REMINISCENCES OF HONOLULU.

XLIII.

During the legislative session of 1858-9, a strong effort was made to remove the restrictions on furnishing intoxicating drinks to natives. The discussion of the subject was mostly confined to the house of nobles, to which Prince Lot Kamehameha, afterwards King Kamehameha V, was a persistent and earnest champion of the rights of his countrymen in this particular. He argued for the abstract right of the native, in his own country, to be on an equality in all respects with the foreigner. The restrictive law did not personally inconvenience the prince, any more than it did his royal brother—the chiefs obtained all the wines and spirits without let or hindrance—but he held that the law tainting liquor to native Hawaiians was class legislation, unjust and humiliating. Opposed to him among the nobles were his own father, Governor Kekuanoa, Governor Kanoa and C. Kanaiia; while the influence of the chaplain, Rev. R. Armstrong, was naturally exercised against license. Mr. Wylie, minister of foreign relations, while fully conceding the correctness of the views held by Prince Lot, was not, however, prepared to go to the full extent of free liquor. But the prince had the majority of the nobles with him, and as the large majority of the lower house was strongly in favor of prohibition to the natives, it seemed at one time very likely that the disagreement would lead to a dissolution, and that the civil code, which had already cost so much time and labor, would again lie over.

On the 15th of January, on motion of Mr. G. M. Robertson, representing the District of Kohala, the following resolution was passed by the lower house:

Resolved—That the clerk of this house be directed to write the secretary of the house of nobles, requesting him to communicate to this house as soon as convenient, the articles in the house of nobles upon that part of the civil code which prescribes the class of persons to whom licenses to sell spirituous liquors may be granted, and to whom such liquors may be sold.

In the house, Mr. Robertson said that his reasons for offering this resolution were, that it had been reported outside, as well as in the house, that the nobles had again inserted the clause, unanimously struck out by the representatives, making it legal to grant liquor licenses to natives, and further, it was reported that they intended to remove the restrictions on selling to natives. Should such be the case, and should each house adhere to its ground, serious consequences might result, even to the loss of the civil code entirely. He thought this matter ought to be understood at once, and if a disagreement was inevitable between the two houses, the people should be appealed to, and let them decide whether the ballot box at the next election whether they wanted free liquor or not.

The reply of the nobles to the above resolution was curtly to the effect that, when they had fully and finally considered the code, they would do themselves the honor to inform the house of representatives of the points of concurrence and non-concurrence with that honorable house.

Discussing the grave question of allowing the natives the same privileges in buying and selling spirituous liquors as awarded to foreigners, the Advertiser used the following language:

But are the people desirous of the proposed "hoon"? Were the question submitted to the test of a popular vote to-morrow, they would spurn it by an overwhelming majority, for they well understand and dread the consequences of a removal of the "tabu." The representatives of the people would be recalcitrant to the trust reposed in them, did they fail to carry out the well-known views of their constituents, and oppose to the last the suicidal policy of the government. Let them stand firm on the ground they have taken—that the time has not yet come to open the floodgates of ruin on our decreasing population, and resist the pernicious counsel of those who would blast every hope that now remains to the nation.

Whatever the result, we pledge them the support of their constituents. Better let the code fall through, null and void, better let the labor and money spent on it be all spent in vain, than to initiate and legalize a system which can only scatter suffering, disease and death among a race which nothing but the power of Almighty God can save from extinction.

The prophetic utterances of twenty-four years ago find an echo to-day.

But better counsels prevailed, the threatened disagreement was avoided, and so the "hoon" of free liquor for Hawaiians was postponed for twenty-four years.

The missionary packet, the Morning Star, (it must be remembered that the vessel now bearing that name is the third), returned from Micronesia on January 24, 1859, and was put into the shipwright's hands for needed repairs. And here was exposed a singular fraud on the part of the Boston builders of this goshop ship. While calking the upper works about the stern preparatory to heaving down, it was discovered by the sound that something was unusual inside the planking, and on tearing in the timber was found as rotten as punk. The planking was then stripped off some four feet down, nearly to the water's edge, when a most extraordinary sight was presented. Not only were the timbers so rotten that they could easily be picked to pieces with the fingers, but the whole stern frame was a most curious combination of patch-work, made up of the refuse odds and ends of a shipyard. One timber in particular was noticed. The lower part was of oak, evidently unseasoned when put in, at the middle was a piece of pitch pine some two feet in length, and on top a similar piece of spruce, these two last not jointed together, but merely held in their places by the iron fastenings of the ceiling and the outside planking.

The Theodore Thomas Orchestra tour from Baltimore to San Francisco is expected to reach Honolulu on Friday, June 6th, and the festival will open the 7th and continue to the 13th. There will be seven concerts given in the Mechanics' Pavilion. There will be a Beecham's night, a Wagner night, and special nights for "Redemption," "Messiah" and "Elijah." Selections from "The Damnation of Faust" will also be given. Tickets have been sold in advance in all of the thirty cities to be visited, except San Francisco, where the most elaborate festival of all is to be given. It is estimated the subscription will reach $30,000. The traveling force will consist of Thomas and an orchestra of thirty selected from the Philo-Harmonic Orchestra; Mrs. Humphrey Allen of Boston and Mrs. Norton Hamilton of New York, sopranos; Belle Coe, contralto; Fred Hayes, tenor; Franz Rembrandt, basso, and Madame River-King, solo pianist.

The rendering of Longfellow's poem "The Hanging of the Crane" at the Gymnasium on Tuesday evening, promises to be of unusual interest. The glad story of the wretched lives from—

"Fortunate and happy day, When a new home finds its place Among the meadow fields of earth, Till on the golden wedding day, The ancient bridegroom and the bride, Sincerely smiling on the scene, Behold, and bless every side."

Will be told both in the words of the poet and living pictures of the varying events of the world-wide experience.

A correspondent writes: "In the Elele Pokoala of the 18th instant, I notice an article relating to a mass meeting of over two thousand persons, held in the morning at the residence of the late-day saint from the briny lake of Utah, at Laie, Kaulaoua. Now what I would like to know is, can you tell me the name of the speaker, and the nature of the address, and the result of the meeting of the disciples of the shepherd saint of Laie, held when there was in 1878 only four hundred and forty-eight males, and four hundred and forty females in the whole District of Kaulaoua."

by the Fort Street choir and the audience, and a suggestive poem by Mrs. B. F. Dillingham, sympathetically read by Mr. Frank Damon, before the address by Mr. Atherton, Mr. T. H. Davies, Rev. Mr. Cramer and Mr. P. C. Jones, all of whom spoke to the subject of the building of the building committee, who spoke so thoroughly to the point that $1700 was raised among the audience to make up a deficit of $1000, which was the amount of necessary furniture. In reference to what seems mistaken efficiency, the names of those contributing are withheld. The friend will, however, contain a complete financial statement of the Association's affairs, together with much valuable Y. M. C. A. data, and ought to be in the hands of every member and every friend of the society. After the address, a dinner, cake and coffee was served, which the lady friends of the cause furnished most bountifully. When it truthfully may be stated that the young ladies and three young gentlemen, who occupied a conspicuously good natural character, acknowledge themselves responsible for the disappearance of sixteen barrels of flour, it is really well to know that there was no stult. Moreover it was nice.

The following account is made up partly from information received by the Press, and partly from a letter furnished by Mr. Marshall Parke.

Newspapers to hand per steamer Likelele, on Sunday last, of a shooting affair, which occurred in Honolulu, and which, from an unusual character, has created quite a sensation there.

About midnight of the 18th instant, the sleeping apartments of Messrs. Casper and Burnett, situated in the building of the local company, were burglariously entered by several persons, and the occupants attacked and choked while yet in their beds. Immediately upon being aroused from sleep by the attack, Casper and Burnett, who were in the room, with this he commenced firing, and succeeded in wounding three of his assailants, one of whom (John McCullum) died on the following afternoon. Messrs. Casper and Burnett (master) and J. C. White (a government school teacher) are supposed to be fatally wounded, and are probably dead before this. The assailants were shot in the back, and were supposed, while retreating, and White, once through the left lung, Douglas, a carpenter, by an early retreat, escaped unhurt, while Casper and Burnett, who have been identified as the assailants, got off with a slight cut upon the forehead from a glancing bullet.

The incentive to this foolish and futile assault was apparently a reward of $1000 or sympathy of the assailants with certain illicit vendors of liquor, who, through information supplied by Casper and Burnett, had lately been arrested and sentenced at His Honor's Court. Casper and Burnett had previously been arrested and tried before the police magistrate on a charge of perjury in the above cases, but were acquitted. A reward of $1000 was offered for a skill and cross-bones, together with a warning to the informers that they would be sent away from that district, was posted in a conspicuous place in Honolulu, and the police magistrate was informed of the same.

On the day following the tragedy a meeting of citizens was held to consider the matter, at which addresses were made by the Rev. Mr. Lyman, Rev. E. P. Baker, D. H. Hitchcock. The following resolution was passed at the meeting: "Resolved, That while deeply deploring the event which has called us together, we call upon the authorities to use their utmost exertions to discover and arrest and prosecute, to the full extent of the law, each and every one concerned in the burglarious assault on the premises occupied by Messrs. Casper and Burnett on the night of Wednesday, April 18, 1883."

MR. MACFEE'S STORY. Anent the Kilauea Labor troubles. EDITOR SATURDAY PRESS:—Sir: In your issue of the 4th instant, which has just come to hand, appears an extremely one-sided and incorrect account of the late trouble between the Kilauea Sugar Company by some German laborers, and tried in the Police Court, Honolulu, on the 9th instant. As it is undesirable to have the public mind misled by such a matter, perhaps you will allow me space in your columns to present the other side of the case.

When in question were imported from Germany to work under contracts for $16 per month, without board. The Kilauea Sugar Company was bound by the contract to furnish lodgings, and half an acre of land to each man; but nothing more. On arrival, till their permanent quarters were ready, the men were lodged temporarily in the huts of the adjoining mill, a spacious, well-ventilated building, where suitable beds had been prepared. As each man brought their own bedding, they were not inconvenienced, nor asked nor expected to supply these articles.

The permanent quarters for the men consisted of rooms twelve feet long, ten feet wide and eight feet high, with a double bed in each room. Two men were supposed to be in each room, but some men had rooms alone.

Somewhat before this time, these men stated, that being unmarried, half an acre of land was of no use to them, and unanimously petitioned to have the full use of a large dining room, and the use of the kitchen. The latter was paid for them instead of receiving the half acre of land. Their request was complied with.

In court, the men admitted having proposed and accepted this arrangement, but insisted that the company had received no written release from the obligation to supply each man with half an acre of land, the judge ruled that the release was not binding. On the 10th of June, also to employ a janitor. The furnishing of the building is to be completed as rapidly as possible and its rooms opened to the men. Mr. P. C. Jones was elected to the committee. On motion the trustees added under the charter, Messrs. C. M. Cooke, P. C. Jones and B. F. Dillingham, were appointed the parties, whom all applications for the use of the building, other than for the purposes of the association, should be made. The various standing committees were announced and will be published in the May issue of the Friend. A handsome party table was presented the association by Mrs. D. D. Baldwin, which was accepted and vote of thanks passed to the donor.

According to announcement, the portrait of the late Judge Robertson was formally unveiled on Saturday morning last. Chief Justice Judg. Dillingham, and a number of persons were present, and attended to the unveiling of the portrait, to honor the occasion. The chief justice made some extended and interesting remarks upon the life and character of the subject of the portrait, and accompanied by the judge, the judge of the country, and dwell particularly upon the valuable services he had rendered to the country, and which were most needed; upon his untiring devotion to the performance of his duties he had assumed, and upon his ability and impartiality as a judge. This calls to mind a remark made by the late Chief Justice Harris, while yet a member of the bar, that "Judge Robertson was not laid, but born, a lawyer." The portrait which was painted by Judge D. D. Strong, now in Honolulu, has been hung between the case of the first Chief Justice Lee, and his successor Allen, on the northwest wall of the court room. The likeness is an excellent and striking representation of the original, and forms a most interesting addition to the collection of portraits already there. The king was present at the unveiling.

The dedicatory exercises of the new hall of the Hawaiian Publication Association, which was attended by a large number of citizens, King David was present, many leading citizens, a fair proportion of feminine youth, beauty and elegance, and a very satisfactory number of young men and boys. An entire description programme was completed, a detailed description of which will be given in the Friend for Monday next. The dedicatory exercises were held at the residence of Mrs. Davies and Miss Dickson, vocal music

THE BELL TELEPHONE CASE.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, there was brought to a hearing, before Chief Justice Judg., a very important suit in equity, filed by the Hawaiian Bell Telephone Company, against Messrs. Preston and Hatch, who were appointed by the complainants, and the Oriental Telephone Company (Limited) of London, England, and E. Adams of this city, as the defendants. Messrs. Preston and Hatch appeared for the complainants, and A. S. Hartwell and S. B. Dole for the defendants.

The allegations of the bill of complaint are briefly the following effect: That Samuel Hubbard, the gentlemen at whose instance our local company was organized, in the fall of 1880, was the agent of the Oriental Bell Telephone Company of Boston, and represented to the promoters of the local company, that the Boston Company held patents upon all telephonic apparatus, and that it would be impossible for a company to engage in the telephone business in Honolulu, without the consent of the Boston Company. That the promoters of the local company, upon all telephonic apparatus, and that it would be impossible for a company to engage in the telephone business in Honolulu, without the consent of the Boston Company.

That, in reliance upon these representations and promises, the local promoters subscribed and organized the Hawaiian Bell Telephone Company, and agreed to issue to the Boston Company $10 of the local shares of stock into which the capital of the company was proposed to be divided. That the Boston Company, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

That the defendant, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

That the defendant, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

That the defendant, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

That the defendant, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

That the defendant, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

That the defendant, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

That the defendant, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

That the defendant, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

That the defendant, in reliance upon these representations and promises, issued to the local company, before the formal issue of the shares, a complete set of instruments, in accordance with this agreement, which included, and obtained wholly without consideration and by fraud on the part of the present defendant, the right of the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares, and the right to the local company to issue shares.

SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

EDITOR SATURDAY PRESS.—Sir: As I sit at my table preparing mental material for those of your readers interested in San Francisco in particular, and California in general, my eye rests upon a highly-colored illustrated time-table of the Central and Southern Pacific Railroads, which contains the name of every place on either coast, the time of arrival and departure and other items of interest and profit to the traveler. Not only does this appertain to these two particular routes, but to the side attractions like Yosemite Valley, the Geysers, Santa Cruz, Monterey and other places. All are so plainly laid out that the wayfarer man—though awfully stupid—may not err therein. What I am getting at, is this: Why don't your inter-island steamship companies issue similar publications, sending them broadcast through this land for the benefit of yourselves, very surely, and to the satisfaction of those who may have visited your beautiful country?

Now this is not intended to ignore that reliable and popular publication Thrupp's Annual, wherein this information can be found, but to suggest multiplication, if need be, of extracts from its pages. Let the world know still more than now of the delightful sea trip, and its other change of scene and climate from our rush and turmoil, our harsh winds, and our changeable temperature.

I introduce this topic because an unusually large number of eastern people are here for a change, and are anxious to find pastures new. To many, the Hawaiian Islands present a fair field for commercial expenditure. To others, Hawaii offers the rest they seek. In view of the many questions propounded the writer, these few remarks are submitted.

So Kalkana, the king, desires his profile perpetuated in gold and silver, and why not? Has he not as much right as any other potentate to the privilege? Anything were better than depreciated coin, smuggled into the country at a profit to the parties interested at from 8 to 10 per cent. And why should our papers blackguard him about it, if he can pay the expenses of coining?

Hawaiian matters continue to interest the papers. The latest item is the spoke placed in young Belmont's wheel by your resident Minister Daggett. The whole statement about reshipping sugar was so absurd that it seemed almost a waste of ink and paper to try controverting it. But people did believe it, and it is difficult to beat a change of heart into any case-hardened sinner who has self-interest continually between him and the truth.

By this steamer my enaciated friend Samuel Hubbard may revisit the tropics to realize the extent to which his small infant, the Hawaiian Bell Telephone Company has grown, to renew old acquaintance, and perhaps convince your good people that rancid butter can be made better than when first from the churn, and ordinary cod oil rendered palatable and preferable to salad oil. The theory is a shocking one—at least it is all to be done by electricity, which amounts to about the same thing. The invention is attracting much attention here, as noted in my last, and, if what is claimed for it is true, will be invaluable to many, and a great boon to the boomer whose bills are wretchedly low whose butter is not.

Another enterprise, is calling for comment from our papers. It seems that Texas is deeding away an immense tract of land to Chicago capitalists, the consideration being the erection of a capitol building within six years, at a cost of not less than $1,500,000. This tract of land has just been transferred to an English syndicate for the small advance of $10,000,000 a neat turn, that.

Money must be easier to get at the present time. Vanderbilt is said to have so much more than $100,000,000 that no one claims to know the extent of it. He recently gave a party at his New York place, the expense of which is estimated variously from $500,000 to $500,000, which provokes the comment from our Occident newspapers that such really great philanthropists as Peabody, Dodge, Cooper and others would have used the money to alleviate suffering, preferring the pleasure of giving during their life-time rather than have posthumous glory, which is often but a scramble over the remains.

And now comes Jay Gould, another millionaire, reputed worth at least $100,000,000, launching a steam yacht costing $500,000 or more, and fitted up with every luxury which money and taste can procure. Yet Gould is said to hate the sea. But he has been so many times shipwrecked on shore—in fortune—that the terrors of the briny deep seem trifling in comparison.

A mother-in-law out at Pike's Peak. With some throat could hardly speak. St. Jacob's Oil cured her. And those who endured her. Say she talked right along for a week. Such is the sentiment in a different form, which is presented every morning for the unwary who make it a point to read the papers thoroughly. If the man who composes the doggerel would only take his medicine himself perhaps he would be cured; but it would take more than one bottle, and several vigorous applications, for the above is only a mild sample.

Our public prints are fine educators of the young. I should think the headlines would melt from the fervent heat incident to being so often set up in such announcements as "Brutal Prize Fights," "Assassinations," "Defalcations," "Methods of the Dynamic Party," "Twenty Apache Murders," etc., and now the Chronicle speaks of the Bulletin and Call as the "Evening Anaxias" and the "Morning Sappho." As my knowledge of the Bible's laws is confined to two, I do not see where the Chronicle has left any place for itself. I do not know as it is policy to admit the influence of the Chronicle, but, if I should, it would be to say that it has done more real damage to your interests by its way of harping on the distorted sugar question and the leprosy than it can ever do you good. ADOLPHUS.

San Francisco, April 8, 1893. The New York market was very "light" according to latest San Francisco reports. A late dispatch says: The general New York exchange is steadily improving at New York and elsewhere. There is strong state of things than appeared last week. The deal in stocks were small and sales were much smaller than those of the corresponding week last year. The remaining exchanges, deducting double the market value of the shares sold, are $37,485,800 for the last week against $72,005,801 in 1892, and $71,222,111 in 1891. It is long since payments at New York, not arising from stock operations, have shown any increase in comparison with those of previous years. On the other hand, the improvement in comparative exchanges, outside of New York, continues, and the rate of increase recorded for the last week, 3 per cent, is the highest for thirteen weeks. There is strong evidence of a more healthy condition of business, though it is well not to forget that at several points speculation in products has largely taken the place of speculation in stocks. Whether the improvement, which has been thus far real and substantial, but not of the sort to bear expansion into a boom, will be lost for any time, must probably depend mainly upon the speculative fraternity.

PROMINENT DEATHS.

Recent notable deaths include Mrs. Margaret Bennett, niece of Robert Emmet, dying in New York city, aged ninety; John Brown, the devoted body servant of Queen Victoria; James Clinton, an old and prominent resident of California; Mrs. Mary Halleck, last surviving daughter of Major John Paulding of revolutionary fame; Postmaster-General Howe, of the United States Cabinet, of whom the following brief biography has been taken from an exchange: "Hon. Timothy O. Howe of Green Bay, Wis., was born at Livermore, Me., February 26, 1816. He received an academic education, studied law and was admitted to the bar. In 1845 he was a member of the Legislature of the State of Maine, and in the latter part of the same year he removed to Wisconsin. In 1850 he was elected a Judge of the Circuit and Supreme Courts of Wisconsin, holding the office till 1855, when he resigned. He was elected to the United States Senate as a Union Republican to succeed Chas. Durkee, and took his seat in 1861. He was re-elected in 1867, and again in 1873, his term expiring March 3, 1879. He was not permitted, however, to remain long in retirement, for he was tendered by President Garfield an appointment as a member of the Board of Commissioners sent by the United States to represent this government in the International Monetary Congress at Paris, his associates being ex-Senator Thurman of Ohio and William M. Everts of New York. He remained abroad about six months, and after his return began to be prominently mentioned as a possible member of President Arthur's Cabinet. In December, 1881, he was tendered the Postmaster-Generalship, which he accepted, and to the duties of which he has since devoted his attention. He strongly favored the reduction of postage made by the last Congress, and has been largely instrumental in securing improved mail facilities throughout the country." William Depeyster Storz, one of the founders of Astoria, Oregon; Lorenz Dieffenbach, a distinguished scholar of Darmstadt; Rev. Dermot Coleridge, son of the elder poet; H. B. Tichenor of San Francisco, builder of the first marine railway in that city, and a director of the California Insurance Company; Lieutenant-Colonel Frank Harwood of the United States Engineer Corps; Alfred Clint, the celebrated English landscape and marine painter; Frederick Holton, the oldest American missionary in Greece; Montague Gastrell, Archbishop of Turin; Lord Haldon, an English peer; Captain Carey, who commanded the detachment with which the Prince Imperial was, when killed in Zululand; W. G. Moss, founder of the San Francisco Examiner; Thackabau, late ex-King of Fiji; Chief Justice William White of the Supreme Court of Ohio; Herr Von Wogenheim, German Counsel of State and Minister of Worship; and the young Prince Kwacho-No-Miya, of Japan; and Prince Gortschakoff, long the most prominent statesman of Russia; John Richard Green, author of "The History of the English People"; James Miller, a prominent New York philanthropist, aged 92; Baron Wertheim, the wealthiest manufacturer in Austria, and the celebrated fabricator of iron safes; General Joseph K. Barnes, late retired Surgeon-General of the United States Army; Rear-Admiral McDougall of the United States Navy; Louis Veuillot, a noted French journalist and critical writer; Thomas H. Blythe, one of the largest property-owners of California.

Report of Committee of Fire Insurance Experts: At a meeting of the Massachusetts Mutual Fire Insurance Union, held at Nantucket Beach, August 26, 1893, samples of boxes manufactured by the Magneso-Calcite Fire-Proof Company were shown. An iron box, about two feet long and one foot deep and wide, with lining three-fourths of an inch thick of Magneso-Calcite material, was filled with various documents, greenbacks, and part of a card of incineration. It was then placed upon a bed of hot coals, and at least four feet of dry, hard wood piled upon it. The box was kept under extreme heat for an hour and a half. Notwithstanding the iron cover of the box was so badly warped that the lining was in immediate contact with the flames, on opening it the whole contents were found in a perfect state of preservation. A small bond and note case, designed to be used inside of vaults and safes, was subjected to the same degree of heat for half an hour, and its contents were also found as free from any appearance of fire or smoke as when placed therein.
