THURSDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1901.

"The press may criticize judges," says the Advertiser. Indeed it may, but this does not justify factional attorneys in attempting to malign a judge in open court.

Personal spite and prejudice of the majority Supreme Court against Attorney Edwin S. Gill is so apparent that even the official organ is unable to make an attempt at explanation.

Act the part of honest citizens is the best interpretation that can be put on President Roosevelt's statement, "In Hawaii our aim must be to develop the Territory on traditional American lines."

Being a President's son is not all that it is cracked up to be. No sooner does Archie Roosevelt exercise the inalienable right of American boyhood to crack a schoolmate on the nose than the story of the affair is spread broadcast through the nation's press.

China can hardly be credited with being foremost in its exhibition of material gratitude. The United States stood staunchly between China and the European grabbers during the recent unpleasantness, but when it comes to casting up the national trade accounts it appears that the Americans have been the least favored.

To bolster up the renewal of its malicious attacks upon Judge Humphreys, Thurston's organ publishes correspondence written in its own office in which it is sought to convince the public that the Attorney General is highly incensed with himself for having treated the attacks upon Judge Humphreys on their merits and upheld the integrity of the Hawaiian courts against the struggle of a political gang that opposes a judge who will not do its bidding.

United States Senator Beveridge of Indiana seems to be the only man outside Russia who is able to see the lamblike character of Russian methods and Russian soldiers. Beveridge is particularly ardent in his assertion of the high esteem in which the average Chinese holds his Russian overseer and landlord.

The inbred dishonesty of the Thurston organ has been recently expounded by its utterances on cheap plantation labor followed by the publication of a pure fabrication to the effect that Japanese laborers are soon to be brought to the Islands at the rate of 1000 a month.

HONOLULU PLANTATION AND AMERICAN FUTURE.

The President's reference to labor and industrial conditions in these islands has been the signal for a general prating on that cannot be done. This man says the scheme of small farmers is chimerical in the extreme, that one says that any other labor on the plantations than that now employed means ruin for all concerned and that any change from the present methods of handling labor leads to the same disastrous but no less positive result.

established by the money of financiers from the Mainland. His plantation employs at the present time cheap labor. Asiatic labor, any labor that will go into the fields and do the work. The plantation will undoubtedly continue to employ this labor as long as it is available; that is a way plantations and all other business or industrial enterprises have of doing the world over.

One of the most notable features of the Honolulu plantation management, however, is the preparation for the future. The management recognizes that Chinese are an impossibility at the present time. It is also accepted that the Federal Government will do all in its power to advance the small or independent farmer.

Doubtless there are other sugar estates where the same general scheme is being carried out. The outcry against the new order of things has been so boisterous in some quarters that the quiet workers are little heard of.

AN INTERESTING PREDICTION.

Editor Evening Bulletin: Herewith I hand you clipping from the Pacific Rural Press of August 31, 1895. It is quite a character sketch of our President, as viewed at that time, and closes with a prophetic suggestion that was verified within six years of its being written.

AN ADMIRER.

Mr. Roosevelt, through whose practical and effective energy this triumph of reform has been brought about, is a peculiarly interesting man. He comes of Knickerbocker stock and belongs by all the titles of blood, wealth and accomplishment to the so-called "aristocracy" of New York.

He took to public affairs like a duck to water and importantly upon leaving college offered himself as an aspirant for the State Legislature. His address and family connections helped him to an election; and at Albany he soon made a name for himself as a vigorous and honest man.

The President's reference to labor and industrial conditions in these islands has been the signal for a general prating on that cannot be done. This man says the scheme of small farmers is chimerical in the extreme, that one says that any other labor on the plantations than that now employed means ruin for all concerned and that any change from the present methods of handling labor leads to the same disastrous but no less positive result.
