

FDR's Talk Final Warning To Germany

MORE CONTROL OF EXCHANGE ANTICIPATED

NO EXECUTIVE ORDER IS CONTEMPLATED BY PRESIDENT

TOKYO, May 29 — Exchange bankers here anticipated greater exercise of control over the dollar foreign exchange by the United States under the proclamation of a full national emergency made by President Roosevelt Tuesday, but minimized its probable effects on Japan's principal items of trade with the United States, raw silk exports and cotton imports.

Suggesting that control may take the form of licensing, these quarters declared it would affect the dollar exchange in Shanghai as well as Central and South American countries and other nations which clear trade balances through New York.

The basis for settlement of balance payments between Japan and French Indo-China and Japan and Netherlands East Indies will have to be changed if the United States carries out the anticipated plan since present treaties with these two countries are based on the United States dollar.

British Bombard City of Tunisia

VICHY, May 28—The British is charged with bombing the city of Sfax in Tunisia today in an official statement issued by the French government at Vichy.

A government spokesman is quoted as saying that he could not understand why the British chose to bombard Sfax, because the city was principally a trading place with no fortifications of any kind.

NEUTRALITY REPEAL IS NOT LIKELY

F.D.R. PROCLAMATION MAY AFFECT FOREIGN TRADE

WASHINGTON, May 28—President Roosevelt, in a special press conference today declared that he had no intention of asking for the repeal or revision of the Neutrality Act. He further stated that he did not have in mind any executive orders to supplement his emergency proclamation.

SUBDUED TONE SEEN IN PRESS ON FDR TALK

OMISSION OF WAR TALK AGAINST FAR EAST SIGNIFICANT

TOKYO, May 29 — President Roosevelt's fireside chat provided the theme for an editorial chorus in the Japanese press this morning, but except for isolated exceptions, the general tone of commentators were subdued, which must be considered a significant parallel to the omission in the president's speech of any warlike references to the Far East.

While admitting that Roosevelt has taken the United States a step nearer to the war in the Atlantic, both the Asahi and Nichinichi refrained from commenting upon the effects of the fireside speech.

Readers in the first place could not hope to find appeasing comments on the Roosevelt address any more than American radio listeners in tuning to the fireside chat could expect the president to make friendly statements toward Hitler, a spokesman added.

U. S. SEIZES NAZIS—Here are some of the 175 Nazi sailors rounded up by U. S. agents in New York and other cities. In New York alone 127 were seized. Above, they're about to be taken to Ellis Island for temporary keeping.

NAZIS COMPELLED TO CHOOSE BETWEEN PEACE AND CEASING SEA WARFARE SAY LONDONERS

Britain Feels Freedom Of Seas Issue Will Bring United States Into European War

LONDON, May 28—British newspapers today prominently played up President Franklin Roosevelt's fireside address, stating that his speech was the final warning of America directed against Germany to choose between fighting the United States or cease from waging unrestricted warfare on the high seas.

The London press interpreted Roosevelt's address as proof of United States' determination to preserve the freedom of the seas in following with the historic American policy.

Informed sources in London seemed to be of the opinion that the issue involving the freedom of the high seas was liable to bring about hostilities between America and Germany, should the Germans decide to accept President Roosevelt's challenge.

BERLIN SAYS FDR'S TALK NOTHING NEW

GERMAN WARNING TO U. S. SHIPPING REPEATED BY NAZIS

BERLIN, May 28—Authorized quarters in Berlin today for the first time commented on President Franklin Roosevelt's fireside address an state that his speech was neither sensational or new.

Commenting on Roosevelt's remarks on the freedom of the seas, the German press, as well as those close to official Germany, stated that the United States must take into consideration Grand Admiral Erich Raeder's warning issued only two days ago and Chancellor Hitler's statement, both of which warned U. S. shipping from coming into the war zone.

These statements were taken to mean that Germany was ready to sink any U. S. ship carrying armaments to Britain in case they were discovered by German submarines.

PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION SWEEP ASIDE ORDINARY ERA IN UNITED STATES BUSINESS

WASHINGTON POST OPINES CHANGES TO BE EXPECTED BOTH IN DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, May 28—The Washington Post comments that President Roosevelt has finally swept aside the last remaining vestige of "business as usual" in the United States.

It said that the measures which would be taken were unnamed but several obvious moves spring before our eyes: prevention of stoppages in industrial output; re-vamping defense policies; order to give priority to war-winning measures; discontinuance of all economic and financial aid to the enemy which flowed from the maintenance of formal neutrality.

External measures were equally lacking in definiteness but if convoys were not mentioned by name, the delivery of supplies to Britain was pledged with unmistakable emphasis and American rights on the high seas for affecting such deliveries were asserted with equal firmness.

Perhaps the most significant statement of policy is the declaration that United States armed forces will be placed in strategic military positions. "It may be that our Commander-in-Chief will order our naval forces to undertake the protection of advance approaches to this continent; certainly nothing less than naval action against these spring-boards in our hemisphere would justify the president's identification of Hitler as America's enemy."

ESCAPE from HEARTBREAK

by MARGARETTA BRUCKER

Valerie Wentworth, clerk in a department store in the town of Pelton, foolishly elopes with Phil Prescott, son of the owner of the store. When she learns that he means to keep the marriage a secret, they quarrel and, shortly afterward, she hears that his mother has persuaded him to have it annulled. Broken-hearted, she leaves Pelton and goes to New York, hoping to become a model. Terry Sullivan, reporter, lends her the money for a training course, and arranges for her to live with a model named Dot Turner. She falls in love with Terry, but he seems to take only a friendly interest in her. Meanwhile, she has kept quiet about her impulsive marriage. One evening, she finds Dot greatly excited over the arrival in town of a "buyer" with whom she expects to have several dates. When Valerie learns that the buyer is Phil, she is dismayed, fearing that they will meet. She doesn't want Dot to learn of her marriage to him, but can't decide what to do.

That afternoon, she was among a group of students taken to a beauty salon for a check-up, and found herself among six selected for more intensive training. Next week, she was told, she would begin dancing lessons.

On her way home, she was filled with pride over her good showing.

SHE found Dot in the throes of dressing for the evening. Clothes covered the bed and the floor.

Dot was in a rage. Her new dress, after being altered, had finally been delivered, and now—

"Look at that!" she gasped, scarlet with anger. "Can you imagine paying two-fifty for alterations and then having them send it out—"

"She displayed a skirt which had been fitted too tightly to fasten. "Look at that!"

Valerie knelt to examine the seams. "It can be let out easily."

"Let out! And who has the time to do that now?"

"I'll do it," Valerie offered. "Where's a needle and thread?"

"I haven't any thread to match. "It doesn't need to match," said Valerie practically.

Dot stripped off the dress and strode across the room to her dresser. She rummaged through a drawer and produced needle and thread.

Valerie was already ripping out a seam of the dress.

"How soon do you have to go?" she asked.

"Not for an hour," said Dot, slightly mollified. "You're a real pal. I'll do you a favor some day."

"Will you?" Valerie glanced up, then lowered her eyes to her work. "Just remember not to mention me to Phil Prescott, will you?"

"That seems to bother you," Valerie shrugged. "It's just that I come from a small town, and I'd rather not have any one back home know what I'm doing here until I make good. You see, if Phil Prescott carried the word back and then I didn't make good—well, every one would give me the laugh."

"I see," Dot stared at her thoughtfully. "But that's not all, is it, kid?"

"The rest isn't important," Valerie said carelessly.

Dot laughed. "Every one has things in the past they don't care to throw on a screen. You can trust me to mind my own business." Then, she added abruptly, "As long as you mind yours."

It was like Dot, thought Valerie to spoil a friendly gesture with a little dig, hinting that she now knew something about her which she could hold over her, if necessary. But Dot was Dot. Valerie vaguely wished that Terry could have chosen a different type of girl as her roommate, but she owed enough to Terry to make the best of the situation.

LATER, when Dot was gone, Valerie tried to make some order out of the confusion in the bedroom. She picked up scattered garments, dusted powder from the dresser, put pictures back in their places.

She came upon a crumpled letter lying on the floor. As she picked it up, the postmark caught her eye—Pelton, Ohio. The bold handwriting was the same as that on the special-delivery letter she had received on an evening which now seemed ages ago.

She remembered how hysterical with grief she had been that night because Phil had written her his intention of ending their marriage. Broken-hearted, she had clung to Penny.

Now—she indifferently dropped the letter to Dot into the waste basket. The sight of his handwriting had brought not even a flicker of emotion. She had no place in his life—he had none in hers.

Unless something unforeseen should happen, she and Phil Prescott were through forever.

CHAPTER XV

EARLY the next morning, before setting out for the school, Valerie took her courage in hand and walked into Dot's room to settle the matter of Phil Prescott.

She found the other girl only half awake.

"Dot—," she said hesitantly.

"Well?" Dot turned over sleepily.

"Dot—listen. I've been thinking about what you told me last night—I mean, about Phil Prescott."

The name aroused Dot, and she sat up. "What about him?"

"I thought," Valerie hurried on, "that it might be inconvenient for you to have me here while he's in town. I have to get to bed early, now that I'm working so hard, and since I sleep in the living room, it might interfere with any plans you may have for entertaining him."

"Forget it," Dot flopped back on her pillows. "You don't think I'd invite a man to this dump, do you? Can you see me prettying up this joint and whipping together a bit of supper? Listen—when a buyer asks me out, it means out. He spends the money—I don't. Phil Prescott will never set foot in this place and never lay eyes on you."

Dot paused, and eyed Valerie shrewdly. "Why do you care?"

"Care? I don't care."

"Did you have a crush on him when you worked in his mother's store?"

"Of course not!" Valerie's face reddened.

"Well, I won't even mention you to him. That fix things?"

Valerie smiled faintly. "That will fix things. You'll think me a fool, but—"

"All women are fools," Dot observed. She yawned and rolled over. "Now, go away and let me sleep."

AS USUAL, Valerie told herself there was a simple solution to every problem if you only realized it. She had let herself get worked up over nothing.

By the time she reached school, Phil had passed from her thoughts. The morning was devoted to further study of make-up technique. She was taught how to apply it subtly—how to avoid obvious effects. She found it all intensely interesting.

She'd had only one week of training, and already she could detect a change in her whole personality. The exercises in posture had given her an alert and graceful carriage. The careful make-up brought out the planes of her face—emphasized the bony structure. Bones, she was told, were important. A pretty face would photograph like a piece of mud unless the bones were right.

Well—they assured her that her bone structure was good, that her hair possessed lights that smote the photograph wonderfully, and even that her large mouth was an asset, much to be preferred to a pouting rosebud.

BLITZ SPEEDED BY GREEK ROAD BRITISH BUILT

TULSA Okla.—The high-flying highway in Greece through the Rupal pass from Bulgaria, used by Germany's blitzkrieg army was built by British engineers during the first World War.

One of the army engineers who helped build the twisting, narrow road back in 1917 will never forget what a job it was. He is William Dickinson, now a Tulsa school instructor. He was a "zapper," an explosive expert, for the British Royal Engineers in the World War.

The mountainous terrain vied with lowlands to make the job a nightmare, he recalled.

"For months, we blasted out the rock and slapped at the billions of mosquitoes. We sweated through an entire, hot Macedonian summer to clear the way for a big British p.u.h.," he says.

"We had about a thousand Macedonian peasants working on the road with us.

"It's hot and its bad malarial country. Any army using the pass has a hard time of it."

MASS PETITION IS SUBJECT OF US DEPARTM'TS

CITIZEN EXPATRIATION PETITION HANDED TO HULL

Copies of the letters exchanged between Departments of the Interior and the State were received by the Hawaii Mainichi yesterday, having reference to the petition forwarded to Washington by the Hawaii Japanese Civic Association with some 30,000 citizens of Japanese ancestry in the territory appealing to the United States government for a simpler method of expatriation from Japanese citizenship.

It will be recalled that some months ago, in cooperation with the Hawaiian Japanese Civic Association, the local Society of Americans of Japanese Ancestry undertook an island-wide campaign to secure signatures to a petition addressed to the U. S. State Department asking Secretary Hull's good offices to contact the Japanese government regarding simplification of the process of expatriation.

The copies of the letters received yesterday disclosed that the petition in question was handed by Delegate Samuel W. King to the Department of Interior first, then relayed to the State Department. The letters read:

April 29, 1941
The Honorable
The Secretary of State,
Sir:

I have received through Hon. soil conservation service, left Honolulu last Friday for Maui.

They will work in cooperation with William Simmons, SCS resident on Maui, in conducting a survey of the soils of that island and will visit the principal farming regions on the Valley Island.

Special attention will be given the tenant purchase farms of T. Yamada and K. Okamoto of Olinia where the group will make a preliminary survey of soil conditions. Ralph Moltzan, Maui county representative of the farm security administration, will accompany the trio to the FSA farms.

Samuel W. King, Delegate from Hawaii, the enclosed communications from the Governor of Hawaii and other officials and prominent citizens of the Territory, with a petition signed by over thirty thousand American-born citizens of Japanese ancestry, now residing in Hawaii. This petition sets forth that under the laws of Japan these persons are also citizens of that nation, and seeks to secure the good offices of your Department to the end that an arrangement may be made with the Government of Japan for simplifying the present difficult procedure required of the petitioners in securing expatriation from their Japanese citizenship.

It is understood that your Department has heretofore considered the acceptance of this petition directly from Delegate King of Hawaii, but that in view of the administrative control of Hawaiian affairs exercised by this department, it was believed desirable to have the petition submitted through this Department. The petition and the accompanying documents have now been considered carefully, and it is my opinion that a final study of the questions presented therein is properly within the jurisdiction of your Department.

The petition is accordingly transmitted for such attention as may be deemed practicable in the circumstances.

Very truly yours,
(signed) E. K. BURLEW
Acting Secretary of the Interior

May 8, 1941
My dear Mr. Secretary:

The receipt is acknowledged of your Department's letter of April 29, 1941 accompanied by two bound volumes consisting of certain letters and of petition with signatures received by the Department of the Interior from the Delegate from Hawaii, all having to do with the simplifying of the procedure said to be required of American citizens of Japanese descent in obtaining expatriation from their Japanese nationality.

The questions raised by the petition and by the letters accompanying the petition will receive the careful study and consideration of the Department of State. Your courtesy in forwarding them is appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
(signed) CORDELL HULL
The Honorable Harold L. Ickes
Secretary of the Interior

Among other things that were effected by the President's speech on Tuesday was the game between the New York Giants and the Boston Braves of the National League. The tussle was halted at the end of the seventh for the spectators to listen to Roosevelt's talk. The game, however, was resumed immediately afterwards and the Giants won 2 to 1.

CONSIDERABLE slow times were turned in by the Nuuanu Y swimmers down at the "pool" behind Pier 1 yesterday afternoon in their first day of practice here. Under the watchful eyes of Coach Yoshito Sagawa the visitors went through their paces in the unaccustomed waters.

This being their first workout after a rough trip coming over and the fact that swimming in open water is a novelty to most of the Honoluluans were largely responsible for their showing.

Coach Sagawa, however, reports that his charges will practice twice today, once in the morning and once in the afternoon, and by meet time tomorrow will be accustomed to the water enough to give the locals a run for their money.

Looking especially good at practice were Godfrey Kang, Captain James Takano and Susumu Takaki, all powerful freestylers. Kang is expected to give Masami Takahata, local pride and glory, a good race in the freestyle events, while Takano will specialize in the sprint events.

Among the breaststrokes James Koizumi and Kaoru Oka will be the Nuuanu swimmers to watch.

Since the Nuuanu ace backstroker, Robert Tribble, couldn't make the trip because of school, Sagawa is converting both James Takano and Norman Ching into the dorsal event. Both Takano and Ching are freestylers.

The visit for the Nuuanu Y natators is the first outside swimming team to invade Hilo and a large crowd is expected to take in the meet which will be held on Memorial Day, tomorrow, starting from 2:00 p. m.

It was announced, by Sparky Kawamoto of the Waialoa swimming club who is responsible for the calling of the visitors, that bleachers will be put up for the meet and that a small admission fee will be charged to defray expenses.

PIGSKIN COACHING JOBS IN SOUTHWEST UNSCRAMBLED

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Join the coaching profession in the Southwest and see the world!

Shifting as frequently as the sands in West Texas, Southwestern mentors have closed a season of almost unprecedented job swapping.

At least eight Southwestern coaches at big-time schools have changed jobs during the winter and early spring. Here they are at their new posts:

Tulsa University—Henry Frnka.
Marquette—Tom Stidham.
Idaho—Francis A. Schmidt.
Oklahoma University—Dewey Luster.

Baylor—Frank Kimbrough.
Texas Tech—Del Morgan and Morely Jennings.
Hardin—Simmons—Warren Woodson.

Virginia Tech—Jimmy Kitts.
The winter season of 1940-41 also will be remembered by the coaches as the year of the great "sports-lease." Tulsa University and Texas Tech, notably, kept a steady stream of applicants pounding down the path to the athletic office.

Tulsa Slow to Choose
Chet Benefiel was the first of the Southwestern coaches to go. He resigned at Tulsa on Oct. 4.

Tony Zale Knocksout Ai Hostak for Title

CHICAGO, May 29—Tony Zale, the slugging fighter from Gary, Indiana, pounded Ai Hostak to the floor nine times in the second round to take away his National Boxing Association middleweight title last night.

The knockout came after two minutes and 32 seconds of the second round.

Hilo Union PTA

Chairmen for the various committees will be: Program, Miss Jean Napier; Social, Mrs. Dora Takahashi; Hospitality, Miss R. Bohnenberg; Publicity, Miss I. Kennedy.

Miss Rebecca Bohnenberg spoke to the parents in planning for their children's summer vacation and the work done during the past year.

Mrs. Annie Kai was presented with a gift from the PTA in honor of her long years' service at the Hilo Union.

Colored movies of the last May Day program was shown during the social hour, bringing the 1940-41 term to a close.

For almost two months the Hurricane fathers delayed. On Jan. 26, they named Frnka.

Texas Tech almost equalled that record. Peter Willis Cawthon, one of the most colorful football professors in the game, resigned on Jan. 7. About 200 coaches held their breath for almost two months until the Tech board named Del Morgan, former Rice assistant, as head coach, and the veteran Baylor mentor, Morley Jennings, as athletic director.

"Indian Tom" Stidham, former head-man at Oklahoma, and Jimmy Kitts, who resigned at Rice after the 1939 season, took the longest trips. Stidham left the sunny Southwest to enter the snow country at Milwaukee, Wis. Kitts went to Virginia Polytechnic.

Speed record in changing coaches went to Oklahoma. No time was wasted in naming the popular Luster as head coach and Luster in turn, wasted no time in promising Sooner fans a bag-full of razzie-dazzle tricks for next fall.

Texas Tech Ambitious

Most interesting change came at Texas Tech. Usually a coach gets his papers because he can't produce a winning team. Not Cawthon. His teams lost few games—only one last season—and he was popular with the boys. From behind the smoke of charges and counter-charges finally came the admission that Cawthon was the barrier between Tech and the Southwest Conference.

Tech is the most rapidly growing school in the state and its football teams keep getting better and better, but several Southwest Conference coaches refused to schedule games with Tech because of Cawthon's alleged coaching methods. Jennings and Morgan probably will steer the young, enthusiastic school into the top league of the cattle country within the next couple of years. Then, everybody in West Texas will be happy.

Francis Schmidt, formerly at Ohio State, neither resigned from a Southwestern school nor did he transfer to one—Idaho—but he came coached at T.C.U. Therefore, he's a Southwesterner to the folk down here. Once a Southwesterner, always one—unless you have a poor season.

All In Readiness For Big Inter-Island Swimfest

NUUANU TEAM TO OPPOSE HILO STARS

MEET TO START AT 2:00 P. M. ON MEMORIAL DAY BACK OF PIER 1

Everything is in readiness for the big inter-island swimming meet slated for tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 2 p. m., at the swimming pool back of Pier 1 in Hilo.

The meet will feature a duel between Yoshito Sagawa's Nuuanu YMCA natators and the pick of the local swimming crop, and was arranged through the efforts of coach Sparky Kawamoto of the Waialoa swimmers.

The visitors came in fifteen strong on yesterday's boat and took to the water the very same day, and twice today, leaving nothing returned to get themselves into top shape for tomorrow's races. Especially noticeable were the efforts of Godfrey Kang and James Takano, the visitors' ace freestylers, of Norman Ching the backstroker, and of James Koizumi, Honolulu's junior breaststroke champion.

Mahuna to Swim

These stars and their teammates are expected to cop the bulk of the honors in tomorrow's meet, having had so much competition under their belts, but the local team's stock was boosted sky high with the addition of big James Mahuna to the team. Mahuna's presence will assure fast times in the sprint freestyle races and gives the locals a better chance all around. Although out of competitive swimming for some time, Mahuna has been training diligently under Ike Kellipio lately and has shown promise of fulfilling the possibilities he showed a couple years ago.

Others besides Mahuna are Masami Takahata, ace freestyler entered in the middle distance events, Susumu Miyamoto and Hisayoshi Fujino, the backstrokers, Toshiyuki Murata, Takeo Takemoto and Masa Matsumoto in the breaststroke, and Shizuo Sumida the individual medley champion.

Good Races

Exciting races are expected in the sprint freestyle events where Mahuna, Miyamoto, and Fujino of the locals will be pitted against Kang and Takano of the invaders. The Hilo boys should be able to give the Nuuanu swimmers an especially close fight in the 50 yards swim, and also to hard press the later in the 100.

In the 20 and 440 freestyle races, it remains to be seen what Takahata and Hamamoto of Hilo can do in the type of fast company expected in the Nuuanu gang. Miyamoto and Fujino are given even chances of beating Ching in the backstroke event, but Koizumi of the visitors, by virtue of his winning performance in Honolulu recently, is favored over Murata and Takemoto in the breaststroke race.

Junior races, wahine's events, and one contest for 12 year old boys will round out a 19-event program arranged for tomorrow. Beginning with the medley relay which will officially start the meet going at 2:00 p. m. to the final event of the afternoon, the 200 yards open relay, all the races hold promise of being exciting affairs.

Many sports fans are expected to trek down to Pier 1 to take in the meet to see what the locals' best can do when pitted against faster company than can be found hereabouts. An elaborate program sheet has been worked out to make the races doubly interesting.

SWAMPS MOSES IN LONE TILT PLAYED HERE

SLIGHT CHANGE IN SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED IN LEAGUE

Tax Office kept pace with the other unbeaten teams in the HRC Business Men's softball league by blasting Moses for a 14-0 shutout yesterday at Moeheau Park in the lone match of the day. The other contest between Panaewa CCC and Hilo Motors was postponed.

Hilo Sugar and Panaewa CCC are the other teams who have yet to lose a game in four and three starts, respectively. Yesterday's win for the Taxmen was their third also.

Two Games Saturday

It was learned through Director Doro Takeda of the HRC that two special matches have been scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Kaunama field in an effort to finish up some of the numerous postponed games on the schedule. Next week's schedule will also be revised slightly to accommodate Panaewa CCC and to crowd in a few more matches.

In Saturday's double-header at Kaunama, Tax Office meets Tribune Herald at 2:00 p. m. followed by the Panaewa CCC vs. Hilo Sugar contest. Both are crucial tilts involving the three unbeaten teams and the Newsmen with one defeat to date.

In yesterday's lone match at Moeheau, the Taxmen went after the offerings of pitchers Tada and Yonemori for a total of nine safe hits and scored in every inning except the first to win. Wong and Souza barged out homers, the former getting three hits in four tries to take hitting honors followed by Andrews with two out of four.

Moses batters were limited to four scattered hits by pitcher Gilbert Lee of the winners.

Summary scores:

Moses	000 000 0-0
Hits	201 000 1-4
Tax Office	025 142 x-14
Hits	022 023 x-9

Chicago Manager Protests $500 Fine

CHICAGO, May 29—Manager James Gallagher of the Chicago Cubs protested strongly on an assessment of a five hundred dollars fine by the National League President Ford Frick. The Cubs were fined following a protest by the Brooklyn Dodgers that the Chicago club was carrying 26 players on their roster.

The twenty-sixth player, Charley Gilbert, Gallagher pointed out was not in playing condition. He declared that the Brooklyn farm of Montreal had sent Gilbert to the Cubs without giving an accurate picture of the outfielder's physical condition.

FORMER CHAMP DEAD ON CRETE

MAX SCHEMELING SHOT DOWN WHILE MAKING BREAK FOR FREEDOM

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 29—Reliable New Zealand sources revealed this morning that Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion of the world, was killed while trying to escape from soldiers escorting him to a prison camp at Crete.

Schmeling had been wounded in the first day of the 10-day battle and had been turned over to the field ambulance. He was then taken to a dressing station where he showed his papers and identified himself.

Military officials, including a colonel, investigated him personally and were sure beyond doubt of his identification.

A contingent of New Zealanders were mopping up parachutists in the field when Schmeling broke free, seized a rifle from a wounded man and tried to escape. He was killed.

Earlier, upon his capture, Schmeling was in a truculent and threatening mood when he was taken to the prison.

Mickey Harris In I-A Class

NEW YORK, May 29—Boston Red Sox's promising young pitcher, Mickey Harris was placed in the draft classification of class I-A, it was announced by the board yesterday. It was also revealed, however, that the high number of volunteers in Harris' district probably would save the southpaw's induction until September.

Softball Meeting Slated for Tonite

Teams planning to participate in this year's HRC senior and junior softball leagues are urged to send representatives to the organization meeting which is being held at 7 p. m. tonight at Hilo Center.

It is hoped that the leagues will be started sometime during the middle of June.

Two Crucial Games In Commercial Loop

Two games in the HRC Commercial softball league are scheduled for this afternoon at two different fields: Waipaea Mill meeting Amfac at Moeheau and Iron Works tackling Davies at Kaunama.

In each case the first named team must win to remain in the running for the second round title, having already lost one game each. The second named teams have lost at least two and are definitely out of the picture.
