FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1887.

AN ADVOCATE OF THE TREATY.

The people of these Islands owe a debt of gratitude to the Alta California for the ability and persistence with which that influential journal puts forward arguments in behalf of the reciprocity treaty from the Pacific Coast standpoint. In a recent article under the head, "Hawaii, Japan and the Revenues," the Alta quotes from the Japan trade circular of Minister Hubbard, which shows that the United States admits duty free fourteen millions a year of the products of Japan, and a return therefor sells to Japan two millions a year of American products. That paper asks, "Why is it that we hear no proposition to put duties on imports from Japan as a means of increasing our trade there? Where are the statesmen who look at all commerce from the standpoint of public revenue? Why not tax the Japanese trade to fill a Treasury that is too full without farther effort in that direction?" From that the Alta goes on to remark:—

When the Hawaii treaty is discussed it is opposed because it admits Hawaiian products duty free, and gentlemen stand and cry the sorrows of a surfeited Treasury and rouse the country to frenzy over lost revenues that would increase our fiscal plethora to the point of indigestion and paralysis. Yet the facts are that we export to Hawaii half as much as we import, and the export is of the manufactured products and raw material of this Coast, and we do both the exporting and the importing in American bottoms, the sail vessels being built and the whole fleet, steam and sail, being owned on this Coast, so that really the balance of benefit of the Hawaiian trade is on our side and not against us. It goes to the strengthening of American trade here on the Pacific side of the continent, where it needs help, and yet the revenue is put forward as a reason why that trade should be given up.

Thence the paper goes on to discuss the annexation of territory, saying it has never been an unpopular proposition in that country, and that by conquest and purchase annexation had made the nation grow "from insignificance until it spans the continent and stretches from the tropics to the Polar Circle." Such a nation might soon require to protect its coasts by securing the permanent neutrality of offlying islands, and if in the struggle Hawaii and Cuba should be annexed or purchased, where, the Alta asks, would be the argument now based in loss of revenues upon the products of this Kingdom? "Then its commerce would be internal, like that between the States, and, according to the argument of the gentlemen who oppose the reciprocity treaty, our country would be made annually poorer by as much duty as we would lose upon that trade." Our California friend concludes his article thus:—

If the revenue argument is to prevail we can better afford to tax the Japanese trade out of existence, for it reciprocates only one-seventh, than to abandon the Hawaiian trade, which reciprocates one-half in actual cash value and in its transportation in our ships, marine insurance, exchange and other financial collaterals, shows a balance in favor of our citizens.

Let it not be supposed that, because we use it in illustration, our Government has any annexation or purchase policy in regard to Hawaii. We deal honorably with other nations and are prepared to defend the independence of that Kingdom against the world in arms, if need be. Our people who have dealt with it justly believe that those islands can sustain a great, industrious, civilized population, benefited by the example of our schools and our institutions, and their progress is just as much a matter of pride in the United States as if Hawaii were a State in this Republic.

THE CALIFORNIA SENATOR.

Senator Hearst, who has been elected United States Senator for California, although not having a reputation for scholarly accomplishments or superiority in statecraft, has the record of a man of unbending integrity and single-eyed regard for the public welfare. He won his election in the face of the most powerful disparagement that could be employed against him by the railroad monopolists and the press of San Francisco with scarcely an exception. Hawaii, having some interest in California's representation in the United States Congress, may, it is to be hoped, congratulate herself on Mr. Hearst's election as that of an honest man who will bring sound judgment to bear upon any consideration of the relations between the two countries.

CINCHING SAILORS.

Hawaiian Consul McKinley's Taxes Upon Sailors.

The sailors of the Hawaiian steamer Australia have a grievance against Consul McKinley in the matter of the fees that he assesses them for shipping under the Hawaiian flag and under Hawaiian laws.

It appears that McKinley used to charge the Oceanic Company 50 cents for shipping each member of the crews of the Hawaiian steamers. On their return to port he levied $1 from each man for discharging him and 25 cents a month for hospital money. As the crew numbers about eighty-five men it will be seen that McKinley had rather a fat thing, collecting nearly $150 for each trip of the steamer, which lasted about three weeks. As there were two Hawaiian steamers then running to Honolulu and each made at the rate of thirteen trips a year, McKinley's perquisites from this source alone amounted to nearly $4,000 per annum, for most of which the sailors were cinched.

But six months ago complaints were made to John D. Spreckels about these heavy taxes, which amounted almost to a month's pay for every sailor under the Hawaiian colors. The monstrosity of the charge was apparent, and Mr. Spreckels made McKinley reduce his fees for discharging the crew to 50 cents, instead of $1. Each man now pays 75 cents for his round trip to Honolulu, and the Spreckels have to pay 50 cents for each man. But on the long voyage to Sydney McKinley still levies an assessment of $1 from each, and 50 or 75 cents for hospital money, according as the steamer has been away for two or three months. It should be mentioned that one-half of all these fees go into the Consular pocket—hence the desire for such heavy assessments—the other half going to the credit of the Hawaiian Government.

On the last voyage of the Australia, a sailor named Knop burst an aneurism and died. He was sick before his arrival in Honolulu, so Captain Houdlette endeavored to get him into the hospital there, but he was informed that the institution was privately endowed and was only for the use of native Kanakas, unless a man paid a special charge for his admission. One sailor, interviewed by a D. R. reporter, said he was taken sick in San Francisco about six months ago and applied to McKinley to send him to the hospital here. "But the old Kanaka," said the sailor, "told me to get out of his office and get sick in Honolulu, where I could be taken care of and sent to the hospital there. He said he could do nothing here, and that we paid the hospital fees so that we should be taken care of in Honolulu. From the case of poor Knop you will see how we are taken care of there. We don't see why we should pay hospital fees for nothing, as Coal Yard Mac won't help us. You know that's his name on the city front, where he is well known from the time he kept a coal yard here. Any one who can get ahead of Coal Yard Mac has to get up pretty early, I tell you."

It seems that the sailor's remarks are true, and that the Hawaiian Consul's charges are higher than those of any other foreign representative. He now makes $1.25 on each sailor on his round trip to Honolulu, 50 cents of which is paid by the Spreckels, who acknowledge the high charges and have done their best to get them reduced, succeeding to the extent of 50 cents in the case of each sailor. McKinley asserts that his charges are according to law, but it is shrewdly suspected that he made the law himself. He reduced the fees before when Mr. Spreckels demanded it without any special act of the Hawaiian Legislature, and the chances are that he will have to reduce them again. The whole thing is an outrage and shows the folly of putting a greedy man in charge of an office where his income is derived from fees.—S. F. Daily Report.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Meeting of the Board-The Parade Abandoned-Resolutions of Condolence.

Last evening the adjourned monthly meeting of the Board of Representatives of the Honolulu Fire Department was held at the Bell Tower. Mr. C. B. Wilson, Chief Engineer, presided, and there was an attendance of twenty-one members. Mr. Penry Smith, Secretary, read a communication each from Engine Companies 2 and 4, Pacific Hose and Hook & Ladder Companies, transmitting results of elections. Officers of No. 2 and Pacific Hose have been published in this paper previously. Those of No. 4 are as follows: James H. Boyd, Foreman; P. Souza, First Assistant and Treasurer; Wm. Keawe, Second Assistant; J. M. Kaneakua, Secretary. Hook & Ladder Co. reported the election of Geo. W. Kanaakoa as Assistant Foreman in place of James Lewis, resigned. Two bills were ordered paid.

The action of the Chief Engineer, regarding the postponement of the annual parade on account of the death of Princess Likelike, was confirmed. A motion was made that the parade take place on March 17th, but an amendment prevailed that it be indefinitely postponed for this year.

It was resolved that the Fire Department take part in the obsequies at the interment of the lamented Princess. Also resolved that the following minute be engrossed on the records, and a copy thereof transmitted to His Majesty and the royal family:

"IN MEMORIAM.

"It having pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to call from this earthly sphere the soul of Her late Royal Highness Princess Miriam Likelike, His Majesty's beloved sister, who died on the 2nd inst., we, the officers and members of the Honolulu Fire Department in meeting assembled, and in common with the bewailing subjects of his realm, hereby mournfully tender our most heartfelt sympathy to His Majesty, to the Hon. A. S. Cleghorn, husband of the late Princess, to Princess Kaiulani, her daughter, to Princess Liliuokalani, her sister, and all the members of the royal family."

The meeting then adjourned.

Shipping Intelligence.

The brigantine Claus Spreckels began loading yesterday morning, and will sail for San Francisco at noon to-day.

The schooner Moiwahini arrived from Kohala, Hawaii, yesterday forenoon, bringing 1,140 bags of sugar, which she discharged into the barkentine John Smith. She sailed from Kohala at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, arriving here at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, making a remarkable last passage.

The barkentine Geo. C. Perkins, Captain Ackermann, arrived in port yesterday forenoon, 12 days from San Francisco. She is consigned to Schaefer & Co., and is docked at Brewer's wharf.

The British bark Mary Fisher, Capt. Buckin, arrived yesterday, 154 days from Glasgow, with a cargo of general merchandise consigned to Schaefer & Co. She is docked at the old Custom House wharf.

Police Court.

Piipilani was brought up yesterday, charged with selling liquors without a license, being found guilty and fined $400 and $3.70 costs. An appeal was noted.

One case of drunkenness yielded $6 into the treasury, and one case of assault and battery was remanded.

CIVIL CASES.

Kemeni vs. Meleana (w), deserting her husband. Case dismissed.

Mr. Rienard T. Booth, temperance evangelist, had a large native audience at Kawaiahaeo Church on Wednesday night. Rev. H. H. Parker, pastor, interpreted the lecture. At the close 105 persons signed the pledge and 317 took the blue ribbon. Yesterday Mr. Booth decided not to leave for San Francisco by to-day's steamer, but remain for a short season to work among the natives.

For sale—two parrots, one speaking English, Spanish and Hawaiian perfectly; the other, same breed but younger, a very good English talker. Also, a monkey, very playful and tractable. Apply at Fort-street Shooting Gallery.

Posters printed in Chinese and posted throughout Chinatown, are attracting a good deal of attention among the Chinese residents. The meaning of them could not be ascertained, the Chinese answering as usual when questioned, "Me no sabe."

BUSINESS ITEMS.

No hand-book equals the Hawaiian Almanac and Annual for reliable statistical and general information relating to these Islands. Price 50 cents.

If you want a good smoke for your money, patronize home industry and call at J. W. Hingley's, Crystal Soda Works, 69 Hotel street, next door to Horn's Bakery. Island orders solicited and promptly filled. There is no license required to sell these cigars.

The Repeated Lecture.

Association Hall was nearly filled last night to hear Mr. Richard T. Booth repeat, for the benefit of Geo. W. De Long Post, G. A. R., his lecture, "Three Years in the Ram's." Seldom has such a fine arrangement of American flags been made in Honolulu as the display on this occasion. Over the platform and forming a setting for the picture of Lieut. De Long, patronymic of the Post, two large flags were gathered in the form of a shield. Crossed stars and stripes depended from the center of the ceiling, and windows on all sides were draped with the name of a State of the Union on each wreath pinned to the flags throughout the hall, showing to good advantage in the whole system of decoration. The lecture was varied somewhat from the first delivery, and delivered with more ease than on that occasion when the lecturer was ill. It was heartily applauded at many points, besides evoking frequent laughter at the comic passages with which it was plentifully strewn; while ever and again a pathetic or blood-stirring incident was related with the feeling and forceful touch of pure eloquence that moistens the eye and moves the heart of the listener. As the audience were retiring Mr. Booth asked them to sing a verse of "America," which they did with a will. "Marching through Georgia" had been sung by choir and audience before the lecture.

SUPREME COURT.

INTERMEDIARY DIVISION.

Before Judge Preston, February 10. Kalepe vs. Kanakani. Damages $200. Ordered that appeal be allowed to be withdrawn. L. A. Thurston for plaintiff; Kinney for defendant. Union Feed Co. vs. G. H. Luce. Assumpsit $156. Ordered that nonsuit be set aside and case referred back to Police Magistrate. F. M. Hatch for plaintiff; A. Rosa for defendant.

A DEPOSITION.

In the equity suit of Geo. W. Willifong against John H. Paty, in relation to $6,000 worth of Hawaiian Agricultural Company's shares of stock, now pending before the Supreme Court, the deposition of Mr. P. C. Jones was taken before Mr. Wm. Foster, Master, prior to the intended departure of said deponent for the Coast to-day. S. B. Dole for plaintiff; F. M. Hatch for defendant.

The "Thunderer's" Scoop.

Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation was announced in the London Times exclusively, and this is how the "Thunderer" managed to retain its "scoop." Lord Randolph drove into Printing-house square shortly after 11 at night and asked to see the editor. He was lodged with him for nearly an hour. As soon as Lord Randolph had been seen off the premises an order was issued to lock every door, back and front, and take the keys to the editor's room. Dispatches, as they arrived through the night, were taken in at a window in the courtyard. Not a soul was permitted to leave the premises on any pretext whatever. The secret was, till 2 o'clock in the morning, locked in the breast of the editor and two leader writers. The paragraph announcing the resignation and the articles commenting thereon were written and held back to the last moment. But even then, the hour being one at which other papers had gone to press, the doors were still locked, and it was not till the paper had gone to press that the doors were unlocked. N. Y. Herald.

The Kanaka Princes.

The Princes Edward, David and Jonas of the royal house of Hawaii spent the day yesterday in visiting the chief places of interest in the city and the evening in the pursuit of pleasure. These young gentlemen, whose names in the Hawaiian language are Kawananakoa, Kalaniana'ole and Keluabonui, signifying the giver of all good things, the light of heaven and the great chief of all the earth, will return to their school at San Mateo to-day and enter upon a course of study which will perfect them in those arts of modern warfare which are supposed to qualify an aspirant for military honors for a position upon the staff of His Majesty Kalakaua, King of the Hawaiian Islands.—S. F. Call, January 24th.

AMONG THE CHINESE.

Their Curious Way of Reckoning—Old Age a Distinction.

The Chinese do not reckon their age from the day of birth, but from New Year's day. It is on this account sometimes difficult to find out the true age of young children. Here is a tiny shaven-headed bundle of humanity, scarcely able to stand alone for a moment, and you are gravely assured that he is 8 years old. If you have left the sacred rules of propriety at home, you venture mildly and politely to cast just a faint shadow of doubt upon the statement; or if you do not discredit the parent's assertion, but are still unacquainted with the mode of reckoning, you probably conclude with its parents on the slight degree of progress he has made toward maturity.

Should a child arrive in this world at 11:55 o'clock on New Year's eve, the fond father will proudly assure you next morning that the new arrival is 2 years old, and never so much as think that what he says is untrue. Seeing that clocks are very scarce articles except along the coast, and that even where a clock is found time is a very elastic and variable quantity, one wonders how such matters are determined in certain cases. The Chinese do not conceal their age, nor do they ever try to represent themselves as younger than they are. There is a much stronger tendency to add to the stated number of their years than to diminish it. On being introduced to a new acquaintance the first question is, "What is your distinguished surname?" and the second is, "What is your honorable age?" You reply to one as readily as to the other.

Age is so much respected that it is considered a distinction to be advancing in years. There are eight or ten different names which correspond to "Mr.," according to the appearance of age, or real age, to which a man has attained, and the same for women. Besides, it is a matter of greater congratulation as years go by that one has been spared to add another year to the term of life. The length of the reign of the emperor, the term of official service, the engagements of servants, the period of residence in a locality—all are dated from the new year.—Brooklyn Magazine.

How to Become a Centenarian.

Dr. Burggrave, a learned professor of the University of Ghent, has just published a remarkable work in which he endeavors to prove that anybody who will take the trouble to follow his instructions may become a centenarian. His system is merely a system of renovation, and is simplicity itself. The great panacea for all ills which he professes to have discovered is salt, the rational use of which, he says, is a sure preserver of life. He alludes to good health as not a matter of chance or constitution. The laws which regulate human life are calm and regular phenomena, and all we have to do is to take care that they shall develop themselves without obstruction. According to his theory, salt is the great regulating agent. If the blood be too rich, salt will clarify it; if the blood be too poor, salt will strengthen and furnish it with the necessary elements.

Dr. Burggrave quotes several examples in support of the sovereign virtue which he attributes to salt. In Holland, the greatest punishment which existed for offending soldiers was to give them unsalted bread. After a few months of this regimen the culprits almost invariably died. In Saxony, at the end of the last century, a terrible epidemic reigned solely through the want of salt. The Dutch savant furthermore assures us that salt is an infallible cure for consumption and cholera. (The Russian peasants once saved themselves from a plague by putting salt in their milk.) He estimates that the quantity of salt which every adult in ordinary health should consume daily is two-thirds of an ounce. In conclusion, he asserts that if the world would only take to salt, centenarians would become almost as common as new born babes.—Chicago Times.

Scandinavian Food on Shipboard.

The food furnished us is good and substantial. Salmon, beefsteak and eggs constitute the main part of the breakfast, and the supper are still more satisfying. Great preparations are made each day for dinner. The tables are first set with shining glasses, bright silver and sundry imitation plants, such as begonias and small palms, while the available space remaining is filled with large soups and whole hams with a checker board design of squares carefully cut in the dark outer skin of each, and a paper roll pinned around each end. Huge mountains of cake, one layer upon another, with jam spread between, rise in conical form, until the last cake, about the size of a dollar, is reached. They rear their heads high in the air and almost touch the brightly polished kerosene lamps that swing above, while down below may be seen various pickle jars, and last, but not least, the cheeses. If they are not seen, they will certainly be noticed by one of the other senses. There are seven kinds of cheese provided, and by actual measurement they cover one-third of the table space. The plates come next, but they crowd close to one another, frightened by their bullying neighbors, the cakes and cheeses; but, as a guardian for each plate, there is a silent, dangerous-looking, perhaps, but harmless sentry in the form of a half bottle of Bordeaux wine, Pontet-Canet.—Sweden Cor. Boston Herald.

It is the "Shower" Now.

"Bouncer!" repeated the landlord of a big State street beer hall. "Oh, yes, I know what you mean. We don't call them bouncers any more. Yes, we have one. He is the shower. The shower performs the same duties that the bouncer used to, but he does it up slicker. The bouncer was a thumper, who never could get a man out without musing up things, tipping over a few tables, knocking off gentlemen's hats and scaring the ladies. Besides that, he usually wanted to string his rights out as long as possible, to follow men home and to forget to come back. He never knew when to quit. Now, with the shower it is different. He is more of a science man, and when he takes hold of an obnoxious party he shuts off his wind and throws him clean out into the cable track without anybody knowing it. In fifteen seconds he is back at his post. Cost much? Oh, yes, more than the bouncer did, but we get the money back, because there are no interruptions to the beer drinking."—Chicago Herald.

A Cure for the Blues.

When things go wrong; when your sweetheart proves unkind; when your pen is hard and your ink pale; when your razor isn't as it ought to be; when you dip your pen into your wineglass instead of the ink horn; when the car driver in the street below begins to curse the poor dumb brutes he holds the reins over; when you think of false friends, trusts betrayed, lonely graves in far away churchyards; penitential strangers in crowded towns, weeping women and dying men, then turn to your letters for expression and solace—to good books written by good men and women.—New York Graphic.

Mighty Interesting Reading

Lamar Fontaine, of Yazoo City, Miss., has exhibited a postal card containing 7,500 words written by him upon one side of the card with a pen.

The recent fair at Delaware, O., was characterized as a "wax-in-lined blow-out with satin trimmings" by an enthusiastic visitor.

Pretty Girls of Dublin.

Ireland is noted for its beautiful women, and the girls of Dublin are as pretty as those of any city in the world. They have, as a rule, fair, rosy complexions and good forms, and they know how to dress the latter. I attended a regatta at Dalkey, the great yachting place near Dublin, and saw some several thousands of the better class of girls of Ireland. The poorer class were shut out by the higher prices of the inclosure allotted to us, and the crowd was a kid-gloved one. The girls seemed to be remarkably healthy and in high spirits, and they showed, as I could judge from the witty remarks I heard en passant, all the love of humor for which old Ireland is famous. The Irish brogue coming out of the pearly teeth of a rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed Irish girl sounds very sweet indeed, and were I a millionaire American with one or two American girl babies, I would bring them to Ireland to raise them for the sake of their complexions. The beauties are not, however, confined to the upper classes. I saw pretty girls everywhere, and many a sweet face there is among the white capped servant girls of the hotels, and even among the workers in the fields or in the cotters' huts.—Frank G. Carpenter in Cleveland Leader.

Something for the Children.

In these days of picture books, crayons, blocks, etc., it would seem that the little ones would not lack for variety. But even these at times prove monotonous, and one must resort to some other device. At such times a blackboard is a source of interest and oftentimes amusement, and it is not a little help in teaching primary arithmetic and geography. It is not necessary for it to be large, and it will cost but little. Keep a box of colored crayons as well as white, and do not deprive the children of the pleasure of drawing on the board, as well as writing and sipping. When small children become wearied, it is just as well to release them, or draw their minds off in some other channel. Therefore, it is a good plan to let each little one have a slate and pencil, also a lead pencil and paper, and when they become wearied with their studies let them make letters. Children can not be taught the use of pen and pencil too early, and should be allowed the free use of them, even at the risk of scribbling their books, for by their continued use they learn to write easily and rapidly.—Mrs. I. A. W. in Courier-Journal.

The Pretty Queen of Rome.

A correspondent writes that the pretty queen of Rome is with her young son, the Duke of Naples, at Courmayeur, which is the Italian Chamounix on one side of Mont Blanc. "She lives," says the correspondent, "in the Hotel Royale—royal only in name—a third-class hotel, excepting in price. It is, however, delightfully placed, commanding a fine view, and the queen can go out for her frequent walks without passing through the town. Here, with her dear friend, the Villa Marina, and two gentlemen in waiting, with her young son, the pretty queen takes her summer vacation. Plainly dressed and well shod, she walks miles. She chooses the hour when the people at the hotel are dining, and the roads deserted excepting by a few peasants, to whom she speaks, and finding out their needs, is judiciously benevolent—a beautiful character Marguerite de Savoie. In the evening they send up lighted balloons and burn wood fires on the summits of the mountains.—Boston Traveler.

Girls in the Cities.

I tell you, when you come to look at it, the outlook for girls in cities is very discouraging. Their aim in life is, of course, to become happily wedded; but how few marriages in respectable society take place nowadays. Girls grow up to blooming womanhood, wither in old maidhood and die without having secured a taste of married bliss. Men seem to have no desire to wed, and of those who do, how many bring their wives to early graves or drive them to something worse. I knew a young lady who was at one time the belle of St. Louis. She married, and was considered to have made a good match. Her husband was wealthy and moved in good society. She died soon after her marriage and her funeral was largely attended; but how is she remembered? There is not so much as a slab to mark her resting place. Men, truly, are becoming wholly depraved.—Police Clerk in Globe-Democrat.

California Girls Abandoning Corsets.

I will confide to you that us girls have pledged ourselves to eschew corsets. I always did hate those things and marvel that they have been fashionable so long. Do you know, I believe us women will be wearing trousers before 1900! La mode is getting newer and newer that consumption. Look at the figures you can view any day on Kenner street or Market street. Almost the typical Grecian drapery in scantiness. Skirts are being laid aside and great is the consequent gain in ease. Oh, dear! how slow the monde is in enlightenment! Suppose we, the fair sex, should don trousers, would masculines stare at us curiously more than a week? Use breeds indifference, you know.—Oakland (Cal.) Echoes.

The Woman With the Dog.

And the inevitable woman with the dog. Shall I get to heaven some day, I wonder, and, with adoring eyes and reverent tread, go wandering through the golden streets only to encounter a sister angel, earth born and paradise transplanted like myself, clasping yet her horrible, little, dim-eyed poodle or her fat and lazy pug to her breast? I hope not, for I think I could not endure even heaven with such women about. Oh, for an earthquake to shake the cobwebs out of their brains and open their eyes to the truth that all sensible folks hold them in contempt.—"The Echo" in Chicago Journal.

A Woman Bill Poster.

Saratoga has a woman bill poster, who hangs the broad sheets and the broad paste brush with the skill of an expert. She is the widow of a former bill poster, and continues his business with energy.

Woman's Labor Union.

San Francisco has a woman's labor union. It was incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing wearing apparel, establishing laundries, eating houses, restaurants and reading rooms.

After having your hands in soapy water wet them in vinegar and spirits of camphor, it kills the alkali and keeps your hands soft.—Tribune and Farmer.

There exists still a form of contract, made in the time of Edward I of England, in which a man engaged to sell and deliver his wife to another man.—Boston Budget.

Woman is society's balance wheel, and the man who does not confide in his wife leads a life which cannot admit of day being turned with.—Washington Hatchet.

Got it Off Impromptu.

"Well, now, Mary, the cook has left us," said she, in deep distress, "and what sort of shape are we in now?" "In the shape of a polygon," replied he in great glee, for he was a paragrapher, and had never got off a good thing so impromptu before.—Judge.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1887.

AN ADVOCATE OF THE TREATY.

The people of these Islands owe a debt of gratitude to the Alta California for the ability and persistence with which that influential journal puts forward arguments in behalf of the reciprocity treaty from the Pacific Coast standpoint. In a recent article under the head, "Hawaii, Japan and the Revenues," the Alta quotes from the Japan trade circular of Minister Hubbard, which shows that the United States admits duty free fourteen millions a year of the products of Japan, and a return therefor sells to Japan two millions a year of American products. That paper asks, "Why is it that we hear no proposition to put duties on imports from Japan as a means of increasing our trade there? Where are the statesmen who look at all commerce from the standpoint of public revenue? Why not tax the Japanese trade to fill a Treasury that is too full without farther effort in that direction?" From that the Alta goes on to remark:

When the Hawaii treaty is discussed it is opposed because it admits Hawaiian products duty free, and gentlemen stand and cry the sorrows of a surfeited Treasury and rouse the country to frenzy over lost revenues that would increase our fiscal plethora to the point of indigestion and paralysis. Yet the facts are that we export to Hawaii half as much as we import, and the export is of the manufactured products and raw material of this Coast, and we do both the exporting and the importing in American bottoms, the sail vessels being built and the whole fleet, steam and sail, being owned on this Coast, so that really the balance of benefit of the Hawaiian trade is on our side and not against us. It goes to the strengthening of American trade here on the Pacific side of the continent, where it needs help, and yet the revenue is put forward as a reason why that trade should be given up.

Thence the paper goes on to discuss the annexation of territory, saying it has never been an unpopular proposition in that country, and that by conquest and purchase annexation had made the nation grow "from insignificance until it spans the continent and stretches from the tropics to the Polar Circle." Such a nation might soon require to protect its coasts by securing the permanent neutrality of offlying islands, and if in the struggle Hawaii and Cuba should be annexed or purchased, where, the Alta asks, would be the argument now based in loss of revenues upon the products of this Kingdom? "Then its commerce would be internal, like that between the States, and, according to the argument of the gentlemen who oppose the reciprocity treaty, our country would be made annually poorer by as much duty as we would lose upon that trade." Our California friend concludes his article thus:

If the revenue argument is to prevail we can better afford to tax the Japanese trade out of existence, for it reciprocates only one-seventh, than to abandon the Hawaiian trade, which reciprocates one-half in actual cash value and in its transportation in our ships, marine insurance, exchange and other financial collaterals, shows a balance in favor of our citizens.

Let it not be supposed that, because we use it in illustration, our Government has any annexation or purchase policy in regard to Hawaii. We deal honorably with other nations and are prepared to defend the independence of that Kingdom against the world in arms, if need be. Our people who have dealt with it justly believe that those islands can sustain a great, industrious, civilized population, benefited by the example of our schools and our institutions, and their progress is just as much a matter of pride in the United States as if Hawaii were a State in this Republic.

THE CALIFORNIA SENATOR.

Senator Hearst, who has been elected United States Senator for California, although not having a reputation for scholarly accomplishments or superiority in statecraft, has the record of a man of unbending integrity and single-eyed regard for the public welfare. He won his election in the face of the most powerful disparagement that could be employed against him by the railroad monopolists and the press of San Francisco with scarcely an exception. Hawaii, having some interest in California's representation in the United States Congress, may, it is to be hoped, congratulate herself on Mr. Hearst's election as that of an honest man who will bring sound judgment to bear upon any consideration of the relations between the two countries.

CINCHING SAILORS.

Hawaiian Consul McKinley's Taxes Upon Sailors.

The sailors of the Hawaiian steamer Australia have a grievance against Consul McKinley in the matter of the fees that he assesses them for shipping under the Hawaiian flag and under Hawaiian laws.

It appears that McKinley used to charge the Oceanic Company 50 cents for shipping each member of the crews of the Hawaiian steamers. On their return to port he levied $1 from each man for discharging him and 25 cents a month for hospital money. As the crew numbers about eighty-five men it will be seen that McKinley had rather a fat thing, collecting nearly $150 for each trip of the steamer, which lasted about three weeks. As there were two Hawaiian steamers then running to Honolulu and each made at the rate of thirteen trips a year, McKinley's perquisites from this source alone amounted to nearly $4,000 per annum, for most of which the sailors were cinched.

But six months ago complaints were made to John D. Spreckels about these heavy taxes, which amounted almost to a month's pay for every sailor under the Hawaiian colors. The monstrosity of the charge was apparent, and Mr. Spreckels made McKinley reduce his fees for discharging the crew to 50 cents, instead of $1. Each man now pays 75 cents for his round trip to Honolulu, and the Spreckels have to pay 50 cents for each man. But on the long voyage to Sydney McKinley still levies an assessment of $1 from each, and 50 or 75 cents for hospital money, according as the steamer has been away for two or three months. It should be mentioned that one-half of all these fees go into the Consular pocket—hence the desire for such heavy assessments—the other half going to the credit of the Hawaiian Government.

On the last voyage of the Australia, a sailor named Knop burst an aneurism and died. He was sick before his arrival in Honolulu, so Captain Houdlette endeavored to get him into the hospital there, but he was informed that the institution was privately endowed and was only for the use of native Kanakas, unless a man paid a special charge for his admission. One sailor, interviewed by a D. R. reporter, said he was taken sick in San Francisco about six months ago and applied to McKinley to send him to the hospital here. "But the old Kanaka," said the salt, "told me to get out of his office and get sick in Honolulu, where I could be taken care of and sent to the hospital there. He said he could do nothing here, and that we paid the hospital fees so that we should be taken care of in Honolulu. From the case of poor Knop you will see how we are taken care of there. We don't see why we should pay hospital fees for nothing, as Coal Yard Mac won't help us. You know that's his name on the city front, where he is well known from the time he kept a coal yard here. Any one who can get ahead of Coal Yard Mac has to get up pretty early, I tell you."

It seems that the sailor's remarks are true, and that the Hawaiian Consul's charges are higher than those of any other foreign representative. He now makes $1.25 on each sailor on his round trip to Honolulu, 50 cents of which is paid by the Spreckels, who acknowledge the high charges and have done their best to get them reduced, succeeding to the extent of 50 cents in the case of each sailor. McKinley asserts that his charges are according to law, but it is shrewdly suspected that he made the law himself. He reduced the fees before when Mr. Spreckels demanded it without any special act of the Hawaiian Legislature, and the chances are that he will have to reduce them again. The whole thing is an outrage and shows the folly of putting a greedy man in charge of an office where his income is derived from fees.—S. F. Daily Report.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Meeting of the Board—The Parade Abandoned—Resolution of Condolence.

Last evening the adjourned monthly meeting of the Board of Representatives of the Honolulu Fire Department was held at the Bell Tower. Mr. C. B. Wilson, Chief Engineer, presided, and there was an attendance of twenty-one members. Mr. Penry Smith, Secretary, read a communication each from Engine Companies 2 and 4, Pacific Hose and Hook & Ladder Companies, transmitting results of elections. Officers of No. 2 and Pacific Hose have been published in this paper previously. Those of No. 4 are as follows: James H. Boyd, Foreman; P. Souza, First Assistant and Treasurer; Wm. Keawe, Second Assistant; J. M. Kaneakua, Secretary. Hook & Ladder Co. reported the election of Geo. W. Kanaakoa as Assistant Foreman in place of James Lewis, resigned. Two bills were ordered paid.

The action of the Chief Engineer, regarding the postponement of the annual parade on account of the death of Princess Likelike, was confirmed. A motion was made that the parade take place on March 17th, but an amendment prevailed that it be indefinitely postponed for this year.

It was resolved that the Fire Department take part in the obsequies at the interment of the lamented Princess. Also resolved that the following minute be engrossed on the records, and a copy thereof transmitted to His Majesty and the royal family:—

"IN MEMORIAM.

"It having pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to call from this earthly sphere the soul of Her late Royal Highness Princess Miriam Likelike, His Majesty's beloved sister, who died on the 2nd inst., we, the officers and members of the Honolulu Fire Department in meeting assembled, and in common with the bewailing subjects of his realm, hereby mournfully tender our most heartfelt sympathy to His Majesty, to the Hon. A. S. Cleghorn, husband of the late Princess, to Princess Kaiulani, her daughter, to Princess Liliuokalani, her sister, and all the members of the royal family."

The meeting then adjourned.

Shipping Intelligence.

The brigantine Claus Spreckels began loading yesterday morning, and will sail for San Francisco at noon to-day.

The schooner Moiwahini arrived from Kohala, Hawaii, yesterday forenoon, bringing 1,140 bags of sugar, which she discharged into the barkentine John Smith. She sailed from Kohala at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, arriving here at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, making a remarkable fast passage.

The barkentine Geo. C. Perkins, Captain Ackermann, arrived in port yesterday forenoon, 12 days from San Francisco. She is consigned to Schaefer & Co., and is docked at Brewer's wharf.

The British bark Mary Fisher, Capt. Buckin, arrived yesterday, 154 days from Glasgow, with a cargo of general merchandise consigned to Schaefer & Co. She is docked at the old Custom House wharf.

Police Court.

Pijipilani was brought up yesterday, charged with selling liquors without a license, being found guilty and fined $400 and $3.70 costs. An appeal was noted.

One case of drunkenness yielded $6 into the treasury, and one case of assault and battery was remanded.

CIVIL CASES.

Kemeni vs. Meleana (w), deserting her husband. Case dismissed.

Mr. Ricard T. Booth, temperance evangelist, had a large native audience at Kawaiahae Church on Wednesday night. Rev. H. H. Parker, pastor, interpreted the lecture. At the close 105 persons signed the pledge and 317 took the blue ribbon. Yesterday Mr. Booth decided not to leave for San Francisco by to-day's steamer, but remain for a short season to work among the natives.

For sale—two parrots, one speaking English, Spanish and Hawaiian perfectly; the other, same breed but younger, a very good English talker. Also, a monkey, very playful and tractable. Apply at Fort-street Shooting Gallery. 1w

Posters printed in Chinese and posted throughout Chinatown, are attracting a good deal of attention among the Chinese residents. The meaning of them could not be ascertained, the Chinese answering as usual when questioned, "Me no sabe."

BUSINESS ITEMS.

No hand-book exceeds the Hawaiian Almanac and Annual for reliable statistical and general information relating to these Islands. Price 50 cents.

If you want a good smoke for your money, patronize home industry and call at J. W. Hingley's, Crystal Soda Works, 69 Hotel street, next door to Horn's Bakery. Island orders solicited and promptly filled. There is no license required to sell these cigars.

The Repeated Lecture.

Association Hall was nearly filled last night to hear Mr. Richard T. Booth repeat, for the benefit of Geo. W. De Long Post, G. A. R., his lecture, "Three Years in the Ranks." Seldom has such a fine arrangement of American flags been made in Honolulu as the display on this occasion. Over the platform and forming a setting for the picture of Lieut. De Long, patronymic of the Post, two large flags were gathered in the form of a shield. Crossed stars and stripes depended from the center of the ceiling, and windows on all sides were draped with the name of a State of the Union on each were pinned to the flags throughout the hall, showing to good advantage in the whole system of decoration. The lecture was varied somewhat from the first delivery, and delivered with more ease than on that occasion when the lecturer was ill. It was heartily applauded at many points, besides evoking frequent laughter at the comic passages with which it was plentifully strewn; while ever and again a pathetic or blood-stirring incident was related with the feeling and forceful touch of pure eloquence that moistens the eye and moves the heart of the listener. As the audience were retiring Mr. Booth asked them to sing a verse of "America," which they did with a will. "Marching through Georgia" had been sung by choir and audience before the lecture.

SUPREME COURT.

INTERMEDIARY DIVISION.

Before Judge Preston, February 10. Kalepe vs. Kanakanni. Damages $300. Ordered that appeal be allowed to be withdrawn. L. A. Thurston for plaintiff; Kinney for defendant.

Union Feed Co. vs. G. H. Luce. Assumpsit $156. Ordered that nonsuit be set aside and case referred back to Police Magistrate. F. M. Hatch for plaintiff; A. Rosa for defendant.

A DEPOSITION.

In the equity suit of Geo. W. Willifong against John H. Paty, in relation to $6,000 worth of Hawaiian Agricultural Company's shares of stock, now pending before the Supreme Court, the deposition of Mr. P. C. Jones was taken before Mr. Wm. Foster, Master, prior to the intended departure of said deponent for the Coast to-day. S. B. Dule for plaintiff; F. M. Hatch for defendant.

The "Thunderer's" Scoop.

Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation was announced in the London Times exclusively, and this is how the "Thunderer" managed to retain its "scoop." Lord Randolph drove into Printing-house square shortly after 11 at night and asked to see the editor. He was lodged with him for nearly an hour. As soon as Lord Randolph had been seen off the premises an order was issued to lock every door, back and front, and take the keys to the editor's room. Dispatches, as they arrived through the night, were taken in at a window in the courtyard. Not a soul was permitted to leave the premises on any pretext whatever. The secret was, till a o'clock in the morning, locked in the breast of the editor and two leader writers. The paragraph announcing the resignation and the articles commenting thereon were written and held back to the last moment. But even then, the hour being one at which other papers had gone to press, the doors were still locked, and it was not till the paper had gone to press that the doors were unlocked.—N. Y. Herald.

The Kanaka Princes.

The Princes Edward, David and Jonas of the royal house of Hawaii spent the day yesterday in visiting the chief places of interest in the city and the evening in the pursuit of pleasure. These young gentlemen, whose names in the Hawaiian language are Kawananakoa, Kalaniana'ole and Keluahuani, signifying the giver of all good things, the light of heaven and the great chief of all the earth, will return to their school at San Mateo to-day and enter upon a course of study which will perfect them in those arts of modern warfare which are so proposed to qualify an aspirant for military honors for a position upon the staff of His Majesty Kalakaua, King of the Hawaiian Islands.—S. F. Call, January 24th.

AMONG THE CHINESE.

Their Curious Way of Reckoning—Old Age a Distinction.

The Chinese do not reckon their age from the day of birth, but from New Year's day. It is on this account sometimes difficult to find out the true age of young children. Here is a tiny shaven-headed bundle of humanity, scarcely able to stand alone for a moment, and you are gravely assured that he is 8 years old. If you have left the sacred rules of propriety at home, you venture mildly and politely to cast just a faint shadow of doubt upon the statement; or if you do not discredit the parent's assertion, but are still unacquainted with the mode of reckoning, you probably console with its parents on the slight degree of progress he has made toward maturity.

Should a child arrive in this world at 11:55 o'clock on New Year's eve, the fond father will proudly assure you next morning that the new arrival is 2 years old, and never so much as think that what he says is untrue. Seeing that clocks are very scarce articles except along the coast, and that even where a clock is found time is a very elastic and variable quantity, one wonders how such matters are determined in certain cases. The Chinese do not conceal their age, nor do they ever try to represent themselves as younger than they are. There is a much stronger tendency to add to the stated number of their years than to diminish it. On being introduced to a new acquaintance the first question is, "What is your distinguished surname?" and the second is, "What is your honorable age?" You reply to one as readily as to the other.

Age is so much respected that it is considered a distinction to be advancing in years. There are eight or ten different names which correspond to "Mr.," according to the appearance of age, or real age, to which a man has attained, and the same for women. Besides, it is a matter of greater congratulation as years go by that one has been spared to add another year to the term of life. The length of the reign of the emperor, the term of official service, the engagements of servants, the period of residence in a locality—all are dated from the new year.—Brooklyn Magazine.

How to Become a Centenarian.

Dr. Burggrave, a learned professor of the University of Ghent, has just published a remarkable work in which he endeavors to prove that anybody who will take the trouble to follow his instructions may become a centenarian. His system is merely a system of renovation, and is simplicity itself. The great panacea for all ills which he professes to have discovered is salt, the rational use of which, he says, is a sure preserver of life. He alleges that good health is not a matter of chance or constitution. The laws which regulate human life are calm and regular phenomena, and all we have to do is to take care that they shall develop themselves without obstruction. According to his theory, salt is the great regulating agent. If the blood be too rich, salt will clarify it; if the blood be too poor, salt will strengthen and furnish it with the necessary elements.

Dr. Burggrave quotes several examples in support of the sovereign virtue which he attributes to salt. Formerly, in Holland, the greatest punishment which existed for offending soldiers was to give them unsalted bread. After a few months of this regimen the culprits almost invariably died. In Saxony, at the end of the last century, a terrible epidemic reigned solely through the want of salt. The Dutch savant furthermore assures us that salt is an infallible cure for consumption and cholera. The Russian peasants once saved themselves from a plague by putting salt in their milk. He estimates that the quantity of salt which every adult in ordinary health should consume daily is two-thirds of an ounce. In conclusion, he asserts that if the world would only take to salt, centenarians would become almost as common as now born babes.—Chicago Times.

Scandinavian Food on Shipboard.

The food furnished us is good and substantial. Salmon, beefsteak and eggs constitute the main part of the breakfast, and the suppers are still more satisfying. Great preparations are made each day for dinner. The tables are first set with shining glasses, bright silver and sundry imitation plants, such as begonias and small palms, while the available space remaining is filled with large sausages and whole hams with a checker board design of squares carefully cut in the dark outer skin of each, and a paper frill pinned around each end bone. Huge mountains of cake, one layer upon another, with jam spread between, rise in conical form, until the last cake, about the size of a dollar, is reached. They rear their heads high in the air and almost touch the brightly polished kerosene lamps that swing above, while down below may be seen various pickle jars, and last, but not least, the cheeses. If they are not seen, they will certainly be noticed by one of the other senses. There are seven kinds of cheese provided, and by actual measurement they cover one-third of the table space. The plates come next, but they crowd close to one another, frightened by their bullying neighbors, the cakes and cheeses; but, as a guardian for each plate, there is a silent, dangerous-looking, perhaps, but harmless sentry in the form of a half bottle of Bordeaux wine, Pontet-Canez.—Swenden Cor. Boston Herald.

It is the "Shover" Now.

"Bouncer!" repeated the landlord of a big State street beer hall. "Oh, yes, I know what you mean. We don't call them bouncers any more. Yes, we have one. He is the shover. The shover performs the same duties that the bouncer used to, but he does it up slicker. The bouncer was a thimble, who never could get a man out without musing up things, tipping over a few tables, knocking off gentlemen's hats and scaring the ladies. Besides that, he usually wanted to string his fights out as long as possible, to follow men home and to forget to come back. He never knew when to quit. Now, with the shover it is different. He is more of a science man, and when he takes hold of an obnoxious party he shuts off his wind and throws him clean out into the cable track without anybody knowing it. In fifteen seconds he is back at his post. Cost much? Oh, yes, more than the bouncer did, but we get the money back, because there are no interruptions to the beer drinking."—Chicago Herald.

A Cure for the Blues.

When things go wrong; when your sweet-heart proves unkind; when your pen is hard and your ink pale; when your razor isn't as it ought to be; when you dip your pen into your wineglass instead of the ink horn; when the car driver in the street below begins to curse the poor dumb brutes he holds the reins over; when you think of false friends, trusts betrayed, lonely graves in far away churchyards; penless strangers in crowded towns; weeping women and dying men, then turn to your letters for expression and solace—to good books written by good men and women.—New York Graphic.

Mighty Interesting Reading

Lamar Fontaine, of Yazoo City, Miss., has exhibited a postal card containing 7,300 words written by him upon one side of the card with a pen.

The recent fair at Delaware, O., was characterized as a "sensational blow-out with satin trimmings" by an enthusiastic visitor.

Pretty Girls of Dublin.

Ireland is noted for its beautiful women, and the girls of Dublin are as pretty as those of any city in the world. They have, as a rule, fair, rosy complexions and good forms, and they know how to dress the latter. I attended a regatta at Dalkey, the great yachting place near Dublin, and saw some several thousands of the better class of girls of Ireland. The poorer class were shut out by the higher prices of the enclosure allotted to us, and the crowd was a kid-gloved one. The girls seemed to be remarkably healthy and in high spirits, and they showed, as I could judge from the witty remarks I heard on the subject, all the love of humor for which old Ireland is famous. The Irish brogue coming out of the pearly teeth of a rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed Irish girl sounds very sweet indeed, and were I a millionaire American with one or two American girl babies, I would bring them to Ireland to raise them for the sake of their complexions. The beauties are not, however, confined to the upper classes. I saw pretty girls everywhere, and many a sweet face there is among the white capped servant girls of the hotels, and even among the workers in the fields or in the cottier's huts.—Frank G. Carpenter in Cleveland Leader.

Something for the Children.

In these days of picture books, crayons, blocks, etc., it would seem that the little ones would not lack for variety. But even these at times prove monotonous, and one must resort to some other device. At such times a blackboard is a source of interest and oftentimes amusement, and it is not a little help in teaching primary arithmetic and geography. It is not necessary for it to be large, and it will cost but little. Keep a box of colored crayons as well as white, and do not deprive the children of the pleasure of drawing on the board, as well as writing and ciphering. When small children become wearied, it is just as well to release them, or draw their minds off in some other channel. Therefore, it is a good plan to let each little one have a slate and pencil, also a lead pencil and paper, and when they become wearied with other studies let them make letters. Children can not be taught the use of pen and pencil too early, and should be allowed the free use of them, even at the risk of scribbling their books, for by their continued use they learn to write easily and rapidly.—Mrs. I. A. W. in Courier-Journal.

The Pretty Queen of Rome.

A correspondent writes that the pretty queen of Rome is with her young son, the Duke of Naples, at Courmayeur, which is the Italian Chamounix on one side of Mont Blanc. "She lives," says the correspondent, "in the Hotel Royale—royal only in name—a third-class hotel, excepting in price. It is, however, delightfully placed, commanding a fine view, and the queen can go out for her frequent walks without passing through the town. Here, with her dear friend, the Villa Marina, and two gentlemen in waiting, with her young son, the pretty queen takes her summer vacation. Fairly dressed and well shod, she walks miles. She chooses the hour when the people at the hotel are dining and the roads deserted excepting by a few peasants, to whom she speaks, and finding out their needs, is judiciously benevolent—a beautiful character Marguerite de Savoie. In the evening they send up lighted balloons and burn wood fires on the summits of the mountains.—Boston Traveler.

Girls in the Cities.

I tell you, when you come to look at it, the outlook for girls in cities is very discouraging. Their aim in life is, of course, to become happily wedded; but how few marriages in respectable society take place nowadays. Girls grow up to blooming womanhood, with in old maidhood and die without having secured a taste of married blessedness. Men seem to have no desire to wed, and of those who do, how many bring their wives to early graves or drive them to something worse. I knew a young lady who was at one time the belle of St. Louis. She married, and was considered to have made a good match. Her husband was wealthy and moved in good society. She died soon after her marriage and her funeral was largely attended; but how is she remembered? There is not so much as a slab to mark her resting place. Men, truly, are becoming wholly depraved.—Police Clerk in Globe-Democrat.

California Girls Abandoning Corsets.

I will confide to you that us girls have pledged ourselves to eschew corsets. I always did hate those things and marvel that they have been fashionable so long. Do you know, I believe us women will be wearing trousers before 1900! La mode is getting nearer and nearer that consummation. Look at the figures you can view any day on Kearney street or Market street. Almost the typical Grecian drapery in scantiness. Skirts are being laid aside and great is the consequent gain in ease. Oh, dear! how slow the monde is in enlightenment! Suppress the fair sex, should don trousers, would masculinize stare at us curiously more than a week! Use breeches indifference, you know.—Oakland (Cal.) Echoes.

The Woman With the Dog.

And the inevitable woman with the dog. Shall I get to heaven some day, I wonder, and, with adoring eyes and reverent tread, go wandering through the golden streets only to encounter a sister angel, earth born and paradise transplanted like myself, clasping yet her horrible, little, dim-eyed poodle or her fat and lazy pug to her breast? I hope not, for I think I could not endure even heaven with such women about. Oh, for an earthquake to shake the cobwebs out of their brains and open their eyes to the truth that all sensible folks hold them in contempt.—"Shover" in Chicago Journal.

A Woman Bill Poster.

Santiago has a woman bill poster, who handles the broad sheets and the broad paste brush with the skill of an expert. She is the widow of a former bill poster, and continues his business with energy.

Woman's Labor Union.

San Francisco has a woman's labor union. It was incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing wearing apparel, establishing laundries, eating houses, restaurants and reading rooms.

After having your hands in soapy water wet them in vinegar and spirits of camphor, it kills the alkali and keeps your hands soft.—Tribune and Farmer.

There exists still a form of contract, made in the time of Edward I of England, in which a man engaged to sell and deliver his wife to another man.—Boston Budget.

Woman is society's balance wheel, and the man who does not confide in his wife leads a life which cannot admit of day being turned upright.—Washington Hatchet.

Got it Off Impromptu.

"Well, now, Mary, the cook has left us," said she, in deep distress, "and what sort of shape are we in now?" "In the shape of a polygon," replied he in great glee, for he was a paragon, and had never got off a good thing so impromptu before.—Judge.
