Only One Ball Game

J. A. C. Forfeited to Puunene and Scratch Contest Was Played For Crowd.

RESULTS.

Puunene and a picked team played 5 innings and the score was tied with 6 runs each.

Stars beat Lahaina, score 5 to 3; 10 innings.

The J. A. C. team has withdrawn from the series, and the Puunenes therefore were credited with a win.

On Sunday last there was only one game in the regular Maui League baseball series. The Japanese forfeited to the Puunenes and the spectators were kept in a good humor by a game being arranged between a picked nine and the Puunenes.
The regular game of the series, between the Stars and the Lahainas went ten innings before the winning runs were made by the Wailuku outfit.
It was a good game and the rooters got very busy right at the start.

The withdrawal of the J. A. C. has been anticipated for some time.
The Nipponese found that they were not nearly strong enough to play against the rest of the teams. They, however, kept going for a while and

Supervisors In Session

Once more the County Supervisors have gotten through their regular monthly duties and, although there was nothing exciting during the days the solons labored, there was a good deal of solid work done.

Reports of all kinds were read and adopted. Bills were passed for payment, and many details were attended to. Leave of absence, without pay, was given District Overseer Decoto, of Lahaina, and Mr.
Wilhelm was appointed to hold down the position during Mr. De-coto's absence.

A. E. Brunne was appointed County Engineer—without pay—and orders were given to have the words "County Engineer" inserted in the general condition in the contract for the construction of the road on the west side of Kakipi Gulch, instead of the words "District Overseer." The bond of Hugh Howell for the contract for the work on the same job, was accepted.

The board took up the consideration of the tenders for supplies and, in one instance, it was found that three firms had offered to supply poi at the same price. The old system was to buy poi from one firm for four weeks, and then to switch over to the others, in turn, for a like period. Strange to say, the prisoners, who consume most of the poi, split on the question of which poi was the best, and each month there would be kicks by one faction or the other. The matter has now been attended to and those who eat the poi will have no chance to compare one lot with any other.

Seed Farm At Haiku

Professor Krauss is Raising Wonderful Crops on His Homestead—Fine Corn.

Prof. F. G. Krauss, of the College of Hawaii, who is one of the homesteaders at Haiku, does not expect to develop his homestead entirely along the line of pineapples, as most of the settlers are doing. While he has some five acres in pines, which are doing well, he also has a similar area planted to corn and various kinds of leguminous crops—cow peas, soy beans, jack beans, etc.
These crops are now maturing, and Prof. Krauss, who has just come over since the close of the College year, is exceedingly well pleased with the results.

It is Prof. Krauss' ambition to establish a seed farm—one upon which he can produce high grade seeds suited especially to the condition in this Territory. It is a well known fact, as he points out, that few plants brought directly from the mainland, do their best until they have become acclimated, and this takes time and careful selection. In the corn which he has produced, however, it would be difficult to imagine anything much better than some which he has to show. This was grown from high grade pedigree seed bred for twelve

Threat to Kill Husband

What might have been a tragedy, was nipped in the bud by the suspicions of the man in the case, last Monday evening, down at Kahului.
Mrs. Kaleionehu Makahio is said by the police to have threatened to "give her husband something" while, at the same time, she held a loaded revolver in her hand. The woman was arrested and was admitted to bail in the sum of $100.

It appears that there had been a family row, and that the husband went inside the house to get away from the woman. She is alleged to have secured his revolver, and to have then stepped on the verandah and invited him to come out. The invitation was declined when the husband found that his "gun" was missing from the bedroom.

Some friends also warned the husband that his wife had the revolver.
The police were called, and the woman was taken away to a place where she can do no damage.

Pheasants Are Thriving

Japanese pheasants are being distributed all over Maui and lately thirty-six were released—eighteen at Iao Valley, nine at Waihee and a like number at Kahakuloa. The birds are said to be doing well and, although they are very shy, some peeps at them have been obtained lately.

Last year a couple of dozen were let go at Makawao, and early this year a bunch were released at Honolulu and over on Molokai. A number of pheasants are coming for the Hana district and, in all, fifty birds are expected from Japan within a short time from now.

Pvormann Feared War Between Japan and U. S.— Charlie Maguire Was Helped Many Times by Father—Hard Times Predicted.

(Special Correspondence)

HONOLULU, June 20—The sentence of Charlie Maguire to a prison term is the finale to a career of crooked actions, interspersed with lucid moments of honest intent.
Maguire was weak and so remains.
He had the extravagant ideas which fall to the lot of the average son of the rich man, with not always the means for satisfying an expensive thirst for pleasure. Several times had the father been called on to "make good" for the son, and each time he came through. Even in 1897, a year after Charlie took office he fell short and the father helped him through, the last time the spark plug failed to work and pater backfired—probably because circumstances would not permit so long a reach. Charlie was a good spender, and he didn't care what happened because he did not think it was going to happen him.

Rapid Fire Court Doings

All records were smashed last Wednesday when the Circuit Court convened at Lahaina. The Grand Jury was on hand and, after hearing the facts of three cases, as given by Deputy County Attorney Vincent, returned three indictments.
The prisoners at once pleaded guilty, and Judge Kingsbury sentenced them within a few minutes. The whole proceedings only took part of the day and the Judge, Jury and Attorneys were all back in Wailuku early in the afternoon.

The indictments returned were:
Ah Hoong, burglary, second degree; Kudeden Kenko, burglary, second, and William Kaholokai, burglary first degree. The first two were each sentenced to no less than two years and no more than five years jail. The third man was given a sentence of not less than one year and no more than three years.

The jury charge of Judge Kingsbury is given elsewhere. It was listened to with interest, and the remark was made that it was one of the best the Judge has ever delivered.
The court adjourned till Thursday next at 10 a. m., when the Trial Jury will take up a couple of cases.

Second Prize For Tennis

In order to increase the interest in the championship doubles tournament for the Harry Baldwin Cups, the generous donor has decided to donate two additional prizes for the runners-up in the competition.
Therefore, the pair that gets into the finals, but do not capture the premier honors, will be consoled with a racquet each. That is some of the right kind of consolation, too, and the tournament now appeals more than ever to the tennis players of Maui.

The entries for the tournament close on June 25—next Wednesday —and the players who wish to have a stab at the affair, had better get busy and put their names down.

The doubles championship of Maui is a very important contest and the tournament will settle, for a time, any dispute there may have been as to which pair is the strongest on this island. There has never been much doubt as to that—at least for some time past—and Myers and Richardson are thought to be "it." The pair certainly, were very weak last August, in the big match against Honolulu, but that must have been their off day.

Licenses Are All Issued

On Thursday last the Board of License Commissioners met at Kahului, and considered the applications from sixteen persons and corporations for permission to sell liquor—either wholesale, retail or in restaurants. All the applications were granted and they are as follows:

First Class, Wholesale—The Maui Wine & Liquor Co., Ltd., Wailuku.
The Kaupakalua Wine & Liquor Co., Ltd., Pauwela. The Kahului Wholesale Liquor Co., Ltd., Kahului. The Pioneer Hotel Co., Ltd., Lahaina. J. M. Medeiros, Paia.

Second Class, Hotel—Pioneer Hotel, Lahaina. W. H. Field, Maui Hotel, Wailuku.

Second Class, Saloon—Chinfi Jip, Waiakoa, Maui. G. G. Seong, Lahaina. Ah Ping, Kipahulu. L. Y.

bo, Wailuku.

With the exception of J. N. S.
Williams, the whole board was present at the meeting. The board consisted of D. C. Lindsay, C. D.
Lufkin, Pia Cockett, and George Copp.

New Plans For Fourth

Excursionist Can "Do" Races, Visit Haleakala, and See Maui's Beauties.

Great preparations are being made for the excursions from Honolulu for Maui's Fourth. The final arrangements are that the Inter-Island Steamship Company will despatch the Mauna Kea, at ten o'clock on the evening of July 3, for Kahului. Those who simply make the trip to see the races, will be able to return to Honolulu on the same steamer, which is scheduled to leave Kahului at six o'clock in the evening of the Fourth.

The most important matter in connection with the excursion, however, is the fact that the people who care to, can come to Maui on the Mauna Kea and return to "town" on the Claudine which will leave Kahului for Honolulu on Saturday, July 5, at 4 p. m. During their stay on Maui, the excursionists will have the following delightful program handed out to them: Upon

Tournament Is Finished

At last the big tournament at Kahului, for the Puunene Store cups, is finished, and Myers and Richardson, playing from scratch, turned out to be winners. The pair played good tennis right through the tournament and, by beating Maclaren and Savage in the finals, cinched the two beautiful trophies for one year at least.

The tournament was one of the largest ever played off on Maui and the entry list was composed of the best players on the island. The affair was a handicap competition, and the consequence was that most of the matches were very closely contested.

On Wednesday afternoon there was a large crowd of tennis lovers at the Kahului courts, and the interest taken in the final struggle of the tournament was very keen. The earth court was used, and it played very well right through the contest.

The score of the match in the finals was as follows: Myers and Richardson beat Savage and Maclaren: 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

"All Aboard" July Fourth

Entries for the horse races of July Fourth will close on Wednesday next at 9 p. m., at the Maui Hotel.
It is expected that there will be a large list for each event, and that the owners of nags from the other islands will be represented in person, or by proxies.

From all appearances, the Fourth is going to be a memorable one, notwithstanding the gloomy outlook as regards the sugar situation.

The real spirit of Hawaii—especially Maui—will be abroad, and the Mauians and all their island friends will have the time of their lives.

There was a meeting of the Maui Racing Association last night, and many details were arranged. The matter of the visit of the Oahu ball team was also taken up and arrangements were made for the entertainment of the visitors.

New Store Opens Today

Everybody Invited to the "M. D. G." Show This Evening—History of Firm.

This evening the Maui Dry Goods & Grocery Co., Ltd., celebrates the opening of its new store in Wailuku, and everybody is cordially invited to join the many patrons of this progressive firm in making a call at any time today, between the hours of 4 and 11:30 P. M.

Many of the kamaainas in and about Wailuku will remember the late A. J. Rodrigues, who conducted a small corner grocery store.
Mr. Rodrigues died in April 1904, leaving his Estate in a rather bad way. While his assets slightly more than covered his liabilities, these assets were largely in the shape of real estate and buildings, which could not be converted into cash so easily. Just about the time of Mr. Rodrigues' death, the creditors were rather pressing him for funds. His liabilities amounted to about $9,000 with assets of about $10,000. Upon his death, the business was entrusted to J.
Garcia who conceived the idea of incorporating the firm, not however, until after the liabilities had been reduced to about $7,000.

With a little insurance money which Mrs. Rodrigues received, Mr. Garcia set about soliciting stock subscriptions for his new corporation—this was early in 1905. When the stock list was completed, incorporation papers were made up and the new organization started out on its career in May 1905.

At the preliminary meeting, Mr.
Garcia assured his stockholders that should the company do a business of $2,000 per month, it would be able to pay its stockholders a fair dividend out of its profits.

Many Affairs Attended To

Several complaints have been made regarding the ditch that leads into Market street, through the premises of Joe Do Rego and Novite, and the board of supervisors, at their last meeting, instructed the County Clerk to communicate with Mr. Penhallow regarding the matter.

The supervisors also attended to the petition of several people who prayed that the board extend Vineyard Street, through the land of W.
T. Robinson, to North street. The solons informed the petitioners that the right of way to the land would cost a prohibitive sum, and that the County could not see its way clear to tackle the project.

The County Engineer was instructed to survey the proposed road on the Kuiaha tract, and Carlton C. James, who had written the board on the subject, was informed of the action to be taken.

Lahaina wants a baseball ground and the solons are writing to the Governor about the matter. The proposition is that some government land be exchanged for a piece of plantation property, as there is no available flat land owned by the government.

Bids for the supplying of school furniture are to be called for and the tenders will be opened on July 9.

CHARGE TO GRAND JURY IS ESPECIALLY FINE ONE

Judge Kingsbury made his final address to a grand jury at Lahaina last Wednesday. The Judge was at his best and a careful perusal of the charge to the jurors will plainly show that Maui is losing a fine stamp of Judge, and one whom the community will long remember. The charge to the jury reads as follows:

LAHAINA, June 18, 1913.—Gentlemen of the Grand Jury, by operation of law and in accordance with our institutions of government and as emphasizing government by the people, you have been assembled on this occasion to exercise the highest function of government.

The County of Maui is a portion of the Territory of Hawaii, designated as a sub-division thereof for convenience of government. Your duties are territorial, but your geographical jurisdiction extends to that portion of the Territory which forms this County. The Territory itself is but a portion of our great nation, and its institutions are made to conform and to harmonize with the laws and institutions of the United States.

The distinctive characteristic of our nation is that it is a government by the people—that the people have self-government, the highest form of legal and moral restraint.

The very nature of our government implies not only liberty but responsibility, power and duty.

If we neglect any of the great functions of self-government, we neglect our duty and we injure ourselves. All government is necessarily divided so far as functions are concerned into the legislative, the executive and judicial branches. Sometimes these branches or functions are all centered in one person who is supreme; but with us these branches are separate and distinct and co-ordinate. While each is independent of the other, they yet are made to harmonize and unite to form one supreme government with one supreme ruler: the people.

It is a function of the judicial power to see that the laws are enforced, that justice is done between man and man, and that crime, injury and evil are suppressed. The suppression of crime is effected by the punishment of the guilty. Law is enforced by enforcing the sanctions of the law. It is the law that one man shall not injure another in his person, in his property or in his well-being; and the sanction of that law is that if he does such injury, he shall be punished. Without the sanction and without the enforcing of it, it is as if we had no law on the subject. Evil and wicked men would then flourish, while the good would suffer.

Governments have in all ages had various forms and systems for enforcing their laws for repressing crime by the punishment of the criminal. These things have been found to be absolutely necessary. Different governments have different forms. In our government, the foundation of our system of self-government must necessarily be on the shoulders of the people. The first step for the suppression of crime, for the punishment of the guilty, is the inquiry and action of the Grand Jury. Until it acts, nothing can be done. Until it makes its charge, no one, not even the most guilty, can legally be proceeded against or tried for any crime. Hence, the right action of the Grand Jury is of the first and greatest importance.

The theory of our jury system is perfect but much of the practice in jury trials is faulty. These faults especially obtain to the proceedings which are allowed in trials before Petit Juries and few of them are found in the proceedings of the Grand Juries.

A few days ago, the papers from Honolulu contained articles which referred to the results of some criminal trials held in that City. They were cases in which it is probable that the Judge, the attorneys engaged, all the officers of the Court and the Jurymen themselves thought the defendants were guilty as charged, yet the juries brought in verdicts of not guilty and the attorney for the government was so righteously indignant that he made remarks in Court that some thought constituted a contempt of Court and he afterwards made explanations to show that he did not mean to imply anything against the Court but was referring to the juries; and, if I remember correctly, practically denounced our systems of jury trials.

Had he said as much against the Judge, he might have been called on to defend himself against the charge of contempt. And had he said as much to the attorneys for the defendant, he might have been called upon to defend his words as un-professional; so he made scapegoats of the juries.

With some, it has been quite fashionable for some years to blame the juries and the jury system for the delays and defeats of justice in criminal cases.

It seems to me, after years of observation and experience that in most cases the juries are not at fault, and that as a rule jurymen try to do their duty. It seems to me that the lawyers at the Bar and on the Bench are the ones who have been most largely to blame for the ridiculous proceedings used for delays and for the defeat of justice and for the blinding and misleading of the jurymen. Trivial technicalities that have nothing to do with the real merits of the case are allowed to effectually obstruct efforts to enforce the criminal law. That even after verdict and sentence, it is not an unusual thing for our Supreme Courts to set aside the verdict of the jury because of some trivial technicality that by no kind of reasoning can be made to appear to have affected the merits. Many of the appellate courts seem to be trying the prosecuting officer or the trial judge rather than reviewing the proceedings to determine whether the defendant has any ground of complaint on the merits of the case. In short, they set aside judgments rendered on the verdicts of juries when they are as fully convinced that the defendant was guilty of the charge as was the jury who rendered the verdict, and this is done on the ground that some mistake was made which did not affect the verdict. It is my humble opinion that the reform advocated by President Taft and now by President Wilson and by the leading lawyers of the United States should begin with the lawyers who occupy the Bench and the Bar, and that the blame should not be laid against juries or the jury system. I speak of this now and have alluded to it before in order that you, gentlemen of the jury, and others who are electors of this Territory may have confidence in our jury systems and in yourselves who are the jurymen. In other words, what we most need in this case, as in all cases of reform, is right public opinion. In our government, public opinion rules and in the end is the foundation of all governmental rule with us. It is our duty each of us in this matter and in all matters to do all we can that right public opinion be established; and when this is accomplished, the rest will be easy. Our leading statesmen, our newspapers and all the eminent statesmen practically agree that uncurbed and unchecked lawyers have been allowed to mislead juries, work error into records and even practically force presiding judges to aid them in perplexing jurymen by numerous charges called instructions. I know of a case where the attorney for the defendant offered fourteen charges on the question of reasonable doubt, worded in various different forms and phrases but all ending with a command from the Judge to give the benefit to the defendant and acquit him. I have had cases tried in this Court where there were between thirty and forty requests to charge which, if given, would not have had any effect except to confuse the minds of the jurors. It is not infrequent that able attorneys skilful in management, shrewd in argument will all the way through the trial and in their arguments attempt to throw dust in the eyes of the jurymen and even to deceive them as to the actual evidence, and in their arguments before the jury try to mislead them, magnifying that which is of little importance, belittling that which is of most importance and implying and sometimes stating their own convictions of the innocence of the defendant; and yet, when the Court sees these attempts on the part of counsel, he is in this jurisdiction, not allowed to sum up the evidence before the jury and give them the benefit of his learning and experience in such matters. This, however, is not the case in most jurisdictions and I trust that public opinion will be such that it will not long be the case in Hawaii.

Gentlemen of the jury, I earnestly desire that you and every elector should have the highest regard for our Constitution and laws and for our jury systems and should plainly see and deeply feel the necessity of enforcing the law for the suppression of crime and I would have you see the evils which have grown up in our procedure in criminal cases and also show where the fault lies; and when you do this, the legislature and the lawyers on Bench and Bar and all others having any governmental connection with the matter will make the correction.

We have no shadow of thought of any criticism of the good man and eminent jurist who presided at the trial of the case in Honolulu. The Judge is an able and experienced lawyer and a lover of justice. His hands are tied in every criminal case by statutes and legal maxims that should be abolished as having no use in a land where a tyrant is not the ruler and where rule is in the hands of a patient and benevolent PEOPLE. Nor do we criticize any particular attorneys for laws, certain precepts and customs, sanction their conduct.

The great fundamental cause of the evil is in proceeding on false presumptions and by deductive reasoning reaching false conclusions and binding them upon the Courts as if harmonizing with the facts when, in fact, they dispute the facts.

The law needs, as truly as once did philosophy, a Novum Organum.

We should proceed from facts and stand upon the great fundamental fact that ours is a great and benevolent government of the PEOPLE—by the PEOPLE.

There is a greater presumption that the people are merciful and just than that the defendant is innocent. Give judges power to control court proceedings. Give right of appeal to the people and, in general, proceed on the true state of things rather than false presumptions.

All able and good attorneys will aid in the needed reformation.

Then juries will not be hoodwinked and misled but will feel free to decide as they think. Then the jury system will not be blamed for so frequent miscarriage of justice.

Build up a public opinion founded upon the actual facts and do not demand that juries shall be so much better than the laws as exemplified in court proceedings in criminal trials.

Have the highest regard for the jury system as such; have faith that, as a rule, our electors make honest jurymen, and do all that you can to establish a public opinion that will effect to give such freedom to judges and to jurymen and to the prosecuting attorneys and to establish such faith in the honesty and fairness of the people that the car of state will go forward unobstructed in the course of Justice.

It is your duty to consider the cases of accused persons which will be presented to you by the County Attorney and to decide if a crime has been committed and if the accused is the one probably guilty of committing it. In cases where you find the accused guilty, it will be your duty to make a charge against him for the commission of the offense. This charge will be drawn for you by the County Attorney and is called an indictment. Indict no man by reason of prejudice or hatred, and allow no man to go un-indicted by reason of bias or fear or favor. Examinations held before you are not trials. They are ex parte merely.

In case of an indictment, before a defendant can be found guilty, he will have the opportunity of facing a trial jury and the witnesses against him and will have the fullest rights and opportunities for his defense.

In your deliberations, the County Attorney, as Deputy Attorney General, will assist you, will be present and aid you in your legal proceedings but will not give you an opinion as to how you should vote or to be present when you vote on the question of indictment or no.

You can make a special report at any time you desire. You can come into Court for additional instruction if you so wish. When you are through with your deliberations on your present service, you will make a full and complete report of all your doings.

On retiring to the jury room, you will appoint one of your number who is a ready writer to act as your secretary to keep the minutes of your proceedings.

The Court appoints Mr. F. F. Baldwin to be your Foreman and preside over your deliberations, and perform all the functions of a foreman of a Grand Jury.

You have the assistance of two bailiffs who are deputy sheriffs and who will wait upon you and obey your commands.

You will now retire to the Grand Jury Room.

BILLBOARD HORROR.

THE billboard nuisance has struck Maui and already a monstrosity is to be seen on the beautiful "Beach" road that forms the most attractive drive on this island. The billboard is alone at present, and it is evidently a "try on" to see how the public will stand for the whole of the road, from Kahului to Wailuku, being blocked in on the mauka side with boards that beg of people to either Take Tiny Tots To Tophet or try some kind of dope that will remove any old complaint from the human system. Just imagine what the beautiful marine parade will look like within a few months—if the bill fiend is allowed to get in his deadly work. Why, even the cool mountain breeze will be cut off and the autoists might as well be driving along King street, Honolulu, as far as getting a view of the mountains of West Maui is concerned. Those who rented the site of the billboard just below the power house should be at once notified that Maui wants nothing of the sort, and that a campaign similar to that conducted on Oahu may be started here.

THE PALI ROAD.

SOMETHING should be done to improve the "Pali" road and that much used thoroughfare should be widened in several places. It is all very well to say that the road is alright—it is for one car at a time but, when two cars meet on some of the stretches there is a strenuous time for both chauffeurs. The road is of great importance and it would be a better scheme to make it half as wide again than to spend thousands of dollars away in some "neck of the woods, where roads lead to nowhere and end the same way," as remarked by a prominent Wailukan some little time ago. If the job of widening the whole road is too expensive, then at least, let some portions of it be broadened and white posts be placed in the centers of the turns where machines will be compelled to keep to their right sides when making the corners.

GOING SOME.

JUST to show that there are other fine paying sugar companys in the world, the following figures relative to that huge concern. The Colonial Sugar & Refining Comsany, should prove of interest to many people.

The balance sheet showed the net profits for the half-year to be $1,167,650 which, with the balance brought forward, came to $2,186,020. Out of the amount available, a dividend at the rate of ten per cent, per annum, was declared, a bonus of $1.25 per share was allotted and the sum of $1,248,520 was carried forward. Going some for the C. S. & R. Co., Ltd., and the Land of the Southern Cross.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

THE fair play of the British was challenged in a recent issue of the New York Press. It was done in a spiteful sporting article written by one of the real "twist the lion's tail" bunch. If the "sportsman" who wrote the rotten article is decent at all, he will now acknowledge that Britishers are right enough. The latest example of fair play is that shown by the British referee in the International polo games. The referee calmly did his duty, and penalized his home team half a point, and cost them the game. And you may depend there was no "kick" from the British gentlemen, who are fair to the backbone in every department of sport.

WE are in receipt of a communication from Mr. A. Hay, of Lahaina. Mr. Hay takes exception to a statement of our Lahaina correspondent to the effect that the Hay homestead is blessed with a cow, calf, two limets, two canaries, three dogs and nine ducks. Hay also denies that other interesting items regarding the "clubhouse", as forwarded by our correspondent who has always, in the past, proved to be a reliable news gatherer, are true. Hay goes on to say that he objects to seeing his name in the MAUI NEWS. Well, Hay can rest assured that his name and anybody else's will continue to appear in this paper—providing that Hay and the others ever compish enough to make their names of interest to the general public. Hay wound up his communication to the MAUI NEWS with a very vulgar remark. Having some sense of decency, we refrain from publishing Hay's note in full. Aloha, Hay.

George R. Carter always speaks straight out from the shoulder, and his remarks about President Wilson are justified in every way. The schoolmaster should have been out in the world a little, battling for a living, before being called to the high office which he obtained through a fluke. In the business world a man who does not keep his word, soon gets it where the bird is alleged to have sustained the shock. Wilson promised not to injure any legitimate industry. What does he think he is doing to the domestic sugar industry—fostering it or, maybe, protecting it? No one has any use for a trickster, or for the kind of man who lets Bryan run the office for him.

Duke Kahanamoku has once more proved his wonderful speed in the water. If Duke has any sense, he will make hay while the sun shines, and coin a few thousand dollars by exercising the only art he has any knowledge of. In Australasia alone, there are thousands of dollars waiting to be gathered in. Amateur sport is alright for those people who have professions or good trades to fall back on, later on in life. But, for a youth like Duke to throw away every chance to make money, for the hollow glory of being an amateur, is flying—or swimming, rather—in the face of Providence.

A sign of the times is that Maui is attracting more attention every day, and that the tourist business is being boosted for all it is worth. The new scheme to issue combination excursion tickets that will take in the Maui horse races and the trip to Haleakala, is a good one and the Inter-Island Company will handle their end, while the Maui Hotel Co., Ltd. will do the needful on this island. The proposition is a fine one, and the people who make the trip will be able to see the races, visit Iao Valley and go to the summit of the big mountain in record time, and at a minimum cost.

Hana Land Not Wanted

HANA, June 18.—Uncle Josh Tucker "By Gosh!" was a Hana visitor this week. He came to settle the homestead question and for the 50 lots that cost the Government a mint of money to lay out, there were only two Bona Fide applicants on the ground to take their choice of lots, Mr. Sam Achong, of Nahiku, and Mrs. Alice Rosehill Kahokuoluna—wife of Peter Noa Kahokuoluna.

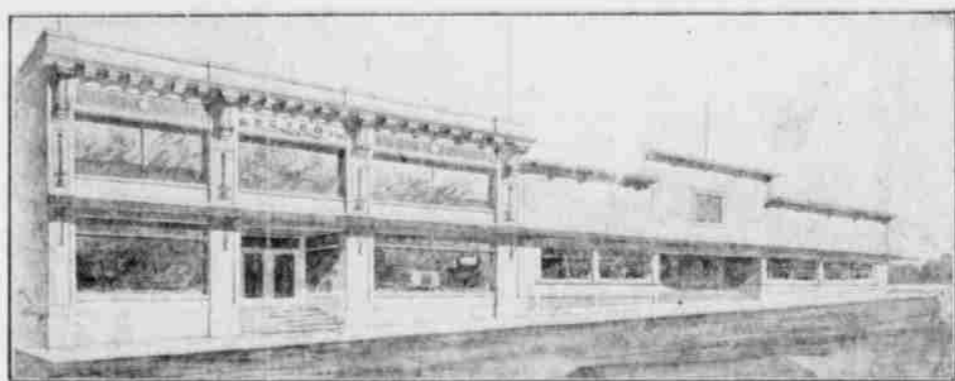

It seems there were a few others, but they had land already so could not take up any more under the homestead agreement. It seems useless to throw open any more lands throughout this district. What we want for a homestead is a piece of land, say 10 acres, with running water, fenced, and with a house on each lot. This to be given to the homesteader free of charge, and he to get the land free, but to pay for the improvements inside of fifteen years.

Is homesteading a success in Hana? Ask Josh Tucker! Are there any more private tracts to be opened? See Josh Tucker, he is very keen after his recent experience at Hana—where the people are land hungry, but have not got the "mezuma."

ACTIVITY.

(By "Paia.")

THIS is a bustling busy world we know,
And everybody's on the go, Excepting those who lag behind,
And they do not possess the mind To turn a cog that makes things hum, For they prefer to simply bum.
While others run the universe, From birth until they ride the hearse, I'd rather be a little wheel,
That helps to make the old world reel, Than be a great big dressed up dude,
And let the real folks earn my food.
Besides it's foolish too I guess, To fool around in startling dress, While Tom and Dick and Harry too, Make roads which we may pass through They cannot pave the road on high, While we sit round with brow quite dry, With folded hands and sit up right While their wet brows, our battles fight.
I think the angels up above Will have their tasks, but tasks of love, And those who cannot show their worth While living on this clod of earth, Will find they have some bitter tasks To answer what St. Peter asks.
For Tom and Dick and Harry too, Cannot at this time put us through,
For Angels will not stumble round, On bodies sleeping on the ground While they all pave the golden street, That makes a heaven nice and neat.
There are no parasites on high,
For parasites can ne'er come nigh God's great and bright celestial throne, We're judged by earthly seeds we've sown, So let us realize the fact That we are here to move and act, Each one a cog wheel or a groove,
To help to make this old world move.

Sacred Heart Closing Day

On June 25, the Sacred Heart School, of Lahaina, will close for the annual vacation. A most impressive program has been arranged and the visitors to the school will have an enjoyable time. There are seventeen items on the program, all of them are of the varied that appeals to student and parents alike.

A fine Tableau has been arranged also, and the first part of the entertainment will wind up with it.

The cast for the comedy that is to be produced is a long one, and both the little tots and the larger children are to take part in it. Last year this feature caused much applause, and it is thought that the performance this year will even eclipse that of 1912.

Honolulu News

And just here may said "Large fleas have smaller fleas to bite 'em and so on ad. infinitum." It is said that an auctioneer in the city has orders to close out a half dozen small shops owned by Japanese, and a fair sized business conducted by a Chinese is likely to go under the hammer before long, unless collection follow the sales of merchandise. Mind you, this condition is but a forerunner of worse things to come when the tariff is taken from sugar. It is painful to stare fate in the face, and then feel the real sting later on, but it is a cruel one cannot thrust aside the inevitable—the best thing to do is to prepare and, as they said when annexation was imminent—let conditions settle themselves.

SWIMMING DATES.

It seemed rather silly to the average mind for the Kauhuanu Society to protest against switching the swimming events next year from June 11 to February 22. There has been no suggestion of a change of the Kalihii harbor aquatic sports—only the A. A. U. events which are practically new for that day. Swimming races have been a part of the Regatta Day events for some years. The canoe races at Kalihii have been a feature of the Kamehameha Day celebration for a long time, and there seems to be no valid reason why there cannot be swimming races two days in the year, making June 11, one of them. The country looks to the Floral Parade and carnival to influence tourists to come here; the addition of a swimming meet at which star swimmers from the territory, between New York and the Antipodes, would go a great way toward bringing a greater number of people to Hawaii. But it would mean a big expense which the public generally is asked to bear, and they chafe as they "dig" because the hotels and transportation companies—land and water—do not pungle to the extent the occasion warrants. Under Director Dougherty there may be a noise within the hearing of the managers of these corporations. Dougherty is new to the work and is, consequently, well supplied with ginger.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY.

The suicide of John L. Pvormann, chief accountant of Castle and Cooke after murdering his mother caused a shock here Tuesday morning, when the fact became known. Pvormann lived with his aged mother, an invalid, on Prospect street. He was a man of exemplary habits, an arithmetical phenom and one who kept very much to himself, his sole companion being his mother to whom he was devoted. People near to him in a business way recognized in Pvormann a man so exacting in his system and methods that he was a faddist. Occasionally, when matters did not go according to his ideas, he showed irascibility and his colleagues in the firm were apt to fight shy of him knowing he was not a mixer. He was a man of considerable means, some of it invested in sugar stocks, more loaned out through trust companies, and about $15,000 in Honolulu Consolidate Oil which even at present prices is velvet. Recently his mother was at the point of death and friends wanted to call, but every offer was declined Pvormann attending to her alone. This condition was known to this firm so that when he did not appear at the office yesterday morning it was believed his mother was worse. Later Finney, the contractor, who was building his home called at the Castle and Cooke office and reported that the Chinese servant at the house had found the bodies of mother and son, the report being later confirmed when Mr. Petrie of the firm visited the house. It is recalled that Pvormann never had a visitor at his home, never allowed anyone to cross the threshold and, in a way, was a hermit. Now it comes out that Pvormann has been brooding over the possibility of a war between the United States and Japan; that he had remarked on several occasions that it was bound to come, and everyone in the town was apt to be killed. We worried over the cost of his home, not yet completed, the estimate being $4000 and the actual cost nearer $12,000. During the Mahuku trials Pvormann was about the only witness on values of real estate that Breckons did not and could not confuse. The probability of free sugar and its effect on the country, disturbed him greatly, so it is believed by those closest to him that this combination of circumstances, real and imaginary, affected his mind.

In addition to being the most expert accountant in the territory, Pvormann is said to have been one of the best chemist hereabouts. It is said of him that if a chemist had not what he desired, he would compound the mixture himself. But he was almost eccentric; fiery of temper and most of the druggists as well as other business men, feared him nor would they permit themselves to get into a discussion with him for fear of an outburst of temper. After the murder it was rumored that his mother had a weak mentality and for the reason, or rather to conceal it, he would permit no one to see her. She was quite hard of hearing, and he had no fear of awakening her when he entered the chamber of death. A peculiar feature of the tragedy was that which showed the determination he had that there should be no mistake about his own taking off. For his mother he used a 38 caliber revolver, sending a bullet through her temple but, to make sure of his own departure, he used a Colts 44. That he accomplished his desires quickly, may be inferred from the fact that the walls and ceiling of his room were spattered with particles of his skull and brains. So far as is known he leaves no relatives anywhere. If there are any surviving him, he did not made the fact known during his life to any of the firm of Castle and Cooke. He came here twelve years ago, having been sent to Castle and Cooke by Welsh and Co., of San Francisco. He was employed on the coast for some years before leaving there, and had been previously in Cuba and in the Southern states.

WHITE SLAVERS.

The trial of Correa on the charge of White Slavery is on in the federal court, the prosecuting witness being an alleged prostitute or nearly so. From her own testimony, as published, it seems she hunted up the chauffeur and found him asleep at the garage where she persuaded him to take her on a joy ride to the polo field; rather a strange request for a girl with any claims to decency. At this writing, it looks as though Bowers will have a more difficult condition to clean up, for he has the Womens Cooperative League to combat and, when a woman wills, she will, and that settles it. There will be something doing in the old town before the trials are over and the jail may get a few of its own.

THE NEW ORGAN OF THE WAILUKU UNION CHURCH.

This evening, at the Wailuku Union Church, the first recital on the beautiful new organ will be given. The program is a most attractive one and the church is sure to be crowded. The new organ, which has been fully described in the Maui News, is a particularly fine one, and this evening the people of Wailuku and the other districts will be able to judge for themselves of the sweetness of the tone of the instrument.

Convention of Engineers

Under the auspices of the Hawaiian Engineering Association, the sugar mill engineers of the Territory will hold a convention in Honolulu during the latter part of October, to discuss various phases of millwork. It is hoped to make this convention an annual affair very much on the same lines as the annual meeting of the sugar planters.

There will be an afternoon and an evening session on Monday, October 20, and the following day will be devoted to sightseeing or an excursion of some sort. On Tuesday the annual banquet of the association will take place, preceded by a meeting for the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Those who have the planning of the convention in charge have very hope of making it of great benefit to the engineers because of the opportunity offered them to renew acquaintances, interchange ideas and to provide a little vacation for the members residing on the other Islands after the present grinding season is ended. From the support given the movement by the managers of the plantations and the accord with which the matter has been taken up by the engineers themselves, there seems to be every prospect for a successful meeting.

President Sheedy of the association has appointed a committee of five to take charge of the meeting; one mill engineer each from Oahu, Maui and Kauai and two from Hawaii, consisting of R. Renton Hind, Ewa plantation, chairman; H. McCubbin, Pioneer Mill; W. W. Wescott, Hawaiian Sugar Company; J. E. Kennedy, Hakalau plantation, and James Ogg, Hawaii an Agricultural Compsny.

As low sugar prices and hostile tariff legislation demands greater efficiency and lower cost in sugar manufacture, there is no doubt but what these annual meetings will be productive of much good to not only the members vitally interested in sugar, but to their employers as well.

Lahaina Notes

"A linen shower" was given in honor of Miss Clara Townsend at the residence of Mrs. J. E. Gannon last Saturday afternoon. The invitation cards were adorned with the picture of a lady, and a thimble and needle. The centre piece for the table was an old fashioned spinning wheel. The place cards were ornamented with painted flax flowers, and a photograph of a lady and gentleman in an automobile, representing "an automobile romance." There were blank spaces, to be filled in with automobile terms, and this was done very skillfully. The menu was as follows: Watermelon cocktail, lobster patties, chicken croquettes, puffed potatoes, cauliflower and almonds, iced coffee, with whipped cream, beet salad, pistachis ice cream and cake. Miss Townsend was afterwards blindfolded, and showered with the handsome linen presents. Grafting On Papaia Tree

Much interest will no doubt be awakened in this Territory by the announcement recently received from the Department of Agriculture in form of a circular (No. 119) of the successful grafting of the papaia tree. It has long been supposed that this tree could be propagated only by means of seed, and as these seedlings do not bear true to type, it has been up to the present time, impossible to develop a type of permanent characteristics.

The Hawaii Experiment Station has for a number of years been endeavoring to improve the papaia and fix the type, but under the supposition that the only method was by seed selection and control of the blossom fertilizing.

According to the circular, however, the papaia has not only been successfully grafted by Mr. Edward Simmonds, of the Department, in Florida, but the process is astonishingly simple and sure. Moreover, the grafted trees bear abundantly during the first year. In order to obtain the scions for grafting to seedling stock, the top is cut off a tree which has produced fruit of the desired quality. The decapitated tree immediately put out a large number of shoots, and these, when about the size of a lead pencil are removed, sharpened to a wedge point, and inserted in a split made in the stem of a young plant which has been decapitated when six or eight inches high. After inserting the scion, the stock is tied firmly, but not tightly, with a soft piece of soft twine, and the grafted plant shaded for a few days. The twine is removed in six or seven days when the union will have formed.

The circular states that the best success has been secured in grafting potted seedlings in the shade of greenhouse or lath house, under which conditions fully 75 per cent of successes may be expected. The operation has also been successfully done in the field.

The circular points out that there should be great possibilities for the commercial production of papaia now that it is possible to produce quickly and surely fruits of uniform variety in any quantity. It believes that a large market may be built up on the mainland when the fruit becomes known, and that it may be possible to produce varieties that will do well in the milder parts of the United States mainland.

Started On New Bank

Ground is being broken at Paia for the new First National Bank, and within a few weeks a fine concrete building will be completed. The size of the building will be 22 by 36 feet, which is about the same size as the original First National Bank building in Wailuku.

The building will be equipped with a heavy reinforced concrete, fire and burglar proof vault, of good size, and as an additional safeguard will be provided with a burglar proof safe, of the latest approved design.

The contract for the building has been awarded to K. Honda. Materials are on the ground, and the Bank will be ready for business in a very few weeks.

Seed Farm

years in Illinois by scientific selection. The seed was imported by the College of Hawaii (several varieties) and some of it already seem to be admirably adapted to Hawaiian conditions. Both at the College grounds and on Prof. Krauss' place at Haiku yields closely approximating 100 bushels per acre were grown this year, and Prof. Krauss is confident that the next crop, grown from the best of this yield, will show even better results.

Some of the large ranchmen of Hawaii, Molokai and other parts of the Territory, have been much interested in Prof. Krauss' work, and he has been given the greatest encouragement.

What is being done with corn, is also being done with other field crops, and Prof. Krauss believes that there is an excellent business opportunity in the line he is most deeply interested in. Not only should Hawaii, he thinks, profit greatly by ability to produce a larger proportion of feed stuffs than at present, but he believes that a scientifically developed line of seeds adapted to tropical and sub-tropical conditions, will fill a long felt need in various other parts of the world.

SCHOOL BOYS INTERESTED.

Prof. Krauss hopes to interest other of the homesteaders in his work and to gain their active co-operation to the end that Haiku may become famous for something else besides pineapples. He has already aroused much enthusiasm among the school boys in the district by the offer of a number of prizes to be given for the best ten ears of corn produced from seeds furnished from the College of Hawaii strain. A dozen or more boys entered the competition several months ago, and several of them have plots of corn that would be a credit to any farmer in any part of the world. It is expected that the judging of the boys' work will be done next week and the prizes awarded at the Kula School, on the last day of the term, next Friday.

Prof. Krauss' idea of interesting the boys in his work, is based on the plan which has been almost revolutionary in sections of the South and Middle West during the past few years. This was the inauguration of the boys' corn clubs under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, each boy undertaking to plant and care for one acre of corn under direction of experts from the department. The results in many cases have been simply astonishing, some record breaking yields having been produced by the boys. In districts where the average production of corn has been less than 20 bushels per acre, some of the young farmers have grown crops of as high as 100 bushels or even more per acre. In many of these sections the average yield has been materially increased during the past few years, due solely to the lessons taught by school boys in better methods.
