UNCLE SAM'S SUGAR SUPPLY.

There does not seem to be any limit to the amount of sugar Uncle Sam is able to consume. In the three-quarters of this year ended September, our consumption of this toothsome commodity was 500,000,000 pounds more than in the similar period of 1903. The astonishing figures of total consumption are, in pounds:

Nine months, 1903... 3,764,929,688
Nine months, 1904... 4,266,506,039
One fourth of this enormous quantity came from our island possessions—Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands; more than one-half was sent us by Cuba, and the rest came, chiefly, from other islands of the East and West Indies.

By countries and possessions the round figures are, according to the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor:

| | Pounds. |
|---------------------------------------|---------------|
| Cuba | 2,257,000,000 |
| Hawaii territory | 687,000,000 |
| Porto Rico | 266,000,000 |
| East Indies | 259,000,000 |
| Germany (best sugar) | 225,000,000 |
| West Indies (not British) and Bermuda | 107,000,000 |
| British West Indies | 80,000,000 |
| South America | 62,000,000 |
| Philippine Islands | 24,000,000 |

The value of this immense import of sugar was $101,116,717, of which $32,228,000 went to our island possessions in the following proportions: Hawaii... $23,139,000
Porto Rico... 9,083,000
Philippines... 312,000
Next to Cuba and Hawaii Territory the East Indies [chiefly Java] sent us the largest quantity of sugar, namely 259,000,000 pounds, valued at $4,319,000.

Our import of sugar from the Dutch East Indies has increased very greatly of late years, being 891,000,000 pounds in 1903 fiscal year against 183,000,000 pounds in 1893—708,000,000 pounds increase in the one decade.

The value of our total sugar import this nine months was $68,893,000 against $50,886,000 in 1903, and $46,121,000 in 1902.

Beginning with 1890 nine months the following shows the steady growth of our sugar imports, in pounds:

|------|---------------|
| 1890 | 2,536,000,000 |
| 1895 | 2,952,000,000 |
| 1899 | 3,516,000,000 |
| 1903 | 3,764,000,000 |
| 1904 | 4,266,000,000 |

Result of Berard's Labors.

M Victor Berard claims that he has located the land of the Lotus-eaters, the Island of Calypso, the cave of the Cyclops, and the rest of the familiar spots of the Odyssey, and shows that Homer used one of the ancient Phœnician log books on which to base his descriptions. M Berard has spent years in working up and down the coasts of the Mediterranean in a sailing boat, armed with the French "Nautical Instructions," which are ultimately based on the "Periploï" of the Phœnician sailors. "Les Phœnicien et l'Odyssee" is the result of his labors.

PARTY REORGANIZATIONS.

II.

In continuation from where we had left off in yesterday's issue, Mr White says: "We know well enough how to get rich, but we do not know—as a nation or as individuals—how to be fair. The problem of distribution is the problem of fair play. Roosevelt calls it a 'square deal.' The issue is not between labor and capital, as such. Fair play and a square deal are something like the pledge to do right, capable of liberal construction. Yet the thing that is in the minds of the people as an issue is something like this: At some place between a million and a hundred millions a man must, in the piling up of wealth, gets enough; and enough means all that he needs the supply himself and his household with every sane luxury that modern civilization offers."

He claims that it was "not the man, but the principles" involved was what carried the election for the Republicans, in that "it is to the reorganized wealth of its power for evil, and not to take from the rich man whose wealth is honestly earned an ounce of his power to enjoy the luxuries of life, that the fair-play problem, or, as Roosevelt puts it, the 'square deal,' has come into American politics. And it is this problem—or the desire to work on this problem—that underlies the personal triumph of Theodore Roosevelt at the polls. By the overwhelming popular vote that President Roosevelt received he is made the leader of this movement, and the Republican party is committed to the policy of the 'square deal.'"

Being so committed, he says that "it is hard to believe that the party that eight years ago was advocating the policy of 'hands off' is now ready to lay hands on capital, and such rough hands, too, when capital goes wrong. Leaders may play and caper before high Heaven only inside the little ring made by popular intelligence. As the people see more and know more, leaders may do more. Theodore Roosevelt has a larger field than Grant had, or than Harrison had, because he is the leader of a better people."

"The leaders of the Senate of the forties and fifties would fail of election today if they were before the American people. It took a generation for the American people to see the iniquity of imprisonment for debt, and three generations for them to appreciate the moral obliquity of human slavery. Such things the American people today would see and remedy in a year. In 1892 the people saw no wrong in the campaign committees of both parties accepting contributions from persons or corporations expecting favors from the Government. The thought that legislation was being sold for a price did not get far into the consciousness of the people. But in the recent campaign party leaders little and big, in the States as well as in the nation, were anxious to prove that only clean money passed through their hands."

"Ten years ago Theodore Roosevelt was regarded by the public generally and by his party leaders in particular as a pestiferous young mugwump, smart enough to maintain party regularity. Roosevelt has not changed."

And therefore, with regard to the leader of the people, the writer says that "the hour brings the man," because "the popular mind begets the popular leaders; and Theodore Roosevelt leads the American people today because they believe he was a righteous man. Cleveland led them because they believed he was a brave man; Blaine was a magnetic leader; McKinley was shrewd and lovable. And for these predominant qualities these men were chosen."

In concluding his views, Mr White says: "The time is ripe to begin. The election just over, wherein hundreds of thousands of Americans forsook their party for the sake of sheer patriotism, shows that a high purpose is moving in the nation. Strong passions are submerged in the desire to see absolute justice prevail between man and man. The 'square deal' idea that appealed to men and made them vote for Roosevelt and send him an almost unanimous Congress is a rough phrase covering the noblest sentiment that has stirred American politics since the Emancipation Proclamation. That sentiment was too deep for noise and for the hurly burly of partisan political demonstration; so men said it was a campaign of apathy. It was a campaign of righteous fervor. The votes prove it. The million plurality was not an indorsement of the Republican platform. It was not an indorsement of the Republican party. But neither was it a personal triumph for Theodore Roosevelt. It was a triumph for the ideals of common honesty, simple justice and courageous manhood, for which the American people believe most sincerely that Theodore Roosevelt stands. They did not vote for him in spite of his ideals as they voted for Blaine; the people voted for Roosevelt because of his ideals, and for no other reason in the world. He played the dramatized part of Civic Righteousness in the great morality play before the people."

Here ended what this well-known writer had to say, followed by another on the opposite side.

THE LATEST FAKIR.

It now turns out that in the Insaue Asylum contract, the specifications call that the stone blocks are to be made by a certain machine, and that the specifications were drawn so as to compel the contractors to use this alleged machine which has no working model in existence, nor has it been patented and not even has it been perfected. This block making machine is supposed to be an invention by President Pinkham of the Board of Health, and the claim is made that he has not yet invented nor patented nor built one to do the work expected of it. The contracting company stands ready to proceed with the work by using the usual hand-made blocks, but it is bound by the specifications so drawn as to wait until the proposed Pinkham machine is perfected before proceeding. Mainland parties report that it has been found impossible to construct such a machine. Just think of the gall some people have and the contractors are compelled not to proceed with the work. The responsibility lays with the Superintendent of Public Works for depending on such a crank as Pinkham, of past well-bringing fame. Better turn such a fakir adrift, Governor, and the country would be better off if it had never known him, who succeeded in making dupes of others in the past as he has in this latest fake of his.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

One of the richest things yet heard of is the Pinkham stone block making machine which is not yet invented. And being not yet invented, it could not be patented nor made, not even into a working model of one. Great is Pinkham, now holding down the presidency of the Board of Health, and greater his fertile brain in forcing contractors to wait for a machine that does not exist, only in his imagination. Some lively times are in store on this latest fake.

Oriental merchants are up to their Caucasian brethren in the trade during the present holiday season. Everywhere one goes to these days, signs are displayed calling attention to "grand reduction sales," "selling out at cost," etc. They are up to all the tricks of the trade and are fast supplanting their white competitors. Honolulu is fast becoming, before many years are past, if we mistake not the signs of the future, a japauned city, and who are to blame for it all? Not Hawaiians, but the whites have themselves to blame for it all. They would rather employ Orientals to those of the land, because they appear cheaper but expensive in the long run.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS DENIED.

Judge Dole at 10 this morning in Federal Court gave his decision in the petition for writ of habeas corpus applied on behalf of Malie Kaipu, a woman held by the Board of Health at the Kailua receiving hospital for leprosy. The decision was a lengthy one, consisting of thirteen type-written pages. It went fully into the merits of the case, and sustained the Board of Health on every point, finally denying the prayer of petitioner.

At its conclusion C W Ashford, for the petitioner, asked whether he couldn't take further proceedings, and was informed by the Court that he could to consider question of facts. Mr Ashford then stated that he was ready to go on with it, but the Attorney General asked that it go over tomorrow, to which time it was laid over.

When rendering its decision, the Court expressed some surprise that petitioner's attorney had only quoted authorities on insanity and not on infectious and contagious diseases and with regard to the powers of Boards of Health in general. As leprosy is deemed contagious and infectious, it was within the Board's right, under the statutes, to hold persons so declared.

TRAVESTY ON MARRIAGE.

Woman Divorced Five Times Denounced by Judges.

Chicago, Dec 3—Degradation of the marriage tie, as illustrated in the life of Mrs Grace Snell Layman,
who has just been granted her fifth divorce, was denounced by the Judges today, and a general law to safeguard the sanctity of the marital relations was urged.

"This woman's career has been a rank travesty on marriage and the sacredness of its obligations," said Judge Brentano. "By five quick marriages and divorces she has shown her utter inability to appreciate the sanctity of the marriage tie.

"This dragging of the sacred things of life through the mire cannot but arouse the liveliest indignation in rightminded men."

"Mrs Snell or Layman or whatever her last name is at present has turned marriage life into opera bouffe," said Judge Mack. "It is wrong, absurd, outrageous, of course,
but there is no help for it as the law
stands. Mrs Layman can marry again as soon as she can find man with temerity enough to take the risk."

Judge Dunne said: "It is absurd
and ridiculous as a general problem,
but I hesitate to discuss it at this time for fear of being construed as assailing a woman."

Mrs Layman was married first when she was 16 years of age to Frank Coffin, a dancing master.
She got a divorce, and married him
a second time at the solicitation of her son, now dead. The second venture ended in divorce also, but having acquired the habit of marrying him, she married him a third time. Again she tired of him, got her third divorce and married a man named Walker, who claimed her as his wife for one year. After divorcing Coffin for the third time the woman left her beautiful homes at Antioch and Racine, Wis, and betook herself to Riverside, Cal, where she has since resided.

Layman was a clerk in the hotel
at Los Angeles where the woman stopped. She is under 40 and still pretty. She is said to be contemplating a sixth marriage.
