HONOLULU, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, MONDAY, APRIL 25, 1904

PRICE 5 CENTS

FISHERY CASES ARE DECIDED

[Associated Press Special Cable.] WASHINGTON, D. C., April 25.—The Supreme Court today handed down a decision confirming the title of S. M. Damon to fishery rights on the island of Oahu. This was a test case involving fishery rights in the Territory. The Territory, which lost its case, was represented by Attorney General Andrews.

The decision in favor of S. M. Damon in the fisheries case means that the Supreme Court of the United States takes diametrically the opposite view to that of the Supreme Court of the Territory. Speaking of the decision announced in the cables today, Mr. Damon said: "I suppose the courts will now be compelled to try all these fisheries cases. My claim was that of title to certain fishing privileges, by Royal Grant, described by metes and bounds. The Supreme Court of the Territory held there could be no such thing as a title to a fishing right. According to this cable the U. S. Supreme Court hold just the opposite. It was a hard-fought case. Mr. Hatch was my representative at Washington and he devoted a great deal of time and labor to the case."

SCHOONER LUKA BACK IN DISTRESS

The island schooner Luka, which left this port for Kohala on the Hamakua coast last Friday afternoon, returned to Honolulu last Saturday evening in distress. Soon after the Luka left this harbor she ran into very rough weather in the channel. The gale which was felt here in the city raged with great force in the open waters of the channel and the crew of the small schooner consider themselves lucky that they escaped from the fury of the storm with as little damage as they did. The schooner Luka has been laid up in "Rotten Row" for some time. This last trip was only her second voyage since was put into commission again. The Luka left Honolulu harbor Friday afternoon. At the time she left the wind was blowing fresh but she experienced no special inconvenience until the evening of the same day, when the wind rose to such an extent as to assume the character of a regular storm. On Friday night the schooner's jib-boom was cracked. In spite of this accident the little craft continued on her voyage. All through the night fearful weather was experienced. A high wind raged and big green combers kept sweeping over the small schooner's deck. On Saturday morning the wind raged with unabated force. At this time the Luka's main boom was broken. Crippled by two accidents the captain of the Luka abandoned the idea of continuing on the voyage to Kohala and decided to put back to Honolulu for repairs. When the schooner put about for this port she was off the island of Lanai. The Luka arrived in Honolulu Saturday night at 6 o'clock. She will be held for some time in this port for re-

$10,000 DAMAGES FOR HIS SON'S DEATH

Ten thousand dollars for the life of a boy is being sued for in Judge Robinson's court. The father of Manuel Pedro Ferreira asks this amount as damages from the Honolulu Rapid Transit & Land Company, one of whose electric cars, car No. 4, on Liliha street, in November of 1901, caused the death of his son. The bereaved parent alleges that it was entirely due to the negligence of the company that his 15-year-old boy came to his death. The case came up for hearing this morning and the work of securing a jury is now being proceeded with. The trial panel in Judge Robinson's court was exhausted before twelve qualified men were obtained and a special venire was ordered. E. M. Watson and Robertson & Willard represent plaintiff; Castle & Withington for defendant. Young Ferreira was riding a horse at the time of the accident. It is said that the car struck the animal and that the boy was thrown under the wheels and crushed to death. At the World's Fair an ingenious Missouri man has a "print shop" built of honey, of which he is the architect and the bees the builders. He reproduced his office building in miniature and turned his bees loose. In a few months every facade, every nook and corner was thickly covered with golden honey. This odd exhibit is placed in the Palace of Agriculture. The Luka's cargo of lumber and general merchandise is today being transferred on board the schooner Kaukaeouli, which has been put on the run to Kohala to take the place of the disabled Luka.

Steamer Sunk By Russians

The following cablegram was received at the Japanese Consulate at 12:30 today: April 25th, 1904. To SAITO Honolulu: Mr. Ohki, Japanese Consul at Gensan (also called Wonsan or Yuensan, a treaty port on the northeastern coast of Korea), reports that on the 25th inst. two Russian torpedo boats entered the port and sank a small Japanese steamer—Goyomaru (500 tons)—and left immediately. HOCKING FAMILY ESCAPES DEATH

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hocking had a narrow escape from serious injury or possibly death yesterday afternoon on their return from the Symphony Club-house on Prospect street, where they had been attending the concert. Close to the club-house is a by-road, on one side of which is a steep precipice. Mr. and Mrs. Hocking were in a buggy and Mr. Hocking started to back his horse on this road with the intention of turning the vehicle. The horse, when it once had started backing, would not stop. It backed the carriage over the side of the steep slope. For a moment the horse stood on his hind feet on the very brink paving the air. Then it was dragged over by the weight of the buggy and toppled over on top of it. The whole outfit fell a little distance down the steep slope, when it was fortunately stopped by a dense growth of lantana. Mr. and Mrs. Hocking managed to extricate themselves and regained the road. By a miracle both escaped the slightest injury. Mr. Hocking managed to unhitch the horse while Mrs. Hocking called assistance. Several members of the Symphony Club arrived on the scene with a rope. By their aid the horse and buggy were hauled up on the road. The buggy was not damaged but the horse had several severe cuts and bruises on its legs. Dr. Hoffmann, who happened to arrive on the scene, bandaged the animal's injuries by means of a laprobe and Mr. and Mrs. Hocking were able to drive home in their own outfit. Thomas Bent, the new Premier of Victoria, Australia, began life as a market gardener, and is a man of aggressive spirit and great determination.

Back From Vacation Governor Carter Spends Busy Day

Governor Carter resumed his duties at the executive office this morning greatly rested and refreshed by his few days' outing at Waihua, where all public questions were put aside for the pleasures of golf and pedro. The forenoon was wholly occupied by the Governor with callers. To a Eulettin reporter Governor Carter said: "I have not taken up the threads of my work yet. I have not been able to get at it. I did nothing whatever at Waihua but rest and enjoy myself. I have not made any appointments on the County Commission nor any of the other commissions. I will get at those matters as soon as I can go down town and discuss them with business men. The things I want to do first now are in connection with putting into effect the economies made possible by the work of the special session I will hold conferences with the heads of departments as soon as I can and find out what economies shall best be made first. I shall press the work of spending the loan fund. We have a great variety of obstacles in our way. We find there are not only kinks because we do not proceed fast enough but there are kinks if we proceed at all. For instance, the wharf improvements are held up by the Lucas injunction and another improvement is balked by the Kendall injunction. In Kona, where we started to erect court houses, the plan didn't exactly suit. Nevertheless we will press the work under loan fund appropriations as fast as possible. I have had a long conference with Mr. Cohen regarding the trip of the band," said Governor Carter. "I want first to know definitely what he proposes to do and wish a guarantee, that the band may run no risk of becoming stranded in the States. The band is wanted for five months and all that has been offered is a month's pay in advance. I want to act on definite ground when I agree to the band's tour of the States."

Punchbowl Fray By Police and Portuguese

Officers Luahiwa and Apana and some Hawaiian boys they had with them, had an exceedingly lively and exciting time last Saturday night when they were engaged in making a raid on a illicit liquor selling shop on Beretania street close to Gonsalves' store. In making the arrest the officers offended the public opinion of a certain part of the Punchbowl district and the martial spirit of the descendants of the Lusitanas made itself manifest to such an extent that the officers, after a severe struggle, had to call for assistance. The "blind tiger" on Beretania street has for some time been a thorn in the flesh of the police and plans for raiding it have been mature for weeks. The place where the liquor is alleged to be disposed of is an underground apartment to which access is accorded only to a chosen few. Apana and Luahiwa gained admittance (Continued on Page 4.)

BILLS OF SALE FOR SLAVE GIRLS

Damaging Papers Held By United States Attorney.

AGREEMENT OF DIVORCE AND A WIFE TRANSFER

WOMAN SOLD FOR THE PRICE OF HER STEAMSHIP TICKET TO HONOLULU FROM THE ORIENT.

"For and in consideration of $175 paid to me, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, I deliver my wife (name here inserted) to you, the above amount being the steamer fare. But in case she should turn her heart to (here the name of a certain Japanese is mentioned) then I shall take her back and return $175 to you."

The above is a copy, except for names of the contracting parties, of an agreement in the hands of United States District Attorney R. W. Breckons, secured in the vigorous campaign against immoral and involuntary servitude which is being conducted by the local Federal authorities.

In this document lies absolute proof of slavery; proof of a Japanese selling his wife (?) to another. The seller and the purchaser, together with the go-between, are all liable and can be prosecuted for conspiring to foster prostitution, or adultery. The purchaser can be made to answer for pecuniary. This agreement is one of several which Mr. Breckons has secured.

Here is another agreement, showing one method employed in the slavery business among the Japanese here:

CERTIFICATE ACKNOWLEDGING DIVORCE

According to my request to (husband who sells wife) to divorce her, which was readily granted, I guarantee the safety of the body of (the woman) hereafter, whatever trouble happens to her, I will look after it, and will not trouble you about it.

Further, I will pay all expenses connected with getting divorce decreed (names of the woman and her husband).

For future reference or safety, I hereby sign, in the presence of witnesses, Dated September 14, 1903. (Signed) (Name of purchaser.) Witnesses: (Go-betweens, etc.)

The above was given to the husband of a woman purchased by the man signing the agreement.

This important paper figures in a case soon to come before the Federal court.

ALLEGES FORGERY

L. T. Henry of Kapaa, Kauai, writes the Territorial Secretary, A. L. C. Atkinson, and also The Bulletin, to the effect that a certain Chinese of Kapaa is wrongfully registered as being of Hawaiian birth. Henry thinks forgery has been committed. As a matter of fact, the man's children are Hawaiian born and are so registered. The father was born in Canton, China. Says the letter to The Bulletin: "I have heard Kapaa Islands of Kauai have a Chinese man it is forgery Registered of Hawaii Born. To witness help for him. He was birth of China Canton. Hongshan Pon Sar Sept. 19th, 1859. Your truly "L. T. HENRY." It is said that Mr. Henry has confused the registry of the children with their father.

Scribner's Sarsaparilla

In early days when settlers were few and doctors fewer, man and woman learned wisdom from Nature's book and their valuable discoveries have come down to us. When the coming spring stirred the pulses, a tonic was found good for everyone from the children to the grandfathers. SCRIBNER'S SARSAPARILLA, extracted in far more purity and strength by modern science will achieve today in greater measure what it did 200 years ago.

JAPANESE ASSASSINS CAUGHT.

St. Petersburg, April 24.—The news of an attempt to assassinate General Kurapatkin has been confirmed. He was approached by two Japanese disguised as Chinese peddlers. One of them, while reaching for a dagger, was felled by the Cossack guard.

YALU CONFLICTS.

St. Petersburg, April 24.—The Russians have placed guns at the principal crossing of the Yalu. While General Kurapatkin prefers that the Japanese shall enter Manchuria before he gives a decisive battle, he proposes to make the crossing as costly as possible for the enemy.

LANDING JAPANESE.

St. Petersburg, April 24.—A report is current that the Japanese have landed 20,000 men at Kinchow, above Port Arthur.

SPIES WERE NOT AMERICAN.

Mukden, April 24.—The report that four Americans have been arrested as Japanese spies is without foundation.

LIGURIA AT COAST.

San Francisco, April 24.—The Italian cruiser Liguria arrived here yesterday in command of the Duke D'Abruzzi, brother of the King of Italy.

HEARST'S FIRST-BORN. Washington, April 24.—A son has been born to the wife of Congressman Hearst.

Pro-Japanese Spirit Relates Political Refugee Blights Czar's Army

A political exile from the Empire of Russia since 1875, Dr. Nicholas Russel, the whom Senator from the island of Hawaii, returned but a fortnight ago from a business mission in the Orient. He came home satiate with the political and war gossip of the seaport cities from Nagasaki to Shanghai. With a packet of contraband letters from Russian Naval and Army officers in his grip, he comes pretty near having foundations for the beliefs he expresses regarding the issues of the conflict now in progress in the Yellow Sea and fast approaching in the Yalu basin.

"The cause of the disasters to the Russian fleet," said Dr. Russel, is found in the fact that the Russians are pro-Japanese. The people of Russia are pro-Japanese because the Japanese are fighting in a just cause. They are pro-Japanese because the Russian side is the wrong side. Russians are generally more sensitive to principle than any other people in the world.

"The second reason why the Russians are pro-Japanese, is that they consider the worst enemy of theirs to be the Russian Government. History shows that only after unsuccessful war campaigns of the government have the people of the interior country, acquired certain liberties and rights. They therefore are inclined to look upon Japan more as an ally than as an enemy. This same feeling is in the army and in the navy, among the soldiers and commissioned officers. And if they fight it is because they cannot do otherwise. At any rate they have no heart in the war.

"The basis of my belief is my personal correspondence with numerous people in the army, both in Siberia and Russia. From all that I have learned in these letters I see that a pro-Japanese sentiment pervades the armies of the Czar. From a correspondent in office in the central government I learn authentically that the original Russian policy was to procrastinate the settlement of her differences with Japan one year more, during which preparations for the conflict were to have been pushed. When ready, Russia would have declared war with the purpose of dictating the terms of peace. My information is most authentic that such were the intentions of the Russian government.

"Yes," replied Dr. Russel, "men in the army or navy who correspond with a political refugee take serious chances; they render themselves liable to severe penalties.

"There are additional remote causes for the Russian disasters in this war. Russian government is an organized Bureaucracy. There is constant strife between bureaus. One bureau is arrayed against another through jealousy. The army is at strife with the navy. Jealousy abounds everywhere. There is no harmony or cooperation. The Czar does not dominate the government machinery. He is simply a blind instrument in the hands of a camarilla. Again the corrupt condition in the various bureaus is not unlike conditions in China. Especially in the commissary and naval bureaus corruption is rampant. Finally, with the complex conditions of the present time, the bureaucratic system is utterly inadequate. It might have been good enough when life was simple, but now the social structure is so complex that no bureaucratic system can grasp it. The principle of bureaucracy is to substitute the will, the energy, the genius of a handful of officials for the will, energy and genius of the whole nation.

"The apathy and half-heartedness that comes from the conditions I have described account for the Russian naval disasters, even to the sinking of the Admiral's flagship. Perfect indifference in the cause, is at the bottom of it rather than incompetence or ignorance on the part of men and officers. The Russian does not lack experience or knowledge in seamanship. The Russian navy is recruited from the fishermen along the shores of seas, who are as familiar with seafaring life as the English. As for officers, Russian naval aspirants pass through excellent naval schools and competent if they choose to be. There may be something in poor generalship. The heads of the navy are ground out through long years in the bureaucratic mill and may arrive at the top a perfect ignoramus. I remember when the Russian Admiral Schmidt of the Pacific Squadron asked me in San Francisco if California extended as far as the Atlantic ocean. But I think it is apathy rather than incompetence that accounts for the Russian disasters at Port Arthur.

"The reason why Admiral Skrydloff, now in command of the Port Arthur fleet, was not appointed before, is that the central government decided to maintain a defensive attitude and Skrydloff is not that sort. He is Russia's most aggressive fighter. I have no doubt he will immediately take the offensive, no matter what the odds may be. He will probably make an effort at once to combine the Port Arthur and Vladivostok fleets and go to Japanese shores. That is about the only course left to restore the prestige of Russia in the Pacific ocean.

"From what I hear from army officers I anticipate Japanese victories at first in the engagements on land. The resources of the government in men and munitions, are, however, so great that the outcome may be adverse to the Japanese. But the people of Russia and many of the soldiers are not with the government. Their sympathies are with the enemy.

"As to the possibility of internal uprisings in Russian, I expect to see no armed outbreak. There will be no active violence. Passive resistance is the great force which opposes the Russian government. This is a remarkable system of opposition, and I see its presence and effect even in the army and navy and among commissioned officers. 'Passive resistance' was originated by the great Count Tolstol and is a remarkable system. I can describe it only by saying that sometimes it takes the nature of a general strike. Sometimes the people in every walk and occupation deliberately refuse to do a thing until certain governmental reforms are granted. It has been found to be more effective than dynamite. This form of resistance will be felt by the Russian government in the present crisis, from capital to village; from high naval and army office to peasant's home."

When Dr. Russel landed at Nagasaki last January, the Russian Consul at that place called Alexieff, "Russel is here." Dr. Russel is wanted in Russia. They have needed him in the mines of Siberia since 1875, when with a number of students of the gentry class, he donned workman's clothes and distributed forbidden literature in the villages and tried to organize political clubs for the purpose of securing reforms. Dr. Russel loves Russia, but he has been a consistent and civil oppositionist to the government during his thirty years enforced absence. He said: "I have given the Russian government several battles during my exile. I have not tried to make it forget me, but in my fights the forces have been somewhat disproportionate. I am one man; it is a great government. I was invariably defeated but I always retreated in good order."

KAUAI SHIPPING.

The steamer W. G. Hall arrived from Kauai ports yesterday at 4:52 a. m., with 6000 bags sugar, 26 bundles hides, 30 bags taro and 20 packages sundries. The following sugar is reported at Kauai ports ready for shipment: K. S. M., 5300 bags; V. K., 800; G. & R., 750; Mak., 100; McE., 28,135; K. P., 2000; H. M., 13,097; P., 3371; K. S. CO., 3000.

Purser Friel reports as follows: "It was too rough last Wednesday at Nawiliwili to discharge fertilizer and lumber, so we discharged all the light freight and left for Koloa and Eleie. Came back to Nawiliwili Thursday at 9a. m., found the weather had moderated, but there was still a heavy swell running. The fertilizer and lumber was discharged and we then left for Ahukini. Smr. Nihaui did not land at Nawiliwili Friday morning owing to rough weather. They landed mail and passengers at Koloa. It was also too rough at Waimea to work freight Friday. The Nihaui was laying off Waimea when we left."

Beer must be pure

to be good; must be brewed only from the best materials; must be scientifically filtered, thoroughly aged, bottled at the brewery and sterilized after bottling. It must always be shipped in the bottle, for beer shipped in bulk and bottled at supply depots is sure to absorb impurities.

The Famous A.B.C. Beers

are guaranteed absolutely pure and free from all preservatives and chemicals used in other brands of bottled beers, which are injurious to the health. They are never sold in bulk—are the only beers bottled exclusively at the brewery. Made from the finest Bohemian hops, they are aged for months, then filtered and piped direct from the brewery vaults into bottles by means of hermetically closed filling machines. This prevents the beer from coming in contact with the outside air, and insures absolute freedom from bacteria. It also preserves its natural effervescence and zest.

Six Points of A.B.C. Excellence

- 1—Purity. We absolutely guarantee the purity of all our beers.
- 2—Flavor. This is the distinctive, individual characteristic of any beverage, peculiar to it alone, and is the quality that has made A. B. C. Bohemian Beer famous.
- 3—Brilliance, clearness and polish, proving perfect brewing and fermentation.
- 4—Clean Taste. No disagreeable foreign or aftertaste, proving scrupulous cleanliness during brewing process.
- 5—Keeping Quality. The most trying test for bottled beer. A. B. C. Bohemian will keep and retain all of its qualities under varying conditions.
- 6—Solid, Creamy Foam, denoting body age and excellence of brewing materials.

SUNDAY SYMPHONY

MEMBERS GIVE FINE CLUB HOUSE CONCERT

NEW MUSICIAN INTRODUCED TO HONOLULU CIRCLES—THE PROGRAM AS IT WAS PRESENTED.

The music at the club house of the Honolulu Symphony Society yesterday afternoon was enjoyed by a large number of members and guests of the club. Ladies' Day at the club house is growing to be very popular and those who were present yesterday had reason to desire to go again. The orchestral music was under the direction of Dr. Marquis.

The playing of Mons. Giron, a French double-bass player, was much admired. Mons. Giron played for several years in the orchestra at the Grand Opera in Paris. He is an exceedingly skillful player and a great acquisition to the club.

F. Bechtel's obse solo was of the excellence which characterizes Mr. Bechtel's playing. It is possible, however, that the accompaniment was a little too strong to allow the aboe to be heard to its full advantage.

The first movement of Beethoven's Sixth Symphony was without doubt the finest number of yesterday's program. The beautiful piece was well rendered and was much enjoyed by the lovers of the classics present.

A violin solo by Benj. L. Marx and a vocal solo by Mrs. Dr. Hoffman were both enjoyed.

The program in full was as follows: First Movement of Beethoven's Sixth Symphony Orchestra.
Vocal Solo (2 numbers) Mrs. Dr. Hoffman.
Choe Solo (2 pieces) F. Bechtel.
"Fruehlings Erwachen" Bach
Orchestra.
Intermission.
"Dawn of Love" Bendix
Orchestra.
Violin Solo Benj. L. Marx.
"Under the Double Eagle" Wagner
Orchestra.

HIT JAPAN'S CRUISER.

Port Arthur, Friday, April 15.—(Delayed in transmission.)—At 6 o'clock this morning a small Japanese squadron appeared on the horizon and soon drew off, but at about 10 o'clock a hostile fleet, numbering twenty-three vessels was again sighted. They formed in two divisions, one taking up a position behind Cape Liao Shan and shelling the shore and the Tiger peninsula, while the other bombarded the Golden Hill and other batteries from a point opposite the roadstead. The fire was continued intermittently until 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The Russian ships replied with an indirect fire, and made good practice, one shot damaging a Japanese cruiser. According to some reports two Japanese ships were injured. There was no damage done to the forts or the town. Some Chinese were killed and a few Chinese and Russians were wounded.

HILO SHIPPING.

Friday, April 15th—Cleared, ship Kenilworth, St. Clair master, with cargo of sugar for Delaware Breakwater, as follows: Oiaa, 36,951 bags; Onomea, 19,400 bags; Waiakea, 8480 bags; Hakalau, 7500 bags; Honoumou, 5600; Pepeekeo, 5000; Hilo Sugar Co., 5600; Hawaii Mill Co., 3000. Total value, $257,036.91.

Wednesday April 20th—Cleared, S. S. Enterprise, to Hilo, master, 12 passengers, 14 Japanese stevedores and cargo of general merchandise, including sugar from Hakalau 20,300 bags; Hilo Sugar Co., 19,684 bags; 4247 bunches of banana; coffee, 25,200 lbs; and hides and skins, 4,663 lbs.

THE ADVANTAGES CEMENT ROOFING

POSSESSES OVER TIN, IRON AND STEEL ROOFING
IT CANNOT RUST

Gases, fumes, moisture, coal soot and smoke cannot injure or affect CEMENT ROOFING. It is better adapted for application over uneven surfaces, such as old shingles or metal roofs, obviating the expense of removing the same. It will not rattle from wind and storm, nor create any noise from rain falling upon it. The materials used in cement roofing are the best non-conductors of heat and cold known; therefore it will keep the building warmer in winter and cooler in summer than a metal roof. Hearts Courageous

By... HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES

Copyright, 1902, by THE BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY

Again she spoke, volubly and with many groveling sobs. "She says," said the redeemer, "that if it could only be blessed, there is no priest aboard."

The mate, with his hands on the rail, laughed at this. "Do what I say, you down there!" he cried. "Will ye stand making mouths all day? Tie it in that canvas."

The man he had bidden approached the woman to take the cold little body from her, but she turned suddenly a fury and, holding it to her breast with one arm, fought him off, screaming. He jumped back, with his hand clapped to his armpit. "The Jezebel's bit me!" he yelled.

There was a great laugh from the sailors, and the mate cursed furiously from above. "Aye ye rascal, coddles, then!" he shouted. As he heated, he scrambled down hand over hand, darning them for landlubbers and clearly minded to do it himself.

The Frenchman's fingers, as he stood beside the Virginian, slipped the rail. "Swine!" he said under his breath. Then he leaned over and called clearly. "Keep your hand from that woman!"

The mate looked up, astonished, at the group, for the other passengers had gathered to witness what was going on.

"What's that?" he asked. Armand repeated his words. The mate's face turned a spongy purple, and he laughed in a way that was not good to hear. For answer he reached out a hand to the shawl and literally tore it away from the poor clay it covered.

At the instant he did so Armand vaulted the rail where he stood, caught a rope, swung to a stanchion and landed as lightly as a cat at the side of the burly ruffian. The act was so clean, so graceful and so quick that none of the passengers could have told exactly how it was done.

The mate turned and, seeing him at his elbow, struck with all his strength at the other's head.

The stroke was one to stun, but it never reached home. The young foreigner bent one side, not moving his feet, with a motion that would have spoken volumes to an athlete, and the mate's fish banged against the bulwark. While he staggered from this, Armand, seizing a rope's end as he circled, cut him across the face with such a slash that the blood ran from the gash.

Now ensued a strange combat. The mate, heavy and cumbersome, tried to reach the other with sledge hammer blows. The Frenchman, slight, wary, circling, retreating, slipped hither and thither. Three times in as many seconds that sibilant "swish" sang, and a red mark sprang out on the brutal face.

At each swing of the flat sort of grout went up from the huddled redemptioners, and at each cut they sneaked in their breath with delight. It was a new, strange entertainment for them—to have a brain sick passenger descend from his clean deck to champion the cause of a scum.

The Virginian, looking down, was quivering visibly. As the passenger evaded a blow that would have crushed his ribs he could not forbear a shout: "Well done, by the Lord! But 'ware the clinch! 'Ware the clinch, monsier!"

For the mate, though maddened out of himself, had shown a sudden gleam of purpose. He was forcing the secretary back into a corner between bulwark and stanchion, now striking, but his burly arms now stretched out widely. Even as Cary shouted the arms gripped Armand like a vise, and the stinging rope's end, useless now, fell to the deck.

Over the upper rail the passengers loomed, watching. "A shame!" cried one. "That bloody brute will kill him out of hand!" " 'Tis the clerk! Pshaw!" said the quartermaster. "He sides with the rascal. Let the rabble care for him!"

The woman who had been the unwitting cause of this struggle crouched back of the first sullenly intent rows, waiting, hugging her bundle. The others watched, guessing well what the issue would be, most of them accepting it as they had accepted the unspoken fare, the cursings and revilings of the crew, with that stolid acceptance which, multiplied by centuries of heredity, had brought them at last to this same condition.

The Virginian leaned down with vibrant hopelessness. He looked to see the secretary, vised and cracked in those arms, drop limp and senseless. As he looked he saw Armand's face, very white, turn up to him.

Then, like lightning, a wonderful thing happened. The young man's chin sank deep into the hollow of the other's shoulder; his arms went up about the muscles of the bulky back; like legs like wire went suddenly curling and twisting about the stocky ones. A moment of strained silence and a glaze of shocked surprise on the mate's slashed face, then— "Crack!" the coil untwisted; the mate relaxed, tottered and fell to the deck. There was at this time in France a curious science known as "La Savate." The Japanese have it under another name. It was first taught in the thieving dens of Paris and was to some extent popularized by a clever rogue who earned freedom from the Bastille by teaching it to young officers of title. It was an art of leg fence, and by precisely the same twist and wring which a practiced swordsman uses to disarm an adversary, the blade in this case being some flesh, Armand had sent the mate's knee leaping from its socket.

To the majority of those who saw it this was perfectly incomprehensible. A gasp of wonder ran among the redemptioners, and they laughed loudly at the mate's groan. The secretary had lost none of his alertness, though he was breathing hard. He sprang at the stanchion, clearly intending to return to the upper deck by the way he had come.

But he was too late. The mate's sailors rushed upon him. Cary, shaking with excitement, sent out a cry. "By Harry!" he shouted to the passengers about him. "Shall we see him that fought so heat like a dog? Are we pitroons, all?"

He leaped the rail, but before he could reach the lowered level aid, came to Armand, so hard beset. The skipper dived into the circle on a run, an evil light in his eyes and a marline spike in his hand. He knocked the foremost senseless, and the rest scattered. "Curse ye!" he bellowed. "Set on a passenger, ye dogfish! By the devil, I'll mizen ye naked! Get to work and take this away!" he commanded, jerking a thumb at the mate who sat up, nursing his knee.

The woman, still holding the bundle, had pressed to the secretary's side and was pouring out a torrent of grateful incoherencies. Master Elves began cursing her with vigor, but Armand touched his arm.

"The babe is dead," he said. "Your mate would have cast it overboard. I ask for the mother a twelve hours' time. If we do not sight land by then I will ask no more."

But land was not to be seen that day. Next morning came—the secretary's fight had been in vain. Then there was another gathering to the forward rail of the upper deck.

This was to watch the young Frenchman sitting among the redemptioners, sewing a round shawl carefully into the foot of a white silk bundle the size of a babe. The mother, now with empty arms, trailed her long hair and sat, red-eyed, sodden with weeping, beside him. This done, he stretched over the silk neckerchief a clean canvas and last of all sewed to its top a tiny gold cross which he took from his pocket. The bundle, held now by willing hands, was laid on a little board whose end projected over the rail, and then Armand, with bared head, took his stand beside it, and they heard his voice repeating part of the Huguenot service for the dead.

Few understood the words, for they were French, but all grasped their meaning. The fresh cheeks of the girls were wet with tears. The tollers' seamed faces were pitiful. Even the crime-smirched ones were softer. And the mother was satisfied. Had not her child been blessed? To her none but a priest could perform such a rite, and Armand, though wearing no cassock, was yet in some mysterious way a priest.

So are we all His ministers!

CHAPTER III.

The Yorktown wharf was a fair sight to the passengers of the Two Sisters as the ship swung to her moorings. Beyond the yellow clay bank the shore glowed in a violet green dazle of foliage, a flame of amethyst and pink, and over all the sun hung hazy, like some splendid dream rose, strewing its petals upon a bay of tinted glass.

The bank behind the wharf was a fringe of negroes, their vacant minded happiness shaking out laughter as wind shakes blossoms from a locust tree. The gay-colored turbans bobbed like variegated poppies on a breezy day. The planking below was sprinkled with town folk, and on the road behind it several chariots were drawn up at some distance.

In advance of these and in the rear of the crowd, with Betsy Byrd in the middle beside it, stood the Tiltoson coach, framing in its window a face with a flicker of laughter over it like the wind on a May meadow. Anne was in close green and with her oak yellow hair looked a gold spear rising straight from its sheath. As early as noon one of the Tiltoson blacks had ridden to Gladden Hall with the news that the ship had been sighted down the bay, and Anne had ordered the chariot forthwith. Betsy had a new peacock shawl coming in Master Elves' care and had made the pilgrimage from Williamsburg every day for a week.

"What a pity!" exclaimed Anne, who had been first to arrive. "Mr. Cary—Breckinridge Cary—came on the ship, but she lay in Hampton Roads last night, and he there found a packet for Philadelphia. So we shall not see him till the spring."

"I'm sorry," Betsy answered. "Frank saw him in London. What a lot there are here! There is Burnaby Rolph of Westham, here for more redemptioners no doubt. He bought a round dozen last ship. Why doesn't he leave that for his factor, like a gentleman, I wonder?"

Anne looked at the man she indicated—of medium height, with a steep face, long in the tooth—and turned away with a little shudder. He stood with thick legs planted firmly, talking over his shoulder, and as they looked he raised his sworn hilt and struck savagely at a black who jostled him. "Poor servants who fall into Mr. Rolph's hands, I pity them," she said in a low voice.

"John the Baptist," she called to her mounted servant. "Did you go down to inquire about Miss Betsy's chest, as I told you?"

"Yas'm, yas'm. Done been down dar twice."

"Are you sure?"

"Yas'm, on tuch honah!"

"Honor!" Anne said severely. "What do you know about honor, John the Baptist?"

The darky responded with a ragged grin. "L uster hab er hear er honah," he said vaguely, "but I got so 'strav'gant wid it I spee' I ain't got much left now."

"Look yonder, Anne," whispered Betsy. "Isn't that a genteel looking young man? What a lovely brown his hair is! He's coming this way. His coat has a foreign cut. I warrant he came on the ship. There is Master Brooke standing by him now."

Anne's eyes showed her a gray coat unslashed, plain hose and shoes with a neat steel buckle—a dress neither rich nor poor. There was no lace upon the hat, no paste knee buckles, no sword—none of the marks of distinction. But the face was open and the dark eyes frank and clear.

She had gazed but a moment when a familiar red coat shouldered its way through the press. She bit her lip and turned her head away, but Betsy was deep in chat with young Mr. Carlyle, kinsman to the Belvoir Fairfaxes, a youth lean as a rake, of a pale disposition, all hair and eyes.

The newcomer strode to the steps with assurance and touched Anne's fingers with his lips. "Still so cold, so far away? Still cherishing a frown for me?"

"I looked not to see you, Captain Jarrot."

"I am but just returned from London."

"On the Two Sisters?"

"Aye," he answered, with a slumbering flush on his face. "The moth returns to the lamp. A pretty conceit, is it not?"

She moved her shoulders with a gesture of impatience.

"Why am I doomed to be ever in your bad graces, Mistress Tiltoson? Oh, 'tis true. I would it were not!

Horrible Slaughter Of Innocent Babes

Philadelphia, March 20.—Sickening details of the wholesale slaughter of infants, who were thrown alive and crying into a seething furnace in a house located in the heart of Philadelphia, were brought out under oath at the inquest conducted by Coroner Dugan today.

The full story of the horrors of this crematory, where hundreds of babes are alleged to have been destroyed in fiendish torture, may never be told. The curtain which has shielded these terrible crimes has, however, been lifted, and as a result three accused persons were sent to prison today. The place where the murder of the babes is alleged to have been committed is the house of Mrs. Elizabeth Ashmead, 2008 South Twelfth street, and in these rooms Mrs. Ashmead is accused of being the principal.

This terrible charge was made by Dr. David Mosier from the witness stand in the Coroner's court during the investigation into the deaths of Sarah Hughes and Mary B. Sloan. Dr. Mosier swore he had seen Mrs. Ashmead throw living infants into a red-hot furnace in the cellar of her house. The spectators who crowded the Coroner's court were held spellbound during his recital of the blood-curdling story.

Dr. Mosier said he knew Mrs. Ashmead and had often been in her house. "Did you see live infants there?" asked the coroner.

"Yes, sir."
 "What was done with them?"
 "They were cremated."
 "Where?"
 "In the heater."
 "Did you witness these cremations?"
 "I saw them carried to the heater."
 "Who carried them?"
 "Mrs. Ashmead carried them in her apron."
 "Were they children alive and crying?"

"Some of them were crying. I do not know whether they were all alive." The accused woman, with eyes closed and trembling, succumbed completely under the frightful accusation, and fell back swooning into her daughter's arms. Following the rendering of the verdict Mrs. Ashmead, her son, Howland Ashmead, and Dr. Matthew M. Vickar, were committed to the county prison to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Both victims, according to the evidence, had been operated on at the South Twelfth-street house. The Hughes woman had died there, but Miss Sloan, while suffering from the effects of an operation, had been removed to the house of Mrs. Mary Walsh of 1825 North Nineteenth street, where her death occurred.

Mrs. Ashmead, in a subsequent interview, denied that she had ever burned a living child.

Will Provide Law To Continue Exclusion

Washington, April 9.—In the Cabinet meetings and in conferences directly between the executive heads of departments the whole subject of the status of the Chinese immigration question as it will be after the lapse of the existing treaty has been thoroughly digested, and it can be stated that the administration feels that it has ample warrant for continuing to enforce the rigid provisions of the treaty, and he will prepare and submit to the President an opinion on the subject, both the President and the Attorney General have discussed the matter with members of Congress. It is being considered, too, by members of both branches of Congress, and if it is deemed necessary some legislative action will be taken on it before adjournment. If it should be concluded that the denunciation of the treaty by China would render inoperative existing laws regarding Chinese exclusion, the probable course of action will be to attach to one of the pending appropriation bills an amendment enforcing the exclusion of Chinese.

Members of Congress generally agreed that no difficulty will be experienced in passing the legislation if it should be regarded as necessary.

DEMOCRATS SET DATE

CONVENTION WILL BE HELD IN HONOLULU

BASIS OF REPRESENTATION AND PRECINCT RULES FIXED. CONVENTION WILL BE ON JUNE 6.

The Democratic Central Committee has issued the following call for the Democratic Territorial Convention to select delegates to the Democratic National Convention at St. Louis:

A Democratic Convention for the Territory of Hawaii is hereby called to meet in the city of Honolulu on Monday, the 6th day of June, 1904, for the purpose of electing six delegates and six alternate delegates to the National Democratic Convention to be held in the city of St. Louis, in the State of Missouri, July 6, 1904.

The Convention hereby called shall consist of delegates elected at primaries to be held between the hours of 2 and 8 p. m., Saturday, May 28, 1904, in the several precincts of this Territory. Such primaries shall be conducted by the precinct clubs of the respective precincts, organized under the authority of the Democratic Territorial Central Committee. The Executive Committee of each precinct club shall provide and appoint a suitable place for holding its primary and appoint the necessary officers to conduct it.

At such primaries none but members of the precinct club shall be entitled to vote. Each precinct club shall be entitled to one delegate to the Territorial Convention, for each ten members, but each precinct in which there is a regularly organized precinct club, shall be entitled to at least one delegate.

The club membership hereby made the basis of representation in the Territorial Convention shall be the membership as it exists at the hour of opening the primary.

Democrats throughout the Territory are urged to organize. A provisional district committee has been appointed for each representative district to whom inquiries can be addressed.

At the meeting Friday night, the Committee on Rules, consisting of Col. C. J. McCarthy, Chas. L. Rhodes and Richard H. Trent, made a report which was adopted. The rules will be translated and distributed to the various precincts.

TO EDUCATE PUBLIC IN AGRICULTURE

To encourage diversified industries the Farmers' Institute of Hawaii plans an educational campaign. The Institute met Saturday afternoon at the Board of Agriculture headquarters on King street. A series of lectures was discussed. Local and visiting agriculturists are to talk for the public benefit.

President Jared Smith said there had been a marked change of sentiment in favor of diversification of interests. Many settlers are likely to come here. Most interesting papers were read at the meeting: "The Relation of the Chemist to the Farmer," by Dr. E. C. Shorey, and "The Work of the U. S. Bureau of Forestry," by Mr. Hosmer, who says the pressing need is to establish forest reserves on the mountains.

The following new by-laws were adopted: The name of this society shall be The Farmers' Institute of Hawaii. The object of this society shall be, the banding together of all persons interested in the agricultural development of Hawaii, to acquire and disseminate information on agricultural topics to the end that our latent resources may be fully developed, and to cooperate with other institute workers on the mainland.

All persons interested in the agricultural development of Hawaii shall be eligible to membership. The dues shall be one dollar per year. The officers shall consist of a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, and an executive committee of three members of which the president shall be ex-officio its chairman. Meetings shall be held quarterly at such time and place as shall be designated by the society or the executive committee.

Election of all officers shall be by ballot, at the annual meeting in January. In case of vacancies caused by death or removal from the Territory the executive committee shall choose officers to serve for the balance of the year. Five members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

These rules and regulations may be amended or changed by a majority of all members present and voting at any meeting.

HILO BASEBALL

Hilo, April 22.—The Hilo Board of Trade held a public meeting on Thursday evening of last week to consider the advisability of permitting the use of the proposed water front park for baseball. Application had been made by members of the baseball fraternity for the use of a portion of the park for baseball and other sports, which request aroused considerable opposition on the part of those who believed the playing of baseball on Sunday is a desecration of the Sabbath. The Executive Council unwilling to shoulder the responsibility of taking radical action, submitted the proposition to the whole organization. President Holmes called the Board together and stated the purpose of the meeting. E. E. Richards espoused the cause of the sportsmen and was followed in quick succession by L. A. Andrews, P. C. Eganer and Dr. Hayes, all of whom favored the scheme. It seemed that whatever opposition there may have been originally to the use of the park for this purpose, was dissipated by the arguments of the friends of baseball. Without further debate, the members of the Board of Trade voted to the baseball boys the coveted privilege and the nines will now "hipe up" for action.

ADMIRAL WINS POINT

A recent issue of the Army and Navy Journal says of the suit in the Court of Claims of Rear Admiral Silas Terry, the commandant of the local Naval Station: "The Court of Claims on Monday, March 25, announced a favorable decision on the claim of Rear Admiral Silas W. Terry, U. S. Navy. This decision affects all the rear admirals of the nine lower numbers of that grade. Admiral Terry was commandant of the Washington Navy Yard for about two years while among the nine lower numbers of the grade of rear admiral. He received the Army pay of a brigadier general, $5,500 less 15 per cent for shore duty, amounting to $4,675. He claimed that the correct amount of his pay while on shore duty was $5000, as provided by the old Navy pay table contained in Section 1556 of the Revised Statutes, for a rear admiral on shore duty."

Long Voyage of Bark Nuuanu Ends

The American bark Nuuanu arrived off port from New York early this morning. At about 10:30 a. m. she was docked at the Pacific Mail wharf, where she will discharge her cargo. The Nuuanu took 156 days to make the voyage. This is an unusually long trip especially for a vessel like the Nuuanu, which is a smart sailer. The length of the passage was principally due to the terrific weather which the vessel encountered off the Horn. Heavy gales, fearful rain showers and a very stormy sea were met but luckily no damage was done. It took the Nuuanu 49 days to round the Horn.

May Go To Court On Their Warrants

John Wise and the seven others who have bills against the Government for services rendered during the legislative session of 1903 and whose claims were supposed to have been provided for by House Resolution No. 3, whose warrants Treasurer Campbell refuses to cash as not being provided for by any appropriation, are seeking the opinion of the Governor in the matter. There is some talk of their taking the matter to the Supreme Court although it is considered more likely that the claims will rest until the next regular session of the Legislature.

BANGALORE'S HARD TIME.

The American ship Bangalore, which left this port two weeks ago today for Kahului, is evidently having a hard time. The steamer Claudine, which arrived from Kahului yesterday, reports that when she left that port last Saturday the Bangalore had still not arrived. The Claudine saw no sign of the vessel on her voyage. It is evident that the prevailing strong winds have driven the Bangalore far out of her course and that she is having a hard time getting back.

WOODWARD COMMITTED.

Joseph Woodward, the former employe of the tax office who is charged with embezzling Government money, appeared before Judge Lindsay this morning. Woodward waived examination and was committed to the Circuit Court for trial.
