MORE LIGHT.

The Advertiser of Saturday takes up our leader of the previous day on the political situation in a sort of milk-and-water style that may mean anything or nothing, according to the fancy of the reader. If that paper is in favor of parliamentary reform in Hawaiian affairs, it carefully avoids saying so. At the same time, it is plain that the Advertiser is painfully conscious of the incongruity of the position it would be in by assuming the role of opposition to the existing state of affairs. Allowance must be made for circumstances. The Advertiser fighting an unconstitutional system of representation would be the placing of its own record on the table for dissection, and no man cares to dissect himself or any member of his own family. We fully agree with our contemporary that: "When discussing national politics it is better to keep within the lines of common sense," but we are possibly unfortunate in not being prepared to agree with him on the course that is manifestly dictated by common sense. His plan is to do nothing, feel the patient's pulse, note down the symptoms, shake the head, pronounce it a hopeless case and any other practitioner a quack who ventures the opinion that there is a possibility of improving the condition of the patient. Our plan is to utilize the experience of the past and adopt treatment similar in degree to that which has, in hundreds of other cases, been successful.

We re-assert the fundamental principle on which all our discussion is based that a free people are entitled to be represented by independent men, not employees of the Government. If our contemporary can place any theory closer to the lines of common sense, we shall be pleased to adopt it. Until he does so, however, the public will persist in the opinion that "the King," not the people, "is the largest part of the Legislative Assembly," as was unctuously stated by the Premier in the Legislature of '86. This is probably the only opinion held in common by Minister Gibson and the taxpayers of the nation. In Great Britain the Queen (or King), though an integral part, is practically the least part of the Legislature, while the people, through their representatives, are, to all intents and purposes, the only ruling power. No office-holder under Government can hold a seat in the House of Commons. A similar cast iron rule obtains in the United States. Why should not precisely the same rule be incorporated into the Hawaiian political system? There is nothing in the labored article of the Advertiser to show why it should not. The most that paper succeeds in proving is that there is no reason why it should not. The proposition made by the HERALD, the Advertiser pronounces "clear-cut," but has not the courage of its convictions either to accept or reject it. Our contemporary merely straddles the fence and wants to know before he gets down on either side, "is it feasible?"

The contingency named by him that in the event of a reform legislature being elected, the members might proceed to clothe themselves with the responsibilities and emoluments of office, is too absurd to require argument. Why do not members of legislatures in other countries try it on if there is nothing to prevent it? That "the King"—or the chief executive, of whatever title—"is the largest part of the legislature" is not the doctrine held by any free people on the face of the earth. It is not the theory of government held by any of the tax-payers of Hawaii, however useful it may be to Cabinet Ministers. While all are ready to acknowledge the King as head of the nation, and would support the crown in the exercise of Constitutional prerogatives, it does not follow that stipendiaries of the crown can ever command the confidence of the nation while they perform the double function of collectively making the laws and individually appropriating the emoluments for administering them.

The Advertiser's sneers at our use of the terms anarchy and revolution are, at present, unfortunate and untimely. It was not asserted nor insinuated in this paper that part of the population consists of anarchists. It is enough to know that anarchy is not necessarily an outcome of the presence of avowed "anarchists" among the population. The real anarchists may be found among the sworn administrators of the laws. Before attempting to demonstrate the absence of anarchy, our contemporary ought to wait to see how many of the prisoners of Oahu jail are in durance vile owing to the style in which the laws are administered by the lower Courts of the islands. And if the Tier man wants to know where the "revolutionary forces" are, he may, without much searching, find them where they have always been developed, among the people when they come to lose confidence in the integrity and ability of their rulers, and begin to regard them with undisguised hostility and contempt.

Our contemporary's insinuation that we suggested the idea of imposing the English parliamentary system on this country, makes it necessary to allude to a very naughty habit of his, namely, that of misrepresenting the views of those to whom he may happen to range himself in opposition. Our demands have been stated in definite enough terms—no office holders in the Legislature—and it matters not whether it is the English, American, African or Samoan system. It is the system the Kingdom urgently requires for placing its affairs on an improved basis, and without which, its independence and stability will ever remain in a precarious condition.

Accident to a Policeman.

A painful accident happened to Officer Hopkins on Saturday. He was sent by the Marshal to Waikiki for the purpose of assisting a private claimant to a horse and buggy in securing possession of the property without the usual formalities of law. The officer undertook himself to drive the horse to the claimant's home, but there was a nut off one of the axles, and before he had driven far a wheel came off and the buggy careening over the horse left fly his heels. The kick took effect on Hopkins' mouth, disengaging several teeth and cutting the lower lip. He was taken to the house of his namesake, Mr. Chas. Hopkins, Marshal's Clerk. Dr. Trousseau attended him there and dressed his wound, after which he was removed to the Queen's Hospital. The bug, was imported from San Francisco three years ago, and could not be replaced for $300. It is badly broken up.

SUPREME COURT.

April Term.

The April term of the Supreme Court opened yesterday morning, Judge McCully presiding and a large representation of the bar being present. A summary of the day's business appears below.

The King vs. Piipilani, selling liquor. Stricken from calendar for non-perfection of appeal.

Two cases of ejectment, Kimo vs. Kailianu and Kanaloa vs. Quinn, were laid over for the term.

A jury trial was waived in the case of Parke vs. Robinson, trover.

Waahia vs. Enos, assumpsit, was put over for the term.

A jury was waived in the case of Lonowahine vs. Campbell, ejectment.

A demurrer was entered in Kahoo-hui vs. Hamauku, ejectment.

Spreckels vs. Macfarlane, assumpsit, was put over for the term.

Rice vs. Cornwell, assumpsit, was set for trial before a foreign jury on Monday the 11th.

Hymn vs. Sanford, assumpsit, foreign jury; also Parke vs. See Hop Co., assumpsit, were set for Monday the 18th.

The probate appeal in the estate of Unea was withdrawn.

A Hawaiian jury was empanelled in the case of the King vs. Kaulana Hale, adultery. This trial proceeded, occupying the rest of the day. Attorney General for the Crown; W. A. Kinney for defendant.

AT CHAMBERS.

Before Chief Justice Judd. The petition of Kahuhu Baker, of Lahaina, Maui, wife of John Baker, sets forth that her husband is of the age of 78 years, is of unsound mind and asks the appointment of a guardian. The Court, after hearing, decides from the evidence and from the examination of John Baker himself, that he is incapable of attending to his own matters of business, and appoints W. O. Smith to act as his guardian under a bond of $500.

In the matter of the estate of Kealoha (k.), deceased. The application of Miriama, administratrix, for a decree of the Court to sell certain lands for the payment of debts against the estate was heard on the 16th of March and all interested notified to appear on the 4th of April and show cause, if any, why such decree should not be issued. Publication of notice was proved in the usual form. The hearing was postponed one week owing to the absence of Mr. Kinney at the opening of the Supreme Court term.

Before Judge Preston. Habeas corpus. A petition had been filed on Saturday by Mr. A. C. Smith on behalf of Manuel de Souza, a prisoner, for a writ of habeas corpus, which was issued and made returnable at 10 o'clock, when the prisoner was brought into Court in charge of Captain Tripp, Jailer. Messrs. S. B. Dole and A. C. Smith appeared for the prisoner, and Mr. A. Peterson, Deputy Attorney-General, for the Marshal. The prisoner was convicted in the District Court of East Kau, Hawaii, on the 29th January last of the offense of "hoeha me ka mea make," before George Timoteo, District Justice, and sentenced to a fine of $150, costs $4.65, and hard labor for six months.

It was alleged on behalf of the petitioner that (1) the District Court of Kau had no jurisdiction to try the offense specified; (2) it nowhere appears in the mittimus that the offense charged was committed within the district of Kau; (3) it is nowhere stated in said mittimus that the assault and battery charged was committed on any particular person, or upon any person at all; (4) there is no such offense known to the statute as that named in said mittimus.

The answer on behalf of the Marshal sets forth the grounds of the prisoner's detention as stated in the mittimus. The prisoner's counsel put in a denial to the answer of the Marshal, to show that the judgment under which the mittimus was issued was illegal.

The Court orders that time be allowed until the 20th instant to produce the record of the lower Court, and that petitioner be admitted to bail with one surety for $300, or two sureties for $150 each.

Voyage of the "Morning Star."

The missionary steam barkentine Morning Star arrived in port early yesterday morning, 49 days from the Mortlock group. From Captain Turner our reporter has obtained an outline of the whole cruise. Left Honolulu, July 24, 1886; was 17 days to Tapateuca, Gilbert Islands; thence cruised among the islands to the Marshall group, and on to Kusaie in the Carolines; thence to Ponape, same group, and on to Ruk, taking missionaries to the general meeting of the mission there; thence back, calling at minor points, to Kusaie. At the latter place they took on board the superintendent, teachers and scholars belonging to the Gilberts, depositing them as required on ten different islands, after which the vessel returned to Kusaie. There taking on board a similar party to the above, belonging to the Marshalls, a cruise was made among the latter, picking up new scholars and leaving old ones at their own island homes, where some of them were elected to serve as missionaries to their kinsfolk. Returning again to Kusaie, the Morning Star sailed for Ponape, taking thence a fresh party from the mission school there to the islands of Pinlap and Mokil in the Caroline group. Going back to Ponape and thence to Ruk, the vessel took another party of teachers and scholars to the Mortlock Islands. From the island of Lukonor in that group the Morning Star set sail homeward bound for Honolulu, on February 14. The distance sailed, the course being somewhat zigzag on account of contrary winds, was about 4,900 miles, and that traversed from leaving till returning to Honolulu being about 13,000 miles. The Morning Star steamed about 15 days all told on the return trip.

In answer to a question regarding the truth of a report that a boiler tube had burst on the vessel while on the cruise, Captain Turner said lots of them had burst. There are two boilers in the vessel, and both are in bad condition, one being used on the voyage while the other was repairing. The stern of the vessel is also badly affected by dry rot, a fact well known before she left Honolulu, but a board of survey advised that the vessel could be made temporarily seaworthy with a few bolts in the weak part. Before again going on an expedition among the heathen isles, the vessel will have to receive repairs more or less extensive to both hull and boilers.

The Morning Star left Rev. Mr. Logan and the other missionaries in good health, of course excepting those returned by her. Of these Miss Hemingway, who went down by the same vessel, has had to return on account of her health. Mrs. Hina, who came back with her four surviving children, had the misfortune to lose her husband, a native Hawaiian missionary. He started with his son and several others to go from one island to another, but the frail craft never reached its destination, and all its occupants had to be given up as lost.

The Morning Star was docked at the Pacific Navigation Company's wharf yesterday afternoon, when many of Captain Turner's friends went on board to give him a cordial welcome back to Honolulu.

Death and Burial of Mrs. Severance.

The death of Mrs. Anna Hamblin Severance, which took place at the residence of Hon. W. C. Parke, Kukui street, Saturday afternoon, leaves another blank among the old residents of this city. Mrs. Severance had attained the ripe age of nearly eighty-six years, and was highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. Deceased was a cousin of Mr. Hamblin, one of the Vice Presidents of the United States. She came to the Islands with her husband, Hon. Luther Severance, who was appointed United States Commissioner to these Islands under President Pierce, and remained here until the summer of 1854 when she accompanied Mr. Severance, then in ill health, to the States.

After the death of her husband Mrs. Severance returned to Honolulu in 1857 and since that time made her home with her daughter Mrs. W. C. Parke. During the last five years of her life, deceased has been ill and unable to leave the house. She leaves two sons and one daughter, Mr. H. W. Severance of San Francisco, Mr. Luther Severance of Hilo and Mrs. Parke.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon from Mr. Parke's residence, and was largely attended, friends coming in from all quarters to pay their last tribute of respect to the worthy lady. Among those present were Her Royal Highness the Princess Liliuokalani; with her husband, General Dominis. Floral offerings were numerous and elaborate. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Cruzan and a quartet from Fort street Church sung appropriate hymns. The pall-bearers were Chief Justice Judd, Hon. C. R. Bishop, Mr. J. Austin, Mr. J. T. Waterhouse, Jr., Mr. A. J. Cartwright and Mr. W. W. Hall. The remains were interred in the Nuuanu cemetery.

The San Francisco Examiner of the 16th of March has a column and a half of rather spicy reading on Hawaiian affairs in which the financial frivolities and extravagances of the government are detailed with a minuteness the worst element in which is the quantity of truth it contains.

"Cora Dune"—Notes and Paragraphs.

It is only lately that girls have been initiated into the, to them, long hidden mysteries of how they are made and the nature of the different vital functions and the location and operation of the bodily organs.

A gentleman riding in one of the street cars a few days ago noticed a young and pretty girl, who never lifted her eyes all the way from West Philadelphia from an illustrated book which she seemed perusing with wrapt interest.

The great amount of out-of-door exercise taken by young ladies and women generally is no doubt in a great measure responsible for the decline in the practice of fainting.

One of the good old "chestnuts" among story tellers has always been the fainting young lady "coming to" when some one calls for a bucket of water.

How much the joking has had to do with adopting the practice of fainting is hard to say, but fainting is now completely out of fashion, and no one ever sees or hears anything of it except upon the stage and in novels.

The changed ideas regarding woman and her life and sphere have done it. Since woman, and especially young women, have stopped living exclusively indoors, fainting has become comparatively unknown, and even hysteria is rare.

Many of our occupations, industrial pursuits, out-of-door sports—these have had their influence in making the woman of to-day not the frail lily that wilted at the least excitement or tilted over in an over-heated room, but strong and sensible creatures, much better fitted in every way to make a home happy.

A Few of Her Troubles. The woman generally and properly knows little or nothing about the daily progress of a man's business.

He conducts his farm, factory, trade, profession without her direct interference or knowledge. If he asks a loss or a profit she knows nothing about it unless he thinks to tell her, and I suppose that unless some extraordinary incident is connected with it, he seldom does think to tell her.

She is absorbed in her work, and when he is at home he does not wish to "talk shop," nor does she desire that he should. She knows, or ought to know, the general condition of his business, his profits, his income, how much they can afford to spend, when they ought to retrench, when they are justified in increasing outlay.

This is all that is necessary. If he dismisses a man, if he increases his force, if he changes his methods, she does not feel it, sees no result from it, is not affected by it.

But with household business the man must be constantly interfering—rather, I ought to say, he is constantly involved in it. It is not simply that he is, as the woman is to the man, the ideal object, he is the practical, actual center, the daily and almost hourly controlling force.

The whole household system revolves around him, is conformed to his necessities, is shaped to his purposes. Everything of heart and soul and mind and strength must and ought to bend to his three meals each day, prompt, agreeable, sufficient. No intermission can be allowed while the mistress is changing servants.

She has no leeway. If there is a strike in the kitchen the man will none the less be at home in three hours furnishing for his dinner, and the hungry children are hungrier than ever the moment there is nothing to eat.

The house warming, the room red-ding, the stocking mending, feeding and laundering all must go on every minute. The kitchen doors cannot be closed for three weeks or three months to let the heaven of logic work. They are all hungry now. They are all sleepy now. They are all dirty now.

The mother must either turn cook and housemaid herself, or she must take such maids as she can get at what prices she must pay.—Gail Hamilton in New York World.

Conquering Foolish Fears. Some children are very much afraid of horses. Don't oblige such children to touch a horse. But whenever occasion offers in the presence of such a child, pet and pat a horse without seeming to notice the fact that the child is afraid.

By degrees, your example, if he have perfect faith in his parents, will have such an effect upon him that he himself, almost without knowing it, will do the same thing, unless the fear be one of those inexplicable "rooted aversions" which nothing can erase.

The same system can be practised with those children who are so unfortunate as to be afraid of the dark.

Try sitting with the child from the latest light on through twilight into the dark, talking to him pleasantly the while. Perhaps after a few times of such treatment you can say: "Wait here a moment, I am going to get a lamp." Perhaps he will stay but if he does not feel inclined to do so, don't force him. Wait a few days longer.

Try sitting in the absolute dark some evening, and when he calls to know where you are, say quietly, "Here I am." "But you have no light." "No, I like to sit in the dark." "But I can't find you." "Listen to my voice now, and see if you can't tell where I am, and then see if you can't come straight to me without the use of your eyes." In the interest of trying to do something and feeling that you are near almost all fear is lost and the battle won.

Then is the time to tell him quietly that it is foolish to be afraid, but that you know and thoroughly understand how he feels, and that you hope that some day he shall have conquered the trouble. If you can recall for his benefit some time when you were just so foolish, it will do him a tremendous amount of good, and you will be sound together more closely by a bond of sympathy.—Mrs. E. C. Hewett in Ladies' Home Journal.

Neatness in Dress at Home. The importance of neat and tasteful house-dressing cannot be overestimated. The mistress who appears before the members of her family in a shabby, soiled wrapper, and makes the excuse—If, indeed, she takes the trouble to make one at all—that "it is so such more comfortable," has little idea of the possible consequences of such a course.

It is but realize that her dress is an example to her daughters, and one to be followed by her own men of life; that her husband and sons cannot fail to draw comparisons between her dress and that of the ladies they meet in other homes, and that these comparisons cannot fail to decrease their respect for her, she might be induced to give more attention to her personal appearance. Not even the burden of care and constant employment can furnish a sufficient excuse for careless personal habits, for few things are now important to the well being of a family.

There is an old saying to the effect that an untidy mother has disobedient children; and while neither parents nor children may realize the why or wherefore of it, yet there is always a lack of respect and an indifference to the authority of a mother who takes no pride in her personal appearance. And it is not the mother alone upon whose shoulders rests the burden of responsibility for home neatness and order in dress; the father has his duties to look after as well, and should never fail to insist upon the younger members of the family presenting themselves with well kept hands, clean faces, neatly brushed hair, and orderly dress, at least at every meal where the family assembles.—Brooklyn Magazine.

Women Can Afford to Remain Single.

The common talk is among young men that they cannot afford marriage, because wives are such an expensive luxury, and altogether such an impediment that no one can afford to have one unless he is very rich, or is willing to remain very poor. This kind of twaddle is so much in vogue that it will probably seem horsey to take any other view of the case, but bearing in mind the innumerable stories of beating and mutilation, and even murder, inflicted upon women by drunken and ugly husbands, it seems to be about time to start a crusade to bring about a resolve on the part of women not yet married. They run about twenty times as much risk in such an operation as the man does, and if the latter cannot "afford" it, to take unto himself a wife the majority can well afford on their part to remain single. Within twenty years we predict that clubs for women and an increased independence in earning a livelihood, and a generally better status for unmarried women will result in a serious diminution of the marriage rate. And, when women are not to be got for the asking, men will be more careful of them. A little "corner" in the marriage market would not be a bad thing.—Boston Record.

Care of Children's Feet.

Wise mothers see that the children always have dry feet. Shoes should be loose enough to be comfortable always—half an inch longer than the foot, but not loose enough to slip round. Never let the child wear a shoe that is run over on the side or heel, and constantly discourage the habit of standing on the outer edges of the shoe, turning in the toes, or rubbing one foot over the other. Have the child taught from the earliest hours of understanding that the moment his feet are wet he must change shoes and stockings. Some children's feet perspire so that woolen stockings keep the feet damp and cold; let them wear cotton hose, and buy the elastic woolen webbing which comes by the yard, and draw it over the child's limb to the ankle; this will protect the limbs, which, in snow and slush, should also be covered with leggings. If mothers will make it a rule that the child's hose must be hung up when taken off, and the feet warmed before going to bed, they will save themselves much trouble. Too many mothers tie up a child's throat, a most pernicious habit, and allow the child to wear thin shoes or sit with rubbers on for hours.—Philadelphia Call.

One Dress for All Occasions.

It would simplify matters wonderfully should the women of America adopt an ancient custom observed in Holland, where it is the ambition of every Dutch lady of high degree to possess a black lace dress. This is carefully worn, and lasts a lifetime, in many cases being handed down from one generation to another. The singular feature of this custom is that no matter what the style of the dress, whether of ancient or modern fashion, it is perfectly correct to don it upon whatever occasion of state or social entertainment the owner may desire to appear therein. Indeed, no lady's wardrobe is considered complete without this dress, which is made all in one piece. The lady for whom the garment is to be fashioned, having expressed her preference in the matter, patterns are drawn and given to the lacemakers, who then set to work and make it according to directions without a single seam. Such a dress is, of course, expensive at the outset, but once secured is most economical, inasmuch as it is elegant, and, no matter how frequently worn, is always in good taste and admired by the company.—Baltimore American.

How to Have White Hands.

A little ammonia or borax in the water you wash your hands with, and that water just lukewarm, will keep the skin clean and soft. A little oatmeal mixed with the water will whiten the hands. Many people use glycerine on their hands when they go to bed, wearing their gloves to keep the bedding clean; but glycerine does not agree with every one. It makes some skin harsh and red. These people should rub their hands with dry oatmeal and wear gloves in bed. A good preparation for the hands at night is white of egg, with a grain of alum dissolved in it. The "Roman toilet paste" is merely white of egg, barley flour and honey. They say it was used by the Romans in olden time. It is a first rate thing, but it does not do the work any better than oatmeal. The roughest and hardest hands can be made soft and white in a month's time by doctoring them a little at bedtime; and all the tools you need are a nail brush, a bottle of ammonia, a box of powdered borax, and a little fine, white sand to rub the stains off, or a cut of a lemon, which will do even better, for the acid of the lemon will clean anything.—Popular Science Monthly.

Gently Closing Doors.

Once I called with a friend upon a sick person whose nerves had become so painfully acute through suffering that noise tortured her. A screen door opened from the room into the hall, and as callers or members of the family passed in or out, a quick, sharp slam of this door followed close on their egress or ingress. The torture of the noise sent a spasm of pain across the sick woman's face, but she bore it uncomplainingly, thinking it more endurable than flies and mosquitoes, and no one had noticed or thought to lessen this annoyance until my friend's kind heart and quick eye prompted and planned a remedy. She called for tacks and cotton batting, and making firm little cushions of the batting, she tacked them up and down the casing where the door would strike, and the sharp slam bang was instantly softened as the door swung to. The grateful language and glance of the sick woman made me wish that I, too, had eyes that could see ways to be helpful toward others.—Philadelphia Call.

The Equitable Column.

THE EQUITABLE Life Assurance Society

OF THE UNITED STATES. Total Assets, Dec. 31, '86, $75,510,472.76. Total Liabilities, including legal Reserve on all existing policies (4 per cent Standard) $59,454,597.000. Total Undivided Surplus over Four per cent Reserve, $16,355,875.76.

Of which the proportion contributed (as computed) by Policies in general class, is $ 5,728,764.76. Of which the proportion contributed (as computed) by Policies in Tontine class, is 10,627,114.00.

Upon the New York State Standard of 4 1/2 per cent interest, the Surplus is as computed, $20,495,175.76.

New Assurance written in 1886, $111,540,203. Total Outstanding Assurance, $411,779,095.

Increase of Premium Income, $2,810,475.40. Increase of Surplus (Four per cent basis), $2,409,636.63. Increase of Assets, $8,957,085.26.

In actual Surplus (namely the excess of accumulated funds over liabilities) in Premium Income in the amount of Assurance in force on its books, the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States exceeds every other life assurance company, and may justly be regarded as the largest and strongest life assurance organization in the world.

EXAMPLE

Of Policy No. 67,389. Life. Issued Jan. 22, 1872, on the life of W. H. C. Date of expiration Jan. 22, 1887. Amount of Policy, $10,000. Tontine Period, 15 years. Age 53. Annual Premium, $543.10.

Total premiums paid in 15 years, - $8,146.50

1. CASH VALUE, Consisting of Reserve, $3,856.30 and Surplus, 4,199.80, $8,056.10

2. PAID-UP VALUE, - $13,050.00

If the policy-holder select this settlement, as the paid-up value is larger than the original amount of assurance, a satisfactory certificate of good health must be furnished, or the excess must be drawn on a cash basis.

3. CASH SURPLUS, - $5,199.80

Under this settlement, the policy holder withdraws the surplus in cash, and retains the original policy, continuing the payment of premiums, less annual dividends.

Three other options are available under this Policy.

The policies with 10-year Tontine periods do not show results as satisfactory as those above given. Policies with 20-year periods, on the other hand, will show much larger results than those with 15-year periods; but for purposes of illustration the 15-year policies—those of the intermediate period—are given as fair specimens.

The longer period of accumulation which the 20-year policies enjoy renders them the most desirable for those who, seeking absolute protection at the lowest "life" rate, desire also the largest returns in case they live.

Hence the Best Free Tontine "Ordinary Life" Policy is One with a TWENTY-YEAR TONTINE PERIOD

The Free Tontine Policy of the Equitable Life Assurance Society is unrestricted after one year, incontestable after two years, and is then PAYABLE in the event of death, immediately upon the receipt of satisfactory proofs of death.

It guarantees a full share of the surplus earned, and being issued by a Society holding a Larger Surplus than any other Assurance Company,

May be expected to show larger profits than the policies of any other company.

WOMAN AND HOME.

GIRLS STUDYING PHYSIOLOGY AND ESCHEWING HYSTERIA.

Neatness in Dress—Woman's Troubles. Corner in Marriage—Serving Tea—Japanese Women—Perfect Chocolate.

It is only lately that girls have been initiated into the, to them, long hidden mysteries of how they are made and the nature of the different vital functions and the location and operation of the bodily organs.

A gentleman riding in one of the street cars a few days ago noticed a young and pretty girl, who never lifted her eyes all the way from West Philadelphia from an illustrated book which she seemed perusing with wrapt interest.

The woman generally and properly knows little or nothing about the daily progress of a man's business. He conducts his farm, factory, trade, profession without her direct interference or knowledge.

But with household business the man must be constantly interfering—rather, I ought to say, he is constantly involved in it. It is not simply that he is, as the woman is to the man, the ideal object; he is the practical, actual center, the daily and almost hourly controlling force.

Some children are very much afraid of horses. Don't oblige such children to touch a horse. But whenever occasion offers in the presence of such a child, pet and pat a horse without seeming to notice the fact that the child is afraid.

Try sitting with the child from the latest light on through twilight into the dark, talking to him pleasantly the while. Perhaps after a few times of such treatment you can say: "Wait here a moment, I am going to get a lamp."

The importance of neat and tasteful house-dressing cannot be overestimated. The matron who appears before the members of her family in a shabby, soiled wrapper, and makes the excuse—if, indeed, she takes the trouble to make one at all—that "it is so such more comfortable," has little idea of the possible consequences of such a course. It is she but realize that her dress is an example to her daughters, and one indicative of consequences that will reach beyond her own span of life; that her husband and sons cannot fail to draw comparisons between her dress and that of the ladies they meet in other homes, and that these comparisons cannot fail to decrease their respect for her, she might be induced to give more attention to her personal appearance.

There is an old saying to the effect that an untidy mother has disobedient children; and while neither parents nor children may realize the why or wherefore of it, yet there is always a lack of respect and an indifference to the authority of a mother who takes no pride in her personal appearance.

Women Can Afford to Remain Single. The common talk is among young men that they cannot afford marriage, because wives are such an expensive luxury, and altogether such an impediment that no one can afford to have one unless he is very rich, or is willing to remain very poor.

Wise mothers see that the children always have dry feet. Shoes should be loose enough to be comfortable always—half an inch longer than the foot, but not loose enough to slip round.

One Dress for All Occasions. It would simplify matters wonderfully should the women of America adopt an ancient custom observed in Holland, where it is the ambition of every Dutch lady of high degree to possess a black lace dress.

How to Have White Hands. A little ammonia or borax in the water you wash your hands with, and that water just lukewarm, will keep the skin clean and soft.

MORE LIGHT.

The Advertiser of Saturday takes up our leader of the previous day on the political situation in a sort of milk-and-water style that may mean anything or nothing, according to the fancy of the reader. If that paper is in favor of parliamentary reform in Hawaiian affairs, it carefully avoids saying so. At the same time, it is plain that the Advertiser is painfully conscious of the incongruity of the position it would be in by assuming the role of opposition to the existing state of affairs. Allowance must be made for circumstances. The Advertiser fighting an unconstitutional system of representation would be the placing of its own record on the table for dissection, and no man cares to dissect himself or any member of his own family. We fully agree with our contemporary that: "When discussing national politics it is better to keep within the lines of common sense," but we are possibly unfortunate in not being prepared to agree with him on the course that is manifestly dictated by common sense. His plan is to do nothing, feel the patient's pulse, note down the symptoms, shake the head, pronounce it a hopeless case and any other practitioner a quack who ventures the opinion that there is a possibility of improving the condition of the patient. Our plan is to utilize the experience of the past and adopt treatment similar in degree to that which has, in hundreds of other cases, been successful.

We re-assert the fundamental principle on which all our discussion is based that a free people are entitled to be represented by independent men, not employees of the Government. If our contemporary can place any theory closer to the lines of common sense, we shall be pleased to adopt it. Until he does so, however, the public will persist in the opinion that "the King," not the people, "is the largest part of the Legislative Assembly," as was unctuously stated by the Premier in the Legislature of '86. This is probably the only opinion held in common by Minister Gibson and the taxpayers of the nation. In Great Britain the Queen (or King), though an integral part, is practically the least part of the Legislature, while the people, through their representatives, are, to all intents and purposes, the only ruling power. No office-holder under Government can hold a seat in the House of Commons. A similar cast iron rule obtains in the United States. Why should not precisely the same rule be incorporated into the Hawaiian political system? There is nothing in the labored article of the Advertiser to show why it should not. The most that paper succeeds in proving is that there is no reason why it should not. The proposition made by the HERALD, the Advertiser pronounces "clear-cut," but has not the courage of its convictions either to accept or reject it. Our contemporary merely straddles the fence and wants to know before he gets down on either side, "is it feasible?"

The contingency named by him that in the event of a reform legislature being elected, the members might proceed to clothe themselves with the responsibilities and emoluments of office, is too absurd to require argument. Why do not members of legislatures in other countries try it on if there is nothing to prevent it? That "the King"—or the chief executive, of whatever title—"is the largest part of the legislature" is not the doctrine held by any free people on the face of the earth. It is not the theory of government held by any of the tax-payers of Hawaii, however useful it may be to Cabinet Ministers. While all are ready to acknowledge the King as head of the nation, and would support the crown in the exercise of Constitutional prerogatives, it does not follow that stipendiaries of the crown can ever command the confidence of the nation while they perform the double function of collectively making the laws and individually appropriating the emoluments for administering them.

The Advertiser's sneers at our use of the terms anarchy and revolution are, at present, unfortunate and untimely. It was not asserted nor insinuated in this paper that part of the population consists of anarchists. It is enough to know that anarchy is not necessarily an outcome of the presence of avowed "anarchists" among the population. The real anarchists may be found among the sworn administrators of the laws. Before attempting to demonstrate the absence of anarchy, our contemporary ought to wait to see how many of the prisoners of Oahu jail are in durance vile owing to the style in which the laws are administered by the lower Courts of the islands. And if the "Tier man" wants to know where the "revolutionary forces" are, he may, without much searching, find them where they have always been developed, among the people when they come to lose confidence in the integrity and ability of their rulers, and begin to regard them with undisguised hostility and contempt.

Our contemporary's insinuation that we suggested the idea of imposing the English parliamentary system on this country, makes it necessary to allude to a very naughty habit of his, namely, that of misrepresenting the views of those to whom he may happen to range himself in opposition. Our demands have been stated in definite enough terms—no office holders in the Legislature—and it matters not whether it is the English, American, African or Samoan system. It is the system the Kingdom urgently requires for placing its affairs on an improved basis, and without which, its independence and stability will ever remain in a precarious condition.

The probate appeal in the estate of Unea was withdrawn.

A Hawaiian jury was empanelled in the case of the King vs. Kaulana Hale, adultery. This trial proceeded, occupying the rest of the day. Attorney General for the Crown; W. A. Kinney for defendant.

AT CHAMBERS.

Before Chief Justice Judd. The petition of Kahuhu Baker, of Lahaina, Maui, wife of John Baker, sets forth that her husband is of the age of 78 years, is of unsound mind and asks the appointment of a guardian. The Court, after hearing, decides from the evidence and from the examination of John Baker himself, that he is incapable of attending to his own matters of business, and appoints W. O. Smith to act as his guardian under a bond of $500.

In the matter of the estate of Kealoha (k.), deceased. The application of Miriama, administratrix, for a decree of the Court to sell certain lands for the payment of debts against the estate was heard on the 16th of March and all interested notified to appear on the 4th of April and show cause, if any, why such decree should not be issued. Publication of notice was proved in the usual form. The hearing was postponed one week owing to the absence of Mr. Kinney at the opening of the Supreme Court term.

Before Judge Preston. Habeas corpus. A petition had been filed on Saturday by Mr. A. C. Smith on behalf of Manuel de Souza, a prisoner, for a writ of habeas corpus, which was issued and made returnable at 10 o'clock, when the prisoner was brought into Court in charge of Captain Tripp, Jailor. Messrs. S. B. Dole and A. C. Smith appeared for the prisoner, and Mr. A. Peterson, Deputy Attorney-General, for the Marshal. The prisoner was convicted in the District Court of East Kau, Hawaii, on the 29th January last of the offense of "hoeha me ka mea make," before George Timoteo, District Justice, and sentenced to a fine of $150, costs $4.65, and hard labor for six months.

It was alleged on behalf of the petitioner that (1) the District Court of Kau had no jurisdiction to try the offense specified; (2) it nowhere appears in the mittimus that the offense charged was committed within the district of Kau; (3) it is nowhere stated in said mittimus that the assault and battery charged was committed on any particular person, or upon any person at all; (4) there is no such offense known to the statute as that named in said mittimus.

The answer on behalf of the Marshal sets forth the grounds of the prisoner's detention as stated in the mittimus.

The prisoner's counsel put in a denial to the answer of the Marshal, to show that the judgment under which the mittimus was issued was illegal.

The Court orders that time be allowed until the 20th instant to produce the record of the lower Court, and that petitioner be admitted to bail with one surety for $300, or two sureties for $150 each.

Voyage of the "Morning Star."

The missionary steam barkentine Morning Star arrived in port early yesterday morning, 49 days from the Mortlock group. From Captain Turner our reporter has obtained an outline of the whole cruise. Left Honolulu, July 24, 1886; was 17 days to Tapateua, Gilbert Islands; thence cruised among the islands to the Marshall group, and on to Kusaie in the Carolines; thence to Ponape, same group, and on to Ruk, taking missionaries to the general meeting of the mission there; thence back, calling at minor points, to Kusaie. At the latter place they took on board the superintendent, teachers and scholars belonging to the Gilberts, depositing them as required on ten different islands, after which the vessel returned to Kusaie.

There taking on board a similar party to the above, belonging to the Marshalls, a cruise was made among the latter, picking up new scholars and leaving old ones at their own island homes, where some of them were elected to serve as missionaries to their kinsfolk. Returning again to Kusaie, the Morning Star sailed for Ponape, taking thence a fresh party from the mission school there to the islands of Minlap and Mokil in the Caroline group. Going back to Ponape and thence to Ruk, the vessel took another party of teachers and scholars to the Mortlock Islands. From the island of Lukonor in that group the Morning Star set sail homeward bound for Honolulu, on February 14. The distance sailed, the course being somewhat zigzag on account of contrary winds, was about 4,900 miles, and that traversed from leaving till returning to Honolulu being about 13,000 miles. The Morning Star steamed about 15 days all told on the return trip.

In answer to a question regarding the truth of a report that a boiler tube had burst on the vessel while on the cruise, Captain Turner said lots of them had burst. There are two boilers in the vessel, and both are in bad condition, one being used on the voyage while the other was repairing. The stern of the vessel is also badly affected by dry rot, a fact well known before she left Honolulu, but a board of survey advised that the vessel could be made temporarily seaworthy with a few bolts in the weak part. Before again going on an expedition among the heathen isles, the vessel will have to receive repairs more or less extensive to both hull and boilers.

The Morning Star left Rev. Mr. Logan and the other missionaries in good health, of course excepting those returned by her. Of these Miss Hemingway, who went down by the same vessel, has had to return on account of her health. Mrs. Hina, who came back with her four surviving children, had the misfortune to lose her husband, a native Hawaiian missionary. He started with his son and several others to go from one island to another, but the frail craft never reached its destination, and all its occupants had to be given up as lost.

The Morning Star was docked at the Pacific Navigation Company's wharf yesterday afternoon, when many of Captain Turner's friends went on board to give him a cordial welcome back to Honolulu.

Death and Burial of Mrs. Severance.

The death of Mrs. Anna Hamblin Severance, which took place at the residence of Hon. W. C. Parke, Kukui street, Saturday afternoon, leaves another blank among the old residents of this city. Mrs. Severance had attained the ripe age of nearly eighty-six years, and was highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. Deceased was a cousin of Mr. Hamblin, one of the Vice Presidents of the United States. She came to the Islands with her husband, Hon. Luther Severance, who was appointed United States Commissioner to these Islands under President Pierce, and remained here until the summer of 1854 when she accompanied Mr. Severance, then in ill health, to the States.

After the death of her husband Mrs. Severance returned to Honolulu in 1857 and since that time made her home with her daughter Mrs. W. C. Parke. During the last five years of her life, deceased has been ill and unable to leave the house. She leaves two sons and one daughter, Mr. H. W. Severance of San Francisco, Mr. Luther Severance of Hilo and Mrs. Parke.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon from Mr. Parke's residence, and was largely attended, friends coming in from all quarters to pay their last tribute of respect to the worthy lady. Among those present were Her Royal Highness the Princess Liliuokalani; with her husband, General Dominis, Floral offerings were numerous and elaborate. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Cruzan and a quartet from Fort street Church sang appropriate hymns. The pall-bearers were Chief Justice Judd, Hon. C. R. Bishop, Mr. J. Austin, Mr. J. T. Waterhouse, Jr., Mr. A. J. Cartwright and Mr. W. W. Hall. The remains were interred in the Nuuanu cemetery.

The San Francisco Examiner of the 16th of March has a column and a half of rather spicy reading on Hawaiian affairs in which the financial frivolities and extravagances of the government are detailed with a minuteness the worst element in which is the quantity of truth it contains.

WOMAN AND HOME.

GIRLS STUDYING PHYSIOLOGY AND ESCHEWING HYSTERIA.

Neatness in Dress—Woman's Troubles. Corner in Marriage—Serving Tea—Japanese Women—Perfect Chocolate.

It is only lately that girls have been initiated into the, to them, long hidden mysteries of how they are made and the nature of the different vital functions and the location and operation of the bodily organs.

A gentleman riding in one of the street cars a few days ago noticed a young and pretty girl, who never lifted her eyes all the way from West Philadelphia from an illustrated book which she seemed perusing with wrapt interest.

The great amount of out-of-door exercise taken by young ladies and women generally is no doubt in a great measure responsible for the decline in the practice of fainting.

One of the good old "chestnuts" among story tellers has always been the fainting young lady "coming to" when some one calls for a bucket of water.

How much the joking has had to do with stopping the practice it is hard to say, but fainting is now completely out of fashion.

and no one ever sees or hears anything of it except upon the stage and in novels.

The changed ideas regarding woman and her life and sphere have done it. Since women, and especially young women, have stopped living exclusively indoors, fainting has become comparatively unknown, and even hysteria is rare.

Plenty of exercise, occupation, industrial pursuits, out-of-door sports—these have had their influence in making the women of to-day not the frail lilies that wilted at the least excitement or tilted over in an overheard note, but strong and sensible creatures, much better fitted in every way to make a home happy.

—Philadelphia Times.

A Few of Her Troubles.

The woman generally and properly knows little or nothing about the daily progress of a man's business. He conducts his farm, factory, trade, profession without her direct interference or knowledge.

But with household business the man must be constantly interfering—rather, I ought to say, he is constantly involved in it. It is not simply that he is, as the woman is to the man, the ideal center, he is the practical, actual center, the daily and almost hourly controlling force.

The whole household system revolves around him, is conformed to his necessities, is shaped to his purposes. Everything of heart and soul and mind and strength must and ought to bend to his three meals each day, prompt, agreeable, sufficient. No interregnum can be allowed while the mistress is changing servants.

She has no leisure. If there is a strike in the kitchen the man will none the less be at home in three hours fainting for his dinner, and the hungry children are hungrier than ever the moment there is nothing to eat.

The house warming, the room ridding, the stocking mending, feeding and laundering all must go on every minute. The kitchen doors cannot be closed for three weeks or three months to let the leaven of logic work. They are all hungry now. They are all sleepy now. They are all dirty now.

The mother must either turn cook and housemaid herself, or she must take such maids as she can get at what prices she must pay.—Gail Hamilton in New York World.

Conquering Foolish Fears.

Some children are very much afraid of horses. Don't oblige such children to touch a horse. But whenever occasion offers in the presence of such a child, pet and pat a horse without seeming to notice the fact that the child is afraid.

By degrees, your example, if he have perfect faith in his parents, will have such an effect upon him that he himself, almost without knowing it, will do the same thing, unless the fear be one of those inexplicable "rooted aversions" which nothing can erase.

The same system can be practised with those children who are so unfortunate as to be afraid of the dark. Try sitting with the child from the latest light on through twilight into the dark, talking to him pleasantly the while.

Perhaps after a few times of such treatment you can say: "Wait here a moment, I am going to get a lamp." Perhaps he will say, but if he does not feel inclined to do so, don't force him. Wait a few days longer. Try sitting in the absolute dark some evening, and when he calls to know where you are, say quietly, "Here I am."

Neatness in Dress at Home. The importance of neat and tasteful house-dressing cannot be overestimated.

such more comfortable," has little idea of possible consequences of such a course. He also but realize that her dress is an example to her daughters, and one objective of consequences that will reach beyond her own span of life.

There is an old saying to the effect that an untidy mother has disobedient children; and while neither parents nor children may realize the why or wherefore of it, yet there is always a lack of respect and an indifference to the mother alone upon whose shoulders rests the burden of responsibility for home neatness and order in dress.

Women Can Afford to Remain Single.

The common talk is among young men that they cannot afford marriage, because wives are such an expensive luxury, and altogether such an impediment that no one can afford to have one unless he is very rich, or is willing to remain very poor.

Wise mothers see that the children always have dry feet. Shoes should be loose enough to be comfortable—half an inch longer than the foot, but not loose enough to slip round.

Care of Children's Feet.

One Dress for All Occasions.

It would simplify matters wonderfully should the women of America adopt an ancient custom observed in Holland, where it is the ambition of every Dutch lady of high degree to possess a black lace dress.

How to Have White Hands. A little ammonia or borax in the water you wash your hands with, and that water just lukewarm, will keep the skin clean and soft.

Gently Closing Doors.

Once I called with a friend upon a sick person whose nerves had become so painfully acute through suffering that noise tortured her. A screen door opened from the room into the hall, and as callers or members of the family passed in or out, a quick, sharp slam of this door followed close on their steps or ingress.
