ABOUT MISSIONARIES.

On several occasions and at sundry times the BULLETIN has essayed to instruct the general public of this city and country touching the subject of Missionaries. But judging from what we have recently seen and heard, our labor has been in vain, we have spent our strength for nought, and the people are yet in darkness. The public are a "stiff-necked generation," and it is mighty hard to hammer sense and reason into their extremely stubborn and wooden heads, being in this respect like unto Ministers and Legislators. Nevertheless, once more we return to the subject, and attempt again to place before their eyes the words of truth and soberness, whether they will see or decline to see.

A Missionary is "one sent to propagate religion." Among Christian people the term Missionary is applied to one who preaches and teaches the Christian religion to the heathen.

Some sixty years ago, more or less—we are not posted as to the exact length of time—the first Missionaries came to these islands, sent by a board of Missions in the United States. Others came at later dates. The Hawaiians were then idolaters. The Missionaries set to work to learn the native language, and through its medium to instruct the people in the Christian religion. It is idle talk to say at this late date that they should have done something else, and that they made a great mistake in doing what they did. They were sent expressly and exclusively to teach religion, and they did it. Among them were a few lay brethren, who were engaged in various capacities in connection with the mission.

In the course of time the Missionaries trained natives to become teachers and preachers, and these gradually took the places of their instructors, until, as at the present time, nearly all the native churches had native pastors. The supply of Missionaries ceased, and the old stock grew gradually less, through removal by death, superannuation, and retirement from other causes, until nothing but a mere remnant now remains, the numbers of which can be counted on one's fingers.

After the American Missionaries, a good many years, came the Roman Catholic Missionaries and Missionaries of the English Church. The latter, though, have never attempted much real missionary work. The Roman Catholics, however, have been Missionaries from the beginning, and continue to confine themselves almost exclusively to purely missionary work. In fact, they are the only missionary body on the islands at the present time.

Although but few of the American Missionaries now remain, and some of them are no longer Missionaries, there is quite a sprinkling of their descendants throughout the islands, including in their ranks some of our best families, in every sense of the term. But they are not Missionaries, any more than the children of the Chief Justice are judges because their father is a judge.

Going back again to the early Missionaries, we find that they became advisers of the kings, and in this way became identified with the Government, and ultimately controlled it; so that for a period, quite a long period, the Government of the Kingdom was a truly Missionary Government. But as the Missionaries diminished and the number of other foreigners increased, the Government gradually passed out of the control of the former, so that for many years, twenty at least, there has been a very little missionary voice or influence in Hawaiian State affairs.

The foregoing facts show how ridiculous and misleading is an outcry at this late date about the Missionaries running the Government and having things all their own way. When a term is employed to designate any faction, or clique, or class, is it not well and wise to select an appellation which conveys some kind of a correct idea of the character of the particular association intended, and not one that is inappropriate and misleading? Why call that missionary which is not missionary? Employ some other term to designate that section of the community which is intended by the word missionary, some term more truthful; and do not disturb in their lonely graves the dry bones of the departed fathers, nor ruffle the closing earthly scene of the few who remain by a savage posthumous howl against the Missionaries.

THE DOLPHIN.

The U. S. Dispatch Boat Dolphin is moored in the naval row on the seaward side of the U. S. S. Vandalia. The Dolphin is from Southern California. She steamed all the way under one-third power and made the passage in 13 days. Since leaving New York she has had fine weather.

The Dolphin is a steel clad dispatch vessel of 1,500 tons. Her length is 256 feet and beam 32 feet. Her engines are of 2,300 horsepower, and can propel the vessel at the rate of 17 knots per hour. She carries one 6-inch steel breech-loading gun, two 6-pounder rapid-firing Hotchkiss, four revolving 5-barreled Hotchkiss and two gattling guns. Her complement of men is 120 all told. It is not known how long the Dolphin will remain here, perhaps two weeks or possibly six months. Neither is it yet known where she will next sail for.

The Dolphin is a modern model naval dispatch boat; speedy, quick in action, handy and superbly armed. She is the first of three of her kind built for the U. S. Navy. She has been assigned to the Pacific Squadron and rumor says will be made the flagship.

Following is a list of the officers of the Dolphin:— Geo. F. F. Wilde, Commander. C. O. Allibone, Executive Officer. T. C. McLean, Navigator. W. A. Marshall, Lieutenant. W. G. Cutler, Lieutenant. W. S. Benson, Jr., Lieutenant. E. P. Leiper, Ensign. A. W. Morley, Chief Engineer. L. Kerr, Paymaster. I. Gaines, Surgeon.

DROWNED.

The body of a Japanese man was found in the river at Kealia, Kauai, last Tuesday. The Jap was a laborer on Kealia plantation, and was probably trying to swim the stream at the time of his drowning. His clothes in a bundle were found tied on top of his head.

TO-NIGHT'S SALE.

Quite a large number of people visited the salesroom of Mr. Jas. F. Morgan to-day, attracted by the elegant display of goods which are to be sold at auction this evening. This will be the last of the series of sales before Christmas, and as the greater part of the goods will be sold without reserve, intending purchasers will do well to be on hand early. The sale commences at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

MR. SILLOWAY.

Mr. Silloway, who first came here on the whaler John A. Rob in 1840, again turned up the other day, by the barkentine Planter, to visit his children. Mr. Silloway carried on a harness making business here until he was burnt out in the conflagration of 1886. His wife dying shortly after, he shipped on a whaler for the North, and is now Quartermaster on the S. S. City of New York, on a furlough. Mr. Silloway in relating his recent whaling adventures tells of having seen the mate of the whaler Josephine kill one of the crew, a Jap, by breaking his head with a marling spike. Mr. Silloway further says that the S. S. City of New York is likely to call here in two weeks on her way to San Francisco.

THE RACE OFF.

When the Coronet arrived in port she raised an open challenge to the naval fleet. The Vandalia accepted the challenge, and after overcoming some objections raised by the Coronet, it was arranged that the Vans should get a shore boat, and with it contest with the gig of the yacht.

The night before last the Van's crew pulled around the yacht like "a streak of greased lightning through a Jersey crab apple orchard" and so struck terror in the hearts of the Coronet, that they ignominiously backed out of the race, by stating it was impossible to get a crew. The "Vans" are getting to be perfect terrars.

HOW OLD ARE YOU?

A witness was asked this question in the District Court of Columbia, and he replied, "I do not know;" and upon being pressed for an answer he said, "All I can say about that matter is, that at an early period of life, and precisely at that period I do not know, I found myself upon this mundane sphere, without knowing when I got there, how I got there, or why or for what purpose I was got there, as I was not consulted as to when, where, how, or for what purpose, I should come or be brought into this world or whether I should be brought in at all, or not." The lawyer who put the question, appealed to the Court, to compel the witness to answer and say how old he was, and the point was argued pro et con, at considerable length, and the Court, after hearing the arguments of counsel, and due consideration of the matter held that, "the answer given by the witness was the most sensible answer given to the question," and declined to interfere to compel any further, or other answer, and that answer has been substantially adopted by many intelligent witnesses in that section of the country, and the courts sustain them in it.

HE WAS NOT DELICATE.

A thin, delicate looking woman sat in a horse car one evening recently, in San Francisco, and next her sat a native of the queen's realm. The window behind the Briton was open, and the cool wind blew in on the woman, making her shiver. At last she said, in a lady-like way, "Won't you be kind enough to close the window behind you, as it makes me very cold?" It would hardly have caused the man any inconvenience to grant this request, but he replied harshly: "I prefer it open; you Americans can't stand anything; you all seem to have consumption." The other passengers in the car were astounded at his incivility, and there were many angry glances cast at the royal subject. Finally a gentleman rose on the opposite side of the car, and, approaching the Englishman, with about 220 pounds avoirdupois, leaned over him, and grasping the window, slammed it down with vigor; then he remarked: "Now, my friend, if you think all Americans are afflicted with consumption, you just raise that window again. I am an American." The little woman blushed, the other passengers smiled, the American returned to his seat, and the Briton looked out of the window and thought.

Noble Hitchcock moved to reconsider the vote on the liquor bill, which passed its second reading yesterday. Carried.

This bill was made the order of the day to-day and placed at the foot of the Calendar.

Noble Smith presented a report from the Judiciary Committee on the petition of B. Norton for a refund of $5 illegal taxes, recommending that $5 be inserted in the Appropriation Bill to refund said Norton the amount claimed. Adopted.

The House went into Committee of the Whole, Noble Smith in the chair, to consider the Election Bill.

Noble Castle moved to take up the consideration of Section 29 that was deferred, to revise the Hawaiian version. Carried.

The correction was made and the section passed.

Section 42 was then taken up. Noble Castle said that this was an important section of the bill, as it was the first that dealt directly with the principal involved in the whole bill and that was, secret voting.

As the framer of the bill, he believed it right, but if the House should deem it advisable to strike out this section, and not support a secret ballot, he had provided for such an emergency, by asking different members of the House to draft a substitute section, one of which he presented, which simply provides for polling stations with no restrictions other than that they shall not be in or on the premises where liquor is sold, and left it to the House which they should adopt.

Committee then rose reported progress and asked leave to sit again at 1 p. m., which was granted.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House re-assembled at 1 p. m. and went into committee of the whole, Noble Dole in the chair, to further consider the Election Bill.

Minister Thurston spoke against the section as in the bill. He said it was an ideal bill for an intelligent electorate, but would not answer for us here. He was therefore in favor of the substitute section. He objected to the bill, 1st, that it would not be a secret ballot; 2nd, that it is not beneficial to this country. He stated that in some districts the Por-

Gentlemen will do well to call at the Arcade and examine the latest in Clothing at the lowest price in the Kingdom.

EVENTS THIS EVENING.

Auction sale at the saleroom of J. F. Morgan, at 7:30 o'clock.

Political meeting at Kaunakapili Church at 7 o'clock.

Music and skating at the Yosemite rink.

Meeting of the Hawaiian Social Club at 7:30 o'clock.

Legislative Assembly.

66TH DAY.—Aug. 16th.

MORNING SESSION.

The House opened at 10 a. m., President W. R. Castle in the Chair. Roll called and absentees noted.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Noble Baldwin reported from the Finance Committee to whom was referred the bill to better facilitate the completion of tax appeals, that they have prepared a substitute bill, and recommend its passage. Adopted.

Noble Robinson reported from the Committee on Commerce to whom was referred the bill relating to the licensing of commercial travellers, recommending that the bill pass. The report was accepted and laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

Rep. C. Brown reported from a majority of the Judiciary Committee on the bill to abolish the Hospital tax, recommending that it be laid on the table to be considered with the minority report.

Rep. F. Brown reported two documents printed and ready for distribution.

RESOLUTIONS AND BILLS.

Noble Townsend read a first time a bill to regulate and improve the civil service of the Hawaiian Islands. Referred to Printing Committee.

Rep. Kalaueka asked the Minister of Foreign Affairs the following questions: Is it the intention of the Government to return young Herring to his home? Is the Government going to send him to the same place young Marchant has been sent to?

The Minister answered the questions, that the Government sent for Herring to come home. The Government purchased a first class ticket for him through to his home and also furnished him with money. When he arrived in New York he had spent all his money and got more from the Consul there. He proceeded on his way to California, and again got hard up. The Consul there gave him money and arranged for his passage home. When the time came for the departure of the vessel, Young Herring was reported to be sick. Investigation proved that he had got into debt and pretended to be sick. His debts were paid, and again arrangements were made for his departure. When the time came he could not be found, and the Consul had been unable up to date to learn of his whereabouts. Therefore the Government have nothing more to do with him.

Noble Hitchcock moved to reconsider the vote on the liquor bill, which passed its second reading yesterday. Carried.

This bill was made the order of the day to-day and placed at the foot of the Calendar.

Noble Smith presented a report from the Judiciary Committee on the petition of B. Norton for a refund of $5 illegal taxes, recommending that $5 be inserted in the Appropriation Bill to refund said Norton the amount claimed. Adopted.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

The House went into Committee of the Whole, Noble Smith in the chair, to consider the Election Bill.

Noble Castle moved to take up the consideration of Section 29 that was deferred, to revise the Hawaiian version. Carried.

The correction was made and the section passed.

Section 42 was then taken up. Noble Castle said that this was an important section of the bill, as it was the first that dealt directly with the principal involved in the whole bill and that was, secret voting.

As the framer of the bill, he believed it right, but if the House should deem it advisable to strike out this section, and not support a secret ballot, he had provided for such an emergency, by asking different members of the House to draft a substitute section, one of which he presented, which simply provides for polling stations with no restrictions other than that they shall not be in or on the premises where liquor is sold, and left it to the House which they should adopt.

Committee then rose reported progress and asked leave to sit again at 1 p. m., which was granted.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House re-assembled at 1 p. m. and went into committee of the whole, Noble Dole in the chair, to further consider the Election Bill.

Minister Thurston spoke against the section as in the bill. He said it was an ideal bill for an intelligent electorate, but would not answer for us here. He was therefore in favor of the substitute section. He objected to the bill, 1st, that it would not be a secret ballot; 2nd, that it is not beneficial to this country. He stated that in some districts the Portuguese vote was in the majority, and they are proverbially illiterate, consequently they must ask the Inspector to check their ticket for them, which makes the ballot more public than it now is. He said that he did not believe that the majority of the voters could be trusted to carry out their own wishes. There are large majorities in the outside districts who will vote for those who promise the most. He was not in favor of any coercion at the polls. He believed that a man should go untrammelled to vote, and he believed that there were 15 or 20 intelligent people in every district that could explain and expound the status of the different candidates. He believed that if the Government controlled the printing of the ballots and issued them to candidates, that the ballot would be more secret than it can be with this bill. The intelligent vote of this country is in the minority and we have to enact law to protect the minority from the illiterate majority. Because of this law has been successful in countries where there is a large intelligent electorate, it does not follow that it will be so here.

Rep. Kinney spoke against the section as in the bill. He said it would cut off outside influence and double the influence inside, and that inside could and would be controlled by a corrupt Government.

Noble Smith moved to indefinitely postpone the section. He said that if we had an intelligent electorate he might support the bill, but we have not that, and he believed that the object would be defeated by adopting this section. But secrecy could be obtained to a certain extent by adopting the amendment offered or some other like it.

Noble Waterhouse said he wished to have his vote recorded for a secret ballot. He said that all men should have the right to go to the polls and deposit his ballot without anybody else knowing what that ballot contained.

Rep. C. Brown was in favor of the section as in the bill. The basis of the opposition to this bill seems to be that there are a large number of illiterate voters. He did not believe that the illiterate voters in the outer districts would exceed one tenth of the whole number; a very large majority can read and write, and are able to vote intelligently. If the British Colonies, Great Britain and several states of the United States of America from whom this law has been in part have found it to work well, why should not Hawaii try it? We are no more ignorant than other nations, but will compare favorably with any nation in the world, as regards literacy.

Minister Ashford spoke in favor of the section as in the bill. He was in favor of the secret ballot. It is not a new experiment, it has been tried in other countries and proved successful. He did not know why it should not be so here. He had no doubt that abuses would creep in, as they had done in other countries, but he believed now was the time to adopt the secret ballot and he wished to have his vote recorded in favor of it.

Noble Baldwin believed in the bill as a whole, and had supported the preceding sections. He thought that some of the succeeding sections were good and he should support them, but he did not believe in this section, which provide for secret balloting. He spoke of the illiteracy of the majority of the voters on plantations, and said it was impossible for any secrecy to be observed by these people in voting, because they had to depend upon others to show them which names to mark. He should vote against the section because he deemed it impracticable.

Rep. Kanaeoka spoke in favor of the bill. He referred to the objection raised by the other side, that illiterate persons would have to get the assistance of the Inspector to mark their tickets. It is just the same under the present system, an ignorant man comes to one of the runners outside the polls and asks for a special ticket. He is handed one, but he does not know whether that ballot contains the name of the candidate he wishes to vote for or not. This system obliges the inspector to mark this man's ticket with the name he desires, and the candidate as well as two assistants that this laws allows to be around the polls will see that the inspector does mark the ticket as requested. He should support the section as in the bill.

Rep. Nakaleka spoke in favor of the section. He thought it would be the means of stopping any intimidation at the polls and consequently should support it.

Noble Hitchcock said that from all that had been said against it, he failed to see why the secret ballot would not be beneficial to the public generally. It was what was needed to stop intimidation at the polls, and give every man an opportunity to vote as he wished without being afraid of offending anyone. It had been argued that this will not produce a secret ballot. It is as secret as possibly can be obtained with an illiterate constituency. These people have been allowed to vote, whether wisely or unwisely, it matters not. If the opponents of this bill wish to influence the illiterate
