FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1901.

FLAG DAY.

If we remember rightly, so the chronicler says, on this day in 1776 that the Stars and Stripes were adopted as the national flag of a Republic, which has become a world power. The celebration of the day, by the men of all nationalities, who have left their own flags and countries, is natural. There must be a great feeling of pride in the heart of every American today, who can point to the flag which started with thirteen stars and which today holds forty-eight stars in its corner (and Hawaii yet to come).

The glorious banner floats over a population of 70,000,000 true Americans from Germany, Ireland, Scandinavia and Italy (leaving out Russia for reasons known to our local Senate). It floats over a government, which has never known to be corrupt and over a legislative body where a Colonel Mazuma is unknown. It spreads its beautiful colors to the breeze where men, enjoying the benefit of the liberty and justice of the said Americans are being burned at the stake, and it casts out its brilliant colors, where workmen clamoring for fair wages are shot down. To the glorious old flag!

Say, we will not steal the thunder from brother Emmeluth or deprive Tom Fitch of an original Fourth of July oration, so we will simply ask the good common sense Americans why is it necessary to "celebrate" a flag day, when the Stars and Stripes are in question? Whether they got there in 1776 or any other old time is immaterial. The flag is there to stay, until the tide, recorded in history, comes around and swamps it.

History repeats itself, and it is well for all nations and men to remember it.

Would you believe it, dear reader that once upon a time the great flag of Denmark floated over England, Scotland, Germany, Russia and all of Scandinavia? The flag fell down from heaven at the battle of Riga, between the Danish crusaders and Tolstol's men. The legend is good but the facts simply show after a careful investigation that in those days sailors did not go to heaven, even if they now go to the Senate to make hell.

Albert of Orlamundt was in command of the crusaders and the Rev. Bishop Peter was missionary in chief. Bert was evidently getting it in the neck by the Russians, when old Pete got up on a hill and starts praying in true missionary fashion. The Legislature at the time had cut out all stenographers so the record of his work is simply in "long-hand." The old fellow said to his chief assistant:

"Have you got Danebrog," (the name of the Danish flag), in your pocket and ready to fly it. We have got to fix that Bert of something or the church won't have a pull. Shake her out and when the breeze comes the right way let her go, and we will pray to see the danger signal."

And he prayed, and the great old flag came down from heaven and all cried, "a miracle, a miracle," and by that the Russians were moving towards Siberia to look for a senator. And that is the reason that there is no "flag day" in Denmark.

And let us take France. There is no

flag day in that great Republic, although the tricolor is not older than the Stars and Stripes. The "Fleur de Lis" died, the tricolor came, but the French people see no reason to remember the flag born in blood in 1789 and disgraced in blood in 1870.

We believe in teaching the young people, the coming generations, to be good patriotic citizens. But is it necessary to make annual celebration to teach them loyalty to their flag and their country. We think it should not be so, especially in this glorious land of the free and the contract laborers, and the beef trust.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

While looking over some official records in the Board of Health, we were painfully surprised to notice that the Hohron Drug Co., a few days ago, was granted a contract for furnishing crude carbolic acid to the Board at the rate of 83 cents a pound while a much lower figure was asked by the Benson, Smith Co., and the previous contract with the Hollister Drug Co., amounted only to 10 cents per pound. A great deal of crude carbolic acid is used by the Board of Health, and the remarkable discrepancy in bids should have the immediate attention of the Legislature. There is evidently something rotten in Denmark or in the Board of Health.

The estimates for the expenditures of the Police Department, presented by the High Sheriff to the Senate, have been unanimously adopted after an investigation by a senatorial committee. We do not doubt that the High Sheriff knows his business better than we do, but we consider the amounts asked by him for the Oahu police service absolutely inadequate to present demands. We are no longer living in a Paradise of the Pacific, and we need a strong and efficient police force to demonstrate that fact. We can appreciate the motive of the High Sheriff in "cutting the coat according to the cloth," but we hope the joint committee, which eventually will discuss appropriations will raise the amount, allowed the police department, to the figures originally submitted by the governor in his budget. Without a military and a well-paid police we will soon have h— to pay. And it is safer paying the police.

The Independents in the House of Representatives are becoming more and more a puzzle to the men who elected them. The attempt to cut down the salaries of certain faithful employees of the Board of Education was a disgrace. The "cut" was not made in the salaries of "P. G.'s" but in those of teachers belonging to the Hawaiian race and staunch friends of their people and fellow sufferers in 1893. We are surprised at the action of Representative Mossman whom we have always considered a fair man, but whom we now fear has altogether become a "Mos."—mos. And may the moss grow forever.

Death of Nahaolalus.

After a brief spell of sickness Mr. K's Nahaolalus passed away late last night at Waikiki. Deceased was a well known Hawaiian, being the adopted son of the late Governor of Maui, P. Nahaolalus, who was one of the favorite friends of the Kamehamehas.

The deceased was 49 years of age and leaves a widow and eight children. One son is at the Buffalo exposition and another son resides in Lahaina, where the original homestead of the family is. The remains were taken to Lahaina by the W. G. Hall and will be interred in the family vault.

Anti-Asiatics.

J. H. Black, the veteran job printer, has left the employ of the Robert Grieve Company, on the ground, as he alleges, that the company offered employment to Chinamen. Mr. Black says he appealed to Judge Humphreys, the controlling owner, who said he would employ whom he wished. Three pressmen also left the establishment for the same cause. The Chinamen were to be used as press feeders, their willingness to work cheaper than white men being their recommendation. —P. C. A.

Island Boy Married.

OAKLAND, May 30.—The residence of William H. Bailey, at 1339 Jackson street, was the scene of a quiet wedding last evening, in which the contracting parties were William H. Bailey, Jr., and Miss Margaret Lee Hazlett, of Los Angeles. Rev. J. K. McLean officiated at the ceremony. The wedding was strictly a home affair, and was attended by the parents of the bride and groom and members of their families.

AT BUFFALO.

Hawaii Well Represented By Miss Rose Davison.

BUFFALO, May, 28.—The Hawaiian educational exhibit arrived in Buffalo yesterday, and the work of installation was begun by the Hawaiian commissioner, Miss Rose C. Davison, and her assistant, Miss Mapuana Smith. The exhibit when completed will be found in the Government Building, adjoining the exhibit made by the Department of the Interior.

Miss Davison is a native of Hawaii, but would pass anywhere as a Stateswoman, born and bred. She is a young woman of marked refinement and intelligence, and impresses one with the earnest interest she takes in her work. She is the assistant secretary of the Department of Public Instruction of Hawaii. Miss Smith is counted one of the most able primary teachers in Hawaii.

Hawaii has made a brilliant record in her schools, and with all her limitations she entered the Union with an excellent school system, which is beginning to be self-supporting, as far as teachers are concerned. Instruction in Hawaii is much the same as in America, although more attention is paid to the manual training. The Hawaiian is naturally indolent, and while he found his lack of capabilities along various lines not especially depressing, the advent of the foreigner makes it incumbent upon the native to wake up to the opportunities before him. This is fully appreciated by the Department of Public Instruction, and every effort is being made to train the young Hawaiian to do something with his hands that will be of value to him. In the primary departments the pupil is taught the usual studies that engage the thought of American boys and girls, in addition, both boys and girls are taught to sew, carpentry, printing and cooking. In the High School, English is used, and a strenuous effort is made to improve the written and spoken English of the pupils.

Much that is especially interesting in the educational exhibit is taken from the manual training department. The specimens of knife carving are notably good, and would do credit to a skilled mechanic in many instances. A box of Koa wood made at Waiahoie School in the district of Koolaupoko, Isl. and of Oahu, by two boys, 14 and 18 years old, shows the skill of the pupils. The box is a handsome piece of work, and is made without nails, the corners being fitted so snugly as to hold the box perfectly solid. On the top of the box in inlaid letters of a darker wood, is the word "Aloha," which in English means greeting, welcome, love, goodnight and several other things.

A perfect design of a Hawaiian canoe whittled out of the native wood hau is another interesting specimen of the manual training work. The pupils are taught to make their own yardsticks, and so careful and proficient are they that the measures are as accurate as Eastern factory make. The brooms used in the homes are made of the stiff fibres of coconut leaves, the fibres being fastened together with thongs made of the bark of the hau tree. Lumber ropes are shown which were made from the inner bark of the tree long before manilla was known to the Hawaiian. There are also several exhibits from the school at Molokai, which is not given over entirely to lepers, as seems to be the States idea. The school is located near the leper colony, which contained 1,000 unfortunate.

In the schools the pupils of Hawaiian birth are predominating, with Portuguese children a good second. The greater number of teachers are of English-speaking people, American predominating, although the training school is fast bringing up the number of Hawaiian teachers.

FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1901.

FLAG DAY.

If we remember rightly, so the chronicler says, on this day in 1776 that the Stars and Stripes were adopted as the national flag of a Republic, which has become a world power. The celebration of the day, by the men of all nationalities, who have left their own flags and countries, is natural. There must be a great feeling of pride in the heart of every American today, who can point to the flag which started with thirteen stars and which today holds forty-eight stars in its corner (and Hawaii yet to come).

The glorious banner floats over a population of 70,000,000 true Americans from Germany, Ireland, Scandinavia and Italy (leaving out Russia for reasons known to our local Senate). It floats over a government, which has never known to be corrupt and over a legislative body where a Colonel Mazuma is unknown. It spreads its beautiful colors to the breeze where men, enjoying the benefit of the liberty and justice of the said Americans are being burned at the stake, and it casts out its brilliant colors, where workmen clamoring for fair wages are shot down. To the glorious old flag!

Say, we will not steal the thunder from brother Emmeluth or deprive Tom Fitch of an original Fourth of July oration, so we will simply ask the good common sense Americans why is it necessary to "celebrate" a flag day, when the Stars and Stripes are in question? Whether they got there in 1776 or any other old time is immaterial. The flag is there to stay, until the tide, recorded in history, comes around and swamps it.

History repeats itself, and it is well for all nations and men to remember it.

Would you believe it, dear reader that once upon a time the great flag of Denmark floated over England, Scotland, Germany, Russia and all of Scandinavia? The flag fell down from heaven at the battle of Riga, between the Danish crusaders and Tolstol's men. The legend is good but the facts simply show after a careful investigation that in those days tallors did not go to heaven, even if they now go to the Senate to make hell.

Albert of Orlamundt was in command of the crusaders and the Rev. Bishop Peter was missionary in chief. Bert was evidently getting it in the neck by the Russians, when old Peter got up on a hill and starts praying in true missionary fashion. The Legislature at the time had cut out all stenographers so the record of his work is simply in "long-hand." The old fellow said to his chief assistant:

"Have you got Danebrog," (the name of the Danish flag), in your pocket and ready to fly it. We have got to fix that Bert of something or the church won't have a pull. Shake her out and when the breeze comes the right way let her go, and we will pray to see the danger signal."

And he prayed, and the great old flag came down from heaven and all cried, "a miracle, a miracle," and by that the Russians were moving towards Siberia to look for a senator. And that is the reason that there is no "flag day" in Denmark.

And let us take France. There is no

flag day in that great Republic, although the tricolor is not older than the Stars and Stripes. The "Fleur de Lis" died, the tricolor came, but the French people see no reason to remember the flag born in blood in 1789 and disgraced in blood in 1870.

We believe in teaching the young people, the coming generations, to be good patriotic citizens. But is it necessary to make annual celebration to teach them loyalty to their flag and their country. We think it should not be so, especially in this glorious land of the free and the contract laborers, and the beef trust.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

While looking over some official records in the Board of Health, we were painfully surprised to notice that the Hobron Drug Co., a few days ago, was granted a contract for furnishing crude carbolic acid to the Board at the rate of 83 cents a pound while a much lower figure was asked by the Benson, Smith Co., and the previous contract with the Hollister Drug Co., amounted only to 10 cents per pound. A great deal of crude carbolic acid is used by the Board of Health, and the remarkable discrepancy in bids should have the immediate attention of the Legislature. There is evidently something rotten in Denmark or in the Board of Health.

The estimates for the expenditures of the Police Department, presented by the High Sheriff to the Senate, have been unanimously adopted after an investigation by a senatorial committee. We do not doubt that the High Sheriff knows his business better than we do, but we consider the amounts asked by him for the Oahu police service absolutely inadequate to present demands. We are no longer living in a Paradise of the Pacific, and we need a strong and efficient police force to demonstrate that fact. We can appreciate the motive of the High Sheriff in "cutting the cost according to the cloth," but we hope the joint committee, which eventually will discuss appropriations will raise the amount, allowed the police department, to the figures originally submitted by the governor in his budget. Without a military and a well-paid police we will soon have to pay. And it is safer paying the police.

The Independents in the House of Representatives are becoming more and more a puzzle to the men who elected them. The attempt to cut down the salaries of certain faithful employees of the Board of Education was a disgrace. The "cut" was not made in the salaries of "P. G.'s" but in those of teachers belonging to the Hawaiian race and staunch friends of their people and fellow sufferers in 1893. We are surprised at the action of Representative Mossman whom we have always considered a fair man, but whom we now fear has altogether become a "Mos" man. And may the moss grow forever.

Death of Nahaolelua.

After a brief spell of sickness Mr. Kiu Nahaolelua passed away late last night at Waikiki. Deceased was a well known Hawaiian, being the adopted son of the late Governor of Maui, P. Nahaolelua, who was one of the favorite friends of the Kamehamehas.

The deceased was 49 years of age and leaves a widow and eight children. One son is at the Buffalo exposition and another son resides in Lahaina, where the original homestead of the family is. The remains were taken to Lahaina by the W. G. Hall and will be interred in the family vault.

The Chinamen were to be used as press feeders, their willingness to work cheaper than white men being their recommendation. —P. C. A.

Island Boy Married.

OAKLAND, May 30.—The residence of William H. Bailey, at 1319 Jackson street, was the scene of a quiet wedding last evening, in which the contracting parties were William H. Bailey, Jr., and Miss Margaret Lee Hazlett, of Los Angeles. Rev. J. K. McLean officiated at the ceremony. The wedding was strictly a home affair, and was attended by the parents of the bride and groom and members of their families.

AT BUFFALO,

Hawaii Well Represented By Miss Rose Davison.

BUFFALO, May, 28.—The Hawaiian educational exhibit arrived in Buffalo yesterday, and the work of installation was begun by the Hawaiian commissioner, Miss Rose C. Davison, and her assistant, Miss Mapuana Smith. The exhibit when completed will be found in the Government Building, adjoining the exhibit made by the Department of the Interior.

Miss Davison is a native of Hawaii, but would pass anywhere as a Stateswoman, born and bred. She is a young woman of marked refinement and intelligence, and impresses one with the earnest interest she takes in her work. She is the assistant secretary of the Department of Public Instruction of Hawaii. Miss Smith is counted one of the most able primary teachers in Hawaii.

Hawaii has made a brilliant record in her schools, and with all her limitations she entered the Union with an excellent school system, which is beginning to be self supporting, as far as teachers are concerned. Instruction in Hawaii is much the same as in America, although more attention is paid to the manual training. The Hawaiian is naturally indolent, and while he found his lack of capabilities along various lines not especially depressing, the advent of the foreigner makes it incumbent upon the native to wake up to the opportunities before him. This is fully appreciated by the Department of Public Instruction, and every effort is being made to train the young Hawaiian to do something with his hands that will be of value to him. In the primary departments the pupil is taught the usual studies that engage the thought of American boys and girls, in addition, both boys and girls are taught to sew, carpentry, printing and cooking. In the High School, English is used, and a strenuous effort is made to improve the written and spoken English of the pupils.

Much that is especially interesting in the educational exhibit is taken from the manual training department. The specimens of knife carving are notably good, and would do credit to a skilled mechanic in many instances. A box of Koa wood made at Waiahole School in the district of Koolaupoko, Isl. and of Oahu, by two boys, 14 and 18 years old, shows the skill of the pupils. The box is a handsome piece of work, and is made without nails, the corners being fitted so snugly as to hold the box perfectly solid. On the top of the box is inlaid letters of a darker wood, is the word "Aloha," which in English means greeting, welcome, love, goodnight and several other things.

A perfect design of a Hawaiian canoe, whittled out of the native wood hau is another interesting specimen of the manual training work. The pupils are taught to make their own yardsticks, and so careful and proficient are they that the measures are as accurate as Eastern factory make. The brooms used in the homes are made of the stiff fibres of coconut leaves, the fibres being fastened together with thongs made of the bark of the hau tree. A number of ropes are shown which were made from the inner bark of the tree long before manilla was known to the Hawaiian. There are also several exhibits from the school at Molokai, which is not given over entirely to lepers, as seems to be the States idea. The school is located near the leper colony, which contained 1,000 unfortunate.

In the schools the pupils of Hawaiian birth are predominating, with Portuguese children a good second. The greater number of teachers are of English-speaking people, American predominating, although the training school is fast bringing up the number of Hawaiian teachers.

KAPIOLANI

TRACT

FOR SALE.

The Kapiolani Tract extends from King street to the Beach. A road 60 feet wide will be opened on the east side of the property adjoining the Kamehameha Girls' School; said road will extend to the sea.

Cross-roads will be opened between blocks. Every lot will have a frontage on a road. The elevation varies from forty feet high to ten feet high above sea level.

No swamps around the premises. No freshet will enter the property.

There is an offer to buy a part of the property by a great manufacturing company. The chances are the offer may be accepted. There is every reason to believe that the prices of lots will increase in a short time. The owner of the property will give all chances to purchasers to make money on their investments.

The ground is superior to any tract in the market.

The premises are situated within one mile and a half of the Post Office.

The Government water pipes are laid along the upper portion of the property.

The prices are the cheapest of any tract within two miles from the center of the city.

The terms which will be given to purchasers will be the best ever given by any real estate dealer or broker
during the last twenty years in Honolulu.

lars, apply to
