A CLEAN SWEEP FOR THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

A Tidal Wave of Republican Principles from Maine To California. Parker worst Beaten of All Democratic Candidates.

Hal Haleakala suddenly become active no more surprise could have been exhibited, than at the result of last Tuesday's election on the island of Maui.

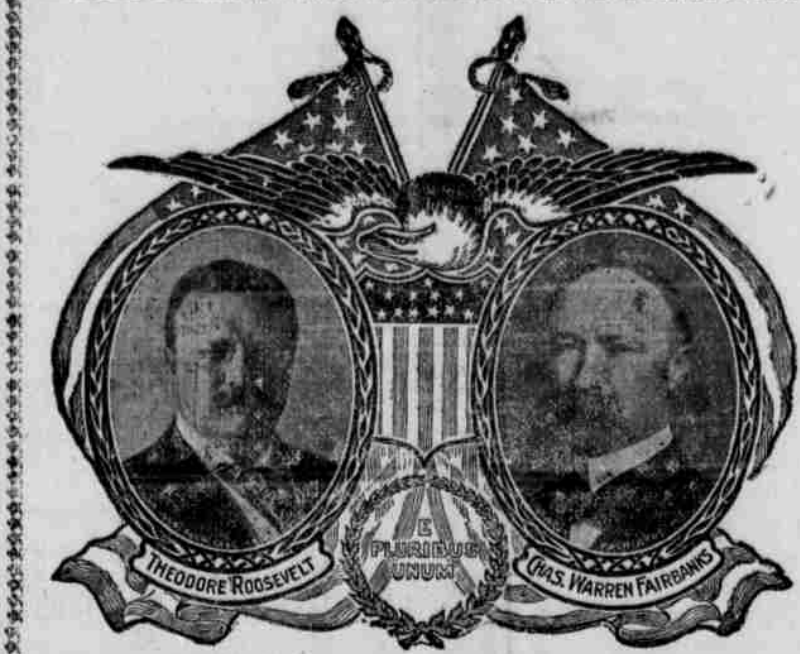

Never were the Home Rulers and Democrats so utterly at sea to account for the enormous vote polled by the grand old party of Maui and even at the eleventh hour small groups of the defeated could be seen in and around the headquarters consoling each other and seeking for some plausible reason for the holocaust.

The certainty of Roosevelt's reelection certainly had an influence over the voters which all the arguing and pleading of the opposition could not break. This, together, with the hard, systematic and enthusiastic work of the Republican leaders wrought the tremendous majorities.

While at no time during the campaign were the party workers at all uncertain as to the final results, the work of the last two weeks of the Executive Committee and Manager George Cooper, had been so thorough and exhaustive that a week before the election Manager Cooper estimated the republican vote for the Third Representative District at 1305. That this estimate was a conservative one based upon the final reports of the party workers in the various precincts is borne out by the official returns.

Some confusion occurred at Wailuku early in the voting, but of the total vote of the Sixth Precinct only 20 ballots for Delegate, 14 for Senators, and 6 for Representatives were thrown out as irregular.

The voters seemed to take an unusual interest in voting this year and all precincts polled practically the full vote. The shining example was set by the Nineteenth precinct (Na-hiku) who vote went solid to a man for the administrative party. In fact the spellbinders of the opposition when stumping this district were confronted by a placard reading "Democrats and Home Rulers need not stop, we are all republicans, more so to Keanae." Even with this "hand-writing on the wall" one opposition candidate figured he was good for fifteen votes from this precinct.

Throughout the districts with the exception of Ulupalakua, Keanae, Waiheae and Pukoo the same roaring majorities rolled in, proclaiming the people to being ardent supporters of the Federal and Territorial administration.

As early as half past two the returns commenced coming in, the Seventeenth leading the van by 36 votes for Kuhio, 11 for Notley and 4 for Iaukea; 46 for Kalam, and 28 for Hayselden. The balance of the ticket being republican as well as 37 votes for Beckley.

From this time on until midnight, returns from all precincts, with the exception of precincts one (Kalaulapa) and 5, (Lanai) came in, rapidly showing results which knocked the calculations of the Democratic-Home Rule party "galley west" and sounded the death knell to Home Ruleism on Maui, and the utter folly of independent candidates.

Attorney J. L. Coke, who ran as a democrat with the support of the Home Rulers and was pledged to the Democratic Central Committee to carry Maui for the Democratic ticket, early gave up the fight, the overwhelming republican returns upsetting all his computations.

Coke made a most excellent showing heading the senatorial ticket in the second, fourth, sixth, fifteenth, and eighteenth, and eighteenth precincts but the pluralities were insufficient to offset the total. As it was Coke led Oily William of Lahaina, by a good margin, and won an honorable defeat.

Early in the evening wireless messages were received stating that Kauai as well as Oahu and Hawaii had gone republican by an overwhelming majority.

The total vote for Delegate Kuhio on Oahu was 3536, against 1505 for Iaukea, and 551 for Notley. The Senators elected are J. M. Dowsett, 3369, John C. Lane 3284, and E. Faxon Bishop 3219.

Representatives:—Broad, 1353, Cox, 1360, Kalawaia, 1259, Kaleiupu, 1291, Mabelana, 1236, Waterhouse, 1342.

Ganzell was elected Senator from Kauai, and the Representatives elect Sheldon, Rice, Knudsen and Matika.

The glorious victory for the National ticket is told by the following special cablegram dated Nov. 9, 5:30 p. m.

Parker failed to carry his own county. California elects seven and probably eight Congressmen. The second district is doubtful but favoring the Republicans. The indications are that Washington has elected a Republican Governor.

NEW YORK, 5:30 a. m., Nov. 9.—The Republicans have carried Maryland and every other State except the Solid South and will have 325 votes in the Electoral College. Their majority in the House of Representatives will be not less than fifty. Roosevelt has probably carried New York State by 200,000. Parker's majority in the city is only 35,000. The entire Republican State ticket is elected.

The News tenders hearty congratulations to the people of Maui on the result of last Tuesday's election. While there were some good men on the home-rule-democratic ticket, still the people seem reasonably satisfied with the ticket elected. And well they may be, for another home rule victory in the Territory or on Maui, would have been just a little more than decent people could stand. To George O. Cooper, the manager of the republican campaign on Maui the News doffs its hat. Despite the knocking of lukewarm republicans and latent democrats, Manager Cooper has swung Maui into line with the other Islands and given republicanism on Maui an impulse which will long be felt. But Mr. Cooper does not deserve all the praise. The better class of people of all races, have come to understand that home rule is dead, and that coalition of the conservative and intelligent classes under the republican banner meant our political salvation. The present election has started the Islands in the right direction, and it is now up to the republican officers elect to so conduct themselves and the affairs of the Territory to gain the approbation of the people, otherwise a great big democratic party will spring up and take charge of affairs.

The question of county government is far and away the most important one which will engage the attention of the incoming legislature. The question of finance, although a complicated one will easily be unraveled in the hands of a legislature in harmony with the executive, but the adoption of a proper county government bill will lead into deep water. The difficulty will be to graft proper measures on to our existing form of municipal government, so that there be no clash and no misfits. After all, we can only expect a weak and imperfect county bill, and it will take several years of experimental legislation before we have a county bill which will fit our conditions properly. Even then every legislature will find much work to do in readjusting the county bill to our various and changing need. Such has continually been the experience of the States, and we must not hope to prove an exception to the rule, as it is beyond the ability of any set of men to draft a perfect measure at the first attempt.

Now that the election with its attendant excitement is over, the people of Maui should once more get together and pull together on many matters of common interest. Much remains to be done in the matter of appropriations, and it is up to the citizens of Maui to add a new impulse to the impetus of the Government officials. The citizens of Wailuku have several important matters of purely local interest which need attention, and which should no longer be neglected. The News has so often dwelt on these matters that it seems a mere waste of ink to reiterate them. But the News cannot do it all alone, and the citizens of Maui are expected to do their duty.

Perhaps no one on the Islands is really opposed to the successful development of minor industries, but in the opposition which such industries are now meeting, there appears to be a certain amount of stubbornness which is to say the least ill-timed. True, those who are discouraging individual efforts profess to be actuated by an honest purpose, and to a certain extent they doubtless believe that a soil so rich and generous as that of Maui is only to be wooed by a steam plough and won by incorporation. While there is economic merit in combined effort, yet individual effort should receive at least an opportunity to win out.

While it is now evident that the war between Japan and Russia will last through the winter and run well into 1905, still the outcome seems an almost certain victory for Japan. Port Arthur will most likely fall before the end of the year, if not before the end of this month. The menace of the Baltic fleet comes too late, for with Port Arthur in the hands of the Japanese and Vladivostok under siege, the Baltic fleet will be helpless in the Pacific waters. Japan will in the meantime strengthen her land forces, and northern Manchuria will next spring be the field of the last and most bloody struggle of the war.

The shipment of avocado pears to the coast in cold storage has been practically demonstrated a success, and the people of Maui should take full advantage of this knowledge and plant thousands of the trees space for which now stand empty in every door yard and taro patch corner. A full sized pear tree, bearing choice fruit, is good interest on several hundred dollars, and as the tree rarely fails to bear fruit, a certain annual dividend may confidently be expected. The fruit on ten such trees is good interest on one thousand dollars, and it surely pays to plant trees worth $10 apiece.

Even before the final echoes of the recent political campaign have died away, the News desires to take up the tourist proposition and continue the agitation of the proposition. The experiences of the Hawaiian Promotion Committee should by this time have taught us a few practical lessons in the matter of getting tourists down here, and it is now up to those most interested in the matter to push their opportunities along the lines of least resistance.

There will probably never be another patch-work home rule-democratic ticket on the Islands, for the home rule party, as such, has no more meaning. From now on, there will only two parties, the republican and democratic, and each party will be compelled to select its strongest and best men for official honors, which is as it should be in Island politics.

The News has recently taken occasion to point out the defects in our school system, and incidentally to voice the general opinion that we are not getting the results for which we annually pay large sums, the point being made by this paper that our common schools, with some few exceptions, are failing to properly instruct our grammar school children.

The following letter, written to the Bulletin by a Maui teacher, furnishes just the opportunity which the News needs to clinch its argument:

Editor Evening Bulletin:—Our most progressive local paper the Maui News, has recently devoted much space in its editorial denouncing school methods and devices as carried on in our schools, and declaring the five step method as "tommy-rot" and other such awkward expressions and that our common school graduates can no longer, for want of proper training, obtain positions in an office as they did fifteen years ago.

One who has had some experience as a teacher will readily notice that the editor of that "progressive" paper is vastly ignorant of the subject he has written and it is exceedingly surprising that a man who assumes to be an editor of a journal should express his views on a subject of which he has absolutely no knowledge. He may as well step into the office of the plantation manager and suggest some better device in the cultivation of sugar cane, a subject which he, too, has no conception, except possibly that sugar is made from sugar cane.

The so called "Five-Step Method," briefly speaking, is simply a general plan for the teaching of lessons. It is based on educational principles, and the result of many years of experience.

Thanking you for the space, I remain, yours truly, J. V.

Makawao, Maui, Oct. 29, 1904.

Now it will be remembered by those who attentively read the News that the blame in the matter was placed on the shoulders of the teachers rather than of the children. In ordinary correspondence, errors in grammar, style and composition are excusable, but when a teacher writes a letter for publication in a newspaper, it may fairly be presumed that he will have at least pride enough to do the best he knows how in the matter of correct grammar, and will at least pay attention to the elementary rules of composition. "J. V.'s" letter in the Bulletin contains five paragraphs, and the News will take the trouble of pointing out just one error in each paragraph, not for the purpose of ridiculing "J. V.," but rather for the more kindly purpose of assisting him and others to discover where the fault in our school system lies.

Paragraph One.—"The MAUI NEWS has devoted much space in denouncing" etc. Incorrect. Space is devoted "to" purposes, not "in" them.

Paragraph Two.—"The editor of that 'progressive' paper is vastly ignorant of the subject he has written," "About which," or "concerning which," he has written would come nearer conforming to the elementary rules of composition.

Paragraph Three.—"Our young men today with the advantages offered in our excellent school system are certainly better prepared when he graduates than the youth fifteen years ago." Yes, "J. V.," but it will be hard to make old fogies like the News man believe that, so long as you insist on making the singular phrase "when he graduates" agree with the plural form, "Our young men."

Paragraph Four.—"Ambitious young men today seek a higher education than that offered in the common schools, and carefully prepare for their future work, while his schoolmate without an ambition or circumstances may not permit, are quite satisfied with their common school education, and therefore cannot complete with his chum." Excuse us, "J. V.," we promised to point out only one error in each paragraph but as the singular forms "his schoolmates" and "his chum" each refer to the same plural antecedent

"Ambitious young men," the News will count it one error, and pass in silence over the expression, "without an ambition, or circumstances may not permit."

Paragraph Five.—"It, (the Five Step Method,) is based on education at principles, and the result of many years of experience." Faulty composition again. Should be, "and is the result" etc; also faulty use of the word "of" after "years," which latter word should be possessive in form.

The five step method in the proper hands and used properly has never been condemned by the News, but it does seem that one or two preliminary "steps" are needed in our common schools, notably the ability to use the simple forms of the English language correctly, and if teachers cannot do so, their pupils will not be taught to do so.

"J. V." assumes that the News men is "vastly ignorant" of school matters, but the truth is that he was principal of one of the leading grammar schools in San Francisco while "J. V." was yet in his swaddling clothes, and in those old foggy days pupils were taught, among other things, a correct use of the elementary forms of the English language, instead of being taught as they now are, to do so much "side-stepping."

MAILES WIN

The ball game Tuesday afternoon demonstrated very forcibly the superiority of the Mailes over the local team, regardless of the fact that the weather conditions, the rough voyage on the Iroquois from Hawaii, and their unfamiliarity with the grounds afforded a heavy handicap which should have proved a boon to the Maui team.

There were several hot wrangles over decisions made by the local umpires and the opinion prevailed that the Mailes intended to win whether by fair playing or by bulldozing on the decisions.

The Mailes had no reason to resort to this latter method as the play showed that they outbatted and outfielded the home nine.

The Mailes played an excellent game as any this season, the battery being exceptionally proficient and the game was as much the Mailes as the Mailes until the last inning when the latter piled up five runs, while the Mailes, who were last to bat only made one.

Tom Kruger made two pretty running catches of foul flies. DeLorie of the Mailes who played leftfield also made a running catch which called forth applause from the spectators.

George Cummings who had been slated to play at short for the Mailes met with his usual mishap, in this instance during practice prior to the calling of game.

Cummings was working himself into form at short and in attempting to stop a hot liner split his right hand between the thumb and forefinger so severely as to necessitate his withdrawal from the game. Tom Lloyd held down short in his place.

The soggy condition of the ground and the Mailes playing without cleats on their shoes, were responsible for the few errors of the home team. Hampton's errors were of a nature which were anything but excusable coming from a player of his caliber.

Inter Island Cricket.

A large crowd of enthusiasts witnessed the first interisland game of cricket at Kahului Thursday afternoon between Oahu and Maui.

While the Maui team expected to be beaten, they were happily disappointed in the results as they made a very creditable showing, their weak spot being in their batting.

An unlooked for accident happened to Judge Stantly in the second game. A batted ball struck a small stone and in bounding struck the Judge in the forehead above the left eye causing a nasty gash, but which did not prevent the play continuing.

The following were the players of the respective teams Oahu:—R. Andersons, S. Beardmore, R. R. Carton, F. Gill, A. R. Hatfield, H. L. Herbert, R. A. Jordan, S. Jordan, J. C. McGill, J. A. M. Maclean, C. P. Morse, W. L. Stantley.

Maui:—D. C. Lindsay, J. M. S. Williams, Canon Auet, Theo, Nickelsen, W. L. Lougher, Thos Black, J. B. Thomson, W. M. McGerrow, A. Meni, L. von Temsky, W. A. Sparks.

LAHAINA LINES.

The birthday of Henry, son of Charles and Fannie Oam, was observed by a beautiful luau last Saturday. The festivities continued from noon till midnight.

A pleasant reception was given in honor of the visiting kindergarten teachers, at Kindergarten Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 4. There was excellent singing by the Quintette Club and a recitation by Miss Horner. On Saturday morning there was an interesting literary and musical program.

Mr. Olsen and family are at the Johnson House, Honolulu, but expect soon to have a home of their own.

Repairs are going on at the Lahaina Store.
