Deal Gently.

Deal gently with the suffering,
And freely let tears fall;
His plaint seems greater than his woe—
Perchance thou know'st not all!

Thou hast but seen the weapon hurled—
The poison of that dart
None saw, save God, t'was only felt
By one poor, throbbing heart!

Deal gently with the suffering!
He erred—it may be true;
Yet stay reproach!—when God corrects,
Man need not punish too.

Perhaps he did not err—thy sight
Is short—judge not so fast!
A crystal soul may wear the shade
Suspicion there hath cast.

Deal gently with the suffering!
Not half the cause is known;
That bitter fount which feedeth tears,
The heart can know alone.

The World but Grief's outside beholds:
O, God! the inside strife
Is only guessed at when it rends
In twain the thread of life.

Deal gently with the suffering!
He murmurs—art thou sure
That in like sorrows thine own soul
Unmurmuring would endure?

What in thine ear as murmurs seems,
In God's may be but moans—
The utterance of anguish which
Can only pray in groans.

Deal gently with the suffering—
Be cautious to reprove:
There's gall enough within his wound—
Pour there the balm of love.

One drop of sympathy sincere
A lake of tears may calm—
'Tis oil upon the troubled wave—
Pour, pour the precious balm!

Florence, Italy, 1855. —Newark Adv.

VARIETY.

Treat your enemies as if they would some time or other be your friends.

Relations always take the greatest liberties, and frequently give the least assistance.

All human virtues increase and strengthen by the experience of them.

Many live miserably and meanly just to die magnificently and rich.

He who knows his ignorance is the possessor of the rarest kind of valuable knowledge.

Many pride themselves upon being wild young men, who are only wild beasts.

Virtue forgives injury, even as the sandal tree perfumes the hatchet that fells it.

Shut not up a brood of evil passions in your bosom; like enraged sepents, they will bite their cage.

Peace is the evening star of the soul, as virtue is its sun; and the two are never far apart.

WORLDLY PROSPERITY.—Worldly prosperity is a much greater drain upon our energies than the most severe adversity; there is no spring, no elasticity; it is like walking through life upon a Turkey carpet.

CUTE ANSWER.—"William," said a teacher to one of his pupils, "can you tell me why the Sun rises in the East?"—"Don't know, sir," replied William, "'cept it be that the east makes everything rise." Teacher fainted.

The papers relate an anecdote of a beautiful young lady who had become blind, having recovered her sight after marriage.—Whereupon Snooks wickedly observes that it is no uncommon thing for people's eyes to open by matrimony.

A MODERN DICTIONARY.—Distant Relations.—People who imagine they have a claim to rob you if you are rich, and to insult you if you are poor.

Belle.—A beautiful, but useless insect without wings, whose colors fade on being removed from the sunshine.

Heart.—A rare article, sometimes found in human beings. It is soon, however, destroyed by commerce with the world, or else becomes fatal to its possessor.

Housewifery.—An ancient art, said to have been fashionable among young girls and wives; now entirely out of use, or practised only by the lower orders.

Editor.—A poor wretch, who empties his brain to fill his stomach.

Wealth.—The most respectable quality of man.

Virtue.—An awkward habit of acting differently from other people. A vulgar word. It creates great mirth in fashionable circles.

Honor.—Shooting a friend through the head whom you love, in order to gain the praise of a few others whom you despise.

Managers of Lotteries.—Men who pay the legislature handsomely for the privilege of cheating other people.

Law Proceedings.—Unbrushed cobwebs of the dark ages.

Bonnet.—A female head dress for the front seats of the opera.

Cigar.—A slender, yellow, speckled tube, formed of the dried and folded leaves of a wonderful plant, discovered by Raleigh. When women turn false, and men selfish—when your creditor duns you like a fiend, and your debtor takes the act—when the future looks dark and the present dreary; by the fragrance of this little instrument, extracted by means of fire, you are for a brief period rendered insensible to every sorrow, and lulled into dreams more entertaining than those of sleep.

Satirical Poems.—Harmless impertinence in verse.

Marriage.—The gate through which the happy lover leaves his enchanted regions and returns to earth.

Death.—An ill bred fellow, who visits people at all seasons, and insists upon their immediately returning his call.

Author.—A dealer in words, who often gets paid in his own coin.

COMMERCIAL.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1862.

THE arrival of the Yankee on the 23d placed us in receipt of ten days later advices from California, Eastern Atlantic and European ports. The commercial news is not very important. The markets everywhere are extremely unsettled, and subject to unusual fluctuations, caused mainly by the war and the uncertainty of the political relations between Europe and America.

The new American Tariff has gone into operation, under instructions from the Secretary of the Treasury.

	Present Duty.	Old Duty.
Coffee	5 cents.	4 cents per lb.
Teas	20 "	15 " "
Sugars	2½ "	2 " "
do.	3 "	2½ " "
do.	5 "	4 " "
do.	8 "	6 " "
Molasses	6 "	5 "

This law applies to goods in bonded warehouses, as well as those at hand since the 25th December. The changes must operate to curtail our export to San Francisco of the articles subject to the high rates of duty. Still, it is believed, that British Columbia will be able to take all the sugar, molasses and coffee that may be offered by us, and at much more advantageous rates than American ports.

We notice that the schooner Anne Eliza was to have left Boston, near the close of January, for Honolulu. It is said that she is bound on an expedition Northward, touching here to recruit.

The Yankee brings in a full cargo of assorted merchandise, a list of which will be found below.

The ship George Washington sails on Saturday for San Francisco. She has nearly a full cargo, consisting of coal, salt and pulu.

By advices from San Francisco, we learn that the clipper ship Black Hawk would sail about the 15th with some 200 tons of freight for this port.

Our market is bare of any large transactions. We give quotations of the leading staples:

FLOUR—In fair supply at $12 to $15. The article manufactured at the mill from California wheat, is pronounced to be superior to any domestic flour yet made.

SUGAR—No. 1 commands 8½c @ 9c; dark grades in mats range from 6c @ 7½c.

MOLASSES—Dull and heavy at 18c.

COFFEE—The crop is mostly in store and held at 16c @ 18c.

HIDES AND SKINS—8c; trimmed hides, light weight, 9c; skins, 25c @ 28c.

RICE—Domestic rice comes slowly into market, and the crops are now ripening well. We anticipate a good supply during the next two to four months, probably not less than two or three hundred thousand pounds being now in process of ripening. Two rice mills, of different patterns, are being constructed in Honolulu, and both will probably be in successful operation by the time the harvesting commences.

PULU—The wet weather of the past two months has retarded the gathering of this article, and receipts have been comparatively light. It may be quoted at 6½c, though no sales have been made.

EXCHANGE—On San Francisco, par; on the East, 1 @ 3 per cent prem.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET.

The following letter from Messrs. C. W. Brooks & Co. will be read with interest:

Per Yankee.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7, 1862.

DEAR SIR:—Since the date of our last circular, all kinds of Hawaiian produce remain without change. Purchases have been freely made of importers, which were previously kept in abeyance by the uncertain tenor of political advices, and the stagnation consequent upon the floods. Finance and trade have alike felt the impress of the war rumors and the flood, but the favorable news which continues to be received from our Atlantic seaboard affords much encouragement, and trade is reviving. The recent visitation of flood exerts but a temporary influence upon trade.

Bread-stuffs and cereals continue to find buyers for consumption, at figures which preclude purchases for exportation, and little is done except in furtherance of pre-existing engagements. The advance in domestic produce comes of light receipts from the interior, and an apprehension that much of our wheat crop has been destroyed. The market is very firm, although the views of some holders have already undergone modification, yet most dealers claim that the demand for home purposes will prove sufficient to sustain our market for a considerable period beyond the exporting point.

By Eastern telegrams, we are advised of another large advance in the leading descriptions of dry goods, and drills are selling in Boston at 20 cents per yard. With us all cotton goods are held with great firmness at very full figures.

At the date of our last reference, this market was almost entirely bare of rice. Late arrivals have been freely taken for consumption, and our aggregate stock does not reach four months supply.

Our telegraph makes the ridiculous announcement that John A. Parker, late U. S. Consul at Honolulu, has informed our cate the entire group of Hawaiian Islands to Great Britain!

The schooner Anne Eliza was loading in Boston for your port, to sail on the 20th or 25th of January.

Quite a large number of vessels leaving here during the current two weeks are likely to touch at your port. The only vessel loading is the clipper ship War Hawk, which will discharge about two hundred tons at your port, and proceed on to Hongkong.

THE PACIFIC
Commercial Advertiser.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27.

THE news received from the East by the Yankee, is not especially important, and yet has an unpleasant warlike aspect. The impression was gaining ground in San Francisco, that war would break out soon between England and America. The tone of the English press, which is but the response of the public mind, was extremely loud for war, but on what grounds it is difficult to determine. It may be but the prolonged echo of the popular outburst of indignation there caused by the act of Capt. Wilkes, in the Trent affair. This, however, has been honorably settled, so far as the governments were concerned, and the papers and extracts therefrom coming to hand now, may be only the expression of the public sentiment before the settlement.

But looking around for a cause of war, it is difficult to find any good reason existing, unless England and France have determined to recognize the Southern Confederacy, by receiving their Commissioners, regarding which there appears to be much doubt expressed, and an evident inclination to do so, is discoverable. A recognition of the South, will surely cause war between the powers acknowledging it and the United States, whether the former aid the South as allies or not. Putting the best complexion on the matter that is possible, a single misstep or irritating act of any kind, between the two nations, may lead to open warfare. Both are ready, and neither will hesitate one day about the consequences, which would be equally disastrous to either side.

We trust, however, that the war cloud may pass over without bursting, for its effects would fall severely on our group, whose trade is almost wholly with the ports of the two powers which would be at war; and for the time it lasted, might be wholly broken up, for although we are neutrals, trade with blockaded ports would be hazardous, if not impossible.

The position of affairs in America does not appear to have materially changed, and although the belt around the rebels is strengthening, yet the Union forces and movements seem to be advancing too slowly to meet the expectations of the nation. The programme, however, becomes more distinct each mail—which is to place them in strong positions on every side of the rebel territory, and at the right moment, an advance of the main army of M'Clellan will be made through Virginia, to be aided and supported as it advances by the strong armies now assembling at various points along the coast. When all is ready, there will probably be rapid movements, and terrible warfare, but with what results will depend on the skill of the generals and the strength of the rebel forces. We share in the same impatience which is discernable in all our American papers, to see an early and vigorous movement of the army, followed by a success pointing to the speedy termination of the most atrocious rebellion that has ever disgraced any nation. And we trust that its leaders will all meet the fate which they merit. We do not believe that a majority of the South are, or ever have been, on the side of the rebellion, but they are kept down by the vigilance and power of the rebel leaders.

Sailing Statistics.

Last year we gave a summary of the passages made between this port and San Francisco. We have continued the record during 1861, which we present below. Both the import and export trade between the two ports has steadily increased, and we are now provided with a line of as good packets as probably any similar route can boast. It is a question whether the trade of the islands is not now sufficient to sustain at a handsome profit two good steamers of 800 or 1,000 tons capacity, in lieu of the sailing vessels now in employ. In the hands of the same popular agents as now conduct the Dispatch Line, and under command of the captains who have so long served on this route, the change from sail to steam would be hailed as a national blessing, and would doubtless increase the freighting and passenger traffic. Two good steamships ought to do the business that four sailing vessels can. Still, the reduction in the length of passage, as shown by the following statistics, could not be much, three or four days at the outside, the average passage over being now about eighteen and the passage down about fourteen days:

NOTE.—Several mails were dispatched during the year via Victoria, which are not included in the list.

The average passage between this port and San Francisco, during the past year, according to the above table has been 18 days and 8 hours. The average of the passages for 1860, was 16 days and 6 hours each. The only passage worthy of note as a short one during 1861, is that of Capt. Paty in the Comet, made in 10 days and 12 hours.

The average for all the vessels in the above list is 14 days and 1 hour. The average of the passages of our regular packets during the year has been as follows:

Bark Comet	5 trips	13 days 4 hours.
" Yankee	5 "	13 " 7 "
" Speedwell	2 "	14 "

A comparison of these statistics with those for 1860, shows a reduction of twenty-three hours in the average of passages made between San Francisco and this port the past year, which we attribute to the increased knowledge and skill displayed by captains on this route. A reduction of twenty hours, has also taken place in the average of the passages of our regular packets, when compared with those for the year previous. The three passages made in January are remarkable for their shortness, one of them, that of the ship Fair Wind having been the shortest on record.

While speaking of the route between San Francisco and Honolulu, we may add that we have not had occasion to record the loss of any vessel engaged on it, nor even any serious accident, during the past ten years—a fact which renders this route one of the safest and most free from marine casualities of all kinds, whether of storms at sea or from coast wrecks. The prevalence of the trade winds during three-fourths of the year, makes the passage hither not only extremely safe, but a remarkably pleasant one, while the abrupt shores about these islands and their high mountainous land, renders the approach to them at all times, day or night, very safe. These facts should be known by underwriters, for we believe that their interests, as well as those of our merchants, are secured by placing the rate of insurance between the two ports at so low a figure, that it may bring them more business and yet cover all the risks incurred.

☞ An article in the Polynesian of Feb. 15, signed "Rustic," though really absurd, makes some statements which require notice. The writer makes strictures on the story of Umi, now in course of publication in the Kuokoa, asserting that it is obscene and unfit for perusal. We are left to infer, either that he is not conversant with the Hawaiian language, and has obtained his cue from hearsay, or that his moral vision has become so blighted by familiarity with vice, that he is unable to look at any thing, without finding it, to his vision, more or less obscene or impure.

We have carefully reperused in type the story of Umi referred to by him, as it was carefully read when in manuscript, corrected, approved and passed to the printers. Nor do we find any thing that deserves to be called obscene or vile, when the nature of the story is remembered, even by one whose nerves are so very sensitive as "Rustic's." The story of Umi, as narrated in the Kuokoa, is taken from a Hawaiian History, (to which credit was given,) collated from Hawaiian MMS. by Mr. Dibble, and printed at the Lahainaluna press in 1837. It was reprinted in the Hae Hawaii in 1858 or 9, and issued in book form (in vernacular) by the Department of Public Instruction, from the Polynesian press. The story as there printed is vulgar, according to English standard of vulgarity; and when the MS. copy came before us for insertion in the Kuokoa, the expressions considered vulgar in the first and subsequent numbers, were altered by us, so as to be less reprehensible, or with that intention. A comparison with the original text, will show the changes.

Since the above was written, we have received the following from Dr. Hillebrand, whose interest in the traditions and ancient history of the Hawaiian race is well known, and insert it with pleasure, as his ideas will be endorsed by all. There is a distinction to be drawn between historical sketches, which embrace the antiquities of the people, and meles which have no real meaning or import, and are intended only to please the tastes of the lewd and vulgar. The Doctor's remarks, it will be seen, rather condemn the liberty taken by us in making any alterations in the original text to suit the story to the columns of a newspaper.

DEAR SIR:—Having read in one of the last numbers of the Polynesian, a communication which possibly may have the effect of stopping short the publication of one of the most important documents existing of the ancient history of this nation, allow me to say a word in favor of this reviled object of criticism. For my part, I have hailed with pleasure and satisfaction the first appearance of scraps of ancient lore and tradition in our present native newspapers, and would readily do everything in my power to encourage the continuation of them. Fast as the ancient traditions are disappearing from among this people, as one after another of the living depositories of them is vanishing, it seems to me of the utmost importance, that all which still exists and can be gathered, should carefully be preserved—and allow me to add, preserved in its original, unadulterated state.

The historical and poetical records of primitive nations never accord with the moral notions and ideas of our present civilization, but at the same time not unfrequently such discrepancies form most salient characteristics of the national and social life described in them. More than once, these very immoralities related have given to antiquarians or critical historians the clue to elucidate obscure points relative to the affinities of races, or to explain dark points about social and religious usages.

Our natives, although introduced to a civilization greatly different and more elevated than their former, still cling with affection to their old lore. And who would blame them for this? Take from a nation its language and its history, and what remains to it of individuality? They have now, what never was granted to them before, two independent newspapers, managed by them, and for their own benefit. What is more natural than that they should use them as a vehicle, a depository for the oral traditions relative to their ancestors!

We have witnessed in our age, and the whole literary world has applauded, the efforts of the noble brothers Grimm, in collecting from the lips of the common people, the ancient legends and tales of the Germanic races. In nearly every other nation successors and emulators have sprung up to them. And what an amount of genuine material for constructing the fabulous period of the histories of those nations has been accumulated thereby? What a source of genuine, original and beautiful poetry has been opened by them? But if you would curtail the charming German fairy legends—as the simple and racy Norse tales—by the standard of our present civilization, how much of their most characteristic portions would have to be eliminated, and what an ungainly hollow, dilapidated frame-work would remain? But, to go a step further, what would become of the immortal Homer, what of the sparkling Horace, what of the fascinating Anacreonic poets of Greece and Rome? Why, even immortal Will Shakspeare would have to be thrown out from our libraries, if only our standard of morality shall be allowed to stamp its imprimatur on them.

Let these few lines pass as a pleading for the History of Umi, and for other historical sketches that may be presented in the native papers.

WM. HILLEBRAND.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

VERY INDEPENDENT.—In its issue of the 15th the Polynesian gave a garbled report of the proceedings at the Palace, by omitting a portion referring to the presentation of the American officials. The omission was not accidental, for the whole copy had been placed in the editor's hands, but was made, as we hear, to gratify personal feelings. Learning the circumstances, we declined to make the correction, and in thus doing compelled the Polynesian to do what it should have done in the first instance, viz: to give the report in full, for which correction, it boasts of being very independent. The independence of that journal consists in this, that if it attempts to blow hot or cold, or disobey orders, it finds a chalk line laid down, by which to walk.

☞ The mail matter received by the Yankee was very meager, and unsatisfactory. The overland mails, appear to be getting worse and worse, as a public conveyance. Letters and papers in great numbers are missing. Some letters and account sales of importance are yet to arrive, though long overdue, causing great vexation and inconvenience in business. We would suggest that mail matter for Honolulu be not dispatched by China vessels, unless they are under positive instructions to touch at this port. Several of these ships have gone past during the two last months carrying letters and papers.

GONE PAST.—On Sunday evening, and also on Tuesday evening, between 10 and 11 o'clock, reports of cannon were distinctly heard outside the reef, supposed to have been fired from China-bound vessels. They probably had no mails for this place, as they must have sailed about the time the Yankee did. The firing was heard very plainly, but it was too dark to attempt to board the vessels, which did not stop till morning.

WRECKED.—Capt. Rikeke of the schooner Keoni Ana, informs us that the schooner Kalihiwai, 11 tons burthen, went ashore at Kalihiwai, Kauai, Friday, February 14, and became a total wreck. A very heavy sea has been rolling in all along that coast for the last two weeks, which has considerably retarded our schooners in performing their usual passages, and also exposed them to much danger.

THE YANKEE.—This favorite packet has again returned to port, under command of Capt. Geo. W. Claxton, who has earned laurels for himself and his vessel. His passage over to the coast and back occupied but 25 days sailing time, and at a season of the year when long passages are more frequently made than short ones. A memorandum of his voyage will be found among the ship news.

HAIL.—A correspondent whose letter is given in another column, describes the hailstorm at Hilo on the 14th. In some places exposed to the wind, beds of hail were deposited fifteen inches in depth. Altogether it has been an unusual winter with us as it has also been on the coast.

PROTECTION!—A REGULAR Monthly Meeting of "Protection Hook & Ladder Co. No. 1" will be held at their room, on Monday, March 3, at 7 o'clock, P. M., for transaction of important business—choice of officers.—Every member is requested to attend.

DEATH OF AN ESTEEMED CITIZEN.—Mr. M. Brown died on Saturday last in this city. He has been a resident of Honolulu for about ten years past, and was greatly esteemed by all who knew him. At the time of his death he was a Lieutenant of the Rifle Corps, which turned out on the occasion of his funeral. The masonic societies, of which he was also a member, attended in a body. At a meeting of the "Honolulu Rifles" Volunteer Corps, held the evening of Saturday the 22d inst, His Majesty the King presiding as Colonel of the Corps, the following resolutions of mourning were unanimously adopted, on the death of MICHAEL BROWN:

Resolved, That the condolence of this corps be respectfully and kindly tendered to Captain John H. Brown, brother of the deceased, and the members of his family, conveying to them its sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

Resolved, That as a last tribute of respect to our deceased comrade, this corps do parade in full dress, to-morrow, Sunday, the 23d inst, at 2½ P. M., to attend his funeral.

Resolved, That this corps wear the proper military ensignia of mourning on the left arm for the three next consecutive full dress parades, as a mark of respect to the deceased.

Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to transmit to the family of the deceased a copy of the above resolutions and cause the same to be published in the public journals of this city.

☞ The following resolutions were also passed by the Company, on the death of Orderly Sergeant GEORGE THOMAS:

Resolved, That this Corps have received with much regret, the intelligence of the death, in San Francisco, Cal., of Orderly Sergeant GEORGE THOMAS.

Resolved, That regretting the loss of one so much respected and beloved by his officers and comrades, this Corps tenders its sympathy and condolences to the brother and family of the deceased.

Resolved, That this Corps wear the proper military ensignia of mourning on the left arm for two full dress parades, as a mark of respect to the deceased.

Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to transmit to the family of the deceased a copy of the above resolutions, and cause the same to be published in the public journals of this city.

JNO. O. DOMINIS,
Secretary "Honolulu Rifles."
Armory of the Honolulu Rifles, February 24th, 1862.

DASHAWAYS.—This association has again been the subject of a revival, and we trust will bring forth permanent good fruit. No one will question but that a permanent institution of the kind is needed in Honolulu, and it is to be hoped that it will receive public support. The election of officers took place on Saturday evening, Feb. 22, and resulted as follows:

President—A. Potter.
Vice President—G. W. Mills.
Secretary—Alex. Bolster.
Treasurer—John Landy.

EXPEDITION.—The sloop Louisa has been purchased by J. Wilkinson, and is now being fitted for a southern expedition, under command of Capt. Zenas Bent. We understand she will take possession of an island during her cruise. If Capt. Bent should happen to fall in with land that may be populated with goats, we hope he will not pass by without speculating in skins, and reporting the quality of the breed. Skins—goat, seal, or any other skins, are in demand just now.

NEWSPAPER CHANGE.—The San Francisco Herald and Mirror have been merged into one paper, under the united head of "Herald and Mirror." The size has been greatly enlarged over that of either of the former papers.

☞ We are under many obligations to Capt. Claxton, for latest Eastern papers received by the Yankee. Also to Messrs. M'Ruer & Merrill, and Chas. W. Brooks & Co. of San Francisco, for similar favors.

THE GOLD PROBLEM.—The question whether gold exists in our islands remains unsettled, though doubts predominate, and the excitement has sensibly declined. Some suspicious-looking specimens are, however, passed around, which are said to be found in abundance in Koolau. There ought to be a thorough survey made, and the most proper way is for the Legislature to authorize the work as early as possible. The following note from Mr. Pease will be of interest here:

DEAR SIR:—It may be inferred, from your notice in the last Advertiser, of the occurrence of quartz on our islands, that it is found "in place" or in ledges, which would favor the idea that gold may be found; but such is not the case. It is met with on all the larger islands of our group, in the form of small grains, usually in the beds of rivers. On the Westerly end of Molokai, it is more abundant, boulders having been found larger than a man's head, in dry ravines. They are detached, however, having no connection with the volcanic rocks, and all the specimens I have seen, appear to be more or less altered by heat, the small crystals, scattered over their surface being rounded, and portions having the appearance of agate.

The small crystals obtained by H. von Holt, Esq., at the gold diggings in Koolau, are quartz. It is probable, therefore, that the grains of quartz found in rivers, are derived from the same source by the disintegration of the basalt, through which it may be disseminated in the form of small crystals. The metals that occur on our islands, so far as observed, are the following: Sulphate of iron, (Koolau gold;) native copper, sparingly in recent lava; oxide of iron, over all the islands, more abundant on Kauai, where it is found coating pebbles, quarter of an inch in thickness, having the appearance of iron ore. Magnetic iron sand is also found in larger quantities on that island than elsewhere.

The following minerals have been met with on our islands: Labradorite, at Haleakala; sulphate of lime, (gypsum,) found in caves, crystalized in stalactites, not common; the same mineral occurs in large quantities, enclosed in raised coral reefs, at several places on this island, being the result of the evaporation of sea water; zeolites, of two or three species undetermined, in small geodes, enclosed in hard compact basalt. Chrysolite and olivine, are common, disseminated through the lava rocks; the largest mass I have met with, is four inches in diameter.

Perfect crystals of angite, double and single, are found detached on Lanai and Hawaii. Carbonate of lime is common over all the islands; sulphur and saltpetre in sufficient quantities for all warlike purposes.

Not having had the advantage of railroad excavations, or extensive public works, but little is known of our minerals.

Yours respectfully, W. H. PEASE.
HONOLULU, Feb. 24, 1862.

Education.

MR. EDITOR:—The last Polynesian contains a more sensible article on education than usually proceeds from the same source. Unlike many that have preceded it, its main object does not seem to be to tear down. It is not full of disparagement of all which has been done in the work of education at the islands. It says, "It will be seen that we do not intend to interfere directly with the present common schools." This is right. It urges that other efforts be made by the government to increase the schools of a higher grade. This too is right. Against the plan of improvement proposed for these schools, we see nothing to object. The advice in regard to moral and religious instruction is excellent. The number of such schools, for the present, must be limited, owing to the want of men and money.

The schools at Lahainaluna and Hilo, and the female school at Wailuku, were commenced on almost precisely the plan proposed, mingling work with instruction, only the means for their support was derived mostly from the United States. And this amounted to no trifling sum, probably not less than from $50,000 to $100,000.

If the government will take hold of this subject in earnest, no doubt something very important to the Hawaiian race may be effected. Even if one additional school of this kind could be established on each of the islands, it would doubtless result in great good.

The writer, we think, places too much reliance on aid from parents. They will do something, and promise more. Many would feel much interest in the subject, but their means are limited. The assertion that "$20,000 a year has been contributed by Hawaiian Protestant church members for foreign religious gratuities," is quite incorrect. The churches have contributed about this sum annually for several years past for all religious purposes, including building of churches, supporting pastors, aiding the infirm, &c.,—only a very small portion of it has gone to support missions in foreign lands. Nearly the same amount from the American churches has been expended here annually for these purposes.

We would say most heartily, let the coming legislature take hold of this subject, and see what further can be done to urge forward the work of education at the islands, and render our school system more useful, complete and efficient.

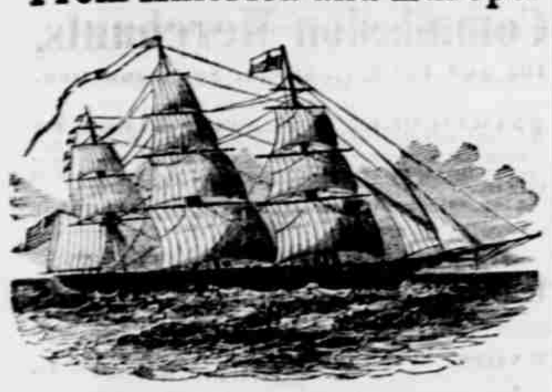
THE PACIFIC
Commercial Advertiser.

TEN DAYS LATER
From America and Europe.



ARRIVAL OF THE BARK YANKEE.

The regular packet bark Yankee, Capt. Geo. W. Claxton, arrived early on Sunday morning, Feb. 23d, 14 days from San Francisco, bringing a small mail and ten days later advices from the East.

The news is not very important, and political affairs remained in about the same situation as at the previous dates.

From the various telegraphic dispatches to the Alta and Bulletin, we glean such as are worthy of being transcribed. We find no reference in the papers to the reported passage of the Pacific Steamship line, and the action of Congress on the Pacific Railroad Bill must have given rise to the report.

Telegraphic Advices Feb. 1 to 6.

CHICAGO, February 1-4.—A Washington dispatch to the N. Y. Tribune, says the postal receipts during the last quarter of 1861 are but little less than during the same period the year before, when mails went all over the Union. The cost of transportation is three millions less.

A Richmond dispatch admits that the aggregate force of the rebels now in the field is but 250,000.

The sum of $2,800 damages has been awarded to the captain of the Spanish bark seized and brought in as a prize by our crusiers.

NEW SUPREME JUDGE.—Judge Swain, of Ohio, has been appointed to the Supreme Bench.

PULASKI ABANDONED.—Fort Pulaski has been abandoned by the rebels, and will be occupied by the Federal troops.

GENERAL SIGEL.—Gen. Sigel is to have an important command on the Potomac.

THE RECOGNITION OF HAYTI REFUSED.—The House has striken out of the Senate bill the diplomatic recognition of Hayti and Liberia.

The N. Y. Herald's Washington dispatch says Gen. Heintzelman is soon to be placed in command of another grand expedition to the South, the details of which are yet secret.

FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.—Col. Reynolds, Government agent at Port Royal, reports having secured a million dollars worth of cotton, and that some 3000 negroes, who were engaged in gathering the staple, are orderly and industrious.

The report that the rebels had evacuated Manassas is untrue.

In Congress, the Committee of Ways and Means are perfecting the details of the Tax bill. It proposes to moderate taxation on most articles necessary for consumption, with higher rates on liquors. It also levies a tax on passengers by railroads and other conveyances, newspapers and telegrams. The Committee is also considering the subject of a National Banking law, requiring a deposit of United States Stocks as a security for bank notes circulated as currency. Letters continued to be received from eminent bankers favoring the Legal Tender bill.

Gen. Butler will take several brigades to a point on the Southern coast not now occupied by Union troops. Gen. McClellan was opposed to this, but Secretary Stanton insisted that Gen. Butler should have what he wanted.

Fort Pulaski near Savannah is now thoroughly invested and can be taken whenever Gen. Sherman chooses to attack.

A movement which will probably prove successful, is being made here by western Congressmen to make Gen. Sigel a Major-General.

The Southern papers contains the following:

SAVANNAH, January 29.—The city is comparatively quiet—no immediate attack is anticipated. Two steamers and flatboats conveying provisions to Fort Pulaski were fired on by the Federalists. A battle ensued, which lasted 40 minutes. The provision boats returned slightly damaged.

A letter from an officer in the Fort says the F derals cannot take it by any attack they can make.

Prisoners of war by a flag of truce from Richmond, confirm the departure of Beauregard with 15,000 troops for Kentucky, and say that Jeff. Davis will take command in person at Manassas after his inauguration on the 22d of February.

The greatest consternation prevailed at Norfolk and Richmond in regard to Burnside's expedition.

The report at Richmond was that the Merrimac (formerly a U. S. steamer, and iron-plated by the rebels,) was a failure.

Southern papers are much exercised on the subject of re-enlistment, the time of most of their troops expiring early in the spring.

In Congress Mr. Chandler presented resolutions from the Legislature of Michigan, asking the Government to speedily put down insurrection, and favoring the confiscation of the property of rebels, and urging that as slavery is the cause of the war, it be swept from the land.

The House Committee on the Pacific Railroad today determined to report a bill, but without recommending its passage or rejection.

The Governor of Louisiana has vetoed the bill to loan cotton planters $7,000,000 of State Treasury notes.

The British Consul at Mobile has sent a messenger by a flag of truce, demanding the liberation of the schooner Wilder, recently captured by our fleet, on the ground that she is a British vessel.

NEW YORK, January 31.—Ericsson's famous Floating Battery was launched at Green Point yesterday, and will be ready for service in about a week.

The N. Y. Times dispatch says private letters from abroad confirm the impression that England, France and Spain meditate the early recognition of the Confederate States, on the ground of humanity.

It is asserted there are not ten Republican members in the House prepared to advocate an immediate and unconditional emancipation of slaves. All hope of this sort of legislation is now abandoned, and the Administration programme of preserving the Union and Constitution, and enforcing the laws, is said to be omnipotent in the House.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—Notwithstanding the tone of some foreign journals on the stone blockade, a dispatch received at the State Department asserts that there is complete restoration of good feeling in England, France and other Continental States.

It is rumored that Gen. Banks will assume the charge of the Navy Department.

There is about six inches of snow on the Virginia side of the Potomac.

ST. LOUIS, February 2.—Gen. Halleck has ordered several companies of the 4th Missouri Regiment to hard labor on the Cairo fortifications for their mutinous conduct. Officers of said companies will be discharged and mustered out of service for not enforcing order and military discipline.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3.—Price, though so formidably menaced, evinces no disposition to fall back, but from present appearances, seems determined to give battle. Should he maintain his position two weeks longer, Springfield will be the theatre of as bloody a contest as that which has already made that place famous in the history of the war.

Southern papers acknowledge Zollicoffer's defeat at Somerset, with the loss of 300, but as usual, vastly overrate our force. General Crittenden and four Colonels were wounded.

The Fulton Bank and other buildings at the corner of Fulton and Pearl streets, New York, were burned Jan. 27. Loss $500,000.

The Congress committee of the District of Columbia have decided to report adversely in the matter of abolishing slavery in the District. The main feature of the report will be the inexpediency and unconstitutionality of abolition.

A resolution has been introduced in the Maryland Legislature, requesting Senators Pearce and Kennedy to resign.

CHICAGO, February 6.—Advices from Washington of the 5th instant, state that Senator Bright was expelled from the Senate on that day. The galleries were densely crowded, and the audience expressed satisfaction at the result.

Previous to his expulsion Mr. Bright spoke at length in his own defense. He left the chamber before a vote was taken.

The N. Y. Times's correspondent at Paris says secret documents from Jeff Davis have been furnished to the governments of France and England, which give full details of the resources of the Confederacy, and point out the advantages which France would derive by aiding the establishment of the Confederacy.

The Committee on Commerce reported adversely to abrogating the Canadian reciprocity treaty, and advocate the enlargement of its commercial relations. The report was committed for further action.

WASHINGTON, February 6.—A special dispatch to the N. Y. Herald states that Mr. John Parker, Consul at Honolulu, has arrived, and informs the Government that agents had been sent to England to hypothecate the entire group of the Sandwich Islands to Great Britain.

Those who voted against Mr. Bright's expulsion were Messrs. Bayard, Cowan, Carlisle, Harris, Kennedy, Latham, Nesmith, Pearce, Powell, Rice, Saulsbury, Ten Eyck, Thompson and Willey.

Terrific Storm at Hatteras.

FORTRESS MONROE, January 27.—The steamer Eastern State, which left Hatteras Inlet last night, arrived here late this morning. The recent storms were unusually severe at Hatteras, and considerably delayed and crippled the expedition. The fleet left Hampton Roads on the 11th and 12th, and consisted of over 125 vessels, of all classes. It arrived at Hatteras between the 12th and 17th, having been greatly retarded by severe storms and adverse winds which prevailed during that time. After the arrival of the fleet there were experienced a series of unparalleled storms—so severe at times that it was impossible to hold communication between any two vessels of the fleet. After the storm subsided, it was discovered that no vessel drawing over 7 feet 8 inches could pass into Pamlico Sound, nor could any vessel pass the outside bar drawing over 13 feet, unless very skilfully piloted.

LIST OF DISASTERS.—The steamship City of New York struck outside the bar. She had a cargo of ammunition valued at $200,000. She was a total loss. The crew were saved.

The steamer Pocahontas went ashore near the light-house, and became a total loss. Ninety valuable horses, belonging to the Rhode Island battery, were on board and were all drowned.

The Grape Shot parted her hawser, and went down at sea, crew saved.

A Government schooner, name unknown, loaded with oats, and another vessel, name not known, with a crew, were lost on the beach.

The steamer Louisiana struck on the bar, where she still remains. A report of her burning is incorrect. She may be got off.

Mexico.

Advices from Mexico confirm previous accounts of the union of all parties, and the intention to make common cause against the invaders.

TROUBLES OF THE INVADERS.—A Washington special dispatch to the New York papers, says, letters from Havana state that the allies are greatly dissatisfied at their prospects in Mexico, and complain that Miramon had deceived them. They expected aid from a strong party, whereas they find the population united against them, and express the conviction that the present force is inadequate to bring the Mexicans to terms.

Much discontent prevails among them, and several quarrels have already occurred, in consequence of which the French are to be sent to Tampico, and the English to attack Matamoras.

Minister Corwin writes that the leading spirits of the new Administration declare that Mexico will make a successful resistance to the invaders.

Later from Europe.

Great Britain.

HALIFAX, Jan. 27.

The steamer Europa, from Liverpool on the 11th, and Queenstown on the 12th Jan., has arrived. She brings neither troops nor stores. It is reported, that warlike preparations in England have not relaxed. Steamers continued taking heavy stores for Halifax, seaward.

THE AMERICAN DISPATCHES.—American dispatches were considered in council on the 9th. The Times understands that an answer will be returned expressing gratification at the disavowal of Commodore Wilkes' act; accepting the satisfaction tendered, and giving assurances that the precedent in the Trent case will rule in the case of the schooner Eugene Smith, as to the laws of neutrals. The Government will disclaim [defer] an answer until it has had the opportunity of submitting the whole note [of Secretary Seward] to the law officers. There are propositions in the note inadmissable, but after the release of the prisoners they may be properly discussed.

TONE OF THE PRESS.—The Morning Post announces that though an understanding with our Government has been arrived at, Mr. Seward will have succeeded in impressing on the English Government a notion that they must have not only present indemnity, but an ample pledge for future security.

The Daily News has a eulogistic notice of the course pursued by the Washington Government.

The Times has strong editorials on the reception due to Mason and Slidell, as habitual revilers. England sincerely hopes that Englishmen wont give them on ovation. It says that England has returned them good for evil. If they can, they will only too willingly entangle her in war with the North. England would have done so for two negroes.

Other journals advise a similar course.

The Times reiterates a condemnation of the stone blockade, and says that among crimes which have disgraced mankind, it would be difficult to find one more serious than this. It asserts that no belligerent has a right to resort to such warfare.

THE NASHVILLE.—The Nashville [rebel steamer] remained at Southampton. The Government maintained the strictest neutrality towards her. Nothing was permited to be done except to render her seaworthy.

Russell's correspondence to the Times predicts the fate of the American Government sealed, if January pass without a great victory.

France.

The Pacific termination of the Trent affair caused a rise on the Bourse of 1 per cent.

The Moniteur says that a feeling of profound regret and indignation has been aroused in England and France by the vindictive act of destroying the port of Charleston.

Russia.

It was reported that Russia had sent an embarrassing ultimatum to Rome, that if the Pope did not condemn the conduct of the Polish clergymen, Russia would recognize the Kingdom of Italy.

The latest telegram from St. Petersburg, has an article congratulating Mr. Seward on the uprightness of his policy, and demanding that the French precedent should be made a standing point in the negotiation for a recognition by the powers. England should give the world solemn guarantees for the future by signing a convention, which, by insuring universal respect for the rights of neutral powers, would contribute to the maintenance of peace and mark the progress of civilization.

Dates to Sunday, January 19th.

NEW YORK, January 31.—The steamship Africa, with advices from Liverpool to January 18th, and from Queenstown to January 19th, has arrived.

The London Daily News, in reviewing Seward's Trent dispatch, says: "Although it contains much that is questionable in law, its main positions are based on acknowledged legal principles."

The London Observer [weekly] suggests the expediency of intervention by France and England between the Federal and Confederate States.

More diplomatic correspondence has been published, including a letter from Seward to the Secretary of the Navy, condemning the taking of the British schooner James Campbell into New York with the British flag flying under that of the United States, and another note condemning American commanders for exacting an oath from British seamen for breach of blockade.

It is reported that Lord Russell, in response to a memorial from the Liverpool Ship Owners' Association, in reference to the Stone Blockade at Charleston, said he had warned the Federal Government against the feeling that such proceedings would engender, and after the design had been carried out had sent another dispatch expressing strong hopes that the sinking of vessels would not be repeated elsewhere. It is rumored that the French and other Governments are taking similar steps.

The pirate Sumpter had been ordered to leave Cadiz by the Spanish Government, and she had gone to Gibraltar.

The Paris Journal des Debats thinks that Lord Palmerston's intentions towards the United States are not pacific.

The Paris Temps says that Mason and Slidell should be allowed to plead in the French Court for the recognition of the Southern Confederacy; while the Paris Presse says that the French Government will not receive them or any other Southern Commissioners.

The Independence Belge says France will take the initiative in making a diplomatic remonstrance against the blockade of Southern ports, and that England will only afford France a moral support.

Hilo Still Ahead—Great Hailstorm.

HILO, Feb. 18th, 1862.

MY DEAR COMMERCIAL:—Although supposed to be the third town in the kingdom, Hilo, we believe, who have the happiness to own a house and a lot within its beautiful bounds, is or ought to rank at least number two, if not one and a half.

In the poor sunburnt town of Lahaina, where they do not have to "bottle the dust" as a variety, water is a scarcity and ice a "non est findibus," as the Illinois Sheriff said on the return of a warrant. There nothing disturbs the equanimity of its "oldest inhabitant."

In the now decaying city of Honolulu (or supposed to be by outsiders,) any thing is eagerly jumped at to make a poor kuaaina believe that Honolulu still is around; a little jar of old mother Pele, though we claim Pele entirely, is immediately magnified into a "severe Earthquake" "not seen or felt before by the oldest inhabitant," (not supposed to be very old, however,) "much alarm," &c. Why, now, an earthquake that does not tumble down walls, overturn your milk pans, open your doors, &c., is not even spoken of here in our "palm-embowered town."

Some midnight adventurer, in your deserted streets is alarmed by the fall of small bits of frozen rain, and after an hour's search, collects three or four as trophies, relates with dilating eyes the "wonderful fall of hail," "enormous hailstones as large as filberts," &c. Why, my dear Commercial, when it hails at Hilo, it hails no filberts and peas, but "bullets and pigeon eggs." Yesterday, the 14th, about 1 P. M., Dame Nature sprinkled about a few of your Honolulu hail stones, in order to show us what a treat she had given you, when paying a visit to Mauna Kea, she picked up her apron full of what we call "hail stones," and dropped them down upon us at about 3 P. M., in a perfect shower. The ground in many places was from three to four inches deep with hail, and entirely covered. Barrels and barrels were gathered by its Yankee inhabitants, and oh the delicious "Ice Creams" we had, and are still having, mind you. That is what we call hail. Stones, some of which were measured, were one inch in diameter. Several windows were broken though no serious damage was done. The shower lasted but a few minutes, and the hail fell in such quantities that it has not entirely disappeared at the time of my writing. The storm passed over a space of about three or four miles in width. I might "bottle" you some, but in the condition it might reach you, I fear you might think it was the common Hilo hail.

When you of Honolulu try to get up another earthquake or hail storm, just send up here for a sample. But I don't think it will need anything more to convince you that "Hilo is still ahead."

Yours &c, HILO.

THE PACIFIC
Commercial Advertiser.

Leaders of the "Manchester School" on American Affairs.

Mr. Bright, M. P., was entertained at dinner by his fellow-townsmen, at Rochdale, England, on the evening of Dec. 4th. There were about 250 gentlemen present, among whom were Mr. Bazely, M. P., George Wilson and the Mayor of Manchester. The galleries were occupied by ladies. The Mayor of Rochdale presided, and gave in succession the toasts of "The Queen," "The Houses of Parliament," and "The Health of Mr. Cobden, M. P.," all of which were cordially received.

LETTER BY RICHARD COBDEN.

In the course of his address, in proposing Mr. Cobden's health, he read a long letter received from that gentleman, in which, after expressing regret at his unavoidable absence, he proceeded to discuss the present state of our relations with America. As regards the seizure of Messrs. Slidell and Mason, he urged the propriety of suspending a final judgment on the subject until we had had time to hear whether the American Government had authorized the act of their naval officer; and if so, on what ground they justified the proceeding. It had been assumed in certain quarters that when our legal authorities have given their opinion on the point at issue, the question was settled, and that we have only to proceed to enforce the award. But the matter in dispute must be decided, not by British, but international law; and if the President's Government should assume the responsibility of the act of their naval officer, they will claim for the reasoning and precedents of their legal advisers the same consideration which they are bound to give to the arguments of the British law officers. Whatever the issue of the legal controversy, however, we cannot hope to bring the question to a more satisfactory issue by an appeal to arms. Mr. Cobden then argues for a complete revision of the international maritime code, especially as regards merchant vessels in time of war, and concludes by expressing the belief that any interference by England or France in the affairs of America, whether by breaking the blockade or prematurely acknowledging the independence of the South, will only aggravate and protract the quarrel. A servile war might be kindled in the South, leading ultimately, perhaps, to the destruction of the cotton plant itself throughout the Southern States of America.

SPEECH OF JOHN BRIGHT.

The health of Mr. Bright was received with great enthusiasm. His speech in reply, after a brief acknowledgement of their kindness to himself, was entirely devoted to the subject of the war in America. That struggle was one of the highest interest to England and to humanity at large. Eighty-five years ago they were colonies sprung from this country, and already numbering a population of 3,000,000 souls. A year ago they were the United States of America, and comprised 30,000,000 of people. In agriculture and manufactures no country in the world, except our own, could be placed in comparison with them. They were equally distinguished for their inventions, their enterprises, their schools, their prisons, and their religious establishments. The public expenditures of these United States was £23,000,000 a year and they were able to boast an amount of comfort, prosperity and abounding plenty such as no other country in any age has displayed. But there was another side. While this country secured the utmost liberty for the white population, it held the black population in bondage and degradation. England sowed the seeds of the slavery system. Jefferson, two years before the Declaration of Independence, issued a protest against the conduct and policy of the English Government in preventing the colonists from forbidding the importation of fresh negroes from Africa. Ultimately every state was left to legislate on slavery for itself. But the growth of cotton has increased since that time, and become an article of value to an extent which no man dreamt of when Jefferson wrote. And this cotton, cultivated under the slavery system, now threatened the overthrow of that which is a million times more valuable—the great Republic of the United States.

Mr. Bright then referred to the act of secession on the part of the South. Newspapers say this question of secession was much like that which occurred when the colonies revolted against the mother country. The question in 1780 was whether a corrupt ministry in Downing street and a boroughmongering Parliament in Westminster should tax three millions unrepresented colonists without their consent. Now, the representation of the South in the American legislature was not only complete but in excess. Three out of every five slaves are counted as white men, and the consequence is that the South has returned about twenty more members than it had a natural right to do. This shows that there was no similarity between the two cases. Another reason for the secession alleged on this side is the protective tariff. No American, however, attributes the dissolution of the Union to that cause. The South has been dominant during the whole period since the Declaration of Independence, and the tariff has existed during that time. There have no doubt been occasional symptoms of dissatisfaction, but when Congress met a twelve month ago to discover how the Union could be maintained, among all the compromises suggested the question of the tariff was never referred to. Whatever the influence of the tariff may be, it must also be remembered that it is as pernicious to the West as to the South; but the West has not seceded.

The question is not one of protection or free trade. It is of a different and graver character. For thirty years slavery has been constantly coming to the surface as the difficulty of American politicians. The object of the South in seceding is to escape from the votes of those who wish to limit the area of slave territory. What course, asked Mr. Bright, should England pursue? We should be neutral. We were neutral in Italy, but were not neutral in sympathy; and, although no English ships or soldiers appeared on the shores of that country, the sympathy of England was spoken of in Europe, and did much to aid the establishment of the free Italian kingdom. Mr. Bright then argued that we had not given a similar cordial sympathy to the people of the Northern States of America, although one or two statesmen, as, for instance, the Duke of Argyll and Lord Stanley, had spoken with liberality, fairness and friendliness of the United States. Earl Russell, however, at Newcastle, had misrepresented the question when he said the North were contending for empire and the South for independence; and the leading journal, since Lincoln took office, had not published one fair, honorable and friendly article on American affairs. It was asked, "Why should there be war? Why this fratricidal strife? Why should the North and South not separate peaceably?"

Mr. Bright throughout thought there were insurmountable geographical obstacles to a separation, as well as strong political objections. If the Northern States had done what some newspaper writers advised, and had allowed the South to withdraw from the Union without making any effort to retain them, we should have been told that democracy was a failure, that the Northern government was guilty of cowardice, and worthy only of unmeasured contempt. These candid friends tell us American freedom is gone, the habeas corpus act has been suspended, and other laws and liberties have been endangered. But had not we suspended the habeas corpus act during the Irish rebellion of 1848, and if an insurgent army ever encamped within sight of London, what regard would government have for the personal liberty of the subject in any measures they took for securing the safety of the State? We are told that it would be better for us if the United States were divided, and Sir Edward Lytton had predicted that there would ultimately be four or five separate nations or federations. The former he considered a mean argument, and, as for the latter, he would rather see the whole of that vast continent combined in one great federation of States, where there would be no custom houses, but freedom everywhere, equality everywhere, law everywhere, and room for the expanding energies of our race.

Referring to the seizure of the Confederate Commissioners, he said he considered the act both impolitic and bad, but it might turn out to be wholly unauthorized by the American Government, and in this case there was no doubt they would make ample reparation. No Government had evinced a greater desire to be guided by wise and moderate counsels in the construction of cases under the maritime law. It was said this was only one of a series of acts showing ill-will on the part of the North. There would be irritating accidents in the course of this struggle. Let us be calm. Recollect how we were dragged into the Russian war; we drifted into it. It cost 100,000,000. It cost the lives of 40,000 Englishmen. It injured our trade; it doubled the armies of Europe, and it did not accomplish a single thing that was promised. Statesmen now said in exculpation, "what could we do in the frenzy of the public mind at this time?" Don't let them add to the frenzy, and don't let us be driven.

Mr. Bright then read an extract from Gen. Scott's letter, which was loudly cheered, and concluded by reminding the meeting of a large number of English people who have emigrated for the last 15 years to the States. Only misrepresentation the most gross, or calumny the most wicked, could involve in war a people with such close ties. In a few years the 20,000,000 free men in the North, will be 30,000,000 or even 50,000,000. He prayed it might not be said among them that in their darkest hour of need, the English people, from whom they sprung, had looked with icy coldness on the trials and sufferings of their terrible struggle.

Mr. Bright resumed his seat amid loud cheering, and the meeting shortly afterwards broke up.

A Royal Courtship.—The late Empress of Russia, when a girl, received a small and very antique ring from her governess as a present. About a year after the occurrence, the Court received a visit from the Grand Duke Nicholas, the brother of the Emperor Alexander, and who, at that time, was not the heir expectant of the Crown. The Grand Duke saw the Princess, and with the quick resolve native to his disposition, immediately determined to ask her in marriage. One day, as he was seated by her side at the Royal dinner table, he spoke to her of his forthcoming departure, adding, that it depended upon her whether or not his stay in Berlin should be prolonged.

"What shall I do, then, to influence your intentions?" was the reply of the smiling Princess.

"You must not refuse to receive my addresses," immediately returned the outspoken Nicholas.

"You ask much."

"I ask more. You ought to give me some encouragement in my endeavors to please you."

"That is still more difficult. Besides, the moment is not well chosen to ask for a favor."

"I beg your Royal Highness to give me a sign that I am not totally indifferent to you. You have a little ring on your finger, the possession of which would render me happy. I beseech you to give me the ring."

"What! give a ring at the dinner table, and in the presence of all these people?"

"Let me see—press it into this piece of bread and give it to me."

And press the ring into this piece of bread she did, and gave it to the future Emperor. Nicholas took an early opportunity to leave the hall, and exhuming the treasure from its wheaten tomb, discovered an inscription on the inner side in French, and running to the following effect:—"L'Imperatrice de la Russie." He is said to have worn the keepsake for the rest of his days, attached to a chain round his neck, the ring being, of course, too small for any of his colossal fingers. The future Empress, it seems, had been unconsciously wearing for some time the emblem of her future greatness.

Rearing Children.

First—Children should not go to school until six years old.

Second—Should not learn at home during that time more than the alphabet, religious teachings excepted.

Third—Should be fed with plain, substantial food, at regular intervals of not less than four hours.

Fourth—Should not be allowed to eat any thing within two hours of bed-time.

Fifth—Should have nothing for supper but a single cup of warm drink, or cambric tea, or warm milk and water, with one slice of cold bread and butter—nothing else.

Sixth—Should sleep in separate beds, on hair mattrasses, without caps, feet first well warmed by the fire, or rubbed with the hands until perfectly dry; extra covering on the lower limbs, but little on the body.

Seventh—Should be compelled to be out of doors the greater part of daylight, from after breakfast until half an hour before sundown, unless in damp raw weather, when they should never be allowed to go outside the door.

Eighth—Never limit a healthy child as to sleeping or eating, except at supper; but compel regularity as to both; it is of great importance.

Ninth—Never compel a child to sit still, nor interfere with its enjoyment, as long as it is not injurious to person or property, or against good morals.

Tenth—Never threaten a child; it is cruel, unjust and dangerous. What you have to do, do it, and be done with it.

Eleventh—Never speak harshly or angrily—but mildly, kindly, and, when really needed, firmly, no more.

Twelve—By all means, arrange it so that the last words between you and your children at bed-time, especially the younger ones, shall be words of unmixed affection.—Journal of Health.

Small Savings.

"What shall I do with my money?" is an important question, but like Mrs. Glass' celebrated receipt for cooking hare—namely: first to catch the animal—it is necessary, first of all, to have money before you ask, what shall I do with it?

Money is not to be despised. The wise say "it answereth all things;" and it is not money, but the inordinate love of gain, that is the "root of all evil." Money properly used can give comfort to yourself and happiness to others; it can make you respectable and respected; it can gain for you an honorable and independent position, and can secure leisure and recreation when they are most needed. How are you to obtain money?—how are you to obtain a position of independence? Wishing and waiting will never bring wealth. You must not wait for a prize in the world's lottery; you may search the lists daily, and never find yourself "nearest of kin" to Crœsus; you may look in vain for a nabob uncle with a liver as yellow as his guineas; you may sigh away your whole life in the aspirations of some grand speculation which shall suddenly elevate you to the pinnacle of fortune. The plain fact is you must save.

Fortune grows. There are plenty of men ready to stand forth and to tell us how they once started in the world, with only a few half pence in their pocket; and how, by steady industry, careful management, and unwavering perseverence they have attained rank and fortune.

There is a truth of universal application in the simple words, "Gather up the fragments." Be frugal; don't waste; save, save, save—a penny saved is a penny earned. Take care of the pence and the pounds will take of themselves. Be neither miserly nor prodigal, but let nothing be lost.

Saving banks have created, during the period which has elapsed since their establishment, habits of forethought and economy,—a frame disposed to regard a future and substantial advantage, rather than the indigencies of a momentary gratification. The temptation to dissipation and extravagancies everywhere present themselves in a great city, and its population should, therefore, be armed with an additional degree of prudence. The advantages held out by savings' banks have induced thousands of young persons to lay by sums which would otherwise have been imperfectly wasted, and thus the foundation has been laid for future opulence.

Money is power; money makes money. Those who have little can make more; the difficulty lies in getting the little. What we say is "Save!" Do not idly waste your money on things you do not want. Odd pence of themselves will do but little; but odd pence, multiplied by odd pence, change into ringing silver, and by the true alchemy of the provident are transmuted to gold.

LADD, WEBSTER & Co.'s
IMPROVED TIGHT-STITCH
FAMILY SEWING MACHINES
A greater range of work than any other machine.
Are unequaled by any, for beauty, simplicity of construction and efficiency in working, and will do
IN A PERFECT MANNER
The value of a Sewing Machine cannot be estimated by the amount of wood, iron, brass or steel used in its construction, but by the manner in which these materials are put together, and the quantity and quality of the work it turns out. You can buy a watch or a piano-forte for very little money; but if you want either for your own use, you wish an article which can be relied upon, and you will purchase accordingly.
LADD & WEBSTER'S
Sewing Machines
use a straight needle; curved ones are liable to break.
They make a tight lock-stich, alike on both sides of the work, which cannot be ravelled.
Every machine is sent from our office threaded, and with work under the needle ready for operation, accompanied with such explicit printed instructions as will enable persons who may never have seen a machine to teach themselves.
The subscribers have the General Agency of THESE SUPERIOR MACHINES for the Pacific Coast.

TO MASTERS AND OWNERS OF SHIPS.

WM. HENRY TRESCOTT,

ACTING SECRETARY OF STATE TO THE UNITED STATES.

To all whom these Presents shall come, Greeting:

KNOW YE, THAT GEORGE E. NETCHER a citizen of the United States, has filed in this Department the required notice of the discovery of guano on Howland's Island, in the Pacific Ocean, the same lying in North latitude 50 min., and in West longitude 176 deg. 32 min.

That notice of the occupation of said Island, in the name of the United States, by A. G. Benson, on behalf of himself and his associates, Wm. W. Taylor and said George E. Netcher, has also been filed.

And that the United States Guano Company of New York, a corporation of citizens under the laws of the State of New York, assignee of the assigns of the parties aforesaid, has entered into sufficient bonds, under and according to the provisions of the Act of the Congress of the United States, passed on the eighteenth day of August, in the year eighteen hundred and fifty-six.

Wherefore, the United States Guano Company is entitled, in respect to the guano on the said island, to all the privileges and advantages intended by that act to be secured to citizens of the United States who may have discovered deposits of guano; provided, always, that the said United States Guano Company shall abide by the conditions and requirements imposed by the Act of Congress aforesaid.

In witness whereof, I, William Henry Trescott, Acting Secretary of State of the United States of America, have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Department of State to be affixed at Washington, this seventh day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty, and of the Independence of the United States of America the eighty-fifth.

[L. S.]

WM. HENRY TRESCOTT,
Acting Secretary.

All persons not duly authorized are hereby forbid occupying or removing guano from the above or any other Island, Rock or Key belonging to the Company, as published in the New York Tribune, March 8th, 1859.

(Signed) A. G. BENSON,
285-6m President United States Guano Company.
