A TRUE FRIEND OF HAWAII.

The late James F. B. Marshall, was at the time of his death in Kendall Green, near Boston, one of the oldest foreigners who took part in assisting the Hawaiian Government in its early organization, at a time when true and trusty men were scarce.

After his return here from England, he was connected with the Hunnewell firm till 1849 when he went to California, attracted thither by the golden stories of wonderful fortunes, returning here two or three years later, when he became interested in the starting of the Lihue Sugar Plantation, of which he was the first manager, and the Hon. H. A. Widemann was his head lina; but things not looking very prosperous for sugar he retired and returned to Boston, where he remained till the breaking out of the civil war.

At the close of the war, he joined General Samuel C. Armstrong in starting the Hampton School enterprise and about ten or fifteen years the place of treasurer, and in this manner gave great assistance to Armstrong, who more than once said that he could never have made it a success without the very valuable aid of General Marshall.

When General Marshall left these Islands for his home in 1853 or 1854, he had what was then considered a sufficient competence to maintain him and his wife, (they had no children) but having invested his money in Texas railroad bonds, he, like many others, lost it all and was dependent on his labor for a support.

His visit here in the fall of 1889, accompanied with his wife, will be remembered by many of our readers. He made a number of addresses, rehearsing his early adventures in Hawaii in the early days, and on all occasions showed himself to be intensely interested in the progress and prosperity of the Hawaiian people, who never had a more devoted and true friend than he. On more than one occasion when Hawaii was traduced abroad, he sprang forward to defend her cause against those who sought to injure her. He died at the ripe age of three score and thirteen years, at the old home in Massachusetts, honored and beloved by all who knew him, and who will long remember him for his kindly deeds and words.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

The day before yesterday Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, Empress of India, completed her seventy-second year and entered on her seventy-third year, being, except the King of Denmark, the senior sovereign in Europe in point of age and without exception as to duration of reign.

Queen Victoria's grandfather, George III., had a family of fifteen children of whom seven were sons, and of these, the eldest, who became George IV., survived his only child, the second died without issue, the third, best known as William IV., had two daughters who both died in infancy, and the fourth, Edward, Duke of Kent, left an only daughter, now Queen Victoria, at her father's death only eight months old.

The young Princess was most carefully brought up by her widowed mother, herself a lady of no mean abilities, who devoted herself altogether to the education of her child. The duchess and her little daughter lived a very quiet retired life at Kensington; it is said that at the time of her accession to the throne, the Princess Victoria, then just eighteen, had never slept away from her mother's roof, nor had ever been alone with any one but her mother or her governess, nor is it generally known at what age the Princess was informed of her future position.

The trials and troubles, as well as the successes, and we may say glories, of fifty-four years have amply justified the wisdom of the course taken by the widowed Duchess of Kent, and till her death in 1861, at the age of seventy-five years, she was the constant and honored companion of her grateful daughter.

The story of the announcement to the young Queen, then just one month over eighteen, of her accession to the throne, has been often told, but never better than by one of the young ladies in attendance on the Princess.

Directly the old King was dead, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Lord Chamberlain posted off from Windsor Castle to Kensington. It was 2 o'clock in the morning when they started, and they did not reach Kensington till 5.

"They knocked, they rang, they thumped for a considerable time before they could rouse the porter at the gate. They were again kept waiting in the courtyard, then taken into one of the lower rooms, where they seemed forgotten by everybody. They rang the bell and desired that the attendant of the Princess Victoria might be sent to inform her Royal Highness that they requested an audience on business of importance. After another delay, and another ringing to inquire the cause, the attendant was summoned, who stated that the Princess was in such a sweet sleep that she could not venture to disturb her. Then they said, 'We are come on business of state to the QUEEN, and even her sleep must give way to that.' It did, and to prove that she did not keep them waiting, in a few minutes she came into the room in a loose white night gown and shawl, her night cap thrown off, and her hair falling upon her shoulders, her feet in slippers, tears in her eyes, but perfectly collected and dignified."

At 11 o'clock that forenoon the young Queen had to meet the Privy Council. The Clerk of the Council says, "She bowed to the Lords, took her seat, and then read her speech in a clear, distinct and audible voice, and without any appearance of fear or embarrassment; she was quite plainly dressed and in mourning."

After the Queen had taken the prescribed oath, the privy councillors were sworn, the two old royal dukes, her uncles, first. "She kissed them both, and rose from her chair and moved towards the Duke of Sussex, who was farthest from her, and too infirm to reach her."

"She went through the whole ceremony, occasionally looking at Melbourne (the Prime Minister) for instruction when she had any doubt what to do, which hardly ever occurred, and with perfect calmness and self-possession, but at the same time with a graceful modesty and propriety particularly interesting and ingratifying."

Sir Robert Peel said that he was amazed at "her manner and behavior, at her apparent deep sense of her situation, and at the same time her firmness." The Duke of Wellington said, in his blunt way, that "if she had been his own daughter he could not have desired to see her perform her part better."

"At 12 o'clock (the same day) she held a council, at which she presided with as much ease as if she had been doing nothing else all her life."

Queen Victoria has already reached an age attained by none of her predecessors on the throne of England from Egbert the first, King of all England, more than a thousand years ago except three only, viz., George II., George III. and William IV., her great-great-grandfather, her grandfather and her uncle and immediate predecessor.

Only two, Henry III., who reigned fifty-six years, and George III., have occupied the throne longer than Queen Victoria, and of these George III. ceased to reign nine years before his death, as his mental condition necessitated a regency.

The Evening Classes.

Mr. Editor: The number of applications for admission to the drawing and mathematics classes has exceeded the possibilities of our accommodation, and we have been compelled to refuse admission to six applicants during the past week.

Arrangements, however, are being made whereby we shall be able to receive about ten additional students on and after June 1st. Those contemplating joining the classes will please hand in their names on Thursday night as our members must be limited, and admission will be given to the first applicants.

Next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Prof. M. M. Scott will deliver an address to the members and friends of evening classes on "Microbes." Admission by ticket only, for which application should be made to any member of the classes, or to the Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Fuller, who has kindly placed the hall of that Association at our disposal for the occasion.

No charge will be made for admission, but no admission without a ticket previously procured. Your obedient servant, F. M. ENGLISH.

MUDDY WATER!

When water is too filthy to wash in what effect must it have upon the system when taken into the stomach? We have had an intimation that it will have the present brown color for THE NEXT SIX MONTHS.

The condition of the water in Honolulu is so bad that it has attracted the attention of the Board of Health and some of the members of that body are of the opinion that the only remedy for it is to use filters. We believe the GATE CITY STONE FILTER sold by us to be the best in the market and the only one to be relied upon. Call at our store and see them in use.

THE LEADER!

Everyone who reads knows the result of Don Quixote's "battle with the windmills." Even though that erratic individual had only the most primitive mills to combat he found himself "done up" on his first attempt to subdue that which had aroused his ire; had he come in contact with an Aermotor it is probable that he would have refrained from any attempt to contend the ground with so strong a machine. We can excuse him for his action in battling with the ancient style windmill, and could have done so had he waited a few years longer and tackled the old fashioned wooden mills which are now going rapidly out of date, but there could be no excuse for his desire to fight a steel Aermotor. He would not be in it.

Don Quixote's farce reminds us of the attempts of some persons of to-day who, with even greater confidence than the Don, start in for a fight with the Aermotors. They buckle on their armor and start out, only to end by adding to the rapidly increasing popularity of the Aermotor, "The greatest windmill on earth."

We get a new invoice of Aermotors by each steamer and yet cannot supply the demand for them. They are recognized as the most powerful mill in operation, and we do not hesitate to say that within six months there will not be a single individual who needs a windmill on these Islands who will buy any other kind.

You have been told through the newspapers before that the mills are so light in construction that a gentle zephyr will run them; so easy and perfect are those we have seen in operation, and by a letter recently received from a purchaser of an Aermotor we are almost tempted to tell you now that they will run in a dead calm. This would not be far wrong for we have seen a 12-foot mill revolve rapidly when there was not enough wind to carry the smoke from the stack of a steam engine only a short distance from the Aermotor. These are facts much too hard for the manufacturers of other mills to fight. We enjoy hearing the praises of other mills sung because parties interested in windmills make comparisons and then come to our store and select an Aermotor. CANADIAN WHISKIES!

The Only Liquors in the World Which Afford the Consumer a Government Guarantee.

"Trade," an English journal published in the interest of the Wine, Spirit and Brewing trades, has the following article in the issue of July 5, 1890:

"Age has its advantages, notably in whisky. No other quality can equal that of maturity, nothing else can contribute to even the finest and purest whisky the round, soft and mellow characteristics secured by genuine age. We have it on the highest medical authority that the use of pure and fully matured whisky is not only not deleterious, but is even very beneficial to the system. It is the raw, crude and undiluted spirits that work the mischief with one's constitution, and until our Legislature has made us as secure from this pernicious stuff as our Canadian friends are, we cannot claim for whisky an unqualified position among beverages."

"In Canada there is a most stringent law in force, preventing any spirit from being sold until it has arrived at the age of two years, and to ensure this the Government retains it in its possession for that length of time after manufacture—a precaution that is not taken by any other government in the world. Not only has the consumer of whisky in Canada the advantage of an enforced minimum age; they have also this security—the benefit of which is shared by the producer—that every bottle of whisky has its age guaranteed by the Government."

"In one particular only, but that a very important one, is the article above quoted incorrect, viz.: In the statement that 'Every bottle of whisky has its age guaranteed by the Government.' The distiller, or any other person, may bottle whisky in Canada away from the Government control; but to provide a much needed security to consumers the Government permits distillers, (and stillers only), to bottle under excise supervision; the spirit in fact remaining in bond, and the process of bottling closely watched by officers, until the official stamp has been placed over the capsule. In no other way can the guarantee mentioned be obtained."

"We have never put up a bottle of whisky without the Government guarantee, and no goods purporting to be ours are genuine unless they bear our branded cork and capsule the Excise stamp of the Dominion of Canada. Our Whiskies are all matured in barrels, in rack warehouses warmed by steam during the cold season, with a capacity of 72,000 barrels, equal to 3,500,000 gallons. This has been demonstrated to be the most perfect system in use."

Yesterday was generally observed in honor of Queen Victoria's birthday. All Government offices, with the exception of the Attorney-General's Department, were closed. A number of flags were flying over the city and harbor.

On Friday evening, May 22d, Miss Ada Jones gave to her friends and schoolmates a genuine Hawaiian luau at the residence of her parents on Nuuanu avenue. About ninety young people attended, and from all accounts, the party was an enjoyable affair.

The new royal pew at the Kawaiahao church, which was gotten up through subscriptions by the ladies of that church, is now ready for occupancy. The workmanship is first-class. The good ladies of Kawaiahao have fairly succeeded in erecting a new worthy of a Queen, in fact, of any sovereign.

It is a pleasure to note the interest taken in Mrs. Gray's endeavors to get up an Iolani entertainment. The children have been making such progress that the admittance at rehearsals has been eagerly requested by parents and others. The prospects are that the entertainment will be a very enjoyable one.

Merchants are beginning to feel the effects of the scarcity of water for street sprinkling in the clouds of dust flying into their stores, covering everything. As the merchants are the ones to suffer the most, a great effort should be made to sprinkle well the business streets even if the other streets get no water at all.

Officers Elected.

At a meeting of the Honolulu Art and Science Association the following named officers were elected: President, F. M. English, B. A.; Vice President and Secretary, Mr. W. Bicknell; Treasurer, Mr. Harry Mist.

Rev. Thos. H. Gulick met with an accident on the 14th while driving in his break from Makawao to attend a funeral at the Wailuku hospital. When passing Spreckelsville his animal took fright from a locomotive, and before he could be stopped upset the vehicle, throwing Mr. G. out onto the roadside. He was bruised some on the head and ribs, but not seriously.

"Olinda" is a famous resort for recuperating parties. No less than five different crowds have been there in the past two weeks. A few weeks sojourn here adds more vigor to the tired system than a trip to the coast. It is to be regretted however that the prevalent idea regarding this place is that it is a public house open to all comers. Nothing can be more erroneous. Olinda is the private summer home of the Hon. H. Baldwin, and permission from that genial and hospitable gentleman should always be procured before going there.

Madame Rumor has it that the fragrance of "orange blossoms" will soon pervade the air around Wailuku.

The Makawao monthly moonlight social was held on the 22d, at the residence of Mr. C. D. Loveland, Hanalei, a house remarkably well suited for such an entertainment, on account of its spacious verandas and internal arrangement. Three rooms are so connected by open arches that all can easily see and hear the whole programme. The entertainment began with a brilliant piano solo by Mr. A. Peyser, followed by a reading in dialect by Mr. A. Hocking. A lovely duet was sung by the Misses Stiles. "I will flee away and be at rest." This was in the opinion of many the best item on the programme.

A portion of the second issue of the Makawao "Hodge Podge" was now read by Mr. F. W. Hardy, editor of this spicy monthly, containing many witty local hits on the young people of the district, most of whom were present to enjoy them. Some of the hits were a little too strong and savoured of malice, and the effect of the issue would have been greatly enhanced by judicious trimming.

Mr. A. T. Atkinson followed with "The Iron Blacksmith," well sung of course. His voice was full and strong in spite of the large amount of Maui zephyrs he has had to encounter lately. An intermission of fifteen or twenty minutes was comfortably filled by conversation, sandwiches, laughter, coffee, akalas and cream.

A second course of "Hodge Podge," which "cinched the tamarers" rather more severely, followed, parts of which were thoroughly enjoyed by all but the vicarious. An ideal trip to the moon, where the females took the lead and the males did the house-work, was especially well gotten up. Two articles on European travel were also very good. This closed the evening's entertainment, with the exception of the lovely moonlight ride home. Maui, May 23, '91.

"August Flower"

How does he feel?—He feels blue, a deep, dark, unfeeling, dyed-in-the-wool, eternal blue, and he makes everybody feel the same way—August Flower the Remedy.

How does he feel?—He feels a headache, generally dull and constant, but sometimes excruciating—August Flower the Remedy.

How does he feel?—He feels a violent hiccoughing or jumping of the stomach after a meal, raising bitter-tasting matter or what he has eaten or drunk—August Flower the Remedy.

How does he feel?—He feels the gradual decay of vital power; he feels miserable, melancholy, hopeless and longs for death and peace—August Flower the Remedy.

How does he feel?—He feels so full after eating a meal that he can hardly walk—August Flower the Remedy.
