WORLD'S FAIR FUNDS.
PARIS, July 1.—The successful financing of the Paris Exhibition of 1900 is assured, and in a manner typically Parisian. Bonds of 20 francs each, amounting to 65,000,000 francs will be issued next week and the applications in the past three or four days make it clear that these will be fully subscribed. These bonds, bearing interest and principal will never be paid unless the holder is lucky enough to draw a prize in one of the twenty-nine lottery drawings to which they entitle him. Nominally, the holder will get his money back in the shape of twenty admission tickets to the exhibition.

PORTLAND, Or., July 1.—Clarence F. Jewett, secretary of the Pacific Investment Company and a man for several years occupying a high business and social standing in this community, is wanted here to account for financial shortages amounting, it is said, to as much as $20,000.

He is now in Germany and will shortly leave there for England and France.

DISTURBED CHINA.
ST. PETERSBURG, July 1.—Advises received here from Shanghai show that disorders are rampant in different parts of China. The Mussulmans rebellion in the northwestern district of Kamsu has reached the greatest proportions. Famine and plague are also reported to be raging in the southern province of China. The secret societies in the country are again exciting the natives against the Europeans.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW.
NEW YORK, July 1.—Chauncey M. Depew sailed today on the St. Paul for Europe. He will be gone nine weeks. During his stay in Europe Mr. Depew will make a study of the bimetallic question from a transatlantic point of view.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Grand Master Sovereign of the Knights of Labor was mingling with the Democratic politicians at the Palmer House today. He is opposed to the gold standard, and says if the Democrats nominate a man acceptable to the financial question he will have his support. He considers Teller the most available and acceptable candidate.

CRETE AND AMERICA.
NEW YORK, July 1.—The Herald's Washington special says: The appeal made by the Greek Deputy, Souloni, to the United States to send a ship to the aid of the starving fugitives was the subject of discussion at the State Department today and among the few administration officials who are in Washington. It is expected that when Secretary Olney goes to Gray Gables he will discuss the matter with the President.

WELCOMING HIM HOME.
DENVER, July 1.—Senator Henry M. Teller returned to Colorado today, and on arriving in Denver this evening from Cheyenne was met by a great outpouring of the people from all parts of the State. The demonstration was participated in by all classes and by persons of all political beliefs, and it is doubtful if the scenes of enthusiasm enacted on the streets of the Colorado capital tonight have been paralleled in Western history.

DUTCH WIN.
THE HAGUE, July 1.—Official dispatches from the Dutch East Indies say there is renewed serious fighting between the Dutch and Achinese at the fortress at Anangkalo. The Achinese lost 112 killed; the Dutch nine killed and twenty-nine wounded. The Dutch captured Sibreh fortress, meeting slight resistance.

YALE CREW.
LONDON, July 1.—Yale men are more buoyant tonight. Their poor showing yesterday in the first time trial over the full course sent them to Marsh Mills House with a deal to think about. A council of war was held, and the effect was apparent this morning, when the men got more drive to the boat and really made it go fast.

NOVEL DIVORCE CAUSE.

Senator Hull has arranged for the anti-suffragists to have a hearing.

TO EXCLUDE CHINESE.
VANCOUVER, B. C., July 1.—Through agitation in British Columbia it is probable that Mongolians may be excluded from Canada altogether in the near future by some such act as the Geary law of the United States. A monster petition, signed by British Columbians, will be sent to the Federal Government praying that the tax per head be increased from $50 to $500 for every Chinese entering Canada. All the British Columbia Government members are pledged to fight for it.

STRIKERS AND POLICE.
CLEVELAND, O., July 1.—One hundred and twenty-five workmen left the Brown Hoisting Company's works this evening at 5 o'clock under an escort of 175 policemen. Strikers and on-lookers to the number of 6,000 hooted and jeered them. Squads of strikers went in both directions on St. Clair street and took possession of every car that came along, filling them so full that the workmen could not get on. By force the police succeeded in getting a number of the workmen on the cars and sent them home under guard. The rest were marched to the Central Police Station.

The total claims of missionaries from the United States amounted to about $150,000. Those of the French and British governments were much larger, citizens of those countries being personally injured.

THUNDERER SPEAKS.
LONDON, June 29.—The Times says editorially this morning, speaking of American politics and the outlook in the United States on the currency question: We are not sure that party platforms are so important, because when the President is elected he becomes a free agent in the safer and stronger possession of power than an English Premier. Therefore it is not certain that McKinley will oppose the popular will of Congress should it send him a bill for free silver. We trust therefore, for the credit of the United States, either that Mr. Whitney's gold campaign will succeed, or that the triumph of the silverites at Chicago will be followed by a triumph at the polls.

SPEAKER REED.
MELROSE, Mass., June 29.—Amos Allen of Alfred, Me., private secretary of Speaker Reed, this afternoon said, among other things: "If Reed again enters politics it will be to run for Congress from his old district. If nominated Reed would stump his own district and then his State. If he had any time available his services would be at the disposal of the National Committee."

CAMPAIGN PLANS OF THE A. P. A.
WASHINGTON, June 28.—Supreme President Echols of the American Protective Association in an interview yesterday said he did not believe the order would endorse the Presidential candidate of any party and that it would confine its political work in the coming campaign to Congressional districts and State Legislatures.

FRANCE ON WHEELS.
LONDON, June 28.—Recent facts and figures from all parts of Europe prove that the bicycle craze has now become universal. The increase in France, where exact returns are collected, is typical. Three years ago, when the tax on bicycles was first levied, the number in the country was 120,000. Last year the total was exactly double.

CHINA AND RUSSIA.
LONDON, June 27.—In diplomatic circles it is no longer doubted that Li Hung Chang, during his visit to Moscow, arranged a close military alliance between China and Russia, including the construction of a railway to connect the existing Russian-Siberian Railway with Port Arthur.

TO DESTROY HAVANA.
NEW YORK, June 28.—The Journal's Havana correspondent sends the following: The revolutionists have formally served notice on the people of Havana that plans have been completed and will be carried into execution this summer to wipe out every vestige of the city by means of dynamite, if it be necessary to go to that extreme, to drive Spain off the island. Copies of a circular conveying this announcement have been left at the houses of well-to-do people of the city. It is entitled, "Dynamite Circular to Cuban Families."

ONE HUNDRED PERISH.
WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 28.—While about 100 miners were at work in the Red Ash vein of the Twin shaft at Pittston about 3 o'clock this morning the roof caved in and it is believed that all of the men perished.

GIRLS COMPARED.
NEW YORK.—Commissioner Eva Booth of the Salvation Army, before going aboard the Umbria today to sail for England, had a few things to say about American girls.

"I think they carry themselves much more gracefully than my country women," she said. "This is due, perhaps, to the fact that American girls are more carefully educated on scientific lines and go in more for hygienic dressing. I think English women dress more quietly and comfortably. They do not certainly wear silks, satins and diamonds on the street, at church or while shopping, and they are shod in broad-soled shoes. English girls are rarely permitted to walk abroad without an escort, be it mother, sister, brother, father, nurse, governess or companion. I observe much greater freedom among the American girls, but I have no means of knowing whether it is conducive to their greater happiness and well being."

"What struck me more forcibly than anything else was the difference in voices. Oh, what a difference there is," said Miss Booth with an expressive gesture. "The English voice is well modulated and soft but strong, while the American voice is loud and shrill."

"American women are better read, have more information on general subjects and read the newspapers more, but what greatly impressed me was the fact that they are more on equality with the men."

CORNER STONE IS LAID

EXERCISE AT THE PORTUGUESE PROTESTANT MISSION.

Prayers and Singing—Addresses by the Chief Justice and Various Promoters of the Work.

About 200 people gathered at the corner of Punchbowl and Miller street at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon to witness the laying of the corner stone of the Mission church at that place. The audience was for the most part Portuguese, for whom the church is being built.

Exercises took place within the frame work of the building, which has already been put up. The corner stone was laid beneath the Miller street entrance. It bears simply the figures "1896." On the platform during the exercises were Rev. A. V. Soares, the pastor, Rev. D. P. Birnie of Central Union Church, Rev. O. H. Gulick, Rev. H. Bingham, W. A. Bowen, Frank Cooke and others.

Mr. W. A. Bowen opened the meeting with a ten minutes talk on the history of the Mission. Beginning with Mr. Dillingham's little night school in 1887, he traced the growth of the church up to its present proportions, with organization, with a pastor and soon to have a commodious house of worship.

Chief Justice Judd closed the ceremonies with the address of the day, eulogizing the struggles of the church and the objects of the new building. This was followed by a hymn, whereupon Rev. H. Bingham pronounced the benediction.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.
At the American League meeting Thursday evening it was decided to elect new officers next Tuesday evening. A meeting for that purpose will be called later. The balance of the debt on the big flag was assumed by a member, which lifts quite a burden from the finances of the body. Considerable enthusiasm prevailed in the meeting. It was decided to "whoop her up" again and to hold meetings regularly every week.

FINE CONCERT.
The complimentary concert at the Hawaiian Hotel Thursday evening was well patronized. It was given in honor of the three war ships in port, and their officers were present on the verandas of the Hotel. At the close of the concert the American, Mexican and Austrian national anthems were played.

THE BALL TEAMS.
The Honolulu and Stars will play practically their regular teams tomorrow afternoon. Percy Lishman will take the place of Oliver Carter in the latter club. Low will play short stop for the Honolulu and Cupid goes to center field. The batteries will be the same as before.

A PIONEER'S RECOMMENDATION.
Mr. J. W. Venable, of Downey, a pioneer of Los Angeles County, Cal., says: "Whenever I am troubled with a pain in the stomach or with diarrhoea I use Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I have used it for years, know it to be a reliable remedy, and recommend it to every one." For sale by all druggists and dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., agents for H. I.

TO HAVE THE BEST BARN

NEW STABLE FOR A PROMINENT BEACH HOMESTEAD.

Ripley & Dickey Prepare the Plans for Mr. Wm. G. Irwin—A Detailed Description of the Fine Structure.

W. G. Irwin will build at his Waikiki premises a barn and stable that for size and elegance will excel anything owned by a private individual in this country. Plans have been prepared by Messrs. Ripley & Dickey, and have met with the approval of Mr. Irwin.

The building will be, over all, 50 by 127 feet. Wood covered with stucco will be the material of its construction. It will be two stories in height and will front toward the Waikiki road. Its appearance from the approach will be splendid indeed.

At the corner will be a large front entrance and driveway with spring gates. Over this will appear an arch flanked by two semi-circular bays, terminating in round towers. Immediately above the front will be a small loggia. The design of the building will be Moorish, and the decorated finishings of Spanish tile.

On the first floor the plans call for a large carriage room, 31½ by 55½ feet. Adjoining this are harness and storage rooms, and also a large grating porch for washing carriages. In the other end of the building are five box and five open stalls, and also a grooming porch. The foundation of the stalls will be concrete and the floor of movable slats. Stall fixtures will be of the most approved modern patterns.

Up stairs will be a hay and grain loft, and also a second large carriage room. An elevator will connect these apartments with the driveway below. Next to the carriage loft the hostler will have private rooming apartments. Hay and grain will be conveyed by shuttles into the stall troughs below.

The cost of the building will be considerable and it will be quite an ornament to the neighborhood.

Important Points About "Purifine," the Great Disinfectant.

[S. F. Post.]

In these enlightened days of the nineteenth century it is an acknowledged fact that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and that ounce of prevention was never better exemplified than in the use of the great disinfectant known as "Purifine." The public has had many disinfectants brought to their attention. Some were good, some were bad, and some were simply indifferent, but none ever yet placed on the market combined all the many good qualities of "Purifine." In the first place it was left to the manufacturers of "Purifine" to compound a disinfectant and antiseptic that would be odorless, a most important matter, as users of disinfectants well know that the odor of the disinfectant, especially when in constant use, becomes sickening and disagreeable, oftentimes as much so as the odor or smell to be killed.

In a word, "Purifine" is odorless, and is work removal, not creating one odor to cover another. It comes in a highly concentrated form, and when diluted with two parts water there is not the slightest odor, rendering it suitable for places where food is kept. In the bath room, sleeping room or about the house generally it is indispensable.

Then again it is non-poisonous, an all important feature, for if used carelessly by children or servants there are no harmful results, and it is also safe to have around the house.

As a sample of its harmlessness it can even be used in refrigerators, and, if accidentally spilled no harm is done, and it is particularly adapted for this use. The uses for which "Purifine" is used are almost limitless, and to enumerate them would fill pages of The Post. For flushing sewers, and for cleansing sinks, drains, burns, urinals, water closets, floor cloths and the bed clothes from sickness or infection it is invaluable.

Then again the price is so low that it can be used lavishly, and for hospitals, asylums, public buildings, hotels, restaurants, school rooms, laundries, dairies, markets, stables, packing houses and canneries where a disinfectant is used in large quantities, this is a point to be considered. One gallon is used to a barrel of water, and for general use one tablespoonful to a pint of water.

"Purifine" is a sure preventive against cholera, la grippe, small pox, diphtheria, all fevers and contagious diseases.

As an antiseptic and healer "Purifine" is invaluable, for it relieves and cures sore throat, catarrh, stings and bites of insects, burns and scalds, chilblains, sore eyes, pimples, and for the bath it is a delightful adjunct. It will instantly stop any flow of blood, and physicians will understand its full value from its principal constituents, bromine and chlorine. It is prepared solely by the Fitch Chemical Company of Bay City, Mich. The Hollister Drug Company has been appointed sole agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

New Life for the Aged.

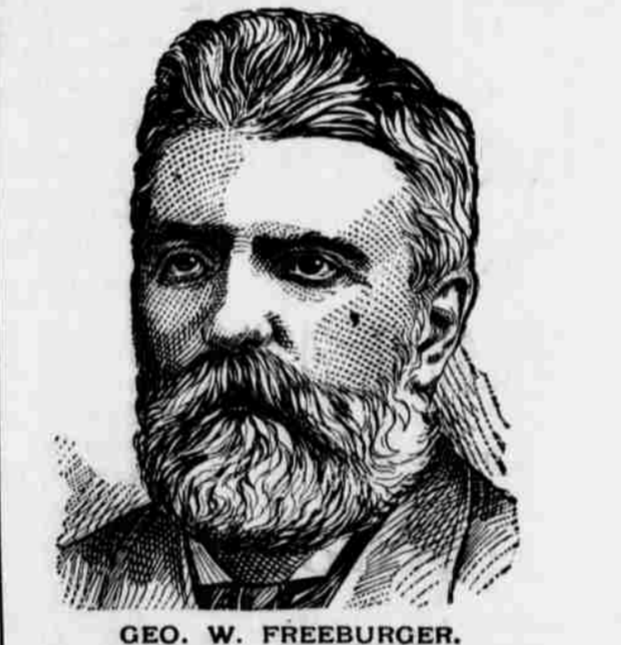

Paine's Celery Compound Gave Health and Strength to a Man of Ninety.

No other medicine is so popular with the old folks as Paine's Celery Compound. It cures their infirmities, and gives them new life and vigor. What it did for Moses Perin, it will do for all who use it faithfully.

CORONADO BEACH, CAL., Oct. 2, 1894.

Dear Sirs:—I took Paine's Celery Compound for the grip and it did its work well. I used no medicine except this, and found it so good that I did not want any other. My general health has been good ever since I used Paine's Celery Compound which did me more good than any medicine that I have taken for a long time. I worked every day last week although I shall be ninety years old the 4th of next March, and today am feeling splendid and am speaking a good word for your medicine.

The Wonders Done By Two Bottles of Paine's Celery Compound.

Mr. Freeburger Has No More Use for a Cane.

Even though you have suffered for years, be not discouraged. A medicine that cured so severe a case as that of George W. Freeburger of Shelton, must possess wonderful powers of healing. Use Paine's Celery Compound and be made well.

SHELTON, WASH., Nov. 12, 1894.

Gentlemen:—Three years ago last Christmas I was completely prostrated,—nerves all gone. I took everything that I could hear of, but got little relief. I could not walk ever so slowly even with the aid of a cane, for fifty yards without stopping to rest. About two months ago I commenced taking Paine's Celery Compound, and although I have taken not quite two bottles, I now have no use for a cane and can get around in very good shape for a man over sixty, who has been an invalid ever since the spring of 1862.

FRIDAY, JULY 10, 1896.

Praise of the N. G. H. from the Mexican Admiral is praise indeed. His country has a standing army of 35,000 men, besides a large militia. Moreover, the Admiral has seen troops in many countries and is a judge.

Rev. D. P. Birnie was among the first to commend The Star for making an effort to secure attention to the Tantalus drive and pleasure reserve. He praises highly this feature of the island and believes there should be a house at the summit.

There are no reports this time of massacres in Turkey or Armenia. This of itself is big news. Talk of an alliance against Turkey is desultory, slick and meaningless. There can be nothing of that sort until the greatest powers say the word.

According to comment and account a goodly number of the Democrats in the United States believe that the party as it has proudly existed many years is now pronounced "through a graveyard into a slaughter house." The only encouragement or hope that the thoughtful people watching them can discern as being in their possession, is the firm intent to cut away from all tradition and to be new and fresh and vigorous as to both men and measures. It is worth noting, but not easily understood by the Administration is showing an interest in the Chicago convention. This cannot possibly be on account of party spirit, because scarcely a man in a high place at Washington can hope for recognition or favor again. The sortie from that direction, then, must be on behalf of outside men and interests.

Some very radical anti-Chinese legislation may be confidently expected from the new Dominion Government. At present the People and both the Parties are agreed upon an exclusion policy and unless there arises a remarkable difference as to details, the gates will be closed against the plodders who are so prominent as a colony in Hawaii. On his way back home Li Hung Chang, the foremost man of his Empire and a ranking statesman should by all means visit the Islands. He will find his countrymen in a condition here differing from their status anywhere else. It has not been a one-sided transaction either. While at times the Europeans and Americans have found the competition of the Chinese keen, the meet it and count it as nothing since the Japanese came into the field. On their part, the Chinese, in a very few years have really contributed very largely to the agricultural development of Hawaii and in some directions have made themselves almost absolutely necessary.

McKINLEY'S VIEWS.

(From the Acceptance Speech.) The platform adopted by the Republican National Convention has received my careful consideration and has my unqualified approval. It is a matter of gratification to me, as I am sure, it must be to you and Republicans everywhere, and to all our people, that the expressions of its declarations of principles are so direct, clear and emphatic. They are too plain and positive to leave any chance for doubt or question as to their purport and meaning.

The contest this year will not be waged upon ties of theory and speculation, but in the light of severe practical experience, and new and dearly acquired knowledge. The great body of our citizens know what they want and that they intend to have. They know for what the Republican party stands and what its return to power means to them.

Great are the issues involved in the coming election, and eager and earnest the people for their right determination. Our domestic trade must be won back and our idle workmen employed in gainful occupations at American wages. Our home market must be restored to its proud rank of first in the world, and our foreign trade, so precipitately cut off by adverse national legislation, reopened on fair and equitable terms for our surplus agricultural and manufacturing products. Protection and reciprocity, twin measures of a true American policy, should again command the earnest encouragement of the Government at Washington. Public confidence must be restored and the skill, the energy and the capital of our country find ample employment at home, sustained, encouraged and defended against the unequal competition and serious disadvantage with which they are now contending.

The Government of the United States must raise enough money to meet both its current expenses and increasing needs. Its revenues should be so raised as to protect the material interests of our people, with the slightest possible drain upon their resources, and maintain that high standard of civilization which has distinguished our country for more than a century of its existence. The income of the Government, I repeat, should equal its necessary and proper expenditures. A failure to pursue this policy has compelled the Government to borrow money in a time of peace to sustain its credit and pay its daily expenses. This policy should be reversed, and that, too, as speedily as possible. It must be apparent to all, regardless of past party ties or affiliations, that it is our paramount duty to provide adequate revenue for the expenditures of the Government, economically and prudently administered.

The American people hold the financial honor of our Government as sacred as our flag, and can be relied upon to guard it with the same sleepless vigilance. They hold its preservation above party fealty, and have often demonstrated that party ties avail nothing when the spotless credit of our country is threatened with the money of the United States and every kind of form of it, whether of paper, silver or gold, must be as good as the best in the world.

The party that supplied by legislation the vast revenues for the conduct of our greatest war and promptly restored the credit of the country at its close, and that from its abundant revenues paid on a large share of the debt incurred in this war, and that resumed specie payments and placed our paper currency upon a sound and enduring basis, can be safely trusted to preserve both our credit and currency with honor, stability and inviolability.

TRIBUNE BICYCLES.

What Has Been Done on a Tribune in Hawaii.

The last three weeks have brought more glory and honor to the "Tribune" than to any wheel in Hawaii. Both races on June 11th were won on Tribunes. On the 27th the one mile championship of Hawaii was won on a Tribune and on Saturday in the relay race of 25 miles the best time was made on a Tribune 5 miles in 13 minutes and 23 seconds. These records were made to stand and it will be many a day before they can be bettered and then it will have to be on a Tribune. These wheels are built to stand hard knocks, such as relay races on streets that are all cut up by heavy traffic.

It has been a pleasure to see how enthusiastic the girls were over the victories of the Tribune and to hear them remark that it was no wonder the Tribune won how could it be otherwise. It has enthused them with a desire to have such a wheel and as "coming events cast their shadows before" we feel that we can state with perfect confidence to ourselves and the public that the sales of Ladies Tribunes will be very satisfactory to us and the wheel more than satisfactory to the buyers. Girls, don't be afraid of buying a Ladies Tribune. They are exactly the same as the mens wheel, except that it has a drop frame instead of the diamond frame. In other respects they are exactly alike—built to stand hard usage and long wear.

W.W. DIMOND'S

Put a ring around the word "Opportunity"—the occasion makes it. Never in the history of mercantile transactions in Honolulu have the people had such a golden opportunity to select a lamp as today. A manufacturer who had more than he had space to put them, wrote us of his troubles. We had none of our own so we listened to him. Our stock of lamps is the result of his tale of woe and you get the benefit.

A black lamp that will give a bright light is not a fad, but a style that will remain until "New Hawaii" shall become old. Being sombre in color they furnish with any decorations you may have in your room and any color shade that suits your fancy will look well on the lamp.

For a dinner table nothing furnishes the table better than black banquet lamps. We have them, not cumbersome, but of a height that will beautify rather than detract from the other features. We have piano lamps, hall lamps, boudoir lamps and every other character of lamp that ever was made. The prices are so low that it would injure our business to put them in this column.

AT ST. ANDREW'S PRIORY A VERY PRETTY WEDDING

THE CLOSING EXERCISES WERE HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL.

Music and Recitations—Pupils Made a Splendid Showing—Three Cantatas Were Given.

The closing concert of St. Andrew's Priory which took place Thursday evening was one of the prettiest and most enjoyable events of the season. Great credit is due the teachers for the perfect work of the pupils in their respective parts. The only thing that was that too much given for the small admission fee. Beginning at 7:30 sharp, the program was not over until about 10 o'clock, making the entertainment two and a half hours in duration.

The school room was packed with people. Many stood in the rear of the hall and others found standing room at the windows. For an hour it looked as if there would be a jam.

The walls of the room were decorated with the art work of the school for the past year. There were numerous fine sketches and several handsome paintings of persons and scenery. Maile wreaths were also entwined here and there, and the stage was handsomely decorated with green vines and flowers.

The program consisted of twelve excellent numbers. It combined as many as three operettas in three acts each and each set for a half hour. One of them, "Little Prit," by the fourth class, several of whom were mere infants, was very fine indeed. Bernice Aldrich as Little Prit was the star of this piece.

The best, or the most humorous of the three, was the one by the third class entitled, "Three bears." Zillah Hart, Ululani Smithies and Charlock Fountain took the parts of the bears, and Miss Saylor that of the Queen of the butterflies. This was a pretty conception, bringing out splendid costumes and some very fine acting.

The third operetta was "The Enchanted Palace," by the first class, composed of the young ladies of the school. As in the case of the others it combined songs and recitations, and was perhaps the strongest effort of the entire program. Misses Bernice Cook, one of the teachers, Miss Cronenberg and Miss Grace Cole took the principal parts.

Fine duets were presented by Frida Koelling and Louisa Hart, and Rose Simerson and Rowena Richardson. Professor Rosin accompanied the songs with his violin, while different ladies officiated at the piano.

SAD NEWS.

Capt. J. W. Pratt has received the sad news of the death of his aged mother at Oakland, Cal., on June 30. Mrs. Pratt, with her husband and daughter visited here about ten months ago seeking health. She had then suffered one stroke of paralysis.

He Replenished the Fire.

Ermoulton of Spain possessed wonderful strength. On Christmas day, 1888, being with several nobles in the upper rooms of a castle, the host complained of the fire burning low. Hearing this, Ermoulton, who had seen through the window some asses going by laden with wood, went out, seized one of the asses, and swinging it, together with its burden, upon his shoulder mounted 24 steps to the room where the nobles were and playfully threw wood and ass on the fire.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Every Word True

The ladies residing in Honolulu and suburbs display remarkable good taste in their dress. This was still further shown at the grand ball to be given on the 3rd, and is thus easily accounted for, as three-fourths of the costumes worn on that auspicious occasion were bought at L. B. Kerr's, where it would be impossible to buy an ugly dress. The materials and quaint designs are simply irresistible, and the prices are so unmistakably low that there is an absolute saving of at least 25 per cent; in other words you can buy at that popular store, a single yard at wholesale prices.

Special Attention

There has been an additional reduction all along the line in prices at the Waterhouse Bargain Sale; make your purchase soon.

WILLARD E. BROWN AND MISS ELLEN HOPPER.

At the Residence of the Bride's Parents—Floral Decorations—Marigold Bank—Reception—Presents.

The marriage of Willard E. Brown and Miss Ellen Hopper was solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents, King street, at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. Rev. Douglas P. Birnie of the Central Union church performed the ceremony. J. A. Hopper, the father, gave the bride away. Wallace R. Farrington officiated as best man and Miss Harriet Lewers as bridesmaid.

The service was very pretty. It took place in the makai parlor. This apartment was delicately yet handsomely decorated, and was brilliantly lighted. The flower pieces, especially the handsome arrangement of marigolds and lilies, attracted the notice and admiration of every one. An arrangement of marigolds over the spot where the young couple were united for life, connected by floral streamers with a bank of the same in the corner formed a most artistic and beautiful design.

At the appointed hour Miss Clara Fuller began the wedding march. With the first notes Rev. Birnie, the groom and Mr. Farrington entered. They were followed immediately from the hallway by James and Margaret Peckerson, Miss Lewers, the bride and Mr. J. A. Hopper.

After the ceremony was over the bridal party received their friends. More than two hundred persons offered their congratulations. These included the most prominent people of the country. Shortly after 10 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for their temporary home at Waikiki.

The reception room of the Hopper mansion was devoted to the presents sent by close friends. Seldom has such a rich display of wedding gifts been seen in Honolulu. Many were costly and fine, and all were valuable and useful.

Both of the young people are well known and have many good friends who will wish them long years of happiness. Mr. Brown has been associated with the business life of Honolulu for several years and is a young man of marked abilities and brilliant prospects. He is at present connected with the Hawaiian Safe Deposit Co. The bride is highly esteemed for her noble character and fine accomplishments.

OUTWITTED BY A CLERGYMAN.

How a Methodist Minister Got Into the War Department Ahead of His Turn.

A prominent Methodist clergyman in this city fell into a reminiscent mood one evening and gave a party of friends an entertaining account of the way in which he succeeded in obtaining an interview with the secretary of war in the days of the rebellion. Visitors to Washington who have experienced the annoying difficulties and delays generally encountered in reaching the inner office of a member of the cabinet in these piping times of peace can imagine what such an attempt meant in war times, when every cabinet officer, and particularly the secretary of war, was overwhelmed with work seven days in the week.

"It was a matter of the most pressing necessity," said the clergyman, "for me to go to the front of the Union lines without an hour's delay. I reached Washington in the morning and soon learned that I could not cross the Potomac into Virginia without a pass from the secretary of war.

"Thinking it would be no trouble to get the pass, I inquired where the war department was and hurried up to Seventeenth street, where it was then located. About Sixteenth street I noticed a line of men on the sidewalk, and as I hurried along I found that this line extended up Pennsylvania avenue, around the corner of Seventeenth street and down the block to the entrance to the war department.

"Men in the line told me they were waiting their turn to see Secretary Stanton, and some of those near the head had actually held their places 24 hours. I was also told that I must take my place at the tail end of that long line, and perhaps I would reach the department the next day.

"That would never do for me, and as I walked slowly down the line I put on my 'thinking cap' and thought out a scheme to get into the secretary's office without any delay. Before I got to the end of that line I had formed a plan of procedure. "I hurried down the avenue until I found a stationery store, where I bought a package of foolscap paper and a couple of large, official looking envelopes. Folding up several sheets of the blank paper, I filled each of the envelopes with them, sealed up the envelopes and borrowed the stationer's pen long enough to address each to 'The Honorable Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.,' in big, black letters.

"Then, with these envelopes in my hand, I went up to the war department. As soon as I was in sight of the two soldiers who stood on guard at the door I put on the most important air I could assume and walked so fast it was just short of a run.

"As I reached the entrance the soldiers dropped and crossed their muskets in front of me, just as I had expected them to do, but I waved the big envelopes at them and cried out: 'Important! Important!' and they stepped aside just as I had hoped they would.

"Once inside the building it was an easy matter to find the secretary's office. I told Mr. Stanton frankly how I had got into the place, and he laughed heartily as he made out the pass it was so important I should have."—New York Herald.

GENERAL DEBILITY and Indigestion Made Her Life Miserable, but She is Cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Read the testimony of Mrs. E. G. Monroe, Coburg, Victoria, whose portrait is also given:

"Some few years ago I suffered terribly with indigestion and general debility. I could not sleep, and my condition was such as to make my life miserable. None of the many remedies I tried did me any good, and I despaired of ever getting better. One of my friends told me of the blood-purifying and strength-giving properties of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I began taking it. Before I had finished the first bottle I felt better, and was thus encouraged to give the medicine a thorough trial. In all I used four bottles, and then was perfectly cured of the grievous trouble which had afflicted me. I now recommend, to anyone suffering as I did.

COMPANY A NOW CLAIMS $80 OF THE PRIZE.

Drilled on the Square by Capt. Smith -The N. G. H. and Visiting Naval Officers--Meetings Tonight.

Company A had its full membership out Thursday evening for drill. The command was taken by Capt. Smith on the square and instructed for an hour. A claims now $80 of the $100 prize.

Companies C, D, G, and H will meet this evening for drill. N. G. H. officers will visit the Austrian and Mexican war ships tonight.

The Saids and Zaragoza will sail tomorrow for Japan. Seldom have the officers of war ships entered so enthusiastically into the life of a foreign place as these have at Honolulu. Their stay has been marked for a constant round of pleasure to themselves and to a large number of the people of the city. A strong friendship has matured itself between the N. G. H. and these officers, to a greater extent perhaps than in the case of any chance visitors in many years.

The twenty man match between B. N. G. H. and the Sharpshooters will take place at Maikiki butts tomorrow afternoon, provided the latter can get out its team. Company B will enter the following team: Capt. White, Sergt. Elvin, Sergt. Giles, Sergt. Atherton, Corp. Schmidt, Corp. Storey and Privates Hammond, Hagerup, Kenake, Olesen, Rhodes, Frasher, Ward, Cockett, McKay, Tracy, Ewing, Hapai, Johnson and Bolster. The Sharpshooters team has not been selected. Furthermore it is doubtful if they will be able to compete as a team. The men selected have not had the opportunity lately of practice.

Company B's dramatic troupe will meet at the company room at 7:30 this evening for rehearsal of "Under Two Flags." Lieut. Jacobsen will preside. The match between the little boys of Companies B and D will take place one week from tomorrow afternoon. There will be no more battalion nor regimental drills until after the competitive drill of companies in August.

TOURING THE WORLD.

Sam Wakefield, a brother of Mr. J. Wakefield, of Theo. H. Davies & Co., is in Honolulu, on his way around the world. He is city editor of the Herald of Worcester, England, and a newspaper man of recognized ability. Several English publications noted editorially his departure on his long trip. Mr. Wakefield will remain several days in Honolulu.

LEG BROKEN.

Egbert Sharratt, a native lad employed as drayman by the California Feed Co., accidentally broke a leg about 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon and will be laid up several weeks. He was engaged in hoisting oats in bags to the upper floor of the house by use of a sling. A sling went up, turned over, broke and deposited the contents upon the boy before he could clear it. The leg was broken just below the pelvis.

Moon Eaters.

Certain it is that a belief in the moon as the abode of the fathers was widely spread among the people speaking the Aryan languages. To the present day the peasants in Scania are heard to say "May I go to the moon if I did it," instead of "May I die if I did it," say, people who work on the Sabbath day are threatening even now that they will go to the moon—that is, that they will die and be punished in the moon. A more startling idea—peculiar, it would seem, to India—was that of the moon serving as the food of the gods. And yet, though it sounds strange to us, it was not so very unnatural an idea after all. The gods, though invisible, had been located in the sky. In the same sky the golden moon, of ten compared to a round of golden butter, was seen regularly to decrease. And if it was being consumed by anybody, by whom could it be consumed if not by the gods? Hence the ready conclusion that it was so, and that it was, in fact, this food which secured to the gods their immortal life.

If so much had once been granted, then came the question, How was the moon gradually increased and restored to its fullness? And here the old superstition came in that the souls of the departed entered the moon, so that the waxing of the moon might readily be accounted for by this more ancient article of faith. Hence the systematized belief that the moon waxes while it is being eaten by the gods and that it waxes while it is being filled by the departed souls entering it. A last conclusion was that the gods when feeding on the moon were really feeding on the souls of the departed.—Quarterly Review.

"We had an epidemic of dysentery in this vicinity last summer," says Samuel S. Pollock, of Briceland, Cal. "I was taken with it and suffered severely until some one called my attention to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I procured a bottle and felt better after the first dose. Before one-half of the bottle had been used I was well. I recommended it to my friends and their experience was the same. We all unite in saying it is the best." The cleanest, brightest, safest and really, in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe; nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu came rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said: "Give me figures for wiring my house, and I want it done at once; no more lamps for me. Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks."

This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light. Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawaiian Electric Company and tell them what you want. CHAPTER XXXII.
In the midst of our heroics I was greatly scared by perceiving a cloaked figure coming hurriedly toward us in the dim light.

"This another, come to succor his friends," whispers I. "Let us step into this hedge."

"Too late," returns he. "Put on a bold face. 'Tis only one."

With a swaggering gait and looking straight before us, we had passed the figure, when a voice calls "Father!" and there, turning, we find that 'tis poor Moll in her husband's cloak.

"Where is thy husband, child?" asks Dawson as he recovers from his astonishment, taking Moll by the hand.

"I have no husband, father," answers she piteously.

"Why, sure he hath not turned you out of doors?"

"No; he'd not do that," says she, "were I ten times more wicked than I am."

"What folly then is this?" asks her father.

"'Tis no folly. I have left him of my own free will, and shall never go back to him. For he's no more my husband than that house is mine (pointing to the court). 'Both were got by the same means, and both are lost."

Then briefly she told how they had been turned from the gate by Peter, and how Mr. Godwin was now as poor and homeless as we. And this news throwing us into a silence with new bewilderment, she asks us simply whither we are going.

"My poor Moll!" is all the answer he can make, and that in a broken, trembling voice.

"'Tis no good to cry," says she, dashing aside her tears that had sprung at this word of loving sympathy and forcing herself to a more cheerful tone. "Why, let us think that we are just awake from a long sleep to find ourselves no worse off than when we fell a-dreaming. Nay, not so ill," adds she, "for you have a home near London. Take me there, dear."

"With all my heart, chuck," answers her father eagerly. "There at least I can give you a shelter till your husband can offer better."

She would not dispute this point, though I perceived clearly her mind was resolved fully never to claim her right to Mr. Godwin's roof, but only begged we should hasten on our way, saying she felt chilled, and in passing Mother Fitch's cottage she constrained us to silence and caution. Then, when we were safely past, she would have us run, still feigning to be cold, but in truth, as I think, to avoid being overtaken by Mr. Godwin, fearing maybe that he would overrule her will. This way we sped till Moll was fain to stop with a little cry of pain, and clapping her hand to her heart, being fairly spent and out of breath. Then we took her betwixt us, lending her our arms for support, and falling into a more regular pace made good progress.

We trudged on till we reached Croydon without any accident, save that at one point Moll's step faltering, and she with a faint sob weighing heavily upon our arms, we stopped, as thinking her strength overtaken, and then, glancing about me, I perceived we were upon that little bridge where we had overtaken Mr. Godwin and he had offered to make Moll his wife. Then I knew 'twas not fatigue that weighed her down, and gauging her feelings by my own remorse I pitied this poor wife even more than I blamed myself, for had she revealed herself to him at that time, though he might have shrunk from marriage, he must have loved her still and so she had been spared this shame and hopeless sorrow.

At Croydon we overtook a carrier on his way to London for the Saturday market, who for a couple of shillings gave us a place in his wagon with some good bundles of hay for a seat, and here was rest for our tired bodies, though little for our tormented minds, till we reached Marsh End, where we were set down, and so, the ground being hard with frost, across the marsh to Greenwich about daybreak. Having the key of his workshop with him, Dawson took us into his lodgings without disturbing the other inmates of the house, who might well have marveled to see us enter at this hour with a woman in a man's cloak, and no covering but a handkerchief to her head, and Moll, taking his bed, we disposed ourselves on some shavings in his shop to get a little sleep.

Dawson was already risen when I awoke, and going into his little parlor I found him mighty busy setting the place in order, which was in a sad bachelor's pickle, to be sure—all littered up with odds and ends of turning, unwashed plates, broken victuals, etc., just as he had left it.

"She's asleep," says he in a whisper, "and I'd have this room like a little palace against she comes into it, so do you lend me a hand, Kit, and make no more noise than you can help. The kitchen's through that door. Carry everything in there, and what's of no use fling out of the window into the road."

Setting to with a will, we got the parlor and kitchen neat and proper, plates washed, tiles wiped, pots and pans hung up, furniture furnished up, and everything in its place in no time. Then, leaving me to light a fire in the parlor, Dawson goes forth a-marketing with a basket on his arm, in high glee. And truly to see the pleasure in his face later on, making a mess of bread and milk in one pipkin and cooking eggs in another, for now we heard Moll stirring in her chamber, one would have thought that this was an occasion for rejoicing rather than grief, and this was due not to want of kind feeling, but to the fond, simple nature of him, he being manly enough in some ways, but a very child in others. He did never see farther than his nose, as one says, and because it gave him joy to have Moll beside him once more he must needs think hopefully that she will quickly recover from this reverse of fortune, and that all will come right again.

Our dear Moll did nothing to damp his hopes, but played her part bravely and well to spare him the anguish of remorse that secretly wrung her own heart. She met us with a cheerful countenance, admiring the neatness of the parlor, the glowing fire, ate her share of porridge, and finding the eggs cooked hard declared she could not abide them soft. Then she would see her father work his lathe, to his delight, and begged he would make her some cups for eggs as being more to our present fashion than eating them from one's hand.

"Why," says he, "there's an old bed-post in the corner that will serve me to a nicety. But first I must see our landlord and engage a room for Kit and me, for I take it, my dear," adds he, "you will be content to stay with us here."

"Yes," answers she, "'tis a most cheerful view of the river from the windows."

She tucked up her skirt and sleeves to busy herself in household matters, and when I would have relieved her of this office she begged me to go and bear her father company, saying with a piteous look in her eyes that we must leave her some occupation, or she should weary.

She was pale, there were dark lines beneath her eyes, and she was silent, but I saw no outward sign of grief till the afternoon, when, coming from Jack's shop unexpected, I spied her sitting by the window, with her face in her hands, bowed over a piece of cloth we had bought in the morning, which she was about to fashion into a plain gown, as being more suitable to her condition than the rich dress in which she had left the court.

"Poor soul!" thinks I, "here is a sad awaking from thy dream of riches and joy!"

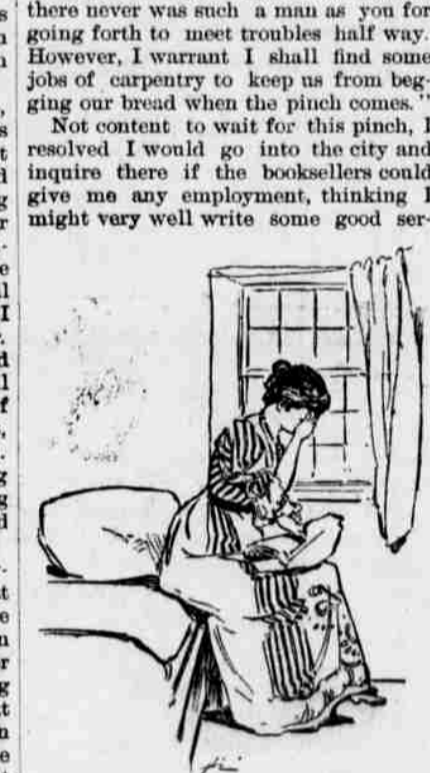

Upon a seasonable occasion I told Dawson we must soon begin to think of doing something for a livelihood—a matter which was as remote from his consideration as the day of wrath.

"Why, Kit," says he, "I've as good as £50 yet in a hole at the chimney back."

"Aye, but when that's gone?" says I.

"That's a good way hence, Kit, but there never was such a man as you for going forth to meet troubles half way. However, I warrant I shall find some jobs of carpentry to keep us from begging our bread when the pinch comes."

Not content to wait for this pinch, I resolved I would go into the city and inquire there if the booksellers could give me any employment, thinking I might very well write some good sermons on honesty, now I had learned the folly of roguery. Hearing of my purpose the morning I was about to go, Moll takes me aside and asks me in a quavering voice if I knew where Mr. Godwin might be found. This question staggered me a moment, for her husband's name had not been spoken by any of us since the catastrophe, and it came into my mind now that she designed to return to him, and I stammered out some foolish hint at Hurst Court.

"No, he is not there," says he, "but I thought maybe that Sir Peter Lely—" "Aye," says I. "He will most likely know where Mr. Godwin may be found."

"Can you tell me where Sir Peter lives?"

"No, but I can learn easily when I am in the city."

"If you can, write the address and send him this," says she, drawing a letter from her breast. She had writ her husband's name on it, and now she pressed her lips to it twice, and putting the warm letter in my hand she turned away, her poor mouth twitching with emotion. I knew then that there was no thought in her mind of seeing her husband again.

I carried the letter with me to the city, wondering what was in it. I know not now, yet I think it contained but a few words of explanation and farewell, with some prayer maybe that she might be forgiven and forgotten.

Learning where Sir Peter Lely lived, I myself went to his house, and he not being at home I asked his servant if Mr. Godwin did sometimes come there.

"Why, yes, sir, he was here but yesterday," answers he. "Indeed never a day passes but he calls to ask if any one hath sought him."

"In that case," says I, slipping a piece in his ready hand and fetching out Moll's letter, "you will give him this when he comes next."

"That I will, sir, and without fail. But if you would see him, sir, he bids me say he is ever at his lodging in Holborn from 5 in the evening to 8 in the morning."

"'Twill answer all ends if you give him that letter. He is in good health, I hope."

"Well, sir, he is and he isn't, as you may say," answers he, dropping into a familiar, confidential tone after casting his eye over me to behold if I was no great person. "I'm a little shaking, to be sure, for I hear he is ever about from morn till even—a searching hither and thither, but a more downhearted, rueful looking gentleman for his age I never see."

"Wixt you and me, sir, I think he hath lost his sweetheart, seeing I am charged, with Sir Peter's permission, to follow and not lose sight of any lady who may chance to call here for him."

I walked back to Greenwich across the fields, debating in my mind whether I should tell Moll of her husband's distress or not, so perplexed with conflicting arguments that I had come to no decision when I reached home.

Moll spying me coming, from her window in the front of the house, met me at the door in her cloak and hood and begged I would take her a little turn over the heath.

"What have you to tell me?" asks she, pressing my arm as we walked on.

"I have given your letter to Sir Peter Lely's servant, who promises to deliver it faithfully to your husband."

"Well," says she, after a little pause of silence, "that is not all."

"You will be glad to know that he is well in health," says I. And then I stop again, all hanging in a hedge for not knowing whether it were wiser to speak or hold my tongue.

"There is something else. I see it in your face. Hide nothing from me, for love's sake," says she piteously. Whereupon, my heart getting the better of my head, which, to be sure, was no great achievement, I told all as I have set it down here.

"My dear, dear love! My darling Dick!" says she in the end, and then she would have it told all over again, with a thousand questions, to draw forth more, and these being exhausted she asks why I would have concealed so much from her, and if I did fear she would seek him.

"Nay, my dear," says I. "'Tis 't'other way about. For if your husband does forgive you and years but to take you back into his arms it would be an unnatural, cruel thing to keep you apart. Therefore, to confess the whole truth, I did meditate going to him and showing how we, and not you, are to blame in this matter, and then telling him where he might find you, if on reflection he felt that he could honestly hold you guiltless, but ere I do that, as I see now, I must know if you are willing to this accommodation, for if you are not then are our wounds all opened afresh to no purpose but to retard their healing."

She made no reply nor any comment for a long time, nor did I seek to bias her judgment by a single word, doubting my wisdom. But I perceived by the quivering of her arm within mine that a terrible conflict 'twixt passion and principle was convulsing every fiber of her being. At the top of the hill above Greenwich she stopped, and, throwing back her hood, let the keen wind blow upon her face as she gazed over the gray flats beyond the river. And the air seeming to give her strength and a clearer perception she says presently:

"Accommodation!" And she repeats this unlucky word of mine twice or thrice, as if she liked it less each time. "That means we shall agree to let bygones be bygones and do our best to get along together for the rest of our lives as easily as we may."

"That's it, my dear," says I cheerfully.

"Hush up the past," continues she in the same calculating tone. "'Conceal it from the world if possible. Invent some new lie to deceive the curious, and hood wink our decent friends. Chuckle at our success and come in time" (here she paused a moment) "to chat so lightly of our past knavery that we could wish we had gone further in the business."

Then turning about to me she asks, "If you were writing the story of my life for a play, would you end it thus?"

"My dear," says I, "a play's one thing, real life's another, and believe me, as far as my experience goes of real life, the less heroics there are in it the better parts are those for the actors in't."

She shook her head fiercely in the wind, and, turning about with a brusque vigor, cries: "Come on. I'll have no accommodation. And yet," says she, stopping short after a couple of hasty steps and with a fervent earnestness in her voice, "and yet, if I could wipe out this stain, if by any act I could redeem my fault, God knows I'd do it, cost what it might, to be honored once again by my dear Dick."

"This comes of living in a theater all her life," thinks I. And indeed in this, as in other matters yet to be told, the teaching of the stage was but too evident.

Among the numerous persons who have been cured of rheumatism by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, mention should be made of Mrs. Emily Thorne, of Toledo, Wash., who says: "I have never been able to procure any medicine that would relieve me of rheumatism like Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I have also used it for lame back with great success. It is the best liniment I have ever used, and I take pleasure in recommending it to my friends." For sale by all druggists and dealers. Made Her Feel Well

The physician was surprised to find the head of the household at the door with a shotgun.

"Why, what's the matter?" stammered the doctor.

"That there Seattle beer you give my wife, she says is makin' her feel like a new woman, and I want you to understand that no new woman business goes in this house. Fust thing I know she'll be out makin' speeches."
