THE PLOW OF THE AGE.

We never handle goods until their merit and superiority have been proved. When the New John Deere Secretary Disc Plow was offered to us we had it tested before practical men, men who only spend money to earn money. As they approved of it we have taken it in hand. It does its work perfectly on Hawaiian soil of all descriptions. Practical men should consult us if they want the perfection of a Plow.

Y. M. C. A. CLASSES.

Meeting of the Educational Committee for Mapping Out Work.

The preliminary meeting of the Educational Committee of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the association hall last night with nearly all the members present.

It was proposed that the classes begin in September, running to December 18th for the first term, and that the second term start January 11th and end April 30th; also that they be made up of the following:

1. Elementary (reading, writing, orthography, arithmetic and grammar).
2. Book-keeping.
3. Shorthand (elementary and advanced).
4. Type-writing.
5. Mechanical drawing.
6. Music.
7. Orchestra.
8. Class in Hawaiian.

This last is a new feature and the Y. M. C. A. will make every effort toward the success of the venture.

It was suggested and favorably commented upon that a course of lectures be one of the features of the coming season, and that these lectures deal with such subjects as history, physiology and hygiene.

The Y. M. C. A. has determined to make the classes of this year the most successful that has ever been started in the association.—Com.

Newspapers in Paris.

There are about 2,500 newspapers and periodicals printed in Paris every week, more than appear in all the rest of France. Of these 107 are political, 109 illustrated, 108 devoted to fashions, 190 to medicine, over 200 to finance, and 60 to sport. The oldest of the political journals is the Gazette de France, founded under Louis XIII., and now in its 267th year; but the purely advertising print, the Petites Affiches, is 284 years old. The Moniteur Universel comes next in point of age, its first copy having appeared in 1779. The Journal des Debats is but a few months younger. Two other papers have lived over 75 years, one over 55, and several close to half a century. The Figaro is 42 years old, and the Petit Journal, which claims the largest circulation in the world, is 33. There are three of the established and well-known papers that have not been in existence from 10 to 30 years. The Journal and the Libre Parole, however, were founded but four years ago.

History of Ascot Races.

The Ascot races were established by the Duke of Cumberland, uncle of George III. This duke was also the breeder of the famous racer, Eclipse. The meeting first received royal recognition in 1785, when a King's Plate was allotted to it. George IV. and William IV. both attended the races in state. In 1833 it was declared to be second only to Newmarket. The Queen and Prince Albert both attended it in great state for many years. The Queen has given a gold vase since 1843. The Czar of Russia presented a gold cup in 1845. After the death of Prince Albert royalty ceased to patronize Ascot for some time, and it became more democratic. The grand stand was built by subscription, and it is connected with the enclosure by a tunnel.

In the past quarter of a century the laity of the Church of England have contributed the following sums to agencies associated more or less directly with the church: Theological schools, £528,653; church building and restoration, £35,175,000; home missions, £7,426,478; foreign missions, £10,100,000; elementary education, £21,362,041; charitable institutions, £3,818,200; charities for poor clergy, £2,102,364;

GO SLOW.

THE INDEPENDENT is not a military organ. It leaves the defense of the Government paid forces to the Star. It has received information, perhaps unreliable, that the Star this evening will place itself on record as opposing the acting commandant of the Hawaiian forces and be slightly revolutionary in its expressions. THE INDEPENDENT suggests that while the temperature is unpleasantly warm and people are somewhat annoyed by the thought of varioloid and of their children dying through impure water, military politics should be suppressed. There are enough disagreements existing between the people and the Government without the thought of a possible revolution to be initiated by our paid armed forces. Let the military keep cool and quiet or they will find that the citizens represented by the organizations we have had cause to praise and condemn alike will be ready for them. Until certain matters have been settled Hawaii wants no more semi-official revolutions. The Hawaiians and the Opposition will not participate in disturbances but will use their influence to control politically dishonest men who desire to serve their own interests rather than to benefit the country of their adoption.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

We do not understand our morning contemporary in its attack on speculators in real estate. A sale of the Puunui lots is advertised in the same issue and it seems to be against that sale that the Advertiser is haranguing. It is perfectly legitimate for anyone to buy a piece of real estate on speculation and hold it until it can be sold with profit. If a raise in the value of the land does not take place the speculator will pocket his loss, but that is his business. Coming from the organ of the family compact the proposition to refrain from dealing in real estate is amusing. The only explanation is that the compact wants to make "a deal" for themselves and keep the "other" fellow out.

It is understood that the final arrangements for the settlement of the "claims" have been made. The tax-payers will now see who it is, who will "get it where the chicken got the axe."

Business men are now complaining over the premium demanded on gold. What will it be when the free silver party in the United States gets into power? By the way, what right has the independent Government of Hawaii to demand U. S. gold coin in payment of internal taxes, duties, etc? It is asking for something not belonging to it.

A new trial has been granted in the case of Edna G. Trousseau vs. the executors of the will of the late Dr. George Trousseau. This fact, however, scarcely justifies our morning contemporary in terming it, "one of the Trouser's cases ordered to be re-tried." Such an intimate knowledge of a lady's wardrobe is, to say the least, peculiarly suggestive in a missionary organ.

Our draught beer famine will be over as soon as the Australia and Miowera discharge their barrels and kegs of the luscious fluid, and now we notice that Superintendent Andrew Brown is preparing to prevent a water famine by curtailing the hours of irrigating. In the days when Captain Crane and "Grandpa" Magoon looked after this special branch the law was enforced as thoroughly as circumstances permitted. We hope it will be equally enforced this summer. Our water system is far from perfect, but perhaps when the sacks of coin roll in we may have plenty and purity. In the meantime let us economise on the supply, bad as it is, that we have.

The "swift" justice administered by some of our district judges who are under the thumbs of the local sugar barons was again illustrated this week at Ewa. An ignorant Portuguese laborer displeased a luna and a small row followed. The laborer, who was under contract, was arrested for refusing duty and brought before the magistrate. He asked for time to see an attorney but was refused and fined. He then came to town and saw his attorney who noted an appeal. The man was again arrested for desertion and it was necessary for the Portuguese Charge d'Affaires to interfere and secure the man's release. Guilty or not guilty every man should be entitled to a just treatment by our authorities. The men in office should remember that the ignorant classes do not understand our laws and that due allowance should be made for their ignorance. It is very nice for judges and sheriffs to be on good terms with the sugar barons—a bag of sugar once a while is not to be sneezed at; the poor laborer, however, must and will be treated with the same consideration and justice as his wealthy employer exacts for himself.

The idea of having inspectors of food and liquids is not new. In all civilized countries such inspectors are appointed and all goods offered for the consumption of people is liable to examination. We understand that a certain drug house in this town, which does considerable business in ice-cream drinks a while ago used the lactometer and examined the milk furnished by the different dairies here. The result, we are told, was that two of the dairies furnished the purest milk and that the rest were about 30 percent lower. If this is a fact it shows that adulterated milk is offered in the market. No wonder that the mortality among children in this town is ever increasing. Where is the Board of Health?

It is certainly wise to restrict the hours of irrigation. The great part of the community is simply reckless in the use of water. We noticed the other day a prominent gentleman in Nuuanu valley watering his garden while protecting himself with an umbrella against the rain which was pouring down, and we are sure many similar instances could be quoted. A water famine, if it ever should happen, would simply add to the completion of the blessings of this Paradise of the Pacific.

A Military Court of Inquiry was appointed to make certain investigations in regard to the Good matter. The proceedings of the Court were naturally secret and certainly not intended for publication before a report had been made to the Minister of Foreign Affairs. The Star nevertheless published the doings of the Court of Inquiry in its last issue and it did it in a very prejudiced manner as far as Good is concerned. We do not blame the Star for using the news it obtains, but we do blame the member of the Court of Inquiry who gave away the information which until the report was written, was the property solely of the Court.

According to our morning friend the curfew children dodge the police, according to our experience the children defy them and intentionally make themselves nuisances at band concerts, and elsewhere. More liberty and less license might be beneficial. Liberty suggests confidence in the people and their children, and repression is strongly suggestive of a revolt against repressive laws which leads to indecent license in a spirit of revenge. THE INDEPENDENT opposed the law, but as it is the law of the land, let it be either dropped or enforced with the other missionary laws which has proved to be dead letters since they were passed a few short weeks ago.

The resolution passed by the Board of Health at its last meeting, relating to a sanitary inspection of teachers and pupils in public and private schools is simply outrageous, and we do not believe that a single teacher will submit to this indecent, insolent and intolerable dictum proposed by Dr. Emerson, and seconded by the wise men who with him constitute the Board of Health. Are our teachers to be classed with the unfortunates who come under the Act to mitigate, etc. Are we to allow our daughters, sisters and wives to be examined for "infectious" diseases? The Board of Health has up to date shown itself as the most idiotic, incompetent and imbecile branch of an imbecile government, but the last "order" from that autocratic body is more than the community can stand. Let teachers and pupils en masse decline to submit to the new rule, and the Board of Health will find itself in the same position as the Legislature which lately passed and repealed the Registration Act and be like a dog which eats its own vomit. We are not yet in Russia, Mr. "Dr." Emerson.

It is no use making light of the small-pox at the Quarantine Station, even if the epidemic so far only has appeared in light form. A number of passengers from the same vessel were let loose in the town and not until the 27th or 29th inst. can we be sure that they are free from the disease. A cursory glance at the passengers on a vessel is not sufficient for any doctor to diagnose small-pox. Dr. Trousseau used to examine people at the Quarantine Station every day, not looking for the final symptoms of small-pox, but for fever and other signs which might indicate the beginning of the disease. Any person having fever was isolated although not with the men suffering from small-pox. If the fever was simply due to other causes, the man was let out as soon as he was well; but the officers of the Board of Health took no chances. That of course was in the days when "physicians" were members of the Board of Health.

Timely Topics.

Honolulu, July 9, 1896.

To-day we have something to say in regard to the De Laval Cream Separators and Barber's refrigerating machine.

As you all know, the purpose of the Cream Separator is the expeditious and complete separation of cream from milk in the most practical manner possible. The De Laval Separator is the invention of Dr. Gustaf De Laval of Sweden, one of the most practical scientists and useful inventors of any time, and distinguished generally as the Edison of Dairying."

Since its introduction in 1879 the De Laval Separator has wholly revolutionized dairying methods, and won the fight on behalf of centrifugal separation. It has alone brought about the broad development and universally demonstrated superiority of the new system to all other methods.

There are two general elements in the construction, purchase and use of the De Laval Cream Separators; complete separation, which is naturally the primary purpose of the machine, and the equally important one of accomplishing that separation in the most practical and economical manner.

The "De Laval" Power or Creamery and Factory sizes of Cream Separators are made in eight styles, in addition to the six sizes of the smaller "Baby" or Dairy De Laval machines for house dairying and cream gathering factory use. They range in capacity from 1100 lbs. to 4000 lbs. per hour, while the smaller ones run from 150 to 700 lbs.

For household and small dairy use the "Baby" or the Alpha "Humming Bird" which can be used by hand are recommended. You will save at least $10 a year each cow by their use, save time and trouble and obtain the most perfect cream. Barber's refrigerating machine is another one of those marvels of the inventive genius of the age and has been especially designed for small plants such as creameries, butter, cheese and egg storage houses.

We shall be pleased to furnish fuller information to all applying for it.

Two Kinds of People.

There are two kinds of people on earth to-day, Just two kinds of people, no more, I say.

Not the sinner and saint, for 'tis well understood The good are half bad, and the bad are half good.

Not the rich and the poor, for to count a man's wealth You must first know the state of his conscience and health.

Not the humble and proud, for in life's little spa Who puts on airs is not counted a man.

Not the happy and sad, for the swift-flying years Bring each man his laughter, and each man his tears.

No; the two kinds of people on earth I mean Are the people who lift and the people who lean.

Wherever you go you will find the world's masses Are always divided in just these two classes.

And oddly enough, you will find, too, I ween, There is only one lifter to twenty who lean.

In which class are you? Are you easing the load Of overtaxed lifters who toil down the road?

Or are you a leaner who lets others bear Your portion of labor and worry and care?

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Pantheon and Enterprise.

Enterprise Beer is again in the market. The cause of the recent famine in this beer is its popularity. Enterprise Beer at the Pantheon does not require a doctors certificate or a chemical analysis before you safely introduce it to your wife or your friends. The increase in the consumption of this beer is the best guarantee of its superiority over all other beer in this market. Look for yourself at the Australia's manifest each trip and be convinced that the quantity of this beer imported is treble that of any other. We have always fresh beer to set before you on the day the Australia arrives for our beer at the Pantheon is so popular that none is left over.

The Healan Club.

The Healan Yacht and Boat Club have elected F. W. McChesney and W. E. Wall to the directorate. Geo. Carter has been invited to accept the important position of captain of the Club. Mr. A. V. Gear made a proposition to admit the Lellani boys to membership but the suggestion was thought to be a little premature and was quietly dropped.

One of the effects of the Moscow disaster has been to suspend the publication of several papers, owing to many of the compositors being among the dead.

WATERFRONT WHISPERINGS.

The nimble liner City of Pekin should put in an appearance on the 18th. She is from the Coast.

The bark Mohican arrived this morning 15 days from San Francisco with a fair freight, and will commence to unload to-morrow.

How do you like the prevailing weather, with the London emphases? Warm, indeed, my dear boy; but in August next expect something much warmer.

The boat business among the boat boys is as dead as Julius Caesar. The Nats pass their idle hours in punching ball. The sight at the boat landing is certainly interesting and amusing.

The fish this morning in the vicinity of the old Kaimiloa, were performing aerial acrobatics feats. Presumably aware that the aged warship was receiving an overhauling—perhaps with the idea of going into active service.

The Starbuck's hands, Messrs. Mike and Paddy second mate—(name unknown) and a colored cook called "Bible," took French leave on Wednesday last. Patrolman Borfeld captured the two first named gentlemen on their way to the Chinese graveyard at Heeia. The story of Mik and Pad that of being long residents of the country was not believed by the Police authorities. Chief officer Nicholson of the Tillie E. Starbuck was summoned at 2 o'clock in the morning (when one's interest in runaways is normal) and identified the Dublin gents as the men wanted. The second officer and the cook are still at large.

W. W. DIMOND'S

Put a ring around the word—opportunity—the occasion makes it. Never in the history of mercantile transactions in Honolulu have the people had such a golden opportunity to select a lamp as to-day. A manufacturer who had more than he knew what to do with, more than he had space to put them, wrote us of his troubles. We had none of our own so we listened to him. Our stock of lamps is the result of his tale of woe and you get the benefit.

A black lamp that will give a bright light is not a fad, but a style that will remain until "New Hawaii" shall become old. Being sombre in color they furnish with any decorations you may have in your room and any color shade that suits your fancy will look well on the lamp.

For a dinner table nothing furnishes better than black banquet lamps. We have them, not cumbersome, but of a height that will beautify rather than detract from the other features. We have piano lamps, hall lamps, boudoir lamps and every other character of lamp that ever was made. The prices are so low that it would injure our business to put them in this column.

Lamps Are Very Ancient.

To the Egyptians has been given the honor of inventing the first lamp, but it seems more than probable that they received it from the older civilization of India. The lamps originally used by the Hebrews, the Egyptians and Greeks were simple flat vessels with a small handle at one end, and at the side a little projection with a hole, forming a nozzle. In the back was a larger opening, into which the oil was poured. The oil used was generally vegetable, but according to Pliny it was sometimes of liquid bitumen.

The lamp commonly used in Egypt at the present time is a small glass vessel, with a tube in the bottom, in which is placed a wick of cotton twisted around a straw. The ordinary traveler's torch, or lamp, in India is a bundle of strips of rag on the end of a stick, with oil poured over it. In "oiled lads" the lamp commonly used is a small earthen plate, with the edge turned up to make it hold a small quantity of oil.

Among the most beautiful ruins of antiquity that have been preserved are a great number of Egyptian, Greek and Roman lamps, formed of clay, metal, terra cotta and bronze. The museum at Naples contains the finest variety of specimens to be found anywhere. These were recovered from the ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum. Some lamps were hung with chains to bronze canelabras; some were supported by beautiful brackets.

In 1781 Ami Argand, a Swiss residing in London, made an entire revolution in artificial light by inventing a burner with a circular wick, the flame being thus supplied with an inner and an outer current of air. To Argand we also owe the invention of the common glass lamp chimney. He was very desirous of increasing the light given out by the lamp that he had invented, and to that end had made many experiments, but all to no purpose.

One night as he sat at his work table thinking, he noticed an oil flask lying near off which the bottom had been broken, leaving a long-necked, funnel-shaped tube. He thought it out, placed it over the flame of his lamp. The result astonished and delighted him, for the flame became a brilliant white light. Argand made practical use of the hint thus given him by devising the lamp chimney.

Prayer and Poker.

Nor do I present the following anecdote as an encouragement for a fellow to try his luck at a gamble when his fortunes are desperate. It is one of Florence's stories, and I heard him vouch for its accuracy. Gen. Forrest was a noted Southern officer in the American War. All being over, he returned with his wife to Memphis. She was a lady of amiable and Christian virtues, the only person in the world who could control the fiery temper of the famous soldier. Sitting at home on a Sunday night he said, "Mary I know you are a strict churchwoman, and always dead against cards; but a 10 dollar bill is all that stands between us and the poorhouse. Now, won't you consent to my going out to night and hunting up a game of draw-pok? And above all, won't you pray that I may win?" In vain the good woman protested and dwelt upon the sin of it, and on a Sunday night of all nights in the week! The general kissed her tenderly, and bade her good-night. He returned at 2 o'clock in the morning. He took off his hat where he had packed his winnings, and emptied the notes and gold into her lap. "Count it, Mary," he said. She did so; it amounted to 1500 dollars. "And I really believe," said the general, when he told the story, "that Mary, in spite of all she said, did offer up a little prayer for me while I was gone. Anyhow, I know that in many a tight place during the war her prayers must have been heard; and so all's well that ends well—no poor devil, I think, ever wanted 1500 dollars so badly as I did that Sunday night!"

JOSEPH HATTON.

His Only Brief.

Q. C. M. P., tells a true story infinitely full of pathos. A fortnight ago a letter reached him in the handwriting of an old college friend telling a pitiful story of a stranded life. The writer had been called to the Bar, hoping some day to land on the judicial bench, even if he did not reach the Woolstack. He had no influence, and very little money. No business came his way. But he held on through long years, patiently hoping that some day his chance would come. Now he was sick, probably unto death, and had no money to buy food or medicine. His old friend promptly sent a remittance, which was gratefully acknowledged.

A SAD DISCOVERY.

At the end of a fortnight it occurred to him that he would call on the sick man and see what more he might do to help him. Arrived at the address, the door opened by a lady like woman, still young, pretty in spite of the pinching of poverty. He gave his name and announced his errand. Whereat the lady, bursting into a passion of tears, told him he was too late. Her husband had died that morning. "Would you like to see him?" she asked wistfully. The two walked upstairs to a small front room. On the bed lay the body of a man about 40, fully dressed in the wig and gown of a barrister. In his right hand he held a bundle of foolscap. "What is that?" the old friend whispered. "That," said the widow, "is the only brief he received in the course of 19 years' waiting. He asked me to dress him thus, and put it in his hand when he was dead."

Diamonds by the Pounds.

The finest collection of jewels in the world is that which the late Shah of Persia possessed. Ordinary people estimate their wealth in diamonds in carats, but this Oriental ruler might have reckoned his by the pound. It is almost impossible to put a value upon them, but the lowest estimates appraise them at between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. They will now become the property of the Shah's successor. There is the Kaiaian crown, shaped like a flower pot, with the small end open and the other closed. At the top is set what is perhaps the greatest ruby in the world, an uncut, absolutely flawless gem as large as a hen's egg. Of gaudlets and belts the Shah's store was vast, and everyone was adorned and covered with diamonds and

PEARLS OF SURPASSING VALUE.

The Kaiaian belt is the handsomest of these girdles, and is about a foot in width. The dazzling mass of diamonds, pearls, and emeralds which encrust it weighs nearly 18 lb. There are drinking bowls galore, each thickly studded with gems; swords, 1 or 2 of which have jeweled hilts. There are garments and robes, too, so thickly crusted with jewels as to hide the fabric beneath, and in the ruler of Persia's coffers lie tray after tray of pearl, ruby and emerald necklaces, and diamond, ruby, and turquoise rings by the hundred. By the gem of this collection of gems is the famous Darya-i-Nur, or Sea of Light, the sister diamond to the famous Koh-i-Noor, and weighs 80 carats more than that gem. The inscription of the Shah's name on one side, however, reduces the value of the stone incalculably.

The Fatal Mug

It will, perhaps, surprise English readers to learn that the 600,000 mugs distributed by the Russian Emperor and Empress in Moscow as souvenirs of their coronation were manufactured in England. It was during the distribution of these that the terrible crush ensued in which so many lives were lost. Messrs. Robinson, of Wolverhampton, had the distinction of receiving the order. The mug, which holds nearly a pint, is made of the best English steel plates, and is beautifully enamelled and decorated in blue and red upon a creamy background, with gold bands at the top and bottom, the main ornaments being "N. and A." in Russia, the Imperial coat-of-arms, and the figures 1896.
