LOOMIS TELLS WAR CONDITIONS IN EAST

OUTLINES GREAT WORK BEING DONE BY Y. M. C. A.

Finds Three Honolulu Men Leading Big Meeting in New York City

Charles F. Loomis, the Y. M. C. A. general secretary for Kauai, gave a very interesting address at the Union Church, last Sunday. He gave reminiscences of his trip to New York, and drew lessons of spirituality from the lessons learned. He said in part:

"I was very glad to visit the Eastern States just at this time. I think the effects of the war is felt to a greater extent in the East than they are here. I got into the atmosphere of war on the train and in the training camps. I could note the change from home conditions in churches, in homes and while visiting various Young Men's Christian Associations. I had hardly got out of Oakland, before I noticed a red-headed, freckle-faced boy who sat in a seat with his mother. He was knitting very industriously. In the dining cars I noted evidence of food conservation.

In some of the cities I visited I noticed that in nearly every house in a block there were food pledges, and in three-fourths of them could be seen the notices stating that from that house had come a soldier to fight for his country. In every office one can see the service flag, with a star for every man from that firm who has gone to the front or who is in the service of the government. By the time I had seen those service flags in residences, offices, union stations, universities and churches, it made a very deep impression upon me. I could not help wondering whether we of Kauai were doing all in our power to help those men who are sacrificing so much for us. When they are offering up their lives, we ought at least to give money, and the little volunteer time. That seems to me to be the least we can do. At Danforth I heard of a man who is giving all of this year's profits for the cause of humanity.

I had the first touch of war on the steamer, when, at a Sunday service the sum of $257 was given toward a war fund. Of course I visited Missouri. That's where I am from. Every county there knew of the Red Triangle, and what it stood for. As a result of letters now at the front, Missouri boys decided to raise a fund of $600,000. But they gave two millions instead.

Davis, who was president of a St. Louis concern, is one of the first men who agreed to work for the United States at a yearly salary of one dollar. He started out with a lead pencil and went to Washington. Within six weeks he was occupying a seven-story office in the front of a Washington building now packed with new bureaus, communications, typewriters, and clerks. The White House is very carefully guarded. I naturally wandered over that way, and was looking about innocently as you please when a man in plain clothes came up and told me to move on. I moved.

In New York there was a blizzard raging. We had no sugar, that day. All the lights were out on Broadway the great white way. The first thing I noticed when I got on the street car was a woman conductor. I asked her to put me off at the Woolworth building. I felt sure that I could find it, but I didn't want to be rubbering around, you know.

That night I went to attend a big meeting of Y. M. C. A. secretaries who were surprised when I found that the three big men who were leading the meeting were Super, Ebersole and Ulice, all of Honolulu.

I went to one of the big Y. M. C. A. huts, and I saw a great deal of good spiritual work going on. A business man who had volunteered to help was talking to every man whom he could get hold of. I saw him ask a young man who came to the desk to get stationery. If he wasn't interested in the Bible, he said he was, and the business man gave him one.

On Sunday I went to hear some of the big preachers. I heard Jowett, Lyman Abbott, Sherwood and Eddy. Everywhere on the platform or somewhere on the platform a service flag, I saw on several of the church calendars a roll of honor. That included members of the church who were serving their country. The little supreme roll of honor at the bottom gave the names of those who had died.

Most every one of the colleges I visited had sent many men to war. The University of California has two thousand less students, this year. What are the preachers saying about the war? Is Christianity a failure because the world is at war? Education has failed in this crisis, because it is foolish to fight, and we know it. But is education therefore an entire failure, and must we discard it? International law is a good thing, yet it has failed to control this war business. Shall we then throw aside international law? We tolerated

District Court Notes

Emiliano Lastonzo and Eulalia Federico, Filipinos, disregarded the Sixth Commandment as embodied in Chapter 257, Section 4144 of the Revised Laws of Hawaii of 1915. It being an aggravated case of betrayal of friendship, Emiliano was given six months in jail and Eulalia the minimum sentence of $10.00 fine and $1.00 costs of Court, which Eulalia, however, was unable or unwilling to pay, so she also joined her lover in misfortune, taking her baby with her, to work out the fine in jail.

Moses Rodriguez, a very reckless and daring young chauffeur belonging to Nawiliwili, was caught speeding at Lihue. Failing to appear in Court, his bail of $15.00 was declared forfeited.

On Monday morning nine Japanese gamblers, caught in Lihue on Sunday afternoon, forfeited bail in the sum of $270.00. Guillermo Carrillo, a youth of Spanish extraction, wooed the Speed Goddess at Kapaa on Sunday and was nabbed by Henry Aki, auto inspector, in court on Monday morning. Guillermo tearfully pleaded his innocence to the Judge and promised to be good in the future. A nominal fine of $5.00 and cost was imposed by his honor, it being Guillermo's first offence.

Benefit Entertainment

Saturday evening at Lihue Hall, there will be an Armenian Benefit Entertainment which, in addition to its devotion to a good cause, will be inherently well worth seeing. It will be of that varied and vivacious nature which will insure its interest and success. There will be drills and songs by the children, American and Red Cross tableaux, Japanese Sword Dances, Impersonations, etc.

General admission will be 25 cents, reserved seats 50 cents. Two and a half million people are on the verge of starvation in Armenia, many of them are far over the line. President Wilson has made an urgent appeal for help; 17 cents a day will save a life; let us lend a helping hand.

The ladies of the Kapaa homestead section have formed a Red Cross unit. They formerly had to go to Kealia to work with that unit. Now they meet at the home of Mrs. Levissey.

The new unit includes in its membership the following: Mesdames Livezey, Israel, Cheatham, Jensen, Tracey, Mrs. J. T. Livezey, and Mrs. E. S. Sheilhamer.

Mrs. E. O. Thurtell, wife of Electrician Thurtell, at the Lihue plantation, has just returned from a six-months' vacation in Los Angeles, where she placed her daughter in school. The vacation seems to have been very beneficial to her.

slavery for a time. But slavery failed; not christianity.

We are all hoping that the end of this war will result in a federation of nations for the prevention of future wars. The force of all must be put at the disposal of all, for the good of all.

Emerson said: "America is God's last chance to save the world."

Sherwood Eddy, representative of the Y. M. C. A. with the British army, and later with the American troops in France, told in a recent speech of the moral dangers, or rather, of the physical dangers to which the soldiers were subjected. "No words can picture what it means to spend a winter in the trenches, in the cold and rain and mud," said Eddy. "No one at home knows the awful shock of battle, and the strain of bursting shells, the danger of poison gas stealing through the darkness. But greater still is the danger to morals which confront our men in that far country. Our men are the best paid of all. While the Russian soldier receives a little more than one cent a day, the Belgian four cents, the French five cents, the German six cents, the English private twenty-five cents, our American privates and sergeants receive from one to three dollars a day. Imagine a thousand men shut up in a little French village with absolutely no attraction through the long winter unless it be found in the Young Men's Christian Association huts. These places are at least warm, well lighted, and filled with men who have a chance to read, to write letters home, and to indulge in song and music. "It is the soldier's home, while he is away from home, the church building where the services of his own church, whatever that may be, are held. It is his school, where the lectures and classes educate him. It is his post-office, his social meeting place, his recreational center, and the friend that stands by him to the last."

Here is the sad thing about it. The figures show that 200,000 of the Allies before they reached the trenches, have been rendered unfit for service through immorality. Shall the flower of our American manhood, who go out to represent us, come back to us, so far as their lives may be spared from shot and shell, with bodies shot through by unnamable disease, with characters weakened, or shall they return stronger and better men? Sherwood Eddy said: "Money is the cheapest thing we have left. It will take money to save the morals of the boys at the front, and to protect the flag under which they are serving. Let us, therefore, give money."

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS OF PEOPLE YOU KNOW, FROM LIHUE TO WAIMEA

Charles R. Frazier, Frank L. James, and George Tom are recent arrivals at the Lihue Hotel from Honolulu.

Mrs. Jenni, daughter of Z. S. Spalding, returned on the Mauna Loa Thursday from a month's trip to the coast.

Mrs. J. T. Livezey, mother of E. Livezey, the wireless operator, is visiting her son and his wife at their Kapaa homestead.

E. Gripper, of Los Angeles, who recently arrived on Kauai, has secured a position as road engineer on Hawaii, and will leave for that island shortly.

A game of baseball was played on the Lihue grounds on Sunday between the Lihue and Koloa clubs. Koloa won by a score of 21 to 14.

The following persons from Honolulu are registered at Lihue Hotel: Miss Bertha Kerl, F. C. Bayer, D. V. Wilson, A. Murphy, C. M. Thurston, H. W. Craig and H. M. Goodman.

Federal Tires are good tires, and give good service. Prices are reasonable. McBryde Store, Agents for Kauai. —Advt.

R. Kanzako, chef at the Waimea Hotel, was a visitor at Lihue Friday. He speaks very correct English considering that he was born across the pond, where the cherry blossoms grow.

Elmer True, who is to appear at Eleele and Waimea, on February 9th in classic dances, was born on Hawaii and lived for a number of years in Honolulu. Her home is now in Oakland.

The Lihue Hotel is having a house-cleaning. The interior is being repainted, new screen put in, and a number of other improvements looking to the betterment of service, are being introduced.

The Kekaha plantation has a field of sugar cane of the Whitney variety which has reached remarkable growth. Measurements recently taken show that many of the stalks are from twenty-seven to twenty-eight feet in height.

"That man Silva," at Eleele, is having a special sale of shirts and under shirts. Do you wear 'em? All right. Buy them of Silva. Cheap right now. But if the war lasts much longer there'll be "shirtless" days, perhaps. Buy now. —Advt.

J. I. Silva of Eleele says he is satisfied with the present steamer schedule. He says the Inter-Island was compelled to shift around by reason of war conditions, and that the company is probably endeavoring to serve the people the best they can. The objection he puts forward as to change in the present plan is, that as it is now the steamer does not leave Eleele till 5 o'clock, whereas if a change is made, it would have to leave Eleele at 3 o'clock.

J. M. Silva died at Waimea on Wednesday, the 31st, aged 53 years, and was buried there on Thursday. He had resided in Waimea many years. He had been employed as a luna. His daughter, Mrs. F. C. Marques, of Honolulu came over to attend the funeral.

The Waimea Literary Club will meet at Hoop on February 6th. Prof. Jaggard, volcanologist at Kilauea, will address the meeting. He is a very interesting speaker, and will no doubt draw a large audience. Musical selections will be given by Miss Mottaz.

Postmaster Corbett, of Hilo, has purchased the store which has for so many years been carried on in that city by Wall Nichols. Mr. Corbett left the management of the Wall Nichols store to take the position he now holds as postmaster.

The German residents of the islands must register between March 4th and March 9th. The assistant registrars for Kauai are, at Lihue, Sheriff Wm. Rice; at Koloa, Deputy Sheriff Henry Blake; at Hanalei, the postmaster; at Kealia, the postmaster for Kawaihau district.

The Women in Eleele district are taking great interest in helping the government. They held a meeting at Eleele Social Hall on Thursday, Miss Janet Hastie in the chair. Methods of making war breads were demonstrated and other subjects looking to food conservation discussed.

J. I. Silva has recently added to his automobile outfit, so that he now has a number of autos and trucks, and a garage where repairs can be made. He has gradually added to his equipments until he now has coke and other fuel for sale, a blacksmith shop has been provided, a garage, auto trucks for hauling, and, in fact, about everything one can think of that is likely to be called for in a country village. His general merchandise store has grown to large proportions.

J. S. Hoffman, of San Francisco, came in on the Mauna Loa last Wednesday.

The quarterly meeting of the Lihue Union Church will be held in the library rooms tomorrow (Wednesday) evening.

In accordance with instructions from Washington, the Territorial Food Commission is giving notice to all Baker's Restaurants, etc., using 12 bags or more of flour per month, to take out licenses. Blanks may be had for the same on application to the Food Commission office, Honolulu.

The Honolulu Advertiser and the Star-Bulletin both copied the article, which appeared in the Garden Island last week concerning the new steamer schedule offered by the Kauai business men. The letters formulated at the meeting will be forwarded to the various business men on the island, and later will be sent to the Inter-Island company.

The Young Men's Christian Association have been observing February 2nd as "thrift day," and the local association will do likewise. Thrift talks will be given in all the Y. M. C. A. night classes. Thrift builds character and increases efficiency. National Thrift Day posters will be hung in the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

The Advertiser contains quite a boost for Solomon W. Mahelona, who is announced as one of the Hawaiians who have become expert manipulators of piano keys. He will act as a pianist for the theater in Waimea, it is stated. He is a cousin of the late Samuel Mahelona, and a nephew of Mrs. A. S. Wilcox, of Kauai.

The real and personal property in the Fourth Taxation district will this year be taxed at the rate of $1.81 per hundred, or $18.10 per thousand dollars. The tax money so raised will be devoted to the following purposes: Current expenses of the county, permanent improvements, schools, interest and for sinking funds on bonds advanced to county, and for the assessment and collecting of taxes.

Senator Charles F. Chillingworth came down from Honolulu Friday night to attend to some legal matters. It is the first time he has paid Kauai a visit in a number of years. He was very much impressed with our good roads and general prosperous appearance. Mr. Chillingworth is connected with the questionnaire work of the draft board. He says that very few of the Japanese in Honolulu have claimed exemption, even when they were entitled to it.

Mrs. Lillian Mesick reports that a very interesting meeting was held at Lunalulu school building on Wednesday, in the interest of food conservation. A large number of Japanese and Filipino women were present, and one lone man. Miss Elsie Wilcox, gave an interesting address on the needs of the hour in regard to food conservation. Mrs. Broadbent made some corn bread, and Mrs. Antonio Nobriga made some sweet potato bread. Samples were passed around and the women pronounced it good.

"That man Silva," at Eleele, has one of the best things we have seen, for motorists. He has overalls of a pattern which protects one's clothes very thoroughly, so that when it becomes necessary to "get out and get under," one can do so without soiling a good suit of clothes. No one should travel without this very efficient help. A pair of comprehensive overalls is far cheaper than an expensive suit of clothes, and the comfort one has when he has a pair of Silva's overalls in the "buzz wagon" is worth the money. —Advt.

Charles T. Loomis, the Y. M. C. A. secretary for Kauai, returned last week from a trip to the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in New York. He engaged the services of Laurance A. Walworth, while on the Coast, who will arrive here next month to take charge of the work among the Filipinos. Mr. Walworth has been laboring in Oakland. He is a graduate of the Kansas university, as is also his wife.

All these offices will be open each day from March 4th to March 9th inclusive, from 6 o'clock in the morning till 8 o'clock in the evening. In registering, each German will be required to furnish a photograph of himself, to be attached to the registration certificate, and finger prints of each registrant will be taken. After an alien has been registered, he will be furnished with an identification card.

TWO STURDY NORWEGIAN BOYS COME TO KAUALI

EXPERIENCES WHILE TOURING EUROPE

They Listened to a Syren Who "Could Not Spik Anglais Very Well," and Were Promptly Arrested

Two young Norwegians, Christian Smith (which doesn't sound like Norwegian at all), and Eric Rasmussen which seems like the name of a hardy seaman, recently arrived in Waimea. They like the climate, the scenery and the people, and hope to be able to secure employment or business connections which will enable them to remain on Kauai.

Their ability to speak German resulted in their frequent apprehensions as German agents while they were touring war-torn Europe. In London a little over a year ago, while they were dining in a cafe, a young lady (the naughty thing) addressed them and mentioned some trivial circumstance as an excuse for opening a conversation. Because they were naturally polite (not at all because they would admire a good looking girl, of course) they replied, and the young lady sat down and helped them to dispose of sundry delicacies. She could "not spik Anglais ver' well," you know, and finally asked them if they could "Deutsch gersproken." They could, and they did. But when they left the cafe a man in plain clothes tapped them on the arm. (Oh, these women!) they sent for the Norwegian ambassador, and were promptly released. They've never looked at a girl since they hit Waimea. Then of course they couldn't help it. Then, of course, then? No spies there, just heart breakers.

In Spain the two young men went to a bull fight, and went out onto a balcony. The crowd cheered, and the young men bowed in acknowledgement. The cheers were intended for Alfonso, who sat in a box below, however, and the police spoke sternly to them, pronouncing their act as lese majeste.

Like all persons born in severe times and less attractive lands, they are charmed with the Garden Island and see opportunities at every step if they stay on Kauai. They make money, that's a cinch.

Fixing of Harbor Lines

A number of persons have applied to the territorial food commission at Nawiliwili Harbor. The government officials, however, have not yet determined the harbor lines. The building of a breakwater will naturally result in the changing of the harbor lines here and there by the construction of cement walls and it will result, beyond a doubt, also, in changing the currents. It may be necessary to dredge certain portions of the harbor also. The determination of the proper location of the wharves, therefore, cannot, perhaps, be definitely determined until the harbor lines have been ascertained.

Lieutenant Colonel R. R. Raymond of the U. S. engineers, has sent out the following, notifying those interested in the fixing of harbor lines and the determination of wharf sites, to appear in Lihue on March 12th, to discuss questions relating thereto:

A public hearing will be held in the office of the Board of Supervisors County Building, Lihue, Kauai, on Tuesday, March 12th, 1918, at 8:30 o'clock A. M. relative to the establishment of harbor lines in the harbor at Nawiliwili, Kauai, Territory of Hawaii.

All interested parties are invited to be present and requested to submit their views in writing, although oral evidence will be heard.

A PARTY AT KIPU

In connection with a Little Sunday School at Kipu, Mr. Lydgate, assisted by Mrs. De Spain, Henry Wedemeyer and Josephine Storgne, gave an affair for the children at Kipu Hall, Saturday afternoon at which some seventy-five children were present. It was an absolutely new experience to many of them and was highly enjoyed. Children's games, with lots of life and snip, were played. Percy Lydgate gave some of his impersonations and there was a generous distribution of ice cream cornucopias, peanuts and cake, all of which appealed mightily to the simple tastes and the generous appetites of the children.

THE WAIMEA HAWAIIAN CHURCH

At a meeting at the Waimea church on Sunday, presided over by Rev. J. M. Lydgate, it was voted to call Rev. Sol Kaullil to the pastorate of the Waimea church in conjunction with his similar charge of the Koloa and Hanapepe churches. The plan is to provide Mr. Kaullil with an automobile which will enable him to cover this large field.

NINE YEAR OLD GIRL KILLED BY BROTHER

LOADED SHOTGUN LEFT IN HOUSE, CHILD FIRES IT

Little Girl of Nine, Combing Hair for School, Has Life Snuffed Out

A distressing accident occurred at Eleele last Friday. Tetsu Akagi, a Japanese who drives a wagon for the McBryde store, arose early to prepare breakfast for himself and the two children. He saw a number of mynah birds about the yard, he says, and loaded a shotgun, thinking he would shoot some of them. After breakfast, however, noticing that it was later than he had supposed, he put the shotgun behind the door and went to work, telling Tetsu, the little nine-year old girl, to be sure and comb her hair and get dressed in time for school.

A little before eight o'clock neighbors heard an explosion, and knowing that Akagi had gone to work, and that the children were alone, went over to investigate. They found the little girl lying dead on the floor in a pool of blood, with a ragged wound in the side of her head. The little six-year-old boy was crying, and told them between sobs, that he had been playing with the gun, and that it went off and shot his sister. He was so frightened that he couldn't give a very coherent account of the affair.

Deputy Sheriff Crowell, of Waimea, was notified, and went to the scene of the accident to investigate. He decided that it was an accident, and that there was apparently no demand for a coroner's jury.

The father and mother of the little boy and girl are both dead. Their father was Akagi's brother, and the latter took his brother's children to raise. Neighbors speak very highly of the little girl who met such an untimely death.

The Lihue Library

Lihue has a very creditable library of several thousand volumes, among which are some that are very valuable. A few of the older books are now out of print, and practically unobtainable, even in the old book stores. A public library is of inestimable benefit to a town, and every resident owes it to the present and future generations to promote its interests in every way possible. Those who have books which they have read and can spare should present them to the Lihue Library. Among one of the more recent gifts we note the interesting little volume entitled, "Flying in France." This was purchased by G. N. Carter, of the Old Corner Book store, when he was in Boston about a year ago, and presented to the library on his return to Kauai.

A Hebard Case is county agent for the Territorial Food Commission, and is carrying on a garden contest. In this Garden Land, where the soil is rich and climate kind, to raise gardens would to most people be deemed a pleasure. And here is a wise and benevolent government offering prizes for the best vegetable gardens. What do you know about that? If you don't know anything about it, ask A. Hebard Case. He can tell you all about it.

A Filipino Social

There was an exceedingly successful Filipino social last Friday evening at the Filipino Hall under the conduct of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lydgate, assisted by Miss Kuhlig and Mrs. Lloyd. It was in connection with the Sunday School held there to include them and their friends. It was surprising how many friends they had.

The hall was cleared for action and children's games, new and old, were played with an enthusiasm and zest which evidenced the universal enjoyment of them. A new and original game that awakened a great deal of interest was a peanut race, the critical factor of which was not the running, but the scooping up of the peanuts on a card.

Ice cream cornucopias, reinforced by puffed rice brittle and peanuts in the shell capped the evening's entertainment, which was joyous and hilarious every moment of the time. A Filipino string band furnished excellent music.

Mrs. Henry Kauo died in Nawiliwili on Wednesday the 30th.

THE GARDEN ISLAND
Issued Every Tuesday Morning

H. E. BOOTHBY Editor
KENNETH C. HOPPER Managing Editor
TUESDAY FEB. 5

The Louissou plantation on Hawaii has four hundred acres in coffee, this year. The Hawaiian islands can produce the best coffee on earth. And that fact should be widely advertised. None but the best quality should ever be allowed to go out under Hawaii's brand. Every ounce of the best Hawaiian coffee could be sold in Boston alone, or in New York City, at a retail price of 50 cents a pound, if the campaign were properly managed. The United States protects nearly every other home industry, but pays no attention to coffee. We bring coffee from Brazil, when we have within the United States the best climate and soil for coffee. The greater per cent of the coffee that comes from Brazil is poor stuff, compared with the best Hawaiian coffee. They grow good coffee in Brazil, it is true, but the big Arbuckle company doesn't care a bean whether it markets the best coffee or not. All nickels look alike to them. Hawaii ought to be interested in marketing the choicest quality under the Hawaiian brand. Her representative in Congress should work early and late to secure a tariff on coffee. However, even without a tariff, it ought to be easy to sell all the coffee that the Hawaiian islands can produce, or rather, all of the choicest grade, at a retail price of 50 cents a pound, browned and ground.

An order has been issued by the Japanese government restricting the entry into Japan of all foreigners. This means that all aliens seeking entry to Japan henceforth will be subject to the most rigid examination. Not such a bad scheme, either. The United States has been all too negligent in that regard. We have erected very flimsy barriers on our frontiers. The scum of Europe, the aged, the decrepit, the ignorant, the sick, the maimed, have had as a rule very little difficulty in entering the United States, and a large per cent of them have become public charges. While not a few of the immigrants who left their country for their country's good, have filled our jails and penitentiaries. It is high time that the United States should wake up and adopt measures for the protection of the public at large. After the war is over, the United States will be flooded by the widows, the orphans, the maimed and the wounded of war-torn Europe. The United States is indeed a free country, and the home of the oppressed, but it is not essentially an eleemosynary institution, and should not be.

There has always been a lingering suspicion in the minds of those who have followed the testimony in the prosecution of those who are charged with having taken a part in the bomb outrage at the time of the preparedness parade in San Francisco, that Thomas J. Mooney was not the man who fired the bomb. Snapshot photographs taken by disinterested persons show that he was far from the scene of the crime when it was committed. The matter attracted so much attention that President Wilson appointed a special commission to enquire into the case. The commission has in its report recommended that the President use his influence to secure for the accused wrongfully. If Mooney committed the crime, he should be punished. If he did not, it would be a crime to execute him. And if there wasn't a deliberate attempt to railroad him to the gallows, appearances ought to be sued for libel.

To fly to the assistance of France in her hour of trouble is a fine principle. But how so many citizens of the United States can expatriate themselves as readily as a woman powders her nose, in order to drive a pair of Missouri mules behind the fighting line, is beyond our comprehension. To fight for democracy is all right. To aid our allies is commendable. But a man's citizenship in the United States to be thrown aside as lightly as a man throws a cigar stub in the gutter? Those who have done so are no longer subjects of the United States. Considering that they have taken up arms for a country at war with the same nation with which the United States is at war, they will probably be allowed to take the oath of allegiance at the end of the war. But to follow the Stars and Stripes appeals to us with greater force.

The dear old Queen died without ever having suspected that she was of unsound mind. It took her heirs to find that out. They don't deserve a bean.

"Knock out John Barleycorn," says the Star-Bulletin, "and half of Honolulu's vicious conditions will follow into the dump heap." Both of the editors over there seem to be pretty good booze fighters.

The war has brought about many peculiar changes in a commercial way, but none of more interest than conditions affecting the price of awa root. The root of the awa has for centuries been used by the natives of the South Sea Islands in the manufacture of an intoxicating liquor. It has less effect upon the brain than some other liquors, but affects the legs so that they seem almost paralyzed, for the time being. The demand for awa root was, up to the time when war was declared, quite limited. A firm in Samoa shipped small quantities from other of the isles of the Pacific to Germany, where it was used as a source of medicine. After it became impossible to ship to Germany, the price gradually increased until thirty cents a pound was offered. The gathering of awa root is now quite profitable, and awa is being cultivated on Hawaii, and perhaps on some of the other islands of the group.

The Governor, in his letter to the Harbor Board, takes the stand that all hope for the breakwater at Nawiliwili need not be abandoned, notwithstanding that the Kauai railroad company has announced that it has no intention of extending its line to Nawiliwili. In his letter the Governor says: "As the rights of way which affect the proposed railway and the land that will produce the necessary tonnage are under the control of the land commissioner, he will, advising with those affected, endeavor to secure the adjustment of all points so that the Harbor Commission can carry out its objects, which are confined to the proposed harbor and wharves."

That sounds like the Governor was on the right side of the argument, to say the least. As a rule, business men do not welcome with any degree of hilarity any suggestions in a business way which will tend to decrease their income. Some people are as blind as a bat, when it comes to seeing the advantage of helping the government when it costs anything to do so. The action of the proprietors of the Lihue market, therefore, stands out in great contrast. For when they were asked to observe the meatless days enjoined by the government, they very promptly consented, and at once published a notice, announcing that they would sell no meat of any kind on Tuesdays, and no pork on Tuesdays or Saturdays, the porkless days. There's patriotism.

Good for the Honolulu police force. Let us give the devil his due. The Honolulu papers have been declaring with vehemence that the policemen were blind in the right eye, and could not see out of the left, so far as vice was concerned. However, they have apparently gained their eyesight. They agreed to clean up the city if the papers would co-operate by agreeing not to print certain facts until after arrests had been made. And the police seem to be making good. In other words, if the papers would give the police a rest they would make arrest. It is now time for some of the papers to give us a rest.

The world is demanding the abolition of monarchies, and advocating world-wide democracy. The heaven is working also in Great Britain, which is perhaps the least objectionable, as it is the most successful, of all the monarchies on earth. The labor element in England, however, is demanding that the House of Lords be abolished, and that there should be no second chamber for the British parliament, either hereditary or elective. The hand writing on the wall is very plain. And it doesn't need a Daniel to interpret it.

Army officers hint that mere dismissal will be considered insufficient punishment for government physicians who have been convicted of mistreating the sick and wounded. And we commend their judgment. This "saw his leg off" attitude, and all the rough stuff should be "cut out." The medical fraternity contains some of the noblest men on earth. But there are always a few who are careless of the rights of others, and they should be taught a lesson.

The citizens of Hawaii are advocating the construction of a road to the ancient city of refuge at Honauau. Probably some of the newspaper men over there are preparing to flee, and the demand for speed is urgent.

A party of Honoluluans has gone to Maui on a hunting expedition, according to the Advertiser. They took bird dogs along, so they are probably not after somebody's goat, even if they did come from Honolulu.

It is quite evident that some people in Honolulu are ardent conservationists—of whiskey.

YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE for the welfare of those dependent upon you—Have You Made A Will?—if not, it is your duty to do so at once—Do not make the excuse that your estate is too small—small estates need more careful management even than large ones.

Make Your Will Now, and Appoint Hawaiian Trust Company, Limited, as Executor. Come in and talk it over with us, or write to us about this important matter, a consultation with our officers will place you under no obligation.

You Will Make a Mistake if you appoint an individual as executor; no matter how loyal and capable he may be, he is subject to accident, sickness, or death, and at best his judgement is but the judgement of an individual.

By appointing the Hawaiian Trust Company, Limited, as executor, you secure the faithful services of a group of strong, conservative, experienced business men, who make a specialty of the administration of estates, and who possess up-to-date information on sound reliable investments. One or more of these men may fall sick or die, but others stand ready to carry on the work.

The existence of the Hawaiian Trust Company, Limited, is perpetual, and you may rest assured that the interests of your estate and the welfare of your loved ones will be safeguarded, if you name this company as executor of your Will, or Trustee Under your Will.

STORY OF EDITH BORAL WHO DIED IN ARIZONA

HUNTED LIKE WILD ANIMAL IN STATES

Died in Obscurity Rather Than to Grieve Her Loved Ones—One of the Heirs of the Mahuka Estate

The Mahuka heirs some years ago sold the property in the vicinity of Alakea and King street, in Honolulu to the government for somewhere around $100,000. The property was afterward sold by the government for a little more than $475,000. The former owners are now endeavoring to have the case re-opened, with a view of securing a larger share of the increased valuation. The case is to be presented in Washington by Attorney W. B. Lymer.

In this connection it may be interesting to refer to the case of Edith Boral, who was a niece of Mary Mahuka, and one of the Mahuka heirs. She was born at Hana, on Maui. She married Robert McQuarrie, a haole, who was by trade a carpenter. Mrs. McQuarrie, shortly after her marriage, detected unmistakable evidence that she was a victim of leprosy. She offered to release her husband, but he elected to stay by her to the end.

They were at that time living in Wailuku. They hastened to Vancouver, where her father, a haole, had a store. She said nothing to her father, concerning her sad misfortune, however, and she and her husband left for Los Angeles, where he secured employment. He hoped to earn sufficient money there to take his wife to Mexico before her affliction was discovered.

They remained there some months. They roomed on North Main street, in the Mexican part of town, hoping to acquire a smattering of the Spanish language.

While there some one noticed the tell-tale brown splotches on her face, and reported the matter to the authorities. The police, who were not acquainted with the facts concerning leprosy, went wild with fright. They seized all her belongings, including a fifty dollar guitar which had been given to Mrs. McQuarrie by her aunt Mary Mahuka, and piled them onto a bonfire built for the purpose in the back yard. They burned not only her trunk, with all her trinkets, but her suit cases and all her clothing except what she had on.

Mrs. McQuarrie was wild with grief and shame, and mourned for days and weeks, after the old Hawaiian custom. She was segregated in a tent on the grounds of the County Hospital, and no one was allowed to go near her. They were so afraid of her that the waiter took her food to her in a basket, which he placed on the ground about twenty-five feet from her tent, and ran away.

Her husband was forced by the authorities to leave her. He continued to work at his trade. Pretty soon he too showed signs of leprosy. He then stole his wife away in the night, and they boarded a train for Mexico. His wife went very heavily veiled, and was garbed as a poor Mexican woman.

When they reached Phoenix, they were nearly famished for food, and went to a lunch counter. There some one who had seen the effects of leprosy in Mexico saw her face. He reported the case to the authorities, and the couple were taken from the train and quarantined in the suburbs of Phoenix. Mrs. McQuarrie died within six months, and her husband a few months later.

While they were in Los Angeles, a resident of Hawaii, visiting there, heard of the case, and wrote to Sam Parker, asking that arrangements might be taken to Molokai. Parker, through his Honolulu agents replied that if the woman could prove that she had any Hawaiian blood in her veins, he would see that her fare was paid to Honolulu, and said that she would be well cared for at that place until it was definitely determined that she had the mal pake, after which she would be sent to Molokai. He offered also to pay the expenses of a nurse from Los Angeles to Honolulu. He felt, however, that the haole had no claim for recognition as far as he was concerned.

But the victim refused to come, stating that she would far rather die alone in a strange land, than to have her aunt, her uncle, and her father learn of her affliction.

When the Mahuka property was sold could find no trace of her, except that she had left Vancouver. The Hawaiian boys on the Orpheum circuit knew the circumstances, and detailed them to the writer.

Hooverizing John D.

The government fuel administration is working out plans for the control of fuel oil, and possibly some of its products. The Union Oil company of California has served notice on all island consumers cancelling all quantity and time contracts, and has also notified them that such oil as they may be able to supply will be advanced two cents a barrel. The Union Oil company strongly urges all companies to convert their burners so that they may use coal or some other fuel besides oil. Some of the largest companies in the islands are now using oil for fuel. There are about fifty of them, the principal ones being Libby, McNeill & Libby, Alexander & Baldwin, Oahu Railroad & Land Co., Kahuku Plantation, Hawaii Consolidated Railroad and Land Company, and the Honolulu Gas company. An average approximate of the oil so used is about 60,000 barrels per month.

Banana Fiber for Bags

J. M. Westgate, director of the U. S. Experiment station at Honolulu, says the fibre of the banana stalk is quite suitable for the manufacture of bags, and he is carrying on some experiments along that line. He says however, that the growers are asking fifteen cents per stalk, and as it takes a big stalk to make two bags, the price asked is prohibitive. It is estimated that 350,000 bunches of bananas are raised in Hawaii yearly, or approximately 1,000 bunches a day. The stalks now go to waste. They would have to be sold for five cents apiece, in order to make bag manufacturing profitable.

Preston, the government prosecutor of the Hindu riot case, says he expects to prove that Germany, through agents who are indicted for conspiracy, paid $27,000 to convert the Maverick into a munition carrier, and equip her for a voyage to India. The vessel was to have met the Annie Larsen, and from her secure a cargo of munitions to take to India. The vessel was purchased from John F. Craig, a ship builder of Long Beach, California.

The steamship Colombia has been given a license to carry passengers between Honolulu and San Francisco.

CRISCO

For Frying—For Shortening
For Cake Making

Frying

There is no smoke nor odor. Fried foods are free from the taste of grease. They now are tasty and crisp. They are made more digestible, for Crisco is all vegetable. The same Crisco can be used to fry fish, onions, doughnuts, etc., merely by straining out the food particles after each frying.

Shortening

Crisco gives pastry a new flakiness and digestibility. Crisco always is of the same freshness and consistency. It's uniform quality makes for uniform results.

Cake Making

Crisco gives richness at smaller cost. It brings cake-making back to popularity. Butter bills are reduced and cakes stay fresh and moist longer.

Sugar Carriers Promised
 The problem of how the sugar crop for the season of 1918 is to be moved has caused some worry among island sugar growers. It now looks as though bottoms may yet be provided for its transportation. A number of the plantations, expecting to experience difficulty in shipping, have already added largely to their warehouse facilities. The latest information is that the new steamers now being built in the shipyards of Seattle and Tacoma are to be despatched to the Atlantic by way of Honolulu. These new steamers, of an average dead weight carrying capacity of 6,000 tons, are to come to the islands from the Northwest with coal for the Inter-Island company, and will then be loaded with a cargo of sugar for the Eastern refineries. They will go through the Panama canal.

The plan previously discussed was to send the sugar crop by rail from San Francisco. It is said that the Shipping Board was influenced in its decision to help the islands by Ned Adams, the agent in Seattle for Alexander & Baldwin and the Matson Navigation company. Three of the steamers which are to come shortly are the Boston, the Sacramento and the Absaroka. The Boston is of but 2,000 tons. The Sacramento is 6,000 tons, and the Absaroka is 8,000 tons. The latter is a single screw vessel, 423 feet beam, and has a speed of eleven knots. It is said that the three vessels mentioned will arrive in Honolulu early in the present month.

New Sugarcane Harvester
 The harvesting of sugar cane has always been a slow and expensive process. The cutting of the cane by knives in the hands of laborers seems like a slow process, considering the work which is accomplished by other farming implements, such for instance, as the corn harvester. Cane stalks are so large and tough, that it has not seemed practical to handle such a large volume of material in a machine moving with any speed. However, a machine built along lines very similar to that of the corn harvester is now in use in Louisiana, and late reports say that it is working very successfully, and performing as much work in one day as has been accomplished by forty laborers using cane knives. Cane growers of Hawaii could well afford to investigate the matter very thoroughly, as its adoption here would beyond a doubt result in great savings.

Island Tobacco
 The experiments made on Hawaii by Jared Smith in the culture of tobacco is attracting some interest. His report of work done in 1917 read before the directors to Honolulu a few days ago, states that a total of 274,275 pounds were raised on eighty acres of land. This resulted in 35,000 pounds of barn-cured leaf, which will easily sell for $1.00 a pound. He thinks he can produce 50,000 pounds of marketable leaf during the coming season. There are very few tracts of eighty acres on the mainland, no matter what the crop, which will produce a crop worth $35,000.

Naughty Annette Kellermann
 Annette Kellermann, the diving girl, who has been pronounced "the perfect woman," will appear on the screen at Kapaa on Thursday the 7th, and at Lihue on Friday, the 8th. They call the play "Neptune's Daughter," but it don't make much difference what they call it, it is all Annette Kellermann, notwithstanding the several hundred people who take part. The play was filmed down in Jamaica, about three years ago. The promoters found there some of the most beautiful tropical scenery that can be found anywhere outside of Kauai. Annette parades around robed in the garb of nature and an abbreviated bathing suit, but they call it art, and all that sort of thing, and the Board of Censors passed it. They must have been looking the other way, when they passed. Annette seems to be a very handy person, as she dives around in the water with both legs on, and appears later as a mermaid without any legs. There are a lot of cute little children dressed as dwarfs, and there are two little children which appear to be pretty good swimmers. The production of this film is said to have cost $500,000. There are plenty of figures on the linotype, and a few more or less don't matter. It cost a pretty penny, all right, and the scenery, and some of the posing, is very beautiful. The film has had record runs nearly everywhere it has been exhibited. Women who see it always say "Oh," and the men who view it always say "Ah." Say, men, better look what you're about. Annette will catch you, if you don't watch out.

Chinese Raised Blind Pigs
 Lee Wah Chung of Honolulu has made considerable money, one way and another, and has considerable property in that city. He has been raising hogs, recently, out Palolo way, and neighbors admired his enterprise. A hog farm isn't a place which usually attracts many visitors, and the number of persons which visited Chung's flower garden, began to attract attention. Some revenue men went out to view the place, a few days ago, and found twenty gallons of choice shama in the cellar. There were twenty-six mash barrels and a kettle, in an outbuilding, and a loaded automatic pistol under Chung's pillow. A pump shotgun was also part of the outfit which Chung had bought for raising hogs. Chung was absent, but was entertained by the officials upon his return. He furnished a bond of $1,000 for his appearance in the United States District Court, and will probably be deeply impressed with the idea that honesty is the best policy. The penalty in such cases is from six months to two years imprisonment or a fine of from $1,000 to $5,000 or both. He will probably be an ardent advocate of prohibition when the United States gets through with him.

MARY AND HER CURLS
 Mary Pickford, with the pretty face and curls, appeared on the screen of the Fernandez circuit last week. The picture gave undisputed evidence that Mary's curls are natural, and not acquired, as quite a number of people have thought. No wig or home made curls would have stood the effect of the storm that Mary's did and not have proven themselves false.

C. A. Baggett, formerly of Hilo, who left that city last December to enter the aviation corps, has passed his final examination, and has been recommended for appointment by the University of California training school.

Mackay, the Queensland town in Australia which was recently wrecked by a cyclone and tidal wave, was the center of an important sugar growing district, and the cane fields were probably greatly damaged as well. Mackay was a town of between five and six thousand people. The property loss is estimated at three million dollars for the town alone, and fourteen bodies were recovered the first day.

Alvin H. Silva, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio G. Silva of Honolulu, is one of the island boys now at the front. He is a brother of David B. Silva, of B. F. Ehlers & Co.

MICHELIN

Extra Mileage You Can See and Measure

The extra thickness of the Michelin Tread—due to extra rubber and fabric—means additional mileage. Especially is this true since every ounce of rubber and fabric is the toughest that money, skill and experience can produce. Michels give so much mileage that they'd be economical even if high priced. But they're not high priced.

Two years ago the Russians took and bronze objects in use for war munitions. One of the several objects removed was a bell, around the rim of which ran the following inscription: "He who removes me from my place will lose Riga." The city was subsequently captured by the Germans.

Hikoji Kojima, a Japanese, was engaged to teach a Japanese school on the islands, and came to Honolulu for that purpose. The Immigration Department ruled that he was a contract laborer, and as such, not entitled to land. He will be deported on the first steamer for Japan.
