WAIKAKEAUA NOTICE. ALL PARTIES DESIRING TO GO TO WAIKAKEAUA FALL IN MAUNA KAI

WON IN A CARD GAME

Pembina, a Dakota Town, the Stake A Site which is Now Worth Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars

This is a true story of how the site of the town of Pembina, N. D., was won in a game of poker by a man who held two deuces

Back in the fifties, says the New York World, when the northern portion of the Territory of Dakota was hardly more than a bleak waste of uncultivated ground

He numbered among his close friends a pioneer named Judd La Moore, who owned a line of car coaches running between Grand Forks and Pembina

During its progress the people of the town assembled in the hotel and watched the two men as they fought like bulldogs over the pile of red, white and blue checks

Slowly but surely Stutsman's chips went over to La Moore's side of the table, and work what trick or artifice he would he could not turn them back

"Judd, I tell you what I'll do. You've won $3800 of my money. If you'll put $3800 with it I'll stake the town site of Pembina against you, and will play for it in a lump to win or lose at one deal"

The men shook hands. According to agreement the hand was to be dealt by E. A. Williams of Bismarck, the speaker of the House of Representatives, the cards to be thrown on the table face up

Stutsman's friends tried to prevail on him to draw four cards to the ace, but he wouldn't listen to them, and, discarding the heart, he drew one card, hoping to fill the flush

The outlookers were wild when Williams threw three cards to Judd. They fell face up—the queen of clubs, jack of diamonds and ten spot of clubs

Honolulu is to have ten calls each way of the two great lines between San Francisco and China in the next twelve months.

Saturday's issue of the Advertiser contained a partly historical description of the Honolulu Library and Reading Room, with a picture of the building and an editorial commending the institution.

In Friday's issue there was an item stating that Mullen, a blue-jacket from the Adams, was arrested at Moanalua on the complaint of people living there that he was firing a pistol recklessly.

WATER AND POWER.

Mr. Wilson's letter on the improvement of the water supply should be carefully considered by the Government. There is danger of making expensive blunders similar to previous ones mentioned by him.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

While purporting to endorse a retort against the Bulletin from an anonymous correspondent, the Advertiser only adds to the charges brought by this paper against the Portuguese colony.

"colony" at this juncture. On the other hand, it is true, what we said before, that the planters do not want Portuguese labor at a price that will attract that labor or hold it.

Nothing in the personal discussion of the labor question has been more frequently heard than the assertion that white labor cannot stand plantation work in this climate.

It is with the latter view that I have written. It has hitherto been a cause of great expense to the public and consequent loss that every change of administration and every of changes has caused the overthrow of the old plans and the casting away of the experience so dearly bought.

From all the foregoing considerations, two things are clear, viz: 1. It would be the height of absurdity to bring in more Portuguese for plantation labor while those now here hold out against taking employment on the plantations at the best terms thus far offered them.

It seems to me still that the same argument (however) (the ability to supply power as well as water storage) makes the extension of the reservoir system preferable to the extension of the pumping system if money is available for either purpose.

At the ANNUAL MEETING OF THE INTER-ISLAND STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY, held this day, at the offices of Messrs. H. Davies & Co., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

question that the writers do not know what they are talking about—is played out. Some of the most prominent of themselves, and who were among the loudest in sneering at suggestions from the outside, besides clamoring for the cheapest contract labor as an absolute necessity for the selection of the sugar industry, have lately given themselves a completely away on the public platform by declaring their readiness to take their chances with free labor and annexation to the United States.

Water Works Extension.

The Hawaiian Star in its issue of Friday the 9th inst. contains an article headed "A New Pumping Plant" (Plan of Superintendent of Water Works Brown, etc., etc.) The following extract will show the tenor of the article: "Andrew Brown, Superintendent of Water Works, is devising a plan to insure a supply from the main during the prospective or other seasons of drought.

employing but few people as against hundreds by the other method. Again I may ask why get another pumping plant when the country has already been put to the expense of getting one at Makiki where there is more water than the present pump apparently can take away.
