MR. EDITOR: A sad instance of a guardian's neglect of his ward presented itself to the public notice on Thursday morning last in the Police Court, when Judge Bickerton considered it his duty to send Rebecca to prison for nine months. A young Hawaiian girl gone to destruction in consequence of not having been properly cared for by those whose sworn duty it was to do so. Why was the working of the North Pacific Mission not this so-called guardian dismissed long ago? Some time ago this said guardian compelled the girl to marry a man against her will. She, knowing the man was a victim to some loathsome disease, refused to live with her husband. The primary cause for the crime for which she now offers may be laid at the door of those whose duty it was to take care of her, who, it appears, exercised little or no control over their ward. "He was a judge and a legislator, but more especially known to this community as an able and worthy newspaper editor. During the long period of his management of this journal, we feel that it will be said by the many who can recall to mind the product of his journalism, that whilst he wrote instructively, and in every way calculated to interest his readers, yet he never left any record of acrimonious discussion or of injurious personality. Mr. Sheldon is usually credited with the authorship of the famous plebiscitum which prepared the way for the election and accession to the throne of the late King Lunalilo. The authorship of the famous document is claimed for one or two other parties and it is probable that they had a share in the discussion which led to the production, but Mr. Sheldon had the principal share,

4.4:30 and one property to the The Colonial Policy of France.

M. Paul Leroy-Beaulieu deals at great length in the Journal des Debats, upon the colonial policy of France and of the opposition which it encounters in Europe. Some see nothing but the natural consequence of the pretended capricious and fantastic honor of the French nation ; others attribute these distant expeditions to cupidity and to the speculations of certain political personages. The Journal des Debats disdains dwelling on accusations of a similar nature, observing that the direction given during the last ten years to the colonial policy of France has been in harmony with the real interests of the have been committed in the application and in the details of this policy. The greatest of all resolution. A little firmness on the Enfida and Goletta questions might have avoided, or at any rate delayed, the Tunis Expedition. But once engaged in a campaign, it ought to have been pushed on with more activity. After dwelling at length on the present position of France in Case of Aeae vs. Akino—Action to recover $100 Tunis and Algiers, the writer observer :-- "If we for impounding four animals without cause, on are now free from all embarrassment in Northern appeal from Circuit Judge Hart, was continued to Africa, we find ourselves, on the contrary, in most delicate position in Asia. Our irresolutions our ind cision, our excessive timidity have strangely magnified the Tonquin affair. committed a first error which has now become ir reparable. We allowed our prestige in the East to be destroyed by our fatal abandonment of Egypt-one might almost say that in distant lands our refusal to accompany England in the Valley of the Nile has done more harm to our power and influence than our disasters of 1870 and 1871. At least in those terrible years we fought and struggled but in Egypt we renounced without firing a shot, without the slightest effort, for an unpardonable defaillance to a position which dated eight centuries back, and which had singularly fortified itself during the preceding ten years, and the vote which compelled us to abandon Egypt was given by a crushing majority-that of six-sevenths of the Chamber of Deputies. The whole world came to the conclusion that France was a worn-out nation, affeeted by mental as well as physical paralysis. I we had shown greater resolution in Egypt, we might, in all likelihood, have avoided the Madagascar and Touquin difficulties. As things now stand, we cannot back out of the Tonquin affair. We are placed in the alternative either of tri umphing at once and completely by a sufficient display of force, attacking the enemy at the head-that is to say at Hue-or of allowing a rebellion, which has deprived us of moral authorbe amended. From the very first moment we said that only one solution was definite, that is to say, good-the conquest of the whole of Aunam, as well as Tonquin. It appears that these opinions are now prevailing, and it is probable that when reinforcements shall have arrived and the season will permit it, the French colors will float on the forts of Hue, and we trust on the Royal Palace of Hue as well. We add that it would appear to us most regretful if these measures were taken simply as transitory. Our occupation of that city must be definitive. It is our duty, by mustering sufficient forces, to discourage the hostility of China and to avert its evil effects. China, whatever may be the opinions, to the contrary, is not in a favorable situation. She has the eyes of Japan and Russia upon her; she has no money; the crushing of a revolt in her southern provinces is still a tion of Z. Paakiki, deputy sheriff of Waimea and thing of recent date. THE prompt return to gaol of the sixteen German immigrants engaged as laborers for the Koloa plantation who professed to be ready to go to work again, and the absurd demands they made on their employer on being returned to the plantation, make their conduct look like a deliberate attempt to swindle the authorities into giving them a free passage to Kauai and back again in order that they might bring down their wives and families to be fed at the expense of the Workman's Association. It is very difficult to see what other construction can be put upon the affair. These men have had a week's holiday and two pleasant trips at sea at the expense of the Government. That is the precise meaning of the story so far as the public is concerned. Whatever sympathy may have been extended to them before, under the impression that they might have been misled by erroneous or exaggerated statements to enter into engagements the purport of which they did not fully understand, must'now be withdrawn. Whatever points, if any, may not have been clear to them at the time of their engagement in Germany they knew perfeetly well that while they chose to remain in gaol instead of fulfilling their contracts they were losing their time and would have to serve the full extra period for every day they were thus absent from work. They tell the Marshal they are ready to return to demand wages for the whole time they able to put the country to the expense of sorry for the women and children whose fate is affected. We are sorry that they should have such men for husbands and fathers-men who apparently would rather lead an easy life in gaol than work for the support of their families in accordance with contracts they have deliberately entered in-

Not that we do not recognize that, to this question, as to all others, there must be two sides. The last escapade of these men is inexcusable, and leads to the impression that they mean mischief. But at the outset one would think that a little management and fair consideration would have avoided the first refusal to work. We should like to see the whole case made public in some official report. At the best, supposing the men to be wholly in the wrong, such affairs as this do the country no good. A Norwegian Commissioner has exonerated the Hawaiian Government and Hawaiian planters from the charges made against them by his countrymen. But if Germany should find it desirable to send out her own Commissioner on account of things that have happened since Mr. Grip was here, there would be a general disposition to infer that somehow or other that gentleman had been heedwinked, else, why a repetition of trouble? We cannot bring ourselves to look upon this matter as any trivial incidentit needs to be treated seriously.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

No. II.

There is one subject which we never hear mentioned, which is perhaps of as vital impertance to the future of this country as any other. This is the settlement of an immigrant population on the land. It was talked about in former times, and earnestly discussed by the few to whom the welfare of the country has been of more moment than any private interest. But no scheme to facilitate this most desirable end has ever been tried, no legislation looking towards such settlement has been attempted. Immigration for re-population has been nominally the aim of succeeding administrations, but in reality immigration to secure a supply of laborers for our plantations has been the only thing that has received any We believe that the present Cabinet have this matter under consideration and desire to initiate some practical scheme, on a moderate scale, which will provide for special immigrants, and perhaps also for laborers whose engagements | vent. have expired and whose thrift has placed them above the necessity of re-engaging, locations upon which they may settle down and become producers, either as freeholders or as tenants of the crown. We trust that they will succeed in elaborating some proposition which will prove attractive to the class of people for whom it is intended and will at the same time commend itself to the community so that there may be something like unanimity in the Assembly in regard | special festival of praise to the Giver of All, I

There are, no doubt, many difficulties to be contended with in providing land of a suitable character for the immigrant. We may leave the discussion of these, however, for the present. A thorough determination to overcome them will find a way fraternal feeling, the apread of intelligence, civil through them all. Why are we condemed to pay such high prices for all the necessaries of life? Why do we have to import from California and elsewhere ao large a portion of our food and of the food of our horses and cattle? Simply because the increase of population has been almost wholly of consumers, whilst the producers of food and fodder are actually fewer in number than they used to be. The only hope of a remedy for this condition of things is the settlement of people of an industrious character upon land which is not at present yielding anything for want of cultivation. There may be little enough of command of Captain Ito has arrived in this to be found, but the country itself is a little one, and the population but small, and a very moderate increase in production would serve to right, for the present, the anomalous state of things which we all find so burdensome. Kindness present constant increase in the price of the which, the writer goes on to say, must by any enormous majorities. necessaries of life will, however, be but one greatly tend to cement the feelings of of many advantages which are to be gained from the permanent settlement of immigrants on the soil. People so settled will be among the best of our citizens, having a stake in the country as important to them as those of the largest proprietors in the land. They will be homestaying people, employing the mechanic and the tradesman of the country for all their needs, not wandering to foreign lands to spend luxuriously the wealth derived from Hawaiian soil. They will be always attracting hither their friends and relatives and inducing them to follow their own example. Their families will be the very best sources of the labor which the large proprietors so sorely need. These are some of the advantages which would be conferred on the country if such a thing could be successfully carried out. And that it can be carried out successfully we do not doubt for a moment if it be but resolutely taken in

No. III.

No week passes but there is to be seen in one or more of our local newspapers some grumble about the condition of the streets and footpaths of Honolulu. Unfortunately, there is too much reason for these complaints, although the wrong people are very often blamed by the complainants. Everything cannot be done in a day, and a comparison between the state of things to-day and what it was very few years back, is enough to convince anyone that the wholesale charges of neglect against Ministers and subordinates, which we sometimes hear are founded, to the least of them in iguorance. This much as to the state of the carriage ways, the foot paths appear to stand in a different category. Each owner of a is, by custom, expected to make and keep in order the footways in Iront of his property. Hence the anomalous sending them backwards and forwards in state of our foolpaths, in which we occathis way with impunity. We are heartily sionally pass from a handsome tiled or stone-paved way to a spot which the least shower of rain renders an almost impassable puddle. If our rainy days were more frequent the condition of things would probably be found intolerable, and something would be attempted in the way of remedy. Even in fine weather the footpaths are bad enough, with their uneven surfaces and sudden changes of level, to be deemed intolerable by those who have lived in better managed cities.

This condition of our ways is but one of the bad results of the absence of a proper

city government. As the streets are highways and have been made such as they are at the expense of the public purse, the care of them falls in a genera! sort of way upon who ever may be for the time being be the Minister of the Interior. If that functionary had nothing else to do, or would delegate his duties in this respect to some one who should make their fulfillment his sole work we should still deem such provision for managing the affairs of a city like this wholly inadequate. For the government of a city means something more than the care of its roadways, and is not a work which ought to be left to one man, however wise or discreet he may be. As it is, we have really no governing head for Honolulu at all. The spasmodic attention which a busy Minster of the Interior can bestow upon it can only extend to its public works of the road and bridge type. Another Minister has authority about the lighting which is absurdly made an incidental expense of the police department. Again the Board of Health is charged with the task of keeping the town in cleanly condition. All the rest of the work which a City Council or a Board of Supervisors would do, is undone altogether. Meanwhile the city which contains nearly one-third of the nhabitants of the Kingdom is so little able to control its own affairs that it could not secure an appropriation for an extra lamp post for the streets or an extra policeman for its harbor at last session of the Assembly, and when it tried to obtain legislation for the proper regulation of buildings within its limits, received a much grudged installment of what it asked for so insignificant in amount as to be hardly worth having. Among all the political tirades we bave been favored with since then, not a word has been said about these three real practical grievances, although the lack of what was thus refused has many a time been made sorely apparent by mischiefs which they would have helped to pre-

John S. Gray Sent to Prison-

Judge Toohy passed sentence upon John S. Gray the following terms:

. The crime of which you stand convicted is not one of the ordinary character, nor can it be likened to the general class of offenses which are brought before our Courts of justice. Far from being one of those unfortunate criminals whose surroundings and associations are among the vicious and deprayed, you have been, on the contrary, a man of recognized culture, of high social standing in the community and for many years enjoyed the confidence of your fellow-citizens in an exceptional degree. Those who were chosen by the people to conduct the Government of the commonwealth had such implicit reliance on your integrity that they selected you from out of the intelligent multitude for an exalted official station. As Secretary of the Board of Harbor Commissioners you were made the trustee and custodian of vast sums of money belonging to the State, with a bountiful salary upon which to maintain yourself and those dependant upon you for support in comfort and respectability. The people of California only required from you, in return for the honor and emolument of your posltion, an honest performance of public duty, as you had solemnly sworn to give them."

Calling attention to the particular charge on which Gray was convicted, the Judge continued as

In the fraudulent appropriation of $700 out of the public funds, and which the statute mildly denominates "embezzlement," you committed a felony which might with more propriety be defined as treason to the State, for, indeed, it was at once an overt act against the majesty of the law and the sovereignty of the Government. The public servant who could steathily plunder his country would not hesitate, if he had the power, to destroy it. * * From the high plane of official and personal respectability you deliberately descended to the level of the basest, leaving behind the character of a lifetime and spurning the good opinion of all who relied upon your henesty as one of the most trustworthy servants of the State. You violated the law utterly regardless of legal obligations or moral restraint. The verdict of the jury precludes all doubt of your guilt. I have not any myself, though deeply regretting your inability to successfully establish your innocence at the trial. from photographs of their Majesty sent to For the sad consequences that are to follow you on account of your great crime you alone are responsible and have no one to blame but yourself, So obnoxious to the Legislature was this offense that the statute ordains that persons convicted of it shall forever after be ineligible to any office of honor, trust or profit under the State. Aside from this civil malediction, which is intended to brand with perpetual personal infamy all violators of public trust, the punishment is merely nominal. But light as the penalty is, it must be deemed suf-ficient for the ends of justice so far as you are concerned, and otherwise it will serve as a solemn warning to any evil minded person who may here-after be tempted to imitate the pernicious example set by you, who had so many reasons to do right, but would not. No sufficient cause being alleged and none appearing to the Court why judgment should not be pronounced, it is now the judgment of the law and the sentence of the Court that you be imprisoned in the State Prison of the State of California at San Quentin for and during the period of ten years.

The New England political horse doesn't [take kindly to Ben's school of riding. In New York and Brooklyn the Republican majorities were also undeniable though small in the case of the Mayor of Brooklyn. All the people who said these State elections would be very good straws to indicate the direction of the coming Presidential gale, now say firmly that the State elections cannot possibly be taken to signify anything about a matter on such totally different issues as the nomination for the Presidency. Pennsylvania went Republican, but Virginia largely Democratic, New Jersey and Connecticut also balance each other, in Petersburg, Virginia, by the way, during a Fourth Ward precinct "difficulty," to use the accepted euphemism for election rows, Senator Mahone was struck in the face by an unidentified somebody whose spouts of one sort or another had become too much for him. bowed himself out saying that the United States were glorious and Matthew Arnold was the most illustrious living Englishman, when presto, change! behold Matthew Arnold himself upon the national threshold, all culture and light and sweetness. He said he hoped he should like it, but with the vast hotels and the lavish hospitality he feared he should not get at the heart of real American life, but he added that he had already remarked many things that he thought an improvement on the English way of doing, one instance being "tipping" which is unusual here, whereas it is a nuisance in England, but the poor man thought the cost of things prodigions. He came to lecture and accordingly appeared at Chickering Hall and there was an imto the hall and many people did not hear him at all. His subject was " slumbers;" he treated social and political questions as usual. Mathew Arnold's position toward the human family seems to be that of an elder brother who has been to College or to live with an aunt in the city and upon returning to the old farm, finds the family very crude indeed, and is always saying with a mild hopelessness, "don't do that!" to the obstreperous younkers. What portion of Mr. Arnold's experience corresponds to the university, or the visit to the city relative is not revealed, but clearly he has had some call or consecration to the work of smoothing away the asperities of his fellow-men and women, and has relinquished the exquisite and scholarly poetry he used to write, for very didactic prose. They say hereditary traits assert themselves most strongly after a man is perfectly mature, so per haps the pedagogue spirit of old Thomas Arnold of Rugby, Mathew's father, was waiting through the poetical and distinctly literary periods of the son's development, to assert itself more strongly when it finally appeared. Mathew Arnold's pet aversion at home is the middle class, and his pre conceived notion of Americans is that they are all middle class Englishmen, but he must reconstruct his estimate of a middle class with no class above it, of dissenters with no established Church to dissent from. Circumstances make havoe with cut-

Henry Irving, the great English tragedian, and Ellen Terry the great English tragedienne, are also in New York and great is the sensation over their arrival. Irving comes with the reputation of being England's foremost actor and every one was duly en the qui vive about his first appearance. He opened at the Star Theater in The Bells, an adaptation by Mr. Lewis of Erckmann-Chatriau's Le Juif Polonais. It was Irving's first great hit in London the foundation of his fame. It is a one character play a good deal, the conscience tortures of a murderer who finally confesses his guilt under the hands of a mesmerist. The verdict is that he is a genius, but a genius with the most abominable methods imaginable. We had heard of his mannerisms, and his rant, and his affectation lead people to believe the worst that had been said of his artificiality. but the intense intellectual purpose and the vivid personality of the man himself shone through even his worst acting and in supreme moments of passion and horror he was simply and un-approachably magnificent. The wood cuts published of him in the illustrated papers are of a long, thin, severe, intellectual face, somewhat receding forehead, and thick, loose hair. He has the length of limb that gives dignity to motion, a good voice, much confidence, and the mysterious quality called magnetism. It was of him that the young lady said when the slang of æsthetics was prevalent, that both his legs were indescribably precious, but his left leg had an especially crystalline sincerity.' He was given a reception at the Lotus Club in New York the Saturday before his first appearance and Florence and Lawrence Barrett went down the Bay to meet him and Miss Terry in the steam yacht Yosemite. Irving's real name is John Henry Brodrib. He was born in 1838, and made his first appearance on any stage at the age of 18, He worked up to be "sole lessee and manager" of the Lyceum Theater in 1878, where he first appeared as "Hamlet," engaging Miss Terry to play Ophelia." In his speech on that occasion he said he had worked all his life to produce the Hamlet" the audience had just seen, and he believed he had not worked in vain. Working with Pacific Navigation Company. Miss Terry, he has brought the Lyceum Theater up to the very highest standard, giving Shakespearean revivals there of wonderful fgorgeousness and completeness.

Ellen Terry made her first New York appearance methods as Irving seemed stilted. Miss Terry A. FRANK COOKE ... was born on the stage, took part in pantomimes when an infant, and children's parts when she was older. She married and ran away with another man, like most of them, and scandal is of cellent actors, for which heaven be praised.

Speaking of actors, the case of Mary Anderson is continually coming up for discussion. The San Francisco Wasp had a good cartoon of the Prince of Wales on his knees, offering to black the Kentucky actress' buskin. It looks a good deal as if Mary did refuse to meet the gay Prince; yet, perhaps, she regretted it afterwards-such things have been. The Princess of Wales instantly invited and entertained Miss Anderson, if that goes They say of Mrs. Langtry that she has announced that she means to throw her whole soul into her play "Peril," the wits add that she is throwing her soul after her reputation. The poor Lily has announced that she has been supporting Mr. Langtry with the money she has made for several years and that she intends to leave him to his own re-

New York is jubilant over its horse show and its new opera house. The horse show is, officially, the first annual exhibition of the National Horse Show Association of America, and it is held in Madison Square Garden. There are five hundred animals in all, 355 being entered for regular prizes. There are Goldsmith Maid, Smith's stallion Gen. Knox Col. Russell's tretting stallion Smuggler, the two Arab horses presented to Gen. Grant by the Sultan of Turkey, Leopard and Lindentree, Keene's Spendthrift and his sons Foxhall and Keenie, Keene's Ben d'Or, and Stratford Hunter's Hunt, Rockfellow's trotting team Clara and Independence, and his trotter Brignolia, Henriques' Shetland ony stallion colt, a brood mare and her colt. hardly bigger than a dog, and Douglass and Fritch's four-in-hand teams. James Keene's Spendhrift won the cup for thoroughbreds as well as a special prize of $300 bestewed by the Coney Island lockey Club in October. Among the big breeds at the show Percherons, the Conestega draught horses and the Clydesdales: among the coaching horses the Cleveland bays. There are several prize mules in the show, and the tendency of the whole affair is to prove that the highest type of horse is the good saddle horse, who to be worth anything must be good-looking, sound, good-tempered, docile and courageous which means everything. The hunters are given a place by themselves in the show and the preeding of hunters is strongly recommended to lovers of horsefiesh, the hunter being mainly a horse that jumps well and that gallops hard and long with a heavy weight on his back and the posession of those qualifications means a splendid horse. Apropos of horses the pacer Johnston that Commodore Kittson bought for $25,000 is to be wintered in California says a dispatch from Chica-

Dr. R. W. Coppinger, staff surgeon of H. M. S. Alert, has just published an account of the cruise of that vessel in Patagonia, Polynesia and Mascarene waters, illustrated with many plates and woodcuts.

The following is the letter referred to by our London correspondent:

HONOLULU AND THE SISTERS OF ST. JOHN-TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:-SIR:-May I trespass on your kindness for the insertion of the enclosed letter received from the Bishop of Honolulu, in the hope that his forcible representation of the needs of his diocese may meet with a liberal response from the ever-generous English public. so that we may be able to send out a nursing staff before the Palmer and the entire crew of six men were drownend of the year? From £1,500 to £2,000 would be ed Captain Koon and the first officer were on required for a sufficient staff, for passage money and outfit, and for maintenance till they obtained remunerative employment.

CARGUINE LLOYD. Sister Superior. Patmos, 68, Thistle-Grove, S. W., Oct. 4.

2, Temple-gardens, Temple, E. C., Sept. 27; Dear Sister Superior, -The following statement of the needs at present existing in Honolulu for the services of the Nursing Sisters of St. John may be of use to you in raising the necessary funds for the establishment of a branch of your institution in the Pacific:-

"1. The need of good nurses is continually felt by the foreign residents, and I have no doubt that monthly nurses and the nursing of the sick in private houses will go a long way towards rendering a nursing institution self-supporting. "2. There is a hospital in Honolulu known as the Queen's Hospital, having been established through the instrumentality of His Majesty Kamehameha IV, and Queen Emma. The hospital is managed by a corporation and supported by contributions and a tax of $2 levied on all passengers from foreign ports landing in Honolulu. The services of Nursing Sisters would be invaluable here, and though I cannot express the mind of the corporation, I think the corporation would only be t glad to avail themselves of their services. "3. The establishment of hospitals in other parts of the islands is a matter now receiving the attention of the Government. But the need of proper nurses to render such institutions efficient is felt and acknowledged both by the Government and medical men.

"4. I regard the leper settlement at Kalawao, on the Island of Molokai, as at present beyond the power of such a staff as will at first be sent out to deal with. But in connection with leprosy, one of the saddest things is to see young girls in whom the disease appears, taken from their homes and sent off to the leper settlement, where virtue has no protection whatever. I shall be most thankful to see a hospital opened where such cases may be received, and while undergoing the necessary seg regation from their families have yet the protection of a home and the best hope of recovery from the

"Having thus indicated the principal features of the work to which the services of the Sisters may be devoted, it only remains to mention that the cost of living in Honolulu has considerably advanced of late, and must be reckoned as somewhat higher than in England. The cost of passage via New York and San Francisco may be reckoned at

"I trust that this brief statement may be sufficient to induce the many well-wishers of your Sisterhood to come forward to enable you to plant a branch of your institution in a diocese in which their presence will be welcomed by all sorts and conditions of men.

> "Believe me, very faithfully yours, "ALFRED HONOLULU."

arrived in this harbor on Wednesday morning after the unprecedented passage of 253 days from New Yord. She sailed on the 13th March, and as is usnal, attempted to make the ordinary course of rounding the Horn. Nothing of any importance occurred during the voyage until the 7th of May, when a fresh gale sprang up. At 4 P. M. furled the fore topsail and reefed the main topsail and mainsail. At 8 p. m. furled the courses. At this fime there was a strong gale and heavy sea, ship laboring heavily and shipping large quantities of water. Carried away the lower maintopsail yard. The folthe vessel, which increased to a gale. Pumping ship hourly. Handed spanker, jib, topsails and courses. Heavy sea running, stove casks and started tanks. Ship rolling heavily and doing much damage. The following morning the weather moderated. Found billet-head gone and the forecastle deck started. On the 14th May squared away to Sunda. Nothing important occurred from this time up to the 26th May when another gale set in, the vessel making very heavy weather and rolling violently. On the 30th July when in Lat. 250, 49. N. and Long, 121°, 05. E., Agincourt Island bearing S. E. 4 miles distant, the weather and sex being calm, and ship drifting towards the island, for outlying dangers. At noon, seing the boat near the boat made signals for the vessel to keep more to the westward. Tried to wear ship, but the wind being light, failed to do so until 1:30 P. M. when the vessel was bauled by the wind on the starboard tack to stand back for the island. Stood in as close as the wind would permit, keeping a lookout for the boat. Owing to the light air, could not approach within five miles of the land. Tacked during the night and exhibited torch lights. The boat was in charge of Mr. Crossley, chief mate. There were also on board Mr. C. Hibben, third mate, and two seamen, Axel Sefvenborn and Andrew Andersen. Fearing some disaster had befallon the boat, the ship drifting from the island, and for Keelung for assistance. At 10:30 P.M., on the 31st August, anchored in twenty-two fathoms of water, outside Keelung harbor. On the second of August lowered a boat and pulled towards Keelung. There being no steamer there, despatched a messenger island. On the 3d and 4th of August, the steamer refused to go out on account of there being too much wind and no prospect of being able to land. On the 6th August, the steamer started with a pilot on board but failed to learn any tidings of the missing crew. On the 7th the German steamer China arrived, and Captain Crossley and one seaman went out to Agincourt Island, but they failed to obtain any tidings of the missing boat and her steamer returned to Tamsui on the 8th August, and arrangements were made with the Consular agent, Mr. John Dodd, to send to Amoy for an American or English gunboat to continue the search for the boat. On the 9th, a Chinese gunboat arrived, and application was made to the local official to send her in search of the missing men, but without success. At 9 A. M. on the 11th, the S. S. Gienelg from Honolulu arrived off Keeling. Captain Crossley went on board of her, but failed to learn anything of his men. The above is a digest of the Protest extended before Mr. John Dodd. United States Consular agent at the ports of Keelung and Tamsui on the island of Formosa.

On the 2d September, Captain Crossley detercaulked and repaired generally during her stay in port. On the 7th September it commenced to blow heavily from the northeast; shortened sail; wind increased to a gale; put in Nagasaki on the 10th September to avoid an approaching typhoon.

On the 28th September, after repairing damages to hull and rigging, again set out for Honolulu. Prevailing easterly winds, and bad weather necessituted seeking another harbor of refuge. On the 14th of October put into Hakodate, a port on the nothern island of Japan. On the 18th October, again set out for Honolulo, and after experiencing a succession of contrary winds and disagreeable weather, arrived at Honolulu on Wednesday

Captain Crossley arrives in a very poor state of health, which is not to be wondered at, considering of the line is interesting. He says, what is the trials and privations he has suffered. The chief officer, who was in charge of the lost boat, was the Captain's son. He, with three others, have undobtedly perished, but how or where, is not clearly known. Captain Crossley is desirous of expressing his gratitude to the Chinese Government for the assistance that they gratuitously afforded him in despatching a gunboat in search of his men. He also feels thankful to Mr. John Dodd, U. S. Consular agent at Tamsui, for valuable services rendered. At the same time he (Capt C.) regrets that he cannot extend a similar expression of feeling towards the U. S. Consul at Amoy,

Arrival of the American Bark A New Phase of the Labor Question in Queensland-

From the Sydney Morning Herald.]

Through their agents in China some of the Queensland planters have been making an effort to originato a system of contract emigration. The bk. Spartan, commanded by Capt. Crossley. It was found necessary to appeal to the Government of Hongkong, and Sir G. F. Bowen remitted the matter to England. Earl Derby has now forwarded the correspondence to Queensland, with a note indicating what the Imperial policy in all such cases is, and what colonial policy must be. It is significant that such an attempt as this should be made. The readiest, and probably the correct, inference from it is that Queensland planters have pretty well surrendered all hope of getting adequate supplies of colored labor either from Polynesia or from lowing morning the weather moderated, the ship India. As to the former of these, present making considerable water. The weather continued | methods are attended by great danger. The loss is set home, and the problem of what to do for or with him will still await solution.

The case of the coolie is not much better. He is brought from India with all the advantage which local Government oversight at both ends a boat in charge of the chief officer was sent to look of the passage can give him; but if we may believe the stories of coolies who have been simi- S. At the same time of limited value, It is not likely that the healthiest and most suitable candidates are always selected; in fact, such can seldom be obtained. The examinations, official and medical, are superficial and hurried. Not one man in a hundred knows exactly what he is going out to do; and ninety-nine out of a hundred fully expect in the briefest time to make a fortune. The consequences on their arrival can be tabulated without waiting for them. The feeble die, the worthless are not improved by their new circumstances. and only a percentage remains out of which the planter hopes to recoup his outlay. The general election in Queensland has witnessed to the hosnot being able to despatch another boat, bore away | tility with which the Indian labor is regarded, at least by a section of the community. And this labor to be of real service in the country must not be simply tolerated. Such a state of things must be worse for the coolie himself than for anybody else. It appears not to have occurred to his lordship that this new proposal is being made because India is considered an unprofitable field, and because arrangements for the introduction of Indian labor do not altogether suit the views of the

There are, then, two new features in this

Queensland proposal. It suggests that planters

are looking to China, and will ask that, with less Government machinery, they may make the experiment. One of two things must be granted-either the large plantation system in the north must be kept up by tropical labor or it will not be kept up at all. The climate, the nature of the work, and the remuneration which can be given for it, all tend to the same issue. And that is not the only point; for unless sugar can be grown otherwise than upon large plantations, it is not simply a question of growing or The total vote for Lieutenant-Governor not growing so many tons of sugar, it is also a question as to what is to be done with millions of acres of ground and with millions of people, mined to pursue his voyage, the vessel having been If Queensland is prepared to receive an exotic population, she has to make her choice between barbarians from the Pacific, coolies from India, and Chinese from Hongkong, or other parts of China. It is probable that the planters of Queensland have not turned to China simply as a last resort, but because from their point of view it is the best thing to be done. Sir G. F. Bowen is quite right in saying that a strong feeling against Chinese immigration is entertained by a mass of the population in these great and self-governing communities, and that the only point at which that prejudice is likely to yield is in reference to those districts in Queensland which lie within the tropics. But his suggestion for avoiding difficulty at his end right enough, that a more suitable class of immigrants could certainly be recruited from the swarming agricultural population of the mainland of China than from the people of Hougkong, where there is no agriculture. That is perfectly reasonable, and the Governor naively adds: "Such emigrants could be shipped directly from Canton or Shanghai, and thus the Colonial Office in England and the Colonial Government at Hongkong would be saved from all responsibility." But in that case the responsibility would fall elsewhere, and that elsewhere means the Government of China. The proper party to bear the responsibility, no doubt; but such a plan might be more difficult and less satisfactory. No hesitation will be felt as to the answer that must be given about contract emigration. At neither end of the line can such emigration be permitted to take place without Governmental oversight. Gentlemen interesting themselves in this project say coolies will years; a free passage will be provided to Queensland, an advance of wages will be given, and the poll tax will be paid. It is not said that they must be returned at the expiration of their indentures, nor that their passage will be paid if they desire to roturn. Is it meant to clace thousands of Chinamen in tropical Queensland. and at the end of their respective periods of service to leave them at large? Do planters propose to replace old hands by new ones who case is to become of the old immigrants? In the West Indies such immigrants have been located on a free settlement; is the experiment Fritz Nothdorf and Henry Schuliz were fined to be repeated in Australia? All the colonies in the arr ip will be interested in such a project, and whilst just now a densive judgment on the merits of the question may not be possible, there can be no hesitatic. in saying that whatever is done, must be done under competent in-

New York, November 11,-The Sun's London cable special of the 10th inst. says: All the speakers at the Lord Mayor's banquet spoke hopefully of the prospects of peace, but there is a universal feeling of uneasiness. Some political prophets expect a big war next spring and this feeling tends to lend interest to the rising in Servia and the visit of the German Crown Prince to Spain. Servia hates her present ruler and believes in radicalism as sure to lighten both civil and military taxes. There is a general suspicion that Russia is at the back of the business, wishing to replace King Milan with a Panslavist ruler. Austria will not permit this, and the Servian difficulty is thus regarded as possibly leading to the long-expected war between Russia and Austria. The German Crown Prince's visit to Madrid is supposed to point to the

Pittsburg, November 7.-The Commercial Gazette this evening telegraphed to General Butler for his views on the result in Massachusetts and asking for his programme for the future. The following reply was received:

Boston, November 7, 1883-9 P. M. To the Editors of the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette :- The answer to your question is easy as to the cause of the result in Massachusetts. Last year I had 134,000 votes. The largest_vote ever polled was in the Garfield election in 1880. Garfield received 165,000 and Hancock 112,000, a total of 277,000. This year the vote is 313,000, of which I have 152,000. This enormous increase has been caused by the free use of money and the fraud and corruption of my opponent. More votes have been cast than will be in the next Presidential year. The 8,000 or 9,000 pturality of my opponent was more than lost in the city of Boston, Massachusetts is, therefore, surely Democratic if I make another State canvass with a further gain. When a man has increased the Democratic vote from 112,000 to to 152,000 in three years, as I have, is there any need of an answer to your question what my programme will be? I am pleased with the result and would rather have my veto than be elected by 135,000 votes. In that case it would be said that Massachusetts is a Republican State. She has a large reserve vote, which in a Presidential election will come out. Now we have had them all out and measured them, and in the next Presidential election, with a judicious platform and a popular nomination, at least we should keep all Republican men and money at home to take care of Butler, instead of sending both into Ohio and Indiana to corrupt those Benjamin F. Butler. Mexico, November 12 .- The Mexican Government definitely refuses the demands of the English bondholders to issue $20,000,000, three-percent bonds in addition to the recognized debt of $80,000,000. The decision ends the negotiations and the Mexican representative in London has been recalled. The Mexican Government desires a settlement, but considers the bondholders' de-misiness has not been particularly brisk during the must week. A sale by Mesars, Lyons & Levey of imcerted furniture on Wednesday last, was well attended and good prices were obtained. On the same day a brisk competition took place between shareholders in the Kaniclassi Park Association for desirable building lots within the Park. Two beach lots fetched $300 each and one $230. Other loss to the eastward averaged $75 each. Yesterday Mr. E. P. Adams held a credit sale of new goods, by order of Messrs, G. W. Macfarlane & Co., to close consignments. when fair prices were realized, though the bidding was not by any means brisk. The retail dealers are not driving a first-class business, the usual full before the Christ mas holidays being very apparent. The foreign arrivals during the week comprise the W. G. Irwin, Caffeerien and steamship Alameda from San Francisco, the steamship City of New York from the Austratian Colonies, the Spartan from New York, and the Mazzilan from Bremen. #### LOCAL & CENERAL.

The friends of Colonel Muckle, a former resident of these Islands, will be pleased to learn of the honors that have been conferred upon him by the Emperer of Germany for his valuable services. From the Philadelphia Public Ledger we learn that Before the Franco-German war the Imperial Unversity and National Library of Strasburg, in Alsace, was the possessor of over 300,000 printed volumes besides a large number of valuable manuscripts. These were totally destroyed during the war. Since then more than an equivalent number of volumes have been restored, and at present the library contains aver 500,000 volumes. The Governor-General of Alsace at the the close of the war sened an appeal to the various nationalities for contributions in books to restore the library, and among others commissioned Colonel M. Richards Muckle to collect books in the United States and in the Canadian Dominion. In compliance with the purpose of his commission, he has collected and shipped thirty odd cases of books free of expense to the library at Strasburg. In recognition of the services of Mr. Muckle, the Emperor of Germany conferred upon him in 1874 the decoration of the "Order of the Crown of Prussia," and since then and for additional service hasporwarded the decoration of the "Order of the Red Eagle," conferred September 12th of this year."

Of the eight German women who arrived on Sunday last from Kanai, five have succeeded in obtaining situations. The remaining three, having large families, are unable to accept of any outside employment. Miss Breeze has exerted herself in their behalf and collected various articles for the destitute women, in the way of supplies and clothing. Mrs. Kohm and Mrs. Hastie have also looked after their welfare, while other ladies, whose names have not been furnished, have acted and continue to act in a Christian-like spirit towards these destitute parties. Mrs. E. P. Adams has generously consented to take special charge of the sick child and her mother. The following list of subscriptions have been received by the Workingmen's Union, exclusive of what the ladies have collected, to be specially applied to the "German Women Relief Fund." Workingmen's Union, $50; Samuel Lederer $10; Miss Breeze, $8; Mrs. Kohm, $7; C. J. Fishel, $5; A. H. Spencer, $5; Mr. Houghtailing, $2; W. Wale $1; M. Voss, $1; a friend, $1. J. My the Alameda Mr. Frederick Bagot arrived in this city. This gentleman comes for the express purpose of compiling a business directory of the Hawaiian Islands, including a special city directory of Honolulu. He proposes to insert in the latter portion of the work, the name of every foreigner and native who reside in the city proper, also giving itheir residences and occupation. The work will be published in connection with the Pacific Coast Business Directory and also separately. As the last directory has now become almost obsolete the work about to be undertaken by Mr. Bagot will be appreciated by all houses of business. The publishers of the work ars Messrs. L. M. McKenney & Co. of Oakland and San Francisco. They hope to issue the complete volume about February

The S. S. Kinau displayed her electric lights last Monday evening in every part of the vessel. The Chief Engineer, Mr. Walley, manipulated the main light on the hurricane deck, and afforded the visitors an opportunity of viewing all the prominent buildings in the city. As witnessed from the upper deck of the Kinau, the various sights exhibited were very picturesque and in some cases rather unexpected. For instance, when casting the focus on the Likelike and also elsewhere, the objects were hardly anticipated receiving the full benefit of Edison's wonderful invention. In the saloon and cabins all the lights were exhibited, the larger one being of a power of 16 candles, the smaller of 10 candles. There was a large number of persons availed themselves of the opportunity of seeing the electric light for the first time. The Hon. S. G. Wilder and family were present, and amongst the many visitors were Governor Dominis and a party of friends.

The steamer Waimanalo, Captain Nelson, reports that whilst lying at anchor off Waimanalo, a heavy swell rolled in about 2 A.M. on Monday morning rising clear over the wharf. There was no wind at the time. The steamer was riding with two anchors down at the time, one of which was lost, but fortunately the other one held on. The stern moorings also carried away. Between 10 and 11 o'clock, His Majesty and party embarked on board the steamer under difficulties. They got under weigh about 11 A. M. and when crossing the Bar several heavy seas were shipped wetting everybody on the deck. The sea in the channel was very confused and not a breath of wind. The passage was the most uncomfortable one that the present captain has experienced on that route during the past two years. His Majesty, Mr. Hoffnung and Mr. Neumann are to be congratulated on their safe arrival yesterday afternoon.

Yesterday the German laborers who are at pres ent inmates of Oahu gaol, refused to go to work, and it resulted in their Consul being called upon to hold an investigation. Accordingly Mr. H. F. Glade, Coasul for Germany, accompanied by Mr. Paul Neumann, attorney-at-law, Marshal Parke, Mr. Danielwitz, President of the Workingmen's Union, and Mr. John Russell as counsel for the Union and Germans, proceeded to the gaol yesterday afternoon for the pupose of holding an investigation. Up to a late hour last evening the examination was not completed. All the gentlemen present cheerfully contributed the information they were possessed of, in order that a full and proper climination of the facts should be arrived at. A further examination will be continued to-day.

We learn from a reliable source that all the bridges in the Hilo district, which have been built during the supervisorship of Mr. C. N. Arnold, stood the recent severe pressure caused by the freshets without sustaining the slightest damage. In some cases they were put to a severe test, the Upon the same authority it is stated that the carrying away of the other bridges was due to faulty construct; in in the abutments. Mr. Stirling, the Superintendent of Public Works, fully endorses the work that has been done during the past eighteen months in that district.

His Majesty, accompanied by Mr. Hoffnung and a few other friends, went over to Waimanalo last | tor. Sunday morning in the steamer Waimanalo. They started at daylight and after a very pleasant trip, they reached their destination at nine o'clock. The weather was showery throughout the day, but the noble host, Mr. Cummins, provided all the possible comforts within doors. The party returned to Honolulu this morning.

Union were notified by the Governor that they would not be allowed to meet as usual in the Armory. A grand rally was announced by placard during the day. The Executive Committee soon afterwards procured the upstairs portion of the Great IXL, store which was kindly placed at their disposal by Mr. Cartenberg. At 1:30 P.M. upwards of 70 persons assembled, members of the union and others. Deputy Marshal Dayton had previously informed Mr. Gartenberg that he would be held responsible for allowing the meeting to take place. A committee was appointed to wait upon Mr. Dayton who invited him and his friend into the meeting room. Mr. Dayton accepted the invitation and stopped throughout the proceedings. Everything passed off quietly. Thirty dollars was collected for the relief of German women and children. Several new members joined the Society. Mr. Squires read a paper touching on the "Masters and Servants Act." The Executive Committee reported having provided the German women with board and lodging, and Dr. Fitch has been appointed to attend the sick children. The Employment Committee reported having procured a job for an engineer at $100 per month.

The Government received advices from the Julia expedition by the "City of New York" dated from Levuka, 30 ult. All the official dispatches relating to the first part of the voyage had been sent forward by the schooner "Kaluna." The "Julia" was to sail on 31st Oct. for New Hebrides and thence for Honolulu. Mr. Frank Cooke has also received letters from Captain Tripp and Mr. Clarke in which they report that all the returned laborers had been landed daily and in good health. As to their prospects they write that "though the reports from labor vessels from here (Levuka) are not encouraging, yet we think that with the extra inducements offered by the Hawaiian planters we Henry Irving, the great English actor, is the source of great attraction in New York. He opened in "The Bells," and a correspondent says that 'His death scene in the 'Bells' has a suggestion of strangulation on the gallows and was realistic to morbidity. The applause after this was so thunderous that the actor's three times repeated appearance before the curtain would not satisfy the audience, so he made a fittle speech and begged for as cordial a reception for Miss Terry when she should appear."

The bark Alden Besse put to sea yesterday, taking advantage of a light northeast wind that set in about noon. After the pilot left her she got becalmed, and was drifting in towards the reef. The Captain deemed it advisable to signal for a pilot again, and also to obtain the services of a tug boat. Both pilot and tugboat started to his assistance but before reaching the vessel, a favorable breeze carried the Alden Besse beyond their

It is certainly a convenience to the purchasers to see all goods marked in plain figures, and furthermore Mr. Lederer is always on hand up to 8 P. M. and 40 o'clock on Saturday evenings. The pink Camellia Japonica grown by Mr. F. W.

Macfarlane, a specimen of which was on exhibition for last two days, shows the possibility of rearing this highly prized flower in this climate. The flower on view was simply perfection, and dispels the idea that Camellias with a little care, cannot be grown as readily as an ordinary rose. The whaling barks Helen Mar, Sea Breeze,

About twenty-five or thirty shares were purchased the previous day at $50 each entitling the purchasers to invest in the lots. Two beach lots fetched $300 each, and one $230. Twenty-five or thirty lots on the mauka side of the race track, averaged $75 each. The total amount realized exceeded $3,000. A class of instruction in the Hawaiian language. under the preceptorship of Chief Justice Judd, was

The class will meet again on next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The causae celebre of furious riding, resulted in a fine of $10 to the debit of each offender. Before

FOREIGN NEWS.

France and China

New York, November 10 .- The Times' London cablegram says: The Marquis Tseng has announced that he has no information of any offer of mediation, nor is it true that he has any information that Ferry gives the Peking Government a months' delay in order to decide whether to sustain or abandon the garrison at Bacnimb. The Marquis Tseng believes the attack on Bacnimh would precipitate open war. Meanwhile the new Chinese war ships and torpedo boats, which have been built at Stettin, where several others were built a few years ago, are about to leave Europe, manned by English and Chinese crews, with English engineers Bismarck defiantly refused to give crews of German sailors.

A cable to the Tribune from London says: The Franco-Chinese situation continues one of the utmost gravity and not less so because the Ferry Ministry persist in ignoring the probability of a serious conflict. The hopes arising from Challemel-Lacour's withdrawal from the Foreign Office and the belief that Ferry would be more reasonable, have been dashed by the Premier's declaration expressing contempt for the military power of China, and utter disbelief that China will resent the French demands. In the meantime Chinese telegrams convict Tricon of falsehood in telegraphing Li Hung Chang's disavowal of the Marquis Tseng, whom the Chinese Government fully sustain. Li Hung Charg also denies his alleged disapproval of the course of the Marquis Tseng. The European press is filled with amazement at Ferry's duplicity, which remains without any attempt at apology, though the French Ministerial papers call upon patriotic Frenchmen to believe their own Government in preference to foreigners. Groundless rumors of French successes have been set affoat in Paris during the week, but are not believed, save in Paris, where credulity is boundless. The credit of 9,000,000 francs, demanded by the Ministers, is regarded here as only one more effort to belittle the seriousness of the enterprise to which France stands committed. "It is not enough," say the English papers, "to pay for coal for transports." Hongkong, November 13.-Three thousand French re-enforcements have arrived in Anam and will be sent to Hai-Noi immediately. It is expected an advance will be made on Sontay in a

Patrick O'Donnell is an American citizen, he will receive from the Executive Department of this Government all the protection to which he is entitled, in harmony with the resolutions you enclose.
