An office would have to be opened in San Francisco or Los Angeles with a competent agent installed there who would keep in close touch with the travelers and be the means of distributing printed matter to all parts of the country. Next to this would come the advertisement of Hawaii in the magazines. Mr. Smith stated that this form of making good things known was very highly regarded by the railroad men.

In order to reach prospective tourists they should be reached in their homes previous to having made any plans for water trips. Mr. Smith said he was sure there would be increased tourist trade here even during the present winter and that next winter there would be a very great increase over the past.

Upon concluding his remarks Mr.
Smith showed a folder which he had secured and made the basis of a bid for a block of 100,000 in San Francisco.
The cost would be $1,950 when ready for distribution.

Chairman Wight expressed it as his opinion that a start should be made by the establishment of a central bureau here with a man in charge who could meet strangers and give them the necessary information.

Mr. Cooke said he thought it a good plan for the various trade organizations to unite for the purpose of maintaining one central room which could be made a place for the meeting of these bodies and a sort of a trade or product museum, the curator of the museum and the secretary of the organizations to be combined in one person. From such a bureau as this advertising matter could be sent out. Such a museum was in existence in Los Angeles.

After more discussion on the subject, a committee was appointed, on motion of Mr. Macfarlane, for the purpose of gathering together and submitting matter for the proposed folder and of securing bids for the printing of the same. The committee is made up of Messrs. F. W. Macfarlane, J. G.
Spencer and G. P. Wilder.

Another committee, composed of the following, was appointed to investigate and report on the advisability of organizing a permanent bureau with a location for suitable rooms as well as the expediency of maintaining a trade exhibit: Messrs. C. M. Cooke, W. W. Hall and F. L. Waldron.

Chairman Wight and Secretary Helm were named a committee to have charge of investigations as to the necessity of representation on the Coast and the Mainland generally.

There was discussion on the amount of money that would be required and also on the scope of the work and then the committee adjourned to the call of the chairman.

ON TOURIST TRAVEL

COMMITTEES APPOINTED TO PLAN AND REPORT

ACTION OF JOINT COMMITTEES OF
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND
MERCHANTS' ASSOCIA-TION.

A joint meeting of the committees of the Chamber of Commerce and Mechanics' Association appointed to take up the matter of tourist travel to Hawaii, was held in the office of E.
O. Hall & Son yesterday afternoon for the purpose of hearing remarks on the subject by Fred C. Smith, General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the O.
R. & L. Co., who has just returned from a trip on the mainland which included many of the principal cities and railroad centers of the United States.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman C. L. Wight and there were present the following: Messrs. Cooke, Macfarlane, Hall, Spencer, Wilder,
Waldron and Helm.

Mr. Smith, upon being asked to report on his trip, started off by saying that he had spent the three days of the annual session of the American Association of General Passenger and Ticket agents in meeting the members and talking over with them the best methods of securing the attention of people intending to travel. Later on, he visited the general passenger agents at their offices in the different large cities which he visited.

Mr. Smith, continuing, stated that the work he had seen advocated a plan along identical lines. The first step should be to secure a large number of folders such as those sent out by the big railroad systems of the Mainland, these to be devoted to the attractions of Hawaii—as a winter resort for victims. The men at the session which Mr. Smith attended said they would do all in their power to have the folders on Hawaii distributed through channels which had proven of the greatest value to the roads themselves.

Mr. Smith said further that he reached the mainland too late to have much effect upon the winter advertising of the various railroad lines and therefore he will have to make another trip next year. Some of the roads have already taken up the matter of tours to Hawaii and are calling attention to the islands in their newspaper advertisements. Some of the roads are even sending out leaflets.

An office would have to be opened in San Francisco or Los Angeles with a competent agent installed there who
would keep in close touch with the
travelers and be the means of distributing printed matter to all parts of the country. Next to this would come the

azines. Mr. Smith stated that this

men.

ist trade here even during the present

Maxim Will Build
Machines That Fly

London, Dec. 5.—Sir Hiram Maxim of the firm of Vickers Sons & Maxim will sail soon for the United States, where he intends to remain for about two years, primarily to try by breathing his native air (he is a native of Maine) to cure a troublesome throat complaint, the result of an attack of bronchitis and laryngitis six months ago.

The secondary object of his visit is to prosecute experiments with the view to building a flying machine. He contemplates making an experimenting ground in Connecticut or on Long Island.

Sir Hiram believes that the era of successful flying machines, with which he has tried many experiments, is very near, although much work will be necessary before free high flight is practicable. He adheres to his often expressed view that the solution of the problem will not be found in lighter-than-air machines. He says that a majority of the present experimenters, numbering about a hundred, are working on the balloon theory, but he is convinced that inventors have come to the end of their tether in that direction. He does not think that any one will do better than Santos-Dumont, who is entitled to every credit. He has done much better than the French Government experts under Col.
Renard and his brother, Major Renard.

A successful machine, Sir Hiram maintains, must travel fast—at a speed indeed, which would tear any balloon to pieces. The minimum speed of a true flying machine will have to be forty-two miles an hour and the maximum 100 miles. The average speed probably will have to be that of an express train. Sir Hiram adds that if he does not build a machine himself he may become a consulting engineer on the subject at the St. Louis exhibition, although if he competes for the prizes offered by the exhibition management it is obvious that he will not accept an official position.

CHEAPER IRON PRICES.

Pittsburg, Pa.—A cheapening in iron and steel products seems inevitable.
Consumers and contractors all agree that prices are too high. While many mills boast of having their order books filled six months ahead, which is true in isolated cases, there are no new orders coming in, and mill managers are becoming worried.

Orders on books means nothing according to past history. There is no method known whereby a buyer can be compelled to accept and pay for material if he wishes to countermand an order. This is frequently done by consumers who note that prices are declining.

When the Carnegie Steel Co. was the giant of the steel industry a method of conciliation was adopted by the officials to keep customers from cancelling orders. A sliding scale of prices was used, so that the customer who had ordered while prices were high could always secure the product at the prevailing price at the time of delivery, which kept him from cancelling the order. This only held good where prices declined, as the customer invariably kept the firm to an agreement if the prices went up in the interim between the placing of the order and delivery.

Senatorial Discussion Of Burton's Hawaii Amendment

Mr. Burton—Is it not the purpose of the amendment—

Mr. Foraker—Will the Senator allow me a moment's interruption?

Mr. Burton—Certainly.

Mr. Foraker—It has been stated here two or three times that no one has read this amendment except only the Senator who offered it. No one has had any opportunity to study its language. A great many questions have been asked, and one, a very important one, just now by the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. Hoar). I think we would all feel better satisfied in our consideration of it if we could now suspend the further consideration of the bill and let it all go over until tomorrow.

Mr. Hoar—I should like to ask one more question of the Senator from Kansas.

Mr. Foraker—Then the amendment can be printed and we can have it before us.

Mr. Hoar—With the leave of the Senator from Ohio, I should like to put a question to the Senator from Kansas before he drops the subject for today, if he has no objection.

Mr. Lodge—I think the Committee on Immigration, in charge of the bill, would like to say something before this movement is carried through.

Mr. Foraker—I have the floor, and I yielded to the Senator from Massachusetts to ask a question.

Mr. Hoar—it will take only a moment.

Mr. Foraker—Very well.

Mr. Hoar—I went to ask the Senator from Kansas whether if these precise conditions at any time should be found to exist in any part of the United States, namely, that there is an agricultural or other business depression, caused by a scarcity of labor, and the price of laborers who can be got is so great that you can not manufacture or carry on your farm at a profit, and the community want it, would he be in favor of admitting Chinese labor to any part of this country?

Mr. Burton—No.

Mr. Hoar—Very well. Then are you doing to Hawaii as you would be done by?

Mr. Burton—Yes. I will answer the Senator. The white man will labor on the Mainland and he will not in Hawaii.

Mr. Hoar—Put him in a case where he will not.

Mr. Burton—I understood the Senator to ask whether if we had a scarcity of labor on the Mainland I would favor Chinese immigration for agricultural purposes.

Mr. Hoar—In Louisiana for instance.

Mr. Burton—No; because the labor can be supplied by Anglo-Saxon or other white men. But it can not be so supplied in Hawaii. The labor in the fields in Hawaii can never be supplied by the native Hawaiian or by the white man. It will be performed either by Chinese or Japanese. It will be performed by Orientals. Notwithstanding that the Hawaiian is a native there; notwithstanding that he makes the finest kind of a laborer in many directions, such as longshoreman, and is a splendid worker in the mills, and as a fisherman, and performs labor in many other fields, he will not go out and work in the sun in the cane field and on the farm. So the question is whether, if there are to have labor of this kind there at all, it shall be performed by Chinese or Japanese. That is the practical question. It matters not what legislation you enact or whether you enact any legislation at all or not, the work of the plantation will either be performed by Chinese or Japanese.

Mr. Bailey—What does the Senator say to a proposition which declares that a human being may come to a certain country and remain there as long as he pursues the cheapest labor, but the moment he aspires to rise to a condition higher than that of the cheapest labor, he must be expelled as unfit to reside there? It occurs to me that that is a strange kind of doctrine in this age, where every tendency is to lift the laborer, to make the unskilled laborer's child of today the skilled laborer of tomorrow. That is my theory of dealing with the labor question; and I will never consent to vote that a man can stay in this country as long as he pursues but the cheapest and least skilled of employments, and that the moment he aspires to become a skilled laborer he must be deported under the provisions of a law like this.

Mr. Burton—That is because the political policies of the distinguished Senator are provincial. It is because he did not favor the acquisition of Hawaii. He did not favor the acquisition of the Philippines. He does not favor the acquisition of any tropical country.

Mr. Tillman—He does not favor slavery.

Mr. Burton—Therefore he is in favor of a certain rule that is applicable only to people who live in a temperate zone. Now, if the Senator can show me that the Chinaman who would be permitted to come there to perform agricultural labor is injured in any way instead of being benefited; if he can show me that skilled labor is injured in any way by his coming, and if he can show me that labor in any way is injured by the Chinaman being permitted to come there for that purpose, then I shall be ready to withdraw this amendment. But until he can do that I think a fair investigation will force the conclusion upon everybody that it is to the benefit of the Chinaman who is allowed to come, and who wants to go away after staying a limited number of years, and it is to the benefit of the men who are building houses, who are building manufactories, who are building mills, and who are trading, and who are growing cane, and who are growing or want to grow coffee, pineapples, rice, and other products. It is to the benefit of everybody and to the injury of no one except that it comes in conflict with a preconceived political theory; that is all.

Now, Mr. President, I have said very much more than I expected to say. Indeed, I did not expect to say anything on the subject at this time.

Mr. Bailey—One more question, if the Senator will permit me.

I have an idea that the early settlers of New England and the later settlers of some of the Southern States did the African a distinct good when they caught him in the jungles of his native country and brought him to this country and put him in slavery, but I hardly think the Senator from Kansas or any other Senator in this Chamber would argue that in extension of slavery today. I have no doubt that a Chinaman in the less thickly settled islands of Hawaii would be somewhat better off than he would be in the densely settled Kingdom of Cuba.

I am not one of those who have always professed friendship for labor. I have not always been able to support the demand of the advocates of labor. I have never been able to support the eight-hour law, which denies a citizen of the United States the right to contract for his personal services, and I never will. But I do think that a sincere friend of labor as any good citizen can conscientiously be, though I may not be such a good friend as some profess to be.

However, what I object to is the moral, or rather the immoral, feature—the writing in a statute book of this country a law that condemns an unskilled laborer to be unskilled forever, which says to them as long as they will work for a cheap wage and at a vocation so laborious and so burdensome that the people who are native in that country will not, as the Senator admits, pursue it, so long as these people brought there will pursue that vocation which none others will take up, they can remain; but the moment they lift their eyes to a higher plane of labor that moment they must be banished under a deportation law. I never will consent to write that kind of a law against the labor employed in any part of this country.

Mr. Burton—The comparison the Senator makes is a complete answer to his argument. In the first place, we did go to the jungles of Africa and we found some and brought them to this land. We are not going to China to find anybody to bring here. So the comparison is not a comparison, but a contrast.

Under this amendment the Chinaman would come here of his own free will, and he would come permitted to do only a certain kind of work. The African came here because he was captured and forced to come and was then put into slavery. What comparison could anyone except the learned Senator from Texas make between the existing condition of things in the old regime and this proposed amendment?

Now, Mr. President, as I said before, answer this question: Does not the Chinaman get a distinct benefit if you allow him to come? He does not want to stay. He will not stay. He wants to come and engage in a certain kind of work for a term of years and go back. He is of his own volition contracts to come and to do certain work, just as much as any laborer is employed to do any specific kind of work. The only difference is that we say he shall not come unless he will contract to do only that specific work.

Now, he can stay in China if he wants or he can come, and he will come, as he wants to come, because it is a benefit to him to come and a great blessing to allow him to come. It is an improvement to the Chinaman. He carries back to his country something of a knowledge of our wise laws and our better civilization, and the employer, instead of being mean to the Chinaman, instead of being small with him, wants to keep him, because he is commercially honest. He wants to keep him because he does keep his contract. He wants to keep him because it is beneficial both to the employer and to the employed.

Now, Mr. President, I ask the chairman of the committee if he is not willing that this bill shall go over, so that this amendment may be considered in connection with the bill? We can not hope to get this kind of legislation enacted during the present session unless we can have it considered in connection with the pending bill. Since that is true, and since it is perfectly apparent that the bill which is being considered will pass—I do not mean my amendment, but I mean the bill generally—and since it does not endanger its passage, I ask the chairman if he is not willing that the bill shall go over until such time as the Committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico can consider it and report, so that we may have a better consideration of this amendment?

I know all Senators will acquit me of any purpose to suddenly inject this amendment into the bill or to take any snap judgment on anybody. I am earnestly in favor of this legislation. I believe it is necessary for one of our American Territories, and I see that this is the only practical way to get it during the present session.

Mr. Penrose—Mr. President, as chairman of the Committee on Immigration, I could not favorably consider the request of the Senator from Kansas a moment, nor do I think any member of that committee would do so, because in my opinion this amendment does not belong in the bill. Whether it is theoretically germane or not I will not attempt to argue; but, as a matter of fact, Chinese legislation has always been kept separate and distinct from other general immigration legislation. It does not belong here and it is evidently premature. I would suggest—

Mr. Burton—May I ask the Senator from Pennsylvania a question?

Mr. Penrose—Certainly.

Mr. Burton—The Senator speaks of general Chinese legislation. This is not general Chinese legislation. It relates only to one Territory of the United States.

Mr. Penrose—it should come in the form of an amendment to the Chinese exclusion law, which was passed at the last session of the present Congress. It does not belong in this bill, which is general immigration legislation, and to attempt to put it in is to depart from the universal practice of Congress, which is not to mix up the two kinds of legislation.

The amendment is evidently premature. The committee has not reported it. The committee is apparently divided upon it.

When the Committee on Immigration had this question up in reference to the restricted admission of Chinamen in the Philippine Islands and in the Hawaiian Islands they decided not to let down the bars. As late as last spring, in the opinion of the Committee on Immigration of the Senate, it was thought better to delay the development of the Philippine Islands and the Hawaiian Islands rather than to let down the bars for the admission of Chinamen even under restriction. As far as that committee is concerned, therefore, it has already taken a position against such an amendment, and no evidence has been submitted to it to alter its opinion.

I move, Mr. President, that this amendment be laid upon the table, so that when the Senator's committee is ready to report he can bring it up or introduce an amendment to the Chinese exclusion act to carry out the purpose he has in mind. I therefore make the motion.

The President pro tempore—The Senator from Pennsylvania moves to lay on the table the amendment proposed by the Senator from Kansas. (Putting the question.) By the sound the yeas have it. The yeas have it. The amendment is laid on the table.

When he finishes his American tour, Masogni, it is said, will set to work on a musical composition designed to express his opinion of America. There will be an anvil chorus, it is expected.

The Census Bureau reports that there are 3,435 persons in the United States over 100 years old. Evidently our ancestors were better people than they are sometimes credited with having been.

Rudyard Kipling is going to spend the winter in South Africa. There is no possibility of Mr. Kipling ever becoming poet laureate until he learns to like the English climate, and he seems willing to surrender his chances.

Peary has another plan for reaching the pole, though it was understood on his return he would abandon Arctic research altogether. But the passion for that baffling quest remains with most of those who have ever attempted it as long as they live.

Honolulu's New Year resolution should be a determination on the part of all citizens to get together with that spirit of loyalty which accomplishes speedy results when matters effecting the progress of the city and the Territory are under discussion.

Depression in the hack business of Honolulu is one of the very natural consequences of improvement in the street railway service. It is doubtful if there is a city in the world that supports the number of hacks that Honolulu has had for many years past.

The energetic manner in which the Merchants' Association is taking hold of the tourist question promises a fair measure of the results that have for so many years been looked forward to as possible but unfortunately not altogether probable. The possibilities for tourist travel have seemed almost without limit, but the town has lacked the effective promotion which inspired that confidence of success which enlists enthusiastic support.

This year's pension bill carries an appropriation of $139,847,600. This is more than any of the great military nations pays in time of peace for its whole military establishment. It is curious to note, further, that the total is greater than for the current year. Though the increase is slight, it shows that the additions to the pension roll are still in excess of any falling off, although thirty-seven years have passed since the last gun was fired in the civil war, and there are more names upon the pay roll now than there were then.

Marconi says little about his recent experiments except that they have been successful, and that he has increased the rate of transmitting words by the wireless system to such an extent that it is pretty sure to be a successful competitor of the cables. Marconi is modest and does not allow himself to be carried away by his successes. He believes that he is about to develop a remarkable invention, one which will revolutionize existing systems of communication over long distances, but he does not allow himself to wander off into dreamland when discussing his expectations.

A bill has been introduced by United States Senator Gallinger providing limited statehood for the District of Columbia. The scheme is a novel one in that it gives the citizens of the District representation in the Senate and House and in the Electoral College but does not otherwise change the form of government. As the measure will require an amendment to the Constitution it is likely to be a good many years before Washington people get the popular representation for which the bill provides, but it is rather interesting that the present District of Columbia method of government, so often pointed out as ideal, has been found lacking.

FIRST STEP IN MUNICIPAL PROGRESS

By MRS. ANNA A. EAMES.

In entering the field of self-government through the coming of the new charter, Honolulu takes the first step toward placing herself in the line of the advance municipal movement of modern cities.

A picturesque group of diversified colonies of grass houses is one thing; a charming sweep of breezy tropical homes, with broad spaces of sea, sunshine and open field is an echo perhaps of far off Andalusia; but congested areas of formless, heterogeneous settlements are something very different, although perhaps a necessary phase of that town, which endeavors to assimilate rapid increase of population, without the digestive apparatus of thorough, up-to-date organization.

There remains in the minds of level-headed men no longer any question as to the imperative value of organization in any effort working for the greatest good of the greatest number. And this, stripped of all detail, is the problem confronting the municipality today. The greatest good of the greatest number, or, specifically, to give light, pure air, good drainage, good circulation by means of coherent street systems; good health by perfection of sanitary conditions, general enlightenment through public schools, public libraries, and concert halls. To lead the people to beautiful upbuilding by noble institutions of public works, beautiful parks and avenues; to preserve order and security all at a minimum of expense to the people is a problem to whose successful solution modern municipal government points in triumph.

Effective municipal organization then becomes the means of doing the greatest good to the greatest number, and effective municipal organization means a flawless charter. Good charters even in these days of character construction and reconstruction are rare. Honolulu should have no specific ambition to join the van of American cities which are bound hand and foot by charters which do not suit present or future conditions. The wave of municipal renovation which has worked such regenerating on the continent for the past twenty years, has reached America, and we being wiser by their experience, may profit by their mistakes.

From the chaos of construction and reconstruction in charters, we may come to two definite conclusions which mark the demarcation from the spirit and letter of the past. These are first "The modern tendency in municipal administrations to the centralization of power, and the centralization of responsibility." Second, "That the mu-

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

[Peking Times.]

One of the ablest books that ever came from the pen of the late Mr. Walter Bagehot was "Physics and Politics," a work which under a repellent title deals with matters that intimately concern human welfare, showing as it does how the most abstruse questions of physical science react on and deeply affect political and social life as they slowly infiltrate the masses. The present-ly being dealing with the same theme, showing how the profoundest researches of the scientists become in a short time the basis of new industries and vast aggregations of wealth, which in turn bring far reaching social changes. No science has illustrated this more than electricity. When Oersted discovered the deflection of a magnetic needle under the influence of an electric current it was apparently only a matter of time before the few master minds that were then on the trail of an illusive and uncanny science. No one ever dreamed that the discovery was in the course of half a century to issue in the construction of the whole known world and to radically change the nature of commerce, diplomacy, politics and many other aspects of human activity.

When the philosophic historian of the future enters on his examination of these times, the shrinkage of the globe in respect of the human dwellers thereon will probably be the most salient feature of his summary. Though steam has done much to this end, electricity has done far more and is yet more full of promise. Frank's fanciful conceit of placing a globe round the earth is this week the most prosaic of facts by the completion of the Great Pacific cable. The feat is too big to be dismissed into the limbo of commonplace facts by two lines of Reuter; it portends too much both commercially and politically. Bishop Berkeley long ago told us that "Westward the course of empire takes its way," and the whole trend of modern history shows that the center of human activity and power is traveling round the earth like the sun. The future commercial and political greatness of the Pacific is already in the air, and men are by a sort of intuition rather than comprehension grasping the fact. Young nations are in adolescence on its shores, and old ones are trying to renew their virility in its invigorating political ozone. The United States, British Australasia, the new Russia, Japan, France, Germany are all there already, and all have ambitions to exercise predominant influence on its waters. Most likely the strife will finally be commercial, and perhaps the greatest significance of the new cable is that it has been called into existence at the imperative behest of the British Colonies.

A far-seeing political prophet not long ago said that England's Colonies would yet rejuvenate her policy and power, and no less a personage than the Prince of Wales recently carried the message across the sea that the old country must wake up to meet the new exigencies of struggle in the keen rivalries of nations. The new cable is a case in point. We doubt in these days of colossal trusts and commercial "rigging" if it will bring all the financial relief the Colonies hope to get from their tyrant, the old cable company, but of its political and commercial use in other ways there is happily no doubt. It links up the Austral Colonies and British America; its termini and relays are all on British soil; and in the possible destruction of other cables in war time it gives us an alternative route.

The destruction of cables in war time will be an easy enough matter in shallow seas, but is going to offer more difficulties than are at present allowed for at great depths; it will require special apparatus and specially trained men, if not special vessels. The great depth of this new cable is going to make an obstacle which in itself will be a tactical advantage to us as the most expert in the art of ocean telegraphy. It is in this direction that we are disposed to place a high premium on the Pacific cable. The entire cable is by far the longest in the world, just as the section between Fanning Island and Vancouver is the longest unbroken stretch extant. Its completion, though nothing great as an engineering feat, marks an epoch in Colonial development and in the solidarity of the British peoples. By no means the smallest element in our complacency at the fact is the knowledge that it has been forced on the Imperial Government by Colonial initiative. As such it will be a stimulus for further effort in other directions. The Colonies may yet force on us such novelties as a codified law and a decimal system of money, weights, measures, etc. In the meantime the material benefits of the new cable will at once be felt in the Colonies by some mitigation at least of the tariff tyranny which we China people know so well.

"Johnny, have you put the milk tickets out?" "Yes'm." "And locked the doors?" "Yes'm." "And emptied the water pan under the icebox?" "Yes'm." "And filled the match safes?" "Yes'm." "And set the alarm clock for 6?" "Yes'm." "Well, put the brick to coal in the coal oil and go to bed."—Chicago Tribune.

Colonel R. H. Pratt, head of the Government Indian School at Carlisle, Pa., reports that the enrolment of Indian students there this year has reached the high-water mark of 1,073. The students are encouraged to earn money by hiring out during vacation time, and they made $32,000 that way last year.

HACK BUSINESS IN CITY IS ON DECLINE

The hack stand at the corner of Richards and Hotel streets, known as "32" is about to go out of existence. The drivers of the hacks that use this place being unwilling longer to pay the rent of $100 a month which, on account of the falling off of business, they feel they can no longer afford.

This stand has been one of the best kept and most orderly of the city and those who have been in the habit of dropping around there for a conveyance, will regret that the hackmen have decided to move.

The 32 men will move to the Club Stables on Fort street.

In connection with hacks, it might be stated that there is little short of a panic among the drivers and many are giving up their conveyances and homes.

This falling off in the business that was once such a flourishing one in Honolulu, was very noticeable on Tuesday night last when people were on their way to the opera house to the entertainment of the Dramatic Circle of the Kiloahana Art League.

On that occasion, a hack was a rarity, the great mass of people coming to town in the electric cars. Hack Inspector Macy was seen at the time and he stated that the falling off in the business of the hacks was increasing at a great rate.

Mention was made of the fact that there seemed to be an increase in the number of hacks driven by Japanese and Mr. Macy replied that a large proportion of these would soon go out of business. They had told him they were losing money right along.

A PLEASANT EVENING AT THE MOANA HOTEL

People who were at the Moana hotel last night and enjoyed the splendid dinner, as well as the dancing and music afterwards, are congratulating Manager Tom James on his excellent work. There was not a detail missing which could in any way add to the enjoyment of the guests of the hotel. The large dining hall was prettily decorated with greens, flowers and potted plants and an orchestra furnished music from the orchestra balcony.

There were several dinner parties, the largest being one which included forty young people who had combined forces for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Church were the leaders and among the others were the young officers from Camp McKinley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. George Angus, the Misses Angus, Miss Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins, Miss Hutchins, Mr. Willis and Mrs. Winter.

Dr. and Mrs. F. Howard Humphris entertained Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hawes and Mr. and Mrs. Baird and H. Wingate Lake had E. D. Moore of the Associated Press as his guest of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis had Capt. and Mrs. Fuller and Mrs. Widdifield for guests and Mr. and Mrs. M. Phillips also entertained a number of guests.

The Punahou Athletic Club gave a big dinner in honor of their football team, which won the championship during the recent season. There was music by a glee club and the college yell resounded through the hall time and again. Clarence H. Cooke was toastmaster. Those at the dinner were: F. H. Armstrong, H. A. Wilemann, C. P. Morse, C. H. Elston, F. W. Klebahn, F. A. Inakea, T. W. Dibbille, C. A. Mackintosh, H. C. Easton, W. S. Ryecroft, H. A. Water, W. H. Rawlins, Percy Benson, C. H. Cooke, W. A. Anderson, H. P. Judd, H. The divorce case of Silva against Silva, which has been dragging along in the courts for a number of months in a fight to prevent the payment of alimony promises to reach a conclusion soon. On Wednesday morning Judge Robinson ordered the defendant, M. G. Silva, to furnish a bond within five days in the sum of $1000 for the payment of the accrued alimony, announcing that upon the furnishing of such a bond the order to show cause would be dismissed. The Court further intimated that if the bond was not furnished within the five days that a motion for the appointment of a receiver of the property of the defendant would then be entertained.

TRUST COMPANY GREETING. The Henry Waterhouse Trust Company has gotten out a very neat New Year's greeting which reads as follows:

Honolulu, Hawaii, January 1, 1903. Pay to the order of Three Hundred and Sixty-Five Happy Days and charge to account of Henry Waterhouse Trust Co., Ltd. By Richard H. Treat, Treasurer.

To the World's Bank of Content, Good-will Town, T. P. Each check is numbered and across the face in red are the words: "Nothing Too Good for Our Friends."

ROONEY ARRESTED. Haekdriver Rooney was arrested for assault and battery by Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth last night at about 7:45 o'clock. Rooney had had several drinks and was pretty hoisterous. The deputy sheriff warned him to keep quiet but a little later Rooney, as it seems, without any apparent reason, gave a Chinese brother hackman a thrashing.

THE GROWTH OF EARS.

The systematic examination of more than 40,000 pairs of human ears in England and France has resulted in some interesting conclusions. For one thing, it is ascertained that the ear continues to grow in the later decades of life; in fact, it appears to stop growing until death. If one will take the trouble to look around in any assemblage of people, as at a church, he will discover that the old folks have ears considerably larger than those of the middle aged. A woman who has small, shell-like ears at twenty years of age will be very apt to possess medium sized ears at forty years and large ears at sixty. Why ears should go on growing all one's life any more than noses is a mystery. There are a good many points about them that are instructive, their shapes being markedly persistent through heredity. Any ear will be handed down, so to speak, from father to son for generation after generation with comparatively little modification. Some authorities on criminology assert that criminals are very apt to possess a peculiar kind of ear, which is recognized by an expert in such matters. There is probably nobody in the world who has a pair of ears perfectly matched; in most people the two differ perceptibly, not only in shape, but also in size. Frequently they are not placed precisely alike on the head. The age of a person may be judged with great accuracy by the ears, which after youth is past assume an increasing harshness of contour. A pretty woman whose first youth has departed may not show the fact in other ways, but these telltale features will surely tell the story of the flight of time. Then there is the little wrinkle that comes in just in front of each ear during the 30s—a fatal and ineradicable sign. Near the top of each ear, just within the downturned edge and slightly toward the back, will be found, if one feels for it, a small lump of cartilage. This is a remnant of what was originally the tip of the ear, when ever so long ago that organ in our remote ancestors had a point on it. Most of the ages today have pointed ears, but in human beings the upper edge of the organ has in the course of ages been folded over so as to cover the real tip.—Saturday Evening Post.

and mental powers and is the cause of the proverbial laziness of the "cracker." This laziness, Dr. Stiles says, is an abnormal and not a normal condition; and attention paid to this matter by planters and farmers in the Southern States would result in not only improved conditions generally, but a great increase of the percentage of work which they would secure from their employes.

The crusade against child labor in the South, Dr. Stiles declared, was due indirectly to the general presence of this disease and he made the remarkable statement that children who came from the country districts to work in the mills became generally greatly improved as a result of the better sanitary conditions in the cities and the better facilities for the cure of the disease.

As regards the age of children in the mills, Dr. Stiles said that reformers who went through the cotton factories and other places in the Southern States where such labor was employed, were generally deceived regarding the ages of these minor employes, one of the characteristics of the disease being that it stunted not only the mental development, but the physical growth as well, and made men and women of 20 to 23 years of age seem only about 14 to 16.

Dr. Stiles said that the disease had been diagnosed and it was susceptible of cure. The trouble was to identify it and prescribe the proper remedies. To do this it would be necessary to educate the physicians in the sand districts as to the symptoms, causes and effects of the disease, and to this end the Department of Agriculture would shortly issue a report prepared by him, which would be widely distributed in the Southern States.

In describing the symptoms of the disease Dr. Stiles asserted that it created an abnormal appetite for different things in individual cases, and that the "dirt eaters" were almost all sufferers from it. The disease itself, he asserted, was due not to the habit of eating dirt, as some physicians have claimed, but that, reversely, the habit itself is due to the disease. The famous "pickle eaters" of North Carolina were also sufferers from the disease, and their abnormal and peculiar appetite was the result of a certain stage of the disease.

Dr. Stiles concluded by arguing that information concerning the malady be spread broadcast and predicted that when it was well under control a gradual and noticeable improvement would take place in the condition of the poor whites of the South. The strongest man made to live under conditions approximating those under which the average "cracker" abides would, Dr. Stiles said, soon contract the disease and in a short time reach the same condition of physical and moral stagnation as the poor whites themselves.

A number of the South American delegates expressed their belief that such a disease existed in certain South American countries and was responsible for the backward condition of the people there. They promised thoroughly to investigate the subject on their return to their respective countries.

placed upon the rear veranda of the first floor. Dancers have complained that sweet lemonades do not quench the torrid thirst. As a consequence susceptible ones are liable to "hit the punchbowl" too often. Ice water has on occasions been a cry when no preparation existed for supplying the demand. This omission will not be found on the present occasion.

There is not time for erecting a special dancing lanai, but arrangements for overcrowding are not neglected. The floors of the corridors up and down stairs are being cleared and waxed to receive the overflow from the main ballroom. Hundreds of chairs are provided to line the various halls and balconies. Probably rooms will be set apart for loungers who do not dance, where a cigar may be smoked or a game of cards enjoyed.

The exterior of the building will be illuminated with electric lights as on former patriotic occasions.
Colonel J. W. Jones is chairman of the ball committee.

OLD OUT, NEW IN

There were surely not many sleepers in the city last night when the midnight hour struck for the din was something that would waken the soundest sleeper. There were bombs, cannon crackers and just plain crackers and then there were shotguns, revolvers and rifles which, exploded simultaneously with the blowing of whistles, the ringing of bells and the tooting of tin horns, served to keep things lively for a short space of time.

Some of the whistles blew for fully twenty minutes after midnight had struck.

The Rebekahs celebrated in Progress hall last night in right royal style. The place was beautifully decorated and the evening was given up almost entirely to dancing. Captain Paul Smith was floor manager. The music was excellent and everybody had a good time. There were nearly twenty dances in all. At midnight, the birth of the new year was announced by the blast of a horn at the lips of a member of the lodge. It was some time before quiet was restored.

The Alaskan is due from Seattle this afternoon. If she arrives before the regular steamer from San Francisco tomorrow she will probably be the last boat from the Coast to bring "later news" from the outside world as the cable will soon be in operation.

There will be a game of baseball on the Punahou campus between the Custom House and Punahou teams at 3 o'clock this afternoon. No admission fee will be charged and everybody is cordially invited to attend.
The Bulletin, 75 cents per month.
