah Loy, Haggie Keana, Crock, M. Kaomaha, Welsh (Bailiff), Minglel Presser, John Ferreira, Charley Bailey, Mikee, Nichols, Kamamura, George Kinlau, Emma Cummins, Mrs. McKay, Hanah, Hanah Kanokukohole, Manoni Fausteno, Antone de Iego, W. Court Expresses Thanks.
The Court before discharging the jury, addressed them in words as follows:

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury—I thank each of you for having undertaken to perform the said duties in a manner most satisfactory and pleasing to the Court, as your report shows. In discharging you for the term it may be that some of you may be empaneled again, in which case the experience you have gained at this session may enhance the usefulness of the institution of the grand jury in your midst, and make it an institution of justice and equity and not one of oppression. Gentlemen you are discharged for the term.

Suspension of Clerk.
The Court, after thanking the grand jury, stated that he will take up at once the recommendation with regard to the suspension of the Clerk, and that it will communicate with the auditor's office, as to the other matters the police department and the road department will be advised of the recommendations made by the grand jury.

In Memory of Estee.
Immediately before adjourning this morning Mr. Case arose and moved the court for the appointment of a committee to draft resolutions in memory of the late Morris M. Estee and said committee to report tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The committee appointed were D. H. Case, James L. Coke and Judge W. F. Crockett.

W. S. Fleming, who is up here upon request of the grand jury, delivered an address in memory of the late Morris M. Estee, after which the court adjourned until tomorrow morning to receive the resolutions of the committee.

MOVES FOR JUDGMENT.

In Henry Smith vs. Hamakua Mill Co., judgment, defendant moves for judgment non obstante verdicto on the following grounds:

1. That on the plaintiff's own showing, and if there were no evidence for the defendant, the plaintiff would be entitled to no more than one undivided eighth of the ahupua of Kohalaole, and not an undivided fourth thereof as claimed by him and found by verdict of the jury. 2. That upon the undisputed and uncontradicted facts shown by all the evidence in said cause, a transcript whereof is part of the record herein, the defendant's defense of statute of limitations was and is fully sustained, both in fact and in law.

BASEBALL TOMORROW.

A meeting of the Baseball League was held at the usual place yesterday afternoon. Secretary Andrews presided. President Isenberg being unable to be present. F. M. Brooks, A. E. Murphy, F. E. Steere, Nani Lemon and Henry Vierra were present at the meeting. It was decided to play the first of the series of combination team games at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the regular baseball park. ALLEGES FRAUD.

Judge De Holt yesterday made an order remitting advance costs to Kalia in her suit against the James Campbell estate trustees. The order was made on an affidavit showing plaintiff to be aged and infirm and without means. Kalia's suit is for restitution of property with $10,000 damages. She declares that the late James Campbell forced her to sign a deed of the property to him, in the office of Cecil Brown, in 1892.

Men sincerely interested in the due protection of property, and men sincerely interested in seeing that the just rights of labor are guaranteed, should alike remember not only that in the long run neither the capitalist nor the wage-worker can be helped in a healthy fashion save by helping the other.—President Roosevelt.

A REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLE.

The Bulletin must confess that it has not been impressed with the bond wonders accomplished by Secretary Carter. His friends have harped on the "Presidential friendship" string in a way that smacks more of monarchy than republicanism and if the President were acquainted with the uses to which this "friendship" is put by Carter's friends he would become disgusted with the friends if not Carter himself. Credit where it is justified is what The Bulletin seeks to bestow, and a matter brought out in Monday's conference on the conduct of the county elections, though incidental, is more worthy of comment and commendation than all the bond-play or Presidential luncheons in which Carter could possibly indulge. Secretary Carter made known at this conference what he had done to assure as nearly as possible the fulfillment of the time-honored Republican principle of an honest vote and an honest count.

CHILDISH KNOCKING.

Editor Evening Bulletin:—Is it not about time that a protesting voice be raised against the childish and absurd attacks that the morning paper is making against the Tourist Promotion Committee? In the way of raising a tempest in a teapot, the editor of the Advertiser is easily first—in fact, is in a class by himself. If the Advertiser would devote a larger portion of its space to news, and less to the airing of the personal spite of its editor, it would suit its readers much better. Possibly the Promotion Committee would have done better if they had used the words "Snowy Peaks" instead of "Snowy Slopes". Is a small error, which does not amount to a row of beans, enough moment to fill our morning journal with columns of ignorant sarcasm? I say ignorant advisedly, for in one of the earlier editorials on the subject, as near as my recollection serves me, the editor, referring to the much-discussed "Snowy Slopes", said that one "might as well talk of the flowery vales of Labrador".

This was, of course, intended as sarcasm, but, as a matter of fact, the "vales of Labrador" in the summer months are the most wonderful flower gardens in the world; in fact, as far as flowers go, there is no portion of Hawaii not that approaches it. The Advertiser seems to think that if we publish to the world the fact that we have fine hotels, electric cars, beautiful drives and palm trees that tourists will be chartering steamers to get down here. What rot! The average tourist wants more than that. He wants to see native life, grass houses and the hula-hula. Oh! shades of the missionaries, raise your hands in horror, but it is a fact nevertheless. Thousands and thousands of the wealthiest of tourists are fond of mountain climbing. The stability of Switzerland may be said to depend upon devotees of the spiked shoe and the alpenstock. If we advertise the fact that we have great mountains, 14,000 feet high, where one can go from the foliage of the equatorial tropics to ice and snow between daylight and dawn we will most assuredly get a class of tourists that we would not get in any other manner.

There is, of course, gross ignorance concerning Hawaii in the world at large, but 99 per cent. of the wealthy civilized class, who compose the tourists, know that we are in the tropics and that they are in no danger of blizzards or Arctic winter if they come down here.

If the editor of the Advertiser would only realize that he is running a big paper and that said paper should be devoted solely to furnishing news to its patrons, together with wise, broad, able editorials on the important topics of the day, he would suit the public much better and would incidentally increase his circulation. From some of his utterances of late one would judge that if The Bulletin in an editorial said that heaven was a good place to go to, Mr. Morning Journal would take the other side of the fence. Honolulu will never take the place among cities that she should until we stop "knocking" and work together, shoulder to shoulder for the common good.

ONLY WATERMARKED BALLOTS ARE GOOD

Owing to the thoughtful precaution of Secretary of the Territory George R. Carter there is no danger of any but official ballots being used at the county elections next week. There is no opportunity for fraud as far as the possibility of illegally prepared and printed ballots are concerned.

In arranging for the printing of the ballots Secretary Carter ordered a special paper made in San Francisco and he ordered just so much of that paper which, when manufactured, was sent here, every pound of it, nothing being retained, so that there is no chance of any of the paper getting into the hands of anyone having no right to it.

This paper is watermarked so that each printed ballot, when examined, is found to have running through its length a number of parallel lines. Should any ballot be found without this peculiar watermark it would be immediately known that something was wrong and the fraud could be quickly traced.

This precaution was Secretary Carter's idea and he made all arrangements for the manufacture of the paper before he left on his bond mission in the east. What little paper was left over after the necessary ballots had been printed is now under lock and key in the office of the Secretary.

Now that the day of the election is so near, various and, in some cases, peculiar questions arising in relation to manner of voting, way of marking ballots, counting, rejecting and one thing and another, are coming in to the Secretary's office thicker than ever.

It is now suggested that the Secretary call a meeting of election inspectors in this county and allow these multifarious matters an airing so that the questions may be settled, if they can be settled, before the day of election.

The Bulletin contained an article recently to the effect that certain out-of-town voters were considering the advisability of marking their ballots with a blue pencil. They said they were good Republicans but that they had been accused, after the last election, of voting the Home Rule ticket. In the event of any such accusation this time these voters wanted to be prepared to prove, after the election, that they had voted the straight Republican ticket and so conceived the idea of marking their ballots with a blue pencil for future identification. At that time the Attorney General expressed it as his opinion that such marking would not be allowable.

This morning the Attorney General's department received a communication from a prominent voter on this very subject, inquiring as to what there was in the law, if anything, against using a blue pencil or any other kind of marker.

The Attorney General is considering the matter and will send his correspondent an answer. Section 69 of Rules and Regulations for Administering Oaths and Holding Elections on the method of marking ballots, says: "A voter shall designate his choice for senators and representatives by making a cross, thus, X, on the right hand side of the ballot in the space or spaces provided for such purpose, opposite the name or names of the candidate or candidates for whom he desires to vote."

"Making a cross" is all that is said relative to the mark itself outside of designating the form of the mark. It is not specified as to what instrument shall be used in marking, and it is believed by many that it makes absolutely no difference with what the mark is made as long as it is properly formed and placed in the right place.

Now there is an argument as to whether the cross shall be marked only in the space to the right of the name marked off by a perpendicular line on the ballot. There are two spaces, one in which the name itself is printed, the name by no means occupying the whole space, leaving a blank in which some voters might make the cross, mistakenly or not, and the other, a space adjoining the above, to the extreme right of the ballot. The question is whether a mark made in the same space in which the name is contained will constitute an error causing the ballot to be rejected. Some hold one way, some the other.

Another question is as to clerks to inspectors in the various precincts. One representative Republican suggests that all precincts in which there are over 200 registered voters should be allowed a clerk.

PEARL CITY IN CANE

Land Agent G. B. McClellan of the Oahu Railway & Land Co., when seen this morning in relation to the transforming of a portion of Pearl City into a field of sugar cane, news of which was exclusively published in The Bulletin the other day, had the following to say:

"For the last thirteen years or more the Oahu Railway & Land Company has been seeking to build up a residence suburb in the upper portion of the Pearl City tract. In order to realize this plan the railway has expended upwards of three thousand dollars every year in maintaining a system of waterworks there, and has also conducted a passenger service somewhat in advance of the requirements to induce people to go there.

"The persons who purchased lots in this tract, except a few connected with the railroad company, never improved their property. All improvements were made by people connected with the railway. The railway held on to the property in the hope that the Naval Station would be located on that side of the harbor, as Admiral Bradford originally recommended. Now the Naval Station, as actually located, is nearer Honolulu than the upper portion of Pearl City and we cannot expect a town site in the latter place.

"In consideration of these facts, the railway company has given up the hope of ever being able to establish a town site in the upper Pearl City tract. In giving up the idea, the loss to the railway is greater than the total loss of all holders combined. The railway is continuing special rates to lot owners in Pearl City, by the way, although its obligation in this respect expired two years ago.

"Now the site which has stood in waste and lantana, in upper Pearl City about 100 acres, for so many years, will be given over to agriculture instead of lying idle. Resident owners have joined in requesting the railway to exchange their lots above for lots on the Peninsula. This plan will be carried out next week. There are some forty or fifty property owners concerned.

"All holders of improved property have voluntarily agreed to sell at a satisfactory price.

"The land will be leased to the Honolulu Plantation Co. This company already has its ditches around the tract and can easily irrigate."

Tom McGiffin, the farmer-poet, who did not welcome the giving up of the glorious view obtained from his lot on the hill in upper Pearl City, has, it is understood, been provided for, although the deal is not yet closed. It is said he will be given in exchange for his present lot a place just below the Government road, from which he can enjoy a magnificent prospect.

INSPECTORS NEED
NO INSTRUCTION

Home Rule Leader Kalaokalani
his son, C. W. Ashford, David Notley, Charles Wilcox, J. K. Prendergast and others called on Secretary Carter yesterday afternoon in regard to the reviving of Attorney General Andrews on the matter of the over-marking of ballots. Senator C. L. Crabbe attended the conference, representing the Republicans.

The Home Rule delegation asked if any orders had been issued to inspectors of election in accordance with the Attorney General's opinion.

Secretary Carter knew nothing of the opinion, having only just returned from the Mainland in the Siberia. The opinion was explained to him.

The delegation held that would be unfair to reject ballots on account of their containing votes for more candidates than were to be elected to any particular office. They thought the law would be complied with if only the votes for the office in the case in which the error was made were rejected. All votes for offices relative to which the ballots were correctly marked should be counted.

Secretary Carter decided that he would make no ruling or issue any instructions to inspectors. He would in the meantime be bound by the opinion of the Attorney General but there was no necessity of instructions in the mat-

The service aboard the flagship Mauna Loa is something the Inter-island management may well be proud of. With such a set of officers, such a crew and such a corps of stewards, it is no wonder that the Mauna Loa is popular. On the trip from Hawaii and Maui, every stateroom was filled—in some instances, to overflowing—and mattresses had to be placed on deck for those who got aboard last.

among the arrivals from Hawaii in the Mauna Loa this morning, having come from Kapapala ranch, Kau, for the purpose of receiving the remains of their son Melville, who was accidentally shot in California last Saturday. Through the courtesy of Manager J. A. Kennedy of the Inter-island Co., the Mauna Loa was held a couple of hours at Honouapou for Mr. and Mrs. Monsarrat and the party that went down in the Iwaland Monday afternoon to break the sad news.

SHORT STORY FOR EVENING HOURS

SAW IT IN THE AGONY COLUMN

Neither of them—that is to say, neither Dick Beresford nor Olive Bassett—quite understood how the disagreement which had led to the breaking off of the engagement had come about, but then it so frequently happens that people who are fond of each other quarrel about nothing at all and wonder how they could have behaved so foolishly. Anyhow, the misunderstanding had arisen, and a certain gold ring, purchased by Dick only six weeks previously, had been returned to him by registered post, with a cold little letter that well nigh drove him to the verge of despair.

Another man in the circumstances would have refused to accept his conge and would have gone straight to his sweetheart's house and demanded reconciliation on the spot. But Dick Beresford was not as other men. Pride was his predominant fault, even as it was the fault of the girl he loved, and pride rose up in his path and barred all return, unless Olive made the first overture in the direction of reunion. Thus did it come about that two people were made intensely miserable, and doubtless would have remained so but for the intervention of an extraordinary incident which the lines that follow will endeavor to describe.

One evening, some six months after the cancelling of the engagement, Olive sat with her teacup in her hand, looking intensely woe-begone. Her mother, who was the only other occupant of the tea table, regarded her with an anxious expression.

"You look miserable, dear," she said softly.

"I am miserable," replied the girl. There was a short pause, and then Mrs. Bassett observed:

"Ever since you sent young Beresford away you have been anything but yourself."

Olive laughed bitterly.

"I wish I were anybody but myself," she made answer, putting down her cup with an abrupt gesture, "and better still, I wish I were dead."

"Olive!"

"Mother, it is the truth, I've nothing left to live for, and the days seem to me like weeks."

"It is your own fault. You dismissed poor young Beresford in a moment of temper, and now you are sorry for it."

"Sorry or not, it was as much his doing as mine. He had no right—positively no right—to use the words he did."

"I think you were both in the wrong, and if you were sensible you would write him a nice little note suggesting a reconciliation."

"I would sooner be burned alive first."

The girl's cheeks flamed, and she stamped the floor with her small feet so passionately that Mrs. Bassett looked up in alarm.

"I love Dick now as I have always loved him," she said presently, "but do you think I could ever humiliate myself to do what you advise? It's out of the question."

savagely to his chum, Jack Allingham, who sat in the adjoining armchair. "I shall really have to say something about it in the suggestion book."

"Seems all right to me," replied Allingham in a cheery tone. "There's something troubling you, Dick, apart from the whisky. Come, out with it, and let's see if I can help you."

Beresford was in that melancholy condition when a man seeks sympathy from the nearest available source, and encouraged by young Allingham's friendly manner, he decided to relate to that gentleman the incident in connection with Olive. He therefore proceeded to do so after some little hesitation, whilst the other man listened with a half-amused expression.

"Well," said Beresford at length, when the recital was concluded, "what do you think of the business?"

"I think you're a fool."

"Thanks for your candor, but your remark, whilst admirably forcible, is hardly helpful. I want your advice, not your abjurations."

"Advice! Great Scott, what's the use of asking for advice? Isn't the solution of the difficulty as plain as the head waiter's hint for a tip when he's given you an extra bad day's dinner? Write to the girl at once—or, better still, see her at once—and 'make it up,' as the kids say."

"Allingham, I can't do it."

"You won't, you mean."

"Can't or won't, it's all the same. When I was a boy I was thrashed for ten days running because I refused to admit that I was in the wrong, and I believe that the same old pride, or whatever it is, attacks in me still."

"Then the sooner you get it out of you the better, for that kind of pride causes more bother than half the other vices that flesh is heir to. Anyhow, I've given you my opinion and you must take it or leave it, as our pawnbroking friends say."

"I'm afraid," replied Beresford slowly, "that I shall have to leave it."

"The other man took up a newspaper and said no more, whilst Dick Beresford followed his example. Langulily raising a copy of the "Blade" from the floor, whether it had fallen from the sleepy hands of a fellow member, he perused the columns of that journal with anything but absorbing interest.

His eyes roved listlessly from page to page, and presently he lighted upon that section of the newspaper known as the "Agony Column." Presently his gaze became glued to the printed page, his heart beat like a steam hammer, and he leaped from his chair with a low cry of delight.

"Hello!" exclaimed Allingham, looking up sharply. "What's the matter?"

But Dick hardly heard the words, and had he heard them he would not have waited to answer his chum's question. Racing in the direction of the bathroom he flung himself into his overcoat, and then rushed down the club steps at breakneck speed.

A hansom crawling westward swayed towards him. Dick jumped in and shouted to the driver to drive "like Jupiter" to the address he gave him.

All the way Dick was hugging the club copy of the "Blade" to his heart, and was murmuring to himself in a delirium of newborn happiness.

"The dear, sweet little girl," he muttered, "how good, how kind of her to make the first overtures, whilst I, like a stiff-necked ass, have been hanging in the wind, too infernally proud to say a single word of apology."

With these and similar reflections the young man consumed the tedium of the long drive, and when at length the cab drew up at Olive's door he leaped out with alacrity and flung the man half a sovereign.

her now when she had abandoned all hope of seeing him again seemed to the girl wonderful, and a long pause ensued before she could trust herself to frame the first words.

"It was I who was guilty of folly, not you," she murmured, stroking his cheek gently; "it was I all the time."

But Dick would not hear of this. He vowed that he was the original sinner, and that whatever blame there was in connection with the disagreement should rest upon his shoulders. Thus did the two foolish mortals wrangle in loving accents, and it was not until the affair had been compromised by each allowing the other to admit that perhaps there was a tiny measure of fault on both sides that Olive asked shyly:

"Dick, dear, I—I want to ask you a question."

"Go on, my own pet."

"What was it that made you resolve to come to see me tonight?"

A puzzled expression swept over his features.

"I could not very well have done anything else," he made answer, "seeing that you hinted that if I came back everything would be all right again."

It was now Olive's turn to look puzzled.

"Hinted?—I don't understand," she murmured. "What hint did I give, Dick, dear?" He smiled and placed his hand on her shoulder.

"Why, you little goose," he cried, "surely you haven't forgotten your sweet advertisement in the 'agony column'?"

"In the 'agony column'?"

She echoed the words with pained surprise, and it was obvious that he was speaking to her in the language of enigmas.

"Yes; I came across it whilst glancing at the 'Blade' at my club this afternoon, and you may be sure I lost no time in coming after that. See, here it is."

He pulled forth from his breast the copy of the newspaper and pointed to an advertisement which read thus:

Dick—Forgive and forget. Perhaps I was wrong. Who knows? But let bygones be bygones and come soon to your sorrowing Olive.

A mighty flush came into the girl's cheek as she read the words.

"Dick," she breathed, "I—I never inserted that announcement. Until this moment I had never set my eyes on it, and I cannot for the life of me understand how it got into the paper."

"But I can," he replied with flashing eyes, as he threw his arms around her slender waist and pressed her more closely to himself—"I can!"

"You?"

"Yes. The affair is simply the result of a coincidence of names—a blessed and glorious coincidence. Some other couple named respectively Olive and Dick have quarreled just as we have quarreled, and the Olive of the advertisement, like a good sensible girl, as the first to say 'Come back!'"

SMART PEDESTRIAN SUIT

Here is a good suit to withstand wind and weather; a stylish, warm, useful costume. It is in dark and light grey Scotch mixture wool; the fine grey skirt clears the ground, the deep plaits being left free from the knees down. The smart, long basque coat is semi-fitting, and is lined throughout with grey silk. The collar and belt are of dark grey velvet. The simple, new hat of black velvet folds, with a plaque of white heaver felt, embroidered in black chenille.

BRYAN AND SILVER.
London, Oct. 15.—A Pekin dispatch to the Times describes a mysterious attempt to blow up the magazine of the British legation Tuesday night during a military ball. Wires were laid, but were not connected with the battery. At the same time the breechlocks and sights of a 4.7 gun were stolen, but have since been discovered in the native city.

The Times, after mentioning that such an outrage at the moment the officers were giving a ball might have had disastrous effects, points out the coincidence of this attempt with the British legation's recent refusal to attend the Empress Dowager's entertainment at the summer palace and thinks the coincidence suggestive.

METEOR ACCIDENT. TRANSPORT MOVEMENTS.

The Chronicle of Oct. 17 contains a story of the steamer Meteor's having been disabled temporarily. The Meteor was formerly well known here when the Globe Navigation Company was running its boats here. The Meteor was the first boat of that line to arrive here and at that time attracted considerable attention. The Chronicle states as follows:

A telegraph received here yesterday says that the steamer St. Paul passed the steamer Eureka with the disabled steamer Meteor in tow on October 26. They were bound for Dutch Harbor. The Meteor, as has been reported, sailed from Seattle on September 23d with a high cargo of coal and merchandise for Nome, but lost her propeller when 150 miles off Nome. A boat that put to land to report her condition reached Nome on October 8th, and since that time several steamers, desirous of getting a rich salvage reward, have been looking for the Meteor. The Eureka, now having her in tow, belongs to the same owners as the Meteor, and they will therefore avoid paying salvage.

been more so had it been placed by means of a lead line. The masts were lying almost horizontally. The Connettable de Richmond is almost wholly submerged in the water. The only part above the water line is her foremast head and the forward part of her deck from her foremast on to the bow. The rest of the vessel is completely under water. As the hatches have not been battened down water has entered the vessel and she is now practically completely filled.

The only section of the vessel not completely filled with water is the forward part. There is a small hatch in front of the foremast. This is open and the waves continually wash through it into the hold.

The masts of the vessel are lying almost horizontally. The foremast is above water, but only to such an extent as to permit of the men in the boat reaching up and touching it at all places. The mainmast is about half under water, the royal yard being two feet below the surface. The mizzenmast is entirely below water. Captain Haglund and his men had to get about on the stranded vessel in topsy-turvy fashion. While they waded easily up and down the masts they had to lower themselves down the deck by means of ropes.

Captain Haglund states positively that although the vessel seems to be absolutely intact it is an impossibility to float her, partly on account of the fact that she has capsized and is practically full of water. Even the work of taking off the most valuable parts of the vessel, such as her anchors, winches, etc., could not, according to Captain Haglund, be performed without the aid of a diver.

The port box anchor of the vessel could not be seen as she was lying over on her port side. The starboard bow anchor was lying right under the vessel itself. This fact corroborates the theory that the Connettable de Richmond was thrown over by heavy northerly wind which moved her farther up on the reef and thus capsized her.

Captain Haglund saw nothing of the anchors which are supposed to be holding the vessel's stern. Outside of a few minor objects, which the Kaula people brought along more as souvenirs than anything else, nothing was taken away from the bark by them.

Captain Haglund and his men left the last and only one which the Inter-Island Company would make to save the Connettable de Richmond. 'We had such weather last Sunday as you hardly ever see in that vicinity,' he said. 'The sea was just as smooth as Honolulu harbor and if anything could have been done with the vessel we could have done it then. You might be for three months at the French Frigate Shoals and never strike a day as perfect as that. This company has had a try at it, which is more than anyone else has done and we are not going to do anything more about it.'

STEAMER DAY AT THE HAWAIIAN HOTEL.

Four personally conducted tourist parties from Thos. Cook & Son's and other agencies passed through yesterday on the Siberia, en route for the Orient, and during the stay in port made their headquarters at the Hawaiian Hotel. The day was spent taking in the sights in and around Honolulu, and in the evening the Territorial band, under Professor Berger's able direction, gave a most successful concert in the band stand on the hotel grounds. The novelty of the scene, as usual, made a deep impression upon the visitors, each of whom carried away enchanting and lasting memories of the strains of Hawaiian melodies beneath the tropic foliage and soft hues of the many-colored electric lights.

In taking your lunch to work, do not carry your coffee in a half-pint bottle, for nobody will believe it. For the past 160 years the Royal Family of Britain has been identified with Free Masonry.

It is said that where one boy smoked occasionally ten years ago 500 smoke regularly today. The Connettable de Richmond at about 4 o'clock the same afternoon, having remained at the vessel a little over an hour. The pull back to the Kaula took only about twenty minutes, as the wind was in the boat's favor. Immediately on arriving aboard the Kaula the steamer started home, arriving at Kaula yesterday.

Captain Haglund stated this morning that the Kaula's attempt would be the last and only one which the Inter-Island Company would make to save the Connettable de Richmond. 'We had such weather last Sunday as you hardly ever see in that vicinity,' he said. 'The sea was just as smooth as Honolulu harbor and if anything could have been done with the vessel we could have done it then.
