MR. PETTIGREW ON COFFEE

The South Dakota Senator Foresees
Dearth of Labor for the Industry.

He Firmly Declines to Discuss Annexation—
Says the Treaty Will Not Come
Up in December.

Senator Pettigrew was met at the Hawaiian hotel office by a BULLETIN representative yesterday afternoon, on his return with Mr. Dubois, the former Senator for Idaho, from the island of Hawaii. Among messives awaiting the Senator for South Dakota was an invitation to dine the same evening with Minister Sewall at the United States Legation. This was gently pleaded, with other circumstances, in bar to a set interview, but when it was suggested that a few of the minutes then passing, of his limited time, would be a gratefully received sacrifice, the Senator kindly gave audience then and there.

"Yes, we have had a very pleasant trip. We saw all that was given us to expect. The weather was beautiful all the way round—could not have been better."

Asked if there had been opportunity to get a good look at the coffee lands, Senator Pettigrew answered in the affirmative, adding: "The industry looks very promising, and there is a good deal of land up there still to be developed. I am told that even above the timber limit there is much fertile land yet available for settlement."

"There is likely to be difficulty, however, about getting the necessary supply of labor for the coffee plantations. This will increase as more land is cultivated. With the large requirements of the sugar planters, it will not be easy for the coffee raisers to get all the labor they need."

"No, the planters are not confident on this matter. I have talked with them about it, and those on the larger estates, especially, are quite anxious over the labor problem."

Senator Pettigrew was asked if he had met with much of anything of the unexpected—industrially, socially or politically—in his visit to the Hawaiian Islands.

"No," he mused laconically in reply, with a defensive shake of the head. The interviewer, foiled in this maneuver, came to close quarters, thus:

"Are you prepared now, Senator, after seeing the country for yourself, to give your views on the main question?"

"No, I prefer not to discuss it for the present. I have given the subject much thought, but I am not prepared to state my views just now."

"The treaty will not be brought up in December," he replied to a further query, "not before some time in January."

"The Senator was asked if he thought the United States would incur any more responsibility from raising her flag over the islands than from continuing to proclaim her oldtime policy of preventing any interference in Hawaiian affairs from any other nation."

"I have never given any thought to that question," he answered.

"Say, about enforcing the neutrality of Hawaii in case of belligerency between two maritime powers?"

"I haven't thought of it," Senator Pettigrew said gravely. Then, after a moment's pause, he affably

CHESTER DOYLE'S MISSION

His Efforts to Promote Peace at Ewa
Plantation Thwarted.

Acting Manager Ferguson Takes Matters in His Own Hands and Causes All the Strikers Arrested.

Japanese interpreter Chester A. Doyle returned from Ewa this morning in a very disgusted frame of mind, but consented to tell a BULLETIN reporter the cause of his troubles. He said: "The facts of my trip are these: About noon yesterday I was asked by J. Gilman, representing the Ewa plantation company, if I would go down and see what the trouble was between the luna and the men. I told him I was subject only to the Marshal's order. At his request we went to Marshal Brown, who gave me the necessary authority to act. We then went to the office of Castle & Cooke, where I was furnished with a letter to the acting manager, Mr. Ferguson, which I suppose told of the object of my mission."

"I then hunted up the injured Japanese. Found him at a Smith street hotel nursing his arm. It had been broken at the wrist and set by Dr. Weddick, the plantation physician. I took him to Dr. Mori, who examined his arm, said it had been properly set and rebandaged it. Dr. Mori at my request then instructed the man, his name is Shimizu Wassuru, that I was representing the government and had nothing whatever to do with the plantation; that the government would see that his rights were looked after and that he and the other Japanese strikers might have full confidence in me. I then took the injured man and the three others who were left in town as witnesses to the station house, where I had some further talk and explained what I wished to do. They said they were willing to go back to Ewa with me and reason with the strikers. Marshal Brown then sent orders to the plantation to have the strikers meet the train at Pearl City and go on with us to Ewa depot. This was done and they boarded the train as directed."

"On reaching Ewa I took the four leaders into the office and explained to them that they had made a mistake in striking work and coming to town; that whatever trouble existed between the luna and the injured man was between themselves, and that the law provided the proper remedy therefor whoever was to blame. That they were liable to the plantation for deserting and making trouble, but as they were new men and probably not acquainted with the law no notice would be taken of the strike if they would agree to go to work this morning. This was agreed to at once by the five men for the strikers. I then reasoned with the man who was hurt and told him there was probably blame on both sides, that the luna and himself were too hasty and that it was better to settle these matters amicably than take them into court. I promised him on behalf of the plantation that he should have proper medical attention for his arm and that his time should run on until he was able to work again. He agreed to this.

"At this juncture Acting Manager Ferguson came in and, in spite of the letter I had given him, said he did not want any interference in plantation affairs, that he was running the plantation and that if any agreement was made he wanted another interpreter to represent him in making it. I told him the agents and the Marshal had sent me down to fix up matters and that they had confidence in me; furthermore, that the Japs had agreed to go to work and drop the whole case against the luna and that everything would be all right.

"Ferguson then said that he had had warrants prepared for the arrest of the whole lot, 81 in all, and that he intended to have them served. I again told him of my instructions and referred him to the letter from Castle & Cooke which was signed by Ed. Tenney. He flew into a rage and said Tenney and Gilman were not running the plantation, and that as long as he was acting manager he would be so. I asked him to communicate that fact by telephone to the office of Castle & Cooke and he did so there and then. I don't know what satisfaction he got.

"After that the warrants were signed and sworn to by him, and the deputy sheriff served them on the 81 Japanese. Then he wanted me to take the whole of them to Pearl City. It was then 5 o'clock and I refused to act in the matter any further. I telephoned the facts to the Marshal and to Gilman. The Marshal replied that such wholesale arrests were non-sensical; that there was no reason in taking the men to Pearl City as the jail would not hold them; as the warrants had been issued in proper form on a sworn complaint he could not interfere.

"By Ferguson's orders the men were marched off to Pearl City in a pouring rain, without being allowed to go to their quarters to get anything to eat or more clothes, reaching the jail at 9 o'clock. I don't know what became of them during the night. I insisted, however, on the Jap with the broken arm and his three witnesses remaining at Ewa, as they had come down with me, and finally they were allowed to remain. The injured man at once accused me of breaking faith with him and insisted on taking out a warrant for the arrest of McLeod, the luna. I again pacified him and promised that if he would be at the depot with his three witnesses this morning I would see that he should go with me direct to the Marshal, and he agreed to meet me.

"This morning at the depot they were missing. I asked Lennox, the policeman, where they were and he informed me that the Jap did not intend to prosecute and that he had no witnesses. I asked him where the men were and he said: 'You don't want to see them and I don't know where they are and everything is all right.'

"It is my opinion," concluded Mr. Doyle, "that the men are being prevented from leaving the plantation to lodge a complaint against McLeod, and that the men under arrest will get a bad deal, as their trial is set for this morning and they have had no time to get a lawyer or communicate with their Consul."

Marshal Brown was seen later. He said there was nothing to add to Mr. Doyle's story. He regretted very much acting manager Ferguson's interference in the matter and said he would have to abide by the consequences. "You may state," he said, "that I have this morning given my deputy sheriff explicit instructions to issue a warrant for the arrest of the luna if the Japanese make a complaint, but I can hardly be expected to search out the man and ask him if he wants to have his luna arrested."

No Reception to Pettigrew.
A plan of natives to tender a reception to Senator Pettigrew this evening fell through. The rain also killed a subsequent idea of a concert by the National band on the Hotel grounds. A general dance will be given at the caravanary from 8 o'clock, at which the Senator will receive such persons as care to meet him.

Will Begin Work Monday.
W. E. Rowell left by the Mauna Loa this morning for Hilo to superintend the work on the new wharf. By this time the material taken up by the Hawaii is on the ground, and the superintendent will begin active operations as soon as he arrives there, which will be Monday morning. The rest of the material will be sent up by the Hawaii on her next trip.

Gets Cheaper Each Day.
People are watching with interest the steady fall in the price of an aluminum wheel, now on exhibition in a window of the Hawaiian Cycle & Manufacturing Co. Five days ago it was held at $35, since when it has been reduced at the rate of a dollar a day. This morning the $30 mark was reached. If this process of reduction is continued somebody will soon get a very cheap wheel.

President of New Refinery.
George E. Fairchild, owner of the shoe store on Fort street, has been elected president and manager of the proposed new sugar refinery at Crockett, Cal. He was manager at Kordia and Kapaa of the Makee Sugar Co. before his son, the present manager. By arrangements already practically settled, the refinery will handle a large part of the Hawaiian sugar output in future.

Royalist Delegation to Date.
The royalists who will actually get off on the Gaelic to lobby against annexation are John Richardson, J. K. Kaula, Kalau Okalani and Wm. Auld. The others have declined to make the trip. Much of the work of the delegation will be put in between here and San Francisco.

Rain Stops Road Work.
This has been a holiday in the road department of the Government. Early this morning the workmen on various streets were driven indoors by the rain. Steam rollers and stone crushers were also laid up for the day. Unless heavier showers fall during the afternoon no damage will be done to the new roads about town.

If you want a nice phaeton or surrey for a Christmas present, with fine harness to match, call at Oahu Carriage Repository, in rear of Wright's Carriage Factory, Fort street, opposite Club Stables.

COMPRESSED AIR MOTORS

May Be Soon Used by the Hawaiian Tramways Company.

Description of High and Low Pressure Systems
Adapted to the Needs of This City.

There is nothing new in the use of compressed air, yet its introduction as a motive power has been somewhat slow. This was partly explained to the writer by one who has made a study of it with regard to its applicability to street railroads in this city. The explanation was that the air motor men were waiting for electricity to exhaust itself and get into public disfavor, claiming that the many advantages possessed by compressed air would eventually run electricity out of the field as a motive power. Briefly stated these advantages all center in the world economy. There are no poles required, and no extensive system of overhead and underground wires are connected with it; there is little or no danger in its use, it is more reliable, and it costs less to compress air than it does to generate electricity.

Above all, and this applies directly to the city of Honolulu, it can be applied to street railroads already in use without changing the rails.

While the authorities of the Hawaiian Tramways Company are very reticent as to their future movements, it is well known that they have in view the introduction of something better than mule power to propel their cars and that they favor compressed air as against electricity. To use electricity would require new rails and new cars besides an enormous outlay for poles and wires. By adopting compressed air all this expense is done away with; even the cars, old and dilapidated as they are, can be utilized with little change.

As near as can be learned the object of Superintendent Pain's visit to London is to make arrangements for the immediate introduction of compressed air on the local line, providing the Legislature will amend the charter of the Hawaiian Tramways Company. It is understood that a few changes are desired in the working of the charter, together with permission to extend the lines into Kapiolani park, the baseball grounds and similar places, and possibly to extend the Nuuanu street line around Judd street into King. Several of these improvements are talked of but of course nothing definite can be ascertained until Mr. Pain comes back. In return for these improvements and the substitution of compressed air for mule power Mr. Pain will ask for his company some such concessions as have been referred to, and there is every prospect that the Government and the Legislature will meet him half way.

Such being the case, a few words on the subject of compressed air will be of interest. Without going into the many and varied uses to which this power is now applied, such as in drilling, in mining and foundry work, pneumatic guns, pneumatic tubes for sending mail and parcels, attention will be confined to its use for municipal purposes only. The first compressed air company in England was started in Birmingham on a very large scale; the first in Europe was started in Paris. A short description of the work done by compressed air furnished by the Paris company will answer for both. Originally started by Victor Popp, the initiator of the system of operating docks by pneumatic power, the company has been so successful that it has since been doubled and quadrupled in power and extent and the demand for the company's air increased faster than it could supply its customers. Hundreds of private installations are worked with it. The Paris company drive nine electric light stations, the electric lighting of four theaters, ten cafes and hotels, the printing of the Figure and other newspapers and operate nearly 6,000 clocks, etc., etc. The air is carried in pipes under the streets of Paris and form a perfect network. These works have aroused the interest of scientific people all over the world, and they are being duplicated in many places.

Compressed air applied to street railroads was first introduced on the Continent in the city of Nantes, France, and has been giving excellent satisfaction ever since. The Mekarski high pressure system is used, and it is the system preferred for long distances and infrequent trips. In brief it consists of a motor supplied with several cylindrical receivers for storing the air at the high pressure of 450 pounds per square inch. These receivers are placed under the seats between the wheels of the cars, and carry enough air to run the cars at a speed of eight or ten miles an hour for a distance of about fifteen miles, when they are connected with the main or a storage supply and refilled, an operation lasting only a few seconds. The cars are quite heavy at the start, but become much lighter as the air is used. Those in use at Nantes are very heavy machines, weighing about 20,000 pounds unloaded and carrying sixty passengers seated.

There are several other high pressure systems in use, but all seem to have the same objections, they all require a great storage capacity, their machines are bulky, originally costly and expensive to operate and maintain. All these motors being charged with a pressure impracticable as a working pressure, a reduction is made to about 100 pounds before the air is admitted to the working cylinder, so that a loss of part of the energy occurs at the outset. Another loss occurs from the necessity of cooling the air which rises in temperature as it is being compressed.

The Pardy low pressure system consists in employing a number of light weight motors supplied with receivers to contain about fifty cubic feet of air at 100 pounds pressure per square inch. These receivers are placed on the car either on the sides, overhead or under the seats. Ordinary locomotive engine cylinders are carried under the floor of the car and connections are made directly with the car axles or wheels. There is an underground pipe placed between the up and the down track, four to six inches diameter, running the entire length of the line. At every 50 feet a branch from this pipe leads to the center of each track, these branches terminating in a peculiar form of a valved outlet two and one-fourth inches diameter opening at the street surface. There is a flexible nozzle carried on the car connected with the receivers, which nozzle the engineer pushes down into these street openings to open the valved outlets and form air tight connections with the receivers whenever he desires to replenish them. This operation requires about six seconds while passengers get on or off the car. The underground pipes are kept constantly filled by compressing machinery located anywhere near the route and shut-off valves are placed at intervals. The car is provided with a long slotted opening in its platform, where the engineer stands, through which the nozzle is inserted into the street opening, so that if the car stops anywhere within seven feet of the opening the engineer has full access to it.

Several street railroads have within the last seven years been built in Europe. Bernes in Switzerland completed one in 1890. Since then Paris and Berlin constructed theirs. London has a small high pressure engine to drive dynamos and the exhaust acts as a powerful refrigerator. The distribution of compressed air from a central station in Paris dates as far back as 1870. The same year the Western Union Telegraph Company in Chicago used it to send messages through pneumatic tubes, placed underground to the Chamber of Commerce across the street.

EVENING BULLETIN.

A. V. GEAR, - - Manager. DANIEL LOGAN, - - Editor.

FRIDAY, NOV. 19, 1897.

Editor H. M. Whitney, the Nestor of Hawaiian journalism, gives an unusually interesting number of the Planters' Monthly for November. Besides furnishing much matter of practical value for sugar and coffee planters, as well as general farmers, Mr. Whitney continues from last month his very engaging notes of travel in Canada and the United States. Those of Boston, New York and Washington are especially readable.

It can hardly be classed with the wickedness of the days of Noah to ask residents of these islands to receive with tranquil minds the prediction of a scientist that the group is going to be wiped out by a volcanic eruption. Predictions have also been made in late years that New York, the great American Babylon, was going to be submerged in the ocean. The daily perils of every son of Adam are at least as mandatory of putting our house in order against the end of our earthly career as are the contingencies of Nature's great convulsions. Charleston was wrecked by a terrible earthquake a few years ago without warning, and Honolulu, despite the professedly scientific alarm in question, may stand to become the metro polis of a new continent. Nobody knows. The Good Book's predictions are rather more favorable to the islands than to the ocean in the matter of endurance. Still, the Government might do well to stop making long leases of large tracts to big planting corporations, so that the people in general may have some little enjoyment of the land while it remains above water.

CO-OPERATION TO CONSOLIDATION.

Principal Charities May Now Combine Under One Management.

A further consultation between officers of the various charitable societies of the city, with respect to the question of co operation or consolidation, will be held next week. The proposition has now advanced beyond the mere plan of working together, and a large number of officers of the various societies are confirmed in the desire to effect a combination whereby the work may be carried on under one general head.

This applies to the white and native societies. The Chinese and Japanese succeed well with their own work and are disposed to continue alone. The Portuguese society will be aided, but will not be pressed to surrender its individuality. The American Relief Fund, British Benevolent Society, Strangers' Friend Society and kindred organizations are those to be directly affected.

The sermon of Mr. Birnie last Sunday was merely a means of presenting the matter before the public. It has been gratifying to those favoring the consolidation idea to receive general endorsement of the scheme from charitably disposed people of the community.

Bridal Party Leaves for Maui.

C. W. Diskey and bride, nee Kinney, sailed by the Mauna Loa this morning for Olinda, Maui, where their honeymoon will be spent. The happy couple were married at 8 o'clock yesterday evening at the residence of T. W. Hobron. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom and a few friends witnessed the ceremony.

Dry Weather in Kohala.

It is very dry in North Kohala, and has been so for a month. Some weeks ago about an inch of rain fell in a single day, since when there has been no fall to speak of. The case prospects in some quarters of the district are beginning to look decidedly gloomy.

GREAT OPENING SUCCESS

Frawleys Delight a Full House in Spite of Stormy Weather.

Old Favorites Improve on Renewal of Acquaintance—One of Honolulu's Best Assemblies—Saturday's Plays.

Frawleys had a large audience at the Hawaiian Opera House for their opening performance last night, notwithstanding that a heavy rainstorm raged without. Only the upper proscenium boxes and a few seats in balcony and gallery were unoccupied. Had it not been for the weather, undoubtedly the standing room sign would have been out before the curtain rose.

It was one of Honolulu's most brilliant assemblies in the body of the house, while the chief proscenium boxes were occupied respectively by U. S. Minister Sewall and Princess Kaiulani with parties. With the American Minister were Mrs. Sewall, Miss Carter, Miss Pauline Neumann, Sean or Pettigrew, Mr. Dubois, Commissioner Canavaro of Portugal, A. St. M. Mackintosh of the Foreign Office, and others. The Princess was accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Robertson, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Miss Widemann, Hon. A. S. Cleghorn and J. M. Monserrat.

The play selected for this opening of the season was "Christopher Jr., a comedy in four acts by Madeline Lucette Byley, and the cast of characters was as follows:

- Christopher Colt, Senior, an East Indian Merchant.
Frederick Perry
Mrs. Colt, his wife. Phosa McAllister
Christopher Colt, Junior, their son
Frank Worthing
Nelle, their daughter.
Eleanor Robson
Whimper, their man servant.
George McQuarrie
Job, valet to Christopher, Junior.
William Lewers
Major Hedway, a retired soldier.
Wilson Enos
Mr. Glibb, President of an Amateur Theatrical Club.
Harry Corson Clarke
Mrs. Glibb, his better half.
Selene Johnson
Bert Bellamy, a young lawyer.
T. Daniel Frawley
Mr. Simpson, Manager of the Bombay House.
George Bosworth
Dora Hedway, niece of Major Hedway.
Blanche Bates

Space forbids a detailed criticism of the performance. All of the favorites in the Frawleys' former season who appeared were greeted with ovations as each came out, and long before the final drop of the curtain it was realized that they acted better than ever. Mr. Worthing and Miss Bates, who carried the main burden of the story, were exceptionally bright, clever and easy. Harry Corson Clarke's part was exclusively pantomimic, but his single utterance—the exclamation "Hoor-y!" at the last climax—scarcely caused more intense mirth than what greeted him all the time he was in sight, and he was in evidence in each of the acts.

Nothing could have been desired in either makeup or acting of any of the performers. There are positively no "sticks" in the company. The stage setting last night was superb, particularly the Bombay bungalow. "Arabian Nights" is the bill for Saturday's matinee, and "Shenandoah," a Civil War play, for the evening performance.

PEOPLE SHOULD COME EARLIER.

Business Man Scores People for Reaching Opera House Behind Time.

"This way people have of arriving at the Opera House a half hour late delays the play, spoils the first act and has become a nuisance in general," said a prominent business man this morning.

His remarks bore on last night's performance, of course, but he is authority for the statement that Honolulu people are prone to reaching the play house at a late hour, thereby annoying those who have listened to the play from the beginning, and robbing themselves of much of the first act.

"Such a condition of affairs would not be tolerated for a minute in the States," he continued. "Over there when people arrive late they are compelled to wait outside until the act is finished."

Timely Topics

November 13, 1897.

Burglars are having quite a good time in Honolulu just now. So accustomed are we to take up a daily paper and find an account of another "Daring Robbery" that it is quite a disappointment after carefully going through the news of the day to find no mention of the usual crime.

Just who is responsible for this state of things is an open question. It is all very well to throw reason to the winds and accuse our police force of incapacity, etc., but the true cause is to be found nearer home. There are many persons who would not think of a criminal act, were temptation not placed in their way by the incautious acts of many of our citizens. Valuables are allowed to lie about in all places and at all times, and no care whatever is taken to secure them from curious eyes.

The true remedy is in a nutshell—or rather in a safe. The old excuse of "too expensive" does not hold now—a-a-days. We carry a selection of safes made by the first manufacturers in the United States in no less than 6 sizes, from the $15 "Baby" to preserve the family jewels, books, etc., to the largest office safe. All sizes are equally well made, strong and beautiful.

No one can afford to be without one—a safeguard alike from fire and the enterprising burglar.

SENATOR McCANDLESS' TRIP

Visits Honokaa Plantation and Gets Sea-sick Coming Home.
 Talks With the Visiting Senators on Annexation, Hawaiian History and Other Interesting Subjects.
 Senator John A. McCandless, who returned on the Kinau yesterday, was asked to say something of his trip to Hawaii.
 "Well," he answered, "I went to Hawaii mostly on private business, my objective point being Honokaa plantation. There I found everything in good shape. The cane was looking remarkably well and there was an abundance of it. There is every indication of a good crop, although it will not come up to some previous ones.
 "Yes, I talked with Senator Pettigrew and ex-Senator Dubois, or more correctly Loebenstein and I did the talking while the Senators listened. Both gentlemen appear to be anxious to acquire all the information possible, especially Senator Pettigrew. Judge Kepoikai was also on the steamer and Mr. Pettigrew seemed much interested in what he said, as their conversation lasted nearly all the afternoon.
 "As we were leaving the steamer Senator Pettigrew said that although he had been formerly opposed to annexation the conditions now existing were entirely different. His mind was not made up as to how he would vote and probably would not be until he had time to fully digest all that he saw and heard in Hawaii."

Record Run Declared Off.

STATE QUARANTINE ENDED.

California Legislature Will Probably Abolish It Next Session.

Collector Jackson of the San Francisco Custom House has announced that State Quarantine Officer Chalmers has given up the fight against the Federal Quarantine Department, and ceased to visit ships for the purpose of inspecting passengers. The United States Government has expended $200,000 in quarantine work in the bay of San Francisco, and is expending $20,000 a year to maintain it. Hence a State quarantine service at the expense of the taxpayers of California would be a waste of money.

It is expected that the Legislature at its next session will abolish the State quarantine altogether as a useless expense.

Sets a Noble Example.

Manager John C. Kirkpatrick of the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, has issued to each of the city newspaper interviewers a souvenir card containing an invitation tendering the courtesies of the grillroom and the wine cellar to the bearer and his family on Thanksgiving day.

A Stolen Eulogy.

It is now charged that Rev. Madison C. Peters' eulogium of Henry George at the recent funeral was stolen bodily from the eulogium of Alexander Hamilton pronounced in 1804 by Elphinstone, president of Union College.

BY POLICE AT CALLAO.

Inquiry here confirms the story coming from Lima to the effect that the State Department has lodged a demand with the United States charge of legation at Lima for the release of the mate of the American bark "Uncle John." He was ashore on December 19 last at Callao, and was arrested because of his constant demand for "Baldier Beer." On tap or in bottles at the Criterion Saloon.

Cycling Gossip.

An eminent physician has been giving his opinion upon the most suitable dietary for cyclists. He is reported in the New York Tribune as saying: "No nitrogenous food should be partaken of during violent exercise. Indeed, it is quite useless to eat, but it is beneficial to drink in order to replace the weight lost by perspiration."

Tea and milk are among the best liquids to take during a long run. Fruit, too, is exceedingly good, and wheelmen who are starting upon tours or who take all day runs will find themselves and their digestions greatly benefited by following this advice.

No greater mistake can be made than to partake of an extensive meal luncheon when an hour or possibly less is allowed for the midday halt. Instead of preparing the consumer for the afternoon run, its effects are quite the reverse.

Among the many eccentric ideas possessed by the emperor of Germany is his disapproval of women who cycle. He is said to be the only sovereign in Europe who does object to this exercise for his fair subjects.

Clear and Pretty Preserves.

Clear, attractive preserves of peaches, pears, plums or apples are most surely made by first preparing clarified sirup and then cooking in this a few pieces of the fruit at a time, carefully lifting each piece out of the sirup the instant it is done. In this manner the form of the fruit is not only preserved, but much of its flavor and freshness is retained.

Sirup may be made by allowing a pint of water to 2 pounds of sugar. Put into a porcelain saucepan over the fire and before the sirup becomes hot mix well into it the partly beaten white of an egg. When it begins to boil, remove the scum as it rises. Watch it constantly that it does not boil over and continue to boil it until no more scum rises. While this sirup is gently boiling drop in a few pieces of fruit at a time, leaving these in until they become soft. When done, take them out of the sirup, place in jars standing in hot water in a pan on the stove, fill up with the hot sirup and seal.

Information From London.

The debasing effect of Scott's lord and ladies is nowhere stronger than in young ladies' colleges in the United States. Girls there imagine that persons who live in old castles and sleep in rooms hung for hundreds of years with tapestry must be far above the ordinary level. Their dream is to become, through dollars and feminine charm, mistresses of these imposing abodes and bear the titles connected with them. An American lady married to a prosaic British nobleman with a euphonious title had filled her imagination with thoughts of Kentworth. She was more than disappointed to find that carls were not bearded and that a Howard could be a matter of fact plain person, fond of plain food and plain in all his ways.—London World.

CURRENT FASHIONS.

EXCLUSIVE DESIGNS IN SUMMER GOWNS AND SUMMER MILLINERY.

The brilliant reds, scarlets and purples with which the season began are decidedly on the wane, and gray is the color of the moment. White toiles are in vogue, white grenadines and canvas having the preference perhaps. A favorite combination of colors is navy blue and grass green.

A recent idea is that of wearing a gray skirt of some wool material with a fancy waist of lace and chiffon.

Tailor made skirts are becoming narrower and narrower, in contrast to the toiles of lighter materials which are gaining in width and bouffant effects, due to a multiplicity of ruffles, tucks and flounces. Mousseline, pique and gowns of all kinds of linen, thick and thin, trimmed with clusters of tucks and insertions of guipure and lace, are carrying away the honors. It is almost a necessity of modish that the skirt should be trimmed, and a favorite form is a deep gathered flounce from the knee, not put on straight, but waved, with trimmings of lace insertion above the hem and above the flounce, the same treatment appearing on the full bodice. In no previous season have gowns been so varied. The toilers is quite as much in fashion as it has ever been.

A charming gown, which embodies most happily the very latest modes in Paris, is carried out in heliotrope glauc silk, with a skirt of quite a new shape, trimmed round the hem with three straight flat flounces of glauc silk, bound with a narrow line of black velvet and edged with a border of cream guipure. The lowest flounce of the three falls over a pinked out ruche of heliotrope glauc silk. The front of the skirt is quietly arranged with a ladder of black velvet bows, similar bows being also used to trim one side of the bodice. Here again you find the flat flounces of glauc silk bordered with black velvet and cream guipure, and covering the lower part of the bodices, both back and front. The small square yoke and the long sleeves are of white silk, beautified with a very fine black lace applique and finished with full frills of satin edged white chiffon. With this gown is worn a picturesque hat of black crinoline with a wide brim and a soft crown, formed of jetted sequin net. The wheel sleeve—one of the novelties of the year—literally encircles the arm from the shoulder like a wheel. It is composed of the material of the dress and of soft lisse. Baby bodices of crepe de chine or of chiffon are introduced on satins and silks, both for day and evening wear. Many of the gowns are horizontally tucked all over the skirt and bodice alike.

It is the fashion to wear bows. Some are of lace and some are of feathers. Feather bows are expected to match in color the tone of the headgear.

In millinery as in dresses brilliant colors are making way for less startling effects, gray taking the lead.

The Thin O'hanter shapes, made in soft, pliable straw of light blue, light

WHITE CHINOLINE. GRAY STRAW. WHITE CHIP. GRAY STRAW. mauve and many other tones, form most piquant hats for pretty faces. Many of them have double brims, with flowers peeping between the two, and all have upstanding plumes. The large sailor shape, with flat brim and a wreath of roses or some other full blown flower and an upstanding aigret of another colored bloom in contrast, is the most generally becoming shape of the season, but the distinguishing mark of new hats is the double brim, which fosters additional trimmings.

THE NEW SOCIAL CLUB.

Meets and lays foundation of a Permanent Organization.

Those interested in a project to establish a new social club in Honolulu, on lines previously laid down in this paper, met at Charles Lind's restaurant on Nuanu street at 7:30 last evening and took the first steps toward permanent organization.

James T. Copeland was elected temporary chairman, and W. Brash temporary secretary. The committee reported that thirty-nine names had been secured to the membership roll, and that twelve others had signified a desire to co-operate with the club.

A. B. Srimgeour, J. Monkhouse, A. V. Gear, J. D. Conn and E. B. Thomas were appointed a committee on permanent club hall arrangements. The enrollment committee was enlarged by the addition of E. B. Thomas, Frank Metcalf and W. J. Maxwell. Charles Lind was appointed treasurer of the club. Another meeting will be held next Wednesday evening.

The Notorious Dunbar.

Alexander R. Dunbar, the notorious swindler whose operations are remembered in Honolulu, was recently on trial in Judge Dunne's court in San Francisco, the charge being that Dunbar swindled business men by collecting money which he pretended was for the Press Club, but which he put in his own pocket. Dunbar was convicted in the Police Court and appealed. Judge Dunne granted a motion to discharge on the ground of a defect in the complaint.

MURDER TRIAL STILL ON.

Change of Interpreters—A Blue Jacket Acquitted of Larceny.

Up to the noon recess today the following witnesses have been examined for the prosecution in the Kauai murder case, now going on before Judge Perry: Miss Emma Smith, Miss Anna J. Smith, Dr. Henry C. Watt, John Kaahoa, W. O. Smith, A. K. Mika, John Kalawakua and Iosepa. The latter is still on the witness stand. At this morning's session Judge W. L. Wilcox was sworn in as Hawaiian interpreter and it is understood will act for the balance of the trial.

The equity suit of Manuel Thomas vs. Antonio Rosa has been discontinued by the plaintiff, A. G. Correa for plaintiff.

In the case of L. Nakoa vs. Neleolani a bond on appeal to the Supreme Court has been filed by A. S. Humphreys, attorney for defendant.

Judge Stanley has approved the annual account of J. O. Carter as guardian of the Hardee minors. The account shows receipts amounting to $598.17; disbursements $312.85; balance on hand $285.32.

In Judge Stanley's court late yesterday afternoon the jury in the case of Hans Rosenberg, the blue-jacket accused of robbing a Nuanu street flower girl, brought in a verdict of not guilty.

HAWAII DOOMED.

An English Scientist Predicts Destruction of the Group.

Sioux City (Iowa), November 8.—Philip Archibald Cuming, an English scientist and special student of volcanic phenomena, predicts the total disappearance of the Hawaiian Islands within the next few years. Mr. Cuming went to Hawaii several months ago to satisfy his curiosity concerning its formation and the condition of active and extinct craters there and on neighboring islands. He is returning home and stopped here to visit friends.

"Everyone knows," he says, "that the Hawaiian group is of volcanic origin. Islands so formed are liable to destruction at any time. Conditions are ripe for such a catastrophe at Hawaii. I am not yet prepared to give my reasons for the conclusion, but shall publish an article on the subject on my return to England. Most scientists admit that such a fate may ultimately overtake volcanic islands, but they generally think it will be long postponed."

Except Firemen's Meeting.

An even dozen exempt firemen met in Company H quarters at the drill shed last night to consider the formation of a mutual benefit association for members of the old Honolulu Fire Department. After some discussion Chairman John Nott was authorized to appoint a committee of five to prepare a constitution and by-laws. Mr. Nott will appoint the committee in a day or two. John Nott, C. B. Wilson and Louis McGrew were veterans from the sixties present. Ex-chief Wilson exhibited his badge of 31 years ago. J. D. McVeigh acted as secretary of the meeting.

Receives the Flower Girls.

Princess Kaiulani received a call from the flower girls of Honolulu yesterday afternoon. The women, dressed in white with pink ribbons, went out in buses. This afternoon the young lady is holding another reception to the general public. She has not yet decided whether she will take Washington Place for the present or not. The premises have been proffered and are being made ready for her.
