TUESDAY, SEPT. 19, 1893.

THE SITUATION.

The New York Herald has rarely had anything more absurd in its columns than the Washington dispatch of September 8th, in which a correspondent affects to state what the President and Cabinet intend to do about Hawaii.

The plan outlined by the American Government, according to the Herald, is to establish a protectorate and have an election held here to determine a permanent form of Government, after which the regime so founded will be defended against domestic insurrection.

It requires a great imbecile to write such a despatch and a greater imbecile to take stock in it. The United States Government has been asked to accept a treaty of annexation at the hands of a Government whose independence it has clearly and repeatedly recognized.

What then? Obviously the Provisional Government would have two alternatives. It could wait until a Republican President returned to the White House and then try annexation again; or it could pass a law restricting the suffrage to those who can read and write the English language and to those who have a certain property interest on the Islands.

Whatever the Herald may say and the Royalists imagine, the United States Government will proceed on constitutional lines in all its dealings. As Mr. Bennett's correspondent inadvertently says it "does not wish to interfere with the internal affairs of the Islands."

BOMBASTES FURIOSO.

It is evident that Claus Spreckels is himself again. With that curious mixture of conceit, ignorance and bombast which enters into the man, he comes out and says that he is going to Washington to defeat annexation; that if annexation ever becomes necessary he can "deliver the Islands at any time," and that he has "given away a few millions" in Hawaii and had done as much before, and "still has millions left."

as the backside of a tombstone," bombastic and impracticable as Don Quixote or Colonel Sellers, and as little feared by the enemies before whom he brandishes his hacked and rusty sword as a scarecrow in a cornfield would be by a flock of eagles overhead.

Going to Washington is he? Well, thank fortune! The best people of the Hawaiian Islands, whose cause is that of civilization, good morals and pure government can ask for nothing better than that.

MORE OF THAT "SPECIAL CARE."

We recur to the New York Sun's study of Charles Nordhoff's mental condition with fresh evidence that Mr. Dana's first diagnosis was correct. Mr. Nordhoff is assuredly crazy.

In one of his late Coronado letters, to the Herald the poor old man raised a hue and cry because the "missionary children" turned the Portuguese off the Hilea sugar plantation and the Hutchinson properties at Naalehu—estates since consolidated under the name of the Hutchinson Sugar Plantation Company—and put the Japanese in their places.

The truth requires us to say that the plantation upon which this change was made was controlled at the time by Mr. Nordhoff's political mentor, not to say employer, Claus Spreckels; and that the latter was alone responsible for the outrage. These facts are notorious.

THE new Holomua has abandoned its native pike, leaving the aborigines somewhat in the lurch, and appears as an "English" daily paper. By English, we presume it means British.

THE HAWAIIAN QUESTION. Dispatches from Washington, in addition to announcing the appointment of A. S. Willis of Kentucky as Minister to Hawaii, assert that it will be the policy of the Cleveland administration to create a protectorate, mild in its terms as to internal affairs but very rigid against outside interference, and that the United States will guarantee any permanent government established by the vote of the people of Hawaii against overthrow by revolution.

Herein we may trace the fine hand of that combination seemingly so dear to President Cleveland—the sugar ring. Matters having been held in abeyance long enough to permit the sugar magnates to complete its combinations, the administration now announces its purpose of preserving the status and of maintaining a protectorate over the Hawaiian Islands which shall prevent the people of that nation from offering the sovereignty of the Islands to any foreign nation.

It will be in vain to search the constitution of the United States for any warrant, express or implied, for the establishment of a protectorate, mild or otherwise, over a foreign jurisdiction. If, as in the case of Texas, an independent nation wishes to link her fate with ours, and to surrender her sovereignty in order to become an integral part of the American republic, well and good, but when the United States undertakes to assume the role of guardian and protector for a foreign nation, that is clearly a very different question.

Unless we accept Hawaii's offer of annexation, we have no business to mix or meddle in her politics, and that is the conclusion which Mr. Cleveland would have reached had he been let alone by the sugar ring. Possibly he does not understand the situation, though it is plain enough for any one to see, but if he does understand it, he must be set down as catering to the interests of one of the greatest and most grasping monopolies in the United States.—Chronicle.

THE "SUNS" BRIGHT FLASHES.

Good Articles on the Hawaiian Question From a Great Paper.

The following articles are quoted from the editorial page of the New York Sun:

THE DREAM OF TWO BOSOM FRIENDS. The Herald will have no mercy on Mr. Charles Nordhoff. It continues to exhibit him long after the exhibition has become painful to his friends, however interesting to alienists.

The principal grievance of this deluded old man now seems to be that many of the men of wealth, distinction and influence in the Sandwich Islands are sons of missionaries. Mr. Nordhoff's deepest term of contempt is "missionary children." He seems to conceive that there is even a darker shade of criminality in being a missionary's child than in being a missionary; and thus the crime of civilization is cumulative.

The "missionary children" are awful criminals, from the Spreckels Nordhoff point of view. They are the representatives of intelligence, of civilization, of progress. If their parents and grandparents had never gone to Hawaii, the opportunities of semi-savage despotism would be much greater than they now are.

The climate of the Hawaiian Islands is delightful, and a good many Americans go there to enjoy it, or for their health. We have not a doubt that tens of thousands of Americans would visit the lovely Islands every year if the American flag floated over them and American freedom was firmly established in them, and American law was the law of their existence.

HAWAII.

The arrangements for the annexation of Hawaii should now be brought to completion with the least possible delay. As has been stated in our Washington dispatches, Minister Blount held a conference with Secretary Gresham as soon as he arrived in Washington on Tuesday, and presented to the Secretary his official report upon Hawaiian affairs, and upon his proceedings there, first as special Commissioner of the United States, and subsequently as American Minister. He declined to give our correspondent any information concerning his verbal conference or his written report, and very properly referred all inquiries to the Secretary of State.

Secretary Gresham has doubtless, by this time, put the Minister's report into the hands of President Cleveland, and communicated to the President such other information as he may have obtained from the Minister in conference. The documents and the facts in the case cannot long be withheld from the Senate, or from the knowledge of the country.

They must be of exceeding importance to the Government and of profound interest to the American people. They relate to a question that bears upon certain fundamental rights of our country, upon the authority of our Government, upon the security of the States lying along our westernmost coast, upon our naval influence in the waters that wash our Occidental shores, upon the development of our commerce with the countries of the Pacific and upon other public interests, the magnitude of which must increase from year to year, and from generation to generation. Great and vital and lasting are the American interests that are bound up in the Hawaiian question. Whatever be the decision of our Government upon it, that decision will surely be of serious consequence to the United States.

The day for the decision is at hand. Most of the facts of the case are already in the possession of those concerned, including the American people; and such documents as may have been laid before President Cleveland since Mr. Blount arrived in Washington cannot, if they are founded on intelligence, be contradictory of these facts.

What should be our policy in the case of Hawaii? What would be the policy of the great statesmen to whom we are indebted for our country's enlargement, enrichment, and power? What is the policy of prudence, or of command, or of expediency, or of the public advantage, or of the national safety, or of foresight and forethought, or of mastery, or of American interest, or of precedence? Beyond any doubt, it is the policy of annexation.

The opportunity is before us. It would be foolish to fail to take advantage of it. It would be hurtful. It would be dangerous. The time is opportune. The circumstances are all favorable. Hawaii sends her invitation; her Provisional Government awaits our acceptance of that invitation. President Cleveland has been made aware of the Hawaiian desire, which accords with that of American patriotism. Let not the Executive or the Senate be disregarding.

It is natural logic to conclude that if WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL has power to prevent Consumption, it surely is able to cure these lesser emergencies.

This vigor-making, fat producing preparation is Absolutely Tasteless, in so far as Cod Liver Oil is concerned. All you notice is a delightful flavor of Wild Cherry and Anise.

FRENCH ANECDOTES.

In a play at the Folies-Dramatiques an actor weakened in trying to carry in his arms Leontine, whose weight was extraordinary. "Make two trips," advised a voice from the gallery. As Alexandre Dumas had dined with a state minister, somebody asked him if he had enjoyed himself. He replied, "If I had not been for me, I would have been bored." Dumas was in the habit of giving 2 francs to a beggar whenever he met him. Once he had only 2 cents, which he gave. "Oh, Mr. Dumas!" exclaimed the beggar reprovingly. "Give them to a beggar," he replied. Challenged to fight a duel, Rochefort replied: "I consent. Let the weapons be orthography." A distinguished Englishman, the Duke of Ormond, came to Avignon, where the Chevalier d'Airague was his intimate friend. Their relations were maintained with forms of the most exact politeness. At the point of death the duke said, "I beg your pardon, my friend, for being compelled to die in your presence." "Don't speak of it," the other replied in the same tone. Philoxene Boyer was once in darkest misery. Feuillet de Conches, the great collector of autographs, met him in one of his days of distress, and the poet confessed he was hungry. "Let us go to the cafe," said Feuillet. "You will eat something and write a letter to the minister of public instruction. I will hand it to him." The poet wrote a letter which was superb with despairing eloquence. Time passed and brought nothing. A long time afterward Boyer, whom Arsene Houssaye had taken out of trouble, met Feuillet at the boulevard. "You know," he said, "I never received a reply." "Dear friend, forgive me. Your letter was so beautiful that I kept it for my collection," said Feuillet de Conches, with unaffected simplicity.

Americans in European Society. Americans fail to realize that Europeans recognize no social or class distinction in this country. Our people know that this is a republic, that it has been a republic for more than a century and that the principal doctrine upon which the entire national fabric is founded is that of universal equality. They cannot, therefore, understand that there should be any kind of class distinction or gradations of society. In their eyes all Americans are equal, and the question as to what coterie or clique their American acquaintances belong to in this country weighs but very little with the grand monde in Europe. It is utterly immaterial to them whether their American acquaintance has ever had a grandfather or not, or if he had, who his grandfather was. They do not care one brass farthing whether he or she happens to be a "born millionaire," or a "made millionaire," and they take their American friends purely and entirely on their individual merits, altogether irrespective of the social status and prestige they may enjoy on this side of the Atlantic. But once an American has succeeded in getting himself accepted by the best European society his position is really a most delightful one, since he is regarded as beyond the pale of class distinction and is allowed a freedom and a latitude which would never be accorded to any native, no matter how high his or her rank. Notwithstanding all that is claimed to the contrary, there are relatively very few Americans who may really be said to have penetrated the inner circles of European society.—Vogue.

The Face That Attracts.

A clever Boston author, with whom Arlo Bates talked about the artists' festival, to which all the world went in costume of the time of the renaissance, remarked that it was impossible to get over the habit of looking at the faces of the persons present and of neglecting to examine their costume unless with an effort to turn the attention. "It is simply because we are so accustomed to finding the costume, and especially the costume of men, so uninteresting that we never think of looking at it," one remarked. "I am not sure," the author returned, "that it doesn't go a good deal deeper than that, and that there is not a profound psychological reason there. The face is the thing which expresses the mind, and the whole tendency of civilization is toward the keener appreciation of the mental side of being. We have suppressed costume in man because we are more interested in his face, and we do not care to be distracted from it. That is only one phase of the process of evolving the appreciation of the mental. We do not, as a matter of fact, care for clothes in this age—I mean as a race. There are of course exceptions, and there is still personal vanity, as there always must be. It is possible to get up this sort of a show, not because anybody is greatly interested in the costume of others, but because each is willing to admire himself and to allow others to admire him."

WHY YOU WANT THE "STAR!"

NEWSPAPER IS A NECESSITY to every person in the community—man, woman or child—who is able to read and who desires to keep in touch with the spirit of this progressive age and wishes to be posted as to events of interest which are continually happening at home and abroad, on land and sea."

The STAR is a new paper and has introduced Californian methods of journalism into Hawaii, where, before its advent, the Massachusetts newspaper traditions of 1824 held sway. It has three prime objects:

To support the cause of Annexation of Hawaii to the United States and assist all other movements, political, social or religious, which are of benefit to these Islands and their people.

To print all the news of its parish without fear or favor, telling what goes on with freshness and accuracy, suppressing nothing which the public has the right to know.

To make itself indispensable to the family circle by a wise selection of miscellaneous reading matter.

As a commentator the STAR has never been accused of unworthy motives.

As a reporter the STAR has left no field of local interest ungleaned.

As a friend of good government the STAR has been instant in service and quick to reach results.

As an advertising medium the STAR, from the week of its birth, has been able to reach the best classes of people on all the Islands.

BITTEN BY A DOG.

And Wanted Two Hundred Dollars Damages Therefor. Judge Robertson's time was occupied yesterday afternoon in trying the civil suit of Ahuna vs. Alapai and J. K. Lauka to recover $200 for damages sustained by plaintiff from the bite of a dog. Plaintiff testified that he lived at Kaihi and while fixing a ditch last Monday was bitten by a yellow-brown dog, owned by defendant Alapai. That he had been put to much pain and inconvenience thereby, had had to pay for a doctor and to procure a substitute at $1 a day. The dog was a vicious one and had bitten real hard, in fact the bite was half an inch deep, and what with the loss of time in coming to town to prosecute this suit he thought $200 would be about what he ought to have to square the matter. Two other witnesses then testified as to the general bad character of the dog, who was described as extremely vicious, in the habit of biting people, and of absenting himself from home and wandering around without any visible means of support—a regular vag in fact. Both defendants swore the dog did not belong to them, never had done so and never should. That it had been born on the place, but would stay around in spite of their efforts to drive it away. That it was a bad dog generally, and much addicted to staying out nights and running after dogs of the opposite sex. The Court gave judgment for the defendant, and the dog still pursues his vicious career.

DEFIED THE COURT.

J. P. Bowen Refuses to Plead to a Charge of Larceny.

The usual monotony of the proceedings in the District Court was somewhat varied this morning when the case of the Provisional Government against J. P. Bowen was called. Mr. Bowen had been arrested on a charge of larceny in the fourth degree preferred by James Dodd and had been released pending his trial on a bond of $250, with H. E. McIntyre as surety. Defendant was accused of stealing and carrying away one pair of screen doors, valued at $5, the property of H. A. Widemann, in Honolulu, on or about August 31st. When the case was called, W. A. Kinney appeared for the prosecution and C. W. Ashford for the defense. The charge was read to the defendant and he was asked what his plea was—guilty or not guilty. Defendant refused to plead to the charge and with his counsel left the courtroom. Judge Robertson quietly ordered a bailiff to call his name three times at the door and, no answer being made, ordered his bond forfeited.

This afternoon Judge Robertson issued a bench warrant for Bowen on a charge of contempt.

HAWAII ANSWERS JAPAN.

ON THE CONTRACT LABOR QUESTION.

Japan is Plainly Told That Her Laborers Must Come on the Old Terms or Not at All.

An important official communication on the Japanese labor question went forward on the China this morning, and although strenuous efforts were made to keep the matter quiet the STAR is enabled to give its substance. It was nothing more or less than the reply of the Provisional Government to the recent demands of Japan on the Hawaiian Government and on the Planter's Labor and Supply Company, with regard to the first in relation to the suffrage and the latter as to the increased charges demanded, some $13 per head. For reasons best known to the Government, it has been deemed best not to allow a copy to be published, of the reply to the recent demands of Japan which was this morning forwarded from the Bureau of Immigration to the Hawaiian Minister in Japan, stating in short and succinct terms that the Hawaiian Government has duly considered the Japanese demands and various memorials from the Planters' Labor and Supply Company and, following the wishes of the planters in the matter, positively declines to receive any more Japanese laborers except on the old terms. The reply is a simple refusal, and makes no suggestion of any compromise or any mention of a possible recourse to Chinese or negro labor in the future. The document goes to the Hawaiian Minister in Japan and by him will be presented to the Japanese Government in the ordinary course of official communications.

CLAUS YAWPS ONCE MORE.

A Characteristic Interview With the Deafened Sugar Schemer. Probably nothing more asinine has appeared of late from Balaam's Mr. Spreckels than this interview in the Call of September 1st:

Claus Spreckels was seen by a Call reporter last night regarding his disposition of property in Hawaii and the situation of affairs generally in that country. Mr. Spreckels was not averse to expressing himself. In fact, when it came to discussing the members of the Provisional Government and the alleged inspired utterances of the STAR and Advertiser he grew embarrassingly eloquent, if we may use the expression. In lurid terms Mr. Spreckels portrayed their crimes, committed and contemplated, and and pictured a condition of affairs under the present Government that was anything but complimentary to those in power.

Mr. Spreckels' attention was called to an article in a recent issue of the HAWAIIAN STAR, in which an alleged prominent employee of his was quoted as expressing himself as follows:

[Here follows the text of the STAR's article about Spreckel's transfers.—Ed.] As to the transfer of some property to his children Mr. Spreckels said that the report was correct, but the statement that he had disposed of all of his interests in Hawaii, in that or any other manner, he absolutely and emphatically denied.

"I have given away a few millions," he said, "but I have done that before, and I still have millions left."

Discussing the statement that his motive in so disposing of his property was to avoid its possible confiscation, he ridiculed such an assumption. He had no fear of such an emergency arising, he said. Although the people who at present controlled that country were desperate enough to do almost anything to injure him, his property was beyond their reach.

But it was when he spoke of the assertion that he was out of politics and would remain in San Francisco henceforth that Mr. Spreckels grew particularly vehement in his expressions.

"Out of politics?" said he. "Not much! I will leave here on the 9th of next month, but where I am going don't matter. My time will come," he concluded, and there was an intensity of feeling in his manner of expression that boded ill for the men who he says have tried to murder him.

"The biggest liars on earth," Mr. Spreckels said, "are now residents of Honolulu and vicinity. If you were with them and of them you could cut a man's throat and they would go into court and swear you didn't do it."

The STAR and Advertiser, he furthermore intimated, were usually published concurrent with the sailing of vessels for the United States. In these issues inflammatory articles were given prominent place, and statements of uprisings and insurrections discussed that existed only in the broad-gauge imagination of the writers.

"These reports are sent out to excite alarm in this country and cause our people to think that some action on the part of this Government is absolutely necessary. The Royalists constitute fully three-fourths of the voters in Hawaii, and these Annexationists know that if the people are given an opportunity to express their free will the present Government would not last a day."

"I know the best course this Government could pursue would be to establish a Minister there, under instructions that, if by any overt acts of the royalists his interference should be necessary, he should take action. Then allow the people to rule themselves, as they have been accustomed to and as they now by a large majority desire.

THE COUNTRY ITSELF UNDER ANNEXATION

would be of no more value to the United States than a big cow pasture, but with proper action on the part of this Government the trade of that country could be controlled, which is about the only feature of the whole matter any way."

List of Cases Argued and Submitted Yesterday.

The Supreme Court did a good day's work yesterday, eight cases being heard and submitted as follows:

once and a light put to the fuses. A moment later there was a tremendous explosion. The dynamite had shattered the door of the express car and the messenger, pouring shot after shot at the robbers through the opening, was soon disarmed and with a blow on the head laid senseless. Half a dozen of the twenty men then looted the express car. Dynamite was used in opening the safe. The guards at the doors of the passenger coaches were called off, a few parting shots were fired and the robbers disappeared. The Sheriff of the county was aroused and called on the citizens for help. Guessing that the robbers had come from Chicago, the Sheriff wired to the Chicago police the story of the crime. The train held up was the New York express on the Lake Shore. It was made up of ten coaches, two express and one baggage car. The dynamite having wrecked only one express car, the robbers contented themselves with looting this alone. The dead engineer's name was Knapp.

RIGGED WITH CURSES.
A Ship Loaded With Arab Skeletons.

NEW YORK, September 5.—Had the prize crew of four which brought the abandoned Austrian bark Vila into port known the nature of the cargo in her dark hold they would have fled from the ship, filled with a feeling of dread which could not have been greater had the Flying Dutchman appeared off their port bow.

Below the decks of the derelict were stored in bulk thousands of human bones and skulls, which had been collected on the deserts of Africa. Much rather would the four hardy sons of Neptune have preferred seeing a phantom ship bearing down upon them than be aboard of the lonely and dismantled derelict with a knowledge that her hold contained hundreds of grinning skulls. The Vila passed through the late storms which lashed the coast and tested the seagoing qualities of the stoutest vessels. The fate of her crew, including her gallant skipper, Captain George Stanos, may never be known. They left the ship, but when nobody knows. No scrap of paper was left behind which conveyed the slightest intelligence as to the fate of the men. The craft was deserted when the prize crew went aboard. The cupboards and cabins had been looted of their contents. The sailors' clothing was gone, and even the bedding had been taken. By whom was the vessel stripped? Surely not by the Vila's crew.

The superstitious mariners say that an evil spirit followed the Vila when she sailed from the ancient port of Alexandria, Egypt, for in her cargo were the bones of a famous Arab chief whose body, when once buried, his followers said should not be disturbed. The vandals who desecrated his grave they say would be followed by the Arabian curse. The bones of the Arab chief were exposed by a simoon and were carted, with the bones of a thousand other unfortunates who had perished on the deserts and in combats, to the hold of the Vila.

The mysterious derelict was sighted at sea on Wednesday last by Captain Nelson of the steamship Breidablik. His vessel was bound for this port, in ballast. The sails on the derelict foremast were spread to the brisk breeze, and she was bounding along at a lively rate. Captain Nelson could hardly believe his eyes. Not a soul was aboard in sight, and the wheel was unlash.

Suddenly the abandoned craft luffed up in the breeze, her yards rattled, the spread of canvas fluttered and she was motionless. Captain Nelson sent a prize crew of four men aboard. The ship was found to be deserted. There was not a living thing aboard. Captain Nelson could not explain the mystery. She was in a perfectly seaworthy condition; her hull was as tight as a cork and free from water.

The derelict was taken in tow and the prize crew remained aboard. The Vila was successfully towed into port and now she lies at her anchorage off Erie basin. Her prize crew has left her. When the hatches were opened and the grinning skulls met their gaze they had no further desire to remain on the Vila and returned to their comfortable berths aboard the Breidablik.

BITS OF INFORMATION.

Java leads in thunder storms. Consumption heads the world's death rate. Coal oil was first used as an illuminant in 1826. Window glass was first used in modern times in 1557. All the Greek philosophers, sages and seers, ate no flesh. It is computed that 70,000,000 of the people in Europe wear wooden shoes. There are 750,000 distinct species in insects, not including parasitic insects. There are twenty-six cities in the United States with over 100,000 inhabitants. The shortest session of the English Parliament was held in 1687 and lasted seven days. Russia is credited with having the largest army, Great Britain the largest navy. The average weight of men in England is 155 pounds, and that of women 123 pounds. The world's coal fields already known and worked contain coal enough to last 1,000 years.

Aim at the Drake
And you are bound to hit some of the ducks. This is precisely the same with Wampole's Tasteless Preparation OF Cod Liver Oil.

It aims to cure Consumption, Hits the Mark, too, and it most effectually breaks up Colds, Coughs, Hoarseness and all Throat and Lung troubles that cause this disease. It is natural logic to conclude that if WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL has power to prevent Consumption, it surely is able to cure these lesser emergencies.

This vigor-making, fat producing preparation is Absolutely Tasteless, in so far as Cod Liver Oil is concerned. All you notice is a delightful flavor of Wild Cherry and Anise.

But the purest Norwegian Cod Liver Oil is there all the same. It is a great blood enricher. Best of all it is a natural food that in its stomachic effects, actually assists its own assimilation.

In Pulmonary or Bronchial troubles it is unequalled. No one doubts the value of Cod Liver Oil, but not every one is able to take it.

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION removes the nauseous objection and actually makes Cod Liver Oil palatable.
