THE "ADVERTISER'S" OPINIONS.

Were modesty not the predominant trait of its character, the Advertiser would congratulate itself upon the respectful deference paid to its opinions by its morning contemporary.

EFFICACY OF PRAYER.

The "Bulletin" reports that kahunas have been fervently praying for the death of Mr. Dole for a week past.

What a Tourist Says.

We had a pleasant call yesterday from Mr. J. Purver Richardson, of Baltimore, who has been "doing the Islands" in a quiet and unobtrusive way.

Ann Licenses.

On Friday, December 3d, at 10 a. m., the annuall license for the island of Oahu will be sold at public auction at the entrance of Aliolani Hale for the term of one year.

Supreme Court.

BEFORE PRESTON, J. MONDAY, November 8th. In the estate of Eugene Callihan, deceased.

News was received by the steamer Kilauea Hot, which arrived Sunday, that on last Thursday a Chinaman, while working at the flumes at Hakaiua, Hamakua, Hawaii, missed his footing and was precipitated to the rocks, some five hundred feet below.

"Opium in the Public Schools."

EDITOR ADVERTISER—It is not my custom to controvert newspaper criticisms, but your article in to-day's Advertiser under the above caption seems so "amazing" that I deem it best, with your kind permission, to call attention to a few facts:

1. I have made no "charge" whatever against any school or Principal of a school. I simply repeated a statement of one of the most responsible gentlemen in the Kingdom, without indorsing. The Advertiser reports me as expressing my amazement at the statement.

2. My correspondent did not make any such charge, or anything like the "charge" which you now transfer to me, viz.: "that opium was procured, if not consumed in school hours" in that school, neither did I so quote him.

3. Having made no charge, I have not "virtually withdrawn" one.

If you wish proof of the truth of these statements you have only to refer to the Advertiser of Thursday last, and read your own report of the statement quoted by me. Your report in several particulars is inaccurate, but it contains nothing from which "so serious a charge" can even be inferred.

Just a word upon your statement that I had not a "scintilla of evidence" on which to base this serious charge (a charge which I never made). You say that one reason for your taking any notice of the affair was "the respectability of the gentleman making it."

"To put it in brief," Mr. Editor, no "charge" has been made against anyone, except by street gossip. And had you taken your own advice to me, and before publishing your inaccurate article in last Thursday's Advertiser, had sought from me a "knowledge of the facts," no suspicion whatever would have been raised against any school or Principal of a school, and you would not have been led to do me the injustice of "charging" that I have made "a most serious charge without a scintilla of evidence to sustain it," when in fact I have made no charge against anyone.

I do not for a moment suppose, Mr. Editor, that you intended to misrepresent me or do me an injustice. But that you have put an entirely different construction upon the statement repeated by me than the words warrant, I think is evident. I remain, yours with regard,

J. A. CRUZAN. Honolulu, November 8, 1886.

[Our esteemed correspondent misquotes the Advertiser and confuses the issue to cover up his own admitted fault. We did not charge Mr. Cruzan, or his "responsible" correspondent, with stating "that opium was procured if not consumed in school hours" in the school in question; what we did say was, that a charge was made against the Educational Department to the effect that the "boys in a certain Government school are already debauched with opium." And we added by way of comment: "The charge was made in such a way as to create the impression that opium was procured if not consumed in school hours." We say so still; and no man understands this better, or feels more keenly the equivocal position in which he stands on this matter than Mr. Cruzan himself. The strat in which he finds himself doubtless induced him to garble our statement of the case, and to make a false presentation of it in the second paragraph of the foregoing letter and elsewhere. Having disposed of that point there is little more to be said. If Mr. Cruzan or his correspondent did not intend to convey the impression that opium was either used or procured by the boys attending the Government school in question, why was the school mentioned at all? Their debauchery by opium and attendance at a Government school were connected as links in the chain of their social and moral degradation. If that was not the intention then the remarks of Mr. Cruzan, as a comment upon Chief Justice Judd's paper on the "Present Condition of the Hawaiians," were without point. It so happened that reporters were present at the Fort-Street Church monthly concert on this occasion, and Mr. Cruzan's "amazing statement" was very properly made public by them. If it had not been for that fact the false and mischievous impression created by his admittedly loose and unguarded recital of a statement in a private letter would have passed unchallenged, and prejudiced his hearers and their friends against the Government schools. The publicity that has been given to his statement, and the discussion it has provoked, must convince all impartial people that the suspicion of such a charge does not lie against any school under the control of the Board of Education. Indeed, Mr. Cruzan himself says above that "no charge has been made against anyone except by street gossip." But who started the "street gossip"? Was it not Mr. Cruzan? It is unnecessary to follow and expose the special pleading of our correspondent in other paragraphs of his letter. Let Mr. Cruzan only compare his own letter in a contemporary with his contribution in to-day's Advertiser and he will recognize the untenability of his position. But no good can come of prolonging a discussion of this kind. If our esteemed correspondent would only confine to having made a mistake, and express regret for having done an unnamed school Principal and the Board of Education a grievous wrong, we would willingly forgive him; but when his impudence is manifest by an attempt to shift the burden from his own shoulders to the Advertiser, we cannot in conscience and good faith absolve him from his fault.—E. P. C. A.]

Minstrel Entertainment.

So long is it since anything of the nature of a musical entertainment was presented to the Honolulu public, that there is every reason to believe the one advertised in another column will be extremely popular, the more so inasmuch as it will be carried out by amateur musicians of known repute, and is for the benefit of a local organization. The evenings of Friday and Saturday next are those chosen on which to give a grand minstrel entertainment on behalf of the funds of the Honolulu Yacht and Boat Club in the Music Hall. Members of the club, assisted by a well trained orchestra and native chorus, will make up the programme; Messrs. W. G. Armstrong and C. W. Macfarlane will play the role of end men, Mr. H. W. Morse, that of inter-locutor, whilst the music will be under the direction of Mr. J. F. Brown. After the first part there will be an olio consisting of several acts, interspersed with local hits and songs. The parts have been carefully rehearsed and there is every reason to believe that all, whether comic or sentimental, will be effectively rendered. The box plan will be open at Wiseman's at 10 a. m. on Wednesday.

Moonlight Concert.

The Royal Hawaiian Band will give a moonlight concert this evening at 7:30 at Emma Square. The following is the programme: March—"Brandenburg"—Lervengy Overture—"French Comedy"—Bela Waltz—"Southern Breeze"—Meister Selection—"Faust"—Gounod "Let Aloha"—Gasser "Scottish"—"The Jacobites"—Dwinnetti "Finale"—"Belosario"—Strauss Waltz—"Vienna Blood"—Strauss Lancers—"Likilike"—Berger "Hawaii Tanioti."

The Royal Hawaiian Band gave a splendid concert at Emma Square last evening, quite a large number of people heard the music.

THE LATE ADMIRALTY CASE.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the Supreme Court, in admiralty, His Honor Chief Justice Judd resumed up the evidence and delivered judgment in the case of the Pacific Navigation Company vs. S. C. Allen, in which it was sought to recover damages for the loss of the steamer James I. Dowsett, owned by the libelants, after collision with the schooner Mo'i Wahine, the property of the respondent. After a comprehensive statement of the facts, His Honor proceeded to inquire why the schooner was not seen by the watch on the steamer until the two were in close proximity. The defense given by the Captain of the steamer was that the schooner had no lights. Witnesses for the libelants stated that they saw the binnacle light and the lights from the cabin. Afterwards, it was stated, a green light was seen on the port side of the schooner. On the other hand, all the crew of the Mo'i Wahine say unhesitatingly that the lights were lit on the night of the collision. The Captain and Mate testify that they saw the glimmer of the lights shining inward. His Honor found that the statutory provisions as to the lights were complied with. It was to the credit of the watch on the Mo'i Wahine that they saw the Dowsett's lights. Their position was a more favorable one for observation than that of the Dowsett's watch. The conclusion was that the Dowsett's men must have looked only at a time when it was not possible for them to see the schooner's lights. They must have been attending to other matters. There was no imputation of perjury or dishonesty to the witnesses on the Dowsett, who no doubt did not see the schooner until close upon her. There was only one look-out on the Dowsett, and he had stood watch from 8 to 12 on the previous night, besides having worked all day discharging cargo. This man could not be considered as answering the requirements. He should have been the best and freshest sailor on the ship. He had evidently become wearied by continuous duty, and was therefore unfit to be placed on watch. The only solution of the green light said to have been seen on the port side of the schooner is that she had gone about for Honolulu, and thus her green light, though in its proper position, would be visible. The testimony of the witness who said he saw a man carrying a light was in order the decision became simple. The schooner was not seen by the men on the Dowsett until a collision was inevitable. The Dowsett was therefore the cause of the collision. The law provides that a steamer must keep out of the way of a sailing vessel. It was said that the schooner put her helm up; experts testified that they would have put it down. It was also strongly urged that the schooner should not have changed her course and that this caused the collision. The ruling on this point and that if in an emergency an order was given which should not have been given the law regards it as an error and not a fault. The steamer was to blame for suffering the peril to occur, and although it is the duty of a sailing vessel to keep on her course, she is not bound to do so after a collision has become inevitable. Counsel for the respondent complained that nothing was done by Captain Dunitz to save the steamer, and that he did not even examine the injury she had sustained until he was in the boat with the intention of abandoning her. He could safely have stayed by until she sank. The respondent was allowed $670.39 for expenses, with interest and costs. A decision was given dismissing the libel and sustaining the cross libel filed by the respondent.
