

FRAUD IN NATURALIZATION IS CHARGED

DISTRICT ATTORNEY BRECKONS BEGINS A SUIT TO CANCEL THE NATURALIZATION PAPERS OF A MAN WHOSE MOTHER WAS A JAPANESE, ON THE GROUND THAT HE FRAUDULENTLY REPRESENTED HIMSELF TO BE A CAUCASIAN.

District Attorney Breckons has begun a proceeding in the federal court to cancel the naturalization papers of Joseph Makino Higginbotham, of Kailua, on the ground that the papers were secured by fraud. Higginbotham was naturalized by Circuit Judge Mathewman, at Kailua, on representations that he was a Caucasian, it is stated, and in fact he is alleged to be not Caucasian, but of half Japanese parentage. The complaint sets forth that Higginbotham's mother was a full blooded Japanese, and that this fact was concealed from the court, the respondent wilfully and fraudulently representing himself as a Caucasian. Judge Doie is asked to make an order cancelling the citizenship papers issued.

The proceedings is the first one of the kind brought here. Makino Higginbotham is the man who started the famous Kau Weekly, a Japanese paper of more originality than erudition. His father was a white man. He appeared as a British subject when naturalized and if the present petition of the district attorney is granted will have to resume British citizenship, or be without any country at all. Breckons was asked this morning what was the reason for the proceedings and replied that the matter of the alleged fraud had been called to his attention.

The Makino case may serve to bring up some interesting questions of citizenship rights. The constitution of the United States prohibits the naturalization of Asiatics, but Makino is only half Asiatic, and the question might arise as to whether persons who are part Asiatic may become citizens. Such a question would effect a large number of persons in these islands.

NEXT YEAR JURY LIST

COMMISSIONERS HAVE PREPARED A LIST FROM WHICH 1906 JURIES WILL BE DRAWN.

The new jury list for the January term of the Circuit Court will probably be filed this afternoon. It consists of 325 names of citizens who are to be on the jury list for all of next year, and is selected by jury commissioners under the new jury law. Both grand and trial juries are to be drawn from this list, and the court has already published a notice that December 18 will be the day of drawing such juries.

The jury commissioners are G. J. Waller and J. W. Girvin. They have made up a list of 325 persons who are all supposed to be citizens and eligible for jury duty. Considerable trouble was had with the previous lists, in which there were many who were disqualified for jury duty, and special care has been taken this time.

OBJECTS TO CONTAGION

THE REASON THAT THE QUEEN'S HOSPITAL DOES NOT WANT A NEW DEPARTMENT.

F. A. Schaefer, of the Queen's Hospital Board, when asked this morning as to the story that the Board of Health required an emergency department added to the present establishment stated definitely that the hospital had always been used as an emergency hospital.

"The question is not quite understood," he said "We have always at the Queen's Hospital attended to emergency cases as any one who has read the papers should know. People who are injured on the streets, people who are injured through crimes—in fact any persons who need immediate surgical aid,—are brought to the Queen's hospital and there treated. That is considered one of the things that the hospital should do. When it comes to a question of contagious disease, however, the situation changes. Of course I know that the Board of Health is acting in what it considers the best interests of the public but would it be wise to establish in the Queen's hospital grounds a place for the harboring and treatment of contagious diseases? I think not.

"Speaking for myself I have every sympathy for those who contract such diseases and will do all that I can to aid them, but I believe that the establishment of a contagious disease department on the hospital grounds would seriously impair the usefulness of the hospital. We have no fight with the public or with the government but we think that people who have cases would not care to go to the Queen's Hospital if contagious diseases were taken there."

THE ALAMEDA ARRIVES FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

VESSEL WAS SIGHTED THIS MORNING OFF WAIMANALO, BUT NOT UNTIL SHORTLY AFTER THE NOON HOUR WAS THE IDENTITY OF THE CRAFT POSITIVELY DETERMINED—MUCH SATISFACTION OVER HER RETURN TO THE LOCAL RUN.

The Alameda "has come." The old reliable boat of the Oceanic S. S. Company was whistled off Koko Head today at 12:15 p. m., and it was comparatively a short time before she arrived off the port. Special interest was attached to the arrival of the vessel today. It was the first time she had made Honolulu since her mishap on September 30 when she shoved her nose on to the rocks off Fort Point just inside of the Golden Gate while she was bound for Honolulu. She was successfully salvaged, repaired and last Saturday started on her local run once a feeling of relief when Waimanalo reported at 10:30 o'clock this morning that "a big volume of smoke was showing to windward." "It must be the Alameda" everybody said, but still nothing definite was known for over an hour. Finally at 11:30 o'clock Waimanalo reported that the steamer, hull down, had two masts and one funnel. The description of the masts and the funnel correspond to the Alameda, so the natural presumption was that the favorite vessel was nearing the island. There was a possibility however that the cruiser Chicago might have been sighted, as she is nearly due from San more with a large cargo of freight for Francisco. But when Diamond Head

It had been thought that the vessel would be reported this morning at 6 o'clock, her usual time, and when no whistles were heard, there were naturally conjectures as to the cause of her delay. Some said her machinery had gotten out of whack, others said those dreaded plates had dropped off, but the favorite theory was that the Russian cruiser Lena had captured her and was towing the boat to Vladivostok or any old place.

But nevertheless, in spite of the joshes that were passed around, there was Francisco. But when Diamond Head Charlie got his peepers on to the vessel and declared it was the Alameda, everybody breathed a sigh of relief and knew that the old ferry boat was coming.

The boat left San Francisco December 2 and brought a week's later mail. She came into the harbor this afternoon and was greeted with whistles by various craft. Her return to the local run was an occasion for much rejoicing, for she is a reliable little boat and Honolulu has a secret aloha for the craft. She will sail for San Francisco next Wednesday, December 13.

Almy And His New Nest Trap

A POOR CONFIDING HEN CANNOT LAY AN EGG NOW WITHOUT HIS KNOWING ABOUT IT.

Of all the outrageous contrivances ever invented that now on exhibition at the Poultry Show by H. N. Almy is the most outrageous.

It is a contrivance which is known as a trap nest and to the eye and mind of the non-poultry raiser it seems to be calculated to pry into the innermost secrets of the lives of confiding hens.

Thus it works: On an inviting nest of grass there is a pseudo-egg, a plainly meretricious contrivance of porcelain which is nevertheless sufficiently ovalular in appearance to deceive unsuspecting hens.

"Ha-ha!" says the hen when she feels that way. "This is evidently a good place for laying an egg. Me to the nest."

After looking round to assure herself that no person is looking the hen carefully ascends a slight incline and—bing! No sooner does she enter the door than the floorway gives way beneath her weight for a fraction of an inch and she is imprisoned.

"All right," says the hen to herself with a spirit of philosophical resignation which might well be cultivated by the human race. "All right," she says, "but I'll lay an egg anyhow."

And this she proceeds to do with neatness and despatch.

Then comes the fendishness of the scheme into play. She steps from the nest and, as the floor is set saw-fashion, her weight again sends the floor over for a fraction of an inch and this establishes an electrical connection which rings a bell.

The chambermaid of the henery is then supposed to go to the trap nest.

Remarkable Land Controversy

TWO PERSONS OF THE SAME NAME GAVE CONFLICTING DEEDS TO SAME PROPERTY.

A remarkable land controversy is described in a decision of the Supreme Court this morning in the case of Mary K. Tibbets vs. S. M. Damon and others, trustees under the will of B. P. Bishop. It appears that two persons of the same name each gave a title to the same piece of land, one to the defendant and one to the plaintiff, and the question is which was the right one. The case went to the Supreme Court on a problem reserved by the circuit judge, as to whether a former suit has settled the matter, and stops Tibbets from suing now. The court advises the circuit judge that the suit may be prosecuted. The statement of the case is as follows:

"This is an action of ejectment in which the First Circuit Court reserved for the consideration of this court a question arising from the following facts admitted by stipulation: That both plaintiff and defendants claim title to the property sued for and set out in the complaint of plaintiff through one G. D. Kalala as a common source of title and that said G. D. Kalala by deed dated May 15, 1879, conveyed said property to one Laheia Kapoli (w.); that there were two persons of the name of Laheia Kapoli, and that from one of them plaintiff received a deed of the premises and that from the other the defendants received a deed of the premises sued for; that the sole question of fact at issue in this action is the identity of the grantee in the deed from G. D. Kalala, that it is plaintiff's grantor or defendants' grantor the Laheia Kapoli who was the grantee in the deed from G. D. Kalala; that in an action of ejectment commenced on

THE ATTORNEYS CHANGE ABOUT

PECULIAR SITUATION DEVELOPS IN THE COURSE OF THE DEFENSE OF BERTELMAN.

The Bertelman trial struck another snag yesterday as a result of which United States Attorney Dunne spent half the morning in arguing almost on the opposite side of his long argument of several days ago. The former argument was to allow testimony to go in regarding other alleged crooked transactions of Bertelman. Judge Dole ruled the evidence out after almost a day of argument. In the morning on the defense, Strauss proceeded to offer testimony as to other alleged honest transactions similar to the one at bar, and the argument was resumed with the attorneys on changed sides.

Bertelman was a witness in his own behalf. He admitted getting the money from the prosecution's witnesses, but claimed that it had been for advertisements in a directory he was getting up, and not as a federal officer as charged.

CARTER ADDRESSES THURSDAY CLUB

EXPRESSES ERNEST VIEWS ON THE NEW IMMIGRATIONS MOVEMENT.

Governor Carter last night addressed the Thursday Evening Club on "Uncle Sam and Hawaii." He was introduced by President Horne of Kamehameha School, who congratulated the club on having the executive as speaker. The governor made quite a long address and in the first part of his speech reviewed recent Congressional work for Hawaii, referring specially to the leprosy measure. He also reviewed the events which led up to annexation and paid a high tribute to the policy pursued in the days prior to annexation by President Dole. He also discussed the new immigration movements, saying in part:

"The President of the United States is showing an interest in Hawaii and Hawaiian legislation. The people of the United States want this country prosperous. The United States wants this country to go ahead. And then the President goes on and says that he does not want Hawaii to be an exclusively rich man's country where the poor man is trodden down. And neither do we. Hawaii is probably the only community in the world where the corporations have souls. It is our corporations that subscribe to our charities, to our churches, to our philanthropies. It is right that they should and we want our country to continue to grow in wealth. We want also that every plantation villager shall be interested in the government that is over him and we want him to help with his vote to make this land what it should be. We want our 155,000 people to increase to 500,000. We have the room for them. We have the work for them and we have the land for them. We hear kicks about the land system. The land system is all right. Only about one-third of the land now belongs to the government and a great deal of this waste land. The best land is in private ownership. But we want men who will help us. We do not want those who think the world owes them a living. Let them stay on the mainland. We want those who are independent and propose to earn their living. We want them to share with the plantations. We want them to work their farms, perhaps on shares. Not alone shares in the profits but some share also in the losses."

The Governor discussed the relations of the plantations with the new colonization movement and spoke of a plantation man who had talked a great deal about the foolish—and worse—policy of the executive, who afterwards came out of a session with the Govern-nor, a firm believer in the executive's plans. He declared that if the plantations were to share profits with their farmers, it was but fair that some of the risks should likewise be shared between them. The desolation of the cane-field of Hawaii would be a bane to the farmer and the government as well as to the planter and all must work together.

The chairman of the evening, Perley H. Horne, President of Kamehameha Schools, thanked the Governor on behalf of the audience, for his remarks, which he said was an address and not a mere talk. He spoke in high terms of the fervent patriotic spirit with which the Governor had infused his entire discourse, at the same time assuring him of the hearty support of everyone present.

The dinner of the Thursday Club, which preceded the address in the hall, was well attended, among those present being, besides Governor Carter, who was the guest of honor, J. P. Cooke of the Immigration Board, Ven. Archdeacon Jeffries, the visiting Episcopal clergyman; County Treasurer Trent, Senator Dickey, Judge Dickey, Judge Whitney, Postmaster Pratt, Rev. J. W. Wadman, pastor Methodist Church, President Horne of Kamehameha School, C. J. Day, and General Secretary Brown of the Y. M. C. A.

Next Thursday Judges Whitney and Dickey will present addresses on the various phases of the local courts.

Commendable Legal Zeal

Takada has been found guilty of murder in the second degree, and the verdict is entitled to respect as the judgment of twelve men who studied his case earnestly. The defendant probably had a very narrow escape from a verdict which would have made it the duty of the judge to sentence him to be hanged. But aside from the verdict there is one feature of the case worthy of special note, and that is the long battle made in behalf of the defendant by counsel who were only acting as appointees of the court and were not only without remuneration, but were necessarily compelled to spend money of their own in the preparation of the defense. Whether it is proper to make a strenuous technical defense of a defendant who appears palpably guilty is a question of legal ethics which seems to be almost lost sight of nowadays and need not be considered in connection with the Takada case, but certainly under the accepted view of counsels' duties, ex-Justice Perry and H. D. Middleditch, who conducted the defense in the Takada case, are entitled to the highest credit. And it is a credit to American institutions, in the eyes of our Japanese population, that such an exhibition of professional zeal should be made. Here is a Japanese without a cent and without a friend who can pay anything for him, accused of a grave crime and placed on trial, and he is defended just as earnestly as if he had paid a large fee for counsel. The Takada case has been ably prosecuted and ably defended, just as though it involved the guilt or innocence of a man of means. This is what is contemplated by the laws which attempt to provide that no accused man even if he is penniless, shall be convicted without defense.

Punitive Expeditions

Punitive expeditions are not a thing of the past, though the accounts of them read almost like some long forgotten manuscript discovered by Archivist Lydecker. Germany has not been very successful in her punitive expeditions in German Southwest Africa, of late. But France and England, those hereditary enemies, have joined forces in the New Hebrides, and are sweeping everything before them. The following is a report of one of these punitive expeditions:

"It appears from the accounts to hand that on October 12 and 13 two expeditionary forces from the French warship Meurthe were landed to punish the natives for having murdered a French colonist named Sirguay upwards of a year ago at Bargilliat Bay. First of all a demand was made for the production of the actual murderers, and upon the native chiefs refusing to comply with the request of the French officers, the expedition on the second day marched to the native village, which was fired and completely destroyed. The heat was intense at the time, and during the march of the small expeditionary force into the interior two of the Frenchmen were stricken down by sunstroke, and were carried back to the Meurthe by their comrades.

"The officers of the Meurthe also learned that two of the native members of the crew of the recruiting cutter Lily were recently murdered while in the act of getting water at the bottom of West Bay, Mallicollo. The unfortunate men were in their whale boat at the time, and were suddenly attacked by a large mob of infuriated natives, who killed them by means of clubs. The Meurthe had just commenced an inquiry into the outrage when the Pacific left the islands for Sydney. "H. M. S. Pegasus met the French warship Meurthe at Port Stanley, on the west coast of Mallicollo, on October 20, and at a meeting of the Anglo-French Commission it was decided to mete out punishment to the natives of Neviar, a village situated in the interior, necessitating a five hours' march, and about midway between Bushman's Bay and Port Stanley. It seems that some time ago the natives of Neviar fired upon Mr. Corblett, an English colonist, and that about two years ago they murdered two members of the crew of the coasting vessel Marie Henry, commanded by Captain Gaspard.

"The Anglo-French punitive expedition was led by Commander D'Oyly, of H. M. S. Pegasus, and consisted of 150 men, including guides and several natives, who had been engaged to transport the eight guns from the warships. The force commenced the march inland at 3 o'clock on the morning of October 21, and did not return until 6 o'clock in the evening. The natives of Neviar had, it appears, always responded in the most insolent fashion to all demands which had been made by messengers sent to them. As soon as the natives became aware, however, that an armed force was marching upon their village they surrendered to the troops, and presented themselves without their weapons in a humble and submissive manner.

"Commander D'Oyly interrogated the chiefs and many of the principal natives respecting the recent outrages, and after inquiry caused to be arrested those natives who appeared to have acted as ringleaders in the massacres. He assured them that they would come to no harm, but he intended to take them to the seashore, where the warships were lying. He threatened them that if they attempted to escape, or resisted, however, they would be forthwith shot. The prisoners appeared to submit to the demands of the expeditionary force, and agreed to quietly accompany the party to the seashore. Watching their opportunity, however, several of the prisoners attempted to escape by breaking through the circle of English soldiers in which they were encompassed.

"The order to fire upon the escapees was at once given, and two of the natives fell dead. After this incident the journey was resumed, and the remaining prisoners were conducted to the shore, and after a day's detention were released.

"The officers of the Meurthe state that the natives of Southwest Bay, where a punitive expedition was recently landed, are now remarkably quiet and law-abiding, and the natives of Baliez have asked permission from the French officers to rebuild their villages, which the force destroyed by fire."

Hawaii And Education

The dedication of the new building of the Hilo Boarding School serves to remind that Hawaii has been a center of light and leading in this vast Pacific Ocean for many years. Compared with American civilization on the Pacific coast, Hawaii is venerable. As there was a time when we supplied California with wheat and other food products, so there was a time when California sent her sons to be educated here, and one of them afterwards became Governor of California.

Hawaii has been a center of missionary and civilizing influence to numerous groups of Pacific Ocean Islands. Her schools have prepared many who have carried the torch of the gospel to other Islands and peoples. In another respect the schools of Hawaii have been an example to the world in a direction that is only now beginning to be justly appreciated. The schools of Hawaii from the first were manual training schools. Not that they went by that name, nor indeed was that characteristic appreciated as being anything new or valuable outside of its application here, so aptly appropriate did it seem to the conditions. Nevertheless it was a principle, in the application of which men in our own time have gained great reputation. That principle was the instruction and training of the youth in knowledge and habits of practical industry. In the boarding schools established by the missionaries for the Hawaiian youth, the boys supported themselves by their own industry. They raised the taro and other food they ate. They tilled the soil, and they often built the very school houses in which they were instructed and the houses in which they dwelt.

All that Booker Washington has done at Tuskegee, the missionaries did in Hawaii, and thought so little of it beyond its obviousness that they have never received the just credit due them for originating and carrying out a principle of education that is only now coming into its rightful place in the philosophy and practice of instruction for the young.

Prof. Waugh of Massachusetts, who discusses the papaya learnedly says that eaten with a fork the fruit is delicious. This serves to remind of the Australian who passed the Grill one day and paused in amazement as he saw Jack Atkinson eating papaya. "I say Algy," he called to his friend "Come here at once old chap. PRISONERS ASKING FOR PAROLE

BOARD OF PRISON INSPECTORS TO MEET THIS AFTERNOON AND ADOPT RULES TO CARRY OUT THE PAROLE LAW ENACTED BY THE LAST LEGISLATURE—ENOCH JOHNSON AMONG THE APPLICANTS FOR FREEDOM.

The Territorial Board of Prison Inspectors has been receiving a number of applications for parole, from prisoners in Oahu Jail and other jails, and the Board will hold a meeting this afternoon in the Attorney General's office to consider rules of parole, under which the parole law passed by the last legislature will be put into effect. Among the applicants for a parole is Enoch Johnson, the attorney who was convicted with Representative Kumaleo of legislative grafting.

Rules were partially prepared by Attorney General Andrews when he was here, and have since been completed by Attorneys General Peters. At the meeting this afternoon the Board will go over them and probably adopt them and then the way will be open for any prisoner whose case fits the law, to get parole from prison. It is expected that applications will be very numerous. No one convicted of murder in the first or second degree can be paroled. The rules as prepared provide for parole only of prisoners who will have regular employment outside the jail. The prisoners on parole are not to be allowed to use intoxicating liquors, and are to be required to live a very industrious and sedate life. Intoxication, idleness, or association with disreputable companions, are reasons for canceling

MAILES VS PUNAHOU

Tomorrow at 3:15 the Mailes and Punahou football teams will meet at the baseball park to decide the first of their league games.

From the present outlook this will be the most desperate football struggle in football history on these islands.

Both teams are evenly matched as to playing ability and weight. Betting at present is even money. Punahou money is plentiful with but few takers.

The teams will be chosen from the following players:

TWO ORPHANS AT THE ORPHEUM

A WELL KNOWN PLAY PRESENTED IN EXCELLENT STYLE BY THE RICHARD BUEHLER CO.

"The Two Orphans" as presented by the Buhler Company at the Orpheum last evening fully justified the high reputation which the company has already achieved. The play is an old one, perhaps as well known as any that could be presented here and thus the players challenged comparison with those who had appeared in the characters before. It must therefore remain as a source of satisfaction to the management to note that the audience was even enthusiastic in its applause last night.

There is little that can be said about the play which is not already known but there is room for comment in the work of the players.

The capabilities of the Buhler Company are apparently limitless as each play they put on at the Orpheum seems better than its predecessor.

Last night the Two Orphans made a tremendous hit. At times the audience was carried away and the actors deserved it, for they certainly gave a finished performance.

Harry Earl made a big hit and carried off the honors as Pierre, the crippled brother. He acted the part with skill and finesse and in the climaxes showed marvelous power. In the last act where he defends the blind girl Louise and quarrels with his brother Jacques the scene was made so thrilling that it brought down the house.

Tom Lowell as Jacques gave a strong performance and showed to fine advantage.

One of the best bits of character work seen here in a long while was that of Miss Grendorf in the part of Mother Frochard.

Louise, the blind orphan, as portrayed by Miss Heyward, was a good piece of acting and won the sympathy of the house, while Miss Fowler's work as Henrietta was superb, especially in emotional scenes.

The comedy was in the hands of Henry Auerbach. This little comedian has made a strong hit with the Orpheum audiences. He is a good actor and in comedy roles is consistently funny.

Miss Chatter gave a clever performance and can surely act some as well as sing and dance.

Tess Wharton deserves special mention for her work last night in the two roles of Countess de Linieres and the Sister of Charity. She is a painstaking artist. Mr. Buhler played the part of Chevalier de Vaudrey. His every entrance on the stage was a signal for applause. His acting last night was magnificent as was his appearance.

June 29, 1899, by the present plaintiff against one S. Pali, which was tried at the August, 1899, term of the First Circuit Court for the recovery of a piece of land other than that sued for in the present action, but conveyed by said deed of G. D. Kulani to Lohela Kapoli, the sole issue involved was the identity of the grantee in the deed from G. D. Kulani, and after a trial a verdict was rendered for the defendant and judgment entered thereon, which was affirmed in the Supreme Court in 14 Haw. 517; that the complaint in the present case was filed on April 11, 1899. The reserved question is as follows: Does the judgment referred to in the case of M. K. Tibbetts v. S. Pali estop M. K. Tibbetts, plaintiff herein, from maintaining this action?"

W. C. Achi appears for plaintiff and S. H. Derby for defendant.

HOW ONE BREED WAS STARTED

BIOGRAPHY OF THE BLACK ORPINGTONS AS A DISTINCT VARIETY.

Among the varieties of chickens at the poultry show which are comparatively new to these islands are the Black Orpingtons in which Will E. Fisher took first prize. In an article by Charles D. Leslie of London in the Reliable Poultry Journal, is the following regarding the Black Orpingtons:

Mr. Cook produced the first Orpingtons by crossing Black Plymouth Rocks (sports from the Barred—then the only variety) with Black Minorcas. Pullets from this cross were then mated with Langshan cocks that were as clean legged as possible, the result being a bird with the green sheen of the Langshan in its plumage, but with short, clean legs and a deep body. It is true that Langshans and Black Orpingtons looked very much alike in those days, but Langshan breeders, by lengthening the legs of their favorites, got away from the Orpington type.

Having been planned for utility purposes alone, there are no fancy points about the Black Orpingtons. Handsome they are, with their deep, broad breasts and massive bodies, but decorative, they are not. They are white skinned and make first-class table fowl fattening early and presenting a nice appearance when dressed. The hens are good layers of brown, tinted eggs of average size, are quiet in disposition and, although not inveterate sitters, they make good sitters and mothers when entrusted with eggs. Black Orpingtons have single combs. A rose comb variety was produced, but failed to "catch on" in popular favor. In size the Blacks are large, the cock weighing nine to eleven pounds and the hen seven to eight pounds when fully matured.

made by Rev. C. E. Shields, all joining in the doxology at the close of the exercises.

The Hilo Boarding School had its inception in 1836, when Father Titus Coan and Father D. B. Lyman, early American missionaries to these islands, established a school of eight or nine Hawaiian boys. Hilo was a mere village in those days. There was only two wooden houses in the place, the Coan house built by Mr. Goodrich, and the house built by Father Lyman, now the Dr. Wetmore home. The streets of Hilo were mere footpaths, and the villagers lived in grass huts.

The first school building was a grass house with thatched roof and sides. The boys slept within the building and Father Lyman and his good wife were the first teachers. Two Hawaiian assistants, Kanaa and Barenaba, the latter having been trained as an Hawaiian priest, performed valuable service.

During the first year, the school increased to forty students, when it became necessary to seek larger quarters. There were no carpenters at Hilo at this time, and the only available lumber was the rough hewn boards taken from the forests. About this time an American carpenter, James Castle by name, started a saw mill in the heart of the wilderness about 12 miles from Hilo on a branch of the Waialuku river. He was engaged to build the new school building, which he completed in 1837 on the premises where R. A. Lyman now resides. The new building was one and a half stories high, 25 feet wide by 75 feet long, floored with oia boards, having a thatched roof and walls. The doors, tables and desks were made from koa boards. Another one-story building was erected for Father Lyman's residence.

At this time Mr. Wilcox, a teacher of the American Board, established a small school in the former Lyman home, and Mrs. Coan started a school for girls in a thatched building on their premises, both of which continued for many years.

In a few years the growing classes made it necessary to add a wing to Father Lyman's Boarding School. The membership then numbered from 70 to 80 scholars. Whole oil lamps and tall-rod candles furnished the light in those early days.

The boys raised the taro, bananas, sugar cane and other articles of foods as they do now. In 1848, the advent of the American warship "Independence," Commodore Dupont, commanding, with a brass band, gave the inhabitants of Hilo for the first time the novel experience of band music. The students of the Boarding School were stirred to emulation and soon constructed from squash stems and bamboo reeds, a crude set of musical instruments. They devised flutes, fifes, clarionets, flageolets and even a sliding trombone, on which they played. Subsequently and from time to time, Father Lyman picked up from passing whale ships flutes and other musical instruments, until quite a respectable orchestra, including a violin and base viol, was created. These musicians led the choir in the Hall church for many years. Most of the boys bought their own instruments, which they took to their homes in various parts of the island.

In the fall of 1853, the thatched school building was completely burned to the ground and for a time it seemed that the school would have to disband. The American Board of Missions had withdrawn assistance from the institution, which was self-supporting. But the 70 to 80 boys volunteered to build a temporary school building, which they did and used for several years.

Subscriptions for rebuilding the school were received from Hawaii to Nihaui, and in 1856 a large school building was constructed by Henry Williams and Charles E. Richardson, two carpenters from Oahu. This was a two-story frame structure with stone basement and an iron roof. During the process of construction a mighty volcanic eruption occurred, a lava flow poured down from the summit of Mauna Loa. It stopped after a year's duration, within seven miles of Hilo, wiping out the south branch of the Waialuku river.

This old school building still stands in the rear of the present magnificent structure, and has been converted into

PEACOCK SUES ROTHWELL

W. C. Peacock has filed a suit for $25,000 damages for libel against J. G. Rothwell. The suit is based upon the proceedings taken by Rothwell a couple of years ago against Peacock in the matter of the estate of Luwih Way, in which Rothwell made the accusation that Peacock was about to remove certain property from the Territory to defraud his creditors.

MAY SEND DELEGATE.

The Merchants' Association and Chamber of Commerce may send a representative to Washington, to work for the plan recommended by President Roosevelt, of all setting apart 75 per cent of Hawaii's federal revenues as a fund for public works here. In both bodies there is a very enthusiastic support of the proposition, and meetings will be held to consider means of carrying the plan through Congress.

AN AFRICAN RESERVE.

Threatened disappearance of the wild fauna of South Africa has led the Natal government to form a reserve of some 20,000 acres in extent on the slopes of the Drakensberg. In the deep kloofs of these secluded mountains patches of berg cypress and other natural forest afford good cover for the eland, of which only some 150 specimens now remain in Natal. The reserve also contains herds of blue buck and kilspringer. In this game reserve are also found many valuable specimens of early Bushman paintings and drawings, many of which are disappearing owing to the rapid disintegration of the rock surfaces.

WHY THEY CLING.

No wonder the Hungarians cling so tenaciously to their language. They know that it would be impossible for any one ever to invent another just like it.

WAREHOUSES AT THE RAILWAY

WHARF ARE EMPTY—SUGAR IS LATE ARRIVING THIS YEAR.

Not an ounce of sugar is in the warehouses at the railway wharf. At the same time last year, sugar was piling in to the warehouses at a rapid rate but the season is behind several weeks this year so the crops will be slower being ground.

The bark Kalulani is lying at railway wharf No. 2, waiting for some sugar for San Francisco.

The bark Nuananu is not to go to Kananapali for a cargo, before the first of the year.

The bark Abbey Palmer has finished discharging and will probably depart in ballast tomorrow for Port Townsend.

CONCERTS AT THE THEATRE

The Westminster Glee and Concert Party will appear at the Hawaiian Opera House on December 14, 15, and 16. In speaking of the company, a recent Australian paper says:

"It is difficult to imagine any more delightful entertainment than that presented at Albert Hall last evening by the Westminster Glee and Concert Party. It had the fascination for one thing of comparative novelty, and beyond that it possessed the charm of the highest plane of artistic excellence. From first to last the concert was a genuine treat. Not an item but sent the audience into raptures and more than once enthusiasm overstepped its accustomed bounds and ran almost, if not quite, into ecstasy. The participating was nothing less than superb. The glees perhaps roused the house more than anything else, and time after time the party found it hard to satisfy the craving that was so evident for more." Apart from the Glee Singers (men and boys) the principal soloists are Madame Marie Hooton (contralto), Mr. Edward Branscombe (tenor), and Mr. Percy Coward (male alto). The whole concert provided is of a novel character, and can safely be recommended as affording a most entertaining evening."

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

MANAGER OF CITY FEED CO. ACCUSED OF PECULATIONS AMOUNT TO A LARGE SUM.

A warrant was issued this morning charging C. A. Schmiede, manager of the City Feed Company, with embezzlement. The charge brought today is that he embezzled $112.60, but it is charged that his peculations will amount to between $3,000 and $4,000. It is said that his operations have been going on for a year past. Thomas J. King of the California Feed Company brings the charge.

The City Feed Company is a branch of the California Feed Company and is located on Beretania street opposite the Queen's Hospital. The warrant had not been served up to 2 p. m. today.

parole and putting a prisoner back in jail. While on parole a prisoner is considered to be in custody, and he must report to the jail regularly.

The parole law affects nearly all the prisoners now in jail. All who have good records may get their freedom subject to the regulations of the Board, after serving a certain time, according to the offense committed. No parole is to be granted until a prisoner has served the minimum penalty for the crime of which he was convicted, so that in cases where the minimum penalty is imposed there will be no parole.

The local Board is in receipt of much correspondence from prison officials on other islands, on the subject of rules of parole, and the rules as they exist meet with general approval. In some places there is a special plea for quick action in carrying out the law, on the ground that the jails are not fit for prisoners to be confined in. One deputy sheriff writes that his jail is so leaky that he hopes to be able to parole prisoners before rains come.

identify the hen from a number attached to its leg, mark in pencil on the egg the number of the hen and release the blushing mother.

"You see the idea is that we want to find out just which hens lay and which do not," explained inventor Almy earnestly. "If hens will not lay they had better go to the market. No, not for their own sakes, but for ours. We are getting scientific in poultry raising now. By this machine any person who makes a business of raising poultry can tell just which hens are good layers and which are not."

"But don't you think that hens have feelings," he was asked.

"Certainly they have," he said, "but so have cattle, and I saw you eating beefsteak the other day."

SALOON NAMES IN CHINATOWN

THE DISTRICT THROUGH WHICH THE NUUANU STREAM FLOWS IS HONEYCOMBED WITH SALOONS, SOME OF THEM BEARING ODD NAMES, AND SOME OF THEM CLASSICAL ONES—THERE ARE ALSO SOME CURIOUS SIGNS TO BE MET WITH.

"I never saw a purple cow
I never want to see one,
But I can tell you, anyhow,
I'd rather see than be one."

So sang Gelett Burgess in the Lark of joyous memory and this morning it suggested itself to a sojourner in Honolulu as he strolled down about the neighborhood of Nuuanu stream that he had never seen a purple cow either, but that he had seen a Blue Boar and would dearly love to see it again.

It was the nomenclature of the different saloons in that classic neighborhood that inspired the thought, for the day was hot and the mind ran back to that dear old low-ceilinged place, blackened with the smoke of many a year, with its sanded floor and particularly to the rosy cheeked Kentish maiden who stood behind the bar and drew pints of "four" ale into gallant pewters.

But that was a long time ago, and the Blue Boar may have gone the way of many another place of good cheer by this time. Still somehow or other there was and is something inviting about those names. Who could forget the Cheshire Cheese, for instance? The Dog and Duck appeals to every lover of sport. The Royal Arms is an attraction to every man who believes in his heart that he is an aristocrat. The Bull and Butcher reminds one of the sturdy publican who thus showed his detestation of one of Henry VIII's crimes for it really meant "the Boleyn Butcher." The White Horse, the Red Lion—all of these names are names by which to conjure, but alas! in Honolulu there are few of classic origin. Still they have their purpose and doubtless the good people of the Anti-Saloon League will rejoice that the saloon names down Nuuanu way are so unattractive that at least one man did not buy a drink—there—this morning. For Chinatown is honeycombed with saloons.

For instance, the first place the eye happened to light upon was called the Kwong Chung Long on King street and the sign outside said:

"Hale Inu Lama Waiana
"Waiana, Beer me na Lama
"Lake Ole."

An obliging Hawaiian translated this as meaning literally:
"House drink rum, drunken water, wine, beer and any other kind of rum."

The sojourner passed on.
The Kihohana saloon seemed to be enticing inasmuch as it suggested things artistic but there was no compromise about the Mikado for it was plainly Japanese without the name which distinguishes it.

The Bee Hive was certainly suggestive of industry but there was a lack of cordiality about the saloon which rejoices in the name of the Hop On. The opinion was revised when on further investigation it was found that only coffee was sold there.

"Hoch!" was the word which suggested itself when the River Rhine was seen bravely looming up on a saloon sign and oddly enough the next was the Banzai. It may be unnecessary to explain that "Hoch" and "Banzai" are not very far apart in their meaning.

The saloon man who called his place the Kamehameha down opposite Aala Park must have had his eye on the native trade.

The Aala would seem to be Hawaiian but the Japanese signs outside make the passing stranger skeptical. Incidentally it advertises a new kind of drink called "Beer-wine-whiskeygin and all kinds of liquors." Some day some brave man should tackle this "beer-wine-whiskeygin." It must be a new sort of a pousee cafe which would surely put a razor edge on a yellow man bound for a cutting match.

Even the Prost, which seemed to breathe a kindly spirit was Japanese and the intelligence of the public will not be insulted by any description of what nationality was boasted by the proprietor of the Togo.

POULTRY FANCIERS WHO HAVE ACHIEVED PROMINENCE IN THE FIRST HAWAIIAN SHOW.

The Poultry show, much to the astonishment of everybody but the poultry fanciers, is turning out to be a huge success and in the language of the theatrical people, they are "turning people away" at the exhibition on Merchant street.

Yesterday afternoon saw the hall crowded and in the evening the cocks and hens grew indignant at being kept from their usual rest. The judging done by Job Hatcher seems to have been most satisfactory although, unfortunately, some birds which were really better than those awarded prizes, were barred on account of their entries not being properly made according to the regulations.

Tomorrow will be children's day and the admission for the youngsters will be only ten cents.

Governor Carter's prize of $5 for the best capon was won by W. E. Bellina. The Wichman cup was won by A. W. Seabury for the best exhibit in point of numbers, varieties and general appearance.

PERRY ARGUES ALL MORNING

ADDRESSES TO THE JURY MADE IN THE TAKADA MURDER TRIAL.

Former Justice A. Perry argued to the jury all yesterday morning as counsel for defense in the Takada murder trial. Court opened at 10 o'clock, and the argument began at once, but the judge was not through at noon, and announced that he would probably want about an hour this afternoon.

Judge Perry's argument mostly dealt with alleged disagreements among witnesses for the prosecution. He made a searching examination of each one and pointed out what he claimed were discrepancies, and some of the witnesses were denounced as purposely untruthful. He declared that the widow of the deceased, who testified as an eye-witness of the killing, had been shown by other witnesses to have not been present at all. The theory of self-defense was strongly urged as having been shown by the various accounts of a struggle between Fujita and Takada rather than an attack on Fujita by Takada.

Judge Perry also discussed the legal distinctions between the various kinds of homicide.

Judge Perry in the afternoon concluded his argument for the defense in the Takada murder case. He declared that the jury under the evidence must either find the defendant not guilty, on the theory of self-defense, or must find a verdict of manslaughter in the third degree. In opening for the prosecution, Deputy Attorney General Fleming stated that Perry had charged that the prosecution was a put-up job. He said he resented such an imputation, and that he would not countenance any job to convict an innocent defendant. He then took up the evidence and proceeded to review it.

APPEAL TAKEN

An appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States was filed yesterday in the case of C. G. Ballentyne and the Rapid Transit Company vs. W. O. Smith, trustee, the Pacific Heights Railway Company and C. S. Deaky. The appeal is from the decision of the Supreme Court here sustaining the order of a resale of the railway company's property. The first sale was set aside by Judge Robinson on the ground that the price was grossly inadequate, and the Supreme Court sustained his action. Castle & Withington filed the appeal to Washington, with assignments of error and the necessary bond.

APPEAL IS ALLOWED.

Judge Kepoikal at Wailuku on Wednesday made perpetual the injunction to prevent the issuance of a writ of possession to plaintiff in the ejectment case of Moses Meheula vs. Pioneer Mill Co., Ltd., pending the defendant's application to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of error. This clears the way for the appeal to Washington.

CARTER WANTS TITLE.

George R. Carter has petitioned the Court of Land Registration for a registered title in fee simple to land on the corner of Liliha and Judd streets, with the buildings thereon, containing an area of 5.40 acres. The land at last assessment was valued at $19,000 and the buildings or improvements at $10,000, a total assessment of $29,000. The premises constitute the residence of Governor Carter.

ARRIVAL OF ALAMEDA WAS A TRIUMPH

VESSEL GREETED BY A PROLONGED CHORUS OF WHISTLES AS SHE CAME INTO THE HARBOR.

It was about 1:15 o'clock this afternoon when the S. S. Alameda started into the harbor today on her arrival from San Francisco. She was greeted by a series of salutes from all the steam craft that were in the Waikiki end of the harbor. She replied to the various salutes of welcome. Large crowds went to the water front to see the vessel arrive. A crowd was at the foot of Fort street, waving welcomes and alohas to the vessel and her passengers, and another large crowd was at the wharf end of the Oceanic wharf where Fred Whitney of the freight department of the Oceanic Company, had provided gates that enabled the people from shore to go on the wharf under certain limitations.

The vessel left San Francisco December 2 and experienced fairly good weather to port. She had a couple of days of rough weather. Nothing of special interest occurred during the trip. She sighted several steamers that left Honolulu during the last week.

The vessel has a full cargo of freight and brought a number of passengers for this port.

Captain Dowdell is in command of the vessel and P. Anderson is still chief officer. Purser Thomas C. Smith was on hand as usual. The other officers of the craft were L. Drewson second officer, L. Jordan third officer, P. Owens chief engineer, F. Kallstrom first assistant engineer, F. Bidert second assistant engineer, F. Mowang, surgeon and P. Morton, chief steward.

The appearance of the craft naturally caused much curiosity and there were various conjectures as to where she had dented her plates on her recent trial trip. To all appearances, she looked like she did, when in this port three months ago. She had a slight list to port however.

Eight Jurors Wanted Hanging

NARROW ESCAPE OF TAKADA FROM A VERDICT OF MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE.

Murderer Takada had a very narrow escape from hanging for his killing of Fujita. On the first ballot the jurors were six for murder in the first degree and on later ballots they were eight for the first degree. Three were for manslaughter at the start and three for murder in the second degree. The manslaughter men quickly came over, and it was a question of whether a hanging verdict or one calling for life imprisonment should be rendered. Murder in the first degree is necessarily hanging. The jury finally brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree, with a recommendation that the maximum punishment be imposed. This is hard labor for life.

The case went to the jury at about six last night, and soon after the jurors were taken to dinner in charge of a bailiff. Most of the afternoon was occupied by Deputy Attorney General Fleming's address to the jury, which was a very able summing up of the evidence. Judge Lindsay's charge was unusually long, and went into the law questions involved very carefully. It was nearly midnight when the jurors agreed upon a verdict which will send Takada to jail for life unless the Supreme court reverses it.

The Takada case was very hard fought. Judge Perry and H. G. Middleitch were appointed by the court to defend, and they made a strenuous fight for their client, Deputy Attorney General Fleming, with the assistance of Chester Doyle, conducted the prosecution.
