A prominent citizen and leader in politics threw us a bouquet the other day while in our store. "What a singularly neat store you have, everything so up to date, and you seem to carry nearly everything," he remarked.

It is all quite true our stock is new, fresh and up to date, and we do carry almost everything. Just try us and you will find we are quite correct in our assertion.

McGREGORS LANDING.

J. N. Gere here for Cotton Brothers to construct a badly needed landing.

NEW LEPROSY CURE.

Pepalou; for thirty three years a leper cured and discharged. Used Witter Water—Medical expert to take charge of Leprosarium decided upon.

McGREGOR'S LANDING AND ROAD.

At last the constructinn of McGregor's Landing appears to be an assured fact. Cotton Bros. who have the contract have sent up here Mr. J. N. Gere, who is to have complete charge of the construction until its completion.

The landing will consist of a wharf 200 feet in length, running out to twelve feet of water and eight or nine feet above low-water mark, with a warehouse building containing also an office and waiting room fitted up with comfortable seats, of the shore end of the landing.

Mr. Hugh Howell our County Engineer has just completed a re-survey of the road to connect this landing with the main road. This will be about 1500 feet in length, on a grade in no place over 6% and nowhere less than twenty feet in width. There will also be a carriage stand adjoining the landing 70 feet by 100 feet at about the level of the wharf.

This road will be approximately 1100 feet longer than the more direct route on the Wailuku side of the landing but will effect a saving to the county of approximately $2000.

The total distance to McGregor's Landing from Wailuku P. O. will be 8.8 miles a little less than 2 miles further than Maalaea, but the trip from Wailuku to the steamer will be shortened fifteen or twenty minutes for the reason that the steamer can lie within 200 feet of the end of the landing, and boats will not be subject to the terrific winds so frequent at Maalaea.

LEPROSY TREATMENT.

When Governor Carter was in San Francisco last July, he was called upon by C. H. Dwinelle, who introduced himself as a Yale man of the class of '60, and who spoke to the Governor concerning the discharge of George Pepalou from the leper hospital of San Francisco as being cured, the cure, it was claimed, being through the use of "Witter Water."

The Governor saw Pepalou, who had at one time tried to get into the settlement at Molokai. He was examined, he claimed, by Dr. Day of the Honolulu Board of Health, who turned him over to Dr. Carmichael of the United States quarantine authorities, and Pepalou was sent back to San Francisco, where he began a systematic course of taking the "Witter Water" for three years. At the end of that time, he submitted to all kinds of tests and examinations, none of which showed any evidence of leprosy, and Pepalou was discharged by the Board of Health. This was the fellow who created a local sensation by one day walking in on Geo. W. Smith, then a member of the Board of Health, and asking to be sent to Molokai.

Pepalou spoke of the symptoms and effects of the water, saying that it was a severe test; that it made him dizzy, increasing his pain and burning sensation, particularly at the extremities, which had long since been numb. Governor Carter noticed that he had lost a large part of his right foot, a considerable portion of the left foot, part of the thumb and several fingers on each hand, but the wounds look healthy and the man claims to be free from all spots and rash.

Doubt arose in Governor Carter's mind as to whether Pepalou had ever been a leper but the man stated that his mother died of leprosy in New York City, that he was the youngest of a number of children, and the only one that inherited the disease. When seven years old, he was placed in confinement in New Orleans, being pronounced a leper by Dr. Isidor Dyer, who treated him there. At that time, Pepalou stated, a physician was brought from France to treat the child of a prominent cattle man of Louisiana who had leprosy, and Pepalou was also under treatment by this French physician. He made the statement that he firmly believed that leprosy was caused by the excessive use of salt; that the French physician told him that there must be something in the food of the people there that caused the disease. The physician experimented with two children, and by the excessive use of salt in their food, he succeeded in bringing out a rash, then black spots and numbness, until they were finally pronounced lepers.

Later on, in California, Pepalou was examined by Dr. Hutchinson, a famous English physician. He claimed that while in Honolulu, both Dr. Day and Dr. Wood, after a thorough physical examination and bacteriological test, pronounced him undoubtedly to be a leper. Before his discharge by the Board of Health of San Francisco, examinations and tests were made, which failed to show any evidence of leprosy.

For more than thirty-three years the man has been under confinement, so that his habit of life is such as to render him utterly useless in the outside world. He asked Governor Carter for permission to go to Molokai for the purpose of aiding patients there through the use of the water, which Pepalou believes to have effected the absolute cure in his own case. Governor Carter was so impressed with the man's record and history that he placed the facts before Surgeon General Wyman, furnishing him also with an analysis of the water. Pepalou is now at the almshouse in San Francisco.—Bulletin.

FINDS THE RIGHT MAN.

After a prolonged eclipse, light has again dawned upon the Federal Leprosarium project. It would appear that delay has not been consequent upon difficulty over the building scheme, but in connection with a search for a suitable man to superintend the institution when it has been erected.

Now the man has been found, and "something will be doing" soon. This information is on the authority of Surgeon General Wyman.

"I have received a personal letter from Surgeon General Wyman," Governor Carter said yesterday, "stating that he has got a man for the Leprosarium on Molokai."

"That has been the cause of the delay, he gives me to understand. The whole problem depended on getting the right kind of a man to make a scientific study of the disease."

"Apparently he thinks the building a secondary matter. He does not give the name of the man."

"Surgeon General Wyman believes that before long he can convince the people of earnestness in the matter by showing them there's something doing."

"Is there no danger of the appropriation lapsing, so that a new appropriation should have to be made?" was asked.

"I am not certain about that point," the governor answered.

"The Surgeon General has not been in any sort of worry on that proposition."

TEACHERS CHANGES.

The following recommendations from the teachers' Committee were adopted recently by the Board of Public Instruction:

That resignation of James Oliver, Ulupalakua school, be accepted.

That Mr. J. F. O'Corner be appointed principal Ulupalakua school vice James Oliver, at a salary of $600 a year.

That resignation of Miss Laughlin from a Waihole school be accepted to take effect February 1st.

That Mr. Baptist be transferred from Pohakupuka to be assistant at Honoum without change in salary.

That Mrs. Carvalho be promoted to vacancy caused by Miss Farquhar's resignation at a salary of $30 a month.

That Mrs. Swain be appointed assistant Pohakupuka school at a salary of $30 per month.

That the position made vacant by the resignation of Miss Marcos be not filled until number of pupils at Pahala warrant the appointment of a third teacher.

That the staff of teachers at the Waihoahu school be reduced to three.

That resignation of Miss Paty be accepted.

That Mrs. Clement be appointed assistant at Puunene at salary of $40 per month.

That Miss Pihl be transferred from Honokawai to be assistant at Lahaina in place of Newnes, transferred.

That Miss Ivy Richardson be appointed as teacher at Honokawai at a salary of $35 per month.

That application of Miss B. B. Taylor for life certificate be deferred pending further information.

That resignation of Geo. Kauhahao at Alae school be accepted

That Miss Iona be transferred from Napoopoo to Alae School to fill position made vacant by resignation of G. J. Kauhahao.

That no teacher be appointed at present to vacancy caused by Miss Iona's transfer.

That Miss M. E. Douglas be appointed substitute for Miss Anna Sorenson while she is out on leave of absence.

EX GOVERNOR AND FAMILY POISONED.

While at breakfast yesterday Ex governor Peabody and wife and daughter were poisoned.

ANARCHISTS EXECUTED.

Jewish anarchists executed at Warsaw—Eighty persons killed in mine explosion—Our delegates leave for Washington.

Sugar 3.61 Beets 8.24.

WARSAW Jan. 19.—Several Jewish members of local anarchist committee were executed today.

DENVER, Jan. 19.—Ex-Governor Peabody, wife and daughter were poisoned while at breakfast at their home yesterday. The daughter is dangerously ill.

CHARLESTON, Jan. 19.—In a coal mine explosion here eighty persons have been killed.

HONOLULU, Jan. 19.—Delegation leaves tomorrow at noon.

LONDON, January 16.—America will support Germany's contention for the open door and the international policing of Morocco.

This announcement puts a somewhat different face upon the Morocco problem, as will be seen by the following Associated Press dispatch printed in the last mainland papers received here.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 16.—The Supreme Court of California has denied the petition of State Senator Bunkers for a new trial.

Bunkers was one of four members of the upper house of the last California legislature indicted for boodling in an attempt to hold up the building and loan associations, whose affairs were under investigation by a committee of the legislative body. Bunkers was brought to trial, and was sentenced to a term in the penitentiary.

WASHINGTON, January 16.—Debate on the Philippine Bill closed in the House yesterday. Amendments will be offered today, and a vote will probably be taken on Wednesday. The Republican leaders are confident that the bill will pass without any amendments.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 15.—The Imperial Chinese Commission were busy today inspecting the U. S. military post at the Presidio, then the Cruiser Chicago, the flagship of the Pacific Squadron, and later the University of California at Berkeley. The Commissioners started East today.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 15.—James Brown Scott, of California, who has been Professor of Law at Columbia University, has been appointed Solicitor of the State Department.

BOSTON, January 15.—The overseers of Harvard University have issued an order forbidding inter-collegiate football until such time as the game is reformed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 15.—The resignation of General Adna R. Chaffee as chief of staff, has been accepted and General Bates succeeds to the head of the military staff of the army.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 15.—The nomination as chief of the Naval Bureau of Equipment of Captain U. T. Cowles, was sent to the Senate today.

It is probable that this is a mistake, as the only naval officer of the name is Captain W. S. Cowles, brother-in-law of President Roosevelt, who was in command of the battleship Missouri at the time of the explosion of one of her guns.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—Secretary of War Taft has declared that the transport service is weak. In his opinion it is insufficient to carry even the present military forces of the country in time of war.

The place from which this dispatch is dated is given in two gazettes at hand respectively as Chernigov and Tchernigov. It is the capital of a province of the same name toward the southwest of Russia and due north of the Black Sea. The province has more than 2,000,000 and the capital 70,000 population.

LONDON, January 4.—"So long as Germany confines her demands at the conference to opening Morocco to foreign trade on an equal basis there will be no difference of opinion at Algiciras," said an official of the Foreign Office today.

"There is some fear that the German delegates may insist on regulations clashing with what France considers her special privilege—for instance, the policing of the frontier. In fact, it is said in trustworthy circles that Germany may introduce a claim to placing German soldiers in Morocco. This France is certain to resist, and, under their agreement, Great Britain must uphold her contention. Otherwise there is no danger of a disagreement, but it is impossible to say what might happen, as Germany is maintaining the strictest secrecy regarding her intentions. The appointment of Count von Tattenbach-Aschold, the former special representative of Germany at Fez, as the second delegate of Germany at the conference, has perhaps weakened this feeling of confidence, as he is understood to be opposed to France's policy in Morocco."

Monstrous The action of governor Carter in withdrawing indeed. his support of Judge Robinson after once having endorsed his application meets with severe adverse criticism by a great majority of the leading citizens of Maui.

Attorney D. L. Withington strikes the right note in the Robinson matter in concluding a letter with the following language: "I desire to reiterate the thought that it is monstrous that the question whether a judge shall be reappointed should be determined in the slightest degree by the fact that he may have taken a drink of whiskey in his chambers while waiting all night in pursuance of the duty of receiving the verdict of a jury."

The evidence in the case quite clearly shows that nothing took place which should be called an "orgy," as it seems to have been described by the governor, except by use of the most reckless misstatement. It is perfectly clear that the governor was utterly wrong in cabling to Washington any charges against the judge and it is very hard to see how there can be any other result than a vindication of the judge, if all the evidence is received at Washington in time, as it presumably will be.

The governor apparently received his information from some one or other of a nest of spies and informers who are commonly reported to be engaged in the collection of such "information." Isn't it about time Governor Carter learned that such tale-bearing is unreliable? It is nothing less than amazing that an official in a high and responsible position should fling out serious charges against a member of the bench without any evidence to support them? Judge Robinson's conclusion that he has been spied upon steadily for a long time in the hope that something might be found upon which to attack his character is a very ugly one.

In view of the fact that nearly all business and professional men drink the little matter of one third of a bottle of Scotch for eight or ten attorneys is too small to merit serious consideration.

While we do not believe in drunkenness and believe the courts should command the highest respect; of all we fail to see wherein the judge has done one act that merits the action of Governor Carter.

New Machinery This week the Maui Publishing Company has installed new Machinery and equipments for making the highest grade of book binding and we solicit the trade of the island of Maui.

Our ruling machine is kept constantly busy and those for whom we have done work recently are giving us larger orders which is the best evidence that our work is good and prices all right.

Our stock for job work has principally been ordered through the Kahului Store and as our purchases are large we find we can give our patrons much better prices owing to the great saving made by buying from San Francisco through this firm.

As the company is composed of strictly local men, employs local men pays taxes for the up keep of the county we feel that we have good grounds for expecting liberal patronage from every resident of Maui who has work to be done in our line.

Our building has been painted inside and out. A new sign painted by George Stratemeyer and the office greatly improved by the work of J. A. Harris.

Every member of the office force takes pride in the greatly improved appearance and facilities for work and all are determined to make the establishment one of the essential institutions on Maui.

Attempted Coercion With this issue of the MAUI NEWS attention is called to the absence of the advertisement of the Iao Stables people and further that they are no longer subscribers to the NEWS.

A few weeks ago Antone Do Rego came into our office and requested the editor to published a statement to the effect that he had been arrested in Kahului and fined by District Magistrate W. A. McKay for violation of hack regulations at Kahului.

His story we considered a serious reflection upon the court and the police officer.

As we doubted the truth of the statements made and considered them improper for publication we refused to publish them where upon Mr. Do Rego threatened to take out his advertisement and stop his subscription unless we published his statement.

The advertisement has since been taken out and the paper stopped.

We acknowledged the right of any to subscribe for or discontinue any paper, to advertise wherever he pleases or not at all if he is so narrow minded in business but we feel sure too that the stockholders and friends of the NEWS will not increase the patronage who stoops to the level of attempting to force us to our courts and policemen for doing their duty.

times starch sugar, and its molasses and syrup "compound" taste just as well, are just as good food, and sell at about half the price of the genuine article. Again, the waste molasses from the mills there could not be used, but it would need to be the first or very best grade of molasses, and that is often none too good with the present system of reboiling low grade sugars with the syrup. Criminal Laws.

In my last Message I asked the attention of the Congress to the urgent need of action to make our criminal law more effective; and I most earnestly request that you pay heed to the report of the Attorney-General on this subject. Centuries ago it was especially needful to throw every safeguard round the accused. The danger then was lest he should be wronged by the state. The danger is now exactly the reverse. Our laws and customs tell immensely in favor of the criminal and against the interests of the public he has wronged. Some antiquated and outworn rules which once safeguarded the threatened rights of private citizens, now merely work harm to the general body politic. The criminal law of the United States stands in urgent need of revision. The criminal process of any court of the United States should run throughout the entire territorial extent of our country. The delays of the criminal law, no less than of the civil, now amount to a very great evil.

Breaches of trust in public service.

There seems to be no statute of the United States which provides for the punishment of a United States attorney or other officer of the Government who corruptly agrees to wrongfully do or wrongfully refrain from doing any act when the consideration for such corrupt agreement is other than one possessing money value. This ought to be remedied by appropriate legislation. Legislation should also be enacted to cover, explicitly, unequivocally and beyond question, breach of trust in the shape of prematurely divulging official secrets by an officer or employee of the United States, and to provide a suitable penalty therefor. Such officer or employee owes the duty to the United States to guard carefully and not to divulge or in any manner use, prematurely, information which is accessible to the officer or employee by reason of his official position. Most breaches of public trust are already covered by the law, and this one should be. It is impossible, no matter how much care is used, to prevent the occasional appointment to the public service of a man who when tempted proves unfaithful; but every means should be provided to detect and every effort made to punish the wrongdoer. So far as in my power lies each and every such wrongdoer shall be relentlessly hunted down; in no instance in the past has he been spared; in no instance in the future shall he be spared. His crime is a crime against every honest man in the Nation, for it is a crime against the whole body politic. Yet in dwelling on such misdeeds, it is unjust not to add that they are altogether exceptional, and that on the whole the employes of the Government render upright and faithful service to the people. There are exceptions, notably in one or two branches of the service; but at no time in the Nation's history has the public service of the Nation taken as a whole stood on a higher plane than now, alike as regards honesty and as regards efficiency.

Labor.

The National Government has as a rule but little occasion to deal with the formidable group of problems must be dealt with by the State and municipal authorities and not by the National Government. The National Government has control of the District of Columbia, however, and it should see to it that the City of Washington is made a model city in all respects, both as regards parks, public playgrounds, proper regulation of the system of housing so as to do away with the evils of all tenements, a proper system of education, a proper system of dealing with truancy and juvenile offenders, a proper handling of the charitable work of the District. Moreover, there should be proper factory laws to prevent all abuses in the employment of women and children in the District. These will be useful chiefly as object lessons, but even this limited amount of usefulness would be of real national value.

There has been demand for depriving courts of the power to issue injunctions in labor disputes. Such special limitation of the equity powers of our courts would be most unwise. It is true that some judges have misused this power; but this does not justify the denial of the power any more than an improper exercise of the power to call a strike by a labor leader would justify the denial of the right to strike. The remedy is to regulate the procedure by requiring the judge to give due notice to the adverse parties before granting the writ, the hearing to be ex parte if the adverse party does not appear at the time and place ordered. What is due notice must depend upon the facts of the case; it should not be used as a pretext to permit violation of law, or the jeopardizing of life or property. Of course, this would not authorize the issuing of a restraining order or injunction in any case in which it is not already authorized by existing law.

I renew the recommendation I made in my last annual Message for an investigation by the Department of Commerce and Labor of general conditions, especial attention to be paid to the conditions of child labor and child labor legislation in the several States. Such an investigation should take into account the various problems with which the question of child labor is connected. It is true that these problems can be actually met in most cases only by the States themselves, but it would be well for the Nation to endeavor to secure and publish comprehensive information as to the conditions of the labor of children in the different States, so as to spur up those that are behindhand, and to secure approximately uniform legislation of a high character among the several States. In such a Republic as ours the one thing that we can not afford to neglect is the problem of turning out decent citizens. The future of the Nation depends upon the citizens of the generations to come. The children of to-day are those who to-morrow will shape the destiny of our land, and we can not afford to neglect them. The legislature of Colorado has recommended that the National Government provide some general measure for the protection from abuse of children and dumb animals throughout the United States. I lay the matter before you for what I trust will be favorable consideration.

The Department of Commerce and Labor should also make a thorough investigation of the conditions of women in industry. Over five million American women are now engaged in gainful occupations; yet there is an almost complete dearth of data upon which to base any trustworthy conclusions as regards subject as important as it is vast and complicated. There is need of full knowledge on which to base action looking toward State and municipal legislation for the protection of working women. The introduction of women into industry is working a change and disturbance in the domestic and the social life of the Nation. The decrease in marriage, and especially in the birth rate, has been coincident with it. We must face accomplished facts, and the adjustment to factory conditions must be made; but surely it can be made with less friction and less harmful effects on family life than is now the case. This whole matter in reality forms one of the greatest sociological phenomena of our time; it is a social question of the first importance, of far greater importance than any merely political or economic question can be; and to solve it we need ample data, gathered in a sane and scientific spirit in the course of an exhaustive investigation.

In any great labor disturbance not only are employer and employee interested, but also a third party—the general public. Every considerable labor difficulty in which interstate commerce is involved should be investigated by the Government and the facts officially reported to the public.

The question of securing a healthy, self-respecting, and mutually sympathetic attitude as between employer and employee, capitalist and wage-worker, is a difficult one. All phases of the labor problem prove difficult when approached. But the underlying principles, the root principles, in accordance with which the problem must be solved are entirely simple. We can get justice and right dealing only if we put as of paramount importance the principle of treating a man on his worth as a man rather than with reference to his social position, his occupation, or the class to which he belongs. There are selfish and brutal men in all ranks of life.

The Panama Canal.

The treaty between the United States and the Republic of Panama, under which the construction of the Panama Canal was made possible, went into effect with its ratification by the United States Senate on February 23, 1904. The canal properties of the French Canal Company were transferred to the United States on April 23, 1904, on payment of $40,000,000 to that company. On April 1, 1905, the Commission was reorganized, and it now consists of Theodore P. Shonts, chairman Charles E. Magoon, Benjamin M. Harrod, Rear Admiral Mordecai T. Endicott, Brig. Gen. Peter C. Hains, and Col. Oswald H. Ernst. John F. Stevens was appointed chief engineer on July 1 last. Active work in canal construction, mainly preparatory, has been in progress for less than a year and a half. During that period two points about the canal have ceased to be open to debate. First, the question of route; the canal will be built on the Isthmus of Panama. Second, the question of feasibility there are no physical obstacles on this route that American engineering skill will not be able to overcome without serious difficulty, or that will prevent the completion of the canal within a reasonable time and at a reasonable cost. This is virtually the unanimous testimony of the engineers who have investigated the matter for the Government.

The point which remains unsettled is the question of type, whether the canal shall be one of several locks above sea level, or of at sea level with a single tide locks. On this point I hope to lay before the Congress at an early day the findings of the Advisory Board of American and European Engineers, that at my invitation have been considering the subject, together with the report of the Commission thereon; and such comments thereon or recommendations in reference thereto as may seem necessary.

fessor Voigt before the Natural Science Society of Hamburg, Germany. He said:

"The Mahwa, as a nut-bearing tree, has been known for many ages. In the Laws of Manu the priesthood of India are forbidden to indulge in madhvi, a fiery liquor made from the fruit, and in the Collection of Indian Remedies, by Suruta, we are told that the tree yields a sugary paste, from which a fermented drink is made.

"It belongs to the sapotaceae [star-apple family], the family to which belongs the very important gutta-percha tree of the Malay Archipelago, and is found only in the northern border of India, where it grows clear to the foot of the mighty Himalayas. It grows from 50 to 65 feet high, and is one of the few deciduous trees of that region. Its blooming period lasts from the end of February till April. Quickly after the pollen is formed, the whitish tubular flowers swell to balls about as large as a cherry, which contain a large amount of invert sugar (honey). The flower tubes fall, covering the ground in the greatest profusion. They are eagerly gathered by the natives and eaten. A tree yields from 200 to 300 pounds of flowers, which, when dry weigh about half as much.

"The land is leased to the natives, and as the region where it grows is of a poor and stony soil, the tree constitutes an important source of food.

"The fruit is usually mixed with rice and thuseaten. The dried flowers have very much the taste and appearance of raisins. They are exported to Europe as a curiosity, and are also used as food for animals. Distillation yields a large percentage of spirits, which diluted with water makes 'davu,' a native whisky very much used. It comes on the market in oaken barrels, and is highly esteemed by Europeans, who claim that it equals the best whisky. Almost every village has its distillery. In the island Carougo, just outside of Bombay, some 60,000 to 80,000 rupees are invested in stills alone.

"Beside the flowers the seed are of considerable use. They contain a fat of butter-like consistency, which serves as a food stuff. It is called 'mowra,' and the crude stuff is known as ilipe, and is used by the Europeans largely for making candles, soaps, etc. The wood is very hard and lasting, and is much used for making the wheels of the native bullock carts."

Naturalization Laws.

During the past year evidence has accumulated to confirm the expressions contained in my last two annual Messages as to the importance of revising by appropriate legislation our system of naturalizing aliens. I appointed last March a commission to make a careful examination of our naturalization laws, and to suggest appropriate measures to avoid the serious abuses resulting from the improvident or unlawful granting of citizenship. This commission, composed of an officer of the Department of State, of the Department of Justice, and of the Department of Commerce and Labor, has discharged the duty imposed upon it, and has submitted a report, which will be transmitted to the Congress for its consideration, and I hope, for its favorable action.

The distinguishing recommendations of the Commission are:

First. A Federal bureau of naturalization, to be established in the Department of Commerce and Labor, to supervise the administration of the naturalization laws and to receive returns of naturalizations pending and accomplished.

Second. Uniformity of naturalization certificates, fees to be charged, and procedure.

Third. More exacting qualifications for citizenship.

Fourth. The preliminary declaration of intention to be abolished and no alien to be naturalized until at least ninety days after the filing of his petition.

Fifth. Jurisdiction to naturalize aliens to be confined to United States district courts and to such State courts as have jurisdiction in civil actions in which the amount in controversy is unlimited; in cities of over 100,000 inhabitants the United States district courts to have exclusive jurisdiction in the naturalization of the alien residents of such cities.

Shanghaiing on the Chesapeake.

The investigation of the death of three longshoremen on an oyster dredge near Deal Island, Md., under circumstances which indicate to newspaper observers that they had been foully dealt with by their masters, has brought to light the startling fact that a veritable system of "white salvery" prevails in the oyster business in the upper waters of Chesapeake Bay. The newspapers, and particularly the Philadelphia Press, have added volumes of evidence showing that the oyster boat captains have not only treated their men with great brutality and injustice, but that they also recruit their crews by "shanghaiing," through unscrupulous characters under the guise of shipping agents, the outcasts and unfortunate who haunt the river fronts of Philadelphia and New York. This nefarious trade and outrageous practice are spoken of as having been going on for a long time. The Philadelphia Telegraph says that "the tales of brutal coercion and even murder which are now being told are simply repetitions of what has been told for years." Gov. Edwin Warfield, of Maryland, who is now taking steps to put an end to the evil, speaks of "the wholesale taking of life, and inhuman and almost barbarous treatment of men regularly enrolled as seamen aboard oyster-boats" as common practice of long standing which has cost "more than three thousand lives;" and the Philadelphia Inquirer remarks:

"There is really nothing unique about the stories of brutality that come out of Chesapeake Bay. Some instances where men have been shanghaiing and driven to their deaths on the Baltimore oyster-boats have just come to light in such a manner as to hold the attention of the public, that is all. As a matter of fact this sort of thing has been going on for many years. Outrageous treatment of the men, cruelties almost beyond belief, murders that have been common enough—this constitutes the normal life aboard a Chesapeake oyster dredger.

"All this has been known to the authorities, and yet nothing has been done. It is the shame of Maryland. The old sea tales of the period when the oceans were plowed by sailing-vessels and steamships were unknown were always filled with the horrors of life before the mast under brutal captives, but even buccaneering days could not furnish examples of cruelties more atrocious than to day accompany the search for oysters in the Chesapeake. So difficult has it become to secure crews that men are lured to Baltimore from Philadelphia; that raw immigrants just landed on the docks are drugged and thrown aboard an oysterman and driven to work under blows.

"This inhuman, this barbarous system has never been broken up. Under the noses of the authorities in Baltimore shanghaiing has been going on. The stories of cruelty brought back by half starved and badly battered crews have gone for naught. Baltimore has been content to let matters alone. The States of Maryland can maintain an oyster navy to drive boats from forbidden grounds and to prevent Virginia dredgers from encroaching on Maryland territory, but there is never any time to search out the brutes who commit crimes and carry on in so high-handed a manner."

The oyster dredging business is now at its height; and Marshal Langhammer, of Baltimore, reports that large numbers of impressed and maltreated seamen have escaped and come to him asking for assistance, justice, and revenge. "The stories I have heard from the lips of these poor wretches," says the marshal, "have been heartrending;" and they convince him that the rumors of brutality aboard the oyster fleet are not exaggerated. "The wrongs which seem to be most commonly perpetrated by these 'iron hearted, hard-fisted sea wolves of the Chesapeake' upon their employees are underfed, overwork, threaten, beat, and whip them, and finally to cast them ashore without paying them the wages agreed upon. The methods resorted to by the shipping agents to lure the shanghaiing seamen aboard are graphically illustrated by the following story related by a man named Grim, who was 'crimped' by an agent in Philadelphia. Says this victim, as quoted in The Press of that city:

"I was engaged by a runner in the shipping office in Front Street, below Walnut. There were about twelve of us who were taken out to the Baltimore & Ohio station. Before going there they gave us some rum—that was the worst stuff I ever tasted. On the way to Baltimore half the men were drunk. When we reached Baltimore we were hustled into a wagon and taken to an office, where tin cups of rum were again given us. Then we were taken aboard a small launch and brought to the oyster-boat. We were no sooner on the boat before the captain and his two sons began their brutal treatment. The captain had a double-barreled shotgun, and day after day he threatened to throw us overboard. William Merz, who came from this city, was on the boat, and was sick from the first. He would have died in the hold of the vessel if we had not made a determined stand to have him sent ashore.

They gave him water to drink in which cabbage had been boiled two days before. Another man was sick, when the captain dragged him across a pile of oysters by the neck. He declared that if he didn't stop playing sick he would send him where he couldn't see daylight. A negro on board was assaulted by the captain's son and was brutally beaten and kicked."

The Philadelphia Press declares in its report on the situation that it is openly charged in Maryland that political influence is largely responsible for the long toleration of the Chesapeake Bay outrages. "In many instances," says The Press, "State officials have shielded the guilty captains." Other papers are also inclined to take this view, and furthermore seem to think that on account of the great political power which is possessed by the men engaged in the oyster dredging business, the State of Maryland will be unable single-handed to suppress the trouble. Hence a call has been made upon the Federal Government for assistance, which Government Warfield has heartily endorsed in the following words:

"As Governor of the State of Maryland I will welcome an opportunity to confer with President Roosevelt, Governor Pennypacker, and any other State or Federal officials who wish to see eliminated a despicable system, unparalleled for brutality."

Parts of the Presidents message.

Through the courtesy of Delegate Kalaniana'ole we are in receipt of the presidents message parts of which we herewith give. To the Senate and House of Representatives:

The people of the country continue to enjoy great prosperity. Undoubtedly there will be ebb and flow in such prosperity, and this ebb and flow will be felt more or less by all members of the community, both by the deserving and the undeserving. Against the wrath of the Lord the wisdom of man can not avail; in times of flood or drought human ingenuity can but partially repair the disaster. A general failure of crops would hurt all of us. Again, if the folly of man mars the general well-being, then those who are innocent of the folly will have to pay part of the penalty incurred by those who are guilty of the folly. A panic brought on by the speculative folly of part of the business community would hurt the whole business community. But such stoppage of welfare, though it might be severe, would not be lasting. In the long run the one vital factor in the permanent prosperity of the country is the high individual character of the average American worker, the average American citizen, no matter whether his work be mental or manual, whether he be farmer or wage-worker, business man or professional man.

In our industrial and social system the interests of all men are so closely intertwined that in the immense majority of cases a straight dealing man who by his efficiency, by his ingenuity and industry, benefits himself must also benefit others. Normally the man of great productive capacity who becomes rich by guiding the labor of many other men does so by enabling them to produce more than they could produce without his guidance; and both he and they share in the benefit, which comes also to the public at large. The superficial fact that the sharing may be unequal must never blind us to the underlying fact that there is this sharing, and that the benefit comes in some degree to each man concerned. Normally the wage worker, the man of small means, and the average consumer, as well as the average producer, are all alike helped by making conditions such that the man of exceptional business ability receives an exceptional reward for his ability. Something can be done by legislation to help the general prosperity; but no such help of a permanently beneficial character can be given to the less able and less fortunate, save as the results of a policy which shall inure to the advantage of all industrious and efficient people who act decently; and this is only another way of saying that any benefit which comes to the less able and less fortunate must of necessity come even more to the more able more fortunate. If, therefore, the less fortunate man is moved by envy of his more fortunate brother to strike at the conditions under which they have both, though unequally, prospered, the result will assuredly be that while damage may come to the one struck at, it will visit with an even heavier load the one who strikes the blow. Taken as a whole we must all go up or go down together.

Hawaii

In my judgment immediate steps should be taken for the fortification of Hawaii. This is the most important point in the Pacific to fortify in order to conserve the interests of this country. It would be hard to overstate the importance of this need. Hawaii is too heavily taxed. Laws should be enacted setting aside for a period of, say, twenty years 75 per cent of the internal revenue and customs receipts from Hawaii as a special fund to be expended in the islands for educational and public buildings, and for harbor improvements and military and naval defenses. It can not be too often repeated that our aim must be to develop the Territory of Hawaii on traditional American lines. That Territory has serious commercial and industrial problems to reckon with; but no measure of relief can be considered which looks to legislation admitting Chinese and restricting them by statute to field labor and domestic service. The status of servility can never again be tolerated on American soil. We can not concede that the proper solution of its problems is special legislation admitting to Hawaii a class of laborers denied admission to the other States and Territories. There are obstacles, and great obstacles, in the way of building up a representative American community in the Hawaiian Islands; but it is not in the American character to give up in the face of difficulty. Many an American Commonwealth has been built up against odds equal to those that now confront Hawaii.

No merely half-hearted effort to meet its problems as other American communities have met theirs can be accepted as final. Hawaii shall never become a Territory in which a governing class of rich planters exists by means of coolie labor. Even if the rate of growth of the Territory is thereby rendered slower, the growth must only take place by the admission of immigrants fit in the end to assume the duties and burdens of full American citizenship. Our aim must be to develop the Territory on the same basis of stable citizenship as exists on this continent.

LOCALS

Wanted—in Wailuku one or two first class dress makers and seamstresses.

The Maui Publishing Co. has made many improvements in its office recently.

The whole building has been repainted inside and out. The office rearranged and is now much lighter cooler and convenient than before.

The News received a new book binding press and implements for doing all kinds of book binding this week.

Our book binder is a skillful workman of many years experience and does the best work.

Archdeacon Jeffries will preach at the Church of the Good Shepherd on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Carefully read all the advertisements in the News. They are good and deserve the patronage of Maui people.

The Kahului Store is just what it claims to be. Read their new ad. each week and then go and see for yourself.

The Wailuku Fruit Market has a full line of fresh fruits. Next week they will have Pure Kona Coffee.

Have you tried the groceries at the Wailuku Cash Store? Their prices are low and their goods excellent.

Dickie Davis was seen Friday morning and assured us that the kona blew the Maui Wine & Liquor Co. in a full line of goods.

The Ladies' Guild of Wailuku will meet at the home of Mrs. J. H. Raymond Tuesday January 23rd. All members are requested to be present. Special business. Mrs. J. N. S. Williams president. Mrs. F. Nicholson Treasurer.

Return the Bills.

So far as known there is nothing in the county act providing that the auditor of the Territory shall contract bills for printing and supplies to be paid for by the county, and yet only last week Auditor Maguire received something like forty-five dollars worth of printing from Honolulu that had been ordered by Auditor Fisher without any request from the county officials or the Board of Supervisors. If the territorial officials desire to devise forms there may be no objections to their being sent here for printing, but there is no reason why the officials should butt in further than to suggest. His printing offices can take care of the work and to the satisfaction of their customers.—Hawaii Herald.

It is our impression that the County officials of Maui are quite as competent to conduct the county affairs as the Territorial officials are to conduct the affairs of the territory and we still hold to that belief.

The quotation from the Herald shows that the territorial Auditor hasn't yet learned that he is not the whole thing and the sooner he is called down the better.

Not only has Hawaii a kick but Maui also against the Auditor for Assuming authority that is foreign to his duties.

The board of supervisors should order any supplies they deem necessary and not the Territorial Auditor.

Incidental we may say that our office is equipped to do all classes of ruling printing and binding and being a local establishment employing local men, and paying taxes for the county of Maui we assert that as long as our work and prices are satisfactory we should at least have an opportunity of doing the work.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Thursday Nights Kona.

A kona of unusual severity swept over Maui Thursday night blowing down trees, carrying away shutters, laying flames and fences low and otherwise playing the very mischief throughout the whole island.

So high was the wind that the inmates of the jail had to be removed to the court house for safety as it was feared the building would fall.

On Friday morning the building was observed to be twisted and out of plum.

The wall around the jail was laid to the ground and the yard full of limbs blown off the trees.

The awnings of the Maui Hotel were every one riddled and some of the window panes blown out.

Shutters from the New Cash Store were blown across the street and the new sign blown down and ruined.

Large trees were blown down across the street blocking the way but were soon removed.

About one thousand five hundred feet of cane flume was blown down for the Wailuku Sugar Co. on the Wailuku division principally that high flume which extends from the Waihee road to the water tanks of the Mill and again from the Waihee road up the Iao Valley.

The higher fence around the catholic sisters school was blown down and lies in the edge of the road

About the only thing not damaged by the wind was Dan Careys anvil which was still in its place and on duty the next day.

At Kahului part of the lumber shed was blown down and some of the roof of the Custom house carried away.

The telephone lines are down every where but the force are sure to have the system in good working order soon.

In the time of storm is when the boys show their worth.

LAHAINA LINES.

Edward Dunn has returned to his studies in St. Louis College, Honolulu. He has recently displayed his artistic skill in copying a picture of Christ in Gethsemane, by H. Hofmann. Some good judges have pronounced the copy better than the original.

George Dunn is a pupil in the Brothers' School in Wailuku.

Joshua D. Tucker, a very prominent member of the Masonic Fraternity in Honolulu, was visiting his friends in Lahaina last week. He has received the highest honors in the Scottish Rite.

Miss Dow, the eldest daughter of John Dow, is recuperating under treatment in the hospital at Puenene.

Many persons are asking where the Lahaina Bank will be located.

[It will be located on the site of the old bakery opposite the Meat Market of W. L. Decoto. Ed]

There were copious showers on Sunday night and on Monday.

The extensive improvements at the Wo Hing Club House having been nearly completed, a bountiful dinner was served on Tuesday afternoon, under the direction of President Ah Yu of Kaanapali. Among the guests were a number of prominent gentlemen, irrespective of nationality or religion. The menu was quite tempting, and there was an abundance for all. A leading member of the Honolulu Wo Hing Society arrived last week, and was present during the festivities.

There is a hopeful prospect of a plentiful supply of electric power from Kauaui gulch. A drop of about 1200 feet will furnish tremendous power. This may be utilized for running a new and more powerful engine at the Lahaina Station; and also for lighting the town with electricity.

All persons who have bought tickets for the entertainment that was to occur last year at the Lahaina Catholic Church can have their money returned, by presenting their tickets at the Mission, during January or February.

Father Julian, who was in charge of the Lahaina Roman Catholic Church for three years and a half, and was then transferred to Wailuku, is now assigned to duty at Kau, Hawaii. Father Maximin of Hana goes to the Wailuku Church.

The Schooner Ada arrived on Wednesday. It is understood that she will carry freight regularly between Lahaina and Honolulu, making two round trips every week, unless prevented by bad weather or other unavoidable causes.

UP COUNTRY NOTES.

The literary given last Friday evening at Maunaloa Seminary was well attended and a short but very entertaining program was presented. The vocal selections by the Rev. Ault and Rev. Bazata were well rendered and were heartily applauded.

A one act farce entitled "Plover out of season" was one of the chief features of the program and the characters were all well sustained.

Miss Sheffield, W. O. Aiken F. P. Rosecrans and David Flemming were the ones taking part in the farce and all carried their parts off well. Some recitations by Mr. Wren Westcott were greatly appreciated by the audience.

After the program was finished light refreshments were served and there was a short informal dance.

Mr. Catton of Catton Neil & Co. has been on Maui the past week on business.

Miss Bethel of Honolulu has taken a position at the Puenene Hospital. Mrs. W. P. L. Bett and two children left for Honolulu Wednesday by the Claudine.

V. L. Boeck and family will occupy the house just vacated by Mrs. Bett and J. B. Thomson will move into the house formerly occupied by Mr. Boeck.

Two Wilson and Webster cane loaders are in operation on the H. C. & S. Co. plantation and have proven quite successful. Loaders of the same type have been in use at Ewa for some time past.

H. W. Baldwin of Kahului and Miss Agnes Flemming of Makawao were married at the Paia Church Wednesday evening. A reception was held at the home of the brides sister Mrs. W. S. Nicoll.

Mrs. Jas. Molony of Lahaina is visiting Puenene friends this week.

Their Goal.

Despite the fact that Northern New England is a stronghold of temperance, if not of prohibition, temperance lecturers sometimes go there and encourage the faithful. One such speaking in Keene, N. H. reminded his hearers of the story of Dives and Lazarus. The lecturer pointed out how when Dives was in hades he did not ask for beer or wine or liquor, but for one drop of water.

"Now, my friends," said the lecturer, "what does that show us?" A voice from the back of the hall instantly replied: "It shows us where you temperance people go to."—New York Tribune.

Love Under Difficulties.

Two young gentlemen met a few evenings ago, at the house of an acquaintance, some young ladies, for one of whom both gentlemen entertained tender feelings. In a spirit of frolic one of the young ladies turned out the lights, and our two friends, thinking it a favorable moment to make known the state of their feelings to the fair object of their regard, moved seats at the same instant, and placed themselves, as they supposed, by the lady's side; but she had also moved, and the gentlemen were in reality next each other. As our friends could not whisper without betraying their whereabouts, they both gently took the soft little hand of the charmer, and when, after a while, they ventured to give a tender pressure, each was enraptured to find it returned with an unmistakable squeeze. It may well be imagined that the moments flew rapidly in this silent interchange of mutual affection. But the rest wondering at the unusual silence of the gentlemen, one of them noiselessly slipped out and suddenly returned with a light. There sat our friends, most lovingly squeezing each other's hands and supreme delight beaming in their eyes. Their consternation and the ecstasy of the ladies may be imagined, but not described. Both gentlemen bolted, and one was afterwards heard to say that he "thought all the while Miss Black's hand felt rather hard."—Tit-Bits.

A gentlemen whose temper is easily disturbed was traveling in England recently and was much annoyed at the reply given him at a railroad station. The gentlemen, noticing his baggage, properly addressed, was left on the platform, called out: "Why didn't you put my luggage in as I told you, you old fool?" "Eh, mon, yer luggage is na sic a fule as yersel," answered the porter; "ye're' the wrang train."—Philadelphia Ledger.
